The Chinese have concrete proof that Great Britain, the United States, etc., have the same hatred and fear of the workers' and peasants' government of the Soviet Union that they have for the Chinese revolution. The imperialist powers by their recent actions have cemented the alliance between the Russian and Chinese masses so strongly that it will never be broken.

Knowing this, the imperialist press has the last few days begun an orgy of lying without parallel except during the most feverish days of the world war.

The false charges of murder and raping upon which the powers have based their notes to the Hankow government have been featured on the first pages of the imperialist press from the moment they realized that the Nanking massacre was a monumental blunder and could be excused only by a falsification of the facts.

But the continual acts of provocation and aggression against Chinese indulged in systematically by imperialist troops have not been mentioned until Chinese demands for their cessation and reparation for the insults have been made.

We find on an inside page of the New York Times for April 12 that:

(1) British soldiers have raided a Chinese school outside of the foreign settlement—the Great China University. Equipment was destroyed, money stolen and students were beaten with gun butts.

(2) Chinese military telephone circuits have been cut by British soldiers.

(3) British airplanes have been flying over Chiang Kai Shek's headquarters and the national arsenal.

(4 The Nationalist flag was taken down and torn up by British troops.

(5) British military positions have been extended outside of the foreign settlement.

The notes sent by the powers will get just those concessions from the People's government that troops and battleships can force, and nothing else. From the political standpoint the imperialists have suffered a defeat in China since the Nanking massacre because their objective was to drive a wedge between the Soviet Union and China. The raids on the Soviet consulates, the hue and cry about "red" plots, the efforts to exaggerate the political differences in the Kuomintang into an open split, the attempt to place the responsibility for the Nanking massacre upon the Communists and the left wing, the reference in the recent note to "foreign influences," all point in one direction, i. e., a drive against the Chinese masses who are making the Kuomintang the expression of the labor movement and the peasantry and a desperate effort to split off the right wing by promises of less harsh treatment if the Soviet Union and all "radical" influences are repudiated.

This conspiracy appears to have failed. Both Eugene Chen and Chiang Kai Shek have sent messages to Moscow denouncing the raids on the Soviet Union consulates. The Hankow government also demands the appointment of an international commission to investigate the Nanking affair.

This demand should be supported by the labor movements of the imperialist countries. It is a demand that is in conformity with international law and usage but one that will embarrass the British and American governments exceedingly. Their crimes in Nanking can be exposed too easily.

The Chinese masses must have the help of the working class in the imperialist nations. In Great Britain the same ruling class which is making war on China, made war on the British workers during the general strike and miners' strike. In the United States the same ruling class which forces 2,000,000 miners to strike to defend their right to live as human beings, is sending troops and warships to China.

Hands Off China is an international demand. It is made upon the international enemy of the working class—world imperialism—and it unites in an international front in behalf of the Chinese masses all the oppressed of the earth.

Involuntary Servitude.

The majority decision of the United States Supreme Court restraining the Journeymen Stonecutters' Association from refusing to handle scab produced raw material was stigmatized by Justice Louis D. Brandeis as "opposing restraints on labor which remind of involuntary servitude." But Brandeis, as usual, dissents against such opinions. He was placed in that body of corporation flunkeys by the astute Wilson, who, more than any President of modern times, knew how to cloak the most reactionary acts with a show of liberalism and who placed liberals in positions where they could do no harm. Unquestionably to force union men to handle scab work is a form of slavery, or involuntary servitude, and is a blow against one of the oldest practices of trade unionism. Every union, even the most reactionary, uses this weapon.

It is particularly ironic that this decision is based upon the Clayton Act which was hailed by the late Gompers and the officialdom of the A. F. of L. as a great victory for labor as it was supposed to protect labor from prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust law. The Clayton Act was backed by those labor lieutenants of capitalism who continually betray the workers in elections by their odious slogan, "reward your friends and punish your enemies," and its adoption was held to be a rebuke to those "carping critics" on the left who strive to create a labor party independent of the two old parties.

This decision is only the latest of a series which interpreted the Clayton Act, called by Gompers "Labor's Magna Charta," so that it is used against labor, but it will not induce the successors of Gompers, the Greens and Wolls to change their policies. It ought, however, to cause those honest labor elements who can think at all to join the forces striving to kick these agents of the bosses out of their places of leadership in the unions.

As for this particular decision of the Supreme Court it is to be hoped the Stonecutters have the courage to ignore it and that they continue to refuse to handle the products of the scab concerns.

What's What in Washington

Courts Place Labor In Class of Trusts Under Sherman Law

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Organized labor sustained a bitter body blow by the decision of the Supreme Court, reversing the Circuit Court of Appeals, and giving the injunction of employers to enjoin the Stone Cutters Union for acts alleged to violate the Sherman Anti-Trust Law. Justices Louis D. Brandeis and O. W. Holmes dissented from the majority view and upheld the union.

The case is one in a series of supreme court decisions which have interpreted the meaning of the Clayton Act of 1914 adversely to what organized labor desired. The Clayton Act, acclaimed as organized labor's "Magna Charta" when passed by congress, supposed to exempt unions from the operations of the anti-trust laws and to prevent issuance of injunctions in labor disputes, has been so interpreted by the Supreme Court as to be a liability rather than a help.

Aids Powerful Corporations.

The present case, known as the Bedford Cut Stone Co. vs. Journeymen Stone Cutters' Association of North America, further aids the wings of the Clayton Act by permitting injunction on a new series of practices resorted to by organized labor as economic weapons.

The Stone Cutters Union has a membership of 5000 with 150 locals and about 20 to 35 members in each. The 21 corporations involved in on the employers' side control about 70 percent of all the cut stone in the country and represent a combined investment of $6,000,000.

Following the strike in the Bedford Cut Stone Company's plant, the corporation, after pursuing a lock-out policy toward union workers, decided to solve its labor difficulties by the "company union" method. Evidently the Bedford corporation was a member of the United States Chamber of Commerce extension course on how to hornswoggle labor.

The stone-cutters' union thereupon urged its members working on building in other states to refuse to work on stone put out by the scab labor of the Bedford company. The corporation went into the courts for an injunction for relief against this protective act by the laboring men.

The Supreme Court in its sweeping of the lower court's refusal to grant an injunction now upholds the use of the injunction in labor disputes. It takes the ground that labor battles are not of inter-state character and that therefore injunctions are in order. Associate Justice Sutherland, who wrote the majority opinion, held that the union's conduct threatened to destroy or narrow the interstate trade of the Bedford Company.

Knifes Labor.

What the Bedford Company's conduct toward the laborers threatened to do to them apparently meant nothing to the august tribunal.

In effect the court's order directs the union, as a corporate body and as composed of individuals, to do a certain type of work. How and whether it will be carried out remains to be seen.

Commenting on this important angle of the situation, Associate Justice Brandeis in his very sharp dissenting opinion said:

"If on the undisputed facts of this case refusal to work can be enjoined, Congress created by the Sherman law and the Clayton Act an instrument for opposing restraints on labor which remind us of involuntary servitude."

Class Decision.

Mr. Brandeis then went on to show how the Supreme Court had interpreted the Sherman law to permit the United States Steel Company and the United States Shoe Machinery Company to dominate their respective fields, adding that it "would be strange if Congress, actuated by these acts willed to deny the members of a small craft of workingmen the right to co-operate in simply refraining from work when that course was the only means of self-protection against a combination of militant and powerful employers."

The failure of the Clayton Act to do what the officialdom of organized labor claimed it would do is a vivid illustration of the sham of such legislation and a demonstration of the stupendous power of the Supreme Court. The net said, in substance, that an injunction should not be issued in a labor dispute except to prevent irreparable injury to property for which there is no adequate remedy at law, and also that there

Chinese Names as The Legation Says They Should Sound

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Some idea on how to pronounce the names of many of the Chinese leaders now playing a leading role in the civil war in China was obtained here from a member of the Chinese embassy. The official explained that the pronunciation of Chinese names varied greatly throughout China, so much so that what was understood in one part was frequently unrecognizable in another. The pronounciation he gave is that used in Shanghai and usually meets most needs.

Family Name First.

In China, the instructor declared, the family name comes first. In writing names, the first and second almost invariably take cognitals with a hyphen between the second and third, which takes a small letter, for example, Sun Yat-sen.

Dr. Sun Yat-sen, is pronounced Sun Yat-san. He is the George Washington, or the Mazzini of China. He started the revolution of 1911 which overthrew the medieval Manchu dynasty. The Cantonese are carrying out his program for an independent China.

General Chiang Kai-shek—Cheeong Ki-shek, Cantonese generalissimo. He is well educated and one of the ablest military leaders in the country.

Japan's Protege.

Marshal Chang Tso-lin—Chong, or to approximate its Pekingese accent, Jong. So-leen, dictator of Manchuria, war lord of the Northern armies which are fighting the Nationalists. He is a former bandit, uneducated and lives in barbaric splendor and magnificence. He is ruthlessly cruel. He is a protege of Japan and a tyrant.

General Chang Hsueh-liang—Chong, or Jong, Sooey-leeong, son of the Manchurian war-lord and one of his chief generals.

Killer, Not Strategist.

General Chang Tsung-chang—Chong Soong-chong, not to be confused with the above Changs. He, like them, is a northern commander and is dictator of Shantung. He is also a protege of Japan and a former bandit-chieftain. He is a huge man for a Chinese, being 6 feet 2 inches tall. He is cruel and fierce, but is rated as an efficient military leader. He was defeated by the Nationalists and has disappeared from the scene for the time being.

General Sun Chuan-fang, Sun Chwa-fong, commanded the North ern force at Shanghai which were defeated by the Nationalists.

Wu Pei-fu, Woo Pay-foo, one of the ablest strategists of China, but prone to procrastination. He often follows up his victories in the field. He is a six-footer. He started the war in sympathy with northerners but his troops deserted him for the Cantonese.

Feng—in the West.

Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang—Fung Yoo-seeong, the so-called "Christian General." He is an able general. His army is at present on the edge of the Mongolian desert, west of Peking, threatening the northern flank and rear.

Eugene Chen—Shen, Minister of Foreign Affairs for the Nationalists. Alfred Sze—Sze, Chinese minister to the United States. He has expressed Nationalist sympathies.

Wife Bosses Koo.

Dr. Wellington Koo—Ku, former minister to Washington and until a few days ago foreign minister at Peking. He is a reactionary, married to a very ambitious and enormously wealthy woman.

Kuomintang—Koon-min-tong, name for the Nationalists, literally meaning "The People's Party." It was founded by Dr. Sun and is behind the Cantonese revolution. Its main plank as expressed by its members, is:

"To establish a government in China, of the people, by the people and for the people."

should be no injunction against the strike, picketing or the boycott. Organized labor acclaimed the law. It was accompanied by passage of an anti-injunction law in Massachusetts in the same year and a similar law in Arizona.

In 1921 the Supreme Court started its series of decisions "interpreting" the Clayton Act. That year the Massachusetts Supreme Court held the anti-injunction law unconstitutional while the United States Supreme Court did the same for the Arizona act.

Will your vote be counted in the election? Are you sure? Read the article on page 3 telling how to make sure.

Lettish Proletarian Artists Mourn Loss Of C. E. Ruthenberg

LENINGRAD, March 28.—The following resolution has been adopted by the Leningrad Association of Proletarian Writers, Lettish section at its regular meeting at the "Dom Pechat:"

Whereas we, The Association of Lettish Writers, Lettish section of Leningrad in memorial assembled to share your grievous loss in the death of Comrade Ruthenberg. Your loss—our loss—is keenly felt by the revolutionary proletariat of the world. Close up the ranks and carry forward the banner of our fallen comrade.

Ruthenberg Meeting In Oakland Raises Money For The Daily Worker

OAKLAND, Calif., April 13.—Last night we held a meeting in memorial to Comrade Ruthenberg at Fraternity Hall.

There were speakers representing the Kuomintang, Young Pioneers and the Workers Party.

Owens gave us a most interesting review of the history of Comrade Ruthenberg and his activities in the left wing and in the Workers Party.

As a memorial to our departed comrade and the Memorial Ruthenberg DAILY WORKER Fund, we made a drive for a goodly collection. Robert Leidig of Carmel started the ball rolling in the following manner:

"Carmel, April 1st, 1927.

"Comrades:

"Enclosed find check for $25.00 for Ruthenberg Fund."

Charlotte Anita Whitney said she would double up any amount the comrades might raise up to $50.00, so we finally unanimously pledged $50.00. Comrade Haun of Berkeley, pledged $5.00—Comrades Friedman, Jackson, Maul, Schlaff and Taylor followed with pledges of $5.00 each and then a general collection was taken—30% of which will go to The DAILY WORKER thru the National Office.

This amounted to $6.00. Thus a collection of $131.00 was raised for the cause.

Let's Fight On! Join The Workers Party!

In the loss of Comrade Ruthenberg the Workers (Communist) Party has lost its foremost leader and the American working class its staunchest fighter. This loss can only be overcome by many militant workers joining the Party that he built.

Fill out the application below and mail it. Become a member of the Workers (Communist) Party and carry forward the work of Comrade Ruthenberg.

I want to become a member of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Name .....

Address .....

Occupation .....

Union Affiliation .....

Mail this application to the Workers Party, 108 East 14th Street, New York City, or if in other city to Workers Party, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Distribute the Ruthenberg pamphlet, "The Workers (Communist) Party, What it Stands For and Why Workers Should Join." This Ruthenberg pamphlet will be the basic pamphlet thruout the Ruthenberg Drive.

Every Party Nucleus must collect 50 cents for every member and will receive 20 pamphlets for every member to sell or distribute.

Nuclei in the New York District will get their pamphlets from the District Office—108 East 14th St.

Nuclei outside of the New York District write to Daily Worker Publishing Co., 33 First Street, New York City, or to the National Office, Workers Party, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Read The Daily Worker Every Day.

Gorky and Shekhov in Chicago.

The International Workers Aid, Local Chicago, has secured the services of the Chicago Art Theatre cast for a series of nine performances which will be given under the direct supervision of Ivan Lazareff, formerly of the Moscow Art Theatre. These performances will be staged at the Chicago Art Theatre, Fine Arts Building, 410 S. Michigan Avenue.

April 9-6-7-26: Chekhsh, Anvin Gorky; Riders to the Sea, J. M. Synge; The Flattering World, Geo. Kelly.

April 21-22-24: The Witch, Anton Shekhov; The Will o' the Wisp, Doris Halman; The Boar Deported, Stanley Houghton.

Added attraction on April 16, and 21: LOLA MARIE SANTRO presenting "The Dance of the Hammer and Sickle."

Tickets in advance, $1.00; at the box office, $1.25. Tickets are now on sale at International Workers Aid, 1553 W. Madison Street, 2nd fl. Racine Street (Book Store), Freiheit, 2209 Roosevelt Road, Vilnis, 2118 S. Halsted Street, 19 S. Lincoln Street, Russian School, 1902 W. Division Street, Rovnost Ludu, 1510 W. 18th Street, Geskenky's Bookstore, 2720 W. Division Street.

DRAMA

BELL JAR REVOLT

"Rapid Transit" Has the Right Idea, But the Wrong Approach.

Reviewed By HARBOR ALLEN

A social revolution occurs in "Rapid Transit," but it is like a revolution under a bell jar. It doesn't move you. Nothing in this play translated from the Hungarian of Lajos N. Negri and produced by the Provincetown Playhouse moves you. It is an intellectual exercise, a toying with ideas, phantom revolt. Not a single figure comes to life. All remain gray shadows racing in crazy patterns across the stage. Sometimes you laugh a little, sometimes you are stung by an idea or two, sharp slash of satire. But you never get the warm, irresistible emotional pull which I insist a good play must exert on you.

Imre Szabo is blown from his cell to the border of Hakuba and Nekuba. It is a world in which men live only twenty-four hours. Children are born every fifteen minutes; love, marriage, divorce are a matter of seconds. Imre is appalled. Only twenty-four hours to live; yet the whole world spends these precious minutes in gossip, theft, wars, federal investigations, quarreling, fake religion, business, business, business. Eicri leaves nothing out. Every hateful thing, every vice, every exploitation, every social crime he crowds into his six scenes. Too much, too much. He feeds you too fast. You can't stomach it all. And too, he wants to feed you on scientific pills. They lack the taste of bread and meat.

Love Isn't All.

The author's trouble, it seems to me, is that he denies the life around him. He holds his emotions in: they are too sacred to loosen on so mad, so vicious a world. Time and again his hero pleads to be alone with the woman he loves. He won't eat. He won't fight. He won't even hate lustily. He wants love. I'm willing to put love on a higher plane than business and gossip and certain kinds of war. But it's a pretty thin thing to fill twenty-four hours with, if twenty-four hours is all you have to live. That's why his off-stage social revolution is unconvincing. A man who for twenty hours has been begging only to be left alone with the woman he loves isn't likely to lead a social revolution an hour later.

"Rapid Transit," I am told, made a lively manuscript. Much of the play must have been ruined by some of the worst casting I've ever seen, terrific crowding on the tiny Provincetown stage, and unimaginative cardboard scenery by Cleon Throckmorton. They play, incidentally, offered a wonderful opportunity for some real scenic designing. Throckmorton's sets looked like daubed toy palaces.

AMUSEMENTS

Theatre Guild Acting Company in
THE SECOND MAN
Week Apr. 18—Premieres
GUILD THEA. W. 52 St. Eves. $1.5
Mats. Thurs. and Sat. $1.5

RIGHT YOU ARE
IF YOU THINK YOU ARE
Week Apr. 25—Mr. Pirandello's
GARRICK 65 W. 35 St. Eves. 8:20
Mats. Thurs. and Sat. 2:20

THE SILVER CORD
Week Apr. 18—Neil MacKee's Daughter
John Golden 58 St. E. of B'way's
Thurs. & Sat. 2:30

TIMES SQ. CRIME
Thurs. at 2:30
Eves. 8:30. Mats.
Wed. & Sat. 2:30
with James Rennie & Chester Morris

The LADDER
Eves. at 8:40 MONTH
Mats. Wed. and Sat. 2:40
by Oliver Morosco & Elmer Harris

'SPREAD EAGLE'
EARL CARROLL Vanities
Earl Carroll Thea. 7th Ave. & 50th St.
Mats. Thurs. & Sat. 2:30

Read The Daily Worker Every Day.

All Sections Meet
Beginning April 18

Section Membership Meetings will be held on all Sections throut the city during the week of April 18th as part of the general campaign, of the Ruthenberg Party.

These meetings are the first step in the general campaign to raise the ideological level of the Party membership and also to promote the BUILD THE PARTY, RUTHENBERG DRIVE.

The Section Membership Meetings have been arranged as follows:

Section 1.—Monday, April 18th at 6:30 p. m. at 64 East 4th St.

Section 2.—Monday, April 18th at 6:30 p. m. at 100 West 28th St.

Section 3.—Thursday, April 21st, at 6:30 p. m. at 100 West 28th St.

Section 4.—Friday, April 22nd, at 8 p. m., at 61 East 110th St.

Section 5.—Tuesday, April 19th, at 8 p. m., at 1347 Boston Rd.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN
TWICE DAILY, 2 P.M. & 8 P.M.
RINGLING BROS. and BARNUM & BAILEY CIRCUS
SACRED WHITE ELEPHANT
TICKETS — GARDEN BOX OFFICE and Agts. 8th St. & Grand Blvd.

Neighborhood Playhouse
Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2:30
Commedia dell'Arte
Civic Repertory Cor. 6th Ave. & 14th St.
Tel. Watkins 9260
EVA LE GALLIENNE
Tonight: Thurs. Mat.: Tomorrow Evening:

WALLACK'S B'way & 52nd St.
Mats. Thurs. Wed. & Sat. 2:30
What Anne Brought Home
A New Comedy Drama

HAMPDEN'S THEATRE
Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2:30
HAMPDEN
in CAPONSACCHI

BROADWAY
Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2:30

PAT VALDO

Chief funmaker of the Ringling-Barnum and Bailey circus which is playing a four weeks engagement at Madison Square Garden.

Broadway Briefs

G. V. Calthrop, technical director of the Civic Repertory Theatre, sails for Europe this week. While abroad Mrs. Calthrop will design sets and costumes for the new plays to be presented next season.

Karl Huebl is a late addition to the cast of "One Glorious Hour" the comedy which Murray Phillips will present at the Selwyn Theatre tonight. The play is from the German of Gerhard Falkenberg, and was adapted by Ella Barnett.

Jane Thurston will make her stage debut in the company of her father who comes to the Central Theatre for an indefinite engagement commencing Monday evening.

Basil Sydney, now appearing in "The Crown Prince," announces that he will present a series of special matinee performances of "Richard III" starting with the first week in May.

The producers of "The Fanatic" at the Waldorf Theatre awarded a prize of $500 for the first week's contest to Miss Billie Shine, for the best essay on the play. The contest for the current week loses 10 A. M. April 18. Another $500 will be awarded for articles not exceeding 200 words.

Felix Gandera, author of "Hearts Are Trumps," the new French comedy at the Morosco Theatre has written a comedy called "Nuns and Her Virtue" which is to be produced in Paris next month.

Section 6.—Wednesday, April 20th, at 8 p. m., at 64 East 4th St.

Section 7.—Wednesday, April 20th, at 8 p. m., at 1240 Benson Ave.

Markoff Speaks On China.

Abraham Markoff will lecture on the latest developments in the Chinese situation next Friday evening at 542 East 138th St. Admission free.

Strike In New Orleans Hotel

NEW ORLEANS, (FP).—Union men have withdrawn from work on the Monteleone Hotel annex having been unable to reach an agreement with the contractors in regard to wages and hours. A full force of non-unionists mostly from outside the city have been put to work and operations are progressing slowly.

Weisbord Addresses Labor Mass Meeting In Passaic Tonight

PASSAIC, N. J., April 13.—The workers of this city are eagerly waiting for tomorrow's meeting where Albert Weisbord will return for the first time since the end of the Passaic strike.

This time Weisbord will not be speaking at a strike meeting but will make the principal address at a large political rally to be held at Ukrainian Hall, President St., as part of the local political campaign for the election of five city commissioners on May 10.

Weisbord will speak in favor of the labor candidates, Simon Bambach and Simon Smelkinson, who are endorsed by the Passaic branch of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Weisbord left Passaic several months before the end of the strike, the American Federation of Labor refusing to admit the strikers into the United Textile Workers, until he withdrew. At his farewell meeting, one of the largest of the strike, many workers cried at the loss of their leader. Tomorrow these workers will be out in full force to greet him.

Arrangements for overflow meetings are being made.

Los Angeles Appeals To Chicago Laborites

CHICAGO, April 13.—Chicago labor is appealed to by the Los Angeles Central Labor Council for help against the nonunion policies of Sears, Roebuck & Co., John Rosenwald's mail order and direct sales organization. The corporation has let the contract for its Los Angeles distributing center to one of the busiest anti-union contractors in the city and refuses to discuss the matter with the unions. The Chicago Federation of Labor has referred the appeal to the building trades council.

Rosenwald is the old type of American exploiter-philanthropist who parade and underpays his thousands of employes and then with great pomp gives an part of the profits as donations to the Y. M. C. A. and to other charity and quasi-charity enterprises.

Celebrate

MAY DAY

With a bundle of the

SPECIAL

of the

DAILY WORKER

On May Day a Special Issue of The DAILY WORKER will be issued.

ORDER A BUNDLE

There will be special articles on the world labor, special cartoons and photographs.

ORDER A BUNDLE

A whole section will be devoted to greetings to the world of labor from individual workers and from working class organizations.

ORDER A BUNDLE

This issue should be brought into the hands of thousands of workers. Order a bundle for yourself to give away and be sure to order a bundle.

FOR YOUR MAY DAY MEETING

Special Bundle Rates

$2.50 A HUNDRED

RUSH—

THE DAILY WORKER
33 First St., New York

I enclose $..... for ..... copies of the MAY DAY SPECIAL.

Name .....

Street .....

City .....

State .....

Organized Labor—Trade Union Activities

News and Comment
Labor Education
Labor and Government
Trade Union Politics

Policies and Programs
The Trade Union Press
Strikes—Injunctions
Labor and Imperialism

Union Square Mass Protest to Speak For City's Workers

Four platforms, over a dozen speakers—in English, Jewish, Hungarian, Italian and Spanish—these are the preliminary preparations already made for the monster protest demonstration for Sacco and Vanzetti this Saturday at 1 o'clock in Union Square.

Arranged by the Sacco-Vanzetti Emergency Committee, representing more than a half million organized workers in this city, the speakers will denounce the death sentence of the two framed-up men, and call for a new trial.

Varied Representation.

Speakers already announced include Bishop Paul Jones, James P. Cannon, national secretary of the International Labor Defense; Forrest Bailey, of the American Civil Liberties Union; Molasoye J. Olgin, Carlo Tresca, Charles Kline, William W. Weinstone, New York secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party; Robert W. Dunn, Louis Budenz, editor of "Labor Age"; A. Baccaglia, Louis Hyman, general manager of the Joint Board of the Cloak and Dressmakers' Union; Charles Kiss, editor of Elore, Communist Daily; Leonard Abbott.

1,500 Denounce Verdict.

A resolution denouncing the criminace of death upon Sacco and Vanzetti, and demanding a trial before a fair and impartial judge, was adopted unanimously last night at a meeting of 1,500 shop chairmen of the cloak and dressmakers' Joint Board of New York, 23 Manhattan Lyceum, 66 E. 4th St.

Urged To Attend Protest.

The thousands of workers in the cloak industry were also called upon to attend the Sacco-Vanzetti mass protest demonstration to be held in Union Square, Saturday, at one o'clock.

The resolution follows:

WHEREAS, Nicholas Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, two champions of labor, have been sentenced to die in the electric chair for a crime of which they are wholly innocent;

AND WHEREAS, the overwhelming evidence in the case has convinced labor bodies and disinterested people through the world that Sacco and Vanzetti were convicted not for the crime charged against them but because of their views and their activities in behalf of the worker;

AND WHEREAS, the American Federation of Labor and other labor bodies and organizations have based this conviction on a "gigantic miscarriage of justice"

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that we the shop chairmen of the cloak and dressmakers' Joint Board of New York City, assembled in Manhattan Lyceum at the call of our shop chairmen's council, not only demand that our fellow-workers Sacco and Vanzetti shall not die, but demand also that they be given a new trial before a fair and impartial judge and jury—so that they may be freed after their seven years of persecution.

AND WE ALSO RESOLVE, that we call upon all cloak and dressmakers in this city, and all other workers of every trade, to attend the mass meeting to be held in Union Square on Saturday, April 16th, at 1 p. m. under the auspices of the Sacco-Vanzetti Emergency Committee, to protest against the sentencing of these workers and to demand their release.

Sacco and Vanzetti must not die! They must be freed!

Passaic Protests.

PASSAIC, April 12.—The District Textile Council of Passaic and vicinity, United Textile Workers of America, sent the following telegram to Governor Fuller of Massachusetts today, protesting against the prejudicial murder of Sacco and Vanzetti:

"District Textile Council of Passaic and Vicinity, United Textile Workers of America, emphatically protest rejection of appeal for Sacco and Vanzetti. In the name of justice and ordinary common decency urge executive clemency for these two victims of brazen frame-up."

Violin and Viola Lessons
Given by expert teacher.
For reasonable rates, write to
JOHN WEINROTH
8136 LAMCHWOOD AVENUE.
Phone Tyrnile 7352. Philadelphia, Pa.

PHILLIP FIDLER
Manufacturer of
CAPS AND HATS
Union Made.
TWO STORES
843 Belmont Ave. 2045 Milwaukee
CHICAGO

NATIONAL PROSPERITY FAVORS BOND OWNERS; WAGE-EARNERS SHORT-CHANGED AS USUAL

By LELAND OLDS (Federated Press).

Are you getting your share of the unexampled prosperity which in 1926 boosted the national income to the record total of $89,682,000,000? Did you get as big a proportion in 1926 as in 1914?

Careful study of the national income report prepared by the national bureau of economic research will enable you to answer these questions. W. I. King, a leading authority on the subject, offers figures showing not only the yearly totals since 1909 but also the average. The average income per person gainfully employed has gone up 140 per cent; the average wage has gone up less than 120 per cent. The average wage-earner is not getting his share of the increased national income.

The $89,682,000,000 produced by the country in 1926 would mean $2010 per person if distributed equally among the 44,600,000 individuals gainfully employed in that year. In 1914 the national income, distributed on this basis would have yielded $836 and in 1909 $791.

Incomes Compared.

King gives the income per person gainfully employed, 1909 to 1926, also in 1913 dollars as shown in the following table. The column expressed in 1913 dollars shows the average purchasing power of the country for each year.

National Income per person	Current dollars	1913 dollars
1909	$791	$824
1910	809	836
1911	812	812
1912	841	850
1913	863	863
1914	836	828
1915	851	815
1916	1014	849
1917	1242	947
1918	1380	879
1919	1569	934
1920	1851	907
1921	1537	887
1922	1586	979
1923	1821	1113
1924	1840	1121
1925	1971	1165
1926	2010	1186

Prosperity To Bondholders.

This table means that the national income in 1926 was large enough to afford every wage earner in the country a 1926 wage 140 per cent larger than he received for the same class of work in 1914. His purchasing power should have expanded at least 43 per cent since the last pre-war year, if he maintained his relative position in the country's scale. Any wage earner with less than this gain is the victim of the unequal division of prosperity.

In dollars and cents how did the average factory worker make out in 1926 as compared with his share of the national income in 1914? According to the national (employer) industrial conference board the average factory wage in 1914 was $12.51 a week. If the average factory worker in 1926 had maintained the same standard relative to the national income per person gainfully employed as in 1914 his 1926 wage would have averaged $20.13 a week. The conference board shows that his wage averaged only $27.17. Factory workers thus averaged about $3 a day, or $156 for the year less than their 1914 proportion of the national income.

In spite of all talk about the increased purchasing power of wages the boss's share of prosperity has gone to the owners of stocks and bonds.

DEPT. OF LABOR REPORT SHOWS DECREASE IN WORKERS AND LESS WAGES IN 1926 THAN 1925

By LELAND OLDS, Federated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Factory employment in February, 1926, was 1.8 per cent less than in January and 2.9 per cent worse than in February, 1925, according to reports received by the department of labor. A glance at the individual industries reveals the precarious situation of the textile industry. Labor will watch anxiously for the statistics of the next couple of months to see whether the turn for the worse is materializing into extended unemployment and deflation of wages.

Employment in February, according to the department, was 1.8 per cent below the average of 1925. In the last 7 years employment in February and March has marked the high point of the year, with a slow decline toward the summer. In February 1926 the decline set in a month earlier than usual. The report shows 17 of all factories idle, the remainder operating an average 87.5 of a full normal force. Thus in February industry was operating at about 85% of capacity.

BUY THE DAILY WORKER AT THE NEWSSTANDS

Employment in the auto industry in February fell 11.2% below February, 1926, and the industry distributed 15.7% less in wages, sympathetically the auto tire industry shows a falling off of 8.2% in employment and 6.8% in wages compared with a year ago.

The industry supplying building materials are practically without exception operating at a reduced scale compared with 1926. Manufacturers of cast iron pipe are employing 7% fewer workers and paying 10.9% less in wages. Reductions in other industries in this group are hardware 9.1% in employment and 6.6% in payroll, heating apparatus 9.3% in employment and 6.6% in payroll, manilla 8.7% and 6.9%, millwork 12.3% and 13.2%, cement 6% and 4%, brick and tile 5.8% and 3% and glass 2.6% and 1%.

Farm Implements Less.

Plants making and repairing railroad rolling stock are employing 7.6% fewer workers and paying 7.8% less in wages. For agricultural implements the reductions are 10.2% and 9.4%, for electrical machinery and apparatus 4.1% and 4.2%. These industries also report losses in auto and building supply industries affect the market for steel. As a result the iron and steel industry is employing 5.5% fewer workers and paying 4.8% less in wages than in February, 1926.

Among the industries producing home furnishings and other consumer goods, we note reductions in auto and Furniture 4.8% in employment and 4.4% in wages, kitchenware 15.2% and 16%, pianos and organs 6.6% and 10.5%, stoves 8.2% and 4.8%, silk goods 2.3% and 2.6%, men's clothing 2.3% and 2%, shirts and collars 9.1% and 10.7%, millinery and lace goods 8.5% and 7.9%, while cigar and cigarette factories employ 7.2% fewer workers and pay 6.5% less in wages than a year ago.

All Industries Suffer.

All these figures cover industries in which both the number of employes and the payroll have been seriously reduced compared with February

1,500 CHAIRMEN PLAN CAMPAIGN TO BUILD UNION

A call for "systematic organization work" to restore union conditions to the shops, was issued by the 1,500 shop chairmen of the cloak and dress industry who met last night in Manhattan Lyceum to discuss the problems which have resulted from the civil war brought about by President Morris Sigman in the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

For Systematic Propaganda.

After talks by various shop chairmen, the meeting passed unanimously a resolution instructing "the Shop Chairmen's Council to begin a systematic propaganda campaign among the members in the markets and thru open forums"; that they call on all members of the union "to give their support to the Joint Defense Committee organized for the purpose of defending our imprisoned workers"; that "we support the movement for the defense among the wives and women workers"; and that we begin a systematic organization campaign for union conditions with the difficult problems of our industry for the coming season and call on the members to rally more strongly than ever around the Joint Board until the attempt of Sigman to break our union is completely frustrated."

Expose Hochman Fake.

Several speakers called attention to the fake campaign "for organizing the unorganized" which has been announced by Julius Hochmann, reactionary vice president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

"Here is Hochman babbling about an organization campaign," said Louis Hyman, manager of the Joint Board, "when in our union shops there work has been allowed to creep in, wages have been reduced, and other union standards have been shoddily lowered because of the right wing's disorganizing campaign. And the seeds they have made with the bosses in their efforts to drive the progressives out of the union."

Bazaar Coming.

In addition to Louis Hyman the speakers from the cloak and dress industry included I. Brahner, chairman of the Shop Chairmen's Council, who presided at the meeting; L. Kleinman, secretary of the council; M. Bisoff, chairman of the Lustig shop; Joseph Boruchowitz, manager of Local 2; M. Bleiman.

Henry Robbins, chairman of the Joint Defense Committee, spoke on the coming bazaar which is to be run by the committee at New Star Casino

Strike Meeting of Plumbers Helpers Votes to Continue

At a packed meeting of plumbers' helpers held last night at Ace Hall, 108 Clarement Ave., Brooklyn, a resolution was adopted to continue their strike even after the plumbers' union terminate their struggle, provided that by that time the helpers have not won their demands. The resolution also appeals to the plumbers not to work with scab helpers.

Helpers' Resolution.

The resolution reads as follows:

"Whereas almost all of the journeymen plumbers' helpers working in the jurisdiction of the U. A. Plumbers, Local 1, are organized in the American Association of Plumbers' Helpers, and

"Whereas, we have decided unanimously to strike in sympathy and support of the mentioned U. A. Plumbers, Local 1, and

"Whereas, we have succeeded in taking with every plumbers' helper with us, and

"Whereas, we have also decided to present our own demands to the Master Plumbers with a request that they meet a committee of our organization which they have not yet done, Remain On Strike.

"Therefore, be it resolved, that we remain on strike, fighting for our just demands and that we call upon the U. A. Plumbers, Local 1, not to permit their union shops in settled shops to work with scab helpers in accordance with the principles and tactics of the trade union movement."

Many Drawn As Ship Sinks

TOKYO, April 13.—Reports received today from Fusan stated that the number of dead in the sinking of the large passenger ferry Haibachi Chinkaimaru at its pier there was still unknown. To date 25 bodies have been recovered and divers are continuing their search for more.

Read The Daily Worker Every Day

Workers Supporting 30,000 Millionaires

America's toilers are supporting 30,000 millionaires. This is the story of the 1925 income tax returns, just published by the treasury department. This figure is obtained by classing together all those reporting income of $40,000 and over. That sum is the interest at 5 per cent on $1,000,000 and is the basis usually used in computing financial standing.

DID YOU KNOW?

That the Workers Monthly has been replaced by

The COMMUNIST

It surely is quite a change.

Handy Library Size.

Statistical Material.

Valuable for References.

The Communist Criterion.

Increased from 48 pages to

Sixty-four Pages.

Make all money orders, checks payable to The Communist.

All subscriptions, bundle orders, and all other matter to be addressed to

The COMMUNIST
1113 Washington Blvd.
CHICAGO, ILL.

On May Day, The DAILY WORKER will print May Day greetings of individuals, trade unions, fraternal organizations and sports clubs, in a

SPECIAL MAY DAY EDITION

Individual names will be printed at the rate of $1.00 per name. Organizations will be allowed the special rate of $1.00 per inch and $100.00 per page.

THE DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, NEW YORK.

Enclosed I ..... for the following names to be printed in the special MAY DAY EDITION.

.....

.....

.....

Attach advertising copy to this blank, if a page or fraction thereof is desired.

Another Batch of Comrades Challenged

Louri Johnson of Buffalo comes forward with $13.00 worth of subscriptions and $11.50 for the Hathenberg sustaining fund. He throws down the gauntlet to Jean Alpert ..... Boston, Mass.

F. Gilbert ..... Cleveland, O.
A. Pinsky ..... Warren, O.

Comrade Walter Berke of Detroit, Mich., sends in his sub and says: "In striking this mailing I wish to challenge the following comrades":

Sadie Sabatyn ..... Detroit, Mich.
Joseph Smith ..... Detroit, Mich.
William Pesch ..... Detroit, Mich.

Then comes Vale Lockshin of Youngstown, O., with two more subs and he adds, "Let these comrades prove that they can do more than I did." He challenges:

William Weinstein ..... Youngstown, O.
John Penner ..... Youngstown, O.
Morris Heen ..... Youngstown, O.

Comrade Max Pradin of Strathers, O., shoots us a check for $7.50 and calls upon the following to shoot their colors:

H. Shoresitz ..... Lorain, Ohio
I. Pitzki ..... South Amboy, N. J.

Slow we did not hear even a peep from Chicago, the Official Challenger himself is taking a shack at the following comrades:

Billy Peterson ..... Rhyne Hollows, O.
Karl Shier ..... S. C. Ross
William Matheson ..... Ross

And here are the comrades who have failed to answer our challenge. Are they alive or dead? We want to know.

Oscar Wilson	John Gustavo...
Klaus Kaske	A. Lenk
Adolf Lahl	A. Kaiser
Kalle Salo	A. Jaeger
Walter Wettmann	Kasper
Ilka Kinland	[illegible]
Axel Olson	[illegible]
Carl Hedberg	[illegible]
Dirk Hedberg	[illegible]
Bella Talan	[illegible]
Joe Troyer	[illegible]
Abie Wagner	[illegible]
Mary Kay	[illegible]
John Kedar	[illegible]
Eva Herlind	[illegible]
Chas. Metzger	New York City
Anton Lechowitch	Minsk, Ill.

Frank Zugmeister, Chapter	N. Y.
Johan Petersen, Jamestown, N. Y.
John O. Anderberg, Jamestown, N. Y.
Helge Bondeson	Superior, Wis.
Actie Jansson	Superior, Wis.
Ina Olson	Superior, Wis.
Gust Lahty	Superior, Wis.
Lloyd Rose	Superior, Wis.
Hilda Turki	Superior, Wis.
Oliver Lehti	Superior, Wis.
Sam Pokorsky	Duluth, Minn.
Hjalmar Salonen	Duluth, Minn.
Victor Ahrens	South Range, Wis.
Emil Stroz	Atlantic, Pa.
Jos. Lesko	Philadelphia, Pa.
Lena Lee	Philadelphia, Pa.
Norman Beard	Philadelphia, Pa.
S. Rest	Philadelphia, Pa.
L. Fidler	Philadelphia, Pa.
H. Jacobson	Philadelphia, Pa.
Sol. Hillman	Philadelphia, Pa.
H. Fansker	Philadelphia, Pa.
Wilho Bonsa	Detroit, Mich.
Sallie Bastine	Detroit, Mich.
Edwin Sherman	Jamestown, N. Y.
Leonhart Lindquist	Jamestown, N. Y.
Alfa Mahl	Superior, Wis.
Erick Kantola	Superior, Wis.
Ida Karra	Superior, Wis.
Leo Hinkka	Superior, Wis.
Arnold Rose	Superior, Wis.
Anna Nyrasela	Superior, Wis.
Blair Lesan	Superior, Wis.
Pauline Ristola	Nashwauk, Minn.
Helmi Lepisto	Nashwauk, Minn.
John Acton	Worcester, Mass.
Edithe Ake	Munising, Mich.
Hanna Laen	Detroit, Mich.
Lee Sahlman	Detroit, Mich.
Mary Reivisto	Detroit, Mich.

S. Sapiro	S. Bogen, Los A.
H. Chaiken	Los Angeles, Cal.
L. Gitelis	Los Angeles, Cal.
S. Seabell	Los Angeles, Cal.
Sam Seabell	Los Angeles, Cal.
B. Andreasen	Los Angeles, Cal.
H. Bartlett	Los Angeles, Cal.
L. Bellamah	Los Angeles, Cal.
H. Williams	Los Angeles, Cal.
F. Miller	Los Angeles, Cal.
Ben Gitelis	Los Angeles, Cal.
S. Bryar	Los Angeles, Cal.
Ben Gitelis	Los Angeles, Cal.
H. Kober	Los Angeles, Cal.
Sam Gitelis	Los Angeles, Cal.
Wm. Reynolds	Los Angeles, Cal.
Wm. Reynolds	Los Angeles, Cal.
Wm. Reynolds	Los Angeles, Cal.
Alex Smith	Los Angeles, Cal.
Alex Smith	Los Angeles, Cal.
Alex Smith	Los Angeles, Cal.
H. Hoffenger	Los Angeles, Cal.
H. Hoffenger	Los Angeles, Cal.
Alma Mich Hon	Los Angeles, Cal.
Lena Rosenberg	Los Angeles, Cal.
L. Peterson	Kansas City, Mo.
J. Wasson	Kansas City, Mo.
Walter Sowers	Sioux City, Ia.
Walter Sowers	Sioux City, Ia.
S. Hallbrook	Cleveland, Ohio
Edwin Sherman	Jamestown, N. Y.
Mrs. Sokkins	Jamestown, N. Y.
H. Hoffenger	Los Angeles, Cal.
Jack Gordon	Los Angeles, Cal.
J. J. Bogner	Los Angeles, Cal.
Sam Scharff	Los Angeles, Cal.
Leon Lantila	Erie, Pa.
Arnold Rose	Superior, Wis.
S. Birch	Binghamton, N. Y.
G. H. Bostic	Los Angeles, Cal.
A. Grosberg	Los Angeles, Cal.
Isadore Zuckerman	Los Angeles, Cal.
Felix Tkach	Los Angeles, Cal.
M. L. Reichman	Los Angeles, Cal.
E. Ashengau	Los Angeles, Cal.
Rose Kaplan	Los Angeles, Cal.
A. F. Rudel	Los Angeles, Cal.
Edith Berkman	Los Angeles, Cal.

Send your reply to

THE DAILY WORKER
33 FIRST STREET NEW YORK CITY

"Les Ginka"

(The Les Ginka is a native Georgian folk dance.)

By MARGARET GRAHAM.

THERE will be a hurricane." . . . It was our chauffeur who spoke—and the road was the famous Georgian road—the link between the Caucasus and Georgia—where revolution and counter-revolution had raged for ten terrible years—the prize had been land and oil. The sand swirled in front of the decrepit car, which stopped every mile or so for a drink, which the chauffeur's assistant fed to it from a watering can made out of a ona-time inner tube. We ran our hands over gritty faces, wiped inches of it from around our eyes and ducked into our coat collars, prepared to emerge at discreet intervals to view the awesome peaks we were mounting with their snow crowns glistening in the sun. Here and there on the road a straggling cart—a few peasants with cattle driving to pasture—deserted fortresses huttressed in the mountain side—and wind blown sands swirling up from the road.

The sky was cloudless, the sun shone, the wind died down and the mountains fell away from each side of the winding ribbon of a road in golden grandeur. Then soft rolling red brown hills, and herds of browning buffalo, and turreted towns, and church bells and a swiftly sinking sun.

The stars came out in a velvet sky. A soft mellow breeze, a crystal moon. Sounds of a guitar along the road, lights of a city across the river—Tiflis!

A queer city—half old, half new. Armenians and Georgians and Mussulmen. Native wares in intriguing balconied side streets, veiled women in many tiered filled skirts, the new power house, hospitals, dispensaries, the new bacteriological institute where serums were made to fight malaria and typhus—all since the revolution. Mud baths with vaulted tiled entrances, where 10,000 people come each summer to be cured of rheumatism (free of charge for workers and public servants). A visit to trade union headquarters representing 160,000 organized workers of Georgia, a gain of 140,000 trade unionists since the revolution. A visit to government headquarters, where the premier of Georgia, a former printer who had spent years of exile in Finland, greeted us in the former palace of the Czar. There were too many impressions and the air was too seductive.

After a few hours' rest we met our hosts in a little restaurant, where caviar and wine and native fish and fruits were spread on a snowy board. This was Georgian hospitality. In front of us four native musicians strummed their inlaid instruments. The commander, tall, lithe, in blue close belted uniform and shining leather boots, directed the program. He had been a prince, but now he was the Red Commander. The talk shifted from economics and health research, and malaria, to lighter things. After much urging and clapping of hands, the commandante swung to his feet and was caught in the rhythm of the Les Ginka. The swarthy musicians strummed their lazy instruments, eyes alert to his every movement beneath drooping lids. With a jerk of his shoulders as signal, the music stopped.

Armenian and Georgian and Mussulman—at peace and building socialism after ten years of revolution and counter-revolution—danced and all the prize, going at last to the revolution as victor—and the Red Commandante, erstwhile prince, dancing the Les Ginka, to the drawling guitars of swarthy musicians.

* * *

The next day was a round of visits. There had been an earthquake, so we had been unable to meet the head of the Public Health Administration. He was called to the earthquake area and had been away for three days and had just returned to make his report to the executive—a thousand apologies. We would meet him on the train to Baku.

We boarded the train and were invited to the private car, which served as sanitary headquarters and was switched off at stations where Dr. K. stopped to inspect the district, instruct the doctors and arrange for necessary reports and help. Three nights ago the train received a telegram at 4 a. m. In two hours seven emergency cars had been on their way to the earthquake zone. One car held the necessary fire fighting apparatus; the other cars were equipped with medical supplies, stretchers, medicines, bandages, and manned by doctors, sanitarians and nurses. There had been three sleepless nights for the director of public health and his staff. The dead had been buried, the sick had been put out, first aid had been organized and the district put in charge of a sanitary corps. He had returned, made his report and was now on his rounds of sanitary inspection. His car would be switched off two stations ahead—twelve o'clock—and he would get a few hours' sleep before going on duty in the morning.

* * *

He was a heavy set man about sixty; this sanitary director of Tiflis, who had worked his way through medical school in Moscow as a waiter. Imprisoned for his revolutionary activities he had been exiled to Siberia. Reminiscences brought back the picture of those far off days—and the Georgian in him, in spite of three sleepless nights, and deaths of earthquake victims and the round of inspection for the following day, thrilled to the old rhythms. His two assistants supplied the accompaniment for the old revolutionary songs—"The Prisoners' Song of Siberian dungeons—"Soldier; Unloose Those Chains, and I Will Show You What Liberty Means," "At Home a Wife and Children Wait For Me. Soldier, Unloose those Chains and I will Show You How To Love Liberty." The eyes, puffy with three days and nights of suffering and work, half closed in reminiscence. The deep full voice, rose and fell to the chant of the song—years of exile, imprisonment—and then the revolution and the Workers' Republic. "Enough of sadness," he said. "To our guests, the American comrades," "Bruderschaft!" Arms locked and glasses clicked in the toast.

The mood had changed. The Georgian had gotten the better of the doctor and the revolutionist. The cadences of the "Les Ginka" rose and fell to the clapping of many hands. "The Les Ginka," we urged. The old doctor arose. "For our American comrades," he said, and light as a ripple, his body in its dark blue peasant smock swirled and swayed to the voices of his comrades. The train came down. The engineer slipped into the car, whispered a hurried question, received his answer from one of the assistants. The train went on. The dance was finished. The last toast was drunk. From some one of the many brief cases piled in a corner of the car photographs were found. This was a sanitorium for railroad workers' children. This was a new hospital. Here was a new laboratory. Here some statistics to show how the death rate was dropping. It was two o'clock. "How about the station?" we asked. "Oh, we decided to go on with you," said the chief. "We will get off in another hour—only a few hours less sleep. We will make it up tomorrow."

From Tiflis to Moscow. Working his way through college as a waiter. Siberia. Exile for revolutionary activities. Then the revolution. Director of sanitation. Organizer of earthquake relief. Medical inspector. Yet, at sixty (and he shouldn't do it, the assistant whispered to me; he has heart disease) after three sleepless nights, he was going six hours out of his way and singing songs of revolutionary exile and dancing the Les Ginka, and drinking "Bruderschaft."—"To the American Comrades"—"To the World Revolution."

Constructivism in the Theatre

Freiheit Critic Tells What It Is, and Puts It In Its Place

By NATHANIEL BUCHWALD.

What is a constructivist setting? Why is it peculiarly adapted to mass plays, to the modern age? Why doesn't the tired capitalism of the bourgeois intellectual like it? Constructivism on the stage has appeared recently in America in such plays as "God Loves Us," "Earth," and "Loud Speaker." It shocked or delighted theatre-goers. Is it merely a new fad? Or has it a useful purpose, a scene in the theatre? These questions are answered in this article by Nathaniel Buchwald, dramatic critic for the Freiheit, most brilliant and profound of American Yiddish dailies. Mr. Buchwald's daily comments and reviews on the New York theatre are more penetrating, more scholarly than all the cackle printed in the voluminous dramatic sections of the capitalist press.

Reduced to brass tacks, constructivism, as applied to the theatre, means the substitution of solid, three-dimentional stage settings for the flat, painted canvass. The advantage of the constructed setting over the painted one is that it gives the actor one more dimension in which to move. Mere solidity is not the aim of the constructivist. He wants his settings to afford the actors several levels, with running stairs and other means of gradual transition from one level to another. He wants to "conquer space" and afford the director various possibilities of plastic motion on the part of the actors, of mass action and mass rhythm.

The conquest of space also affords the spectator a new sense of the theatre. Under the scheme of flat, painted settings, the contents of the stage, including the actors, are projected against the flat background and mingle with the painted backdrop to create from a distance the illusion of a painted picture, and even though the actors move about, the play as a whole remains essentially static and flat in the literal sense. The constructivist setting does away with the background (at least with the backdrop) and gives the spectator a view of the action as taking place in space and not upon a flat surface, thus making the proceedings on the stage more dynamic, more real even if not quite as "realistic," as in the "regular" theatre.

Useful, Not Ornamental.

Necessarily, constructivism does away with most of the old devices as well as with some of the new methods of stage setting, and if we examine the destructive and the negating aspect of constructivism we find that it aims to abolish: (1) The old naturalistic decor which undertakes to reproduce to fool the eye into believing that it does) a chunk of "real life"; (2) the interpretive decor, which seeks through various means, such as construction, painting, lightning effects, to produce the "atmosphere" or induce the "mood," or bring out the "soul" of the play; (3) the esthetic decor which is concerned primarily with the outward beauty of scenic effects, even if they are not organically related to the play. The constructivist, however, does not want to be "true to life," nor to create moods, nor to interpret, nor to mystify, nor to make pretty things for the sake of prettiness. What does he want?

As in co-operator in the collective art of the theatre he wants to be useful rather than ornamental. His chief aim is to help bring out all the plastic potentialities of the actor, hitherto unused and neglected. He wants to make settings upon which and within which the actors and the play as a whole could move about freely. He wants to "conquer space" both for the director, the actor and the spectator, and in his extreme expressions the constructivist wants to do away entirely with esthetic-ism in stage settings, to rid the stage decor of decorative elements which generally usurp the attention of the spectator to the neglect of the performance as a whole.

Close To Spirit of Age.

Within this meaning constructivism is a welcome innovation in the theatre and aside from other considerations it has the added merit of closer kinship with the spirit of our times than the naturalist or the esthete can claim for his method. IN an epoch of skyscrapers, Ford factories, I-beams, trusses, moving stairways, the constructed decor, dominating space and affording opportunity for dynamic effects is more in harmony with the spirit of the times and can better serve its needs than the painted canvass with the stock and all-purpetly frills upon and around it.

But when we observe the efforts of some constructivists and their followers to make a cult of this new scenic method, we are moved to protest. It is awkward to denounce a thing one likes, yet one cannot but denounce the hurrah-constructivism for its extravagant claims and for the way it distorts the entire art of the theatre in order to appear the main thing in it. When we see constructivism thus served up to us as a cure-it-all, as an absolute principle, sufficient unto itself and independent from all else, we are tempted to brand it a quack.

A Theatre of Masses.

As a cult constructivism has no basis of existence. If the artist has the urge to create in the spirit of modern life, to move with its dynamic sweeps, he must regard himself as part of the bigger thing to which he seeks to adjust his creative urge, and not as the "dictator of fashion."

The constructivist must remember, what he so often neglects to remember, that his method in stage craft must go hand in hand with, and be an expression of the theatre as a whole; that his constructed settings cannot all by themselves make the old theatre new and that together with the revolution in the craft or the art of making stage settings there must go the greater, the more inclusive revolution in the theatre as a whole, in its method as well as in its contents, in its artistic as well as its social orientation.

The new theatre is in need not only of new artists or artistic devices, but of new patrons as well. The tired business man goes ill with constructivism, and the bourgeois intellectual goes ill with dynamic mass action. The new theatre, to be really new, must be a theatre of the masses, and must harken to the rumblings and stirrings of masses, whence the modern "spirit of the times" derives its restlessness and its tumor.

Theatre An Art.

While the constructed devices seem to be better suited to the requirements of the new theatre, it does not by any means follow that if the settings are solid and scaffold-like instead of being flat and sheet-like, all is well with the theatre and nothing more remains to be desired. Nor does it follow that by accepting constructivism we must unreservedly reject expressionism or estheticism in general.

We must remember that the theatre is an art, and that the function of art is to create living beauty. It is well that the constructivist seeks to be utilitarian, but if he does not at the same time seek to be artistic he removes himself from the realm of art, hence from the realm of the theatre, for theatre is after all an art.

Millionaires Salve Sore Conscience by Puny Charity Sops

After all the crowing and breast beating over America's wonderful, generous philanthropic millionaires, what a shock it is to come across the rude figures! In that golden quarter of a century from 1900 to 1925 they have given to religious and social organizations a beggarly $70,-000,000. And the income of American wealth is estimated now to be in excess of $20,000,000,000 a year. But from that stupendous horde, a meager $5,579,000 trickled out in 1925 to salve the consciences of the men who have gutted a continent and exploited millions of workers.

The figures are sponsored by the respectable national bureau of economic research, which operates under the presidency of that great savant and labor strategist, John P. Frey himself. No less than 185 agencies co-operated, and among them all the biggest ones.

Read The Daily Worker Every Day.

"MYSTERY S" BREAKS RECORD

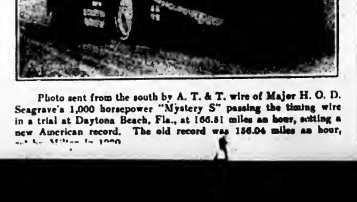

Photo sent from the south by A. T. & T. wire of Major H. O. D. Seagrave's 1,000 horsepower "Mystery S" passing the timing wire in a trial at Daytona Beach, Fla., at 166.81 miles an hour, setting a new American record. The old record was 156.04 miles an hour,

Aimee Tries Out New Operator

Sinclair Assails War Plot Against Soviets

EDITOR'S NOTE:—The following copy of a letter which he forwarded to the Russian publication "Vecherniaya Moskva" has been sent to The DAILY WORKER by Upton Sinclair:

Vetchernisya Moskva"
22 Bolshaya Dmitrovka,
Moscow, U. S. S. R.

EDITOR:

I have your request for a message to my readers and friends in Russia, and I am moved to send this statement in what seems to me the greatest crisis you have ever confronted.

Your enemies are trying to draw you into war, knowing that if they can do it, they can destroy you. By raiding your Pekin embassy, through their hired agent, Chang Tso-lin, they commit what they know is an act of war. They hope you will retaliate. Believing, as I do, that a century of human progress depends upon the survival of Soviet Russia, I hope you will not walk into their trap.

Do not think that I presume to know better about Russian affairs than your own leaders. What I do know is American affairs, and it is about these that I would venture to write. Britain alone dare not attack you. The British labor unions would not stand for it, and also, that a war between the two countries would be a class war, and the ruling classes of Britain would not dare to use their armies at home. But if she can drag America with her, she can do anything. And do not let anybody misinform you on this point, America will follow England's lead. The caste-conscious and money-conscious officials in our state department are as putty in Britain's hands. We have ten million young men with the bodies of workers and the minds of plutocrats, who would be convinced that they were saving their souls by destroying the Soviet system.

I do not say that Russia can be invaded and conquered. You will be blockaded, and forced to divert all your energies to war manufactures, and thus your social progress will be stopped.

And this you must get clear. We few in America, who believe in Soviet Russia, are helpless. The great capitalist propaganda machine would smash us like so many insects.

On the other hand, if you withdraw and avoid the trap, nothing can harm you. Every day you survive, you are stronger. Your mere existence heartens every thinking worker. And in the meantime, capitalism is going down. It cannot find markets, it cannot make profits for its swollen masses of capital. That explains its desperation.

You confronted the very same conditions at Brest-Litovsk. The peace was humiliating, unthinkable, but you had to sign it. Lenin' great wisdom guided you. If you had not signed, you would not exist today.

The crisis now recurs, and I plead with you from half way round the world, withdraw, avoid war at all hazards, stay clear of world capitalism with its blind rapacity. Show the workers of the world that a great working people can make a civilization of their own.

It is literally true, there has not been a week for ten years during which this message to Russia has not been in my thoughts. So the ideas here expressed have had all the consideration my mind is capable of giving.

Sincerely,
UPTON SINCLAIR.

A Backward Race

Mongol Prince: "One day I will visit you in your country."

Finnish Minister. "But Finland is a long way from your country."

M. P.: "What matters? I have many horses and camels and flocks of sheep."

F. M.: "But, you cannot travel through Europe with horses, camels and sheep."

M. P.: "Is there no grass?"

F. M.: "Yes, but it is not allowed to travel through grassland which belongs to people."

M. P.: "How can land belong to people? No one can buy land, I buy something I take away in pocket. No one can take away land in pocket."

F. M.: "In Europe men buy land and get a paper which says the land belongs to them."

M. P.: (Overcome by sense of ridiculous) I understand. So if some fool wish to buy moon from me I sell moon to him. I give him paper saying 'moon belong to you' and he pay me money."

—Translated by D. J. Orehard from Japanese Paper.

SEND IN YOUR LETTERS

The DAILY WORKER is anxious to receive latters from its readers stating their views on the issues confronting the labor movement. It is our hope to develop a "Letter Box" department that will be of wide interest to all members of The DAILY WORKER family. Send in your letter today to "The Letter Box," The DAILY WORKER 33 First street New York City.

With the Young Worker

Goose Stepping in Pennsylvania

Officials of West Chester, Pa. State Normal School suppress Liberal Club at the behest of the American Legion for discussing the situation in Nicaragua. In addition two of the professors who supported the Liberal Club were dismissed. The explanation for this attack is that it is "disrespectful to the government" to discussing the administration policy in Nicaragua. Did these super-patriots fear that the students might learn the truth about Nicaragua? What is the role of Admiral Latimer of the U. S. navy if not the open tool of the house of Schlessinger, Brown and Co. Why are the liberals under the leadership of Sacasa being shot down in cold blood by American armed forces? The answer is that Diaz is the paid agent of Wall Street whose interest it is to extract as much as possible from this supposedly free and independent country. American guns are shooting down Chinese and Nicaraguan workers not to save American lives but to save American dollars. Our country is slowly but surely being put on a military footing. The C. M. T. C.'s and R. O. T. C.'s are being boosted to the fullest extent and the authorities will not allow any organization, even though its name might be as tame as the Liberal Club to stand in its way. The problem of the American youth is to take up the struggle against the open militarization of the youth.

Read The Daily Worker Every Day.

Sport in Soviet Russia

By PAUL REINHARDT.

In order to get acquainted with the idea and technique of the Russian sport movement, one must pay a visit to the Physical Culture Institute in Moscow.

All sorts of gymnastic appliances are to be found in a small gymnastic hall of the institute which can accommodate about 60 gymnasts. The Russians believe in physical culture for the masses as much as possible without any apparatus. This is physical culture for the sake of mankind. With regard to the system, the Russians differ. All systems such as the Swedish, Sokol, Jahn, etc., are rejected. The best has been taken from all of them and the attention is to create something exclusive.

Formerly there was no such institute in Russia. Now that it has been established, it answers to proletarian ideas and feelings. This is noticeable already now when the institute is just developing. The institute occupies a former princely mansion, the owner of which was driven out of the country by the revolution. If one takes into consideration that apart from the scientific departments and the gymnastic hall mentioned above there are other rooms for practice, reading and school rooms and a boarding school, one will get an idea of the dimensions of the place. Strange to say, the former chapel is the present gymnastic hall. Sport grounds are ready and well laid out. There is an artificial tobogganing and skiing ground. Arrangements are also made for the digging of a rowing and swimming pool surrounded by old trees. This work is performed by the so-called unemployed welfare departments. It is of considerable interest to note that for this kind of work 50 per cent of the standard wage is paid.

The arrangemant of the courses is as follows: 400 pupils with a four-years' course, 200 (including 100 medical men for scientific reasons) with a one-year's course. Twenty-five per cent of the pupils are women. The teaching staff for practical and theoretical training is well as for investigations is 70 in number.

As to the actual sport, bathing and swimming takes place wherever water is available. There is no room for father and mother—men and women bathe together naked. A tourist movement on a scientific basis will spring up through this younger generation by the schools arranging every year several excursions of a scientific nature. As yet winter sport is not very general. One would not be far wrong in saying that rifle sport is gaining ground for of this there are many signs. Yachting, motorboat and rowing sport has been given an impetus by simply taking away these craft from the bourgeoisie and handing thereby the workers to take up this branch of sport. Wrestling and box ing will not reach their proper development until one will have got be yond the preliminaries of the sport movement. It would be certainly wrong to assert that wrestling was common property of the Russians, although it is true that about 20 years ago two of the best international wrestlers (Durich and Hackenschmidt) were Russians.

Sport is developing differently in Russia. Not according to clubs and leagues but according to factories and trade unions. This was brought home through the fact that the workers of big enterprises have, wherever possible, arranged gymnastic balls in their club houses. Where do the club houses come from? They are either palatial villas of former manufacturers or similar former private houses, which were nationalized through the revolution. Thus, there is no absolute independence in the Russian sport life which has its basis in the factories and is under the guardianship of the trade unions, and the sport movement benefits by it. This is probably the main reason of the difference between the Comintern and the Red Sport International.

One must admit that there is enormous progress. To this must be added education in hygiene through other institutes which, however, cannot be dealt with here. But one thing is certain: The entire Russian proletarian culture work which was formerly impeded by the reactionaries and particularly by the churches (Moscow alone has 1,600 churches) is now in full swing and is making rapid progress.

Sport Briefs

They're at it again boys. The baseball season is on. Some hundred and fifty thousand bugs will pay from fifty cents to a dollar and a half at the opening game. Figure it up. A hundred and fifty thousand at one buck apiece not a bad little sum! For baseball is sure a great little sport. They ought to play it on Wall St.

Who's going to win the pennant this year? Put this down in your notebook. The Pittsburg Pirates are going to make fifty per cent of the games in the National League walk the gangplanks, in the American League it will be three out of four. Athletics are wrong in saying that rifle sport is going to bring home the bacon—and eggs. But don't bet your money on this inside information. The prophesy is made without knowing what the gambling rate going to do.

Have you organized a baseball team? Let us know if you have. The Youth Column will gladly tell the world about it.

JOIN OUR RANKS

National Office: 1113 West Washington Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.
New York Office: 108 East 14th Street New York City, N. Y.

LINOTYPE OR TWO.

I know a guy
Named Ida McGore
He works eight hours
But gets paid for four.

Mary had some little lambs
From which she earned some dough
The trust, it came around one day;
Now Mary's funds are low.

Headlines seen in the "Daily Rot": Bosses Strike For Increase in Profits. Great Unemployment in Country: 100,000 Bosses Walk the Streets.

THE ARMY OF UNEMPLOYED.

We're in the army now,
We're out of a job right now
We'll never get rich,
We'll never get rich,
We'll never get rich. . .
(etc. until we have a workers' government).

A FRIEND INDEED.

An opportunity arrived. Now I can plunk down my dollar ($1.00) and subscribe to the Young Worker for one year. Or you don't have the dollar ($1.00), you can send in 50 cents for a half year subscription.

Send it to The Young Worker Editorial Committee, 33 First St., N. Y.

Every Worker Get Behind the Coal Miners—Help Save the Miners' Union!

THE DAILY WORKER FIGHTS:
FOR THE ORGANIZATION OF THE UNORGANIZED
FOR THE 40-HOUR WEEK
FOR A LABOR PARTY

THE DAILY WORKER

NATIONAL EDITION

Entered as second-class matter at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Vol. IV. No. 79. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In New York, by mail, $8.00 per Year. Outside New York, by mail, $6.00 per year. NEW YORK, FRIDAY, APRIL 15, 1927 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 33 First Street, New York, N. Y. Price 3 Cents

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

BRIGADIER GENERAL AMOS A. FRIES, chief of the American Chemical Warfare Service is decidedly of the opinion that the use of poison gas in war is harmless and humane, the exceedingly efficient. What the gas does is to put the foe to sleep long enough to enable the gas-using army to break thru. Of course the humane gas-users would not hurt a hair on the heads of the sleeping beauties! After the latter awake and rub their eyes they will learn that the enemy has passed over them while they were having their beauty sleep.

• • •

WE would like to agree with the general. Indeed if this were so, war would surpass in the favor of tired business men and habitues of night clubs the Turkish baths and the health resorts where the work-worn bodies of capitalists are fitted for robbing once more. Various brands of gas and wars of short and long duration would be featured in full-page advertisements. Correspondence schools would spring up like mushrooms to teach the people how to make their own gas in their spare time and how to organize a war in the backyard where the safety of renting trenches would be reduced to almost nothing.

• • •

GENERAL FRIES said the was addressing the American Chemical Society) that war gas is not poisonous, does not contain germs and leaves no lingering after-effects. So, unless a soldier is killed by accident in this kind of a war there is no profession where the life hazards are lower. Here is a chance for those afflicted with insomnia. The next war may mark the beginning of the millenium. With the horror taken out of war the most shameless pacifist will not have the impertinence to rob the peoples of its benefits.

• • •

THERE are more ways of qualifying for a remarkable position than by starting at the bottom and counting the number of rungs in the ladder of success. The secret of success is taking the precaution to pick the right parents. Thousands of brilliant fellows have wended a thorny path thru life because of their rarebleasness in selecting their immediate ancestors. Some remedy matters by a judicious selection of a mate. Jose Emilio Obregon for instance!

• • •

MARRIAGES are supposed to be made in heaven but money is not. Tho I have recently heard a jobless worker say that god owned the world. Jose Emilio Obregon married the daughter of President Machado of Cuba, the gentleman who was recently responsible for the murder of several Cuban trade unionists. Machado is not the president of an independent Cuba, but the Cuban overseer for American imperialism. So his son-in-law Obregon is now on the payroll of the Chase National Bank, one of the largest financial institutions in the world. The murder business in Cuba pays well provided the radical workers are not the receiving end.

• • •

HERE is a choice morsel of Americana ripped from the advertising columns of the New York Times:

LECTURE BUREAU—WOULD you like to be one to form a com-

(Continued on Page Three)

Could Save Sacco and Vanzetti

Gov. A. T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, in whose hands the fate of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, radicals condemned to die, has been swamped with letters, telegrams and cablegrams from all parts of the world protesting the execution of the two men.

JUDGE IN SACCO VANZETTI TRIAL BITTERLY SCORED

Legislator Charges He Boasted of Prejudice

BOSTON, April 14.—A bitter denunciation of Judge Webster Thayer, who presided at the trial of Bartholomeo Vanzetti and Nicoln Sacco, for his "relentless prejudice" was made before the house of representatives of the state this afternoon by Roland D. Sawyer, democrat, a clergyman of Ware.

He was asking consideration of his proposal ralling for the appointment of an impartial committee to inquire into the case of the two framed-up Italian radicals, sentenced to die in the electric chair.

Thayer Boasted Of Prejudice.

"Judge Thayer boasted of 'the kind of a job he would do on Sacco and Vanzetti' in the lobby at the trial, in clubs and trains," declared Sawyer.

When the jury was viewing a scene in the woods and the tryst of a man and girl was interrupted, the judge waved his handkerchief to the fleeing girl, said the legislator.

Took Case Lightly.

Judge Thayer's conduct during the trial showed, Sawyer said, that "the whole affair of sending these men to the electric chair was with him a gay affair."

Dr. Sawyer also scored former District Attorney Katzman of Norfolk rounty as a man "anxious for his victim."

• • •

St. Louis Labor Hits Verdict.

ST. LOUIS, April 14.—A resolution denouncing the death sentence of Sacco and Vanzetti was passed at a special meeting of the Central Trades and Labor Assembly of this city.

Keep U. S. From Warring on China, Asks Nationalist Foreign Office in Cable to the American Workers

HANKOW, April 14.—The American people are not aware of the crimes their government is committing, so the Chinese people appeal to all citizens of America. We ask you:

Is it true that America's economic and political interests in China necessitates the catastrophic change in America towards China?

Imperialists Plan World War To Crush Chinese.

"We are sure and feel others know also that not one American citizen nor one American cent would be endangered by the success of the Nationalist revolution in China. We know further that this same assurance would have been given by the leaders of American foreign policy—if during the past few weeks in the White House new decisions had not been adopted which have radically changed the old policy in China, if it had not been decided that time was at hand to plunge into a new world war to "solve all the Japanese, British, and American difficulties in the Pacific" and so make the world free for trade and prosperity. Only by such a change in policy could the aggressive actions, the threats, suggestions, the rash steps taken recently by American diplomats and militarists in China must be explained.

Ask American Workers To Protest War On China.

But do the American people know and concur in this policy? Are the American people willing that their policy of friendship towards China should be abandoned, that their country should combine with Western powers in a war in the Far East? If the American people approve such a war, then the Nanking bombardment, the concentration of naval forces at Shanghai, the evacuation of all American citizens at Hankow, the tenor of seven articles in American newspapers in China, are seasonable and well timed.

But if the American people do not know what is portending, if they do not desire to have their sons and brothers the victims of another great world catastrophe and one in which the friendship built up for a half century would be irremedially lost, then the American people should be on their guard.

We Chinese people wish therefore, to tell the people of America that their government is leading them to a new bloody massacre in our land, a massacre in comparison with which the world war would be a mere ripple on the sea.

In this massacre, countless people, young and old, would be murdered, killed, drowned, blown up, poisoned by gas. Untold treasures and cultural achievement of priceless value would perish.—Eugene Chen, Foreign Minister.

Shanghai Has 600,000 Workers Organized In Seventeen Big Unions

SHANGHAI, April 12.—Over six hundred thousand workers in Shanghai are organized, according to a statement issued by the chairman of the Shanghai Council of Trade Unions.

The largest of the seventeen unions affiliated with the council is the textile and garment workers' union, which has a membership of more than 200,000. The executive committee of the council consists of 41 members, which elects a presidium of seven.

Smash World's Altitude Record for Seaplanes

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The world's altitude record for seaplanes was broken this afternoon by Lt. George R. Henderson, naval air service, who flew a regular service observation plane.

The former record was 20,200 feet. According to unofficial figures this was broken by several hundred feet. The navy department declined to give out the definite figures until instruments on the plane have been calibrated.

The flight was made over the naval air station here. It had been surrounded with great secrecy.

Officials of the national aeronautical association were on hand to check the flight.

Read The Daily Worker Every Day.

Warehouse Men In Control of Sapiro Co-ops Says Reed

DETROIT, April 14.—Fifteen of the 22 directors of the Sapiro-organized burley tobacco cooperative in Kentucky were financially interested in warehouses while operating the association for farmers, Senator James A. Reed, chief of Henry Ford's counsel, charged today at the million-dollar Ford-Sapiro libel suit.

Many of the warehouses, purchased for the cooperative, Reed added, were those in which the directors were financially interested.

Ralph M. Baker, the director of warehouses, Reed further charged, bought two warehouses from himself, all of this was carried out, Reed said, under contracts prepared by Sapiro.

Three Out of Five.

Aaron Sapiro, the cooperative king, testified that three of the five men on the executive committee which directed the organization committee, were warehouse owners. Ralph M. Barker and James C. Stone owned warehouses while John T. Collins, a banker, owned stock in warehouses, said Sapiro. Robert W. Binkham, Louisville publisher, and W. E. Sims, a Versailles, Ky., grower.

Reed brought out this condition in an effort to show that the growers did not control their own cooperative under Sapiro's guidance. Sapiro however declared this was not unusual, because many Kenturky farmers owned stock in warehouses.

Naval Affairs Head Says No Disarmament Confab Will Be Held

WASHINGTON, April 14. — American efforts to accomplish further naval disarmament, through the three-power rontference to start at Geneva in June, will likely prove unsuccessful, Rep. Thomas S. Butler of Pennsylvania, chairman of the house naval affairs committee, predicted today after a visit to the White House.

"The United States has nothing to sarrifice in this conference, and I do not believe the other powers, Great Britain and Japan, will be in a sacrificing mood," said Butler.

Painter Bosses Get Injunction Against Workers

Supreme Court Justire Callahan, the same judge who on Wednesday refused to grant a change of venue to Ben Gold and the 10 other fur workers now being tried in Mineola, L. I., yesterday granted an injunction restraining members of District Council 19, of the painters, paperhangers, and decorators from ralling a strike before June 19.

Several thousand painters have been out on strike for nearly two weeks, demanding a $2 pay increase.

The judge based his decision on an agreement which he said existed between 30 boss painters of Brooklyn and Queens and the district council of the union, and which does not expire until June 19.

Lawyers for the bosses, in asking for the injunction argued that if the judge complies with their request, "it will have a far-reaching influence on the cost of building construction and will affect millions of dollars in contracts."

Chicago Discussing Armour's Retirement After Fraud Charge

CHICAGO, April 14. — Retirement from business by the Armour Grain Company, announced in a statement from Philip D. and Lester Armour, today was the main subject of discussion in Chicago grain circles.

The Armour Company has been the dominating influence on the board of trade for years and the projected retirement means an all-around realignment of the famous grain exchange.

A public arnitor recently found the Armour Company guilty of a gross fraud, involving the swindling of $3,000,000 away from a co-operative.

Goes to Nicaragua

HENRY L. STIMSON

Now the rat's out of the bag. It's sperial rights for an inter-oceanic canal which the United States wants in Nicaragua—as well as a monopoly for the United Fruit Company.

Former secretary of war, Henry L. Stimson, has been appointed by the President to "investigate" the Nicaraguan situation. His job will be "to arrange a peare between the warring factions" which the U. S. gets the canal rights and other spoils.

JURY OF BUSINESS MEN TO TRY GOLD AND 10 FURRIERS

No Labor Represented At Mineola Trial

MINEOLA, L. I., April 14.—The tendency to be followed by the prosecution in the trial of Ben Gold and the 10 other leaders of the New York fur workers whose trial on a charge of "assault" which began here this morning was indicated when Elvin Edwards, district attorney of Nassau rounty, began the examination of prospective jurors by asking them if they belonged "to any Communistic order, or any other order favoring a change in the government of the United States."

Defense Objects.

Frank P. Walsh and Henry A. Uterhart, lawyers for the defendants, vigorously objected to the line of questioning of the district attorney, but County Judge Lewis J. Smith, presiding in the case, promptly overruled their objection. The same insidious type of interrogations continued throughout the two and half hours consumed in selecting the jury.

Of the 12 men who will "determine the guilt or innocence" of militants in the fur union, not a single one is a worker. The first juror called and chosen was a dealer in real estate. The second is a contractor and builder; the third deals in martime insurance, the others are as follows: (No. 4.) Head of electrical department of New York Telephone Company in Mineola; (No. 5.) Upholsterer jobber; (No. 6.) Dealer in stocks and bonds; (No. 7.) Civil Engineer; (No. 8.) Plumbing and heating contractor; (No. 9.) Head of department in New York exporting house; (No. 10) Grocer in Lynnbrook, L. I.; (No. 11.) Retired hotel man; (No. 12.) Plumbing and heating contractor.

Gold and Comrades in Jail Since Monday.

Ben Gold and the other fur workers have been in jail since last Monday, when their bail, $10,000 each was revoked by County Judge Smith. Tuesday in the Brooklyn supreme court application of thrir attorneys for a change of venue was denied by Justice Callahan, who declared that Judge Smith, who has already shown extreme prejudice in the case, "is the best judge of his own fitness to sit in the case."

Jury Middle Class.

All of the members of the jury live either in Mineola or in the neighboring little town of Rockville Center.

Mineola is a typical middle-class suburb. Of the 6,000 people who live there most of them commute from New York where they have white-collar jobs.

Judge Bored.

Judge Smith, who is presiding at the trial is already thoroly bored by the proceedings. All of the eleven workers are being tried together, but five attorneys are representing different groups of individuals. Consequently much of the proceedings will be duplicated by the individual lawyers.

POWERS PREPARE FOR WAR AS CHEN CONSIDERS NOTES

Send Chiang Copies to Split Kuomintang

SHANGHAI, April 14.—Foreign warships are roncentrating at Hankow, it is reported here, awaiting the artion of the Nationalist Government regarding the identic notes sent by the imperialist powers.

In an attempt to split the Nationalist movement, the powers have sent ropies of their notes to Chiang Kai-Shek.

Chen Prepares Note.

What action Chiang will take on the notes is unknown. A great deal hinges on the right wing ronference at Nanking tomorrow. It is expected that Eugene Chen, Nationalist Foreign Minister at Hankow, will ask an investigation of the Nanking affair in separate notes addressed to the powers.

Nationalists Take Pukow.

The Nationalists have retaken Pukow, according to a report received here by Shun Pao, a leading Chinese newspaper. The Nationalists executed a surprise attack, surrounding and disarming 1,400 White Russian mercenaries belonging to Chang Tsung-chang, Shantungese war lord.

Deny Conrentration.

Soviet officials have drnied the statements that have appeared in foreign press that U. S. S. R. troops are concentrating on the Manchurian border. Officials point to the pacific note that has been sent to the defunct Peking Government and contrast it with the threatening message that has been sent to the Nationalists by the imperialists.

A dispatch from Kharkov states that Ukrainian Labor Unions are flooded with applirations from workers who wish to go to China to fight for the liberation movement.

A statement declaring that though Soviet Russia sympathizes with the struggle of the Chinese workers and peasants she refuses to adopt any form of militarist intervention tha, has been issued by the union.

• • •

Japan Sends Destroyers.

TOKIO, April 14.—Japan has increased her forres at Tientsin from eight to three companies of infantry. Four japanese destroyers, ronsequently under orders to proceed to Shang-

(Continued on Page Two)

BERWIND WHITE MINERS' STRIKE ENDS WITH GAIN

Pittsburg Coal Company Tries to Raid Meeting

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., April 14 (FP). —The first skirmish of the year in the Pennsylvanin non-union coal fields ends without a gain in wages but with the union forces in a strong position otherwise. The strike ended when Superintendent Newbaker of the Berwind-White Coal Co. promised to reinstate all the pickets he had discharged.

The strike lasted three days and hit two of the companies' largest mines. It was decided at a Sunday mass meeting after the company refused demands for union wages, check-weighmen and recognition.

Sheriff There.

Mass pirketing began, with a hundred miners on the line. Sheriff Markel appeared with a force of deputies and six state police. The latter were decked out with rifles and cartridge belts. The sheriff at once issued orders against pirketing with more than two men every 15 feet. The strikers yielded to this order but they ignored a demand to stay away from the mine mouth where they met men going to and from work.

But many workers were intimidated by the deputies and police. The coal market was still bad. A committee of ten strikers had a ronference with Newbaker, and offered terms. They said they would call the strike off on condition that he would reinstate every striker, particularly the 15 pirket leaders whom he discharged when the walkout began. Otherwise they said they would do all in their power to spread the strike through the county. Newbaker accepted and the walkout ended.

Stopped Wage Cut.

Strike promoters are encouraged. They have made new contacts in the non-union fields. They have demon-

(Continued on Page Two)

Prudential Life Gives $250,000 Bribe

By CHARLES YALE HARRISON

Without a shadow of doubt, the lowest paid workers in New York City are the clerical staff of the "Big Four." Their numbers run into thousands. At Number One Madison Avenue, the headquarters of the Metropolitan Life, fifteen dollars a week is a good wage. Talk of trade union organization is met with instant dismissal.

The agent who unwillingly sells weekly payment insurance is an extremely poorly paid worker. His hours are indefinite, his income more or less uncertain, and he is drilled by a small army of bosses in disguise as managers and assistant managers, several of whom are attarched to each office. There are about 100 branch offices of the "Big Four" scattered throughout Greater New York.

Start Union.

Some time ago an effort was made to organize the agents into a representative union. It was a complete fizzle. Here also the slightest hint of unionization is met with the cold steel of dismissal.

The upper strata of the "Big Four," that is to say the directors, officials and presidents are themselves not so

PREVIOUS EVENTS OF INSURANCE EXPOSÉ

The DAILY WORKER today continues its expose of the "Big Four" insurance trust. The "Big Four" are the Metropolitan, Prudential, John Haucock and Colonial Life Insurance Companies. This powerful combine which is supposed to be "mutual," is in reality controlled by an unscrupulous gang of Wall Street financiers. They insure 40 million American workers. Specific charges of fraud, misrepresentation, subornation and the misuse of company funds have been met with silence on the part of the crooked officials who fatten upon the unfortunate workers who are taken in by these leeches. Names prominent in the exposé are Charles Evans Hughes, Charles M. Schwab, Supt. of Insurance James A. Beha and others prominent in legislative and financial circles.

"het up" against organization. Witness, for instance, the Association of Life Insurance Presidents. As clannish and class conscious a union as ever graced an industry or business.

Its reason for existence is very easy to determine. Surely a life insurance president's pay is great enough. True, these companies with one insignificant exception are "mutual." The meaning of the word "mutual" is best indicated by the Standard Dictionary definition which gives it as, "shared or experienced alike." How great these president's salaries are can be seen below:

Haley Fiske, Metropolitan	$150,000
Ed. D. Duffield, Prudential	75,000
Walton L. Crocker, Hancock	50,000
E. Heppenheimer, Colonial	30,000

These four underpaid little officials only receive a quarter of a million dollars between them every year. Surely they don't need a union for better wages. Goodness knows their hours are short enough. Then why the union? What is the reason for the existence of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents?

For Political Purposes.

Avowedly, this association of muckamucks is that statistical machine of the insurance trust. It is supposed to compile all the highly mysterious data which accumulates every year in the insurance world.

It sorts the wheat from the chaff, and gives the great believing American public weighty pamphlets on thrift, how to save, what we die from, and a general line of sweetness and "truth" with regard to the benefits to be derived from life insurance, including "industrial" weekly payment life insurance.

Actually, it is the lobbying machine for the "Big Four." Does a nice little insurance company want a bill passed which will make it lawful for it to refuse to pay, let us say, its Russian death claims? The Association of Life Insurance Presidents will see to it. Does the "Big Four" want an increase of permitted expenses (as in 1925)? The Presidents Union will

(Continued on Page Three)

Furriers Stand 100% As the Police Continue Terror

By L. A. SUSKIN
Member Fur Workers' Union, Local 3.

In every nook and corner of each fur shop the workers are discussing the manner in which Matthew Woll, Hugh Frayne and the McGrady gang are trying to break up the furriers' union that was built up upon the energy and blood of the fur workers during their bitter struggles. Shall they establish a company union that shall serve the interests of the manufacturers? They are talking of how the bosses are intimidating the workers to go down and register in the scab union that was set up by the official of the American Federation of Labor, and threatening the workers that they will lose their jobs if they don't go register in the scab union. Many manufacturers have hung up signs that all workers must register or lose their jobs despite the fact that they have worked for them for many years.

Don't Want Sweat-Shops.

How the labor fakers are trying to reduce the conditions and standard of living of the fur workers, how they want to give back the forty-four hour week and give the unmanufacturers a standard of productoins which means the enslaving of the workers to the bosses; how they want to establish the six day week, instead of five that was won in the bitter struggle of seventeen weeks where many workers were clubbed and beaten by the gorillas and police of the manufacturers and where many workers were maimed and crippled, the result of which many workers are still serving long prison terms on framed-up charges of the manufacturers where the judges who served the bosses persecuted the workers for being active in the strike; the way the officials of the American Federation of Labor are instigating a conspiracy to send a way the best and most active members for long prison terms. All this is being energetically discussed.

Beat Workers.

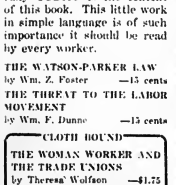
When one passes the fur district one can see the members of the Industrial squad who are ever ready to hunt and slug the workers. Police are stationed near every building and prevent workers from speaking to each other, and if one reads a newspaper or leaflet it is grabbed out of his hands and is arrested in the bargain. Not many days ago the industrial squad of the police department were ordered to terrorize the workers, and they did a good job of it. They bent and slugged the workers unmercifully with blackjacks and butts of the revolvers. Coats-sacks on horses trampled upon the workers, armored cars with machine guns were to be put in use at a signal.

Reign of Terror.

At a certain restaurant on Sixth avenue where a good many fur workers eat their noonday lunch, the police pulled the workers from the tables into the street beat and clubbed them and then put them under arrest. Many people who do not work in the fur trade were also searched, clubbed and beaten by the squad.

Labor Fakers Try Bulldozing Methods.

The officials of the American Federation of Labor go from shop to shop, hold conferences with the manufacturers on schemes for getting the fur workers to register in the scab union and break the Joint Board of the furriers' union. The bosses willingly stop the factories in the middle of the day when the workers are at work so that the officials of the American Federation of Labor can hold speeches to those who work in the factory; and in the evening at the gates of the factories they have their gangsters from the East Side and the industrial squad terrorize and force the workers to register in the company union that was organized by Matthew Woll, Hugh Frayne, etc. The workers defy them and stay with the Joint Board.



Bosses Join With A. F. of L.

In one of the large shops in the fur industry, B. Geiter & Sons, the bosses hung a sign on the wall announcing that the workers must register in the scab union if they do not want to be discharged from their job. Upon this the workers immediately got up, dropped their tools, declared a strike in the shop, went down to the office of the Joint Board of Furriers' Union elected a strike and picketing committee and the strike is now in full blast. The workers hold huge mass picketing demonstrations and are joined by other workers who come down from other shops. The bosses tried to provoke a fight with the pickets, so that the police and the industrial squad should beat and slug the pickets but to no avail. The officials of the American Federation of Labor are trying high and low to get scabs for the firm, but cannot get many. The workers are solid behind the Joint Board Furriers' Union and are ready to stay out until the bosses get the false illusion out of their heads of trying to break the Joint Board Furriers Union and establish a company union with the labor fakers.

Many shops have passed resolutions of protest on the jailing of our leaders Ben Gold and others on framed-up charges and sent the prisoners who are jailed in Lincoln, L. I. a Khaklux town, telegrams of solidarity and determination to secure their releases.

The fur workers realize what it means to lose their union that they have bled for so many years in order to build it up. They know what a company is controlled by the direct agents of the manufacturers under the guise of officials of the American Federation of Labor. Officials who wanted to break the most militant strike of the fur workers lasting seventeen weeks, where the workers won the five day week, increases in wages and many other substantial gains. The workers are all standing solid behind the Joint Board Furriers' Union.

BOOKS
For the Trade Unionist
FOR EVERY WORKER

How to wage strikes successfully TODAY is the content of this book. This little work in simple language is of such importance it should be read by every worker.

THE WATSON-PARKER LAW by Wm. Z. Foster —15 cents
THE THREAT TO THE LABOR MOVEMENT by Wm. F. Dunne —15 cents

CLOTH BOUND
THE WOMAN WORKER AND THE TRADE UNIONS by Theresa Wolfson —$1.75
LEFT WING UNIONISM by David J. Saposs —$1.60
THE WORKER LOOKS AT GOVERNMENT by Arthur W. Calhoun —$1.60

THE DAILY WORKER PUB. CO.
33 FIRST STREET
NEW YORK

Minister Had Too Many Wives; Arrested

Arrested at Detroit on a charge of forgery and turned over to the police of Grand Haven, Mich., Robert Alan MacLaren-Brown, former minister, above, faces charges of bigamy in many states. Declared by police to have several aliases, MacLaren-Brown is said to have begun his career in the ministry in New Jersey.

Foreign Domination of China Must Stop, Says Consul General Here

"New China believes that before China can restore peace throughout the country the disturbing element of foreign influence and interference must be removed," said Ziang Lingchang, Chinese Consul General here in a speech broadcast by radio station WGI.

"The first thing to do is to abolish all unequal and obsolete treaties, upon which the undue foreign rights were supposedly founded," he continued.

"China welcomes all foreigners to trade, to teach or live in China," he said: "But only on condition that no foreigner should enjoy more rights in Chinese soil than the Chinese enjoy in their own country."

Two Judges Are Absent From Trial Of Oil Swindlers

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Two Justices of the United States Supreme Court are disqualified from sitting on the case in the appeal of the Teapot Dome Oil lease because of their connection with the frauds perpetrated against the government in the scandals that aroused nation-wide interest two years ago.

Justice Harlan F. Stone, former attorney general, declined to participate because of his connection with the case in his former office. Justice Willis Van Devanter absented himself from the hearings because his brother-in-law, John W. Lacey, appeared as a lawyer for the grafters.

The government seeks to cancel the leases Fall gave Sinclair on the ground that, like the Doheny lease to Elk Hills, it was "grounded in fraud." The government lost in the Wyoming federal court, but won in the eighth circuit court.

An early decision in the case is hardly expected, as summer recess is not far off, and there is a belief that the decision will be delayed in any event until after the trial of Sinclair and Fall on the criminal charge of conspiracy. That trial has been set for April 25, but likely will be postponed until Autumn.

Powers Prepare War on China By Sea and Air

(Continued from Page One)

hai left this morning for Port Arthur, "Japanese" port on the Liaotung Peninsula, Manchuria.

Hankow Quiet.

HANKOW, April 14.—The trouble which occurred in the Japanese concession has completely subsided. All Japanese marines and machine guns have been withdrawn. The gunboats sent from Shanghai are being withdrawn from Hankow, except two which are being used as a convoy for merchantships carrying evacuated women and children.

The Japanese consul here has expressed appreciation for the effective measures which were taken by the Nationalist Government to restore order and protection to Japanese subjects. In other cowardly circles that effectiveness of the Nationalist Government has been commented upon favorably.

* * *

Unions Stop Riots.

The labor unions have issued notice warning their members against disturbances, urging the avoidance of quarrels with foreigners and insisting that foreigners' lives and property be protected.

* * *

Prepare For More Intervention.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The War and Navy Departments are making necessary preparation to "protect American lives and property" in Peking and northern China, should the Nationalist drive against Tientsin be successful, it is understood.

President Coolidge is holding daily consultations with Charles Evans Hughes and Silas Strawn, who represented the United States at the conferences which recommended the status quo on the question of extraterritoriality.

Moscow Paper Suspects Chiang.

MOSCOW, April 14. Grave fears are felt here that General Chiang Kai Shek, the Chinese Nationalist commander, may turn counter-revolutionary and join forces with Chiang Tso-Lin and the Northerners.

The government's economic paper, "Economic Life," today carried a long discussion of the last month's record which placed Chiang Kai-Shek in command of the army and divided the Nationalist, diplomatic and other problems of the Nationalist government among various committees.

"On the exterior," says this paper, "Chiang Kai Shek, who wants to be a Chinese Napoleon, has subjected himself to his party's orders, and has even handed a statement in support of the party's decision, and emphasizing his loyalty to the cause.

"However, the foreign press continues stubbornly to insist that Chiang Kai Shek will soon make peace with the Northern Nationalists and turn his forces against the Communists. These reports reach us chiefly through Japanese sources.

"Around Chiang Kai Shek there is definitely ripening some sort of intrigue.

Powers Plot Disruption.

"There is not the slightest doubt that the foreign powers are plotting to create an internal explosion in China.

"A series of recent reports from China regarding Chiang Kai Shek's consolidation with the extreme right wing of the Kuomintang seem to be the reason to fear that the danger of a counter-revolution remains extremely serious."

Although the Pekingese charge d'affaires Chen Yeng Hi has not yet received a recall to Peking, it was learned today that he is prepared to leave on a moment's notice.

Chen told International News Service that he did not intend to leave at once as he thought that would "be very untimely."

The Soviet charge d'affaires to Peking was recalled several days ago as a result of the raid upon the Soviet embassy compound at Peking by Chinese police and soldiers and Marshal Chang Tso Lin's forces.

Jewish Chicken Killers Strike for Union; Rabbis Say It Opposes Religion

By IRVING FREEMAN.
(Federated Press).

NEWARK, N. J., April 14.—Killing chickens is easy to understand, but the Hebrew law is not so easy. The Shoetim, or group of workers who kill the chickens and other fowl for the kosher trade have been unorganized since the A. F. of L. for the last six months. But the local orthodox rabbis who bless the kosher killing function claimed that the Hebrew law did not permit the Schoetim to organize.

The workers had to give their own interpretation of the law. They ruled that it did not forbid organizations or strikes. They struck against numerous grievances as to working conditions. And after two weeks of strike they are determined to stick out till they win recognition of their bosses operating the Jewish chicken markets in the city of Newark. The union expects to open a cooperative chicken market of its own.

Aid Needed for Many Imprisoned Needle Workers

By ALEX JACKINSON

A sharp struggle is taking place in the New York needle trades. Those who have dared question the supremacy of the ruling class have fallen victims of the courts. There are, as a result, more than a score of cloakmakers and furriers in prison today.

Families left destitute. Fatherless children. Men locked behind iron bars. And the fight is not over. More victims are certain to fall before the cutting knife of reaction is broken by the working class.

Aid Jailed Workers.

To rid the imprisoned and those about to be imprisoned, a Joint Defense and Relief Committee was formed by the Joint Boards of the cloak and fur workers' unions. The committee has many tasks to perform. Cases to appeal. Families to take care of. There are injunctions to fight.

At present the Defense Committee is active in Mineola, trying to save Ben Gold and the other 10 furriers from going railroaded to prison. There are a number of lawyers working on the case whose fees must be met. To carry on this vitally important work FUNDS ARE NEEDED. The committee has worked out plans to raise a fraction of the huge sum required. One of them is to hold a bazaar on May 12, 13, 14, and 15, in the New Star Casino, 107th St. and Park Ave.

Bazaar For 4 Days.

It is imperative that this event be a success. To make it so, articles, especially saleable are needed. YOU can supply them. If you have some jewelry you can afford to be without, bring it down and it will be sold. The readers of The DAILY WORKERS are expected to cooperate actively in this venture. Don't delay.

Special Issue of "Unity."

A week before the bazaar, UNITY, the militant labor paper issued by the Joint Boards will issue a special number, explaining the history of the struggle now going on. It will also contain greetings from imprisoned workers.

Many Ways to Help.

The committee is also issuing 100,000 one-dollar defense certificates. They will be mailed to most of the organized workers of the city. When you receive your certificate enclose a dollar and mail it back without delay. If you are not an organized worker send in your dollar to the address given below and you will receive a certificate.

To make the bazaar a success a great deal of preliminary work is necessary. Volunteers are needed, many of them. Men and women, boys and girls are wanted.

Tickets for the bazaar will cost 50 cents each. Address your articles for sale, and get your tickets and further information from the Joint Defense and Relief Committee, Cloakmakers and Furriers, Room 713, 41 Union Square, N. Y. C.

Earl Carroll Still Unconscious in S. C.

GREENVILLE, S. C., April 14.—Deep in the oblivion of unconsciousness, which has enveloped him now for more than 28 hours, Earl Carroll, New York theatrical producer, who collapsed enroute to the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary to serve a term for perjury, lay this afternoon in the Greenville City Hospital, while four physicians sought to probe the mystery of his ailment.

Faint glimmers of awakening were seen at intervals in vague and formless mutterings and occasional slight movement. But for the most part Carroll lay as still as death, pallid and wasted.

He was like that, without sign or motion of life, when his wife entered his room shortly after noon and dropped to her knees, weeping at his side.

Berwind White Miners Win Partial Victory

(Continued from Page One)

strated that the non-union men are interested in organization, and they have forced the new corporations to be more cautious. For instance, a wage cut had been posted at a mine by the Pittsburgh Coal Co. in Carpenter Park, reducing tonnage rates to 65 cents. The notice was withdrawn.

The strike was officially endorsed by the United Mine Workers, International organizer, Fred Thomas, and District No. 2 organizers, Fazio and Bilfco, arriving promptly. The Windber miners themselves sailed the walkout after speeches by Powers Hapgood, Tony Minerich and George Papcun, visiting union miners.

Somerset County struck solidly with the United Mine Workers in the great national strike of 1922. A walkout of Berwind-White men was followed by the (Rockefeller) Consolidation Coal Co. and other miners. In central Pennsylvania, just north of Somerset, the union is working under a temporary truce. But a strike prevails in the Pittsburgh district, as in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

* * *

Thugs Fail To Stop Meeting.

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., April 14.—A huge mass meeting of miners was held here under the auspices of Local Union No. 2399, of Daisytown, United Mine Workers of America. In spite of every attempt to break it up, and in spite of the campaign of lies conducted by the local paper, under operators' control, about 4,000 were in attendence.

Halt Thirty Men.

The Pittsburgh Coal Company's coal and iron police stopped about thirty non-union miners who heard of the meeting and tried to attend. They were working in the Crescent Mine property of the company, and are practical prisoners, when the question of joining the union comes up.

Only the jealousy of the state police prevented an armed raid on the meeting by coal and iron police (company gunmen). The Pittsburgh Coal Co. sent its guards down to break up the meeting, but the state constabulary, who were at the meeting in force, regarded this as an invasion on their rights, and chased the company thugs back onto company property.

The Brownsville Telegraph published the next day a fanciful story that only 250 miners attended the meeting.

* * *

RENRETTA, Okla., April 14.—Twenty-seven miners entombed in the Old Wise Coal Company mine near this city had a narrow escape from death by drowning today when the waters of McDonald Creek overflowed a lowland section near the mouth of the mine.

According to officials of the company, the men at first believed themselves forced to be safe in a high lateral tunnel.

As soon as the water which flooded the main shaft recedes, the entombed men can run to the spoint from which they can be rescued, officials of the mine company said.

There was doubt at the mine offices as to the exact number of miners trapped. The estimates ranged from twenty-three to twenty-seven men. At the mouth of the shaft, however, the latter number was believed correct.

Escape By Miracle.

Little hope of rescuing the men alive had been held when the waters poured through the main shaft. That the group saved their lives by fleeing to a place of safety under the ground was considered a miracle by those on the scene. Death had appeared inevitable.

After a tense silence, rescue workers who were trying to communicate with the trapped men through a drill hole, finally heard voices from within the tunnel where the men sought safety.

All were safe, a spokesman shouted.

Accidents More Numerous.

More than forty men were at work in the mine, but about half of them were not in the danger levels. Very little provision against such a flood had been made by the coal operators, the Eagle Picher Smelter Co.

The United Mine Workers of America wages a continual fight against dangerous conditions in mines, but lately has been somewhat on the defensive, a situation which miners believe to be responsible for the recently increased number of fatal and near fatal accidents.

Order Better Service For Long Island R.R.

The transit commission yesterday ordered the Long Island Railroad in Brooklyn to eliminate two dangerous grade crossings and to provide extra morning rush hour service on the Atlantic Avenue division of the railroad.

Tortures Charged

As a penalty for various infractions of rules, prisoners at the state cement plant at Chelsea, Mich., have been hung up in the body-racking manner shown in the photo above for as long as eight to twelve hours a day for more than a month, it is charged in a report handed to a legislative committee investigating prison conditions in the state. Experiences of numerous convicts being "disciplined" have been narrated in affidavit form. Backed by Gov. Fred W. Green, a legislative probe is under way.

Civil Liberties To Probe Causes Of "Goose-Step"

WEST CHESTER, Pa., April 14.—The American Civil Liberties Union of New York took a definite place today in the free speech row caused by the dismissal of two liberal professors from the Normal School here which was inspired by the local American Legion. Dr. R. T. Kerlin and J. A. Kinneman were the two teachers who were accused of making "unpatriotic remarks."

Robert Morse Lovett, associate editor of "The New Republic," and one of the directors of the union arrived here with the view of ascertaining all the vital facts of the case.

Gets Cold Shoulder.

Dr. Lovatt, who is also professor of English at the University of Chicago got his first rebuff here when A. M. Holding, president of the board of trustees of the school told him that he was "too busy" to see him.

Back Liberal Students.

More messages were received by the Liberal Club, before whom the alleged "unpatriotic remarks" were made congratulating them on their stand. One came from Sol Auerbach, president of the forum, of the University of Pennsylvania. Auerbach won the $100 prize in "The Nation" recently for the best article contributed by a college student giving his experience on a job during the summer vacation.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Dr. C. C. Pierce, acting surgeon general of the United States, summed up the jazz age tragedy, casting into the discard the theories which forecast doom of the race because of the wildness of youth. He declined to be frightened by the assertion that every little kiss shortens life by three minutes.

"Living has been accelerated since the World War and everybody is under a higher nervous tension," Pierce said.

Minnesota Passes State Police Bill Under False Name

ST. PAUL, April 14.—(FP)—Long-standing suspicions by organized labor that the advocates of state constabulary systems are not on the square were verified in the Minnesota assembly when a disguised state police bill was spirited through to passage. It was caught in time in the senate.

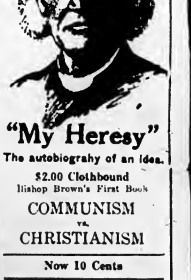
On the surface the bill was a proposal for a state rogue's gallery or bureau of identification, intended principally to spot criminals with past records. Underneath, as some of the labor legislators pointed out, it had the machinery for a fullfledged constabulary system with all the trappings for the organized uniformed attack on trade unions during industrial disputes that were the curse of Colorado until recently and that are the curse of Pennsylvania now.

Form Special Force.

The trick was turned by providing for a department of law enforcement headed by a commissioner at $4000 a year, a deputy and "such skilled and unskilled officers and employes as may be necessary." These officers and employes were to rank above sheriffs and chiefs of police, who would be obliged under the bill to obey their commands on pain of removal or of having their pay held up by the governor. To sew up everything as tightly as possible it was further provided that the act "shall be liberally construed."

Read The Daily Worker Every Day.

Shaw, Enfeebled by Old Age and Fat Royalties, Blesses Babbit Confab



LONDON, April 14.—George Bernard Shaw vigorously commends the Rotary movement in a letter to the Secretary of the Rotary international convention to be held in June at Ostend.

It has been alleged that Shaw is in his dotage. That Shaw's mind has been affected by old age or fat royalties on his plays is the opinion widely entertained here.

Are You Getting FINCO Co-operative BAKERY PRODUCTS
(Union Made)
If not, let us know and we'll instruct our driver to call at your home.
Finnish Co-operative Trading Association, Inc.
Tel. Windsor 9062. 4301 Eighth Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

DID YOU KNOW?
That the Workers Monthly has been replaced by
The COMMUNIST
It surely is quite a change.
Handy Library Size.
Statistical Material.
Valuable for References.
The Communist Criterion.
Increased from 48 pages to
Sixty-four Pages.
Make all money orders, checks payable to The Communist.
All subscriptions, bundle orders, and all other matter to be addressed to
The COMMUNIST
1113 Washington Blvd.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

BISHOP BROWN'S
NEW BOOK

"My Heresy"
The autobiography of an idea.
$2.00 Clothbound
Bishop Brown's First Book
COMMUNISM vs. CHRISTIANISM
Now 10 Cents
DAILY WORKER PUB. CO.
33 First Street
NEW YORK

Pittsburgh Workers Hold Anti-Imperialist Conference on May 24

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 14.—A call for a united front conference against intervention in China, Mexico and Nicaragua to be held on Sunday April 24th at 2:30 P. M., at the Walton Hall, 220 Stanwix Street, Pittsburgh, Pa., was sent out to all labor, fraternal and liberal organizations of the city and vicinity.

The call was signed by several labor organizations including the Joint Board of the Bakers' Union, consisting of Local 12, 41, 204, 242, and the machinists' and tailors' locals. Organizations that did not receive the call are requested to communicate with Brother Weinbart, Room 301, McGeagh Bldg.

Read The Daily Worker Every Day

Put Stool Pigeon On Stand in Trial Of Major Zaniboni

ROME, April 14.—Interest in the trial of Major Tito Zaniboni, charged with planning an attempt on the life of Premier Mussolini, today centered around the evidence of Carlo Quaglia, who is said to have given the police the information which led to the arrest of Zaniboni.

Zaniboni in an earlier statement had said that Quaglia had no direct knowledge of his plot, but could only surmise his plans. He stated that he had used Quaglia as a messenger and an intermediary.

Quaglia today offered new evidence that Zaniboni came to Rome in October 1925 to get support from General Capello, a co-defendant.

CHUNG-KIANG, ONE OF CHINA'S WALLED CITIES

This city, on the Yangtse river, above Nanking, has been the scene of bitter fighting between Northern and Southern forces in China's civil war.

TWO BRANDS OF IMPERIALISTS

American marines passing British troops with pack animals. These two outfits are good friends now, for their monied masters, sitting at home, fear that the Chinese Nationalists will clean out the bunch of them. But if they did conquer China, they would be set at each others' throats immediately.

CURRENT EVENTS By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

(Continued from Page One)

pany to tour nationally known lecturer, talks on psychology, heredity, psycho-analysis, laws of health, success, happiness, Caucasian supremacy ideal; a super race; each race separately for office and travel." G 342 Times.

We presume the lecturer is a healthy physical specimen who is willing to offer himself as a sacrifice on the altar of national duty to the end that a super race may be evolved in our time. Still, super-men have been having a tough time lately, tho there may still be some dollars left uncorralled in the bible belt.

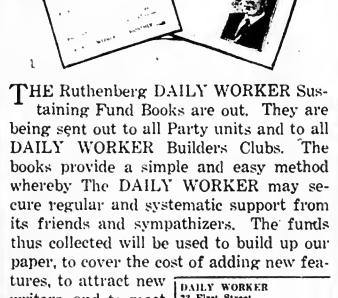
* * *

WILL ROGERS notes that Senator McNary of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill dined at the White House and expressed his desire to draw up a new farm bill with the clauses objected to in the lost bill by the president eliminated. Rogers says that the "dirt" objected to by its opponents contained whatever relief there was in the bill. Without the objectionable clauses the dirt farmers would only have another law to fight against. How long are the farmers going to depend on bourgeois politicians to get relief for them? The farmers of Plentywood, Moutano have shown the way by organizing a Former-Labor Party. Let us have more Farmer-Labor Party activity and less White House dinners.

* * *

OF the thirty-six persons indicted by the federal government for the famous glass-casket swindle, only one suffered imprisonment, and he got only six months. Twenty-six of the defendants were convicted but with the exception of one they were either paroled by the court or pardoned by the president. Those gentlemen swindled the public out of large sums of money, a sufficient sum to enable them to purchase "justice." Had they fallen foul of the law in an effort to organize a labor union, they would not get off so easy.

THE Massachusetts legislature has no power to intervene in the Sacco-Vanzetti case according to the attorney general of that state. The financial interests of Massachusetts fear the popular interest that a discussion of the case in the legislature would arouse. They want to proceed with their conspiracy against those two Italian workers unhindered. Had Sacco and Vanzetti swindled the workers out of their savings their lives would not be in jeopardy. Even if they got caught a few years in prison would be the worst they might expect. Struggling to help their fellow-men and women is a serious crime in a capitalist country.



Close Massachusetts Woods.

BOSTON, April 14.—Because of the forest fire menace, Governor Alvan T. Fuller this afternoon issued a proclamation suspending the opening of the fishing season and closing the Massachusetts woods to all persons except owners, tenants, agents and employes.

Mrs. Carrington Gets $100,000

CHICAGO, April 14.—Mrs. Anna Walsh Carrington today won a divorce decree and property settlement estimated at $100,000 from Col. Edward C. Carrington, her millionaire book-publisher husband.

Ruthenberg Sustaining Fund BOOKS ARE READY

THE Ruthenberg DAILY WORKER Sustaining Fund Books are out. They are being sent out to all Party units and to all DAILY WORKER Builders Clubs. The books provide a simple and easy method whereby The DAILY WORKER may secure regular and systematic support from its friends and sympathizers. The funds thus collected will be used to build up our paper, to cover the cost of adding new features, to attract new writers, and to meet the expenses of the trial we are facing against the attack of various patriotic societies. See your local DAILY WORKER Agent. Be sure you have a book. Join the Ruthenberg Sustaining Fund.

DAILY WORKER
33 First Street,
New York, N. Y.

Inclosed is my contribution of

..... dollars .... cents to the Ruthenberg Sustaining Fund for a stronger and better DAILY WORKER and for the defense of our paper. I will pay the same amount regularly every .....

Name .....

Address .....

City .....

State .....

Attach check or money order.

SCOTT NEARING TELLS HOSTILE COLLEGE STUDENTS A FEW THINGS

By a McGill College Student

The authorities at McGill College in Montreal are dead set against radical ideas. In this they differ from most of their students who wouldn't recognize a radical idea if they came in contact with it!

This was proven a few days ago when Professor Scott Nearing addressed a gathering of about two hundred McGill College students on the subject of "Can Students Assist History?" The officers of the McGill Labor Club who sponsored the meeting had a delicate job on their hands. The authorities had promised the meeting from being held anywhere on the campus, and had refused to allow any notices about the meeting to be put up. At the same time a rumor had spread that some fraternity boys would attend the meeting with the view of breaking it up if the speaker got too radical. Hence the nervousness felt by the officers of the Labor Club.

When Scott Nearing arrived he was informed by the secretary, Philip Mathaus (who was shrdlooged for his radical utterances by some fellow-students last week), that the meeting would be held off the campus, at the university Y.M.C.A. building. He was also advised that instead of advertising the lecture to be on British Imperialism as was previously arranged, the club had announced the subject to be "Can Students Make History?"

Mathaus made it plain, however, that Nearing was to bring the question of British Imperialism into the lecture and was by all means to be as radical as he wished. The advice was hardly necessary. Nearing assured the officers of the Labor Club that once the meeting opened and he was allowed to start, then he would certainly finish his intended lecture. It need hardly be said that no disturbance was made. All the students were quiet and attentive. The boys who had come to sneer, remained—not exactly to cheer—but to be educated.

"What he said wasn't radicalism, but common-sense," remarked one of the fraternity boys. The innocent child (who was shot on armament) didn't know that "radicalism" and "common-sense" are synonyms!

L. F. LOREE, LABOR FOE, PLANS RAIL MERGER; BACKED BY PENN R.R. AND KUHN, LOEB & CO.

By LAURENCE TODD (Federated Press).

WASHINGTON, April 14 (FP).—Lawware & Hudson and notorious as the spirit in a huge new merger which may create a system connecting New York and northern Pennsylvania with Kansas City and gulf ports. According to gossip in banking circles in the capital, Loree is backed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. on the one hand and the Pennsylvania Railroad on the other.

In railroad quarters the opinion is held that this attempt to create a fifth trunk-line system in the east is a step in the development of the amalgamation process which has been led by the New York Central on the one hand and the Pennsylvania on the other. Loree is a natural ally of the Pennsylvania, while the Baltimore & Ohio is bound to be on friendly terms with the New York Central.

To Help Penn. Railroad.

The New York Central finds its traffic system today almost surrounded by the connections of the Pennsylvania, which has likewise outflanked the B. & O. And Loree, if he has, as is now reported, secured control of the Lehigh Valley and the Wabash, to connect up with the Delaware & Hudson in the east and with his Kansas City Southern, his Missouri, Kansas & Texas and the Cotton Belt road in the southwest, will be in a position to help the Pennsylvania to make war on the New York Central and the B. & O. more effectively than before.

Labor men remember Loree as a superintendent of the Pennsylvania lines west, many years ago. He went to the B. & O. as general superintendent but was quickly let out. He was employed by the Rock Island, and was paid three years' salary although he worked only a few months. At last he landed on the Delaware & Hudson. He is chairman of the board, and of the executive committee of the Kansas City Southern, and is chairman of the board of the M. K. & T. He is said to control the Cotton Belt.

To Smash Brotherhoods.

About the year 1892 Loree in a public speech to railroad officials declared in substance that he would welcome an opportunity to smash the railroad brotherhoods, and that the executives should adopt means—with arms if necessary—to cope with their power. In January, 1914, a group of employes in train service on the D. & H. were discharged under conditions which brought on a strike. All four train service brotherhoods, together with the telegraphers, quit work for 174 hours. Everything stopped still. Loree surrendered. His general manager and superintendent were let out, with several minor officials. Loree never again attacked the brotherhoods in the open. But he remained their bitter enemy.

During hearings on the Watson-Parker rail mediation bill in the last congress, he led the minority of rail executives who refused to agree ever to deal with their employes under the terms provided by this legislation.

New Merger.

This new merger scheme brings up the question of the ultimate fate of the Western Maryland, recently purchased by the B. & O. after its long lockout of brotherhood members. The B. & O. and New York Central are relatively friendly in their dealings with rail labor. It is the theory of some of the rail experts that the Western Maryland is to be handed over to the New York Central as part of a vast extension of the N. Y. C. system, and that its agents will presently be disclosed when the mask of mystery is torn from the operations of the Van Swearingen brothers, of Cleveland.

In other words, the Chesapeake & Ohio, the most valuable part of the Van Swearingen scheme, offers a highly profitable direct eastward outlet from Cincinnati to tidewater at Cleveland, and controls entry from the south into Washington, both of which are needed by the N. Y. C.

It is rumored that the N. Y. C. has secured control of the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis electric railroad, which would be made a steam railroad, connecting up Washington with Baltimore. The N. Y. C. gets to Baltimore from New York over the Central of New Jersey and the Reading.

Thus the N. Y. C. would get into Baltimore and Norfolk with coal roads—the Western Maryland north of the Potomac and the C. & O. on the south of the river—and would "surround" the Pennsylvania, whose Norfolk & Western parallels the C. & O. from Cincinnati to Norfolk.

Marines, Having Broken Nicaragua, Will Go to China

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Withdrawal of at least a part of the marines in Nicaragua in the near future appeared likely here today.

Reports from Admiral Latimer indicated that the constitutional army of Dr. Juan Sacasa has been broken up.

The Diaz government, supported by the U. S. marines and warships, "smothered" Sacasa, through preventing supplies from reaching his army.

How long he will stay smothered, however, is another matter, in the opinion of Central American authorities here. Once the marines and warships relax their control of the situation, enough munitions may dribble back into Nicaragua to start the conflagration anew.

There will be no general withdrawal of the U. S. forces for some time, although it is expected that some units will be sent to China.

Levee Breaks in Ark., Volunteers Stem Tide

MEMPHIS, April 14.—Without a moment's warning, the main levee at Tulot, Ark., crumbled today and a fifty foot stream of water began pouring through.

Following the break, every store in Truman and Tulot was closed and the entire male population of the two towns rushed to the scene.

At noon more than 500 volunteers were working frantically in an effort to stem the raging current.

If the break is not repaired in a few hours, it will flood Tulot and Truman with several feet of water. Families in the two towns are moving out to safety.

* * *

to the New York Central as part of a vast extension of the N. Y. C. system, and that its agents will presently be disclosed when the mask of mystery is torn from the operations of the Van Swearingen brothers, of Cleveland.

In other words, the Chesapeake & Ohio, the most valuable part of the Van Swearingen scheme, offers a highly profitable direct eastward outlet from Cincinnati to tidewater at Cleveland, and controls entry from the south into Washington, both of which are needed by the N. Y. C.

It is rumored that the N. Y. C. has secured control of the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis electric railroad, which would be made a steam railroad, connecting up Washington with Baltimore. The N. Y. C. gets to Baltimore from New York over the Central of New Jersey and the Reading.

Thus the N. Y. C. would get into Baltimore and Norfolk with coal roads—the Western Maryland north of the Potomac and the C. & O. on the south of the river—and would "surround" the Pennsylvania, whose Norfolk & Western parallels the C. & O. from Cincinnati to Norfolk.

Prudential Life Caught Giving Great Bribe

(Continued from Page One)

jaks care of the "boys" up in Albany. And so on. You get the point.

Where They Learn.

And also, it is the alma mater of many of our brightest life insurance officials. Robert Lynn Cox, one of the assemblymen who sat on the famous (or is it notorious?) Armstrong Insurance Investigation Committee in 1906, got his start in the insurance business with the Association of Life Insurance Presidents.

It Was a Bribe.

It will be remembered that the "industrial" life insurance companies, i.e., the "Big Four" were slated for a probing, as the tabloids have it. They day before they were to come before the investigating committee the hearings were adjourned.

Mr. Cox, who was then Assemblyman Cox, was shortly afterwards appointed general manager of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents at a salary of $20,000 per year. Mr. Cox is now a second vice president of the Metropolitan Life. As a "mutual" second vice president he receives $38,000 per year.

It is not being specifically charged that Mr. Cox accepted a bribe in taking the Association job. If he was not corrupted that would make interesting news. But now is the belated time to look into this whole matter of fraud, corruption and swindle which taints the "industrial" insurance business.

Another Good Job.

The same mysterious circumstances which surround Cox's appointment also color ex-senator William J. Tully, who immediately after his part as one of the Armstrong Investigators was appointed solicitor for the Metropolitan Life at a salary of $20,000 per year. Tully is still with the old Metropolitan. Recently his pay was raised to $30,000.

The "Big Four" are members of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents. They are assessed a certain membership fee each year.

In 1925 the Metropolitan Life, the largest life insurance company in the world, paid in fees to the Association the sum of -25,000.

Took the Money.

During the same year, the Prudential Life Insurance Company paid in fees to the same organization for the same services over $210,000.

Think of it!

Nearly a quarter of a million dollars belonging to the "mutual" policyholders of Prudential was given to the Association of Life Insurance Presidents.

Why?

What great service did the association perform for the Prudential that it merited a payment of nearly a quarter of a million.

Why was it that the Metropolitan, a larger company than the Prudential was only assessed $25,000 while the Prudential "kicked in" ten times as much.

When Mr. Cox of the Metropolitan was questioned on this blatant fraud he excused the Prudential by saying that their entry was made in error, that no company paid over $25,000.

The entry was made in the official report of the Prudential to the superintendent of insurance. The entry was made under the heading of "disbursements" and this "error" balanced the income. If the Prudential really paid $25,000 as is stated by Cox, then how did the Prudential accounts balance their books for the year. The Prudential fee was entered and published on pages 490 and 491 on the official Insurance Report for the State of New York, issue 1926.

How did this outrageous piece of manipulation get by the Superintendent?

Mr. James A. Beha is the present superintendent, he is a personal appointee of Governor Smith.

Will Smith Investigate.

It is high time that the Governor ordered an investigation into the malicious "Industrial" insurance system.

Forty million worker-insurers are involved in this scandal. Every two weeks they pay millions upon millions of dollars to the "Big Four." It is not a local issue. It is a national issue. Practically every worker in the state of New York is interested and affected.

Most of the heads of the families covered by this type of life insurance are union members. The "Big Four" are ruthless in suppressing all attempts at unionization. Now is an excellent opportunity for Governor Smith to prove his oft-repeated statement that he is the friend of Labor.

Now is the time to drive Cox, Tully et all into the open.

Will the Governor do it?

Earthquake in South America

BUENOS AIRES, April 14.—A severe earthquake has shaken the city of Mendoza, according to reports received here.

Unconfirmed reports state that the Mendoza Cathedral collapsed during the earthquake and that there were several deaths.

No details have been received here.

World End Not in Sight.

PARIS, April 14.—The "Pons-Winnecke" comet, which passes "close" to the earth on June 28, holds no menace for humanity, according to M. Michel Jiacobini, famous astronomer of the Paris observatory.

The nucleus of the comet will be almost six million miles from the earth, Jiacobini said.

Filipino Independence Conference Indignant At Coolidge Hypocrisy

CHICAGO, April 14 (FP).—Great indignation is expressed by the Conference for Filipino Independence at President Coolidge's veto of the bill for a referendum in the islands on the subject of independence.

"The bill, passed unanimously by both houses of the Philippine legislature, by the conference statement issued at Chicago headquarters, "did not provide for independence. It provided merely that the Philippine people be given the right to say whether they wanted independence or not.

"The reasons given by President Coolidge for his veto stamp him as a prize hypocrite of world imperialism. 'Independence,' he says, 'is a very appealing word.' Few people will vote against independence for themselves.'

"It is now plain that if the Filipino people are ever to have their independence it can only be by concerted struggle on the part of the Filipinos themselves and their allies in the United States and elsewhere, not by the grace of our imperialist government."

Entire Families Wiped Out by Texas Tornado

ROCK SPRINGS, Texas, April 14.—Fifty-one identified dead, 150 injured, 33 of whom are in San Antonio hospitals, or on their way there, and property losses exceeding $500,000 was the latest checkup today of the toll of the disastrous tornado that laid this town in ruins Tuesday night.

So far it has been impossible to get accurate check of the number of missing, for in some cases all the members of the family are either dead or so seriously injured no coherent statement can be obtained from them. It is feared, however, that many bodies will be found in the surrounding country, probably miles away, carried there by the terrific force of the tornado.

Searchers today were scouring the countryside in the neighborhood of the town, seeking the missing. Several of the injured were blown a distance of several miles.

THE YOUNG WORKERS COMMUNIST LEAGUE

Offers a special package of pamphlets of interest to all young workers, students and farmers.

ONLY ONE HUNDRED PACKAGES ON SALE

Each package contains the following pamphlets:

Children of the Revolution
By Anna Louise Strong 5c

Challenge of Youth
By Sam Darcy 15c

Lenin, Liebknecht and Luxemburg
By Max Shachtman.... 15c

Millions and Misery 05c

Regular price 85c

SPECIAL OFFER
50 cents a package.

Send your order to
THE YOUNG WORKERS COMMUNIST LEAGUE
1113 W. Washington Blvd.
Chicago, Ill.

A Cash remittance must accompany every order.

SEND YOUR ORDER EARLY — ONLY 100 PACKAGES.

ORDER

A copy for every Party Functionary

For every active Communist

THE PARTY ORGANIZER

First number of a new monthly, party organizational publication.

10 CENTS
$1.00 a year.

THE WORKERS PARTY
1113 W. Washington Blvd.
CHICAGO, ILL.

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
Daily, Except Sunday
33 First Street, New York, N. Y. Phone, Orchard 1000

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail (in New York only):	By mail (outside of New York):
$8.00 per year $4.50 six months $2.50 three months	$6.00 per year $3.50 six months $2.00 three months

Address all mail and make out checks to THE DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, New York, N. Y.

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE .....Editors
BERT MILLER.....Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail at the post-office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Advertising rates on application.

The Chinese Middle Class Must Choose.

The disarming of workers and their organizations by so-called popular or democratic organizations is the first sign of compromise with reaction.

The struggle now going on between the working class of China, allied with the peasantry, and the middle class elements represented by Chiang Kai Shek again raises sharply the question as to the direction of the Chinese liberation movement and the role of these elements.

The Chinese nationalist revolution has two alternatives: It can make peace with the imperialists by suppressing the workers and peasantry and allowing imperialism to continue to exploit the Chinese masses thru its investments in the natural resources and industries of the country.

In return for this a supine Chinese government can secure nominal recognition.

The other alternative is the complete defeat of imperialism and the nationalization of the resources and industries.

The Chinese middle class—merchants, bankers and small industrialists—now have to make a choice. By disarming workers during the height of the struggle against the imperialists and their allies, the northern militarists, they show that they have already travelled far on the road that leads to the betrayal of the liberation movement.

The Chinese middle class must choose—it is either China freed by a revolutionary movement with the working class in alliance with the peasantry as its dominant force, or it is imperialist rule—somewhat disguised perhaps but still imperialist rule founded on robbery of the masses.

If there is a continuation of the attempt to subordinate the interests of the working class of China to that of the middle class and sections of the capitalist class, it will mean that the right wing of the Kuomintang will cease to represent anything but a comparatively small section of the population—a relatively privileged section—and because of its lack of mass support will make alliances with imperialist elements against the masses.

If the right wing is afraid of the masses, it will surrender to imperialism.

The present period appears to be the Kerensky epoch in the Chinese revolution and already the right wing struggle against the working class has given imperialism's agents in the north a breathing spell without which their immediate defeat was a certainty.

A hundred thousand workers on strike in Shanghai is proof of the deep resentment aroused among the masses by the acts of the right wing which are receiving much praise from imperialism's apologists.

It is a signal to the middle class that it must choose an alliance with the masses or an alliance with the native and foreign enemies of the masses.

The Chinese masses will not be swerved from the course they have embarked upon and the direction in which they are travelling—to a workers' and peasants' government in alliance with the lower sections of the middle class. The masses may be betrayed in the present period but the Chinese revolution will continue to march against all its enemies—native and imperialistic.

The Chinese middle class may be willing to forget the Wahsien and Nanking massacres, but the working class is not. The way to avenge it is the method stated in the program of the Chinese Communist Party—nationalization of the land, natural resources and basic industries—not suppression of the working class, the most decisive factor in the Chinese liberation movement.

Handcuffs and Dress Suits—Gold and Green.

The officials and members of the Furriers' Union who are on trial in Mineola are brought into court in handcuffs, are refused bail and in general are treated worse than the most depraved criminals.

Ben Gold and his fellow unionists ARE criminals in the eyes of the capitalists and their agents in the labor movement who are responsible for the prosecution.

These workers fought a strike and won the 40-hour week in a period when A. F. of L. officialdom is busy openly selling the unions to the bosses by means of their efficiency unionism schemes.

To win a strike is bad enough in the eyes of these Civic Federation tools. To win it by militant methods is still worse. It is to be noted that John L. Lewis lost the anthracite strike, that even the offer of district agreements has not tempted the coal barons into settling with the miners in the soft coal fields, that the United Brotherhood of Carpenters, under the leadership of Hutcheson, suffered a disastrous defeat in San Francisco and that at least partially as a result of their own incompetency and lack of the will to fight, union officials have come to the conclusion that strikes cannot be won.

Now they are acting as strikebreakers. After trying to settle the furriers' strike over the head of the New York Joint Board of the union, and failing, they are trying to railroad the leaders of the strike to prison.

Shameless, cruel, doing the dirty work for American capitalism, steeped in stoolpigeonism, the Greens, Wolls, Fraynes, Sigmans and McGradys have reached the lowest possible level.

They must be exposed before the whole American working class and driven from the labor movement.

—If Gold and the rest of the furriers now on trial are sent to prison their sacrifice must be made the slogan for renewed activities of the left wing in the trade unions—the only force that gives promise of cleansing the labor movement of its high-salaried Judases.

Green and Woll appear at Civic Federation banquets in dress suits. Gold appears in court in handcuffs. Here is cause and effect.

But more and more workers are beginning to understand that they must strike at the cause responsible for jailing militant and capable strike leaders—the corruption of the labor officialdom, the complete subservience to American capitalism.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

(The Racial Element in the Chicago Mayoralty Campaign)

By B. SKLAR.

THE mayoralty campaign in the city of Chicago was a bitterly contested campaign, a historic campaign, we may say.

It was not the personality of the rival candidates that made this campaign so outstanding. There is nothing outstanding about Mr. Dever, Mr. Thompson or Mr. Robertson. Nor is there anything unusual in the charges of corruption flung at each other by the rival candidates. As usual each candidate declared himself a true friend of the laboring people, made the usual pre-election promise to be forgotten as they usually are on the day following the election.

The "leaders" of labor too acted in the usual manner in the Chicago campaign. Proclaiming themselves true to the bequest of Mr. Gompers "reward your friends and punish your enemies" they were hopelessly divided on the question as to who was the friend and who the enemy.

WHAT is it then that singles out the present campaign from the previous ones?

It is the racial issue which was brought into this campaign with a vehemence unknown heretofore in the politics of Chicago. It was as the the South with all of its race hatred and race prejudice invaded our great city. The "white supremacy" was declared to be in danger. Police brutally nailed the section of the city inhabited by the Negro citizens making wholesale arrests in order to create the impression of their criminal and dangerous character.

Try To Arouse Race Hatred.

NO other campaign witnessed such vicious methods of arousing race hatred and race prejudice as were applied in the present one. A sign was placed in one of the largest public parks reading:

"Do you wish the Negro to rule Chicago?"

Thousands of dodgers were scattered around the city spreading the message of race-prejudice and race-hatred.

"Do you want to work for Negro wages?" read one of them. It announced Mr. Thompson because during his administration the Negro population of Chicago increased by 100,000, the contention being that this influx resulted in lowering the wages of the white workers and deprived them of their jobs.

Fake "Labor" Politics.

THE labor bureaucracy had also joined this Negro baiting campaign. Mr. Victor A. Olander, the secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor, affixed his signature to an appeal by the "Dever Trade-Union Committee", reading in part:

"During the year 1921 of the Thompson administration more than 70,000 non-union Negroes were imported, most of them for the purpose of breaking the strike of the Stockyards workers in 1921.

"Mayor Dever is opposed to the importation of undesirable labor for the purpose of breaking down the working conditions and wages of Chicago labor."

Mr. John Fitzpatrick, the president of the Chicago Federation of Labor also joined in the chauvinistic support of Mr. Dever, the campaign of the "white supremacy."

As a climax of the vicious campaign came the exposure of a plot to draw conspicuously thousands of Negro voters into the downtown section of the city for the purpose of arousing thru this demonstration the wrath of the whites. Fake invitations bearing the signature of Wm. Hale Thompson were mailed out to 10,000 Negro voters, requesting the recipients to come to the Hotel Sherman and visit with Thompson. Special badges were enclosed in the envelopes to lend weight to the invitation and allay suspicion. The plot fell thru but its evil intent persists.

Party Lines Smashed.

IN the bitter struggle which we attempted to depict the party lines were smashed. The "Chicago Tribune", the republican mouthpiece bitterly attacked Thompson and gave its support to Dever. Many prominent republicans switched their support to Dever. Among them is included Julius Rosenwald, the supposed friend and benefactor of the race, a member of the National Association for the Advancement of the Colored People. (Will the N. A. A. C. P. still tolerate him in its ranks?)

Deep Industrial Changes.

INDEED the Negro vote was a decisive influence in the recent elections. Indeed the very bitterness of the attack launched against the colored citizens of our city proves the arrival of a new powerful factor into the political life of the country. The mayoralty campaign in Chicago reflects the deep going changes produced by the world war. Hundreds of thousands of Negroes migrated to the great industrial centers of the north. Now thousands more are coming and they are here to stay. The significance of this fact is tremendous.

It means as much for the movement for the liberation of the race as the birth of the working class in China meant for the nationalist movement there. The Negro proletariat is born. The former farmers and farm hands of the south are drawn into the huge factories, mills and mines. They are being welded together by the conscience of their common interest and by the feeling of power of their concentrated gigantic numbers. They are being permeated with a rebellious spirit of discontent at the humiliation, inequality, persecution and exploitation which they suffer as a race.

Proletariat Will Lead.

THIS process is not being confined to the north alone. It embraces the south as well. The south is becoming industrialized. The Negro proletariat is being born in the south. It was the new born working class of China that furnished the backbone, the indominitable spirit, the driving power, the unconquerable strength, the real leadership to the nationalist movement of China.

It is the working class, that will play a similar historic role in the liberative movement of this oppressed race in our country.

Capitalism Makes Concessions.

THE white ruling class already scented the advance of this force. The recent decisions of the supreme court of the United States declaring unconstitutional the disfranchisement of the Negro in the state of Texas, declaring unconstitutional the segregation in the schools of Louisiana are indications that American capitalism fears the awakening Negro and is willing to make concessions in order to avoid a rebellion on the part of the oppressed black citizens in the south.

The Chicago mayoralty elections reflect the inevitable trend of events. It is true that in the present elections the splendid rebellious spirit of the Negro masses found its expression in the support of Thompson who is not deserving of it. There was no other spokesman of the interests of the colored citizens so they flocked to the standard of "Big Bill" who tomorrow in all probability will betray them.

Will Find Own Champions.

AS the racial movement will grow and mature it will find its own spokesmen, men and women of vision, power, and determination, by the side of whom "Big Bill" will cut a small and pitiful figure.

To help crystallize such a leadership is the duty and the pressing problem of the Workers (Communist) Party of America. The Communist movement alone will be capable of accomplishing this task as it is accomplishing it in China.

Such is our view upon the elections in Chicago. To interpret them merely as a contest between the republicans and democratic parties, as merely a fight of rival groups of capitalist interests, to overlook the importance of the part played by the racial element, is in our opinion, to be blind to a development that is destined to play a decisive role in the great struggle for freedom of the working classes of America.

"America and the Next War," Topic For Sunday Night

Jay Lovestone, Acting General Secretary of the Workers Party has been secured for the Forum Lecture to be delivered at the Workers School Forum, 108 East 14th Street, this Sunday night (April 17) at 8 P. M. His topic is "America and the Next War."

The lecture consists of a report on the analysis of the world situation made by the last Plenum of the Executive Committee of the Communist International to which Lovestone was a delegate from the Workers' (Communist) Party of America. The findings of the Plenum will be supplemented by an analysis of recent developments such as the developments in China, Nicaragua, Mexico, etc. This feature lecture is the first public report made in the United States on the last Plenum of the Executive Committee of the Communist International and therefore should be of special interest.

On the following Sunday night, April 24, Joe Freeman, well known proletarian lecturer who returns from Russia this week, after a stay of over 6 months in that country, will speak on "Russia in 1927."

Minneapolis D. E. C. Plans Farmer-Labor, Daily Worker Drives

The full Distgict Executive Committee of Minneapolis has just concluded one of its most important meetings. The major tasks confronting the party were given full consideration. The farmer-labor party campaign, anti-war campaign, trade union work, DAILY WORKER, were among the principle questions discussed.

The Ruthenberg drive was given thoro consideration by the entire committee and plans were laid for mobilizing all party members in the campaign.

(1) All units of the district are arranging to pledge themselves to contribute to the Ruthenberg DAILY WORKER Sustaining Fund.

(2) Every party member is preparing to secure his shopmates to fill out the new Ruthenberg application cards.

(3) These applicants will then be examined as to their qualifications for membership in the party.

(4) A special Ruthenberg Drive Committee is being set up in every city of the district.

(5) Wherever possible the various units of the party in the district will also select special Ruthenberg Drive Committees.

Montana Workers Hail The Daily Worker as Leader of Labor Fight

Bert Miller,
Business Mgr.,
The DAILY WORKER,
New York, N. Y.
Dear Comrade:

The readers of The DAILY WORKER in this district send you sincere greetings as the only national labor daily. The only American paper which is fighting for the world unity of labor, we feel that The DAILY WORKER is the most appropriate medium for the expression of our sentiments.

Great Falls Labor Press,
Willis L. Wright, Pres.

Let's Fight On! Join The Workers Party!

In the loss of Comrade Ruthenberg the Workers (Communist) Party has lost its foremost leader and the American working class its staunchest fighter. This loss can only be overcome by many militant workers joining the Party that he built. Fill out the application below and mail it. Become a member of the Workers (Communist) Party and carry forward the work of Comrade Ruthenberg.

I want to become a member of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Name .....
Address .....
Occupation .....
Union Affiliation .....

Mail this application to the Workers Party, 108 East 14th Street, New York City, or if in other city to Workers Party, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Distribute the Ruthenberg pamphlet, "The Workers (Communist) Party. What it Stands For and Why Workers Should Join." This Ruthenberg pamphlet will be the basic pamphlet thruout the Ruthenberg Drive.

Every Party Nucleus must collect 60 cents from every member and will receive 20 pamphlets for every member to sell or distribute.

Nuclei in the New York District will get their pamphlets from the District Office—108 East 14th St.

Nuclei outside of the New York District write to Daily Worker Publishing Co., 33 East First Street, New York City, or to the National Office, Workers Party, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Wilkes Barre Rallies To Support of Worker

The comrades of Wilkes Barre, Pa., called a meeting Monday to take up the question of support of The DAILY WORKER and raised the sum of $45 when they immediately sent in. They declared that other comrades have pledged additional money so that a like amount will be forthcoming in a very short time.

They further state that they will do all in their power to raise funds from sympathetic workers whose guide in the struggles in the anthracite field is The DAILY WORKER.

Demonstrate for Sacco and Vanzetti.

Comrades Sacco and Vanzetti are facing the death sentence.

Children of workers are called out to demonstrate together with the older workers on Saturday at 1 P. M. at Union Square. Show the bosses of this country that you are with these two innocent workers who have been the victims of the capitalists. Meet at Pioneer Headquarters, Saturday, 11:30 A. M.!

Read The Daily Worker Every Day.

Three Cheers for Four Years of Pioneer Work

The Bronx section Young Pioneers are celebrating their fourth anniversary with a concert and entertainment on Saturday evening April 16th at 8 p. m. at the Workers Hall, 1347 Boston Road.

Everyone should come down and enjoy a good time.

Admission is only 25 cents and children 10 cents.

BUY THE DAILY WORKER AT THE NEWSSTANDS

Ruthenberg Memorial Meeting Friday.

A Ruthenberg memorial meeting will be held Friday evening at 1373 33d Street, Brooklyn, under the auspices of Section 7, Workers (Communist) Party. Bertram D. Wolfe and Ben Lifshitz will speak.

Spring Festival Dance Next Saturday.

A spring festival dance will be held Saturday evening, April 23 at the Astoria Mansion, 62 East Fourth St. It has been arranged by the downtown section of the Young Workers League.

DRAMA

EVA LE GALLIENNE

Principal player and guiding genius of the Civic Repertory Players who are in the final three weeks at the 14th Street Theatre.

POETIC DRAMA

"Big Lake" Is Long on Poetry, Short on Drama.

Reviewed By HARBOR ALLEN

Barrett Clark, the critic, finds in Lynn Riggs the coming poet of the American theatre. Judging by Riggs' first play, "Big Lake," at the American Laboratory Theatre, he has a long way to go.

"Big Lake" is a pseudo-primitive play about Oklahomans. It has one dramatic scene, close to standard melodrama. A murder, a bad woman with good heart, a moonshiner trying to shake off his bloody trail, a crazy boy drowned in the lake, sheriffs, gun play. The rest is "poetry." Thin poetry, too: long, monotonous passages that sound like a primer: "I like the lake. Ah, Big Lake. It's so nice. It sparkles in the sun. It is like a cup of gold. Don't you like the lake? Why don't you like the lake?" These may not be the exact words: it is the effect.

"Big Lake" would have made a passable one-act play. The rest is padding. As for the poetry, it steps out like prize gimeracks in a cake. Very immature acting only adds to the sense of thinness.

Broadway Briefs

Produced under the direction of Jasper Brecher of the Civic Repertory Theatre and comprised of an all Negro cast, "Goat Alley," by Ernest Howard Culbertson, a tragedy of Negro life in the slums of Washington is scheduled to open next Wednesday night at the Princess Theatre. The play was seen here some seasons back and created much interest.

"When Ships Come In" a drama by George Middleton has been accepted for production by George C. Tyler with Pauline Lord as the star. Another play planned with Miss Lord in view is a revival of Henry Arthur Jones' famous drama, "Mrs. Dane's Defence."

Laurence Schwab and Frank Mandel announce that they will produce "Show Boat," the new Hammerstein-Kern adaptation of Edna Ferber's novel.

"New York Exchange," will be the attraction at the Bronx Opera House beginning Monday.

Music for the Masses

As a tribute to Franz X. Arens, who founded the People's Symphony Concerts a quarter of a century ago, three compositions by Arens written expressly for this occasion, will be a feature of the 25th Anniversary concert this evening at Washington Irving High School. The compositions, are titled: "When into Thine Eyes I Gaze," from a poem by Heinrich Heine, "Will O' the Wisp of the Dismal Swamp," from a poem by Thomas More, and "Deathsong," words from an Icelandic folksong. The program will be rendered by the Chamber Symphony Orchestra of New York, Max Jacobs, Conductor, assisted by Henry Claney, tenor. Severo Mallet-Prevost, President of the Society will deliver an address.

The People's Symphony Concerts were inaugurated in 1900 through the cooperation of the People's Institute, with a series of orchestral concerts at Cooper Union. The concerts were conducted by Franz X. Arens, with the object of bringing music to students and workers at minimum prices, the admission were made as low as ten cents. The chamber music concerts which began in 1903 have been continued to the present time, at the cost price of six concerts for one dollar. Last year, in addition to the chamber music concerts, a series of artists' recitals were given, also at the rate of six for a dollar. Among the artists appearing this past season were Szigeti, Munz, D'Alvarez, Van Vliet, Tarasova, and Sokolsky-Fried. Arens, who retired from active service in the Society in 1917, is now in Los Angeles.

AMUSEMENTS

Theatre Guild Acting Company in
THE SECOND MAN
Week Apr. 18—Pygmalion
GUILD 52d, E. of B'way. Evs. 8:45
Mats. Thurs. and Sat. 2:15

RIGHT YOU ARE
IF YOU THINK SO, SIR!
Week Apr. 18—Mr. Pim Passes By
GARRICK 35 St. W. of B'way. Evs. 8:30
Mats. Thurs. and Sat.

THE SILVER CORD
Week Apr. 18—Ned McCobb's Daughter
John Golden 58th, E. of B'way. Circle 8080
Mats. Thurs. & Sat. 2:30

TIMES SQ. 42d, W. of B'way. Evs. 8:30. Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2:30
CRIME
with James Rennie & Chester Morris

The LADDER
Now in its 6th MONTH
WALDORF, 49th St., East of B'way. Mats. WED. and SAT.

MARTIN BECK THEATRE, 45 St. W. of 8th Ave. Evs. 8:30. Mats. Wed. and Sat.
JED HARRIS Presents
'SPREAD EAGLE'

EARL CARROLL Vanities
Earl Carroll Thea., 7th Ave. & 50th St. Mats. Thurs. & Sat. 2:30

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN
TWICE DAILY, 2 P.M & 8 P.M.
RINGLING BROS. and BARNUM & BAILEY CIRCUS
Incl. among 10,000 Marvels PAWAIN
SACRED WHITE ELEPHANT
TICKETS at GARDEN BOX OFFICE 5th Ave. and 49th St., and Gimbel Bros.

Neighborhood Playhouse
Gramercy 7240
Drydock 7240
Evs. 8:30 Tel. Worth 7161
EVA LE GALLIENNE
Tonight "CHRISTOPHER"
Tomorrow Mat., "TWELFTH NIGHT"
Tomorrow Evening, "CRADLE SONG"

Civic Repertory Co. 14 St. E. of 6 Av. Tel. Watkins 7161
EVA LE GALLIENNE
Tonight "CHRISTOPHER"
Tomorrow Mat., "TWELFTH NIGHT"
Tomorrow Evening, "CRADLE SONG"

WALLACK'S 42nd Street, Bway
Mats. Tues., Wed., Thurs. and Sat.
What Anne Brought Home
A New Comedy Drama

HAMPDEN'S THEATRE, 70 St. & Central Park West
Evs. 8:45. Matinees Wed. and Sat. 2:15
WALTER HAMPDEN
in CAPONSACCHI

BROADWAY
BROADWAY at 53rd St. Evs. 8:30
PRICES $1.50 TO $3.00

Earthquake in Valparaiso.

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 14.—Heavy earthquake shocks were felt early today in Santiago and Valparaiso. The tremors lasted a minute or more.

Hands Off China and Ruthenberg Campaigns Are Picking Up Speed

Thruout the districts, the Party members are tying up the HANDS OFF CHINA campaign, the campaign against the imperialist war, with the Ruthenberg Enrollment.

At the best attended membership meeting that the city of Detroit has seen for a long time, over 250 Party members gathered to listen to Comrade Lovestone speak on the Ruthenberg Enrollment. In the course of his talk, Comrade Lovestone indicated that the Ruthenberg Enrollment is the very synthesis, crystallization, the composite campaign of all the drives being conducted by the Party.

Thruout the Philadelphia and Boston districts, general membership meetings are being held to mobilize the Party in the HANDS OFF CHINA and Ruthenberg drives. The keynote of the last monthly bulletin of the Boston district is to be found in the Ruthenberg Enrollment and the HANDS OFF CHINA CAMPAIGN.

One of the main organizational tasks to be achieved in the Ruthenberg Enrollment for the Party is the increase of the regularity of dues payments by Party members. These efforts have already netted some substantial results.

Not all the dues reports are at hand yet. Still it is obvious that tho the drive has not yet gained full momentum in the month of March, still the dues payments will be considerably higher this month than in any of the previous months since the last convention.

The advance in dues payments for the month of March is not limited to one district, but is general thruout the Party.

Arrests Made For Aiding Sacco and Vanzetti Protest

For walking with signs announcing the Sacco-Vanzetti mass meeting in Union Square next Saturday afternoon, Annie Ssanovsky and Lizzie Brilliant have been arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct.

When they were arraigned in Jefferson Market Court, they weer given a suspended sentence and told by the judge not to go to such crowded sections as 7th Avenue and 36th Street where the arrest occurred. Doubtless they were taken into custody—altho they were acting entirely within the law—because they appeared in the fur market where virtual martial law has been established.

The girls were carrying sandwich signs on one side of which it said, "Protest Demonstration, Saturday, April 16, 1 p. m., at Union Square." On the reverse side were the words "Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die"; "Sacco and Vahzetti we are with you to the end."

Greatest City Demonstration.

Thousands of leaflets in English, Jewish, Italian, Spanish ore being distributed by workers in the shops and factories, and near their places of work. This is to be the greatest outdoor labor demonstration ever held in this city. There will be four speakers platforms in Union Square, and prominent men and women from the ranks of labor, and from liberal and radical organizations will voice their protest against the sentencing of Sacco and Vanzetti, and will raise the demand for a new trial.

Saturday's mass meeting is being arranged by the Sacco-Vanzetti Emergency Committee, representing over 500,000 organized workers.

"There is not the slightest doubt of the innocence of Sacco and Vanzetti," says John Van Vaerenewyck, president, the Massachusetts Federation of Labor. "Organized labor demands that their lives be saved."

The Bay State trade union leader knows the Sacco-Vanzetti case from beginning to end. His interest began in 1922 when he was making an investigation of the case for the federation. He visited Lola Andrews, star witness for District Attorney Katzmann, and heard her break down and sob and confess that she had lied when she identified Sacco as one of the automobile bandits in front of the South Braintree shoe factory.

Postal Official Gets Fat Mail Contract

WASHINGTON, (FP)—April 14.—Paul Henderson, who was appointed second assistant postmaster general at the request of his father-in-law, Chairman Madden of the House appropriations committee, spent $3,500,000 of federal money in establishing the air mail routes across the continent.

Then he resigned to become general manager of the General Air Transport Co., which has just been awarded the government contract for private handling of air mail on these government airways at $1.21 a pound. There was a bidder at $1.23, but Postmaster-General New ruled Henderson's "more satisfactory."

Washington Governor Paroles Many, But Not The Centralia Victims

OLYMPIA, Wash., April 14. (FP).—Governor Hartley has paroled 43 convicts from the state penitentiary at Walla Walla. None of the Centralia victims are on the list.

Arizona Governor To Look Into the Beatings In State

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 14.—Governor W. P. Hunt of Arizona has wired the American Civil Liberties Union, with headquarters in New York City, that he will investigate reported false arrests, beatings, general brutality, and suppression of all civil liberties practiced by the police of Miami, Arizona, against Mexicans working in the copper mines.

Governor Hunt's wire is in reply to a protest from Forrest Bailey, director of the Union, urging an investigation and orders compelling Miami authorities to check attacks on peaceful Mexicans.

Mr. Bailey's telegram follows:

Bailey's Telegram.

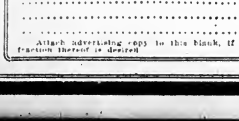
"We are informed of the extraordinary violations of civil rights by the police at Miami. These violations include illegal entry and search, false arrest, brutality and general oppressive tactics against Mexicans employed by copper companies. We respectfully urge an executive investigation and such checking of the local authorities as the facts warrant."

Police in Miami have forbidden Mexican miners to be out on the streets after 11:30 P. M., according to Civil Liberties Union correspondents. Those found on the streets are arrested, brutally blackjacked, and fined $15 for "disorderly conduct," it is alleged. Of 100 men arrested, 90 are reported to have been blackjacked.

Shoot At Boy.

The report adds: "An officer fired three shots at a 10 year old Mexican boy. Fortunately, he missed. The mother was insulted when she protested to the mayor. Officers invaded a Mexican home when they heard a girl singing and playing guitar at 10 o'clock at night. They pushed the girl aside and demanded where the "drunkards" were. The father, who protested, was beaten up, taken to court, and fined $15. Other homes were raided without warrant the same night. Women and children were roughly handled, and the men carted off to a jail for the usual $15 fine. One officer declared he had the law for Mexicans at the point of his gun.'

No Security For Mexicans.



"There is no security for Mexicans in Miami. They are threatened with deportation, bullied; their homes are broken into by police. No matter how peaceful he may be, a Mexican here expects sooner or later to feel the blackjack on his head. Innocent men are constantly being taken from their beds and hauled off to jail."

On May Day, THE DAILY WORKER will print May Day greetings of individuals, trade unions, fraternal organizations and sports clubs, in a

SPECIAL MAY DAY EDITION

Individual names will be printed at the rate of $1.00 per name. Organizations will be allowed the special rate of $1.00 per inch and $100.00 per page.

THE DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, NEW YORK.

Enclosed $..... for the following names to be printed in the special MAY DAY EDITION.

.....

.....

.....

Attach interesting copy to this blank, if a page or fraction thereof is desired.

Organized Labor—Trade Union Activities

News and Comment
Labor Education
Labor and Government
Trade Union Politics

Policies and Programs
The Trade Union Press
Strikes—Injunctions
Labor and Imperialism

Weisbord Greeted As Passaic Labor Standard Bearer

(Special To The DAILY WORKER)

PASSAIC, N. J., April 14.—The announcement that Albert Weisbord would be a candidate for City commissioner, running with the endorsement of the Passaic Branch of the Workers (Communist) Party, was greeted with one of the most remarkable demonstrations in the history of this city, two large meetings held here last night.

Speaking at meetings that jammed Ukrainian Hall, President St., and Hungarian Workers' Home, Dayton Ave., to the doors, more than 3,500 workers, most of them textile workers cheered lustily when Weisbord appeared on the scene. Many more were turned away.

Remove The Chairs.

When Weisbord reached Ukrainian Hall, the workers who were standing, the chairs having been removed so more workers could be accommodated, as one man gave him an ovation that rivaled those of the strike period. When he reached the platform he was presented with a bouquet of flowers and then the cheers and singing of strike songs commenced once again.

Crowd On Streets.

Many workers who were unable to gain admission, crowded the sidewalks hoping to hear an occasional word or two. A similar demonstration took place when Weisbord reached the Hungarian Home.

Three successful meetings took place in spite of the sabotage of the local hallkeepers and press. The largest halls being refused while the newspapers announced that the meeting would take place in a different hall. But in spite of all, the workers responded in a manner that showed their confidence in Weisbord and the program he stands for.

Exile Ends.

Weisbord said that "now that the strike is over my exile is finished and I come back and help you pick up the fight were we left off. Under the leadership of the American Federation of Labor you have been forced to retreat but today is the time to end retreating.

"The election offers us this opportunity. The bosses do not forget. Their agents are imposing long sentences on the workers active in the strike. In this campaign we will have an opportunity to let the bosses know that we never will forget the strike."

He also called upon the workers to participate in the political campaign as they did on the picket line, rallying all the workers who are voters.

It was announced that the five candidates, a full slate, will run.

Speaks As Communist.

At the meetings Weisbord announced that he is a Communist and that he is running with the indorsement of that party for a member of the city commission.

In his speeches Weisbord exposed Commissioner of Public Safety Abram Pyzdek, Mayor McGinn and the rest of the local capitalist politicians.

"Vote As You Strike."

Harry M. Wicks, of the editorial staff of The DAILY WORKER, told the workers to "vote as you strike."

Emil Gardos, sub-district organizer of the Workers (Communist) Party, presided at the Ukrainian Hall meeting, while A. Paterini, active textile leader, was chairman at the Hungarian Hall meeting.

Ex-Service Men, Hired For Movie, Quit When Asked to Dig Trench

SEATTLE, April 14. (FP). Several hundred ex-service men and University of Washington students who were hired as extras in the filming of a war movie at Camp Lewis left Richard Barthelmess as star have quit their jobs en masse.

They claim that they were promised $2 per day with board and lodging simply for taking part in the play. They found that they were expected to dig trenches and other varieties of pick and shovel work with no extra compensation. After ten days of this their indignation had reached the boiling point and they walked out. Some of the superpatriots among them are especially incensed because they were escorted off the military reservation by the army police. They are talking about hiring a lawyer to push their case.

Troops Leave For Morocco.

MADRID, April 14.—In order to prevent rebellious Moroccans from taking advantage of conditions created by the heavy storms along the Mediterranean coast, the Spanish government has prepared for the immediate dispatch of new expeditionary forces to Morocco.

U. S. FINDS RAILROAD LABOR FORTY PERCENT MORE EFFECTIVE THAN IN 1915; FIRE MEN

By LELAND OLDS, Federated Press.)

According to W. H. Dunlap in the monthly review of the U. S. department of labor, the productive output of railroad labor in the United States has increased 40 per cent since 1918 and about 150 per cent since 1890. The upward trend has been fairly steady but larger in the latter part of the period. Between 1890 and 1913 the increase was only 2 per cent a year as against 5.1 per cent a year since July, 1912. In the entire period railroad traffic increased 866.5 per cent, about 10 per cent a year, while man-hours increased only 86.5 per cent, or 2.4 per cent a year.

Dunlap's figures cover all employes of class 1 railroads in the United States except switching and terminal companies. From 1915 the number of man-hours worked is available.

Figures showing for certain years since 1890 the number of employes of class 1 railroads, except switching and terminal companies, and the thousands of traffic units carried are:

Railroad labor productivity	Number of Employes	Traffic units* (Thousands)
1890	740,801	111,781,000
1892	821,418	128,330,000
1894	779,608	123,302,000
1896	826,620	134,475,000
1898	874,558	154,218,000
1900	1,017,651	192,711,000
1902	1,189,216	216,359,000
1904	1,206,121	140,291,000
1906	1,521,355	291,379,000
1908	1,496,575	306,631,000
1910	1,699,420	362,031,000
1912	1,642,119	356,930,000
1914	1,640,020	388,626,000
1916	1,647,087	466,202,000
1918	1,841,576	533,410,000
1920	2,022,832	550,853,000
1921	1,659,517	418,779,000
1922	1,626,864	418,695,000
1923	1,857,671	526,598,000
1924	1,781,362	496,688,000
1925	1,747,207	523,073,000

The increased productivity of railroad labor since 1920 is reflected in the drop of about 275,000 or 13½ per cent in the number of workers employed. During the depression years following 1920 about 400,000 railroad employes lost their jobs. Less than half got them back again. This effect of increased efficiency has not hit the train and engine crews so hard as the shopmen and other workers. The number of train and engine servicemen in 1925 was about 20,000 below the 1920 figure.

*The term traffic unit means equated ton-miles, that is, passenger and freight traffic added together by considering 1 passenger mile equal to 3 ton-miles.

ENORMOUS INCREASE IN RAILROAD PROFITS LAID TO SHARP CUTS OF THOUSANDS OF WAGE WORKERS

By LELAND OLDS, Federated Press.

That the enormous increase in railroad profits since 1920 has been achieved at the expense of wages is suggested by interstate commerce commission wage statistics for 1926. According to the commission the total amount paid to railroad workers in 1926 fell $752,000,000 short of the 1926 figures while the total receipts of the carriers for 1926 were $276,428,569 above 1920.

Railroad wages for 1926 totaled $3,290,084,936 compared with $3,742,486,936 in 1920. The gain of about $90,000,000 over 1925 means that the employes received little more than a third of the gain of $241,963,000 in the railroad receipts from consumers.

The reduction in the railroad wage bill compared with 1920 has been accomplished in part by reduction in the average wages paid and in part by reduction in number of workers employed.

The total employes of class 1 carriers, excluding switching and terminal companies, have been reduced from 2,022,832 in 1920 to 1,782,404 in 1926. The average wage including salaried executives has been reduced from $1,820 in 1920 to $1,657 in 1926.

The average wage of workers employed by the railroads on an hourly basis in 1926 was $1,585. This compares with $1,569 in 1925, $1,544 in 1924, $1,550 in 1923 and $1,558 in 1922. The advance in the general level of railroads since 1922 has apparently been very slight.

The changes in the average wages of 20 typical classes of employes over the 2 years 1924 to 1926 are shown in the table:

Railroad Wages	1924	1926
Clerks (class B)	$1,556	$1,561
Freight handlers	1,260	1,267
Freight truckers	1,101	1,110
Section labor	876	881
Car repairmen (freight)	1,668	1,710
Electrical workers	1,622	1,687
Machinists	1,575	1,598
Helpers	960	974
Common shop labor	1,160	974
Dispatchers	3,141	3,233
Telegraphers and towermen	1,752	1,803
Station agt. telegraphers	1,710	1,753
Conductors, passenger	2,501	2,575
Conductors, freight	2,712	2,785
Engineers, passenger	3,168	3,211
Engineers, freight	3,012	3,201
Brakemen, passenger	1,786	2,015
Brakemen, freight	2,616	2,690
Firemen, passenger	2,316	2,369
Firemen, freight	2,088	2,270

The large number of rail workers whose annual earnings fall short of the lowest standards ever proposed for the support of a family is, as usual, an outstanding feature of this yearly summary. The report shows 118,707 employes who averaged less than $1,000 for a full year's work. Nearly a quarter of all the wage earners employed by the railroads earn less than $1,000 when the national industrial conference board has fixed $1,804 as the amount necessary to enable an industrial worker's family of 5 to maintain a fair standard of living. More than 80% of these low paid workers are unlebodied men with every right to be heads of families.

There are 534,904 railroad workers whose average annual pay falls below $1,200. This group includes nearly a third of all wage earners employed by the carriers. The wages of this large group of unskilled workers must be raised above the subsistence level before more skilled railroad employes can hope for satisfactory living standards.

Sugar Exchange Will Feast Machado, Cuban Puppet on Visit Here

WASHINGTON, April 14.—"President" Machado, faithful puppet of the Morgan interests and the sugar trust, will arrive in the United States on April 20th, the embassy announced yesterday.

Machado on his arrival in New York will be entertained by the New York Chamber of Commerce, the Sugar Exchange and Mayor Walker.

Wages Pat as Prices Soar in Roumania

BUCHARREST, April 14.—(FP) In spite of "strong government" marked by persecution of minorities and collection of heavy taxes, the cost of living in Rumania has risen nearly 90 per cent in the past year. Wages have not advanced to any material degree. Workers must live at a lower level since their earnings now buy less food than in 1924.

Demonstration By Plumbers' Helpers For Unionization

More than 1,000 plumbars' helpers, mambers of the American Association of Plumbers' Helpers held a mass demonstration outside of Lenruth Hall, Brooklyn, where Plumbers' Union, Local One was holding a strike meeting.

The demonstration was arranged for the purpose of putting the plumbers who have been on strike since April 1, on record as to their attitude towards the helpers, who joined them on strike on that date.

Have Banners.

Banners were displayed by the demonstrators with slogans such as: "Brother Plumbers, We Are With You." "Plumbers, Your Helpers Get $4 a Day. In Other Trades The Helpers Get $9 a Day." "Does The U. A. Want the Helpers To Become Scabs?" "We Don't Want To Be Scabs. We Want To Be Union Men." "Plumbers Are You Going To Work With Scab Helpers?"

Committee of Three.

A committee of three, representing the helpers went inside Lenruth Hall for a conference with the union officials.

After the demonstration a meeting of the helpers was held at the Church Of All Nations, 9 Second Ave.

At Tuesday nights' meeting of the helpers held at Arc Hall, Brooklyn, a delegation of seven plumbers representing the Union Plumbers Social Club of Queens County were present and said that they would do everything within their power to have the helpers become a party of the plumbers union. They are members of Local 418, Plumbers Union, Queens county.

A representative of the helpers appeared at the meeting of Local 418, held last night at 252 Jefferson Ave. Queens.

Coast Building Trades Meeting Adopts Some Progressive Motions

LOS ANGELES, Calif., April 14.—The State Building Trades Convention, which opened last week in Santa Barbara had before it many important measures. The chief center of interest, of course, was the report of the long-drawn-out and bitterly-fought strike of the San Francisco carpenters against the powerful Industrial Association, which ended in a partial defeat for the carpenters.

"Progressive" Governor

An interesting development, in this connection, is that the so-called "progressive" legislature of Governor Young's administration, whose recent election was hailed as a victory for labor, defeated a bill introduced by Senator Inman which would prohibit the "permit" system, a weapon in the hands of the Industrial Association against the Carpenters Union. This bill was killed three times in committee, and when it was finally brought before the senate, debate was limited under cloture, or gag rule, and the bill was defeated by a vote of 29 to 17.

Adopt Amalgamation Motion.

Among the important resolutions adopted at the building trades convention, were several which tended in the direction of amalgamation, such as: Terminating all building trade agreements at the same time; United action against the open shop American plan. A resolution favoring a referendum for the repeal of the Criminal Syndicalism Law was adopted; this on the heels of the news that a bill introduced into the legislature to take the teeth out of the law was also killed in the "progressive" state senate. Another progressive resolution was the one declaring for a UNITED LABOR TICKET.

Recognize Youth.

One of the few recognitions of the youth issue in the unions was given in the opening speech of President Frank McDonald, when he declared: "In this connection your president earnestly calls your attention also to the fact that in the most successful and progressive trade unions of this State every possible means calculated to develop, advance, and protect apprentices have been adopted. Our duty to the American youth . . . makes it incumbent upon us to extend to them the fullest opportunity and advantage. . . ."

Read The Daily Worker Every Day.

Violin and Viola Lessons
Given by expert teacher.
For reasonable rates, write to
JOHN WEINROTH
4186 LARCHWOOD AVENUE.
Phone Granite 7262, Philadelphia, Pa.

PHILLIP FIDLER
Manufacturer of
CAPS AND HATS
Union Made
TWO STORES
543 Belmont Ave. 2015 Milwaukee
CHICAGO

Celebrate

MAY DAY

With a bundle of the

SPECIAL
of the
DAILY WORKER

On May Day a Special Issue of The DAILY WORKER will be issued.

ORDER A BUNDLE

There will be special articles on the world labor; special cartoons and photographs.

ORDER A BUNDLE

A whole section will be devoted to greetings to the world of labor from individual workers and from working class organizations.

ORDER A BUNDLE

This issue should be brought into the hands of thousands of workers. Order a bundle for yourself to give away and be sure to order a bundle

FOR YOUR MAY DAY MEETING

Special Bundle Rates
$2.50 A HUNDRED

RUSH

THE DAILY WORKER,
33 First St., New York.
Enclosed $..... for ..... copies of the SPECIAL MAY DAY EDITION.
Name .....
Street .....
City .....
State .....

READ ABOUT THE NEW CHINESE WALL AGAINST WORLD IMPERIALISM

CHINA IN REVOLT

By
STALIN—BUCHARIN—MANUILSKY and TAN PING SHAN

A discussion on China by outstanding figures in the Communist International.

15¢

Moscow in October

1—SOLDIERS AND COMMANDERS

By A. AROSSEV.

NIGHT. The unlit Moscow streets were like the dark corridors of a labyrinth.

I saw at my side how the light glowed from the cigarette of the comrade sitting next to me as we sat in the car and dashed round corners. The machine was throbbing and with one "eye" it swept the Moscow pavements, and with the other lamp-(eye) it gazed in front, the dimmed light through the glass resembled a cataract.

The machine throbbed, groped along the streets, panted and puffed and was not able to awaken a single soul of those who were sleeping in the houses looming on both sides of the street like on the banks of a river. I was reminded of one of the Roman catacombs where along the sides of dark underground corridors, skeletons were arrayed on shelves. And here were the Moscow inhabitants. . . Well, we'll wake them up tomorrow anyhow. Tomorrow we'll wake them up, but today—the soldiers, today we will summon a tremendous force.

* * *

My neighbor kept silent and went on smoking his cigarette. We passed by midnight revellers.

"And what will we say to the soldiers?"

"I don't know; whatever occurs to us."

The car gave two snorts and stopped outside the barracks on Nemetskaya Ulitsa.

The soldier on guard mourned in a long winter coat was sleeping, propped up against the closed gates.

"Comrade, open the gates. . . D'you hear!"

The sentry woke up, made a long search for his rifle, remembered he had left it in the sentry box and took hold of it.

"What do you want?" he said approaching us, holding his rifle with his sleeve.

"We are from the military committee," I said.

The sentry muttered something unintelligible.

"And we must speak with the soldier comrades."

"But who are you," the sentry asked again.

"We are Bolsheviki—understand?"

The sentry, remaining silent, left us, and began to open the gates with a rattle of keys and locks.

We entered through the barrack gates. The sentry jumped on to the step of our car, then, without hurrying he went and closed the gates behind us.

"Comrade, we want to speak to the battalion committee."

"Wait a bit," said the guard.

"Is he going to arrest us?" my comrade whispered to me.

"Anything might happen," I replied.

* * *

We stood in the dark yard while the sentry fiddled about with the gates. Then once more, without saying a word, he led us into the barracks. We passed through several tenebrous dormitories where soldiers were sleeping on wide boards crowded together in the heat. Someone in a far corner was mumbling some command or other in his sleep.

These tremendous rooms with sleeping people did not instil a kind of pessimism for long. Suddenly for some reason or other it seemed to us that we were terribly late or had come to the wrong address, that we had come to people who might tell us that they were collected in the barracks in order to shed blood away there at the front, and not here far behind in the rear.

These were just the ideas that the S.R's put into the minds of the soldiers.

* * *

"Hi, comrade, get up: some Bolsheviki have come."

"From the committee?" suddenly broke out a young comrade, jumping up and sitting on the board.

We explained who we were to the two young soldiers and immediately went with them into a little white room in which there was an abnormally bright light from a large lamp suspended from the ceiling. A young soldier, a pale clean-shaven fellow, sat on the table, awkwardly took a pen and inkpot and asked our names:

We became indignant:

"Comrades, there is no need for any notes. Awaken the soldier comrades and come to the Moscow Soviet!"

Another young soldier, broad-faced and of small stature immediately understood us:

"With ammunition?" he asked. And receiving a short answer from us, without saying a word to the first soldier, pulling on his trousers on his way, ran into the soldiers' dormitory crying:

"Comrades, get up and defend the Soviet! Comrades! Now then Semenov, what about it?"

As his voice died down in the distance, it began to drown in an indefinite tumult of the voices of the awakening soldiers. The sentry went to his place and the one that had wanted to write our names sat down with a vacant look, rapped his eyes and seemed to try to make out whether it was all a dream or not.

"Are you an S. R.?" I asked him.

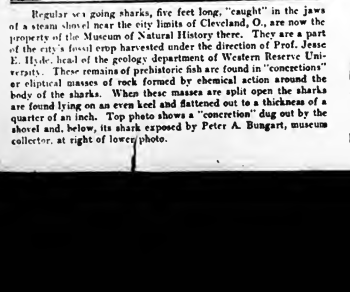
"I belong to the left tendency."

We did not hear any more, being no longer interested in what he was saying as a stream of half sleeping, half-undressed bare-footed soldiers burst into the room. They jostled one another scratching themselves. Filling up the whole room, the entire corridor outside it and further along under the arches of the low dormitories an everlasting stream of heads, shoulders and hands came into sight.

(To Be Continued)

British Cabinet to Enfranchise Women

LONDON, April 14.—The British cabinet's decision to propose legislation giving the vote to British women at the age of 21, although hailed by many women leaders, brings no false sense of victory.



"All women will have votes before long," said Miss Christabel Pankhurst, once leader of the militant suffragists. "Women will be able to rule the men. We shall no doubt have a women prime minister. We shall be not voting the men.

"Years ago, I should have been in the seventh heaven of delight if this has come to pass. But I have changed since then. It does not elate me one bit now. I know we can make the same mistakes as men."

Tractor Cooperative In Detroit.

DETROIT, Mich., April 14. — A membership meeting of the Tractor Cooperative for Soviet Russia will be held April 17th, at 12 o'clock sharp in the People's House, corner Grandy and Gaury.

CATCHES SHARK IN CLEVELAND

Regular wet going sharks, five feet long, "caught" in the jaws of a steam shovel near the city limits of Cleveland, O., are now the property of the Museum of Natural History there. They are a part of the city's fossil crop harvested under the direction of Prof. Jesse E. Hyde, head of the geology department of Western Reserve University. These remains of prehistoric fish are found in "concretions" or elliptical masses of rock formed by chemical action around the body of the sharks. When these masses are split open the sharks are found lying on an even keel and flattened out to a thickness of a quarter of an inch. Top photo shows a "concretion" dug out by the shovel and, below, its shark exposed by Peter A. Bungart, museum collector, at right of lower photo.

MUTE TESTIMONY OF A "HOT" ELECTION BATTLE

Photo shows wreckage of two-story brick building in forty-second ward in the "badlands" district of Chicago, after it had been bombed as part of the violence that ushered in the mayoralty election. The building had been used as a Democratic headquarters. A short time before it was bombed armed bandits raided a poker game in the building and took $1,000 from the players.

Two "Friends of Labor" in Chicago Mayoralty Election

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.

THE election for the lucrative post of mayor of Chicago will go down in Chicago election history as one of the most notorious and vicious elections in this city of spectacular campaigns. While there were fundamental issues raised by that greatest of demogogues, Bill Thompson, who repeatedly stated in his election speeches: "It shall be for the best interest of these United States for all time to maintain friendly relations with European nations but entangling alliances with none. Or in other words, get out of Europe and stay out. No future draft for the American boys and no joining of the league of nations or world court." Yet these questions did not decide the election, as far as the writer could find out. Many of the unorganized workers may have voted for Thompson in the hope that he would oppose war, but as far as the representatives of organized labor were concerned, they simply ignored the whole issue, no statement or speech was made by any labor offical or union who supported Thompson on these issues and they did not play a vital part in the victory scored by the republican party.

The race issue was also raised, this undoubtedly played a part in the election but not a decisive one. The Negro workers, traditionally republican, were simply overwhelmed with the propaganda that Thompson was the friend of the Negro worker, that it was he who as mayor fought for the protection of the Negro workers during the race riots of 1919. Because of this special effort the Thompson forces rolled up a large Negro vote. An attempt was made to raise this issue among the white workers on a race prejudice basis, but this failed.

* * *

Religion was thrown into the ring but that too fell by the wayside. While Dever undoubtedly received the majority of the catholic votes, the vote as a whole was split. Dever had his Fitzpatricks and O'Donnels, while Thompson had his Sullivans and his Kellys.

The wet issue raised its head, but in a negative way. It was not for or against prohibition that the fight was on, but rather the method in which it was to be regulated. Dever, "the friend of labor" was against home production and favored a producing monopoly for the reorganized bootleg kings whose coronation ceremony generally follows the partake of a machine gun. While Thompson, "as a friend of labor," believed that the worker should have the privilege of making his own brew on the grounds that it did not interfere with the large scale bootleg industry.

However, none of these issues ever came to the front in a forceful manner. No one pushed them. The labor leaders who supported either Thompson or Dever ignored the question of the drafting of the "American boys" for a future war, and Thompson and Dever talked in generalities. The government of Nicaragua had been overthrown by the armed forces of the United States, Mexico was being forced by the American government to shape its laws in accordance with the interests of Wall Street. In the midst of the campaign, American warships, in conjunction with their British allies, were bombarding Nanking where Chinese workers were killed, but not one word of protest was issued. This joker was dropped. Not one outstanding or even surface difference was discussed.

* * *

While the workers turned out in mass to vote, the campaign degenerated down to intimidation, terrorizing of voters, slugging, gunning, bombing of rival headquarters, kidnapping, vicious speeches by both candidates and their supporters, exposing each other as being controlled by big interests and supported by the underworld. It became a frank open struggle as to whether the Dever or Thompson gangs should control the political patronage and illegal concessions in the city for the next four years.

* * *

The most despicable part of the campaign was that played by labor officialdom, and it is from this that the left wing should draw its lessons. The campaign, as far as labor was concerned, especially organized labor, was to decide which candidate was the "friend of labor." Undoubtedly the workers voted heavily for Thompson although large sections voted for Dever. Great interest was shown by the workers in this campaign. Lacking an understanding of their class position in society, without any mass political expression of labor in the campaign, with no broad left wing movement or party to point the way, they were easily confused and misled by scheming labor politicians into believing that the interests of the workers lie in supporting the so-called "friends of labor" in either of the two old parties.

* * *

Olander, Fitzpatrick, Nockels, Agnes Nester, etc., supported Dever. Oscar Nelson, M. J. Kelly, Chas. F. Wills, Anton Johannson, Harry Scheck, William Tracy, Glen Campbell, and others supported Thompson. While the struggle between these two groups was bitter, the only real difference was that Fitzpatrick and Olander guessed wrong and Nelson and Kelly guessed right. Nelson switched from the democratic to the republican party, Fitzpatrick and Olander from the republican to the democratic party.

The political gymnastics of Fitzpatrick and a section of his group of progressives since 1917 have been rather weird, and while the group refused to follow Fitz's zigzag line, their gyrations have been just as brainless. Even such loyal supporters of Fitzpatrick as Johannson and Scheck refused to follow Fitz into the Dever camp. They accepted the lead of Nelson and supported Thompson. Fitz was a democrat in 1917. From 1918 to the July, 1922 split, he was a Labor Party-ite, then he became a state republican and a Cook County democrat. From then on he has had one foot in each of the old parties and in his stump speaking for Dever he gave voice to this gem: "The Chicago Federation of Labor has not endorsed any candidate in the present election, the attitude of the federation in politics is in favor of a labor party, but as that is not here yet the organization and members are free to exercise their franchise in any way they see fit."

"As president of the federation, I am at liberty to vote for any candidate for mayor of Chicago on April 5th." Then he proceeded to show that the reason he supported Dever was that he considered him the best man and a friend of labor. Well, Thompson, the enemy of labor according to Fitz, and a friend of labor according to Nelson, has been elected. There is only one of two courses left for this group to follow and that is to either quit giving mouth service for the formation of a labor party, or openly abandon the idea of a labor party, continue their political toe dancing to the tune played by Oscar Nelson, and join the Thompson boosters' club.

* * *

The split in the Fitzpatrick group and the labor leaders in general over which candidate to support for mayor, while it was bitter and vicious, is a fake one and will be smoothed over. The real fight is whether Fitz or Nelson will lead the federation. A few years ago this would have been important, today it means very little. Nelson speaks authoritatively and as one of labor's orthodox bureaucrats. Fitz has gone back to the fold but has not yet been fully forgiven for his quarrels with the official family and for the few years he browsed in the progressive pasture. Fitzpatrick still gives mouth service occasionally to the labor party. He will have to give this up before he is fully forgiven. In due time he will. The fight between Fitz and Nelson for control of the federation will continue. It will follow a fake division, such as is supposed to divide the republican and democratic parties. The old differences, labor party, amalgamation, organize the unorganized, militant struggle against the employers, etc., that divided Fitz from the Nelson reactionaries no longer exist, the progressives should no longer interest themselves as to whether Fitz or Nelson leads the federation, they must bring forth new leaders.

* * *

The Chicago Federation officially took no part in the election. It remained silent. This no doubt was by agreement between the Fitzpatrick and Nelson forces, or because of mutual fear to raise such a touchy issue that might have resulted in the refusal of the federation to endorse either candidate and this was quite feasable. Both sides massed their forces for the federation meeting, each side seemed to have about equal strength, with the left wing and the progressives who say they are for a labor party, holding the deciding votes. It was quite possible that if someone had made a motion to discuss the mayoralty election and for the federation to issue an election statement, that both the Thompsonites and Deverites would have been defeated.

* * *

This was not done. The progressives made a mistake in not raising the issue. Here was an opportunity to expose the role of reactionary labor leaders who become prominent politicians because of their power to deliver a large section of labor's votes to capitalist candidates. It is only through the use of these methods that the true situation can be brought home to the workers, by showing to the workers that Fitzpatrick and Nelson in supporting Thompson and Dever, are lining up with the enemies of labor.

* * *

There are a number of progressives in the Chicago Federation of Labor and scattered throughout the Chicago trade unions who have followed Fitzpatrick right along because of their fear that Nelson would get control and who believe in the formation of a labor party and for progressive trade unionism and whose support makes possible the endorsement by the local unions and the federation of labor resolutions as demanding the withdrawal of American troops and marines from Nicaragua and China, in support of the Calles government in Mexico, for the protection of the foreign born, for the release of Sacco and Vanzetti and other class war prisoners, etc. This weak attitude has demoralized the progressive forces leaving only a small left wing to really carry on the struggle.

This group of progressives did not support either Fitz or Nelson in this campaign, at least not openly. They gave it objective support because they remained silent. They fear Nelson, they fear the Communists, they shy at supporting resolutions if they are presented by known Communists or TUEL-ites and only support progressive resolutions providing they are introduced by Communists or TUEL-ites who are not yet well known. They are a weak vacillating group that won't even present resolutions of their own, have no well defined program and no leaders. They could become a power if they would act as a unit and in conjunction with the left wing, could retrieve the lost prestige of the Chicago Federation of Labor, by struggling for the many progressive points that they have in common.

BOOKS

INTERPRETATION OF THE GOVERNMENT FOR WORKERS.

The Worker Looks At Government, by Arthur W. Calhoun. International Publishers. $1.60.

There are so many commendable features about this book, which is an attempt to explode many of the current fallacies about the government of the United States, that many of its errors may be glossed over.

There are a few points, however, that cannot go unchallenged by the Marxian. The most glaring of these is the totally unscientific and flippant manner in which the author compares the revolutionary dictatorship of the workers and peasants in Russia with the fascist dictatorship in Italy and the veiled dictatorship in the United States. Says Calhoun:

> "At present . . . the dominant challenge is that of class dictatorship, which, whether in the Russian form, dominated by labor interests, or in the Italian form, as reactionary despotism, expresses the realistic conception that the masses are not ready for power but merely for the following of masterly leadership. Open and avowed dictatorship would assuredly be preferable, from the standpoint of progress, to the camouflaged dictatorship that prevails in such a country as the United States."

It is clear that the author is guilty of a most gross historical inaccuracy to compare even the form of Soviet dictatorship with that of fascism. In Italy and the United States, as every Marxian knows, there exist dictatorships of minorities, imposing their will by force and terror upon the vast majorities. Capitalist dictatorships exist only in order to perpetuate themselves in power and stem the tide of history that is rising against them. In Italy all democratic pretenses are scorned and the black-shirt tyrant boasts that he tramples underfoot every manifestation of opposition to his murderous regime. In the United States democracy is a fraud. But in the Soviet Union, although a dictatorship exists, it is the dictatorship of the overwhelming majority of workers and peasants against the minority that still tries to revive capitalism in that country.

* * *

It is also utterly wrong to place the problem as one of dictatorship opposed to democracy, because the masses of Russia exercise more democracy than any other people the world has ever seen. As Lenin, in his polemics against Kautsky, said: "The Soviet form is a thousand times more democratic than the most democratic capitalist government in the world. Furthermore, the dictatorship of the masses in Russia is only a transitory stage and it exists, not because the masses are not yet ready for power—they have power—but because the dictatorship must be maintained until capitalism is not merely destroyed, but the very soil from which it springs has been so deeply furrowed by the revolution that it can never again take root.

To approach the question as does Mr. Calhoun is to play the game of the basest of reactionaries, and does irreparable harm to his work, which is obviously intended for workers. The fact that the work is intended for workers makes such a blunder all the more reprehensible because it is precisely among the workers that the master class spreads similar poisonous statements about the revolution.

* * *

Again the author falls into error when he endeavors to prove that "forms of government in themselves are of minor significance." On the contrary they are of utmost importance in registering the development of class conflicts. For instance, a fascist government does not arise in a country where the class conflict does not threaten the existence of the capitalist class. Its very existence is evidence of the fact that the old ruling class must muster its last reserves in order to maintain power. Again, the history of the changes in the form of the British government coincide in a striking manner with the relative changes in class power. Even the "democratic" government of the United States has, in the course of its history, changed from a real federation of states to a centralized government as the power of the great corporate interests become national and even international in character.

* * *

The author is on safer ground when he confines himself to an analysis of the government machine of the United States. His description of the operation of the system of checks and balances is to be commended.

* * *

Mr. Calhoun also performs a real service when he blasts the absurd notion of "proportional representation"—that illusion so ardently advocated by various brands of yellow socialists in this country. He shows that such a demand comes from a party that abandons the struggle for a majority and expects permanently to remain a minority, or from a declining party that wants to hold every available shred of influence before vanishing from the scene altogether. This is the only theoretical point on which the author errs. Marx's estimation of the effectiveness of single-tax agitation is economically unsound.

Also incorrect is his assertion that "the provisions of the constitution (of the U. S.) are so general and flexible in form that it would require little if any modification in the constitution to make it serve for a Communist society."

History has proved, through experience gained in every proletarian struggle for power since the Paris Commune that only a Soviet constitution can serve to bring into existence a Communist society.

* * *

The author is far in advance of most professional educators who confine themselves to educational activity among the workers in that he recognizes the fact that the American working class is on the threshold to the development of a labor party and that to achieve that end the labor movement must become something more than a pure and simple trade union affair.

In this, unfortunately, the author relies too much upon so-called psychological factors, without emphasizing sufficiently the economic and political forces that are driving toward a class party of labor in this country.

* * *

It is to be hoped that if a second edition of the book appears the author will revise it and eliminate the many errors that have crept in.

We are far from demanding that it be a Communist treatise, but even to serve the purpose for which it is intended—popularization of the criticism of government for the workers—it must not contain statements that prejudice workers against the proletarian revolution.

H. M. WICKS

REVOLUTIONARY CARTOONS.

Red Cartoons of 1927. Edited by Walt Carmon. Daily Worker Publishing Co. $1.

Walt Carmon has just brought together another group of brilliant cartoons (68 in number) that appeared in The DAILY WORKER and the Workers Monthly (now "The Communist") during the past year. Here are found drawings by Fred Ellis, Bob Minor, Gropper, Vose, Hay Bales, Art Young, Hugo Gellert and the rest of the shock troops of the revolutionary movement in this country who tear through the granite walls of capitalist institutions with one fell swoop of the brush.

* * *

The cartoon, as V. F. Calverton so correctly explains in a careful introduction, is a form of art that immediately lends itself to social interpretation. "It represents," he says, "a kind of snap-shot logic that often is sharper than words, and more effective than argument."

* * *

The cartoons here gathered, while probably not the best products of the radical artists during the past year, are nevertheless quite representative. All are vital, dynamic and searing. Some of them, like Gropper's "Bloody Angel of Peace in Passaic," and Minor's "War" suggest in a remarkable way the great eloquence of a fine cartoon.

* * *

It is irritating to see that Gellert is represented by only a single drawing,—and that a fragment of a cover-design.

SENDER GARLIN.

SINCLAIR LEWIS ANSWERS HIS CRITICS.

A month before the publication of "Elmer Gantry," Sinclair Lewis slipped out of the country. He has so much respect for the powers of the American reporter that he felt he should put as many miles as possible between himself and the United States when the redoubtable Elmer Gantry startled the American public with his unclerical behavior.

* * *

In Paris, however, a reporter for the "Herald" seized him, and Mr Lewis stated bluntly that he did not expect everyone to agree with every novel he wrote; that he had spent over a year gathering material; and that he could take anyone to certain churches and institutions and prove to them that the installation of bowling alleys, motion picture projectors, swimming pools, and other recreational and publicity features had become an integral part of the teaching of religion in certain sections of this country.

Attend Union Square Meeting Saturday! Save Sacco and Vanzetti!

SPEAKERS: Forrest Bailey, Carlo Tresca, Charles Kline, Leonard Abbott, James P. Cannon, William W. Weinstone, Moissaye J. Olgin, and others. TIME: 1 P. M.

THE DAILY WORKER FIGHTS: FOR THE ORGANIZATION OF THE UNORGANIZED FOR THE 40-HOUR WEEK FOR A LABOR PARTY

THE DAILY WORKER

FINAL CITY EDITION

Entered as second-class matter at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Vol. IV. No. 80. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In New York, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside New York, by mail, $4.00 per year.

NEW YORK, SATURDAY, APRIL 16, 1927

Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 33 First Street, New York, N. Y.

Price 3 Cents

Ben Gold, Manager Fur Workers' Joint Board

Drawn By Hugo Gellert.

A leader beloved by the workers both for his personal qualities and his fearless, militant leadership of the New York Furriers' Joint Board, Ben Gold with 10 of his fellow-workers have been brought to trial in a capitalist court thru the conspiracy of reactionary A. F. of L. officials who fear and hate his devotion to the union and the interests of the workers.

Mineola Audience Disgusted by Stool Pigeon's Testimony

By MICHAEL GOLD.

Since Judge Hung himself on a sour-apple tree, the feeling has been widespread that a stool pigeon is the meanest form of human life.

This may be superstition, but the stool pigeon who testified yesterday at the trial of Ben Gold and 10 other furriers at Mineola shifted his eyes from side to side and found not a friendly face in the courtroom.

Sickening Court Atmosphere.

Everyone seemed a little nauseated, even the hard-boiled dicks and court attendants, as the slimy, smelly and jigsawed story dropped from the twitching lips of the young Judas on the witness stand.

His name was Barnet Basoff, and he held the stand for about four hours before a fascinated audience. In that time he admitted at least twenty times that he had lied in previous testimony, and had double-crossed the union, the lawyer who had previously defended him, and most of his friends.

His testimony was a bewildering mass of admitted lies and counter-lies. In a previous trial he had been asked whether he was telling the truth about a certain matter.

"I can say it to God alone that this is the truth," he testified dramatically.

Admits Chronic Lying.

When asked whether it had been the truth Basoff said it was not but that he had used the name of God to make his previous lie more impressive. This admission did not help sweeten the odor of rat in the courtroom. It was a sample of all his testimony.

Basoff was not an important member of the furriers' union during the strike last year, but he has become important in this trial because it is on his story that the prosecution is chiefly basing its case against Ben Gold and the others.

His testimony yesterday went back and forth through the questions levelled at him by the district attorney and the attorney's for the defense, but synthesized, the following quertale, worthy of a Joseph Conrad was unfolded:

Testimony Confused.

1.—Basoff said he had been a furrier only a year, and then when the strike came, he was put on the G. P. C., three letters which he repeated again and again very mysteriously, until the defense attorney got him to admit they meant only the General Picketing Committee.

2.—He didn't belong to the union while serving on this committee, but was employed only for "strong-arm" work, in return for which he was paid his room rent, he said.

3.—Last April, while seated in the cafeteria at Astoria Hall, Schnieder and Shapiro, two furriers' union officials, told him he must come upstairs, to go out with 11 other furriers to Long Island, to wreck a shop there.

4.—Then according to his story, he came out in a car with about 12 furriers, and they entered a little shop over a chop suey house in Rockville Centre, L. I. To his horror, the stool pigeon said, he discovered the shop was owned by Mike Harnett, a friend of his here and in England for the past 16 years.

5.—Terrible things happened in the shop, cutting of furs, and terrorizing of women, and the beating up of Bar-

(Continued on Page Three)

BOSSES' PAPER AFFORDS SPACE TO ASSIST WOLL

Furriers See Proof of Right Wing Conspiracy

"No deal with Associated,' Woll declares."

In this denial of treachery, printed in yesterday's "Women's Wear," the fur workers of New York see the clearest proof that Matthew Woll, Edward F. McGrady and Hugh Frayne, the reactionary, union-smashing trio of the A. F. of L., have made a secret agreement with the heads of the Associated Fur Manufacturers in return for their assistance in forcing registration with the scab International union.

Sold On 8-Point Basis.

The Joint Board officers told the workers several weeks ago that they knew the right wing fakers had agreed to deal with the employers on the basis of the infamous "8-point agreement" which William Green and his notorious friend, Frayne, had tried to sign, behind the backs of the workers, in the midst of last year's strike.

If any of the fur workers had doubts at first about the accuracy of this report, they have none left now. They know from what is happening in the shops that Woll, McGrady and Frayne "made a deal," and that the manufacturers' association leaders are now doing their best to carry out their promise to make the fur workers register.

Bosses Failing Too.

Evidently the job is not proving so easy, for a letter was received yesterday by all members of the association, from President Samuel N. Samuels, calling upon the bosses to discharge all fur workers who had not registered by yesterday afternoon.

This letter was obviously sent at the request of Matthew Woll, for Mr. Samuels states that complaints have been received from the A. F. of L. because certain manufacturers are employing workers who have not registered. According to A. F. of L. reckoning, this means they are not members in good standing in the fur workers' union.

Defy Iatimidators.

But the workers think otherwise, and they are continuing to defy the methods of intimidation being tried

(Continued on Page Three)

Monster Protest at Union Square Today For Sacco, Vanzetti

At least 25,000 people are expected to join in the monster protest demonstration for Sacco and Vanzetti at 1 o'clock today in Union Square.

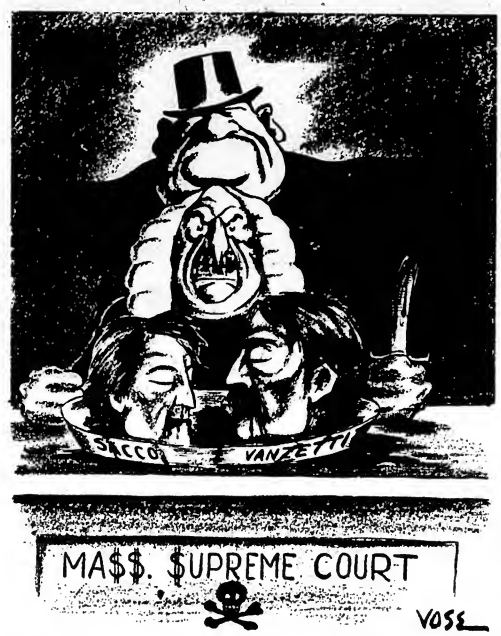
All signs tend to indicate that this huge public gathering, arranged by the Sacco-Vanzetti Emergency Committee, representing more than 500,000 New York organized workers will be one of the greatest in the history of labor in this country.

4 Platforms; 40 Speakers

On the four platforms which are being erected for the occasion, 40 speakers will voice the deep resentment of the workers of this city against the vicious verdict just upheld by the highest court in Massachusetts.

6 Languages.

Speeches will be made in six languages.—English, Jewish, Italian, Spanish, Hungarian and German.



Those who will address today's mass meeting include Forrest Bailey, director of the American Civil Liberties Union; Arthur Garfield Hays, prominent liberal attorney; Leonard Abbot, Louis Budenz, editor of "Labor Age;" McAllister Coleman, Paxton Hibben, I. Lattimer.

Harry Kelly, Richard Brazier, Ludwig Lore, editor of the "Volkszeitung," Morris E. Taft, I. Wagner, A. Peretz, Mateo Rico, A. Ramuglia, Enea Sormenti, Carlo Tresca.

Scott Nearing, Moissaye J. Olgin, Luis Quintiliano, Richard B. Moore, S. Leibowitz, Bishop Paul Jones, Charles Kiss, editor of "Elore;" Charles Kline, James P. Cannon, Rebecca Grecht.

Rose Wortis, James Walsh, William F. Dunne, editor "The DAILY WORKER," Jack Stachel, William W. Weinstone, secretary of the New York district of the Workers' (Communist)

(Continued on Page Three)

Tacoma Police Stop Meeting for Sacco, Vanzetti Liberation

TACOMA, Wash., April 15.—A mass meeting under I. W. W. auspices was held at 14th and Pacific Ave., Saturday evening, April 9th at 8 p. m. to protest against the unjust imprisonment and coming execution of Sacco and Vanzetti.

Arthur Boose an ex-class-war prisoner was the speaker of the evening and beginning at 8 o'clock for forty minutes spoke of the Massachusetts frame-up and persecution.

The speaker showed how the court, high and low, and all of the law making and law enforcing power of both the state and federal government, is used as a weapon in the hands of the capitalist class to keep the working class in subjection.

Suddenly as though to prove the truth of the speakers' statement a uniformed Tacoma police officer stepped up to the speaker and forced him to step down from the box and ordered the crowd to disperse.

Big business advertises Tacoma as the lumber capitol of America, and 14th and Pacific Aves. has been used for years for public meetings.

Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!

Aids Sacco and Vanzetti

Mrs. Glendower Evans of Boston Assists Workers' Defense

"Sacco, Vanzetti Innocent," — Eye Witness Declares

BOSTON, April 15.—Coming from Florida at his own expense to aid in the effort to save Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti from the electric chair, Albert Frantello, who saw the two gun-men who shot down a paymaster and his guard in South Braintree in 1926, the crime for which Sacco and Vanzetti were convicted called at the office of Gov. Alvan T. Fuller this afternoon.

Sacco, Vanzetti Innocent, He Says.

Frantello stated emphatically at the trial, and he repeated his statement today, that the bandits were not Sacco and Vanzetti.

The man, who has been making his home in Florida, was accompanied by Representative Boland D. Sawyer, of Ware, who failed in an attempt to get the legislature to name a commission to investigate the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

Police Stop Students' Test.

Harvard students, who planned to re-enact the shooting in South Braintree this afternoon, on the seventh anniversary of the crime, in an effort to determine whether witnesses could

(Continued on Page Two)

Envoy to Britain in "Big Four" Scandal

PREVIOUS EVENTS OF INSURANCE EXPOSÉ

The DAILY WORKER continues its exposure of the Metropolitan, Prudential, John Hancock and Colonial Life Insurance Companies which constitute the "Big Four" insurance trust. This combine insure 40 million American workers. Previous articles have made proof of fraud, swindle, misrepresentation, misuse of company funds. Names mentioned in the exposé to date have been Charles Evans Hughes, Charles M. Schwab, Supt. of Insurance James A. Beha and others. Dread of nationwide exposure has caused these Wall Street leeches to maintain a frightened silence under this attack.

By CHARLES YALE HARRISON.

Some few years ago, Dr. Lee K. Frankel, Ph. D., a prominent "industrial" life insurance man, and at present second vice-president of the Metropolitan Life, speaking at the National Conference of Charities and Correction, said: "Today the sole criterion which can be brought against industrial life insurance is that of cost—after all, Service is not calculable in dollars and cents."

In spite of the learned doctor's statement, "indstrial" life insurance IS calculated in dollars and cents, dollars and cents which are most often taken from the small store needed for the necessities of life, dollars and cents which are wheedled and scared out of an ignorant public with threats of penury in old age and unburied corpses in death. (Dr. Frankel is a doctor of philosophy calculated in terms of $35,000 a year.)

Harsh—Misrepresent.

In England a few years ago, Lord Parmoor, a member of the late labor cabinet, conducted an official investigation into the malicious "industrial" insurance system as conducted in that country. It was found that "industrial" insurance is excessive in cost, harsh in its conditions and misrepresented and ineffectual as life insurance coverage. This is as true of the American brand as it is of the English.

Among the poor of all countries death has always been a mysterious visitant, whose coming is usually celebrated with strange and fantastic rites. The English poor, particularly, have always invested their funeral rites with the most showy, tawdry trappings a meagre pure could afford.

Ostentation of the Poor.

One who has witnessed a Cockney coster's funeral will never forget the

(Continued on Page Two)

ALL CHINA LABOR FEDERATION ASKS WORLD'S WORKERS TO AID RESISTANCE TO INTERVENTION

HANKOW, April 15.—The All-China Labor Federation representing 2,200,000 workers declares that on March 23 battleships and gunboats shelled Nanking without warning, killing and wounding many hundreds of the civil popalation and destroying a portion of the city.

At the end of March more than 1,000 people were mercilessly killed by British gunfire in the Weieho district of Canton.

On April 3, Japanese machine guns fired on our unarmed people in Hankow, killing 3 and seriously wounding 15, including women and children.

Only Latest Abuses.

These latest occurrences are the climax of a long and bitter experience of the Chinese people in dealing with the imperialism of the governments of your countries against the Chinese trade union movement, which can guard the struggle for freedom and independence in China.

Away With Imperialism.

As the first great step toward uplifting the conditions of our millions of workers and peasants, we must remove the grip of imperialism from our throats. For this we are prepared to struggle to the bitter end, no matter what the cost. The time has gone forever when battleships, rifles and corruption can be effectively used to enslave China.

But imperialism has still power to do great harm not only to us, but also to all the people of the world. For there will surely follow, if the present intervention in China occurs, a war which will be even more destructive than the World War.

We ask you to understand that today it is impossible to coerce a great people of 400,000,000, and any attempt to do so may result in the destruction of what civilization is left in the West.

Don't Attack China.

You workers and trade unionists have no quarrel with the workers of China! You have nothing but friendship for us; of this we are sure! And you have it in your power, who are in the majority together with the farmers to stop this war against us, to prevent this threatened catastrophe.

We appeal to you! Withdraw all warships and armed forces from China! Establish fraternal union between the Chinese trade unions and the trade unions of the West! Prevent war against the Chinese revolution! Greet the Chinese revolution as one part of the world struggle for human freedom! Stop the outrages of imperialism!—EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE ALL-CHINA LABOR FEDERATION.

Chen Refuses Any Apologies Until Guilt Is Proven

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Declaring that the Hankow Government is quite willing to make good damages actually done by Nationalist troops and scoring the United States for the slaughter of peaceful Chinese citizens at Nanking, Eugene Chen, Nationalist Foreign Minister replied to the bellicose American note sent to him several days ago.

Suggests Investigation

Suggesting that an international investigation of the Nanking affair be made, the Nationalist note says: "In reply to the American demands for 'complete reparation for the personal injury and material damage done, the Nationalist Government is prepared to make good all damage done to the American consulate at Nanking.

Denies Any Guilt.

"As regards reparation for personal injuries to American nationals and other material damage done, the Nationalist Government is prepared to make all reasonable and necessary reparations, except in case where it can be definitely proven that the harm has been caused by the British-American naval bombardment of Nanking on March 24, or by Northern rebels and agents provocateurs.

"The demand for the 'adequate punishment for commanders of the troops responsible for the murder, the personal injuries and indignities and the material damage done as also of all persons found to be implicated,' necessarily assumes guilt of the nationalist forces who captured Nanking.

Northerners Caught.

"While this guilt is denied in the preliminary statement issued on March 31, a rigid government inquiry is being conducted in order to ascertain the exact facts including verification of the outstanding facts in the report to the military council by General Chen Chien, who took Nanking, that his forces rounded up and captured approximately 30,000 Northern soldiers with rifles, besides 1,000 camp followers inside the city.

No Punishment Yet.

The Nationalist Government proposes that the question of punishment should await the findings of this Government inquiry now in progress, or of an International Committee of Inquiry, to be hereafter instituted by the Nationalist Government and the United States Government. As the laws of nations and the recognized practices of civilized States prohibit the bombardment of a city in a friendly state, the Nationalist Government propose that the Commission of Inquiry shall also investigate the circumstances of the bombardment of the unfortified city

(Continued on Page Two)

CHIANG, BRIBED BY BANKERS, IN ATTACK ON LEFT

Great Protest Strike is Spreading Rapidly

Bulletin.

HANKOW, April 15.—The Communists are lining up their forces here. A mass meeting today denounced Chiang Kai Shek and his followers again as counter-revolutionists and invited Feng Yu Hsiang, once known as the "christian general" to join forces with them to fight Chiang.

The Peasants Union is carrying out division of the land in Hunan province, it was reported here today.

* * *

SHANGHAI, April 15.—With the adoption of resolutions at the right wing conference at Nanking this afternoon calling for the impeachment of the Hankow Government, Chiang Kai-shek has definitely turned counter-revolutionary. Reports received here indicate that he may even attempt to split the Nationalist movement by setting up another government at Nanking.

Denounce Militarists

The resolutions adopted at the conference denounced the leaders of the liberation movement as "disturbers of the public order in China," according to dispatches received here.

Among those denounced in the resolutions are Michael Borodin, adviser to the Nationalist Government; George Hsu-chen, minister of Justice; Chen Tu-hsiu, leader of the Chinese Communist Party; Tung Pingshen, Minister of Agriculture and sixteen others.

Lefts Ask For Unity

A small delegation from Hankow attended the conference and put up a strong plea for unity

More In Protest Strike

The strike here declared as a protest against the attempts of Chiang Kai-shek to smash the local unions is spreading rapidly. The seamen's and textile workers' unions, the most powerful in the city, have succeeded in tying up cotton mills and shipping.

Bankers Bribe Chiang

It has been definitely established that local bankers and merchants have offered Chiang 15,000,000 Shanghai dollars for suppressing local labor organizations. Three million dollars have already been paid to him, it is reported.

Workers' organisations have been raided and ruthless attempts at their suppression have been made despite the protests of workers', students' and Communist organisations.

Protest British Raids

The Nationalist News Agency reports that Eugene Chen, Nationalist

(Continued on Page Two)

CHINA DISAPPOINTED AT WARLIKE STAND OF U. S., DECLARES CHEN

Scores Bombardment of Nanking and Alliance With British Attack on Nationalists

The seriousness with which the Nationalist government of China regards American participation in the identic action of the powers, made without waiting for a neutral investigation of responsibility for the deaths of Chinese and foreigners at Nanking, is made evident in the following cabled statement just received from the office of Eugene Chen, the minister of foreign affairs of the Nationalist government at Hankow. It is essentially an appeal to the American people not to participate in European intervention in China, and it was authorized by the Central Executive Committee.

• • •

HANKOW, April 15.—A few days ago British and American gunboats fired on the defenseless city of Nanking.

At the same time foreign troops, already landed at Shanghai, shot down unarmed workers.

At the same time British airplanes bombared Kwangtung villages.

At the same time British sailors killed a number of Chinese at Chungking.

Every day brings the report of some such incident. You in America do not hear these incidents. They are not reported in glaring headlines by the foreign press in China controlled by the foreign powers and they are not edited to the newspapers abroad.

News Distorted.

You in America hear of incidents in China, but only of those selected incidents that can be made to twist the truth in such a way that Nationalist China, an awakening country struggling heroically to break away from the fatal fetters of feudal-military and economic imperialist oppression, appears as an aggressor against the west.

Therefore the Chinese people appeal directly to you, the people of America. The Chinese people want you to know the real situation of this land so that you can judge for yourselves if the policy being conducted from your capitol is not a treacherous dual policy which may provoke on the Pacific coast a catastrophe so bloody that the most horrible years of the past decade will seem to be mere child's play.

Struck For Freedom.

The civil war now going on between the north and south is a struggle for national freedom, the same freedom for which America has waged two great wars one against the degrading status of a colony, another against an economic system which rested upon human slavery. China today, as America, is fighting for democracy, independence, unification, and reconstruction.

In China today, as in America in her great national crises, ninety-nine out of every hundred people are supporting the forces of freedom against the forces of slavery. The sovereign rights of the country against the cynical violence of the international financiers. China is fighting for civil rights as opposed to feudal dependence, for the improvement of the economic status of the great masses of people, who are today suffering from poverty so extreme as to be beyond the comprehension of the American people. In China people are starved and dressed in rags and pathed, housed in hovels so wretched that the worst tenements of the West seem comfortable by comparison. China is fighting to lift the people out of this degradation. She is fighting to bring enlightenment in place of superstition.

Decrying Feudalism.

Her struggle is a struggle between on the one hand, industrial development, which can bring the people out of the depths, and on the other hand, the decay of feudal economy, a struggle between honesty on one hand and political corruption on the other.

China's people are hungry for this liberation. Since the Nationalist Revolutionary army, the small but influencible force of emancipation, left the borders of Kwangtung Province they have destroyed in a few months three of the most powerful militarist groups in China—Wu Pei-fu, Sun Chuan-fang, and Chang Tsung-chang. Thus half of China, including such rich centers as Wuhan, Shanghai, and Nanking have been cleared of the enemies of the nationalist revolution by a few fighting thousands battling against enemy forces infinitely superior in numbers and armed and backed by the agents of the imperialistic powers.

Will Win.

These great victories could have been won in a few brief months only by the sympathy and support of the people of China. This sympathy and support make the Nationalist forces unconquerable. In three more months the banner of Nationalist China will be plainly planted in Peking.

It is the hatred of the slave-owner toward the slave who is challenging a lot of callous as that of an animal and daring to ask freedom and equality and a glimpse at some beauty of the world.

English Brutality.

From England the Chinese people do not expect understanding support. England's hands are too stained with Chinese blood. To crush China England will go any lengths. She would add another world war to the casual massacres of May 30, 1925, in Shanghai, of June 23, 1925, at Shakee in Canton, and of Wanhsien last summer. England will destroy, loot, and kill if her supremacy is challenged.

For the protection of English trade and English lives she will sanction any degree of wanton destruction of the wealth and lives of other lands. The men who today control England's foreign affairs are successors of those politicians who supported slavery in America and tried to convince the Chinese by means of naval guns of the necessity of opium.

Surprised at U. S.

China is not surprised at England. But the Chinese people are amazed to see hints that America might cooperate in the imperialistic crimes of the country against whom she battled for her own freedom.

The Chinese people wish to point out to America, whose leadership it is she is following. It is the British secretariat of colonies and the British military commanders that have been successful in involving America in this new enterprise in China, which can benefit neither the British nor Americans but which will sow discension between America and China and precipitate ratastrophe events in the Pacific, in which America's record in the Far East will be sullied and her prosperity menaced.

The Chinese people never believed that the Washington conference would be able to "awaken the conscience of the twentieth century and be a good omen for the peoples," as was solemnly declared by President Harding in 1922. But at the same time the Chinese people did not anticipate that American diplomacy would turn aside from the policy of the open door, from the promise to withdraw all foreign garrisons from China, from the avowed intention to work toward a discontinuation of all privileges, and from "the policy of mediation with the object of bettering relations between China and the other powers on a basis of mutual equality." But today America has bombarded Nanking, and her naval forces are concentrating at Shanghai. American citizens are being evacuated, and America is participating in the romantic idea that diplomatic notes written in a thoroughly English style.

China never expected to find America on the side of the enemy of freedom in the Far East to find her not in control of her own policy, but, instead, being involved automatically by armed intervention at the bidding of England.

Scott Nearing Will Deliver Series of Lectures in Mass.

BOSTON, Mass., April 15.—Scott Nearing will deliver a series of interesting lectures in the state of Massachusetts. The dates have been arranged as follows: April 17, 2 o'clock, Brockton, at Eagles Hall, Ward street. April 17, 8 o'clock, Providence, at American Cooperative Association Hall, 1752 Westminster street. April 19, Springfield, Cooley Hotel, 1757 Main street. April 20, Haverhill, Moose Hall, 50 West street. April 22, Worcester, New Bay State Hotel, 282 Main street. April 24, Lynn, Lasters Hall, 31 Andrews street.

A very interesting series of lectures were arranged on the following subjects: Rise of the American Empire, Dollar Diplomacy, The British Empire, The Chinese Empire, and the Soviet Union, and The Role of the American Labor Movement.

In addition this course of lectures in Massachusetts, Scott Nearing will deliver a course of 4 lectures in Boston, on 4 successive Monday evenings at 8 o'clock at Tremont Temple, Lorimer Hall, Boston. The following lectures are arranged: The Rise of the American Empire, April 18; Dollar Diplomacy, April 25; The British Empire, the Japanese Empire, and the Soviet Union, May 2; The Role of American Labor, May 9.

First Jewish National District in Ukrainia Holds Soviet Congress

KHARKOV, Mar. 22 (By Mail)—The first Congress of Soviets of the Jewish national district, newly organized in the Kherson district was opened on the 21st inst. It is the first big administrative national Jewish division in the Soviet Union, and the population consists of some fifteen thousand Jews and several thousands of Ukrainians and Germans.

The district was created in view of the express wish of the Jewish population of Kherson. In the very near future the Ukrainian government proposes to create a second Jewish division in the Kriwrog district.

Four Children Bitten.

Four children were bitten and seriously injured yesterday when a mad dog ran amuck in Neptune Terrace, Coney Island.

Eye Witness Appears For Sacco, Vanzetti

(Continued from Page One)

have observed the events from the shoe factory windows called off the test when objections were made by Chief of Police John J. Feeney, of Braintree.

A majority of the students were members of the Harvard Liberal Club. The test was said to have the approval of Professor Felix Frankfurter and his assistants of the Harvard Law School. The professor has taken an active part in the Sacco-Vanzetti defense.

• • •

White Plains Residents In Protest.

A petition signed by 60 residents of White Plains, N. Y., and asking postponement of the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti "until all reasonable doubt of their guilt had been cleared," were received here today by Gov. Alvan T. Fuller.

• • •

Kansas City Labor Protests.

KANSAS CITY, April 15.—A resolution condemning the verdict in the case of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti was adopted by the Central Labor Council of this city. A committee of three was also appointed to cooperate local bodies in agitating for a new trial for the two framed-up workers.

• • •

1,800 Denounce Verdict.

The Architectural Iron, Bronze and Structural Workers' Union of Greater New York, representing 1,800 workers has passed a resolution scoring the Sacco-Vanzetti decision as an act of pure hysteria.

Pointing out that there is no valid evidence against the pair, the union asks Governor Fuller of Massachusetts to commute the vicious sentence of the two men.

Nanking Conference Attacks Left Wing

(Continued from Page One)

Foreign Minister has received no reply to his notes protesting against the raids of British soldiers on Chinese schools in Chinese territory, the cutting of telegraph wires, and air raids by British planes.

British troops celebrated Good Friday by parading along Nanking Road in full equipment, accompanied by five poison gas tanks.

• • •

3 More U. S. Warships

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Three American warships, the Cruiser Cincinnati, and the destroyers Preble and Noa, have been ordered to Hankow "where the situation appears to be threatening," Admiral C. S. Williams announced today in a dispatch from Shanghai. He also reported three destroyers from Manila to Shanghai, the steamer McIvah and Merganik.

• • •

British Censor News

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Most of the press dispatches from China are being "censored by British sources," Rear Admiral W. H. G. Bullard, retired, U. S. N., chairman of the Federal Radio Commission, declared today after a conference at the White House.

Bullard, just returned from China, called both President Coolidge for his appointment to the commission.

British censorship is being exercised chiefly on dispatches sent through London," Bullard declared.

America should not join Great Britain in an aggressive policy in China, Bullard said.

Raps British Alliance

He declared this government should confine itself to protection of American lives and property. "The American is today the most favored foreigner in China," he added. "The present unrest there will work itself out if the world powers do not place obstacles in the path of the Chinese people.

"Many exaggerated reports have been printed in the United States about China. I doubt if the newspapermen in Shanghai would recognize some of their dispatches if they saw them in print."

• • •

Warships Snil for Shanghai

MANILA, P. I., April 15.—A rush order from Admiral C. S. Williams, in command of the American forces in the Orient, sent the destroyers Simpson and McFarmat at full steam for Shanghai today. The Blackhawk and Macfeish, now undergoing repairs, will be sent to China by Monday or Tuesday and earlier if possible.

• • •

Nationalists Victorious.

LONDON, April 15.—The Central News correspondent states that an important contingent of Nationalist troops from Changsi has penetrated the outskirts of Kinhan, and is menacing the northern communication lines.

• • •

Japan Sends Troops.

TOKYO, April 15.—Because of the tense situation in Manchuria the Japanese war office has decided to strengthen its forces there, sending an additional division, it was learned here today.

The war office is sending replacements, without recalling the present forces, it was reported.

Advance On Tientsin.

The military campaign is to be pushed along the Tientsin-Pukow line in a rapid march toward Tientsin and Peking. The forces of Fang Yu-hsiang, Chin Yun-se, and Tang Sheng-chi are protecting the Honan front. The position is impregnable,

Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!

Calls Demands Bethlen Investigate Szanto's Trial; Give Justice

CHICAGO, April 15.—A cable to Stanley Bethlen of Hungary, and to the Hungarian embassy at Washington, was sent yesterday thru the International Labor Defense, as follows:

"Press reports that Szanto and thirty other Hungarian workers are now before a criminal court for slander with your government. We ask you to intervene for a full impartial trial and leniency."

The cable was signed by: Clarence Darrow, Prof. Robert Morss Lovett, Victory L. Berger, Bishop Wm. Montgomery Brown, Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Robert Dunn, David Rhys Williams, Colonel Chas. Erskine Scott Wood, Duncan McDonald, Upton Sinclair, Theodore Dale, H. W. L. Dana, William Mahoney, Edw. C. Wentworth, Carl Haessler, Ralph Chaplin, Carlo Tresca, Forrest Bailey, Scott Nearing, and Ellen Hayes.

De Rivera Sends Troops to Crush Riff Revolution

HENDAYE, Franre, April 15.—Spain's position in Morocco has been made difficult by the hurricane that has swept the Mediterranean Coasts, according to a statement by General George Jordana, Director of Colonies, dispatches received here stated.

Many of the Spanish military bases in Morocco have been destroyed by the hurricane and huge quantities of war material have been damaged. It is estimated that the total damage will reach 100,000,000 pesetas.

Rush 30,000 Troops

The government has ordered each regiment in Spain to prepare one company for immediate embarkation which means a new army of 20,000.

General De Rivera embarks for Morocco tonight.

Anti-Toxin Rushed to Tornado Hit Town, Tex.

AUSTIN, Tex., April 15.—Dr. Livingstone Anderson, state health officer, made another hurried trip to Rock Springs today, at the request of Dr. J. E. Rogers, Edwards County health officer, who sent in an urgent call for typhoid anti-toxin from Rock Springs, tornado hit town.

Dr. Anderson carried with him 300 doses of serum for the storm sufferers. Yesterday, the State Health Department sent a large supply of anti-tetanus serum by airplane to Rock Springs.

• • •

and some of the best troops have been withdrawn and sent down the river to aid the Tientsin drive.

In an interview today, Chen Chien, the Nationalist general in command at the capture of Nanking, stated: "We captured Nanking on March 23rd, but our troops did not enter the city until the morning of March 27th. Before our arrival some 70,000 to 80,000 Northerners ransacked the city from Yuhuatai. They undoubtedly fought a whole night and day before we were able to restore order on the evening of the 24th, when I, personally, went into the city to take charge of the situation.

Shantaugese Sacked Nanking.

"Chang Tsung-chang's propaganda were men headed by Ho Hai-ming, the confusion the foreign consulates, houses, and churches were attacked. This was done with the expressed purpose of creating anti-Nationalist feeling among the foreigners. Immediately after my arrival I took urgent steps to restore peace and order in the city. I executed 29 to 30 local ruffians to stop the mob rule.

"There was great confusion in Nanking on March 24th as our soldiers were busy disarming the thousands of Northern soldiers who were still in the city. We took 50,000 Shantung prisoners."

Chen Chien went on to say that when told by a subordinate of the bombardment, he immediately notified the foreign naval authorities to stop such ruthless measures.

Cleveland Doctor Says Peritonitis Will Be Harmless

A course of treatment which will make it comparatively harmless complaint of the now deadly disease of peritonitis was predicted today by Dr. Bernard Sternberg, of Cleveland, O., before the medical societies meeting here.

Dr. Sternberg told the meeting how in experiments with healthy dogs inoculated with peritonitis germs they were brought back from a dying condition to good health by injections of bacteria taken from human beings also suffering from the disease. He said in the majority of the experiments the animals recovered.

Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!

Envoy to England In "Big Four" Scandal

(Continued from Page One)

eight. The dead man's standing in his poverty stricken community is judged by the number of prayers he has left behind to his advantage. All his savings is hoarded for this one event. The most servile English worker regards his "decent burial."

Following the industrial revolution in England, during which millions of workers were driven by economic necessity from their rural homes into the bleak machine-communities, temporarily dispossessed, the question of urban funerals and burial ground became a pressing problem.

They Bury Him.

At this point the "industrial" life insurance company made its appearance with the "decent" burial as its drawing card. Shortly afterwards this form of petty larceny life insurance made its entry into the United States via the Prudential Life.

Since that time the "Big Four" have been having a pretty nice time of it. Controlled legislatures, creature superintendents of insurance, and lax state supervision have made it a most profitable business to be in.

The life insurance business is a "cash" business. There is no "paper," no extended credit, everything is done on a cash basis. Naturally these companies carry large cash deposits in local banks. The Metropolitan Life has a balance in the Chase National Bank of about 20 million dollars, sometimes as high as 35 millions. Now can any bright boy in the class tell me why a friendly controls the Chase National Bank? Johnny, you are perfertly right. And if you will make rareful investigation you will find that the directorate of the Bank is nicely sprinkled with Metropolitan directors.

Inside Clique Profits.

Needless to say the "mutual" policy holders in the Metropolitan Life do not benefit in any way by this nice juicy contact, but then that is one of the drawbacks in only being a policyholder instead of a director.

Capital is reproductive only by means of investment and manipulation. The power it confers upon its possessors is in direct ratio to the use he has of it, rather than in its mere legal possession.

An extravagantly obliging legislature allows these companies 4% of 1% of the total assets as an annual "investment" fund. Investments are limited to only the safest bonds and mortgages. There is absolutely no expenses involved in purchasing bonds of this nature. On the contrary bond houses usually pay a commission on all bonds sold, which in the case of this fact the "Big Four" charged their "Mutual" policyholders more than eleven and a half million dollars for investing these assets in the best legally prescribed bonds.

Director Houghton.

Who wouldn't be a director of a life insurance company?

Stokely Alagson, Hughton, the late American ambassador to England would. And he is. As a side line he directs for the Metropolitan Life for the meagre sum of $25 per year. At any rate that's what the Insurance Report says. If that's all this plenipotentiary extraordinary gets for his important job I would suggest that he go on strike immediately for more pay and shorter hours. But then again, $45 may only be part of his salary.

Every "Big Four" policyholder knows the name of his agent. He calls often enough, fifty-two times a year. But there is a name which I am sure will sound foreign to 23,999,999 out of the 24 million Metropolitan policyholders. I refer specifically to one Albert H. Wiggin.

Mr. Wiggin is the rhairman of the Board of Directors of the Chase National Bank, one of the most important banks in which the Metropolitan Life keeps its money.

Is it small wonder, then, that the powers that be see to it that the "assets" of the "Big Four" keep mounting to the high heavens?

How Mutual?

How mutual is a "mutual" industrial life insurance company? This is a question which is agitating millions of weekly premium policyholders throughout the country. It is a question which will have to be answered. And that right soon.

Although the forty million "industrial" life insurance policyholders in this country have no effective means within their companies to voice a protest against the fraud and deception practiced by their self-appointed directors, they would, to be sure, be very interested spectators in a legislative investigation into the evils which beset this business.

Charles Evans Hughes rode into the executive mansion at Albany on the wheels of his insurance investigation in 1905. So widespread are the ramifications of the "industrial" life insurance business today, that he who could be instrumental in effecting lower rates, a return of the excessive "reserves" or better still, State ownership—might even ride into the White House in 1928 as a result. Who knows?

No hope lies in the direction of the corrupt Tammany political machine which has always worked hand in hand with the "Big Four." The republican machine is, as always, hand in glove, with the Wall Street gang, who are behind the financial manipulations of the life insurance companies.

An aroused public might help. Get busy and see that this article finds its way into the hands of a co-worker or neighbor. The purse is the vital organ of the "Big Four."

European Scientists Honored By Leningrad Geographic Society

LENINGRAD, Mar. 20 (By Mail)—At the annual meeting of the Geographic Society held here there was made public the list of scientists who have been awarded prizes, by the council of the society, for their learned works.

The following scientists have been elected honorary members of the society: the French progeist and topographist Berthot; the well known German physical geographar Hellmann; the well known geographer Koppel of Gratz; the well known polar explorer Drigalsky of Munich. Professor Shokalsky has been elected chairman of the Geographic Society for the year 1927.

Garment Thugs to Be Fired Monday; Jail Two Pickets

Gussie Kimberg and Clara Kimberg, who were accused by a scab of having "struck at" her, were sentenced to thirty days by Judge Kelly Voorheit in Special Session in Brooklyn yesterday.

The two girls were convicted in spite of the fact that Mrs. Anna Bloom, who appeared against them, mixed up her story on the witness stand, and even admitted that she was not sure the Kimberg sisters had struck her, but thought so because they had worked in the same shop with her before they went out on strike and she went to scabbing. There were no other witnesses against the girls.

The courtroom at their hearing was sprinkled with agents of the International who seemed to take special interest in their case.

The trial of Luis Blumenfeld and R. Rurse, who attacked and brutally assaulted Joseph Di Mola, rhairman of the Morgue Dress Shop, on January 3, will be held on Monday in General Sessions. Di Mola, who was beaten with lead pipe, was not expected to live for some weeks, and is still unable to work.

The gangsters who attacked him are said to be from Philadelphia. They rushed into him and assaulted him recently after he had refused to order the workers in the shop to go to a meeting at the offices of the International, when requested to do so by a business agent from the International.

Blumenfeld and Rurse attempted to jump their bail at the time of their first hearing, but were found by police and admitted to higher bail. Subpoenas have been issued.

Dinosaur-Lizard Bones Discovered in Russia On New Railway Route

LENINGRAD, Mar. 22 (By Mail)—In the course of research work carried on on the line of the Semiretchensk railway, which is under construction, there have been found near the villages of Karagosk and Kalkan, parts of the bones of a dinosaur-lizard which lived at least three million years ago.

It is the first and only find of sort a giant lizard in the U. S. S. R. Up to now the only skeleton of a dinosaur had been found in North America.

Nationalists Refuse to Be Abased by Powers

(Continued from Page One)

of Nanking by the naval forces of the United States Government.

No Apology Yet.

"The Demand for an apology in writing by the Commander-in-Chief of the Nationalist army, including an express written undertaking to refrain from all forms of violence and agitation against foreign lives and property," is, so far as an apology is concerned, justified only upon the proof of Nationalist guilt for the disturbances at Nanking.

Then follows a statement that the Nationalist army will, of course, protect lives and property of foreigners, and that the chief cause of friction, and possible incitement to violence, is the presence of foreign troops in China.

Up to the U. S.

Two alternatives confront the American Government in dealing with the Chinese people:

It can consider the answer "unsatisfactory" and take "punitive action," or it can consider that the note goes far enough to meet Washington's demands to justify further correspondence.

Coolidge Went Too Far.

The belief prevails that there will be no punitive action. There are already reports current in Washington that several Cabinet members objected to the vigor of the American note of last week, and did not like, particularly, the appearance of the United States taking joint action with the British Government. The State department is more and more inclined to "go along" with Great Britain, but that inclination is regarded with disfavor by some of President Coolidge's closest advisers.

Furthermore, it was pointed out today, the state department would have a difficult time justifying a "big stirk" policy on the basis of the expressed Nationalist willingness to make reparations if and when a joint commission determines their responsibility for the Nanking affair.

Utah Senator Favors Statehood for Porto Rico; Nordics Oppose

WASHINGTON, (FP).—Senator King of Utah, democrat, who visited Porto Rico at the time of his recent exclusion from Haiti, announces that he favors the Porto Ricans desire statehood he will favor giving it to them.

"It is incompatible with our theory of government," King told the press, "that the United States should hold colonies or territorial possessions indefinitely. The Porto Ricans are American citizens and are entitled to all the rights and immunities enjoyed by citizens of all others sections of the United States."

This view is firmly rejected by the southern democrats in congress, who will resist any move to incorporate Porto Rico in the union—due to possible encouragement to southern Negroes to demand their own political rights.

Aircraft Records Aid Factories.

American supremacy in air records reached its high pitch after the war, but European nations have been gradually taking records away until on March 1 the Federation Aeronautique International credited the United States with but 11 out of 85 major records. The standing was France, 33; Italy, 21; United States, 11; Switzerland, 7; Germany, 1.

During the last year Italy and Germany have made great strides, aeronautic experts say. Since March 1 five of the French records have been transferred to Germans.

LECTURES and FORUMS

THE PEOPLE'S INSTITUTE

At Cooper Union 18 St. & Astor Pl.
at 8 o'clock Admission Free

Sunday, April 17—Easter—No Meeting

Tuesday, April 19—Louis Fischer, "Changing Ideals in Russia"

Friday, April 22—Everett Dean Martin "What Is the Matter With Modern Ideas"—"Individualism and Collectivism as Conflicting Modern Ideals."

AT MANHATTAN TRADE SCHOOL
Ave. A. at 22d St., at 8 o'clock.
Single Admission, 25 cents.
Reduction for Course Tickets.

Monday, April 18—Isadore Peterson, "Playboy and the World of Blue-stocking" (Shaw and Percy Hetchett) 5th Station of Science.

Thurs., Apr. 21—Dr. H. G. Spaulding: "Questions People Expect a Philosopher to Answer"—"What Is Intelligence?"—The "Intelligence" Tests.

Sat., April 23—Dr. Scott Buchanan: Platonic Attitudes—"Science as the Search for Wisdom."

LABOR TEMPLE
14th Street and Second Avenue
THIS SUNDAY
3 P. M.—The Pioneers of the Rare
DR. G. F. BECK
"The Sponsors of the Old Testament"—Isaiah
ADMISSION 15 CENTS
7:15 P. M.—
EDMUND B. CHAFFEE
"The Doctrine of the Cross"
ADMISSION FREE
8:30 P. M.—Open Forum
HARRY F. WARD
"Economics and Religion"—I.
ADMISSION FREE

TOMORROW NIGHT, 8 P.M.
Jay Lovestone
Active Gen. Secy. Workers Party will speak on
"America and the Next War"
A report on the activities of the World Situation by the last Plenum of the Communist International.
At
The Workers School Forum
108 East 14th Street.
Next meeting: Max Shachtman, Who is Intelligence from Russia this week, on "Trotsky and Russia in 1927."

INGERSOLL FORUM
anti-religious center of N. Y.
CHAMBER MUSIC HALL,
CARNEGIE HALL
SUNDAY EVENING, 8 P. M.
WILLIAM H. ANDERSON
(Formerly Head of Anti-Saloon League)
"How Political Romanism Railroaded Me to Sing-Sing"
Questions and Speeches from floor. Admission free All welcome.

Freethinkers' Society of N. Y.
226 WEST 58th STREET
SUNDAY, at 3 P. M.
DR. HARRY HIBSCHMAN
"WHY I AM A MATERIALIST"
Admission Free. Questions

WORKERS! PROTEST AGAINST DEATH OF SACCO and VANZETTI!

William Faversham will return to New York shortly to prepare his production of Shakaspeare's "Henry VIII," in which he will play the role of Cardinal Wolsey.

MacDonald Here; "Forward" to Pay Expense of Visit

J. Ramsay MacDonald once Premier of Great Britain arrived in New York yesterday afternoon. He was accompanied on the trip from England by B. Charney Vladeck, business manager of the Jewish Daily "Forward", which is footing all the expenses attached to the trip.

In return, the present chairman of the British Labor Party will be the "guest of honor" at the forthcoming 30th anniversary celebration which will be held soon.

Thus two functions will be served, for not only will MacDonald grace the seats of honor at the "Forward" celebration where he will be flanked by Morris Hillquit, Abraham Beckerman, Morris Sigman, and the other high-priests of the official socialists and trade-union bureaucracy, but he will also be utilized to give a little "dignity" to the present treacherous fight being waged by them against the workers in the New York needle trades, which is resulting in disruption of the unions and the lowering of their living standards.

For all official purposes MacDonald and his chughter, Isabel who came with him, will be the guests of Miss Lillian D. Wald, head of the Henry St. Settlement.

Upon his arrival he was met by Mayor "Jimmy" Walker's reception committee who went down the bay to welcome him at Quarantine.

Looks for Return to Power.

The British reformist declared to newspapermen that the Labor Party in England has become greatly strengthened in the last year and that "English public opinion, augmented by the extension of the suffrage to women, will hasten the return of the Labor Party to power."

Lowdown on China.

Asked if he believed Soviet Russia had anything to do with the Chinese liberation movement, MacDonald declared:

"It may have, but I would not say it was Russia who fomented it. She may have aided the movement, but the revolution was from the Chinese themselves."

Villard to Debate on Tabloids With Editor

Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of The Nation, will tell why he is irritated every time he looks at the Mirror, the Graphic, or the News next Friday evening at the Community Church, 11th Street and Park Avenue.

On that evening he will debate with Martin H. Weyrauch, assistant managing editor of the Evening Graphic on the question, "Is the Tabloid A Harmful Influence in America?"

Charles W. Wood, journalist, will act as chairman of the debate which is being arranged by the League for Mutual Aid.

Mineola Audience Hears Perjurer With Disgust

(Continued from Page One)

quest, the man who was running this "open shop" with two Greek girls who had carried union cards up to the time of the strike, but had now decided to work on the American plan while their fellow-unionists were on strike.

6.—Basoff the stool pigeon was arrested the next day. The union got him out on bail for $25,000. While out on bail he heard two furriers arguing in Astoria Hall as to who had cut the boss of the open shop in Long Island, and each had boasted that he had done it. The stool pigeon had a friend named Eddie who was also present at this queer conversation. He even said to this friend:

"You hear what they said, Eddie?"

And Eddie of course, answered, "yes."

7.—In September, 1926, after he had been tried, the stool pigeon came to the district attorney and voluntarily told him all the secrets of the alleged assault and the strike.

Denies Original Confession.

On cross examination further juicy details were added to this melodrama. At his first trial Basoff had been confronted by a sworn confession he had made to the chief of police, stating that he had been one of those in the alleged assault. In court he repudiated this confession, saying it had been extracted from him after four detectives had beaten him up with blackjacks, rubber clubs, hats and fists and feet.

"Detective Crowley sat on a chair and says, you musta seen Malkan and Franklin, the two other furriers," the stool pigeon had formerly testified. "I said no, then Crowley took his gray felt hat and smashed it over my face. He says, you know it's true, then he said, oh, I've spoiled my hat. Then he punched me and cut my face. Then they took me in a bedroom where cops were sleeping, and Crowley said, give it to him. I said, I don't know anything, but Crowley said, give him the regular routine. He took out his blackjack and hit me over the left arm. Then a detective from New York beat me with a rubber hose over the neck. I had a festered foot and they kicked that till I screamed. They said I didn't get enough, thought it lasted from 5 to 12 in the morning. For weeks I couldn't move the back of my head where they hit me."

Got Rough Third-Degree.

This circumstantial account of his beating the stool pigeon repudiated in court yesterday, saying that Ben Gold had told him to make the story up, even to the matter of the festered foot.

He also admitted that he had written a letter to the New York Graphic, protesting against this treatment, but that the furriers, Malkan and Franklin had told him to write it.

On cross-examination Basoff also admitted that the union had paid him for a vacation after he came back out of jail, and that later he had been told by Franklin that Ben Gold had promised him $50 a week. He would get all the leaders but in jail. Neither would he admit that he had spoken to Michael Hamburg, and promised that the A. F. of L. was ready to pay this man $3,000 if he would testify against Gold and the Furriers' Union. Hamburg was in court, and would probably appear later as a witness.

Helped Frame Workers.

Basoff admitted that he had gone with John Doe warrants to the fur market, accompanied by detectives, and had picked out various workers for arrest.

Basoff was convicted and sentenced to 2 1-2 years in Sing Sing, at the previous trial, along with the two other furriers. But he has not begun serving this sentence, and admitted with a smile he "hoped to get off; doesn't everyone hope so?"

Two Greek girls testified they had been working in the "open shop" when someone attacked their boss, that they could not identify anyone other than Franklin and Malkan as the assailants. I. Winnick, a vice-president of the International Furriers' Union who is working with the A. F. of L. officials to force the left wing furriers into surrendering their rights, was present in the court room as a visitor, and had a long, friendly chat with the Greek girls who testified they had worked in the open shop.

The trial and Basoff's cross examination will be resumed Monday morning. Judge Smith still maintains his record of overruling almost every objection raised by Frank P. Walsh and other attorneys for the defense.

Meeting of Iron and Bronze Workers Today

A call has been sent out to all members of the Iron and Bronze Workers' Union of this city to attend a mass meeting to be held this afternoon at the Manhattan Lyceum, 66 East 4th Street at 3 o'clock.

Speakers will discuss the recent campaign of the bosses to force drastic wage cuts, and of their plans to unite all the iron and bronze employers' associations in an effort to destroy the workers' organizations.

Spring Festival Dance, April 23.

A spring festival dance will be held Saturday evening, April 23 at the Astoria Mansion, 82 East Fourth St. It is arranged by the Downtown Section of the Young Workers League.

Interracial Concert Will be Held Sunday; Arrange Big Program

One of the most remarkable concerts and mass meetings of the season will take place Sunday, two p. m., at the Harlem Casino, 116th St. and Lenox Ave., under the auspices of the American Negro Labor Congress.

It will be an interracial affair where the Negro and white workers will join together in labor solidarity. Among those on the program will be the Freiheit Singing Society, Evelyn Preer, famous record star, The Perfect Harmony Four, Porter Grainger, distinguished composer, Daniel Haynes, noted Negro actor and others.

Among the speakers will be Richard B. Moore, Frank R. Crosswaite, William Pickens, Albert Weisbord and Robert W. Dunn. Admission will be fifty cents.

Benjamin Speaks Tomorrow.

D. Benjamin, assistant director of the Workers' School will lecture on "The Present Situation in China," at two o'clock tomorrow, at 33 East Second Street under the auspices of the Downtown Section of the Young Workers League.

A refreshing contrast to the subject matter of the previous lectures in his series on Post War Europe will be furnished by the final lecture this Saturday, April 16, at 2 P. M., at the Workers School, when Scott Nearing speaks on the one country in post war Europe that is definitely and steadily on the upgrade, namely, the Soviet Union. This series has presented a picture of Europe ruined by the world war, partially and temporarily stabilized in the so-called period of reconstruction, increasingly subject to the dominance of American capitalism, torn by Fascism, white terror and the acutest forms of the class war.

Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!

Semi-Official Organ in Italy Tells of the Jugoslav War Move

ROME, April 15.—This being Good Friday the Giornale D'Italia following the precept—"the better the day the better the deed"—published an entirely new set of Balkan war clouds.

The Giornale tenews its previous charges that Jugo-Slavia is continuing feverish military activities.

Competent observers here believe that these charges possibly have been put forth with the view to influencing the policy of the Italian government which has announced a forthcoming conference with Jugo-Slavia relative to their difficulties.

The Giornals charges that Jugo-Slavia is negotiating with a Spanish firm for purchase of a number of dirigibles, that arms and ammunitions are being shipped to the Albanian frontier, that military roads are being repaired and that 10,000 gendarmes have been concentrated on the Albanian frontier.

Doll Workers On Strike.

40 workers employed in the Abrill Doll Manufacturing Co., 143d St. and Walnut Ave., Bronx, went on strike yesterday afternoon. The walk-out followed attempts by the bosses to intimate the workers into signing "yellow-dog" agreements, promising that they would not strike at any time.

Great Meeting For Sacco and Vanzetti

(Continued from Page One)

Party; Bertram D. Wolfe, director of the Workers' School.

Louis Hyman, general manager of the Joint Board of the cloak and dressmakers' union; Charles Krumbein, Theresa Cosgrove, Pat Devine, August Burkhardt.

Robert Dunn Head of Committee

Robert W. Dunn, of the Civil Liberties Union, is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Large Police Detail.

More than 100 foot and mounted policemen under command of Inspector Patrick McCormick will be at today's meeting, Chief Inspector Leahy announced last night. This is an unusual large detail for a peaceful demonstration.

Garment Bosses' Paper Very Friendly to Woll

(Continued from Page One)

by some of the bosses. In his own shop, the firm of Samuels & Weckstein, Mr. Samuels made a speech to the workers commending registration. When he was challenged by a worker who said the Joint Board alone represented the workers, Samuels said:

"I am looking out for the interests of the workers. I know better than you, or the Joint Board what is good for the workers." But he could not compel registration.

Workers Stand By Union.

So with this "hand in hand" arrangement, Mr. Woll and Mr. Samuels are busily looking out "for the interests of the workers." Meanwhile the workers are taking care of themselves, defying attempts at terrorization, defending union conditions in the shop—under the agreement signed by their leaders at the close of the strike—and standing loyally with the Furriers' Joint Board to preserve their union from the reactionary gang of the A. F. of L. and the International Fur Workers' Union.

Volunteers Wanted For Sacco-Vanzetti

Comrades are urged to report for the distribution and sale of The DAILY WORKER at the Sacco-Vanzetti Demonstration this afternoon. All comrades should report at the local office, 108 East 14th Street at 12:30 sharp.

Furriers Plan For Defense Bazaar.

A meeting of delegates representing Furriers' Locals 1, 5, 10 and 15 was held at the defense office, 41 Union Square. It was reported that many shops are sending greetings to the special bazaar number of Unity, the militant needle trades weekly. It was decided to have a large booth at the bazaar, a committee being selected for that purpose.

An appeal was issued to all workers to collect articles and distribute the honor roll list.

Passaic Aroused By Weisbord Campaign; To Win City Office

(Special To The Daily Worker)

Passaic, N. J., April 13.—The announcement that Albert Weisbord will be a candidate for city commissioner has set the entire city afire with excitement, being the biggest sensation since the end of the textile strike.

The capitalist candidates for commissioners are worried, the candidacy of Weisbord upsetting their well calculated predications of how the voting and election would turn out. Weisbord is campaigning on a straight labor platform opposing the so-called liberal Cabell, as well as the most reactionary, Preskill.

Give Workers Promises.

Panic-stricken, the city administration is suddenly agreeing to the demands of the workers. They are now promising to open a city employment bureau with labor representation, to give relief to the unemployed and many other working class demands.

Their sudden change of heart has taken place since Weisbord has taken the stump as a labor candidate in the campaign. Up to that time they were strangely silent, ignoring all the pleas of the unemployed workers.

Will Face Other Candidates.

Weisbord has announced that he will appear at all the political meetings where the capitalist candidates speak and present the point of view of Bambach, Smelkinson and himself, who are running with the endorsement of the Passaic Branch of the Workers (Communist) Party. In addition several large rallies of their own are being arranged by labor candidates.

A meeting of all workers, especially citizens who are willing to assist in the campaign will be held Monday, 7:30 p. m., at the Workers Home, 27 Dayton Ave. Several hundred volunteers are needed for campaign work. Weisbord and others will speak.

Mississippi Valley Has Worst Floods in History

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 15.—The Mississippi Valley faced the most disastrous floods in its history tonight, breaks have already occurred in protecting levees between Cairo and Vicksburg and the flood is spreading over thousands of acres of the richest farming lands in the world.

The exodus from the lowlands has begun. Hundreds of families are making their way to bluffs and promontories in the interland where they will be safe from the rising water.

The Towns of Columbus and Hickman, Ky., where a levee broke last night, were partially inundated today. The water was eight to ten feet deep in the streets of Columbus and four and five feet deep in the streets of Hickman, both are villages.

Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!

Union Meetings

Amalgamated Food Workers

BAKERS' LOCAL No. 1.

350 E. 85th St. Office hours from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. Meeting on announcement of Executive Board.

Advertise your union meetings here. For information write to The DAILY WORKER Advertising Dept. 33 First St., New York City.

"Right You Are, If You Think You Are," Will Be Given for the Benefit of The Daily

Pirandello's delightful comedy, "Right You Are, If You Think You Are," will be given for the benefit of The DAILY WORKER, the week of May 10th to 14th. Tell your friends. More tomorrow.

"Pirenta" has been postponed by the New Playwrights' Theatre for the fall. All tickets will be redeemed or exchanged for the new play.

Five

Spring Masquerade

of the JEWISH WORKERS' UNIVERSITY

TONIGHT, APRIL 16, EASTER EVE.,
STAR CASINO, 107th St. and Park Ave.
DANCING ALL NIGHT.
THIRA SHOCKET AND HER DANCERS
in a special program.
Tickets 75c at Freiheit, 30 Union Square, and Jewish Workers' University, 126 East 16th Street.

CHARLES SELIKSON

Radios and Victrolas
1225 FIRST AVENUE
Corner 66th Street.
Cash or Easy Payments—
Stromberg-Carlson Radios
Fada-Neutrodyne
Atwater Kent
Radiola Super-Heterodyne
Freed-Eisemann
Freshman Masterpiece, Etc.
No Interest Charged.
INSTALLED FREE.
Everything Guaranteed.
OPEN EVENINGS.

Food Worker Donates $100 and Loans $25 To Daily Worker for Its Court Expenses

In response to the urgent call for funds to defray the expenses of the trial in which The DAILY WORKER is now involved, Comrade John Bulatkin, a food worker and a member of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers' Union, came into the office yesterday and gave us $5.00 as the initial payment on the pledge, then he gave $100.00 from his life long savings to The DAILY WORKER. In giving this money Comrade Bulatkin said that we must be ready to make every sacrifice in behalf of The DAILY WORKER which is the best weapon the working class in the country has.

BUSINESS & PROFESSIONAL DIRECTORY
FRIENDS OF ORGANIZED LABOR

Tel. Lehigh 6922
Dr. ABRAHAM MARKOFF
SURGEON DENTIST
Office Hours: 9 A.M. to 1 P.M. 2-8 P.M.
Daily Except Friday and Sunday.
Phone: 1430 EAST 174th STREET
Cor. Second Ave. New York.

For
A Home-Cooked Vegetarian Meal served in a home-like atmosphere
at
ESTHER'S DINING ROOM
26 East 109th Street.

Dr. J. Mindel Dr. L. Hendin
Surgeon Dentists
1 UNION SQUARE
Room 803 Phone Stuyv. 10119

Telephone Dry Dock 9069.
Meet me at the Public Art
Dairy Restaurant
and Vegetarian
75 SECOND AVE. NEW YORK
Opposite Public Theatre

Tel. Orchard 5783
Strictly by Appointment
DR. L. KESSLER
SURGEON DENTIST
48-50 DELANCEY STREET
Cor. Eldridge St. New York

Flora Anna Skin Ointment
for PIMPLES, BLACKHEADS, LIVER SPOTS
freckles, rash, itching skin, eczema or stubborn skin trouble, of any kind will be banished by use of FLORA ANNA SKIN OINTMENT, $1.00. Sold on money back guarantee.
NEW WAY LABORATORIES
376 West 42nd St. New York City
25% of all sales are donated to The DAILY WORKER. Always mention The DAILY WORKER on your order.

Dr. Jacob Levenson
SURGEON DENTIST
51 East 109th Street
Corner Madison Ave.
PHONE: UNIVERSITY 7425.

Booth Phones, Dry Dock 6612, 7846
Office Phone, Orchard 9319.
Patronize
MANHATTAN LYCEUM
Large Halls With Stage for Meetings, Entertainments, Balls, Weddings and Banquets; Cafeteria, 66-68 E. 4th St. New York, N. Y.
Small Meeting Rooms Always Available.

Phone: Drydock 2840.
FRED SPITZ
The FLORIST
3 SECOND AVENUE
Near Houston.
FRESH CUT FLOWERS DAILY
Fresh and Artificial Flowers
Delivered Anywhere.
SPECIAL REDUCTION TO LABOR ORGANIZATIONS.

Tel. Dry Dock 4306, 8045, 7491.
I. KITZIS, Prop.
THE ASTORIA
Palatial Ballrooms & Dining Rooms
CATERING A SPECIALTY
62-64 E. 4th St. New York City.

ANYTHING IN PHOTOGRAPHY
STUDIO OR OUTSIDE WORK
Patronize Our Friend
SPIESS STUDIO
51 Second Ave., cor. 3rd St.
Special Rates for Labor Organizations (Established 1887.)

Health Food
Vegetarian Restaurant
1600 Madison Ave.
PHONE: UNIVERSITY 8453.

"NATURAL FOODS"
Sundried Fruits, Honey, Nuts, Brown Rice, Whole Wheat Macaroni, Spaghetti, Noodles, Nut Butters, Swedish Bread, Maple Syrup, Tea and Coffee Substitutes, Innerkean, Kneipp Teas. Books on Health.
VITALITY FOOD & VIGOR FOOD
Our Specialties
KUBIE'S HEALTH SHOPPE
75 Greenwich Ave., New York
(7th Ave. and 11th St.)
Open Evenings. Mail Orders Filled.

FOR A PRIMAL, WHOLESOME, NOURISHING MEAL
Come to
Scientific Vegetarian Restaurant
75 E. 107th Street New York.

Where do we meet to drink and eat?
at Sollins' Dining Room
Good Food Good Company!
Any Hour Any Day!
REAL HOME COOKING
202 E. 14th St. Bet. 2 & 3 Aves.
Phone: Stuyvesant 7461.

Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!

RATIONAL LIVING
A RADICAL HEALTH MONTHLY
R. EIBER, Editor.
MAY CONTAIN: Solution of Sympathy. S. H. Schmalhausen—The Women of Humanity. Dr. J. Angier—Anti-Pessimism. M. Oppenheimer—Are Good Prevention and Cure Identical. Mary Doubleday—Scare of Disease—Letter from Tuberculosis. Food and Fascism—Common Cause of Disease. How Your Teeth Rationally—Food—A Student's First Steps in Medicine—Instinctive Sex Instruction. War Results. Exercise. Etc.
Rational Living as a revolution in thought, personal habits, hygiene and treatment of disease. It contains about 150 pages (more than most, but not fitting into any system), for both a new philosophy.
A magazine published at a loss. No paid advertisements. No doctors, drugs, institutions, curing methods to recommend. Its aim is to teach its readers to become as independent from them as possible. Limited circulation.
Subscription, 12 months, 75 cts.; Single Nos. 10 cts. Challenging Returns: Those who cannot pay the full price may send as much as they can; single copy 50 cents (Europe 70 cents). Back single copies free to new subscribers.
As A DOCTOR SEES IT, by R. Eiber, an elegant volume of 122 pictures of diseases from proletarian life as seen by a physician, and illustrated by the author; 200 pages. $1.50. Free with a subscription to Rational Living if requested.
Address: Rational Living, Box 2, Station M, New York.

Four Years of Pioneer Work will be Celebrated by the BRONX SECTION YOUNG PIONEERS with a CONCERT and Entertainment
TONIGHT, April 16, 8 P. M.
at
1347 Boston Road, Bronx
Admission, Adults 35c, Children 10c

GRAND BALL AND ENTERTAINMENT
Under Auspices of
LEITRIM IRISH REPUBLICAN CLUB
At NEW HARLEM CASINO, 116th Street and Lenox Avenue.
(Entire receipts to defraying cost Republican Election cards in Co. Leitrim, Ireland.)
TONIGHT, APRIL 16th, 1927
James F. O'Kelly, Pres. Martin Rooney, Treas. Brian Gilgunn, Sec'y.
Executive Committee: Michael J. O'Connor, James J. Connolly, Bernard Rooney, James Grallen, Thomas Hugh McGuire, M. Byrne.
Arrangements Committee: Joseph Rooney, Jas. O'Rourke, M. Byrne, M. McGuinness, Tom Byrne, Thomas Foley, Patrick Carter, P. Mullen, Owen McGrane, Patrick Rowley, Hugh McKiernan, James Gilgunn, Thomas Casilly, Bernard McManus, John Rudden, J. Darcy, Brian Gilgunn, Chairman.
The Most Beautiful, Spacious and Central Ballroom in New York.
TICKETS, FIFTY CENTS A PERSON.

GrandBall

UNDER AUSPICES OF THE U. L. CLUB will be held at
THE MANHATTAN LYCEUM
66-68 East 4th St., New York, N. Y.
on
SATURDAY EVE., 8 P. M., APRIL 16, 1927
GOOD MUSIC! TICKETS 50c.

MONSTER INTERRACIAL
Labor Mass Meeting and Concert under the auspices of
THE AMERICAN NEGRO LABOR CONGRESS
SUNDAY, APRIL 17th, 1927, at 2 P. M.
At HARLEM CASINO, 116th Street and Lenox Avenue
SPEAKERS

RICHARD B. MOORE
N. Y. District Amer. Negro Labor Congress
FRANK R. CROSSWAITE
Organizer Pullmon Porters' Union
GEO. A. WESTON
Vice-President Pioneer Negroes of the World

DEAN WM. PICKENS
Nat. Asst'n for Advancement of Colored People
ALBERT WEISSBORD
Leader of Passaic Textile Strike
ROBERT DUNNE
Noted Journalist and Speaker

BIG CONCERT PROGRAM
BY FOREMOST ARTISTS OF BOTH RACES

EVELYN PREER
of Lulu Belle Co. & Famous Record Star
"PERFECT HARMONY FOUR"
O-KEH RECORD STARS
PORTER GRAINGER
Distinguished Composer

CHARLES GILPIN
Star of "Emperor Jones"
THE FREIHEIT SINGING SOCIETY and other artistic numbers

COME! Admission 50 Cents. BRING YOUR FRIENDS!

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
Daily, Except Sunday
33 First Street, New York, N. Y. Phone, Orchard 1680

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail (in New York only):	By mail (outside of New York):
$8.00 per year $4.50 six months	$6.00 per year $3.50 six months
$2.50 three months	$2.00 three months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, New York, N. Y.

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE .....Editors
BERT MILLER.....Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail at the post-office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Advertising rates on application.

The Chinese Workers and Peasants Now Fight as a Class.

To the liberals and pacifists and confused workers the open conflict in the Nationalist Party will appear as a tragedy. It is tragic only in that the lives of workers have been sacrificed in the struggle but the conflict itself was as inevitable as is the revolution which produced it.

The middle class thru all history has played the role of hangmen of the working class. It prates of pure democracy, it cries for and often struggles under the slogan of "democracy" but always when the masses insist on the defense of their interests it finds an excuse first to desert them and then to attempt to crush them.

The middle class group in the Kuomintang represented by Chiang Kai-Shek have everything in common with the capitalist and middle class democratic elements in the imperialist countries except recognition of themselves by the powers as the government of China. This group claims to represent all the people of China and in this it shows its historical position.

Said Marx in his "Eighteenth Brumaire":

"But the democrat, because he represents the petty bourgeoisie—a transitional class in which the interests of two classes are simultaneously blunted—arrogates to himself a position of superiority to class conflicts. Democrats admit that they are faced by a privileged class, but they think that they themselves, in conjunction with the rest of the nation, constitute the "people." What they represent is the right of the people; what interests them, is the popular interest. Consequently, when a struggle is impending, they see no reason for studying the interests and attitudes of the various classes, or for carefully reckoning up the forces at their own disposal. They need merely give the signal, and the people (whose resources are inexhaustible) will fall upon the oppressors. If it should turn out that their interests are inadequate and that their supposed power is impotent, they ascribe their defeat to the activities of pernicious sophists who have spread disunion and have split up the indivisible people into a number of mutually hostile factions . . . Whatever happens, the democrat come forth unspotted after the most shameful defeat, just as he was a blameless innocent before he entered the battle. . . ."

The determination of the imperialists to hold Shanghai at all costs came as a terrible blow to the Chinese middle class which, true to type, had underestimated the resistance of world imperialism. It had fallen for the propaganda of the imperialists—that they were ready to recognize a "stable" government which represented the Chinese "people."

The rise of the labor movement, its class consciousness and militancy, were pointed to by the imperialists as an obstacle to recognition of a purely Nationalist government. The Chinese middle class has turned upon the working class and has thereby endangered the whole anti-imperialist movement without securing any guarantees for its own special interests from the imperialist powers.

Imperialism, as the Communist International has pointed out repeatedly, cannot be conquered in China without nationalization of the land and the principal industries—transportation for instance. The power of the imperialists cannot be broken by pure military methods. The workers and peasantry must be organized and that part of the program which improves their conditions at once be put into practice.

The middle class leadership of the Kuomintang finds itself in conflict with its social kindred if it yields to the demand of the masses which in this instance are the strongest weapon against imperialism. It chooses to defend the interests of the middle class, which are opposed to those of the masses and it becomes an ally of imperialism in so far as their interests coincide. They do coincide in that both see a menace to their privileges in the increasing consciousness, organization and power of the workers and peasants.

Said Lenin in the Theses of the Second Congress of the Communist International:

"There are to be found in the dependent countries two distinct movements which grow every day farther apart from each other. One is the bourgeois democratic Nationalist government, with a program of political independence under the bourgeois order, and the other is the mass action of the poor peasants and workers for their liberation from all sorts of exploitation. The former endeavor to control the latter, and often succeed to a certain extent, but the Communist International must struggle against such control and help to develop class consciousness in the working masses of the colonies. The first step towards revolution in the colonies must be the overthrow of foreign capitalism."

The Chinese liberation movement has developed so rapidly its struggle against imperialism that the parallel development of the workers and peasant movement has been obscured. It is now plain, however, that, as in the Russian revolution, those elements which wish to compromise with capitalism at the expense of the masses, will no longer be tolerated by the conscious workers and peasants as leaders.

Far from the split in the Kuomintang being a tragedy it is the best of all guarantees that imperialism and its allies in China confront a movement of tremendous scope and power having its base in the masses of toilers and preparing its forces for struggle against all forms of oppression.

That this movement would not follow Chiang Kai-Shek into the morass of compromise with imperialism is an earnest of the soundness of its revolutionary core.

Without ceasing their demand for withdrawal of all imperialist forces from China, the American working class must now understand that the Chinese labor movement and the peasant organizations, in their two-sided struggle against imperialism and native reaction, have the first call on their sympathy and support.

Moscow in October

II.—COMMANDERS.

I had hardly begun making a speech calling upon the soldiers to leave that day at dawn for the Moscow Soviet to fight those who were trying in Moscow to defend the Government that was overthrowing Petersburg, when I observed that my friend had plunged somewhere into the crowd of soldiers and disappeared amongst them. At the same time I glanced round and noticed that the young soldier standing by me who had wanted to write our names down, had also disappeared somewhere. A tall soldier in a grey fur cap, came up to the table. He also had a rifle in his hands. After listening to my speech, he himself began speaking shaking his rifle in the air.

The face of the soldier speaker resembled that of Ivan the Terrible. His eyes blazed with inspiration and appeal.

"Comrades, come on," he said, "but don't take any officers with you: they will be treacherous."

* * *

I heard someone rattling the bolt of his rifle behind me and someone else crying out in a hoarse-sleepy voice:

"Enough, comrades, enough! We have heard you before, Comrade Yegorov, we know all about it; enough of this talk—we'll go and that's all."

"We'll go" voices muttered. "File off! Go out into the yard." And they all immediately moved back again to their bunks in order to get dressed and awaken the others:

We could hear them saying:

"Go out! With cartridges! . . . Get up! . . ."

* * *

I went out into the yard together with the soldiers who had already dressed. In the very doorway I bumped right into my pal who, quite excited, held the young fellow by the hand who had wanted to write down our names.

Passing by the Krasnaya Vorota, we saw how a narrow strip of the morning dawn was visible behind them. Moscow was still quiet, the outlines of the houses stood out more clearly.

I glanced behind.

In the distance round a bend in the street, walking straight towards the breaking dawn, a grey mass of soldiers were marching steadily.

Their new commander—the tall soldier, again bent whispered in my ear

"And in Peters-burg, has Lenin issued the order about the land?"

"Yes. We shall have to confirm it here by our acts."

On the Lubyanskaya Square there was some kind of old disused fountain. It was light grey when we passed by. On the fountain, the pavement along the walls and gates of the "Chinatown," ("Kitai Gorod" the business district of Moscow), soldiers were seated. We stopped and asked them what they were waiting for.

"Come along, here," the soldiers said to us. "But we have not got any commanders. Come to the Soviet, someone told us that we should wait here and we are waiting."

We gave them instructions to march to the Soviet and not to listen to any proposals.

"It is bad without commanders," said the tall soldier.

When we came to the Moscow Soviet, it swarmed with soldiers like an ant hill.

And there were no commanders anywhere.

* * *

In the evening of the next day, when we could all smell powder in the air quite plainly, we—the Military-Revolutionary Committee—firmly realized what commanders were and what significance they could have in military activities.

But where are they to be found? There were no Bolshevik sergeants or corporals to be found. There were also very few soldiers who could command big units. They promoted themselves on the spot under fire.

That evening going down the steps of the Moscow Soviet, I caught up one non-commissioned officer who was reckoned as a Bolshevik.

"Where are you off to?" I asked. "Why, in a few minutes the rising is starting."

It appeared that this was a young S.R. who had gone off to smash the locks of the premises where the cartridges were kept. My comrade, who had been suspicious of him from the very start, observed that he had gone somewhere and then followed him.

Meanwhile, soldiers filed through the yard. It seemed quite natural that the command was taken over by the same tall fellow in the grey fur cap who had warned us against taking the officers. We heard him crying out:

"Well, what about it? . . . Have you broken the lock? Smash the door in like that!"

This was evidently in regard to the store with the cartridges.

The S.R. who had broken the lock of the store, stood there surrounded by soldiers. He immediately began to excuse himself:

"Comrades, I am not against you, I am only against bloodshed. Don't you understand. Surely you can go out without cartridges. Bear in mind that they themselves fire sometimes. Themselves. This must be foreseen. Comrades! A socialist cannot go out with loaded rifle against a socialist."

"But didn't Kerensky fire?" someone shouted.

"Stop your talk," the soldier cried, "everyone out into the street." Their new commander—the tall soldier with the face of Ivan the Tarrible—sat with us in the car and leaning over to my ear asked:

"And what about the other detachments?"

"We have already been to the 193 regiment in the Spassky Barracks on Khodynka, the artillery—they are coming out everywhere."

* * *

Then we ware silent.

"Well," and the non-commissioned officer looked up at me with kind sympathetic eyes, "I am now going to rig myself out for the 'front' and get arms. . . . I live near here. . . ."

The fight commenced 20 minutes after by conversation with the non-commissioned officer, and continued the whole of the next day and the day after. One comrade from our staff even after the non-commissioned officer who had gone "to rig himself up for the 'front.'" The comrade went to his home and reported:

"The windows are boarded up. The house is dark. They told me that T. . . . was not there."

And the next day the same reply.

Altogether we had six or seven non-commissioned officers on our side and they were all, except for the author of these lines, either Left SR's, or else non-party people who had put themselves completely at the disposition of the Military Revolutionary Committee and had honestly fulfilled the tasks entrusted them. (To be continued.)

FUNERAL CHANT

Being beheaded is preferable . . .
Surrender to Tyranny is the soul's decapitation!
Youth's warm blood, flowing . . .
Thorns and prickles growing throughout our Country . . .
Wolves and tigers with red fangs!
Lavers of Liberty pay its price;
Manly men die without regret;
The blood that flows is the generative blood of a Nation.

Standard Oil of New Jersey

(By A Worker Correspondent).

WHILE working on the Silver Arrow of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey just after the ship made port and before she started to reload with oil for the next trip out, the mate told me to go down and rid the gas tank of the accumulated rust and grease on the bottom of the tank. This order is not as unusual as it is characteristic of the risks and dangers which the sailors on the tankers of the Standard Oil boats are forced to undertake while in the employ of this company.

These tanks of the type which the mate asked me to clean out are the tanks which store the oil on the trans-Atlantic and coastwise tankers. The usual procedure in cleaning out the tanks after they are empty of cargoes is something like the following:

While yet at sea the hatches are lifted from the empty tanks and the tanks exposed. Then windsails are rigged up to catch the breeze against the cloth and it is conveyed to the tanks below. This system is supposed to carry the air below and thereby clear the tanks of poisonous and noxious gases, such as the evaporated gasoline and petroleum products.

These foul gases settle to the bottom of the tank. After the windsails have been up some time and the tanks supposedly rid of the gases, the hatches are closed and flushed with live steam. This is done with the purpose of ridding the sides of the tank of the accumulated oil and rust. Following this the tank is washed down with a stream of water projected from a hose from the deck. Then the water is let out from the bottom of the tank and the tank is pronounced clean of everything, gases and all. However, what interests the company is the rust which is left at the bottom of the tank, which must be cleaned before the ship can refill. This rust usually piles up six or seven inches high and covers the bottom of the tank. It is gathered together by sweeping and then is hauled above decks. But here is where the filth comes in.

The officials of the Standard Oil Company know full well that those tanks into which it sends its men are not really clear of gases and poisonous vapors. It knows it so well that there are special doctors provided to examine the men after a certain amount of employment at this dangerous game. And it is not infrequently that a poor cuss is fired after an examination; this due to physical disability. "What's the matter with him?" Will the doctor tell him?" Of course not. But after a few months that young fellow who has been foolish enough to work hard and faithfully carry out his orders in regards to cleaning out the death chambers which help to fill the pockets of the shareholders of the Standard Oil Company with blood-dripped gold, will be laying in some marine hospital, spitting his lungs out, having blood hemorrhages and showing every other indication of having either T. B. or some other deadly lung disease.

Many is the time that I've seen healthy lapping young lads go down smiling into the depths of a gas tank and come out sweating, pale, dizzy and knocked out. These tanks have been instrumental in sending many men to early graves.

It is a very necessary safety rule that any seaman or shore worker should wear a gas mask to which pure air is pumped while he is working below. But the Standard Oil Company is following the most modern and up-to-date system of economy and speed-up in its administration of exploitation. They save money by sending the seamen to choke below after their routine tasks are over despite the fact that they are entitled to knock off, while they take it easy and feast or ride around off Tampico or play golf at Palm Beach or some other resort for the idle rich.

Only the officers at present have masks and they are pretty careful to keep them when they go down into the tank.

Once I got a terrible kick in my back for just pumping air down to the boatswain and the chief mate and they were pretty worried about their sacred lives.

Seems as tho our officers are pretty careful of their sweet lives. But what about us guys who have to do the dirty work. It's we that ought to get the protection, not them. If it weren't for the fact that men on the Standard Oil wouldn't move oil, wouldn't be loaded on or loaded off and there wouldn't be any dividends for the stockholders of the Standard Oil Co.

Those parasites live in luxury at our expense, while we try to get along on from $10 to $60 a month.

Let's Fight On! Join The Workers Party!

In the loss of Comrade Ruthenberg the Workers (Communist) Party has lost its foremost leader and the American working class its staunchest fighter. This loss can only be overcome by many militant workers joining the Party that he built.

Fill out the application below and mail it. Become a member of the Workers (Communist) Party and carry forward the work of Comrade Ruthenberg.

I want to become a member of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Name .....

Address .....

Occupation .....

Union Affiliation.....

Mail this application to the Workers Party, 108 East 14th Street, New York City; or if in other city to Workers Party, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Distribute the Ruthenberg pamphlet, "The Workers (Communist) Party, What it Stands For and Why Workers Should Join." This Ruthenberg pamphlet will be the basic pamphlet thruout the Ruthenberg Drive.

Every Party Nucleus must collect 50 cents from every member and will receive 20 pamphlets for every member to sell or distribute.

Nuclei in the New York District will get their pamphlets from the District Office—108 East 14th St.

Nuclei outside of the New York District write to Daily Worker Publishing Co., 33 East First Street, New York City, or to the National Office, Workers Party, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

No More Stories About "Peaches."

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., April 15. —In order discontinuing the $400 a week temporary alimony to Frances "Peaches" Browning, flapper bride of Edward W. Browning, middle-aged millionaire, and allowing Henry Epstein, her counsel an additional $2,500 fee and $1,884 expenses, was signed today by Supreme Court Justice Seeger.

Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!

"America and the Next War"—Sunday Night

Jay Lovestone, Acting General Secretary of the Workers Party has been secured for the Forum Lecture to be delivered at the Workers School Forum, 108 East 14th Street, this Sunday night (April 17) at 8 P. M. His topic is "America and the Next War."

The lecture consists of a report on the analysis of the world situation made by the last Plenum of the Executive Committee of the Communist International to which Lovestone was a delegate from the Workers' (Communist) Party of America. The findings of the Plenum will be supplemented by an analysis of recent developments such as the developments in China, Nicaragua, Mexico, etc. This forum lecture is the first public report made in the United States on the last Plenum of the Executive Committee of the Communist International and therefore should be of special interest.

On the following Sunday night, April 24, Joe Freeman, well known proletarian journalist who returns from Russia this week, after a stay of over 6 months in that country, will speak on "Russia in 1927."

FOOTNOTES TO THE NEWS

By EUGENE LYONS

ANOTHER CHINESE PUZZLE.

(Clipped from the morning papers, April 12.)

LONDON, April 11.—Michael Borodin has disappeared from active work in China, the Daily Express says, and adds from those in the secrets of the Cantonese government, no one knows what has become of him.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Rear Admiral H. H. Hough, commander of the Yangtse Patrol Force, reports he has reliable information that the Nationalists contemplate the immediate removal of their capital to Nanking. Troops at Wuchang publicly declared themselves for Chiang Kai-shek. Borodin and other government officials have left concessions for Chinese City.

SONG OF THE MARINES.

Hurray! Hurray! We're on our way

We don't know why nor give a damn
We're told to go by Uncle Sam.

We're on our way! Hurray! Hurray!

"Lives" to protect in China land,
That they expect, we understand.

Hurray! Hurray! We're on our way!

A good marine, no questions asks,
Like a machine, he does his tasks.

We're on our way, Hurray! Hurray!

We go to fight and shoot to kill
Right or wrong, we get a thrill.

Hurray! Hurray! We're on our way!

If we come back, and when we do,
We each may lack a limb or two.

We're on our way! Hurray! Hurray!

—ADOLF WOLFF.

CUSTOMER.—Here waiter! I find a needle in the noodle soup.
WAITER.—Sorry, sir—just a typographical error.

DUMB BELLES-LETTRES.

Dear Lester:

Well, Lester darling, I hope you will forgive me not writing so long, won't you? I hardly know where to begin, Lester dear, because so much happened since last time I took pen in hand. Mostly in China I mean where the southerners are fighting against the north, the foreigners' gunboats and the correspondents, as well as among themselves.

Soviet Russia, as best I can make out though I don't get it so well, has threatened China with peace and nobody knows how to make out such strange behavior. It started with a raid on the Bolsheviks in Peking and so forth, and what do you suppose they found in the Soviet headquarters? Why, Russian books and pictures of Lenine and Trotsky and a lot of other Communist documents, including red flags and the like. So it is quite clear, isn't it, that there was a red plot brewing. Though my brother Percy, who's a great kidder, says what did they expect to find, maybe pictures of Coolidge and tracts from the missionaries or something.

And anyhow, Eugene Chen over in Hankow apologized to Russia for what the Chinese in Peking did. And Chang-Tso-Lin in Peking is expected to apologize for what the fellows in Nanking did, tit for tat, so maybe that's why they have two governments, each one to prove that the other isn't responsible. Also with all the raids on reds in Shanghai and the like the American powers feel quite at home, so there you are. The powers including Kellogg sent notes to the Cantonese asking that they apologize for being bombarded by English and American ships in Nanking and to promise not to do it again.

Now that's a mouthful about China, isn't it Lester darling, and there seems no end to it. But I guess there are going to be enough of our boys there soon to clean house once and for all. Coolidge says there are enough there already which means that the Navy will soon send more, at least that's how it always works out. Though I don't know why unless it's what the papers call diplomacy or high politics or something.

Also there's an investigation in New York about how the Soviets corrupted the police. The A. F. of L. which made the accusation says it didn't make it, and the reds and the bluecoats say they never gave or received bribes and the papers say that of course the police wouldn't do such a thing, so I can't make out what the investigation is all about anyway. Also there were elections in Chicago but there wasn't many casualties and I don't remember which gang won. Also an Italian aeroplane flier, De Pinedo, who crossed the Atlantic Ocean all right and managed the Brazilian jungles without a hitch, was blown up in Texas, which all goes to show, doesn't it?

Another thing that you will be glad to know is that Henry Ford had an accident while learning to drive a car and that Coolidge is still looking for a place to spend the summer. He wants to see how the poor farmers get along and he is trying to decide which is the worst and most palatial home for him with the best fishing and the like.

It's all I can think of now, darling, although I'm sure I'll think of a million things after I mail this letter, Lester dear, so take care of yourself and think of your lonesome,

Sincerely yours,

MYRTLE.

The magazine "School," whose editor is appropriately named E. L. Hackney, carries the following epoch-making suggestion:

"The fingerprinting and registering all elementary school graduates under the direction of the police department has been suggested by the Professional Elementary Teachers' Association as a method of meeting the problem of juvenile delinquency. At a recent meeting the association unanimously adopted resolutions submitting this suggestion to the superintendent of schools, the mayor and the police commissioner. . . . After stating that the association is "awake to the fact of the prevalence of criminal tendencies on the part of present day youth, and believes that the prevention of these criminal tendencies is possible," the resolutions suggest: "Every child in the city of New York upon graduation or other discharge from an elementary school should be formally introduced to the city of which he is a part by proper and adequate registration, including identification by fingerprinting under the care of the department of police, so that the child may be led to a proper feeling of responsibility and gratitude for its elemantary education. By this means the negative criminal tendencies will be diverted to positive tendencies of noblest character."

Italian Artist Gets His Due.—Don't let anybody tell you that New Yorkers don't appreciate art. Of a Titian just bought by the Metropolitan Museum of Art the New York Sun says in its headlines: "CRITICS LOUD IN ITS PRAISE."

The Truth Will Out.—A headline in the New York World, early edition of April 12, said, "JEFFERSON DINNER A HARMONY FROST." This extraordinary candor on part of a democratic paper was explained by a later edition, in which the headline was corrected to read, "JEFFERSON DINNER A HARMONY FEAST."

Every Worker Get Behind the Coal Miners—Help Save the Miners' Union!

THE DAILY WORKER FIGHTS:
FOR THE ORGANIZATION OF THE UNORGANIZED
FOR THE 40-HOUR WEEK
FOR A LABOR PARTY

THE DAILY WORKER

NATIONAL EDITION

Entered as second-class matter at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Vol. IV. No. 80. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In New York, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside New York, by mail, $4.00 per year. NEW YORK, SATURDAY, APRIL 16, 1927 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 33 First Street, New York, N. Y. Price 3 Cents

Ben Gold, Manager Fur Workers' Joint Board

Drawn By Hugo Gellert.

A leader beloved by the workers both for his personal qualities and his fearless, militant leadership of the New York Furriers' Joint Board, Ben Gold with 10 of his fellow-workers have been brought to trial in s capitalist court thru the conspiracy of reactionary A. F. of L. officials who fear and hate his devotion to the union and the interests of the wurkers.

Semi-Official Organ In Italy Tells of the Jugoslav War Move

ROME, April 15.—This being Good Friday the Giornale D'Italia following the precept—"the better the day the better the deed"—paraded an entirely new set of Balkan war clouds.

The Giornale renews its previous charges that Jugo-Slavia is continuing feverish military activities.

Competent observers here believe that these charges possibly have been put forth with the view to influencing the policy of the Italian government which has announced a forthcoming conference with Jugo-Slavia relative to border difficulties.

The Giornale charges that Jugo-Slavia is negotiating with a Spanish firm for purchase of a number of destroyers, that arms and ammunitions are being shipped to the Albanian frontier, that military roads nre being repaired and that 10,000 gendarmes have been concentrated on the Albanian frontier.

MacDonald Here; "Forward" to Pay Expense of Visit

J. Ramsey MacDonald once Premier of Great Britain arrived in New York yesterday afternoon. He was accompanied on the trip from England by B. Charney Vladeck, business manager of the Jewish Daily "Forward", which is footing all the expenses attached to the trip.

In return, the present chairman of the British Labor Party will be the "guest of honor" at the forthcoming 20th anniversary celebration which will be held soon.

Thus two functions will he served, for not only will MacDonald grace the seats of honor at the "Forward" celebration where he will be flanked by Morris Hillquit, Abraham Beckerman, Morris Sigman, and the other high-priests of the official socialists and trade-union bureaucracy, but he will also he utilized to give a little "dignity" to the present treacherous fight being waged by them against the workers in the New York needle trades, which is resulting in disruption of the unions and the lowering of their living standards.

For all official purposes MacDonald and his daughter, Isabel who came with him, will be the guests of Miss Lillian D. Wald, head of the Henry St. Settlement.

Upon his arrival he was met by Mayor "Jimmy" Walker's reception committee who went down the bay to welcome him at Quarantine.

Looks for Return to Power.

The British reformist declared to newspapermen that the Labor Party in England has become greatly strengthened in the last year and that "English public opinion, augmented by the extension of the suffrage to women, will hasten the return of the Labor Party to power."

Lowdown on China.

Asked if he believed Soviet Russia had anything to do with the Chinese liberation movement, MacDonald declared:

"It may have, but I would not say it was Russia who fomented it. She may have aided the movement, but the revolution was from the Chinese themselves."

PASSAIC AROUSED OVER WEISBORD'S STRONG CAMPAIGN

Textile Strike Leader Runs for City Office

(Special To The Daily Worker)

Passaic, N. J., April 15.—The announcement that Albert Weisbord will be a candidate for city commissioner has set the entire city afire with excitement, being the biggest sensation since the end of the textile strike.

The capitalist candidates for commissioners are worried, the candidacy of Weisbord upsetting their well calculated predications of how the voting and election would turn out. Weisbord is campaigning on a straight labor platform opposing the so-called liberal Cabell, as well as the most reactionary, Preskill.

Give Workers Promises.

Panic-stricken, the city administration is suddenly agreeing to the demands of the workers. They are now promising to open a city employment bureau with labor representation, to give relief to the unemployed and many other working class demands.

Their sudden change of heart has taken place since Weisbord has taken the stump as a labor candidate in the campaign. Up to that time they were strangely silent, ignoring all the pleas of the unemployed workers.

Will Face Other Candidates.

Weisbord has announced that he will appear at all the political meetings where the capitalist candidates speak and present the point of view of Bambach, Smelkinson and himself, who are running with the endorsement of the Passaic Branch of the Workers (Communist) Party. In addition several large rallies of their own are being arranged by labor candidates.

Volunteers Needed.

A meeting of all workers, especially citizens who are willing to assist in the campaign will be held Monday, 7:30 p. m., at the Workers Home, 27 Dayton Ave. Several hundred volunteers are needed for campaign work. Weisbord and others will speak.

French Police Arrest Twelve; Allege Spying

PARIS, April 15.—More than a dozen arrests have been made in connection with an alleged espionage plot.

Two municipal councillors of St. Cyr L'Ecole, where the French Military Academy is located, are among those arrested. A warrant has also been issued for the arrest of a municipal councillor of Paris.

Police allege that the plot aimed at the stealing of French military secrets. They make the usual charges against Communists.

NEWS IN BRIEF

U. S. Foreign Sales Increased.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—American foreign sales increased materially during the first quarter of this yenr, the commerce department announced today.

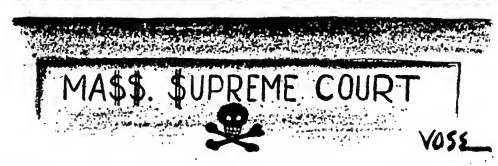
Count Karolyi In Canada

WINNIPEG, April 15.—Tentative plans of Count Michael Karolyi, former Premier of Hungary, to found an agricultural colony in western Canada were revealed today by Dr. Emil Lengyel, Count Karolyi's personal representative who is inspecting land in Manitoba and Saskatchewan for the Count.

Woman Held Prisoner.

A twenty-two year old mother of two children was rescued by police yesterday from an apartment at 212 North Fifth Street, Brooklyn, where she claims she was held prisoner for two days after being kidnaped in a taxi.

Mass. Fire Spreads.



REVERE, Mass., April 15.—Two homes were attacked by flames and many others were in constant danger as woodland fire raging over a five mile area remained beyond the control of the combined forces of the Revere, Everett and Winthrop fire departments today.

Murder and Suicide in Legislature.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 15.—A cloud of tragedy hung over the California Legislature today as the result of a murder and suicide in the Rotunda of the capitol. Harry Hill, 61, Los Angeles lobbyist, shot and killed his former sweetheart, Miss Mary Belle Wallace, 29, a senate clerk, and then committed suicide.

Hill, according to police, was angered by the refusal of Miss Wallace to marry him.

Tacoma Police Stop Meeting for Sacco, Vanzetti Liberation

TACOMA, Wash., April 15 — A mass meeting under I. W. W. auspices was held at 11th and Pacific Ave., Saturday evening, April 9th at 8 p. m. to protest against the unjust imprisonment and coming execution of Sacco and Vanzetti.

Arthur Boose an ex-class war prisoner was the speaker of the evening and beginning at 8 o'clock for forty minutes spoke of the Massachusetts frame-up and persecution.

The speaker showed how the court, high and low, and all of the law making and law enforcing power of both the state and federal government, is used as a weapon in the hands of the capitalist class, to keep the working class in subjection.

Suddenly as though to prove the truth of the speakers' statement a uniformed Tacoma police officer stepped up to the speaker and forced him to step down from the box and ordered the crowd to disperse.

Big business advertises Tacoma as the lumber capitol of America, and 14th and Pacific Aves. has been used for years for public meetings.

WORKERS PROTEST AGAINST DEATH OF SACCO and VANZETTI!

Aids Sacco and Vanzetti

Mrs. Glendower Evans of Boston has been working in the interests of Sacco and Vanzetti, fighting for their lives against the mill barons' frame-up.

"Sacco, Vanzetti Innocent," — Eye Witness Declares

BOSTON, April 15.—Coming from Florida at his own expense to aid in the effort to save Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti from the electric chair, Albert Frantello, who saw the two gun-men who shot down a paymaster and his guard in South Braintree in 1920, the crime for which Sacco and Vanzetti were convicted called at the office of Gov. Alvan T. Fuller this afternoon.

Sacco, Vanzetti Innocent, He Says.

Frantello stated emphatically at the trial, and he repeated his statement today, that the bandits were not Sacco and Vanzetti.

The man, who has been making his home in Florida, was accompanied by Representative Boland D. Sawyer, of Ware, who failed in an attempt to get the legislature to name a commission to investigate the Sacco-Vanzetti case. Gov. Fuller was in Albany, N. Y., and Sawyer said a conference would be arranged when he returns.

Police Stop Students' Test.

Harvard students, who planned to re-enact the shooting in South Braintree this afternoon, on the seventh anniversary of the crime, in an effort to determine whether witnesses could

(Continued on Page Two)

Envoy to Britain in "Big Four" Scandal

PREVIOUS EVENTS OF INSURANCE EXPOSÉ

The DAILY WORKER continues its exposure of the Metropolitan, Prudential, John Hancock and Colonial Life Insurance Companies which constitute the "Big Four" insurance trust. This combine insure 40 million American workers. Previous articles have made proof of fraud, swindle, misrepresentation, misuse of company funds. Names mentioned in the exposé to date have been Charles Evans Hughes, Charles M. Schwab, Supt. of Insurance James A. Beha and others. Dread of nationwide exposure has caused these Wall Street leeches to maintain a frightened silence under this attack.

By CHARLES YALE HARRISON.

Some few years ago, Dr. Lee K. Frankel, Ph. D., a prominent "industrial" life insurance man, and at present second vice-president of the Metropolitan Life, speaking at the National Conference of Charities and Correction, said: "Today the sole criterion which can be brought against industrial life insurance is that of cost—after all, Service is not calculable in dollars and cents."

In spite of the learned doctor's statement, "industrial" life insurance IS calculated in dollars and cents, dollars and cents which are most often taken from the small store needed for the necessities of life, dollars and cents which are wheedled and scared out of an ignorant public with threats of penury in old age and unburied corpses in death. (Dr. Frankel is a doctor of philosophy calculated in terms of $35,000 a year.)

Harsh—Misrepresent.

In England a few years ago, Lord Parmoor, a member of the late labor cabinet, conducted an official investigation into the malicious "industrial" insurance system as conducted in that country. It was found that "industrial" insurance is excessive in cost, harsh in its conditions and misrepresented and ineffectual as life insurance coverage. This is as true of the American brand as it is of the English.

Among the poor of all countries death has always been a mysterious visitant, whose coming is usually celebrated with strange and fantastic rites. The English poor, particularly, have always invested their funeral rites with the most showy, tawdry trappings a meagre pure could afford.

Ostentation of the Poor.

One who has witnessed a Cockney coaster's funeral will never forget the

(Continued on Page Two)

ALL CHINA LABOR FEDERATION ASKS WORLD'S WORKERS TO AID RESISTANCE TO INTERVENTION

HANKOW, April 15.—The All-China Labor Federation representing 2,200,000 workers declares that on March 23 battleships and gunboats shelled Nanking without warning, killing and wounding many hundreds of the civilepopulation and destroying a portion of the city.

At the end of March more than 1,000 people were mercilessly killed by British gunfire in the Weicho district of Canton.

On April 3, Japanese machine guns fired on our unarmed people in Hankow, killing 3 and seriously wounding 15, including women and children.

Only Latest Abuses.

These latest occurrences are the climax of a long and bitter experience of the Chinese people in dealing with the imperialism of the governments of your countries against the Chinese trade union movement, which can guard the struggle for freedom and independence in China.

Away With Imperialism.

As the first great step toward uplifting the conditions of our millions of workers and peasants, we must remove the grip of imperialism from our throats. For this we are prepared to struggle to the bitter end, no matter what the cost. The time has gone forever when battleships, rifles and corruption can be effectively used to enslave China.

But imperialism has still power to do great harm not only to us, but also to all the people of the world. For there will surely follow, if the present intervention in China occurs, a war which will be even more destructive than the World War.

We ask you to understand that today it is impossible to coerce a great people of 400,000,000, and any attempt to do so may result in the destruction of what civilization is left in the West.

Don't Attack China.

You workers and trade unionists have no quarrel with the workers of China! You have nothing but friendship for us; of this we are sure! And you have it in your power, who are in the majority together with the farmers to stop this war against us, to prevent this threatened catastrophe.

We appeal to you! Withdraw all warships and armed forces from China! Establish fraternal union between the Chinese trade unions and the trade unions of the West! Prevent war against the Chinese revolution! Greet the Chinese revolution as one part of the world struggle for human freedom! Stop the outrages of imperialism!—EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE ALL-CHINA LABOR FEDERATION.

Chen Refuses Any Apologies Until Guilt Is Proven

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Declaring that the Hankow Government is quite willing to make good damages actually done by Nationalist troops and steering the United States for the slaughter of peaceful Chinese citizens at Nanking, Eugene Chen, Nationalist Foreign Minister replied to the bellicose American note sent to him several days ago.

Suggests Investigation

Suggesting that an international investigation of the Nanking affair be made, Chen Nationalist note says: "In reply to the American demands for 'complete reparation for the personal injury and material damage done, the Nationalist Government is prepared to make good all damage done to the American consulate at Nanking.

Denies Any Guilt.

"As regards reparation for personal injuries to American nationals and other material damage done, the Nationalist Government is prepared to make all reasonable and necessary reparations, except in case where it can be definitely proven that the same has been caused by the British-American naval bombardment of Nanking on March 24, or by Northern rebels and agents provocateurs.

"The demand for the 'adequate punishment of commanders of the troops responsible for the murder, the personal injuries and indignities and the material damage done as also of all persons found to be implicated,' necessarily assumes guilt of the nationalist forces who captured Nanking.

Northerners Caught.

"While this guilt is denied in the preliminary statement issued on March 31, a rigid government inquiry is being conducted in order to ascertain the exact facts including verification of the outstanding facts in the report to the military counell by General Chen Chien, who took Nanking. But his forces rounded up and captured approximately 30,000 Northern soldiers with rifles, besides 1,000 camp followers inside the city.

"General Chen Chien has also reported that a number of those implicated already have been executed.

No Punishment Yet.

The Nationalist Government proposes that the question of punishment should await the findings of thia Government Inquiry now in progress, or of an International Committee of Inquiry, to be immediately instituted by the Nationalist Government and the United States Government. As the laws of nations and the recognized practice of civilized States prohibit the bombardment of a city in a friendly state, the Nationalist Government propose that the Commission of Inquiry shall also investigate the circumstances of the bombardment of the unfortified city

(Continued on Page Two)

CHIANG, BRIBED BY BANKERS, IN ATTACK ON LEFT

Great Protest Strike is Spreading Rapidly

Bulletin.

HANKOW, April 15.—The Communists are lining up their forces here. A mass meeting today denounced Chiang Kai Shek and his followers again as counter-revolutionists and invited Feng Yu Hsiang, once known as the "christian general" to join forces with them to fight Chiang.

The Pensant's Union is carrying out division of the land in Hunan province, it was reported here today.

* * *

SHANGHAI, April 15.—With the adoption of resolutions at the right wing conference at Nanking this afternoon calling for the impeachment of the Hankow Government, Chiang Kai-shek has definitely turned counter-revolutionary. Reports received here indicate that he may even attempt to split the Nationalist movement by setting up another government at Nanking.

Denounce Militarists

The resolutions adopted at the conference denounced the leaders of the liberation movement as "disturbers of the public order in Hankow," according to dispatches received here.

Among those denounced in the resolutions are Michael Borodin, adviser to the Nationalist Government; George Hsu-chien, minister of Justice; Chen Tu-hsiu, leader of the Chinese Communist Party; Tung Pingshen, Minister of Agriculture and sixteen others.

Lefts Ask For Unity

A small delegation from Hankow attended the conference and put up a strong plea for unity within the Kuomintang and a solid front against foreign imperialism and native militarism, reports declare.

More In Protest Strike

The strike here declared as a protest against the attempts of Chiang Kai-shek to smash the local unions is spreading rapidly. The seamen's and textile workers' unions, the most powerful in the city, have succeeded in tying up cotton mills and shipping.

Bankers Bribe Chiang

It has been definitely established that local bankers and merchants have offered Chiang 15,000,000 Shanghai dollars for suppressing local labor organizations. Three million dollars have already been paid to him, it is reported.

Workers' organizations have been raided and ruthless attempts at their suppression have been made despite the protests of workers', students' and Communist organizations.

Protest British Raids

The Nationalist News Agency reports that Eugene Chen, Nationalist

(Continued on Page Two)

CHINA DISAPPOINTED AT WARLIKE STAND OF U. S., DECLARES CHEN

Scores Bombardment of Nanking and Alliance With British Attack on Nationalists

The seriousness with which the Nationalist government of China regards American participation in the Nanking outrages, and the idealistic action of the powers, made without waiting for a neutral investigation of responsibility for the deaths of Chinese and foreigners at Nanking, is made evident in the following cabled statement just received from the office of Eugene Chen, the minister of foreign affairs of the Nationalist government at Hankow. It is essentially an appeal to the American people not to participate in European intervantion in China, and it was authorized by the Central Executive Committee.

HANKOW, April 15.—A few days ago British and American gunboats fired on the defenseless city of Nanking.

At the same time foreign troops, already landed at Shanghai, shot down unarmed workers.

At the same time British airplanes bombared Kwangtung villages.

At the same time British sailors killed a number of Chinese at Chungking.

Every day brings the report of some such incident. You in America do not hear these incidents. They are not reported in glaring headlines by the foreign press in China controlled by the foreign powers and they are not cabled to the newspapers abroad.

News Distorted.

You in America hear of incidents in China, but only of those selected incidents that can be made to twist the truth in such a way that Nationalist China, an awakening country struggling heroically to break away from the fatal fetters of feudal military and economic imperialist oppression, appears as an aggressor against the west.

Therefore the Chinese people appeal directly to you, the people of America. The Chinese people want you to know the real situation of this land so that you can judge for yourselves if the foreign policy conducted from your capitol is not a treacherous dual policy which may provoke on the Pacific coast a catastrophe so bloody that the most horrible years of the past decade will seem to be mere child's play.

Struck For Freedom.

The civil war now going on between the north and south is a struggle for national freedom, the same freedom for which America has waged two great wars one against the degrading status of a colony, another against an economic system which rested upon human slavery. China today, as America, is fighting for democracy, independence, unification, and reconstruction.

In China today, as in America in her great national crises, ninety-nine out of every hundred people are supporting the forces of freedom against the forces of slavery, the sovereign rights of the country against the cynical violence of the international financiers. China is fighting for civil rights as opposed to feudal dependence, for the improvement of the economic status of the great masses of people, who are today suffering from poverty so extreme as to be beyond the comprehension of the American people. In China people are starved and dressed in rags and patches, housed in hovels so wretched that the worst tenements of the West seem comfortable by comparison. China is fighting to lift the people out of this degradation. She is fighting to bring enlightenment in place of superstition.

Decaying Feudalism.

Her struggle is a struggle between, on the one hand, industrial development, which can bring the people out of the depths, and on the other hand, the decay of feudal economy, a struggle between honesty on one hand and political corruption on the other.

China's people are hungry for this liberation. Since the Nationalist Revolutionary army, the small but invincible force of emancipation, left the borders of Kwangtung Province they have conquered in a few months three of the most powerful militarist groups in China—We Pei-fu, Sun Chuan-fang, and Chang Tsung-chang. Thus half of China, including such rich centers as Wuhan, Shanghai, and Nanking have been cleared of the enemies of the nationalist revolution by a few fighting thousands battling against enemy forces infinitely superior in numbers and arms and backed by the agents of the imperialistic powers.

Will Win.

These great victories could have been won in a few brief months only by the sympathy and support of the people of China. This sympathy and support make the Nationalist forces unconquerable. In three more months the banner of Nationalist China will be plainly planted in Peking.

It is the hatred of the slave-owner toward the slave who is challenging a lot of callous as that of an animal and daring to ask freedom and equality and a glimpse at some beauty of the world.

English Brutality.

From England the Chinese people do not expect understanding support. England's hands are too stained with Chinese blood. To crush China England will go any lengths. She would add another world war to the casual massacres of May 30, 1925, in Shanghai, of June 23, 1925, at Shakee in Canton, and of Wanhsien last summer. England will destroy, loot, and kill if her supremacy is challenged.

For the protection of English trade and English lives she will sanction any degree of wanton destruction of the wealth and lives of other lands. The men who today control England's foreign affairs are true successors of those politicians who supported slavery in America and tried to control the Chinese by means of naval guns of the necessity of opium.

Surprised at U. S.

China is not surprised at England. But the Chinese people are amazed to see hints that America might cooperate in the imperialistic crimes of the country against whom she battled for her own freedom.

The Chinese people wish to point out to America, whose leadership it is she is following. It is the British secretariat of colonies and the British military commanders that have been successful in involving America in this new enterprise in China, which can benefit neither the British nor Americans but which will sow dissension between American and China and precipitate catastrophic events in the Pacific, in which America's recently in the Far East will be sullied and her prosperity menaced.

The Chinese people never believed that the Washington conference would be able to "awaken the conscience of the twentieth century and be a good omen for the peoples," as was solemnly declared by President Harding in 1922. But at the same time the Chinese people did not anticipate that the American diplomacy would turn aside from the policy of the open door, from the promise to withdraw all foreign garrisons from China, from the avowed intention to work toward a discontinuation of all privileges, and from "the policy of mediation with the object of bettering relations between China and the other powers on a basis of mutual equality." But today America has bombarded Nanking, and her naval forces are concentrating at Shanghai. American citizens are being evacuated, and America is participating in the composition of diplomatic notes written in a thoroughly English style.

China never expected to find America on the side of the enemy of freedom in the Far East nor to find her not in control of her own policy, but, instead, being involved automatically by armed intervention at the bidding of England.

Scott Nearing Will Deliver Series of Lectures in Mass.

BOSTON, Mass., April 15.—Scott Nearing will deliver a series of interesting lectures in other state of Massachusetts. The dates have been arranged as follows: April 17, 2 o'clock, Brockton, at Eagles Hall, Ward street. April 17, 8 o'clock, Providence, at American Co-operative Association Hall, 1753 Westminster street. April 19, Springfield, Cooley Hotel, 1757 Main street. April 20, Taverhill, Moose Hall, 20 Wec. street. April 22, Worcester, New Bay State Hotel, 283 Main street. April 23, Lynn, Lasters Hall, 34 Andrews street.

A very interesting series of lectures were arranged on the following subjects: Rise of the American Empire, Dollar Diplomacy, The British Empire, The Japanese Empire, and the Soviet Union, and The Role of the American Labor Movement.

In addition this course of lectures in Massachusetts, Scott Nearing will deliver a course of 4 lectures in Boston, on 4 successive Monday evenings at 8 o'clock at Tremont Temple, Lorimer Hall, Boston. The following lectures are arranged: The Rise of the American Empire, April 18; Dollar Diplomacy, April 25; The British Empire, the Japanese Empire, and the Soviet Union, May 2; The Role of American Labor, May 9.

First Jewish National District in Ukrainia Holds Soviet Congress

KHARKOV, Mar. 22 (By Mail).—The Congress of Soviets of the Jewish national district newly organized in the Kherson district was opened on the 21st inst. It is the first big administrative national Jewish division in the Soviet Union. The population consists of some fifteen thousand Jews and several thousands of Ukrainians and Germans.

The district was created in view of the express wish of the Jewish population of Kherson. In the very near future the Ukrainian government proposes to create a second Jewish division in the Krivorog district.

Four Children Bitten.

Four children were bitten and seriously injured yesterday when a mad dog ran amuck in Neptuna Terrace, Coney Island.

Eye Witness Appears For Sacco, Vanzetti

(Continued from Page One)

have observed the shooting from the shoe factory windows called off the day when objections were made by Chief of Police John J. Feeney, of Braintree.

A majority of the students were members of the Harvard Liberal Club. The test was said to have the approval of Professor Felix Frankfuter and his assistants of the Harvard Law School. The professor has taken an active part in the Sacco-Vanzetti defense.

* * *

White Plains Residents In Protest.

A petition signed by 60 residents of White Plains, N. Y., and asking postponement of the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti "until all reasonable doubt of their guilt had been cleared," were received here today by Gov. Alvan T. Fuller.

* * *

Kansas City Labor Protests.

KANSAS CITY, April 15.—A resolution condemning the verdict in the case of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti was adopted by the Central Labor Council of this city. A committee of three was also appointed to cooperate local bodies in agitating for a new trial for the two framed-up workers.

* * *

1,800 Denounce Verdict.

The Architectural Iron, Bronze and Structural Workers' Union of Greater New York, representing 1,500 workers has passed a resolution scoring the Sacco-Vanzetti decision as an act of post-war hysteria.

Pointing out that there is no valid evidence against the pair, the union asks Governor Fuller of Massachusetts to commute the vicious sentence of the two men.

Nanking Conference Attacks Left Wing

(Continued from Page One)

Foreign Minister has received no reply to his notes protesting against the raids of British soldiers on Chinese schools in Chinese territory, the cutting of telegraph wires, and air raids by British planes.

British troops celebrated Good Friday by parading along Nanking Road in full regalia, accompanied by five poison gas tanks.

* * *

4 More U. S. Warships

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Three American warships, the Cruiser Cincinnati, and the destroyers Preble and Noa, have been ordered to Hankow "where the situation appears to be threatening," Admiral C. S. Williams advised the navy today in a dispatch from Shanghai. He also reported three destroyer from Manila to Shanghai, the Simpson, McLeish and McCormick.

* * *

British Censor News

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Most of the news dispatches from China are being "censored by British sources," Rear Admiral W. H. G. Bullard, retired, U. S. N., chairman of the Federal Radio Commission, declared today after a conference at the White House.

Bullard, just returned from China, called to thank President Coolidge for his appointment to the commission.

British censorship is being exercised chiefly on dispatches sent through London," Bullard declared.

America should send Ambassador Great Britain in an aggressive policy in China, Bullard said.

Raps British Alliance

He declared this government should confine itself to protection of American lives and property. "The American is today the most favored foreigner in China," he added. "The present unrest there will work itself out if the world powers do not place obstacles in the path of the Chinese people.

"Many exaggerated reports have been printed in the United States about China. I doubt if the newspapermen in Shanghai would recognize some of their dispatches if they saw them in print."

* * *

Warships Sail for Shanghai

MANILA, P. I., April 15.—A rush order from Admiral C. S. Williams, in command of the American forces in the Orient, sent the destroyers Simpson and McCormack at full steam for Shanghai today. The Blackhawk and Macleish, new undergoing repairs, will be sent to China by Monday or Tuesday and earlier if possible.

* * *

Nationalists Victorious.

LONDON, April 15.—The Central News correspondent states that an important contingent of Nationalist troops from Changsi has penetrated the outskirts of Kinhan, and is menacing the northern communication lines.

* * *

Japan Sends Troops.

TOKYO, April 15.—Because of the tense situation in Manchuria the Japanese war office has decided to strengthen its forces there, sending an additional division, it was learned here today.

The war office is sending replacements, without recalling the present forces, it was reported.

Advance On Tientsin.

The military campaign is to be pushed along the Tientsin-Pukow line in a rapid march toward Tientsin and Peking. The forces of Feng Yu-hsiang, Chin Yun-ao, and Tang Sheng-chi are protecting the Honan front. The position is impregnable,

Cable Demands Bethlen Investigate Szanto's Trial; Give Justice

CHICAGO, April 15.—A cable to Premier Bathlen of Hungary, and to the Hungarian embassy at Washington, was sent yesterday thru the International Labor Defense, as follows:

"Press reports that Szanto and thirty other Hungarian workers are now before a criminal court for disagreeing with your government. We ask you to intervene for a fair impartial trial and leniency."

The cable was signed by: Clarence Darrow, Prof. Robert Morss Lovett, Victory L. Berger, Bishop Wm. Montgomery Brown, Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Robert Dunn, David Rhys Williams, Colonel Chas. Erskine Scott Wood, Duncan McDonald, Upton Sinclair, Theodore Debs, H. W. L. Dana, William Mahoney, Edw. C. Wentworth, Carl Haessler, Ralph Chaplin, Carlo Tresca, Forrest Bailey, Scott Nearing, and Elica Hayes.

De Rivera Sends Troops to Crush Riff Revolution

HENDAYE, France, April 15.—Spain's position in Morocco has been made difficult by the hurricane that has swept the Mediterranean Coastz according to a statement by General George Jordana, Director of Colonies, dispatches received here stated.

Many of the Spanish military bases in Morocco have been destroyed by the hurricane and huge quantities of war material have been damaged. It is estimated that the total damage will reach 100,000,000 pesetas.

Rush 30,000 Troops

The government has ordered each regiment in Spain to prepare one company for immediate embarkation which means a new army of 30,000.

General De Rivera embarks for Morocco tonight.

Anti-Toxin Rushed to Tornado Hit Town, Tex.

AUSTIN, Tex., April 15.—Dr. Livingstone Anderson, state health officer, made another hurried trip to Rock Springs today, at the request of Dr. J. F. Rogers, Edwards county health officer, who sent in an urgent call for typhoid anti-toxin from Rock Springs, tornado-hit town.

Dr. Anderson carried with him 30,000 doses of serum for the storm sufferers. Yesterday, the State Health Department sent a large supply of anti-tetanus serum by airplane to Rock Springs.

* * *

and some of the best troops have been withdrawn and sent down the river for the Teatsin drive.

In an interview today, Chen Chien, the Nationalist general in command of the capture of Nanking, stated: "We captured Nanking on March 23rd, but our troops did not enter the city until the morning of March 24th. Before our arrival some 70,000 to 80,000 looters ransacked, the city from Yuhustai. They undoubtedly looted a whole night and day before we were able to restore order on the evening of the 24th, when I, personally, went into the city to take charge of the situation.

Shantungese Sacked Nanking.

"Chang Tsung-chang's propaganda were men headed by Ho Hai-ming. In the confusion the foreign consulates, houses, and churches were attacked. This was done with the expressed purpose of creating anti-Nationalist feeling among the foreigners. Immediately after my arrival I took urgent steps to restore peace and order in the city. I executed 20 to 30 local ruffians to stop the mob rule.

"There was great confusion in Nanking on March 24th as our soldiers were busy disarming the thousands of Northern soldiers who were still in the city. We took 50,000 Shantungmerners."

Chen Chien went on to say that when told by a subordinate of the bombardment, he immediately notified the foreign naval authorities to stop such ruthless measures.

Cleveland Doctor Says Peritonitis Will Be Harmless

A course of treatment which will make a comparatively harmless complaint of the now deadly disease of peritonitis was predicted today by Dr. Bernard Sternberg, of Cleveland, O., before the medical societies meeting here.

Dr. Sternberg told the meeting how in experiments with healthy dogs inoculated with peritonitis germs they were brought back from a dying condition to good health by injections of bacteria takan from human beings also suffering from this disease. He said in the majority of the experiments the animals recovered.

Envoy to England In "Big Four" Scandal

(Continued from Page One)

night. The Prince is standing in his poverty stricken community to judged by the number of passing, plumed horses in the entourage. A life's savings is honored by the one event. The most servile English worker wants his "decent" burial.

Following the industrial revolution in England, by which millions of workers were driven by economic necessity from their rural homes into the bleak machine-communities, temporarily dispossessed, the question of urban funerals and burial ground became a pressing problem.

They Bury Him.

At this point the "industrial" life insurance company made its appearance with the "decent" burial as its drawing card. Shortly afterwards this form of petty larceny life insurance made its appearance into the United States via the Prudential Life.

Since that time the "Big Four" have been having a pretty nice time of it. Corrupted legislatures, creature superintendants of insurance, and lax state supervision have made it a most profitable business to be in.

The life insurance business is a "cash" business. There is no "paper," no extended credits, everything is done on a cash basis. Naturally these companies carry large cash deposits in local banks. The Metropolitan Life has a balance in the Chase National Bank of about 20 million dollars, sometimes as high as 35 millions. Now can any bright boy in the class tell me who really controls the Chase National Bank? Johnny, you are perfectly right. And if you will make careful investigation you will find that the directorate of the Bank is nicely sprinkled with Metropolitan directors.

Inside Clique Profits.

Needless to say the "mutual" policyholders in the Metropolitan Life do not enjoy any of this nice juicy contact, but then that is one of the drawbacks in only being a policyholder instead of a director.

Capital is protective only by means of investment and manipulation. The power it confers upon its possessor is in direct ratio to the use of it. Contract labor is the most legal possession.

An extravagantly obliging legislature allows these companies ½ of 1% of the total assets as an annual "investment" fund. Investments are limited to only the safest bonds and mortgages. There is absolutely no expenses incurred in purchasing bonds of this nature. On the contrary bond houses usually pay a commission on the sale of bonds. Still, in the face of this fact the "Big Four" charged their "Mutual" policyholders more than eleven and a half million dollars for investing the assets in the best legally prescribed bonds.

Policyholder Houghton.

Who wouldn't be a director of a life insurance company?

Surely Alanson B. Houghton, the American ambassador to England could. And he is. As a side line he directs for the Metropolitan Life for the measly salary of $45 per year. At any rate that is what the Insurance Report says. If that's all this plenipotentiary extraordinary gets for such an important job I would suggest that he go and retire immediately from public life and shorter hours. But then again, $45 may only be part of his pay.

Every "Big Four" policyholder has the name of his agent. If he calls often enough, fifty-two times a year. But here is a name which I am sure will sound foreign to 23,000,000 of the 24 million Metropolitan policyholders. I refer specifically to one Albert H. Wiggin.

Mr. Wiggin is the chairman of the Board of Directors of the Chase National Bank, one of the most important banks in which the Metropolitan Life keeps its money.

It is a wonderful wonder, then, that the powers that be see to it that the "assets" of the "Big Four" keep mounting to the high heavens?

Mutual? Mutual?

How mutual is a "mutual" industrial life insurance company? This is a question which is agitating millions of weekly premium policyholders throughout the country. It is a question which will have to be answered. And that right soon.

Why should the 24 million "industrial" life insurance policyholders in this country have no effective means within their companies to voice a protest against the fraud and deception practiced by their self-appointed directors, they would, to be sure, be very interested spectators in a legislative investigation into the evils which beset this business.

Charles Evans Hughes rode into the executive mansion at Albany on the wheels of his insurance investigation in 1905. So widespread are the ramifications of the "industrial" life insurance business today, that he who could be instrumental in effecting lower rates, a return of the excessive "reserve"—or better still—State ownership—might even ride into the White House in 1928 as a result. Who knows?

No hope lies in the direction of the corrupt Tammany political machine which has always worked hand in hand with the "Big Four." The republican machine is, as always, hand in glove, with the Wall Street gang, who are behind the financial manipulations of the life insurance companies.

An aroused public might help. Get busy and see that this article finds its way into the hands of a co-worker or neighbor. The purse is the vital

European Scientists Honored By Leningrad Geographic Society

LENINGRAD, Mar. 20 (By Mail).—At the annual meeting of the Geographic Society held here there was made public the list of scientists who have been awarded prizes, by the council of the society, for their learned works.

The following scientists have been elected honorary members of the society: the French geogeist and topographist Berthot; the well known German physical geographer Hallmann; the well known geographer Koppel of Gratz; the well known polar explorer Drigalsky of Munich. Professor Shokalsky has been alected chairman of the Geographic Society for the year 1927.

Garment Thugs to Be Fired Monday; Jail Two Pickets

Gussie Kimberg and Clara Kimberg, who were accused by a scab of having "struck at" her, were sentenced to thirty days by Judge Kelly Voorhelr in Special Session in Brooklyn yesterday.

The two girls were convicted in spite of the fact that Mrs. Anna Bloom, who appeared against them, mixed up her story on the witness stand, and even admitted that she was not sure the Kimberg sisters had struck her, but thought so because they had worked in the same shop with her and they were out on strike and she went to scabbing. There were no other witnesses against the girls.

The courtroom at their hearing was sprinkled with agents of the International who seemed to take special interest in their case.

The trial of Luis Blumenfeld and R. Rurze, who attacked and brutally assaulted Joseph Di Mola, chairman of the Monroe Dress Shop, on January 3, will be held on Monday in General Sessions. Di Mola, who was beaten with lead pipe, was not expected to live for some weeks, and is still unable to work.

The gangsters who attacked him are said to be from Philadelphia. They rushed into him and assaulted him shortly after he had refused to order the workers in the shop to go to a meeting at the offices of the International, when requested to do so by a business agent from the International.

Blumenfeld and Rurse attempted to jump their bail at the time of their first hearing, but were found by police and admitted to further bail. Subpoenas have been issued.

Dinosaur-Lizard Bones Discovered in Russia On New Railway Route

LENINGRAD, Mar. 22 (By Mail).—In the course of research work carried on the line of the Semiretchensk railway, which is under construction, there have been found, near the villages of Karagach and Kalkan, parts of the bones of a dinosaur-lizard which lived at least three million years ago.

It is the first and only find of such a giant lizard in the U. S. S. R. Up to now the only skeleton of a dinosaur had been found in North America.

Nationalists Refuse to Be Abased by Powers

(Continued from Page One)

of Nanking by the naval forces of the United States Government.

No Apology Yet.

"The Demand for 'an apology in writing by the Commander-in-Chief of the Nationalist army, including an express written undertaking to refrain from all further violence and agitation against foreign lives and property,' is, so far as an apology is concerned, justified only upon the proof of Nationalist guilt for the disturbances at Nanking.

Then follows a statement that the Nationalist army will, of course, protect lives and property of foreigners, and that the chief cause of friction, and possible incitement to violence, is the presence of foreign troops in China.

Up to the U. S.

Two alternatives confront the American Government in dealing with the Chinese reply:

It can consider the answer "unsatisfactory" and take "punitive action," or it can consider that the note goes far enough to meet Washington's demands to justify further correspondence.

Coolidge Went Too Far.

The belief prevails that there will be no punitive action. There are already reports current in Washington that several Cabinet members objected to the vigor of the American note of last week, and did not like, particularly, the appearance of the United States taking joint action with the British Government. The State department is more and more inclined to "go along" with Great Britain, but that inclination is regarded with disfavor by some of President Coolidge's closest advisers.

Furthermore, it was pointed out today, the state department would have a difficult time justifying a "big stick" policy on the basis of the suppressed Nationalist willingness to make reparations if and when a joint commission determines their responsibility for the Nanking affair.

Utah Senator Favors Statehood for Porto Rico; Nordics Oppose

WASHINGTON, (FP). Senator King of Utah, democrat, who visited Porto Rico at the time of his recent exclusion from Haiti, announces that whenever the Porto Ricans desire statehood he will favor giving it to them.

"It is incompatible with our theory of government," King told the press, "that the United States should hold colonies or territorial possessions indefinitely. The Porto Ricans are American citizens and are entitled to all the rights and immunities enjoyed by citizens of all others sections of the United States."

This view is firmly rejected by the southern democrats in congress, who will resist any move to incorporate Porto Rico in the union—due to its possible encouragement to southern Negroes to demand they own political rights.

Aircraft Records Aid Factories.

American supremacy in air records reached its high pitch after the war, but European headway has been gradually taking that away until on March 1 the Federation Aeronautique International credited the United States with but 11 out of 35 major records. They are: Italy and France, 33; Italy, 21; United States, 11; Switzerland, 3; Germany, 1.

During the last year Italy and Germany have made great strides, aeronautic experts say. Since March 1 five of the French records have been transferred to Germany.

LECTURES and FORUMS

THE PEOPLE'S INSTITUTE

At Cooper Union (8 St. & Astor Place) at 8 o'clock. Admission Free

Sunday, April 17—Easter. No Meeting.

Tuesday, April 19—Leonard D. Abbott: "Individualism in Social Life in Russia."

Friday, April 22—Everett Dean Martin: "Art in the Matter With Modern Ideas." "Individualism and Collectivism as Controlling Ideals."

AT MANHATTAN TRADE SCHOOL Lex. Av. & 22d St., 3 P. M. o'clock. Sunday, April 24—Music. Reduction for Course Tickets.

Monday, April 25—Russian Peterpant: Plaidy and the World of Hidden Meanings." Keyboard and Penschel: An Outsider of Science.

Thurs., Apr. 28—Dr. B. G. Spanning: Questions People Expect a Philosopher to Answer—What Is Intelligence? The Intelligence of Animals."

Sat., April 23—Dr. Scott Buchanan: Platonic Attitudes: Socrates in the Search for Wisdom.

LABOR TEMPLE

14th Street and Second Avenue

THIS SUNDAY

5 P. M.—The Pioneers of the Race

DR. G. F. BECK

"The Spinoza of the Old Testament"—Isaiah

ADMISSION 25 CENTS

7:15 P. M.—

EDMUND B. CHAFFEE

"The Doctrine of the Cross"

ADMISSION FREE

8:30 P. M.—Open Forum

HARRY F. WARD

"Economics and Religion"—I.

ADMISSION FREE

TOMORROW NIGHT, 8 P.M.

Jay Lovestone

Author and Secretary of Workers Party will speak on

"America and the Next War"

A report on the conclusions of the world congress and the last Plenum of the Communist International.

At

The Workers School Forum

108 East 14th Street.

Next meeting: Wednesday, April 20th, 8 P.M. Subject: "How Russia Is Governed" and "Russia in Revolution."

INGERSOLL FORUM

anti-religious center of N. Y.

CHAMBER MUSIC HALL,

CARNEGIE HALL

SUNDAY EVENING, 8 P. M.

WILLIAM H. ANDERSON

(Formerly Head of Anti-Saloon League)

"How Political Romanism Railroaded Mc to Sing-Sing"

Questions and Speeches from floor. Admission free. All welcome

Freethinkers' Society of N. Y.

216 WEST 14th STREET

SUNDAY, at 3 P. M.

DR. HARRY HIBSCHMAN

"WHY I AM A MATERIALIST"

Admission Free. Questions

WORKERS! PROTEST AGAINST DEATH OF SACCO and VANZETTI!

William Faversham will return to New York shortly to prepare his production of Shakespeare's "Henry VIII," in which he will play the role of Cardinal Wolsey.

ORGANIZED LABOR

Ohio Senate Bars Yellow - Dog Labor Contracts, 29 to 3

By LEN DE CAUX,
(Federated Press).

COLUMBUS, O., April 15.—The yellow-dog contract got a black eye when the Ohio senate by 29 to 3 passed a bill voiding all employment contracts in which workers agree not to join or remain members of unions, and employers agree not to participate in employer associations. Ohio employing interests were completely taken aback by the sudden stampede into which the senate insurgents maneuvered the regulars. A record vote on the bill was being carefully blocked by the rules committee and a two-thirds vote to take it away from them had been thought impossible, due to the extreme unwillingness of most of the legislators to declare their stand on the issue.

Alarmed at the prospect of losing one of their handiest weapons against organized labor, the American Plan Association, the Associated Contractors of Ohio, chambers of commerce and other employer organizations are deluging the lower house with demands that it kill the bill.

Manager William Frew Long of the American Plan Association even goes in the bill "an effort on the part of organized labor to force every employer to have a closed union shop." He warns that the large senate vote assures its passage by the lower house, unless strenuous steps are taken to prevent such action.

One of the many steps taken to block the bill was an inquiry made of Attorney General Edward C. Turner by the rules committee as to its constitutionality. He ruled that it would be constitutional, saying: "As I read it, the bill is designed to preserve in this state on behalf of both labor and employers the right to collective bargaining. In my opinion this object is within the police power of the state and therefore is a proper subject of legislative action."

Organized labor in Ohio has thrown all its energies behind this bill. Big labor delegates from all over the state, representing nearly every trade union, visited Columbus to support it. Its passage by the senate is hailed as one of labor's greatest legislative victories in the state for many years.

"Threat" Charges Cause Arrest of 3 More Furriers

The frame-up game of the reactionary International Fur Workers' Union officials and their conspirators Matthew Woll, Edward F. McGrady and Hugh Frayne of the A. F. of L., was resumed in court by I. Winnick a vice-president of the International. The result was 3 fur workers arrested on the charge of "threatening to attack."

"I'm going to put you in jail all right," Winnick boasted to I. Schwartz one of the workers whom he pointed out for arrest and then gleefully followed to the 30th St. station house.

Schwartz had never been arrested before on any charge. His "crime" was being a loyal and active supporter of the Furriers' Joint Board.

Usual Technique.

The others marched by Winnick and arrested on complaint of his right wing scab companion were M. Kovatis and M. Djarus. In court the "scab" complained that these men had followed him, altho they had been on the way to lunch in the street where he work.

Jefferson Market Court, Magistrate Gottlieb paroled the men for a hearing on Saturday. He declared that he doubted whether they were guilty of any offense, but he would listen to arguments when the case came up.

Louis Schwartz and I. Morrison, two fur workers who were arrested for distributing leaflets in the fur market yesterday, were fined $5 and $10 respectively in Jefferson Market Court. Schwartz chose to spend a day in jail rather than pay the fine. He was released at four o'clock in the afternoon.

Strong-Arm in Trouble.

Solomon Wiener, upon whose testimony Oscar Milleff was sentenced to six months in the workhouse last week, was held with three others under $15,000 bail for the grand jury charged with felonious assault, by Magistrate Gottlieb in Jefferson Market Court yesterday.

Wiener, who testified that Milleff had "threatened" him, is charged with being one of the men who attacked and severely wounded Joseph La Presti and Sam Kurland as they were walking along 27th street near Fifth avenue on April 5. La Presti was so severely cut and wounded that he was sent to Bellevue Hospital. The other assailants were Nathan Rothman, Isadore Walter, and William Dyer.

"An innocent furrier was sent to jail upon the testimony of such a man as Wiener, and another is cut and wounded by him while his first victim lies in jail. This is the result of the provocations of Woll and McGrady and their bunch, who boast that they 'run' the police department on our side."

Workers Strike.

Liebowitz announced that the workers of the I. Roth shop at 315 Seventh avenue have struck in protest against the attempts of their employer to force them to register in "McGrady's fake union." This is the seventh shop to go on strike within the week. Others are B. Geller and Son, 333 Seventh avenue, where mass picketing has been going on all week, Nechamkin and Son, 352 Seventh Avenue; Max Koch, 333 Seventh Avenue, Abraham Weiss, 150 West 30 street, Weiss and Son, 145 West 28 street, and M. Kaufman, 122 West 26 street.

Fire Workers When Too Old for Speed-up

By S. WELS
Worker Correspondent.

A contracting boss of a men's clothing shop preferred charges to the local union executive board against his under-presser. The boss charges that the worker is too old and weak to produce a sufficient amount of work, especially now that the shop is increasing its production of coats.

The boss demands a young and fast worker to replace the old presser. As the employer claims to be liberal, he is willing to keep the aged employee with the union's consent that he do errand work instead of pressing. His wage would be $18 a week instead of the $26 he earned as under presser on coats.

Health Gone.

The old worker claims that he cannot live on the wage the boss offers him as errand boy and is unwilling to leave. The presser toiled hard for several years for the boss and gave away his health and strength to this master who gets richer day by day and now has no use for this old slave.

Now the boss is trying to get rid of him with all kinds of schemes. The aim of the employer is to make his victim first an arrand boy, knowing that the union does not protect such workers, and he will easily get him out.

The reward of the workers, when he is getting old and used up, is to be thrown away like this.

Read The Daily Worker Every Day.

COMPENSATION LAWS DON'T BEGIN TO PAY YOU FOR THE ACTUAL PAIN YOU FEEL IN ACCIDENTS

By "CHIPS."

An article in the March 25th issue of The DAILY WORKER tells us that 1,500 workers are injured daily. Frequently we see reference to these industrial accidents recorded in figures, and following one who understands industrial accidents and their significance to the injured, they are absolutely larren in their indication of the misery and suffering they cause. This is especially true of those whose occupations are apart from these risks; in fact, are just as incompressible as is the class struggle to those intellectuals and sympathizers who are radicalism.

When You Feel It.

Within the past week the writer nearly lost the sight of one eye due to being str accidentally by a block of wood. years ago a different kind of lent nearly cost the sight of the ther eye.

Another recent case I know of is a man struck in the eye with a small block which caused partial blindness. I know a case of a young healthy young man who was chewed up in the big gears of a machine, he was pulled in thru his clothes being and he lived a few days.

The doctors operated on him wed him up the sweat just roused off him. I know another case of a man who had his arm smashed. The doctors gave him no chloroform and the tears just rolled down his cheeks while they worked.

Biladed By Steel.

I am personally acquainted with a former riveter who suffered blindness first in one eye and then in the other eye, due to flying steel chips. One of the flashy New York hotels had four men killed in putting up the framework.

One of the best known patent medicine concerns employs girls to fill bottles at machines. These girls work eight hours a day and are given ten minutes recess during the middle of every session to ease the nervous tension. Driven at high speed putting the corks in by machine they frequently smash a finger necessitating amputation at the first joint.

The writer had a compound fracture of a finger, the doctor operating without chloroform, three stitches with a pair of thand the wound, while the arm was held by a man holding close to his body and under his m.

I have worked with men who have had all kinds of amputations. One, I remember, was hardly able to hold a fork in his left hand having no fingers and but part of a thumb. Another case was that of a man who was hit in the stomach by a piece of wood, thrown from a circular saw. He was told he would live two hours and a half if he was not operated on. He died five years after from heart disease as a result of his experience.

Innumerable dent might be cited, not giving b figures, but giving actual details depicting the keen suffering of the victims, which would darken the brain of those not thrown in contact with them.

Since the compensation laws, such as they are, went into effect, the general tendency in industry is toward safeguarding accidents thru better tools and machines with guards, but still the penalty of compensation is not sufficiently great to make for the cheaper alternative, the most complete perfection of management and machinery and less driving of labor.

THE REAR GUARD COP TELLS THE STRANGER IN TOWN ABOUT THE RIGHTS AND THE LEFTS

By LILLIAN SEMONS.
(Member of Labor Journalism Class, Workers' School)

The stranger in town approached the patrolman on duty at the southeast corner of Broadway at 29th St., at an outpost of the fur market. The conversation between the two is here in below recorded.

"Say, why the many cops hereabouts?" asked the stranger in town. "We're simply trying to keep peace and order of the fur industry."

"Whose been disturbing the peace?"

"The Jew Bolsheviks."

"What's the club for, to stop them?"

"Yeh, we stop 'em alright. Knock 'em over the head, see. But I would like to use my hands instead of the club, it's sort of fairer to them."

"Then why aren't you with the rest of 'em on the next block?"

"Well, I'm the rear guard, I gets them in the rear."

"And how do you do that?"

"Yuh see it's this way—two guys will stand on this corner . . ."

"What two guys?"

"Fur workers, one that's a left-winger and the other that's right."

"Who are they?"

"Search me, they're both Jew Bolsheviks."

"Yeh."

"Now they may start arguin' and makin' a rumpus—well, before they can start we stops them."

"Oh! So ye stop them from making a rumpus, and how do you do it?"

"Well, I'm a gentleman, see. I asks them sorta polite, like a gentleman, to move on and stop being a crowd. But the others they get mad right off and use the stick on 'em. I'm a gentlaman, I ask 'em first, see."

"What then?"

"If they does, alright, but if they don't—well, then I arrest the left-winger for resistin' an officer of the law."

"See, that's swell, how many did you pull in already today?"

"Aw, not many, I'm the rear-guard see. Say, do you know you're the first person I've spoken to today. I've been standing on this here corner since seven o'clock this morning. But I'm the rear guard. Nothing doing in the rear yet but there might be room, I hope."

"Yeh? Say, thanks for the information, I got to be going."

CROPS INCREASE AND PROSPERITY GROWS IN NEWLY FORMED SOVIET TURKMENISTAN

MOSCOW, March 28.—The Turkmenistan Soviet Socialist Republic has now been in existence for two years.

During these two years, the increase of irrigated lands, as a result of the irrigation works, has reached 53,000 hectares, which is about 20 per cent of the entire irrigated area. The construction has been completed of new dams and canals, which will make possible the irrigation of 110,000 hectares of land.

Most of the land being newly irrigated is sown with cotton. During the last year there was harvested in the Turkmenistan Republic 58,500 tons of raw cotton, an increase of 60 per cent in the supply of raw cotton and 63 per cent in the supply of fiber in comparison with the year 1924-25.

The industrial production of the Republic increased 52.8 per cent as compared with the year 1924-25. There have been restored the salt and oil fields, and a big textile mill is being erected.

The total budget of the Turkmenistan Soviet Socialist Republic has reached 29 million roubles. The cost of the administration has fallen from 40 to 20 per cent, while the share of expenditure on agriculture has risen from 9 to 18 per cent as compared with three years ago.

Jersey Sign Painters Demand Withdrawal of Warships From China

NEWARK, N. J., April 15.—Local 1127 of the Sign Painters Union has instructed its delegates to introduce a resolution at the next meeting of the Hudson County Central Labor Union protesting against American intervention in China.

Demanding the recall of our marines and battleships, the resolution declares: "Our army and navy are being used to protect the interests of the oil producers, the steel trust and the financiers who have money invested in China."

Will Repair Tractors For Export to USSR

A tractor cooperative has been organized in Detroit, for the purpose of going over to the USSR to repair their tractors, automobiles, and other machinery. This cooperative contemplates establishing repair shops in the biggest cities of the Soviet Union and also moving repair shops on trucks—to go to the small villages to repair tractors and to give advice to peasants on the operation of tractors. The main shops will also have tractor schools.

All specialists and those working on tractor and automobile repairing, who sympathize with the USSR, are asked to join this cooperative, whose addresses are: 7318 Michigan Ave., Detroit, Mich., and Central Bureau, 799 Broadway, New York City.

Chicago Workers Score Soviet Embassy Raids

CHICAGO, Ill. April 15.—The raids on the Russian consulates in China created much indignation among the Russian workers in Chicago. The interest in the Chinese revolution is growing here.

Lectures on China and the Soviet Union that were given in Milwaukee, Kenosha and Gary brought out the biggest Russian crowds that ever attended lectures in these cities. A lecture on the same subject will be given by Comrade M. A. Stolar next Sunday, April 17th at the Workers' House, 1902 W. Division Street at 2 p. m. Admision is free. All who understand the Russian language are invited.

Issue 60 Broadcasting Licenses.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The Federal Radio Commision today issued sixty temporary broadcasting licenses. Nine of the stations licensed will operate on power of 1,000 watts or over.

Trial Witness To Speak at Sacco, Vanzetti Protest

Frank J. Burke, a worker, who was one of the witnesses for Sacco and Vanzetti at their first trial, will be one of the 20 speakers at the mass protest demonstration in their behalf to be held this Saturday at 1 o'clock in Union Square.

Scott Nearing, Capt. Paxten Hibben, Ludwig Lore, editor of the "Volkszeitung," H. A. Wagner, president of the International Students' Union, R. B. Moore, and William F. Dunne, editor of The DAILY WORKER, are among the speakers added to the 20 speakers previously announced. Speeches will be made in English, Jewish, Italian, Spanish, Hungarian, and German.

Witness Offers To Speak.

In his letter to the Sacco-Vanzetti Emergency Committee, offering to help in any way in the work of saving these tortured workers, Burke says:

"I was present in Braintree on the day of the murder of which Sacco and Vanzetti were judged guilty; and I witnessed the men who actually committed the crime, get into their auto in their escape. I had a very good view of them as they passed me within 10 feet, and I have good reason to believe that neither Sacco nor Vanzetti were in any way connected with this crime. I was a resident of Brockton, and a few days after Sacco and Vanzetti were arrested, I told the city marshall that I was sure they had the wrong men in jail.

His Testimony Ignored.

"Not only was my testimony disregarded, but that of several others who were near the scene of the crime. It has always seemed clear to me that these men are unjustly accused, I based on the evidence presented against them, but beenuse they held views which were disapproved by the authorities.

"If the workers at Saturday's meeting would be interested in hearing some of the reasons why I contend these men are unjustly accused, I should be glad to come and tell my personal experience. I am anxious to do whatever I can to save Sacco and Vanzetti for they are workers. If they are allowed to die, this may be the fate of many other workers after them.

"Wishing you every success in the mass meeting and in all other efforts to free Sacco and Vanzetti, I am

Fraternally yours,
FRANK J. BURKE."

Many Organizations Represented.

Among the workers' organizations which will come in a body to the Sacco-Vanzetti protest demonstration in Union Square on Saturday, are the various branches of the Council of Working Class Housewives whose members have voted to attend with banners and slogans denouncing the sentencing to death of the two persecuted workers.

All the city branches of the International Labor Defense and locals of the needle trades unions will also have their banners, and there are to be delegations from the food workers, house wreckers, carpenters, and many other trades which will join in this denunciation of the frame-up of these two innocent men.

The Sacco-Vanzetti Emergency Committee, which is arranging this mass meeting, represents more than 500,000 trade unionists in this city.

Old Age Pension Past By Canada Parliament

WASHINGTON, April 15. (FP)—Canada's old age pension act, just passed by the Dominion parliament, awaits the signature of the royal governor-general, according to a summary issued by the U. S. Department of Labor. A maximum pension of $240 a year for British subjects who have attained the age of 70 years and have lived 20 years in Canada is provided, if the pensioner has not ar much private income as $365 a year.

Bury Victims of Tornado.

ROCK SPRINGS, Texas, April 15.—Rock Springs today resumed the melancholy task of burying its dead, victims of Tuesday's tornado.

Some estimates place the death list at close to 90 when a final checkup is completed, although only 44 bodies have been identified. A number of persons are unaccounted for and some of the injured are not expected to live.

Burial preparations were of the crudest sort, dynamite being used to blast holes in the cemetery wherein the bodies were laid.

The dead were buried as they were found, there being no time to prepare the bodies.

Workers Renew Cleveland Agreement.

CLEVELAND (FP)—Union Structural iron workers of Cleveland have signed a 2-year agreement with the contractors providing for continuation of the $1.50 an hour scale. Part of the other building trades unions whose agreements expired March 1 have not yet renewed them. The employers demand an arbitration clause. The carpenters and cement fixers, who seek an increase from $1.25 to $1.50 an hour, are the only building unions demanding wage increases.

Workers on Trial In Little Suburb Of Mineola, L. I.

By MICHAEL GOLD.

MINEOLA, April 15.—Michael Barnett who claims that his scab shop was attacked during the fur strike last year, proved a bad witness for the district attorney at the opening of the trial of Ben Gold and 10 members of the Furrier's Union here.

"Star Witness."

Barnett was the prosecutor's star witness, as it was he who is alleged to have been slashed and beaten by union invaders. Around him the whole scheme to railroad Ben Gold and the others to jail had been built by the officials. Barnett admitted on the stand that he was an old and intimate friend of Bosoff, ex-fur worker who led the alleged raid, and who is now chief stool pigeon for the prosecution. He had lunched with Basuff the afternoon before the raid, he admitted, and yet this friend of many years never hinted to him that his shop was to be attacked.

Neither had he at any time during his various chats and visits with his friend Basoff ever told the other that he was running a so-called "open shop" behind locked doors in a loft over a chop suey house in Hicksville Centre, L. I.

Tells of Scab Shop.

Barnett admitted that he started this shop less than three months before the raid, about the beginning of the strike, and was furnishing New York firms with work. It was very evident the shop was one of those sordid little cockroach affairs, in which petty bosses hoped with a few dupes to get away from New York and the picketing in order to get rich quick).

Cannot Identify Defendants.

Barnett failed to identify anyone among the eleven furriers other than Maurice Malkan and Leo Franklin. His brother Jack Barnett, who helped in running the "open" shop, and was present at the alleged raid, failed also to pick out more than these two as his attackers.

This was regarded as another victory for the defense, as the officials are trying to drag all eleven fur workers into the case.

The trial is being rushed at movie speed. By noon a jury had been picked, consisting entirely of business men. Through Mineola is a typically American haunt of Babbitry and conversatism, the district attorney took no chances. The first question he asked each talesman was:

"Do you belong to any Communis-

De Rivera Denies Irregularities; Brings In the United States

MADRID, April 15.—General De Rivera, Spanish dictator, today issued a general denial of charges of irregularities levelled against him in a pamphlet, "Hojas Libres," which has been published in France.

The pamphlet charges that General De Rivera ordered an invasion of the international zone in Tangier that he has failed to pay the tax required for those inheriting a title, that he has given his son a lucrative position with the telephone company, and that he is generally approachable by "a few bank notes."

General De Rivera stated that the pamphlet was not written for Spanish consumption but for America.

Adjourn Zaniboni Trial.

ROME, April 15.—The trial of Major Zaniboni, charged with planning an attempt on the life of Premier Mussolini, has been adjourned until after the Easter holidays.

tic or Socialistic orders?" Frank P. Walsh and other lawyers for the defense objected to this, saying the charges was one of assault, and not of Communism. Judge Lewis J. Smith overruled them, however, as he overruled nearly every one of their objections.

There is no doubt an atmosphere lingers around the courtroom such as would never prevail in the thousands of assault cases that crop up in every big strike. A dozen bulky policemen guard the corridors of the Nassau county courthouse, and there are many plainclothes men inside. Ben Gold and his comrades were not handcuffed when brought in court yesterday, but this indignity was visited on them tha day before. That it is all for effect was evidenced by statements in the press that officials took these precautions because they feared "an outbreak of violence."

Violin and Viola Lessons
Given by expert teacher.
For reasonable rates write to
JOHN WEINROTH
856 LARCHWOOD AVENUE.
Above Girardville TRUL Philadelphia, Pa.

PHILLIP FIDLER
Manufacturer of
CAPS AND HATS
Union Made.
TWO STORES:
313 Belmont Ave. 2045 Milwaukee
CHICAGO

Celebrate
MAY DAY
With a bundle of the
SPECIAL
of the
DAILY WORKER
On May Day a Special Issue of The DAILY WORKER will be issued.

ORDER A BUNDLE
There will be special articles on the world labor; special artwork and photography.

ORDER A BUNDLE
A whole section will be devoted to greetings to the world of labor from individual workers and from working class organizations.

ORDER A BUNDLE
This issue should be brought into the hands of thousands of workers. Order a bundle for yourself to give away and be sure to order a bundle

FOR YOUR MAY DAY MEETING
Special Bundle Rates
$2.50 A HUNDRED
RUSH
THE DAILY WORKER
33 First Street, New York
Enclosed is $ ..... for ..... copies of the MAY DAY SPECIAL
Name .....
Address .....
City .....
State .....

The Battle Is on

ON Tuesday, April 19 The DAILY WORKER goes to trial. There will appear in court the dollar patriots, led by Jacob Cash, representing the American Legion, the American Patriotic Society, and the other reactionary organizations, which are fighting against The DAILY WORKER.

Millions of dollars are behind these organizations. Strong business interests support them. Their object is to silen only organ of opposition to the enemies of labor. Their aim is to crush the enemy of American imperialism. Their purpose is to destroy The DAILY WORKER.

The Ruthenberg DAILY WORKER Sustaining Fund, established for the purpose of building up the paper into a more effective weapon against American capitalism, is also to be used to fight this attack. The attack must be met vigorously. It must be met by whole-hearted support of the Sustaining Fund, not through a wish or a promise, but by an immediate and generous donation sent in with the attached blank.

Stamp books and Sustaining Fund cards have been sent to the District DAILY WORKER Agents. The attack upon our paper should be the bugle call to all friends of The DAILY WORKER, to all Party members and readers, to enlist in The DAILY WORKER ARMY of Sustaining Fund members. This means you. This means—do it now.

DAILY WORKER
33 First Street,
New York, N. Y.
Enclosed is my contribution of ..... dollars .... cents to the Ruthenberg Sustaining Fund for a stronger and better DAILY WORKER and for the defense of our paper. I will pay the same amount regularly every .....
Name .....
Address .....
City .....
State .....
Attach check or money order.

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
Daily, Except Sunday
26 First Street, New York, N. Y. Phone, Orchard 1680

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail (in New York only):		By mail (outside of New York):
$8.00 per year	$4.50 six months	$6.00 per year	$3.50 six months
$2.50 three months		$2.00 three months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, New York, N. Y.

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL
WILLIAM F. DUNNE ..... Editors
BERT MILLER ..... Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail at the post-office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Advertising rates on application.

The Chinese Workers and Peasants Now Fight as a Class.

To the liberals and pacifists and confused workers the open conflict in the Nationalist Party will appear as a tragedy. It is tragic only in that the lives of workers have been sacrificed in the struggle but the conflict itself was as inevitable as is the revolution which produced it.

The middle class thru all history has played the role of hangmen of the working class. It prates of pure democracy, it cries for and often struggles under the slogan of "democracy" but always when the masses insist on the defense of their interests it finds an excuse first to desert them and then to attempt to crush them.

The middle class group in the Kuomintang represented by Chiang Kai-Shek have everything in common with the capitalist and middle class democratic elements in the imperialist countries except recognition of themselves by the powers as the government of China. This group claims to represent all the people of China and in this it shows its historical position.

Said Marx in his "Eighteenth Brumaire":

"But the democrat, because he represents the petty bourgeoisie—a transitional class in which the interests of two classes are simultaneously blunted—arrogates to himself a position of superiority to class conflicts. Democrats admit that they are faced by a privileged class, but they think that they themselves, in conjunction with the rest of the nation, constitute the "people." What they represent is the right of the people; what interests them, is the popular interest. Consequently, when a struggle is impending, they see no reason for studying the interests and attitudes of the various classes, or for carefully reckoning up the forces at their own disposal. They need merely give the signal, and the people (whose resources are inexhaustible) will fall upon the oppressors. If it should turn out that their interests are inadequate and that their supposed power is impotent, they ascribe their defeat to the activities of pernicious sophists who have spread disunion and have split up the indivisible people into a number of mutually hostile factions. . . . Whatever happens, the democrat come forth unspotted after the most shameful defeat, just as he was a blameless innocent before he entered the battle. . . ."

The determination of the imperialists to hold Shanghai at all costs came as a terrific blow to the Chinese middle class which, true to type, had underestimated the resistance of world imperialism. It had fallen for the propaganda of the imperialists—that they were ready to recognize a "stable" government which represented the Chinese "people."

The rise of the labor movement, its class consciousness and militancy, were pointed to by the imperialists as an obstacle to recognition of a purely Nationalist government. The Chinese middle class has turned upon the working class and has thereby endangered the whole anti-imperialist movement without securing any guarantees for its own special interests from the imperialist powers.

Imperialism, as the Communist International has pointed out repeatedly, cannot be conquered in China without nationalization of the land and the principal industries—transportation for instance. The power of the imperialists cannot be broken by purely military methods. The workers and peasantry must be organized and that part of the program which improves their conditions at once be put into practice.

The middle class leadership of the Kuomintang finds itself in conflict with its social kindred if it yields to the demand of the masses which in this instance are the strongest weapon against imperialism. It chooses to defend the interests of the middle class, which are opposed to those of the masses and it becomes an ally of imperialism in so far as their interests coincide. They do coincide in that both see a menace to their privileges in the increasing consciousness, organization and power of the workers and peasants.

Said Lenin in the Theses of the Second Congress of the Communist International:

"There are to be found in the dependent countries two distinct movements which grow every day farther apart from each other. One is the bourgeois democratic Nationalist government, with a program of political independence under the bourgeois order, and the other is the mass action of the poor peasants and workers for their liberation from all sorts of exploitation. The former endeavor to control the latter, and often succeed to a certain extent, but the Communist International must struggle against such control and help to develop class consciousness in the working masses of the colonies. The first step towards revolution in the colonies must be the overthrow of foreign capitalism."

The Chinese liberation movement has developed so rapidly its struggle against imperialism that the parallel development of the workers and peasant movement has been obscured. It is now plain, however, that, as in the Russian revolution, those elements which wish to compromise with capitalism at the expense of the masses, will no longer be tolerated by the conscious workers and peasants as leaders.

Far from the split in the Kuomintang being a tragedy it is the best of all guarantees that imperialism and its allies in China confront a movement of tremendous scope and power having its base in the masses of toilers and preparing its forces for struggle against all forms of oppression.

That this movement would not follow Chiang Kai-Shek into the morass of compromise with imperialism is an earnest of the soundness of its revolutionary core.

Without ceasing their demand for withdrawal of all imperialist forces from China, the American working class must now understand that the Chinese labor movement and the peasant organizations, in their two-sided struggle against imperialism and native reaction, have the first call on their sympathy and support.

Moscow in October

II.—COMMANDERS.

I had hardly begun making a speech calling upon the soldiers to leave that day at dawn for the Moscow Soviet to fight those who were trying in Moscow to defend the Government that was overthrowing Petersburg, when I observed that my friend had plunged somewhere into the crowd of soldiers and disappeared amongst them. At the same time I glanced round and noticed that the young soldier standing by me who had wanted to write our names down, had also disappeared somewhere. A tall soldier in a great fur coat came up to the table. He also had a rifle in his hands. "After listening to my speech, he himself began speaking shaking his rifle in the air.

The face of the soldier speaker resembled that of Ivan the Terrible. His eyes blazed with inspiration and appeal.

"Comrades, come on," he said, "but don't take any officers with you: they will be treacherous."

* * *

I heard someone rattling the bolt of his rifle behind me and someone else crying out in a hoarse-sleepy voice:

"Enough, comrades, enough! We have heard you before, Comrade Yegorov, we know all about it; enough of this talk—we'll go and that's all."

"We'll go" voices muttered. "File off! Go out into the yard." And they all immediately moved back again to their boards in order to get dressed and awaken the others:

We could hear them saying:

"Go out! With cartridges! . . . Get up! . . ."

* * *

I went out into the yard together with the soldiers who had already dressed. In the very doorway, I bumped right into my pal who, quite excited, held the young fellow by the hand who had wanted to write down our names.

Pressing by the Krasnaia Vorota, we saw but a narrow strip of the morning dawn was visible behind them. Moscow was still quiet, the outlines of the houses stood out more clearly.

I glanced behind.

In the distance round a bend in the street, walking straight towards the breaking dawn, a grey mass of soldiers were marching steadily.

Their new commander—the tall soldier, again bent; whispered in my ear

"And in Petersburg, has Lenin issued the order about the land?"

"Yes. We only have to confirm it here by our acts."

In the Babyanskaya Square there was some kind of old disused fountain. It was light grey when we passed by. On the fountain, the curbstones, along the walls and gates of the "Dinamo," ("Krasnaia Rosa") the business district of Moscow), soldiers were seated. We stopped and asked them what they were waiting for.

"Come along, here," they answered to us. "But we have not got any commanders. Come to the Soviet. Someone told us that we should wait here and we are waiting."

We gave them instructions to march to the Soviet and not to listen to any proposals.

"It is bad without commanders," said the tall soldier.

When we came to the Moscow Soviet, it swarmed with soldiers like an ant hill.

And there were no commanders anywhere.

* * *

In the evening of the next day, when we could all smell powder in the air quite plainly, we—the Military-Revolutionary Committee—firmly realized what commanders were and what significance they could have in military activities.

But where are they to be found? There were no Bolshevik sergeants or corporals to be found. There were also very few soldiers who could command big units. They promoted themselves on the spot under fire.

That evening going down the steps of the Moscow Soviet, I caught up one non-commissioned officer who was reckoned as a Bolshevik.

"Where are you off to?" I asked.

"Why, me, in a few minutes the rising is starting."

It appeared that this was a young S.R. who had gone off to smash the locks of the premises where the cartridges were kept. My comrade, who had been suspicious of him from the very start, observed that he had gone somewhere and then followed him.

Meanwhile robbers filed through the yard. It seemed quite natural that the command was taken over by about

DRAMA

Plays for Workers

By FLOYD DELL

A working-class play is one about the working-class, for the working class.

Yet a play about the working-class—like a play about the middle class—may be a good play or a bad play; it may tell truth or lies; it may be realistic or sentimental; it may preach revolution, or the duty of obedience to the will of God and the master class. If Hauptman's, "Weavers" is a good working class play, it is not because it is about workers, but because it is good for workers. The fact that a play is about working people is not a significant fact. We do not line up the plays of Shaw, Pinero, Ibsen and Clyde Fitch together because they are about the middle class. We ought not to designate Gorky's, "Night Lodging" by a term which equally includes "Nellie the Beautiful Cloak-Model." So if we are going to talk about working class plays we ought to mean plays for the working class.

None Too Good.

What kind of plays should be so described? As for me, I think the best is none too good for the working class. Trotsky seems to have the same idea about working-class manners. Soviet Russia uses her finest palaces for working class purposes. No matter if the palaces were built for lords and ladies; no matter if secretary was invented by the leisure class. Manners will change, no doubt; office buildings may serve the workers' purposes better than palaces. But they will still be the best manners of their kind, the best buildings. What is working class medicine? The best that science can provide! What is working-class sciences? The best that the human mind can furnish! And working class art? The best art, surely! That leaves enough room for argument.

Working class plays should be new and revolutionary? Yes—but it does not suffice that they celebrate Noise, Crowds, Steel, Steam, Dirt, Confusion, Chewing Gum and Hot Dogs—especially if they do so in terms of mouldy mysticism. But human conduct is changing—and even more swiftly, our ways of thinking and feeling about conduct. There is something new to write plays about! And a good proletarian critic should be able to recognize the flame of revolutionary science in the character of the girl biologist in "The Silver Cord." If he is unable to do so because she is not a strike-leader (or a Black Bottom dancer!) then he is no critic at all but a plain proletarian ass.

WALTER HAMPDEN

Is the producer, manager and principal player in the romantic drama "Caponsacchi," which celebrates the 200th performance tonight at Hampdens theatre.

The New Plays

MONDAY

"MR. PIM PASSES BY," A. A. Milne's comedy will be revived by the Theatre Guild at the Garrick Theatre Monday night. In the cast are: Laura Hope Crews, Dudley Digges, Erskine Sanford, Helen Westley, Helen Chandler and Gavin Muir.

"LOVE IS LIKE THAT," a modern comedy by S. N. Behrman and Kenyon Nicholson, opens at the Cort Theatre Monday night. Basil Rathbone heads the cast.

"LADY DO," a musical comedy with book by Albert Cowles and Jack McClellan, lyrics and music by Sam Lewis, Joe Young and Abel Baer, is due at the Liberty Theatre Monday night.

TUESDAY

"THE GOSSIPY SEX," a comedy by Lawrence Grattan, will open Tuesday night at the Mansfield Theatre presented by John Golden. Lyne Overman, Florence Mason, Grace Menken, Thomas W. Ross, Eva Condon and Norval Keedwell are in the cast.

"THE THIEF," a revival of Henri Bernstein's play at the Ritz Theatre Tuesday night with Alice Brady and Lionel Atwill. William A. Brady in association with Lee Shubert are the sponsors.

"THE COMIC," from the Hungarian of Lajos Luria, adapted by James L. A. Burrell and Lawrence R. Brown, opens Tuesday night at the Theatre Masque. J. C. Nugent and Patricia Collinge are the principals.

WEDNESDAY

"WALL STREET," a melodrama by James N. Rosenberg will be presented by The Stagers, at the Hudson Theatre next Wednesday night. Arthur Hohl will have the principal role.

"GOAT ALLEY," a drama of Negro life by Ernest Howard Culbertson, will be presented by the Toussant Producing Company at the Princess Theatre Wednesday evening. The all-Negro cast is headed by Evelyn Ellis, and includes A. B. Comathiere, Dorothy Paul and Edward Thompson.

"THE FIELD GOD," by Paul Green, the author of "In Abraham's Bosom," will open at the Greenwich Village Theatre Wednesday night.

THURSDAY

"THE HOUSE OF SHADOWS," a mystery melodrama by Leigh Hutty, will open at the Longacre Theatre next Thursday evening, presented by Brady & Wiman, in association with J. H. Del Bondie. Tom Powers is featured.

"HIT THE DECK," a musical version of "Shore Leave," adapted by Herbert Fields, music by Vincent Youmans, lyrics by Clifford Grey and Leo Robin, will come to the Belasco Theatre next Thursday night.

AMUSEMENTS

The Theatre Guild Acting Company in
ALL NEXT WEEK
"PYGMALION"
GUILD THEATRE 52nd Street, West of Broadway. Evs. 8:30. Matinees THURSDAY and SATURDAY at 2:30
Week of April 25th—THE SECOND MAN
Week of May 2nd—PYGMALION

OPENING MONDAY EVE., 8:30
A. A. MILNE'S COMEDY
"MR. PIM PASSES BY"
GARRICK THEA. 65 W. 35th St. Evs. 8:30. Mats. Thurs. & Sat. 2:30
Week of April 25th—THE SILVER CORD
Week of May 2nd—MR. PIM PASSES BY

ALL NEXT WEEK
NED McCOBB'S DAUGHTER
JOHN GOLDEN THEATRE, 58th St., East of B'way. Phone CIRCLE 5078
Matinees THURSDAY & SATURDAY
Week of April 25th—THE SILVER CORD
Week of May 2nd—NED McCOBB'S DAUGHTER

7th MONTH
CIVIC REPERTORY
COR. 14TH AVE. & 14TH ST.
PRICES 50c, $1.10 & $1.65
Wed. & Sat. Matinees
TELEPHONE WATKINS 7200
LAST 2 WEEKS
EVA LeGALLIENNE
WEEK OF APRIL 18
Mon. Eve., Apr. 18 — "Cradle Song"
Tues. Eve., Apr. 19 — "John Gabriel Borkman"
Wed. Mat., Apr. 20 — "Sherlock"
Wed. Eve., Apr. 20 — "Cradle Song"
Thurs. Eve., Apr. 21 — "Master Builder"
Fri. Eve., Apr. 22 — "Cradle Song"
Sat. Mat., Apr. 23 — "Three Sisters"
Sat. Eve., Apr. 23 — "Cradle Song"
SPECIAL MATINEE THURS., APR. 21—"CRADLE SONG"

TIMES SQ. THEATRE, WEST 42d STREET
Evs. 8:30 Mats. Thurs. & Sat. 2:30
A. H. WOODS presents
CRIME
By Samuel Shipman and John B. Hymer
with JAMES RENNIE & CHESTER MORRIS
and CAST of 100
"A vivid, gripping and absorbing melodrama. I confess that I enjoyed it as I haven't enjoyed a melodrama in seasons." — Alan Dale, American.

MADISON SQ. GARDEN
49th and 50th ST. and 8th AVENUE
NOW TWICE DAILY, 2:30 and 8:30 P.M.
RINGLING BROS. and BARNUM & BAILEY
COMBINED CIRCUS
Incl. among 10,000 marvels PAWAH the
SACRED WHITE ELEPHANT OF BURMA
GREATEST FEATURE OF ALL TIME
More People—More Acts—More Zoological Rarities—More Freaks—More of Everything Than Ever Before
ADMISSION to all seats (Inc. Tax) 75c to $3.50
Children under 12 at reduced prices at all matinee performances, except Saturdays, to $1.10 seats and over.
TICKETS NOW ON SALE AT GARDEN BOX OFFICES, 8th Avenue entrance, Branch Ticket Offices (Adams Pipe), GIMBEL BROS. and ABRAHAM & STRAUS, INC., BROOKLYN.

PROVINCETOWN PLAYHOUSE 133 MacDougal St. Tel. Spring 9383
RAPID TRANSIT
Every Eve. Exc. Mon., Incl. Sun. at 8:40
MATINEE SATURDAY, 2:40.

WALLACK'S West 42nd Street. Evenings 8:30. Mats. Tues., Wed., Thurs. and Sat.
What Anne Brought Home
A New Comedy Drama

HAMPDEN'S THEATRE 62nd St. at Broadway
Evs. 8:15. Matinees Wed. and Sat.
WALTER HAMPDEN
in CAPONSACCHI

BROADWAY
BROADWAY & 41st St. Evs. 8:10 Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2:10
PRICES EVES. $1.10 TO $3.85.

Also a Good Lenten Play
The Ladder
Waldorf Th., 50th St., E. of B'way. Mats. Wed. and Sat., 2:30

Neighborhood Playhouse
466 Grand St. Dryd. 5266
Commedia dell'Arte Every Eve (except Mon.) Mat. Sat. 2:30
In Annual 15th Bill

MARTIN BECK THEATRE, 45 St. & 8 Ave. Evs. 8:30. Mats. Wed. and Sat. 2:30
JED HARRIS Presents
'SPREAD EAGLE'

EARL CARROLL Vanities
Earl Carroll Thea., 7th Ave. & 50th St. Mats. Thurs. & Sat. 2:30

MUSIC AND CONCERTS

BAKER and JONES Announce
Town Hall, Tues. Eve., Apr. 19, 8:15
ROBERT GOLDSAND
Ampico Pianist
Knabe Piano — Ampico Records

THE NEW MAGAZINE

Section of THE DAILY WORKER

Second Section: This Magazine Section Appears Every Saturday in The DAILY WORKER.

SATURDAY, APRIL 16, 1927. ALEX BITTELMAN, Editor

EDITOR'S NOTES

By ALEX BITTELMAN

James Oneal should have given his book a different title. Instead of calling it, as he did, "A History of American Communism," he ought to have named it "An Apology For Social-Reformist Betrayals," or "The Outpourings of a Broken Socialist Heart." The advantages of this latter title are obvious. It corresponds more closely to the contents of the book. It is more colorful, alluring and hence more convenient for advertising purposes. And in addition it carries a connotation of intimacy which would capture the eye of many a broken heart, not only socialist, and thus make the book one of the best sellers of the season.

Writing history of American Communism is not as simple a proposition as Oneal thought for. It requires not only intellectual honesty, which being modest we do not propose to demand of the "historian" under discussion, but also a thorough study of social, economic and political background of the epoch logically preceding the emergence of a Communist movement in the United States. That would include an examination of the history of American capitalism, class struggle and labor movements at least since the Spanish-American war. It would also require a fundamental analysis of the developments during the modern imperialist era, and the effect of these developments upon the class struggle in the United States. In short, it requires a basic, scientific, Marxian analysis of all those factors and events which conditioned the appearance and development of a modern working class revolutionary movement in America.

Considered from this point of view, Oneal's History of American Communism is a complete failure. The book will undoubtedly satisfy the spite and venom of those who have betrayed and are continuing to betray socialism. It will please every reactionary and standpatter in the labor movement. It will be received with glee by the "open-shoppers" as well as by all the true servants of capitalism. But it will be rejected with disdain by every class conscious worker. It will be turned away as a poor joke by all who seek genuine objective knowledge. The history of American Communism, which is a fact almost and further development of the best traditions and struggles of the American working class—is yet to be written.

Imperialism on the Block

What is James Oneal's conception of Communism? Oneal does not consider it frankly as a foreign product imported into the United States from abroad. He is not guilty on account of the fact that were he to treat Communism in America as a foreign importation he would be doing the same thing as the "Dies Committee" the infamous Lusk Committee, or the American Legion and with the same result. Oneal does not know that the charge of being an alien product is being directed by the reactionaries even against their own party, though it is non-working class and hateful to the capitalists. Hence, Oneal feels compelled to give the history of our party a Left American background.

But how much of this background is he giving us? Just enough for his purpose—to make the Communist movement of America appear not only alien but also contrary and hostile to all the natural and unnatural laws supposedly governing the development of the American labor movement.

Which, by the way, is precisely the thing which defenders of capitalism the world over are saying against every movement which they believe to be contrary and hostile to the rule of the capitalists.

It can be easily proven that the Communist movement of America is as much a native product of American conditions as, for instance, our trade union movement; that our party belongs as much to America as any of its time honored and historically recognized institutions. This despite the fact that so-called foreign influences had a good deal to do with crystallizing and maturing Communist thought in the United States.

These so-called foreign influences, which are being branded as alien to America by the enemies of the working class, have operated upon American Communism in practically the same way as the foreign influences of European bourgeois revolutionary thought have operated upon the founders of the bourgeois republic of the United States. Did the Declaration of Independence become a product alien to America just because the making of this document was influenced by the ideas of the XVIII century philosophers of France? To be sure, the Declaration of Independence had been branded as alien to America by the British Crown and its supporters in the American colonies in 1776. But that did not make it any more alien than did similar "thrashing" by the Lusk Committee against the Left Wing Manifesto of 1919.

He is willing to admit that Communism was good for Russia, but insists that it is not good for America. To which we reply: Yes, we heard that from liberal capitalists, but we don't believe that the working class should be guided by liberal capitalists. The workers must have their own theory—a theory of revolutionary class struggle. They must have their own party to lead that struggle. Leninism is the theory. A Communist Party is the party.

It is in the light of the above considerations that the history of American Communism must be studied and written up in order to be a real and useful history instead of an apology for the opportunist policies and treachery of American socialist party leadership. One must understand that it was precisely in the struggle against these opportunist policies of reformist socialism as well as against reactionary trade unionism and syndicalism that Communism found its American adaption. One must recognize that without a merciless indictment and exposure of the nature and effects of reactionary trade unionism and opportunist non-Marxian socialism, no understanding can be gained of the origin and development of Communism in the United States.

Communism in the United States, like in many other capitalist countries, came into existence primarily as a revolt of the militant and class conscious workers against betrayal of the working class by the reformists, opportunists and reactionaries in the unions and in the socialist party. It was the extreme degeneracy of the official labor movement in America, coupled with the general objective situation, that was responsible for the highly ultra-leftist nature of left wing developments in the American labor movement. The explanation of the unrealistic, impractical and sectarian angles in the early phases of left wing and Communist development in the United States is to be found precisely in the treachery of reactionary trade unionists and and reformist socialists and not in some mysterious foreign influences.

If Oneal were a working class historian and not an opportunist, petty-bourgeois socialist he would know that one of the most potent forces for making American Communism more realistic, more native, more practical and of greater immediate value to the American working class was precisely the "foreign" influence of the Communist International if the American Communist movement is vindicated, the socialist party stands condemned in the eyes of every honest American worker. Hence, his so-called history.

Ten Years Ago

(Continued from April 2.)

DOWN WITH THE TSARIST MONARCHY!—DEMAND A PROVISIONAL REVOLUTIONARY GOVERNMENT OF THE WORKERS AND THE VILLAGE POOR!"

Manifesto of the Petrograd Committee of the Bolsheviki in the Second Half of February, 1917.

Russian Soc. Dem. Labor Party.

Proletarians of all countries, unite!

Comrades!

The noose, which the ruling classes have thrown round the neck of the European peoples is constantly being drawn tighter. Millions of human lives have been destroyed. The flower of the youth of the people has perished or has returned crippled. Millions of stalwart young men are languishing in prison. Work has stopped, starvation is striding through the country. The two years' slaughter for the benefit of the strong ones of the world has cost the lives of 15 millions in all the countries at war. What a monstrous crime! What a disgrace for those who started this declination of the best forces of the peoples! The great and difficult task of putting an end to this crime, rests on us, the proletarian vanguard of enslaved democracy, which is shedding its blood for an alien cause.

Has, during these two and a half years, a single, feeble voice of reason been raised from among the ruling classes, in whose hands is the fate of the peoples they are oppressing? Two years have passed since the National Duma condemned the representatives of the Russian working class. The National Duma which, at its sessions, prattles about the flourishing industry of Russia, is devastating the country and handing it over to those hungry wolves, the landowners, the capitalist employers and the bankers. When our deputies were torn from the midst of the National Duma and, after a quick settling of accounts, banished to the cold and distant regions of Siberia, the landowners and capitalists in the Duma rubbed their hands with joy that they could not speak "more freely." For two years the Duma has kept silence while its rights have been trodden underfoot. It will maintain this silence even on the second anniversary of the banishment of self-deputies. At the same time, it and its agents answerate loudly and vociferously that the unanimist speeches of the "fellow" members have found a sympathetic response among the working class which they have beheaded. There are even some groups of workers with chauvinist tendencies who, dazzled by the storm of war, carry the ideology of the Duma Liberals into the circles of the workers.

Now, when it is planned to summon the National Duma on February 14th (27th), the most imposing rumors are being circulated as to its intentions. It is not difficult to guess that the National Duma has no intention of doing anything new, but that the Liberals in the Duma are once more prepared to clench their fist behind the back of the workers who have raised their heads. In the factories the cry has gone forth to support the National Duma, nay, even urging towards a decisive step—by presenting the demands of the workers at the gates of the Tsarist palaces. This appeal is not only heresy, it is treacherous. Those who are so credulous as to have hopes of obtaining anything from the inhabitants of the palaces of the Czar and of the ruling classes, will pay dearly for the procession of the people to present their petition at those palaces. When they are suffering from a lack of gunpowder, the Liberals and the Liberal Labor politicians love to present themselves to the people as decided champions of the people's cause. Their true intentions however, they conceal. Comrades! they are demanding your help, they are demanding that you make it possible for them to hand over the country still more completely to the slaughter of war and to the war being carried on eternally "to a victorious end." They do not say it openly, but that is the dream they cherish in secret.

When the Liberals shout about their discontent with the present government and in secret are dividing up between them the future ministerial posts, when energetic phrases about doing away with the present power escape them or when they speak of a "Provisional Government" to be based on the organized people, but with all these sounding words make no mention of the war, we know what their fine language means. We are firmly convinced that this severe trial of the people and this mockery of the people will only cease under the mighty blows of democracy. We must explain to the Liberals that all our efforts are directed against the war which they have kindled, that we are offering them war without quarter. We are opposed to the Tsarist monarchy, which you love so dearly because it shields your greed and your dark deeds. We are opposed to the Tsarist monarchy against which you want to fight, but the defeat of which fills you with dread, as the Tsarist government alone makes it possible for you to treat the people as your plaything. We are in favor of a democratic republic which places the power in the hands of the people itself. We are in favor of a provisional, revolutionary government of the workers and the village poor. Such a government would be able to summon a

The Dollar and Pound Join Hands

Constituent Assembly elected on the basis of a general, equal, direct and secret franchise. We are opposed to the chauvinist, criminal greed of the National capitalists, who are dividing up the world, who are inflicting deep wounds on the world. We are in favor of international solidarity amongst the workers, which will bring peace and happiness to mankind.

On the tenth of February (February 23rd, new style—Ed.), the day when Tsarist justice raised its hand against our deputies, who devoted their strength to fight for our slogans, we send them our fraternal greetings. We demand their immediate return and we shall celebrate this day by a one-day strike as a sign of our readiness to sacrifice our lives in the fight for the slogans which our deputies proclaimed openly.

Down with the Tsarist monarchy!

War against war!

Long live the Provisional Revolutionary Government!

Long live the Constitutional National Assembly!

Long live the Democratic Republic!

Long live international socialism!

The Petrograd Committee of the R. S. D. L. P.

"THE TIME FOR AN OPEN FIGHT HAS COME! OUT INTO THE STREETS!"

Proclamation of the Bol-sheviki on March 10th (February 25th) 1917.

Proletarians of all countries, unite!

Life has become impossible! No food! No fuel! No clothing!

At the front—blood, mutilation, death. Levy after levy of troops, and transport after transport. Our sons and brothers are led to the human slaughter-house like herds of cattle.

It is no longer possible to keep silent!

They allow our brothers and sons to be led to the slaughter while we ourselves perish of hunger and cold, and still to remain silent—that would be unthinkable, criminal, despicable cowardice.

It is in vain that you try to save yourselves. If not prison then shrapnel; if not shrapnel—then disease or death from starvation!

It would be unworthy of us to hide our head in the sand and not to look forward. The country is devastated. There is no bread. Famine is approaching. Still worse things are to come. We are faced by epidemics, we are faced by disaster.

When we demand bread, we are answered with lead! Who is responsible?

The Tsarist power and the bourgeoisie are responsible. They are robbing the people at the front as they are robbing the people at home. The landed proprietors and the capitalists are enriching themselves through the war; by now they can hardly count their profits. They are dragging the war on eternally. For the sake of war profits and of the conquest of Constantinople, Armenia and Poland, they are driving the people to the slaughter. There are no limits to their brutal greed.

They will never renounce their profits and put an end to the war out of good will. It is high time to bridle the reactionary bourgeois beast.

The Liberals and the reactionaries, the ministers and the National Duma, the aristocracy and the agricultural administration—all have united during the war into a blood-thirsty horde.

The Tsarist court, the bankers and the priests are swooping in gold. An idle land of robbers is gnawing the bones of the people, is drinking the blood of the people. And we are suffering. We are perishing. We are starving. We are working ourselves to death. We are dying in the trenches. We cannot keep silent!

Up then and fight! Out into the street! For yourselves, your children and your brothers!

In Germany, in Austria, in Bulgaria, the working class is raising its head. In those countries, it is fighting against its bloodthirsty bourgeoisie for peace and freedom. Let us help it and ourselves! Let us help by fighting against our own oppressors! Rise! Organize yourselves for the fight! Form committees of the Russian Social Democratic Labor Party in the workshops, in the factories, in the provinces, in the towns, in the districts, in the barracks, in the whole of Russia. They will be fighting committees, committees of freedom. Explain to the peasants, to the petty bourgeois, to the soldiers, that their salvation is only possible through the victory of the Social Democrats.

The time for open fight has come. Strikes, meetings, demonstrations, do not weaken the organization, but strengthen it. Make use of every opportunity, of every day which offers itself. Always and everywhere with the masses and with your own revolutionary slogans!

Let the accomplices of capital call our mode of action "a game of change with strikes" and describe it as putchism. Our salvation is to be found in an immediate and continued fight and not in postponing the fight indefinitely. Call all to join in the fight! It is better to die in the glorious fight for the cause of the workers than to lay down one's life for the profit of capital or to perish from hunger and overwork. Individual actions may grow into a revolution throughout Russia, which again will give an impulse to revolution in other countries.

We have a hard fight before us, but a real victory awaits us. Rise as one man under the Red banner of revolution!

Down with the Tsarist monarchy!

Long live the Democratic Republic!

Hurrah for the eight hours' day!

The whole land of the landowners to the people!

Down with the war!

Long live the fraternal alliance of the workers of the whole world!

Long live the Socialist International!

THE FLOOD

The flood-gates of Revolt open wide
Swift waters rushing onward wave on wave
Engulfing all the earth, nothing can save
A sinking earth from the ever swelling tide.
The pent-up tears of centuries, the flood
Of martyred multitudes, let loose, will drown
Each dungeon, throne, and altar, scepter, crown
Beneath the swelling currents of the flood.
All round and round the tall black shadows loom
And mingle with the waters skyward rearing
And as we watch the roof-tops disappearing
We hear the tolling of the knell of doom.

On the Screen

"Metropolis"

"... let the machines starve!" Thus the mechanical woman of Metropolis impels the workmen forward to their attack on the machine room. In there and other fiery work he arouses them, fights the rage which rises against their inactivity, engenders sense of dissatisfaction.

Carrying fire on their shoulders, they rush into the machine rooms and attack it with blind fury the symbol of their servitude; tearing, clawing, disporting themselves monsters in whose service they, too, had become monsters.

But what was the mechanical woman who taught the workers how to break their chains. The real woman whose form and features she bore, lay a prisoner in the chemist's laboratory, agonized at the thoughts of what the evil impersonator was doing among her followers.

She had taught them love, and trust in Christ, whose religion she was re-awakening after hundreds of years of disregard by mankind. For the moral of this picture is that efficiency, to be effective, must be united with love. The soulless mechanical woman works only havoc, revolution, destruction and despair.

Yet, when one sees the workers' lot like homes, deep down underground, contrasted with the wonder city of the owners of wealth equally far above ground, one is again impelled to ask, "Surely this is revolutionary propaganda?"

In the machine room one the pitiful machines each with its human automatum. These men worked in two endless, ten hour shifts. Going in their fresh and strong and coming from it with limp, dead bodies, herded into the elevators like cattle, the elevators which connected the underground machine room with the workers' still fresh down. Only the wage that whole life gave for the Catacombs where once a day they met in secret to worship Mary, teacher of a new ancient religion. Up above, the sons of the wealthy engaged themselves in stupendous sky-scrapers, with gorgeous roof gardens, all connected by wireless and loudward- and aeroplane systems. And the evil genius of all this glory and all the distress is Masterman, cold, hard and unfeeling when another's interests are concerned.

But the bourgeois mind is clever and can turn even such material to its own uses. We see the mechanical woman, complete except for a soul, and made in the form of Mary because of her influence over the workers, turn against her master. Instead of teaching duty and submission, she suddenly turns to teaching revolt, destruction, for this is a bourgeous conception of revolution. Thus we find the workers destroying the machines, forgetting in their fury that by so doing they cause their own homes to be flooded the homes where the children still remain.

It is the real Mary, escaped, and Masterman's son, Eric, sympathizer of the workers, who rescues the children. Thus they gain forgiveness for Masterman thru a peculiar method of reasoning, which credits the father with some of the merit for his son's act; and place Eric in a position to bring together Worker and Master in a clasp of love and class collaboration, truly worthy of President Green.

"Condescending Savior."

And so the propagandist cleverly achieves a triple purpose. He raises aloft the white standard of religion, beloved of all good conservatives. At the same time, he proves to the enthusiastic middle-class audience that worker and boss must go hand in hand for perpetual peace on earth in industry. More subtle still, he convinces the fearful that revolution is all they ever thought it—not a strike for freedom of an oppressed class, but a destructive, disastrous scheme, and the product of a soulless intellect.

Dream City and Burrows.

In spite of all this, every class conscious worker, every person who likes a good movie and every one with a real interest in art should see this picture. The startingly, beautiful dream city above ground elicited spontaneous applause from a hard boiled New York audience. The standardized tenements below ground, the stupendous, pitiless machines which control everything—all are the product of an unusual imagination, with remarkable technique of production.

The many devices by which Masterman watches over his workers and the complete automatization of his whole system is almost inconceivable. As for acting, Brigitte Helm in the role of the two Marys, stands way above all the others. Mary was a quiet, sweet virgin, reminiscent of the Madonna. The mechanical being was lewd, bold and excitable. And altho the producers make of the picture a piece of obvious bourgeois propaganda, there is much in its symbolical, realistic setting from which a real revolutionist may draw much value.

BEATRICE A. MYERS.

Screen Notes

A new picturization of "Camille," from Dumas' famous novel, with Norma Talmadge in the title role, will be presented at the Globe theatre next Thursday night. Mme. Fred de Gresac made the screen version, and Fred Niblo directed the production.

"The Stolen Bride," an original story by Carey Wilson, is scheduled for production by First National with Mary Astor, Lloyd Hughes and Lucien Prival in the cast.

The premiere of Cecil B. DeMille's production of "The King of Kings," by Jeanie MacPherson, will take place next Tuesday, at the Ginsty Theatre. Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld is in charge of the presentation.

Eddie Cantor's next starring vehicle for Paramount will be "The Girl Friend," based on the musical comedy of that name.

Harry Langdon will be the screen feature at Moss' Broadway in his latest comedy, "Long Pants," beginning Monday.

"Lovers," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer drama of Spain will be the screen program at the Capitol Theatre beginning today. Ramon Novarro and Alice Terry play the leading parts.

RUDOLPH SCHILDKRAUT

Will be seen in "The King of Kings," Cecil de Mille's newest screen production opening Tuesday at the Ginsty Theatre.

Broadway Briefs

Jed Harris's next production will be a new play by Bartlett Cormack titled "The Racket." It will open in Atlantic City the first week in June.

Thurston, the magician, supported by a troupe of fifty Yogis, Far East fakirs, incidental musicians and singers, will occupy the Central Theatre beginning Monday evening for an indefinite engagement.

George Jessel returns for a two weeks engagement in "The Jazz Singer," opening on Monday evening, at the Century Theatre. The cast also includes Sam Jaffe, Joseph Schlossgold, Lillian Taiz, Edward Arnold, and Dorothy Raymond.

DRAMA

Yiddish Jazz

New Work by Ossip Dymow Resembles Lawson's "Loud Speaker"

Reviewed By A. B. MAGIL.

The jazz play has come to Second Avenue. The jazz rhythm has learned to talk in Yiddish, dance in Yiddish, wisecrack in Yiddish. A boisterous, barum-skarum play, called rather enigmatically "Human Dust," is being produced by Maurice Schwartz at his Yiddish Art Theatre. It is the latest work of Ossip Dymow, who has been writing plays and short stories for the past twenty-five years and is old enough to know better than to behave in this brash, nose-thumbing fashion. He has simply thrown dignity to the winds and written something that is speedy, laughing and impudent.

The jazz blare, the jazz brashness, the jazz pathos—in Yiddish—On Second Avenue!

"Human Dust" belongs with John Howard Lawson's "Processional" and "Loud Speaker." It is an attempt to express the American scene in simple, dynamic, terms—the terms of the animated cartoon. It is jazz made visual and kinetic, disjoining with melancholy, meditation, analysis, interpretation and all the other anatere, complex approaches toward tangible simplicities. In plays like "Loud Speaker" and "Human Dust" the externals of our life are generalized and expressed riotously, with the vehement precision of the machine age. They go far toward the creation of a new dramatic genre, in which a completely conventionalized, banal plot forms the skeleton for syncopated variations with saxophonic laughter.

More Tabloid Drama.

The story of "Human Dust" is thoroughly tabloid. Offhand I don't remember the details, but they can be found in any issue of the Graphic. This conventionalization of plot is an important development in flashback to the old folk drama?), since it gives the author complete freedom for manipulating his materials as he pleases and at the same time becomes a travesty on itself.

Ossip Dymow has written his play with broad, splashing, boisterous strokes. Considering that he is a "foreigner," his feel for American city life is uncanny. The play Charlestons and Black Bottoms breathlessly through three dizzy acts and eleven lopsided scenes and the lines are genuinely funny. "Human Dust" may be said to have a hero and a heroine just as a newspaper story has its gaudy protagonists, but essentially, by its technique and its ultimate effect, it marks a definite step toward mass drama.

Maurice Schwartz has directed the play shrewdly and jauntily and, with Celia Adler and Bina Abramowitz, carries off the chief acting honors. The rest of the cast, however, does clever and spirited work.

Will have an important role in Milne's "Mr. Pim Passes By," being revived by the Theatre Guild at the Garrick Monday night.

"New York Exchange" by Peter Glenny headed by Alison Skipworth and Sidney Shields is coming to the Bronx Opera House for a week's engagement beginning Monday evening. The supporting cast includes: Leyla Le Noire, Edward Keane, Robert Vernon, Harry Minjir, Doris Underwood, Helen Mitchel and George LeSoir.

"Father Walks Out," by Grace Livingston Furniss, will be produced here by Mary Furrest on April 25. George Allison, Trully Shattuck and Harold Vermilyea will be in the cast.

MUSIC

Bach's B minor Mass will have its first performance in New York on Thursday evening at Carnegie Hall, when it will be sung by the Oratorio Society under the direction of Albert Stoessel, with a chorus of 250. The soloists will be Mildred Faas, soprano; Mabel Beddoe; contralto; Lewis James, tenor; and Dorsee Stevens, bass.

Robert Goldsand, Viennese pianist, at his second recital at Town Hall Tuesday evening, will include in his program: Chromatic Fantasy and Fugue, Bach; Sonata in C major, opus 24, Weber; Variations on a Hungarian Air, Brahms, a group by Schubert; Strauss' "Persian March;" Humoresque, Roger; Punch and Judy Show, Goossens, and Rhapsodie, No. XIII, Liszt.

"Cavalleria Rusticana," followed by "Pagliacci," conducted by the Civatory, will be given at the Knights of Columbus Auditorium, tonight, under the direction of Francis F. Loubet, head of the Fine Arts Grand Opera Company. "Il Trovatore," will be given tomorrow night; N. Val Peavey, conducting and "Rigoletto" on April 24th.

Irina Dubova, Russian soprano, will appear in recital at Aeolian Hall Tuesday Evening.

The last of the three concerts by the International Composers' Guild will take place this Sunday night at Aeolian Hall. In place of Leopold Stokowski who is unable to conduct, the concert will be directed by Artur Bodzinski.

Caryl Oakes, violinist, will give a recital Thursday evening at Aeolian Hall.

The COMRADE
Edited by the Young
A Page for Workers'

Young SECTION
Pioneers of America
and Farmers' Children

SACCO AND VANZETTI

Sacco and Vanzetti, the two Italian fighters of the working class, who were convicted in 1920, were sentenced to die in the electric chair during the week of July 10. Vanzetti said, "My conviction is that I have suffered because I am a radical and an Italian. But if you were to execute me two times and I were to be reborn I would again do as I have done already."

Comrade children of the working class. Everybody knows that our Comrades Sacco and Vanzetti are innocent of the crimes they are charged with. Everybody knows that the enemies of the workers want to get rid of Sacco and Vanzetti and so they have framed-up charges on these two innocent workers, as they did with Tom Mooney and others. They stop short of nothing to get rid of workers who are radical and fight for the working class.

Our slogan must be "Sacco and Vanzetti Shall Not Die" and we must back up our slogan by getting all people, especially workers, to protest against this great wrong.

OUR LETTER BOX

HE STOLE BECAUSE HE WAS HUNGRY.

By ROSE NIOVIC—Akron Pioneer.

The bell rang for recess. I went to get my lunch but did not find it. Someone got hold of it. It was in my pocket in the morning. I didn't care much for it, but the kids asked me why I'm not eating so I told them why.

The kids started hunting for the "thief." And a boy said that he saw Willar eating something in the basement hiding himself. I asked the kids to let Willar eat it.

There are six children and they barely have enough to eat.

But the teacher Miss C heard about the incident. She took the poor boy and he got a real hard thrashing from her.

Some of the kids just sat and didn't say a word. But I have seen in the eyes of some others that they didn't like the judgment.

"He would not have stolen if he had enough to eat, but the teacher does not care whether we kids have eats or not," said a girl to me while we were quietly walking home.

A LOT OF BUNK.

Dear Comrades: Monday we went to meet Gov. Brewster. We had to go through the streets as if we were horses. It was awful weather and it was snowing also. When the governor came he didn't tell us anything good, he just told us he had a wife and two children who were great big husky boys. He told us to try and be good citizens of the United States. He also said that every boy or girl in this hall has a chance to become a governor or president by being true to the country.

MUCH WORK BUT NO PRESENTS

By ELIZABETH PENTALLER.

The day after vacation the teacher asked the little folks in the class to tell what they got from Santa Claus. But most of the children in our school were poor and didn't get any presents so we couldn't play much.

My little sister and I were in a big city and saw many nice toys which were made for little folks to play with.

We saw old Santa and told him we would like those nice toys. But all he said was, "How much money have you got?" I told him I didn't have any.

But we worked to beat the band last summer on our farm during vacation. We didn't even make enough for our living. My father told us how nice a time our little comrades in Soviet Russia have during vacation time. I wish we have a Soviet America so we too can have a good time.

HOW ABOUT YOU?

Little Rosie Red, they say
Will join the Pioneers today.

CARRY ON THE STRUGGLE

By Elizabeth Jukstys.

Rich people dwell
In wealth and state,
While poor ones walk
Through the factory gate.

The rich ones sup
On bright wine red,
While workers' children
Cry for bread.

If the rich are sick,
Or have slight ills,
They call their doctors
Who give them pills.

If the poor are sick,
In bed they moan,
They either get well
Or die—alone.

Tell me my friends
Will the always be
Are these the sights
We'll always see?

Or will we arise
And against this fight,
To see that past wrongs
Are for workers made right

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN?

STRIKES OF THE WORKERS

By FRANK GILLIS.

One of the most important strikes of the workers was the Passaic strike. Many speeches were made. The most important speaker was Albert Weisbord. At a company in the Passaic dye works there was hard work. Forcoue and workers got together and tried to organize a union. They went and told the boss; the boss showed them the door. At last Albert Weisbord talked and showed them how. They asked him if he would be their leader. He said he would. They were delighted at this. With Albert Weisbord as their leader they were sure of a good organization. They would meet at a certain place and have meetings every week. At last they were ready for a strike. It made them sick to see a rich man smoking a cigar while the working people were fainting. They went into the boss and said that they were ready for a strike. The boss said they were fired. They said that they did not have to be fired, they quit. The boss got discouraged at first. He thought they were kidding like before, but after a while he found out it was true. The march began from factory to factory. They went picking up as many as they could. Many people were hurt. Then they ot their gas masks. When the police wanted to punish them, they had to do it by squirting ice cold water on them in zero weather. There were many victims of this.

The children had playgrounds built for them. Many men were under nurses and in hospitals. Truckloads of food came to them. Many meetings were held but the police caught on that there was something going on. Now the Passaic dye works are trying to get some men to work for them. But none are being employed.

LAST WEEK'S PUZZLE

The answer to last week's puzzle Number 8 is Rotenberg, the Great Leader of the Workmen Class. The following had the right answers:

Vera Rosinsky, New York City; Vincent Invyan, Bayonne, N. J.; Helge Roose, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Alli Hill, Maynard, Mass.; Nina Mickhaff, Chicago, Ill.; Hilda Wolf, Baltimore, Md.; Helen Nicolipaulo, Endicott, N. Y.; Nathan Shapiro, New York City; Henry Samuel, Clifton, N. J.; Laura Burns, New York City.

More Answers to Puzzle No. 8

Leo Goldman, New York City; Esther Cohen, Chicago, Ill.; Esther Borenstein, New York City; Martha Chukan, Kenosha, Wis.; Helge Roos, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Fred Burns, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Florence Hayden, St. Paul, Minn.; Anne Laeko, Chicago, Ill.; Leo Wolin, Chicago, Ill.; Sima Wexler, New York City; Alex Berkow, Chicago, Ill.; Goldie Godhab, New York City; Carl Brahtin, Cleveland, Ohio; Lulu Morris, New York City; Phillip Childs, Chicago, Ill.; Lucille Santhe, Columbus, Ohio; Amelia Urisch, Chicago, Ill.

Luz Villarino all the way from Inglewood, Cal. just sent in her answer to puzzle number 7. Better late than never, don't you think?

THIS WEEK'S PUZZLE NO. 10

This week's puzzle is a word puzzle. All the young comrades should get busy and do what this puzzle says. The rules for the puzzle are: 1 stands for A, 2 for B, 3 for C, etc. Send along your answers.

10,15,9,14 20,8,5 18,21,20,8,5,14,2,5,18,7
1,18,6,22,5 2,25 7,5,20,20,9,14,7
19,21,2,10,3,18,9,8,2,5,18,9 5,15,18 20,8,5
25,15,21,14,7 2,15,3,14,12,1,5.

Send your answers to the Daily Worker Young Comrade Corner, 33 First St., New York City. Give your name, age, address and the number of the puzzle.

THE LITTLE GREY DOG

(Continued)

The rich man celebrated his birthday. There was a great feast, chickens and calves and lambs were roasted, rich foods could be smelled all thru the house, the servants brought countless bottles from the wine-cellar. After supper the young guests danced in the large hall, the older men seated themselves at a table and began to play cards.

The rich man had no luck, he lost and lost again, until at last his purse was empty. "One more game," he said to his friend who had won all the money. "We will gamble for my strongest and best slave." And he thought to himself, "If I lose Tom, that will not be a misfortune, for lately he is lazy and obstinate, anyhow."

His friend agreed. The whole life and fate of a human being depended upon a few cards, a bundle of paper. The rich man drew a card, his friend did the same. They threw the cards on the table. The rich man had lost.

When Tom came to work the following morning, the overseer told him to go to the house of the rich man, the master had sold him and his new master would take him to his estate at once.

That evening Benjamin waited in vain for the return of his father. Night came, it was quite dark, and his father did not come. Benjamin sat huddled on the threshold, peering anxiously into the darkness. The little grey dog lay near him. He was sad and quiet, he seemed to feel that something was wrong. At last Benjamin could stand it no longer, ran crying to the hut of a neighbor, and asked about his father. The stout Negress informed him that a strange master had taken Tom with him that morning; he was sold and would not return.

(To Be Continued)

RUTHENBERG SUB BLANK

Comrade Ruthenberg's last words were "Let's Fight On!" We, the children of the workers can best FIGHT ON by getting subscribers for the Young Comrade, the children's monthly newspaper. What are YOU doing to help? Don't forget. Fifty cents for a whole year and twenty-five cents for six months. On the job!

Send to.

Name .....
Street .....
City ..... State ..... Age ....

Daniel Keeps Mouth.

Hell's Coal Bin

By ALEX JACKINSON.

The [illegible] valley of South York lay a deserted and unlighted [illegible]. Only the gurgling of a creek, winding along the outskirts of the town disturbed the quiet. The waters, lined on both sides by trees, flowed swiftly on, breaking off into a water-fall under the old fork bridge. It was still dark, the dawn was beginning to creep thru a mass of grey colored vapor before which darkness ascended like a giant curtain.

The air, usually suffused with coal dust was then clear and cool. It rained during the night and the ground was still moist. In the distance smoke emanating from the locomotive of a passing train climbed temperarily the strip of blue sky, which was slowly breaking thru the horizon.

On the main road, running parallel with the creek moved a straggling column of men. They walked in silence, casting a dark silhouette against a sloping hill. First faintly and then more distinctly the line appeared. Soon it could be distinguished that they were miners on their way to the collieries where they worked. Their faces were still obscure, but it was evident from their behavior that they were uneasy.

More figures crept stealthily out of their homes, and hurried down side streets to join the early morning procession. Single file, sometimes two abreast, they walked, interrupting their silence only by an occasional "Hello there." The marchers seemed to be in a depressed mood. Their arms holding dinner buckets swung in uneven strides. While their eyes, peering from behind half shut eyelids scanned the faces of those nearest to them, fearful lest they be seen by unknown.

The saucer-shaped valley of South Fork lay like a huge bowl in the midst of Pennsylvania's central competitive coal area. Half a mile from the residential quarters were the bituminous coal fields belonging to the Terminal Coal Company. The ground was everywhere strewn with pieces of coal, lying on a blanket of black dust. Running from the drift mouths of the many mines was a maze of railroad tracks, some of which disappeared in the distant hill sides. Around the vicinity were red brick company houses, and black-smith shops. A low fence partitioned off the stables where mules and horses were quartered.

In one of the company-owned houses, known as the "bullpen," a familiar game of chance was going on. It began the evening before and lasted thru the night. Here a number of men were grouped about in a semi-circle. One of them was shaking a pair of dice in his cupped hand which he del roll to the floor. Spontaneously, mapping his fingers and grunting "Come you seven." Sleep laden eyes followed the ivory dotted cubes which showed a "three" and a "five." "Eight's my point," he gasped, stifling a lazy yawn. The player had some bills on the floor. "There's six bucks open." He looked about him. "Come on who's gonna lade me." Another player deposited the called for amount. The dicer kept tossing the dice until a loud "there's the seven" stopped him. After which he gave them to another, and proceeded to count his winnings.

The game continued. "Hey, turn those lights out, damn you'se, I wanna get some sleep" sounded from the corner as the room where rows of cots lined the walls. Upon them men fully dressed, slept, having removed only their shoes. No one paid any attention. Elsewhere in the same room, poker was being played. A hand swept stacks of chips off the table. "You dirty whore, you're cheatin'!" Chnirs edged closer. "Shut up, give me those cards and pass a drink." A half empty bottle of gin changed hands.

Those were the famous coal and iron policemen, used by mine owners to intimidate pickets in times of strike. They were known in the mining regions as the coal barons own private army. These gueryillas imported from Chicago's underworld were paid by the operators and deputized by the state which gave them free reign to terrorize the workers at their will.

"A call to turn out sounded, and all but those too drunk to hear rose to their feet. They wore grey shirts, and riding breeches held in place by puttees. On their caps were the initials C. I. Arms reached for their rifles lying within reach. Outside they posted themselves around the pit-head of mine No. 2 and waited.

The string of miners drew closer. Deputy sheriffs opened the heavy gate thru which about fifty men squeezed hurriedly by. Inside they separated, some stepping over to the supply shed for their picks and shovels. Swift glances were exchanged, as they entered the mine pits, dropping silently into darkness.

Down in hell's coal bin the men made their way thru a labyrinth of winding tunnels. It was some time after the whistle blew that they patched halfheartedly into work. Thru wooden brattices the hammering of picks connecting with bedrock began sounding. Such a gaseous odor spread over the damp cave, where men stood ankle-deep in water. The top was five feet from the ground, and men worked all day in a stooping position. Heavy pieces of timber kept the roof from caving in. The fall of a single prop meant being buried alive. A not unknown occurrence to the miners.

A gang of men were digging on the main drift. Shovels buried into a pile of coal and emptied into cars which sweating men pushed along tracks. The miners' backs began to twingle from constant bending. Noses inhaled the odorous air, and sneezed. A canary chirped. Glimmers of mine lamps cast shadows of light across the jet black hole. . . Everywhere rats scurried about which the miners did not mind. Some refused to work without the rodents being about, as they oft times warned them of impending danger.

Continuous murmuring of the coal breakers, drifted occasionally into distinguishable talk. "Py yingo I wude like to get out of 'ere," chanted one, in an attempt to start a conversation. Nobody answered. Some minutes later he tried again. "Ow long you tink' dis strike'll lest, eh Burke?" A disgusted grunt was the only reply. "Vot you med fer eh—I fex you later." The steel pick bit harder into earth. The same person again broke into undesired speech. "Py yiminy"—A coal smeared face turned around. "Shut this Swede up somebody, or I'll 'spilt his head open." Silence followed angry looks. The tension tightened as fists clenched and unclenched. Another miner addressed Burke, "What the hell are you sore about?" For answer Burke spat against the shagged wall. "He's pewed because it's the first day he's seabbing, poor bloke, un' he ain't used to it yet, God blast 'em," another chimed in. "Shut your bloody trap," yelled Burke, "or they'll be one guy less in this world." More profanities and again the silence that comes of fear swept over the strike breakers.

In the valley below life began to stir. On Maine Street, shop keepers had already opened the stores. Life began to give forth an odor. The low dwellings seemed suddenly to wake up from sleep. Shades began to rise and men and women walk out of doors. In the streets broken strings of people began making their appearance. They brought with them a smell of coal with which their clothes were heavily greased.

Women whose dresses were not complicated by style shuffled along with baskets under their arms. Their faces were drawn and their heads covered with red shawls. In and out of stores they went searching for someone willing to sell them food. Near a butcher shop a woman recognized the wife of a scab. She gave her a piercing look, followed by an oath in Hungarian. A constabulary patroling the street, arrested her.

On a private plat of ground were set up rows of canvas tents which served as homes for the evicted miners. Here too life assumed color. A more sombre hue than elsewhere. Mothers sent their children to sprawl in the wet grass while they busied themselves with domestic duties. A distant camp-fire gave it an outward appearance of picknickers on vacation.

South York is one of the many eastern mining towns where men are not themselves, but mere automatons of the coal magnates. These men, practically all of whom are employed in the mines were now questioning their independence.

The strike was in its fifth week, and the miners tired of the no resistance policy of the Lewis machine rallied around the "Save the Union" bloc who determined to organize the only non-union mine in the district. Loyal strikers began gathering around the union headquarters in preparation for a picketing demonstration. It was still early, barely past six a. m.

A large crowd was beginning to gather in the street. Passers-by stood before the front of shops, gazing at the ever-increasing throng. Up and down the streets uneven columns of men moved. On corners police clubs began swinging. In the gutter an army truck loaded with troops passed by at high speed. Boos greeted its appearance and disappearance. In groups and pairs miners and sympathizers came from all sides to weld to with the compact mass.

In chic crowd were men of all nationalities, united under the banner of solidarity. Hard, rugged faces of Slavic extraction bobbed in and out of each other's gaze. Men with shirts unbuttoned at the neck and dressed in saggy trousers greeted those they recognized as friends. Their voluble talk was confined for most part to yesterday's clash with the mine operators' gunmen during which a number of miners were badly beaten.

After instructions from union leaders, the line began to move steadily towards the mine district. Those in the forerunks carried placards bearing "We want no sliding scale—it always slides down." "Organize the non-union mines," "Workers! Strike together." Up the main street they wended, gaining momentary impetus as more and more people fell in line. Within the hour they appeared at the mine gates. A detachment of the coal and iron police met the advance guards. Neither side took heed of the other. A police sergeant stepped ahead "Go on break this up or you'll be kissed by a bullet up your behind." Strike orders were given by Sheriff Braun of the Alleghany district not to allow any picketing.

His instructions were being obeyed. The "police" drew their guns. "Give it to 'em," commanded the sergeant. As the miners drew closer, the policeman nearest to them levelled his rifle and shot. Others wailed into the swarming crowd, and tore down the banners. The miners stirred by bad living conditions to rebellion were gripped with strong anger. One of their number fell with a bullet in his chest. Pools of blood formed, into which moving feet stopped, leaving specimens of footprints on the ground. The long line surged unevenly from side to side. A desire to break thru the barrier of guns was heard everywhere.

Down below the non-union miners were startled by the shots. A natural intuition informed them what happened. They dropped their tools and those on the upper drifts darted out of the pit to see what it was. A minute later the men were grouped about in bunches. "What happened Jed?" "There's hell doin!—looks like some strikers were shot." The angry shouts of the miners were heard in hell's coal bin. A sense of shame altered the expression on their faces. A miner broke the silence by shouting, "I'm thru with this lousy game. Who's got the guts to follow me?" Hurried glances were exchanged. "We're with you," they chorused. After a brief consultation, they discarded the pleas of the mine formemen, and decided to quit work. Every one picked something up, knowing that they would have to fight the police to get thru, and piled into the cages.

The miners were steadily retreating before the onslaught of the police. Suddenly a cry of "Look boys. They're coming up," turned their gaze. Men stood on tip-toes to watch the non-nuion miners emerge from the pits. One after another the former scabs awakened by an innate class consciousness, came to the ground. When they reached the surface they brushed the carbide from their unlit lamps, and pressed together. Only the pumpmen remained underground.

"An accident must have happened," sounded from the midst of the strikers' ranks. "No, they're joining us," said another. Their temporary anger was forgotten by the unexpected turn of events. The non-union miners advanced in a body towards the gate. "We're with you boys," they shouted. "Hurrah for solidarity," escaped another's lips.

A barrier of drawn guns, with fingers held against the triggers separated the two cheering groups which momentarily drew closer and closer.

Mrs. Rhin Ocerous Lectures on How to Live on $15.00 a Week.

A Lesson for the Italian Workers

By C. RAMINGO

IN view of the impossibility of continuing union activities under fascism, the executive of the Italian General Confederation of Labor decided on the 4th of January to liquidate the confederation.

On the 16th of January a meeting of the former leaders of the confederation, consisting of d'Aragona, Rigola, Azzimonti, Reina, Maglione and Colombino, signed a document, which was nothing less than the capitulation of the reformist leaders of the G. C. L. to fascism. This document contains in it recognition of the principle of class collaboration, as the fascists understand it, and an acceptance of the fascist social legislation as a "glorious experiment" deserving of support. Finally, the authors of this statement recognize the necessity to revise their program, excluding from it all "extra program ballast" and express their readiness to put their long experience at the service of the fascists in their work of preparing the masses for the "spiritual and concrete adoption" of fascist syndicalism.

This statement is far from being an act of treason on the part of few reformists. It is the logical conclusion to the G. C. L.'s behavior for the last years.

Even before the fascists took power, the Italian reformists did not show sufficient willingness to struggle with them. They looked on fascism as a temporary phenomenon and retaliated to the terror of the fascist bands with agreements and reconciliations, which only helped to strengthen fascism. After Mussolini seized power, the G. C. L. leaders did not refuse to treat with him on the question of their participation in the government. The history of the G. C. L. for the last years is full of examples of either direct going over of its most active workers to fascism or of resigning work in the G. C. L. for "personal reasons." The only "practical" work of the leaders of the G. C. L. reduced itself to the struggle with the revolutionary elements in the unions to the liquidation of oppositional organizations and to the changing of democratic forms of union work. In general the reformists refused to take any action which could be regarded as inimical to fascism.

The result of such a policy was that the working masses more and more turned away from the G. C. L.

The G. C. L. leaders by no means set themselves the task of widening their trade union cadres. Their task was to retain, in conserved form, so to say, the G. C. L. apparatus. They prised the G. C. L. as an old firm, which could be used as a means of getting a firm hold upon the labor movement of Italy when a political enlivening took place in the country.

But present-day events in Italy place before the working class the following dilemma: either struggle, or be reduced to serfdom and debasement. The better elements of the working class began to unite and set up the united front without the complicity of the reformist leaders. In the factories and shops, in the towns and villages, unity and agitation committees were set up on the initiative of the Communist Party, which were to prepare the ground for the setting up of the labor organizations broken by the fascists (and to a certain degree, by the reformist leaders themselves), and to prepare the working class for the struggle against fascism.

A series of illegal conferences were carried through with great success by these committees. The workers' delegations to the U. S. S. R. and the campaign of solidarity with the British miners carried through the Communist Party, have showed that the working class has outgrown the reformist leaders: that the reformists are able to retain the leadership of the G. C. L. in spite of the small union membership only because they arbitrarily changed the rules and structure of the G. C. L. and carried through despotic fascist methods of managing the unions.

The last wave of fascist reaction, which washed away the remains of legality, placed a dilemma before the reformists: either to go with the masses into dangers and risks, not hesitating before illegal underground work, or to get off the scene. They preferred to go: some to work for fascism, others abroad, to serve Amsterdam or the left bloc in France. The first bring their new masters their many years' experience and readiness to work to re-educate the masses in the spirit of fascist syndicalism; the second bring Amsterdam and the left bloc—the G. C. L. firm. This firm is to help the Amsterdamites of all countries where there is any considerable nurbers of Italian immigrant workers, to enroll the latter in the reformist unions.

But the traitors and deserters of the Italian G. C. L. are reckoning without their masters. The G. C. L. belongs to the Italian proletariat and not to the reformist leaders.

At home and abroad the Italian militant workers will show up the efforts of the fascists and reformists to use the name of the G. C. L. and the "many years of experience" of its dishonest leaders against the interests of the working class. They will not forget that invaluable lesson taught by the reformists. Having freed themselves from the wardeadsky of the reformists, having thrown overboard the ballast of the reformist illusions, the Italian working class will march bravely, together with the revolutionary workers of all countries, to the struggle with the bourgeois fascist ti...

HARBOR ALLEN COMES BACK

I've just read Charles Ashleigh's "Correcting the American Mercury" in The DAILY WORKER Magazine Section of April 5th. He did a neat job in removing my hide for the Flynn article.

I object only to this: Ashleigh says that for a revolutionist to write such an article is indecent and dishonest. He repeatedly calls me a liar. The article was written more than a year ago. At that time I was not a revolutionist or a radical and had never written for any radical publication. I was a dissatisfied liberal with vague radical leanings. I had just come to New York after living an isolated life in the north and wandering aimlessly through Europe. About the labor movement I knew nothing.

Then I met Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, heard about her life from friends, liked her immensely, and wrote the article. It was meant to be frankly romantic and as honest as I knew how. I read up in newspapers on Miss Flynn's life and talked to her friends about her. There were factions in the I. W. W. machine, as everybody knows; and I blundered into one faction. Since that time I've become friends with a number of Wobblies and heard several versions of the same incidents.

I may have been a damned fool in marching brazenly into this quagmire, especially since, as Ashleigh perceives, I knew nothing about the internal politics of the I. W. W. and little about strikes. But I wasn't a deliberate liar and I wasn't a deliberate charlatan. Above all, I wasn't a renegade radical. I was a liberal. I thought I was "independent," "above parties." Like most liberals, I was interested in personalities. Elizabeth Gurley Flynn's personality appealed to me. I intended to write solely about her and found myself pulled into a movement with a long, intricate history. I didn't even know what I had stepped into. I was out to write a piece of romantic journalism about "Labor's Joan of Arc," the original title before the Mercury editors doctored up the article; and it was months before I knew the blunders I had made.

This doesn't excuse the stupidities and mistakes. It does clear me of the charge of treason brought by Ashleigh. There are a hundred reasons why I regret the article, not the least of which is my respect for Elizabeth Gurley Flynn. The only good that came of it—purely personal—was my being drawn into the radical movement. In the intervening year I've gone through an enormous change. The Flynn article, bad step as it was, was the first step in this transition.

—HARBOR ALLEN.

THE ABORIGINES OF AMERICA

WHEN the first European explorers set foot on the American continent, they found it already populated by as race which they thought inferior because the Scriptures did not mention this indigenous people. From then on, this curious conception justified in the eyes of the Europeans, the slavery and even the destruction of the American race. A papal bull was necessary to prove that the Red Skins were men.

Before long a biblical origin was found for the newly discovered race. Certain people thought them to be the descendants of Magog or of the tribes driven from Canaan by Joshua.

Only at the beginning of the 19th century were scientific theories formulated on the origin of this indigenous people of America. Le Peyrère and Quatrefages were the first to maintain that the race of Red Skins came, at least in part, from the islands of the Pacific. Today many indigenous characteristics, but they believe that the Melanesians and the Polynesians inhabited only a part of America, the northeast of Asia contributed to it a more important part of the emigration which populated the New World.

All scholars are in agreement on one fact: that the Red Skins come to America comparatively recently. There have never been found signs of his presence in this country at a relatively distant period, not even traces similar to those which the prehistoric men have left in the alluvium of rivers and the caves of France. His culture, his industry, and even his physical characteristics have changed slightly since his arrival in America.

To which race does the Red Skin belong? The brown color of his skin, his black hair, his high cheek bones, are characteristics which show a close proximity to the brownish yellow branch of humanity which comprises the Mongolians, the Malays, the Eskimos, a majority of the Chinese, the Japanese, the Thibetans and the indigenous tribes of Siberia.

Even today, spread across all of Oriental Asia there can be found types of men identical to the most characteristic types of Red Skins in America.

We can therefore conclude, that in all probability, the original Americans were not born on the American continent, but they represent a branch of the Yellow race of Oriental Asia, who came to America probably in large numbers by way of Bering Strait, and into an epoch in which the physical evolution of the human being had already reached the stage of modern man. —From "L'Humanité," March 6, 1927.

(Translated by J. S. [illegible])

A Rich Man's Help

By CLARA LICHT.

I received a phone call from a friend of mine, one day, asking me to come to see her at once. When I reached her home, I found her crying and looking greatly distressed. She immediately told me the great trouble that befell her.

Her husband, a painter, had gotten lead poisoning and his right arm was getting paralyzed. The doctor asserted him that he may be cured providing that he acts at once.

They were penniless, for the wages the husband received were just barely enough to pay for the necessities of life. The woman gave me several addresses of some men that worked at the same place with her husband and also his boss' address.

I went first to see Mr. Gross, the boss. I can hardly describe the grandeur of his mansion. When I was ushered into the waiting room, I was bewildered by all the splendor and wealth that the room contained.

Mr. Gross entered, looking the part that befitted one so rich and when I told him my mission, he said:

"Well, why come to me? I am not a doctor."

"I know that you are not a doctor," I answered, "but surely there is something you can do."

"I don't owe him anything. I pay my wages in full on Fridays," said haughty Mr. Gross.

"I believe you owe him a good deal," I replied, "a man who works three years for one boss has rendered enough for him to make the boss owe him something."

"I guess you came for a collection," he finally concluded taking a two dollar bill out of his pocket and handing it to me.

I felt so mortified at this that I threw the bill in his face and left.

I then went to the address of one of the men who worked together with the sick man. He lived in the poorest section of the Bronx; in a cold, dingy apartment house on the third floor to the rear.

When I told him the condition of my friend's husband, he sat back with eyes glazed and looking so frightened and shocked that I was sorry I had come. He finally got out of his daze, put his hand into the inside of his coat pocked and made out a hundred dollar check.

"Here, it is the only savings we have. He will pay it back to me when he gets well."

I declined such a generous offer, but told the man to obtain the co-operation of the other workers in a joint loan. This he did with a will and that same evening he obtained one hundred dollars from four of his fellow workers who advanced this sum in behalf of the thirty men who worked on the job.

These workers also decided to contribute a dollar each, weekly, which would make a sum of thirty dollars a week for the sick man and his family until he would be well enough to resume his work.

This is merely an example of the thousands of cases that are like this one, and I can see my own life revealed in the life of the unfortunate painter.

This proves that workers must organize militant trade unions through which they may fight their everyday battles to better their conditions and that they must organize a strong Communist Party to lead the working class in the struggle to abolish the system which breeds misery described above.

THE REBEL

He has a craving taste for fierce and friendless [illegible]
A voice to sip and strink the crashing streams
That flear across the sky. [illegible]
To hours [illegible]

He is responsive to the evening cry of gulls
Where [illegible] dark apple lamps [illegible] down,
To mirth of music, grows so poignantly
Over wide waters drown.

And sometimes he could steal supine surrender
Content, like Omar sharing Saki's smile
Where a tree sifts the gill to ardent sunlight
And beaded cups beguile.

But time evolves a sterner quest to lure him.
Snares him and sets him in a stifling street
To trample out the wine of his tomorrows
With freedom seeking feet.

There will his class, though he be not among them,
There will his sons, though he be scarred and spent,
Dance through the days, drink life and love and laughter,
And. . . he well content.

JOE WALLACE.

CATCHING THE EYE IN THE SUBWAY

Seven persons were in a downtown Seventh Avenue subway car. Most of them were reading. A few acted as if they were thinking, a big bluff perhaps.

Right across from me was a young man, evidently a work stiff with the face of one who had laid on the broad of his back underneath automobile bodies for a living. The trail of a thousand wet rags was on his face. It was an oily face and you could not tell by the expression on it whether he was happy or sad. His raiment qualified him to step into any job that called for calloused hands and soiled overalls. He was reading The DAILY WORKER. So was I.

Off course this is not such a novel experience that it would be good for a headline: "Unidentified Person Seen Reading DAILY WORKER In Subway." Nevertheless I reveled out my copy in an effort to attract his attention. Two unidentified persons on the same train read a Communist paper! Here was a story.

The unknown was reading the feature page. Subway patrons are hungry for columns! Suddenly he dropped the paper and rushed for the door. The train had stopped. He made his exit.

"A casual reader" I muttered. This was not so good.

In thru the door that the unknown reader made his exit thru came another customer. He was not stylishly dressed, but his overcoat cost at least $25; half of the thirty men who worked on the job.

He pounced on the DAILY WORKER lying there on the seat like a hawk on a sparrow. He glanced at the front page, passed by "Current Events" without batting an eye, dodged the editorial page as if his eyes had rested on a running sore and came to a halt on the feature page.

He did not seem to be interested, but he was a perservering fellow. He turned to page five and read the advertisements then to page three. He glanced at the top of the page and saw the Chinaman assaulted from the top, from the front and rear by imperialist augurs. The caption was "Peaceful Penetration" and the Chinaman remarked that he was beginning to feel it himself. The reader chuckled, then shook with laughter. He attracted the attention of another passenger who sat alongside of me. The laughing passenger arrived at his stop which was also mine. He left the DAILY WORKER on the seat where he found it. Like a shark darting for the benefactor, fat log of a swimmer, the person who sat by my side grabbed The DAILY WORKER and backed into his seat. As I looked back to see what he would do with his find he was laughing like hell at the picture of the chinaman.

Moral: Leave your second hand DAILY WORKERS in subway trains.

—T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

MUD VOLCANOES: A "mud volcano" is not really a volcano but as anybody who has been near one will testify, it certainly is mud. Actually it is a fountain of water spring out of the earth, sometimes heated, discharging mud into the air, occasionally with a rumbling noise, and often forming a conspicuous cone many feet in height. They are usually regarded as evidences of oil in the region dearby, though this is not thoroughly proved. They are evidences of natural gas however.

Mud volcanoes occur in the oil regions of Russia, Rumania, India, Venezuela, etc. At Baku they have been known for centuries and are reported to be as much as 1300 feet high in some places. There are no natural mud volcanoes in the United States.

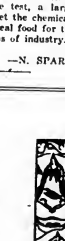
THE ASTEROIDS: There are eight planets revolving around the sun. Everybody knows that. But it is not so generally known that this figure is correct only if we ignore hundreds of other little ones that qualify for the title of "planet" in every possible way, except that they are so small and pay them any attention. Many of them have individual names but the whole bunch are usually referred to as "the asteroids." More than 1600 of them have already been listed; they average about twenty-five miles in diameter. An automobile could drive completely around such a peanut world in about two hours. They are not scattered throughout the solar system but all lie between the orbits of Mars and Jupiter. This, together with the fact that there is an unusually large gap between these two orbits has led to the speculation that there was once a ninth planet with a place in the solar system between Mars and Jupiter; some cataclysm shattered it to pieces, and the asteroids are the pieces.

CHEMICAL EXPLOITATION: No, this doesn't mean exploitation of chemicals by men, but exploitation of men by chemicals. Soon after the close of the war when the allied (and associated) business men and generals were eagerly exchanging experiences with their German brothers, one of the first stories of German efficiency to leak out was the phosphate story. The Germans had discovered that dozing their soldiers with a small amount of sodium acid phosphate every day had increased their capacity to do physical work by as much as 20 per cent. Were American business men interested? What a question! A timecheck with would eject a measured quantity of phosphate into an employe's open mouth while he punches his card would be a cinch. And then - 20 per cent more profits!

However, it seems these hopes are to be disappointed. The role of phosphorus in the human body is not so well understood that the idea could be discredited off hand. The U. S. Public Health Service however, has recently announced the result of an exhaustive investigation on the subject. They report no effect whatever from the phosphate, except that it is a laxative and might help somewhat in this way. The dreams of using phosphate to robotize the workers a little further, have thus gone up in smoke.

Still, it's an ill wind—etc. The Health Service warns that regardless of the test, a large drug concern is preparing to market the chemical under a funey name. "At last the real food for the high-powered salesmen and captains of industry. Order now at your drugstore."

—N. SPARKS.



SEWER CLEANERS

When, like a river god, with reeking boots
And mud-bespattered coat, he upright rose
From some foul hole, I turned and held my nose.
Yet in his face is that which quickly loots
The mind of scorn, a glance that darkly shoots
From beetling brows. He strikes no prudish pose,
But looks as one around whom daily flows
A stream of slime and filth and rotting fruits.

For pay, he delves where other men would die
And keeps the sewers open neath the town.
He toils in water and in stinking gloom.
Yet now he smiles and gazes at the sky,
Then, hitching up his pants, again goes down
And saves the city from contagion's doom.

—HENRY REICH, JR.

HANDS OFF CHINA! WITHDRAW TROOPS AND BATTLESHIPS!

THE DAILY WORKER FIGHTS: FOR THE ORGANIZATION OF THE UNORGANIZED
FOR THE 40-HOUR WEEK
FOR A LABOR PARTY

THE DAILY WORKER

Entered as second-class matter at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

NATIONAL EDITION

Vol. IV. No. 81. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In New York, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside New York, by mail, $6.00 per year. NEW YORK, MONDAY, APRIL 18, 1927 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 33 First Street, New York, N. Y. Price 3 Cents

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

THE civil war in China has taken a dramatic turn expected turn with the betrayal of the revolution by Chiang-Kai-Shek and the right wing elements of which he is the leader. The workers and peasants who do not relish the idea of substituting a new set of imperialist tools for the northern militarists are determined to carry on the struggle for a free China —free from native as well as foreign exploiters.

• • •

FROM now on Chiang-Kai-Shek who was the object of considerable abuse from the capitalist press will be praised and petted. He has bowed the knee to Baal and taken the thirty pieces of imperial silver. This is the classical way of describing treason for a cash consideration since Judas turned over his leader to the Romans, according to history or mythology. Chiang-Kai-Shek no longer has any quarrel with Chang-Tso-Lin. They are both in the same pew. Perhaps the imperialists would prefer to do business with Chiang than with Chang. The former is not a bandit.

• • •

NOT that the imperialists have any objection to doing business with bandits. After all they are brothers under the skin. But the imperialists have found it easier to make concessions to so-called public opinion. Labor leaders who have grown [illegible] to accept dividends extracted from the illegal sales of Chinese coolies [illegible] of the prin[illegible] of some of the big fellows who [illegible] Mussolini. Twice [illegible] in West Virginia before the war, was in a reminiscent mood.

Militia March Out.

"We didn't fight the bosses in this silent do-nothing way in the old days," he said. "We protected our jobs against the world. In Ohio years ago we were on strike and saw a long train of scab coal coming through from the south. It got no further. The locomotive engineer and conductor were courteously notified to leave the cars on the siding and take a ride home on the engine. They gladly obliged their fellow unionists.

"Then the governor sent the militia [illegible] country to have that

(Continued on Page Three)

THERE is a deplorable ignorance of the Chinese situation among the masses. They do not know what it is all about. It never occurs to them that the great majority—that the Chinese people have a right to free themselves from foreign imperialism. "The Russians are raising all the hell you all be told and if you ask for any proof for this idea the reply will be: "Oh, I don't know, but that's what the papers say." And considering the fact that The DAILY WORKER is the only workingclass daily published in America in the English language, it is not surprising that such ignorance prevails.

• • •

THE foreign editor of one of the great French dailies is writing Chinese sketches for his paper from the spot. He describes a gang of coolies loading a Japanese vessel with bales each weighing not less than 250 pounds. Men with hooks lift the bale and a coolie receives it on his neck

(Continued on Page Two)

ILLINOIS MINERS HUNT OTHER JOBS FOR LONG STRIKE

Ohio Operators Order Men Not to Garden

By CARL HAESSLER.
(Federated Press).

CHICAGO, April 17.—Coal Diggers from southern Illinois tell a tale of [illegible] migration out of the mine [illegible]. They also hear hints of [illegible] by Illinois operators for ruthless war against the United Mine Workers.

A couple of miners from Montgomery county, father and son, flivvered to Chicago looking for jobs. They anticipate a mine shut-down of at least three months. The men say they worked in rented notice of a 90-day lay-off. It had been working at top speed all through the winter and even a year ago, when many Illinois mines closed, it kept going 3 and 4 days a week.

"The fellows are scattering everywhere," they relate. "Many hit for the big towns like St. Louis, Detroit and Chicago but a lot of them have heard that jobs are scarce there and try other places to keep alive. A group of Italians are off to California. Some of the Scotchmen will go back to the old country for a while."

To Big Cities.

The father, who is over 60 and has worked in practically all the districts of the central competitive field and in West Virginia before the war, was in a reminiscent mood.

Militia March Out.

"We didn't fight the bosses in this silent do-nothing way in the old days," he said. "We protected our jobs against the world. In Ohio years ago we were on strike and saw a long train of scab coal coming through from the south. It got no further. The locomotive engineer and conductor were courteously notified to leave the cars on the siding and take a ride home on the engine. They gladly obliged their fellow unionists.

"Then the governor sent the militia [illegible] country to have that

(Continued on Page Three)

Ben Gold of the Furriers Union and His Prosecutors

BEN GOLD

How the United Front of Labor Hating Capitalists and High Salaried Union Officials Works

THE CIVIC FEDERATION TAKES OVER THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR

By WILLIAM F. DUNNE.

The name of Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, appearing with the title of "Acting President" on the letterhead of the Civic Federation with the names of many of the most powerful labor hating capitalists in America shows conclusively the Judas role played by Woll.

Here are the names of the enemies of the labor movement who back Woll in the attack he leads on the militant leaders and members of the trade unions like Ben Gold. Woll, by the above evidence alone is convicted of plotting with labor's worst enemies—of being actually the head of this union-wrecking organization, the Civic Federation—to smash unions and send active and able trade unionists to jail.

MATTHEW WOLL, vice president of the American Federation of Labor and acting president of the Civic Federation of Labor following the framing of Ben Gold and ten other furriers, announces in the capitalist press the formation of "Citizens' Committee to Investigate Communistic activities in New York City. The names of the committee will be made known in a few days." Thus the New York Times.

This mysterious committee, for the organization of which Woll, Hugh Frayne, A. F. of L. organizer, and Edward McGrady, special A. F. of L. representative, are essential, is said to have been formed at a luncheon "attended by representatives of the church, law, education, labor and employers."

ONE need not, in our opinion, look far afield for the base of this united front of reaction. Its base is the Civic Federation, the caucus of the capitalists and their agents inside official circles of the American Federation of Labor.

Matthew Woll, acting in the Jekyll and Hyde rôle of A. F. of L. vice president and acting president of the Civic Federation, is the chief of the anti-labor caucus.

Woll's base in the American labor movement is first his own union of photo-engravers, a small group of highly-skilled workers who are organized on the basis of complete cooperation with the bosses. As a matter of fact, one of Woll's first achievements was to organize the bosses in the trade and establish a school which specializes in training productive and docile workers for the employers.

IN addition to the photo-engravers Woll is supported by a collection of other small unions—a similar bloc to that upon which Gompers depended for his balance of power—the secret of his long reign. President Green's principal base is the United Mine Workers Union and railway organizations less fortunately situated than the small monopoly crafts, dealing with powerful corporations and forced at times—like the U. M. W. A. is at present—to struggle to preserve their living standards. Whatever differences there may be between the policy of Green and Woll—and this difference will become clearer as the offensive of the capitalists is intensified—is due largely to difference in the economic status of the main blocs of supporters.

AT present the war on honest and militant trade unionism operating under the slogan of "down with the Communists and the left wing," is led by Woll. For him this is a labor of love. By birth, religion and economic position he is opposed to anything smacking of radicalism.

Woll, and Frayne and McGrady, his lieutenants, belong to the militia of Christ wing of the American labor movement. Green is said to have strong leaning toward the Ku Klux Klan and both he and Woll find pleasure as well as profit in smashing needle trades unions composed principally of Jewish workers especially as thousands of these workers are Communists and Communist sympathizers.

BUT Woll is the real leader of this offensive. His position in the Civic Federation assures him of moral and financial support from powerful labor-hating organizations who fully

(Continued on Page Two)

General Electric Stops De Valera Talk Over Radio

DENVER, April 17.—Fearing that he would make remarks uncomplimentary to the British die-hard government, the General Electric Company barred Eamon De Valera, Irish republican leader, from delivering his scheduled address over its radio station KOA.

Members of the station's censorship committee objected at the last moment to parts of Mr. De Valera's speech, because they said it contained propaganda against the British government.

"They asked to modify portions of my address and I refused; that's all there is to it," said Mr. De Valera. "I could not truthfully comment on political and economic conditions in Ireland differently from the address I had prepared."

Millions Withheld from Mulcted "Big Four" Customers

WHAT'S WHAT IN WORKER INSURANCE EXPOSÉ

Today's article starts the second week in The DAILY WORKER exposure of the "Big Four" Insurance Trust which consists of the Metropolitan, Prudential, John Hancock and the Colonial Life Insurance Companies. If the reader is insured with any of these companies he will find the ensuing articles of great interest. Previous articles have made specific charges of fraud, misrepresentation and misuse of the public funds. Names prominent in financial and business circles figure largely in this and prior articles.

• • •

By CHARLES YALE HARRISON.

The advertising literature of the "Big Four" [illegible] the fact that these companies are "mutual" companies. By giving their swindled policyholders a measly hand-out which they are pleased to call a dividend, the directorates of [illegible] finance Trust feel that they [illegible] their Wall Street consciences.

Actually this dividend is not a dividend at all, but is merely a partial refund of the exorbitant premium originally charged for the policyholder's coverage.

The "Big Four" makes upwards of fifty million dollars a year on lapsed (forfeited) policies. Not a cent of this money is ever returned to its "mutual" policyholders. And this is but one item in this enormous fraud.

The liquid assets of the "Big Four" more than twice as large as they should normally be. They are now nearly Four Billions of Dollars, whereas they should actually be about Two Billions of Dollars.

All "Big Four" death claims, matured endowments and all other expenditures are paid out of the yearly

(Continued on Page Three)

Italian Aggression In Balkans Alarms Yugoslav Officials

BELGRADE, April 17: The Yugoslavian government is very much alarmed over Italian aggression in the Balkans—particularly in Albania.

The rabid pro-war attitude that has been adopted by the government-controlled Italian press is seriously worrying officials here. The Giornale D'Italia, together with several other fascist organs, have just reiterated unsubstantiated charges that Yugoslavia is engaging in extensive secret military preparations. This is regretted by Yugoslav officials as war propaganda.

Between twenty and thirty thousand Italian troops have already crossed the Albanian border in plain clothes, Belgrade papers say.

Professional Patriots To Stage Demonstration In Brooklyn On May 1

"The Brooklyn Citizens' Patriotic Committee" has just announced that it will hold another "Americanization" mass meeting on May 1. It is explained that the purpose of this affair will be to act as an "antidote" to the workers' May Day demonstrations thruout the city.

U. S. Policy Towards China Told In Secret Notes to Four Powers

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The United States today sent secret cables to Great Britain, Japan, France, Italy and American Minister McMurray at Peking, stating whether America would join the other four powers in delivering an ultimatum to the Nationalist government at Hankow.

Whether McMurray tenatively agreed to the policy of using force could not be learned in official quarters. It was learned however, that the United States has again been formally asked to join with the four other powers in identic action against the Nationalist government.

SACCO, VANZETTI MUST GO FREE— DEMAND OF 20,000

Monster Demonstration In New York

The Sacco-Vanzetti Emergency Committee has called a conference of delegates from trade unions, and fraternal and labor organizations, next Friday April 22nd, in Labor Temple, 243 East 84th St., at 8 p. m. to discuss plans for a strike, and for the calling of a National Conference of labor.

Freedom Not Life Imprisonment.

The "New Republic" warns against the danger that Sacco and Vanzetti may not be freed but have their sentences commuted for life. Its leading editorial says: "It is unthinkable that Governor Fuller will allow these men to die, but a mere commutation for life would be a sowardly evasion, more ignominious to the Commonwealth than obstanacy in injustice."

Over 20,000 workers crowded into Union Square Saturday afternoon, while from four platforms, in various languages, speakers from many labor groups, including political parties, trade unions, defense societies, etc., united in denunciation of the Massachusetts lackeys of the mill owners who are endeavoring to railroad to the electric chair two men, Sacco and Vanzetti, whose offense in the eyes of the enemies of labor is that they fought for the workingclass.

Approve Strike to Free Victims.

At the close of the demonstration a resolution was adopted calling upon "all workingclass organizations, regardless of their political differences uniting their forces to free Sacco and Vanzetti; that the movement be supported for a National Conference at which the question of national action be discussed; and that "this meeting is wholeheartedly in favor of a general strike movement, to free Sacco and Vanzetti."

They stood for hours before the platforms and heard and hissed every mention of the name of the judicial tool of the Boston Back Bay textile aristocracy, Judge Webster, Thayer, who sentenced these two fighters for the working class to death. Many after wave of indignation rolled from

(Continued on Page Two)

NEW STRIKE IN SOUTH CHINA TO PROTEST RAIDS

U. S. Gunboats Shell Both Banks of Yangtze

1.—500,000 workers in South China will strike against right wing raids on unions.

2.—Nationalist News Agency declares Nanking conference does not represent rank and file of Kuomintang.

3.—Chiang Kai shek continues raids on left wing; receives bribe of 15,000,000 Shanghai dollars; more workers shot.

4.—American gunboats run amuck on Yangtze River, shelling friend and foe indiscriminately.

5.—Communist International issues appeal to workers of world, not to permit war on China.

• • •

LONDON, April 17.—More than 800,000 workers in South China will strike in protest against the right wing raids on the labor headquarters in Shanghai, according to the Central News. The strike has been called by the General Labor Union, the report says.

• • •

Resolutions Not Binding.

SHANGHAI, April 17.—The resolutions adopted at the Nanking conference calling for the expulsion of the Communist members from the Nationalist government do not represent the views of the rank and file of the Kuomintang, the Nationalist News Agency declared today.

They merely represent the views of the Central Control Committee, which is dominated by Chiang Kai Shek and in no way bind the plenary session which is expected to settle down to business on Monday.

Killing Continues Raid.

In the meantime Chiang Kai Shek's troops in Shanghai continue to carry on a campaign of terrorism against the labor unions. Raids by Chiang's troops last night resulted in the murder of an unestimated number of workers.

The Shanghai strike, which was called to protest Chiang's laborsmashing tactics has been called off at a meeting held last night. At the meeting, Shanghai workers drew up resolutions honoring those killed in the raids. It has been definitely ascertained that Chiang has 15,000,000 Shanghai dollars offered by Chinese bankers and industrialists for smashing the militant unions in the city.

Kill Workers In Canton.

Raids on workers' organizations and clubs continue in Canton, where right wing members of the Kuomintang sweep thru the workers' districts armed with machine guns and supported by armored cars and gunboats.

Labor unions in Canton are planning a protect strike, it is reported.

Abolish Political Bureaus.

The counter-revolutionary measures that have been taken by the "moderates" were indicated yesterday at an interview granted by General Pai Chung-hsi, military commander here. In addition to shooting workers and raiding union halls, Generl Pai has attempted to abolish all of the political bureaus.

Gunboats Kill Chinese.

Reports received here state that imperialist gunboats have been sailing up and down the river in the

(Continued on Page Three)

HANDS OFF CHINA, STOP WORLD WAR, IS APPEAL MADE BY COMMUNISTS TO AMERICAN WORKING CLASS

CHICAGO, April 17.—Reviewing the recent world-shaking developments in the struggle of the Chinese people against imperialism and the suppressive role played by the United States government in conjunction with the other powers, pointing out the reasons therefore, calling attention to the danger of a new imperialist world war and urging the workers and farmers of America to stop aggression against the Chinese masses and end all imperialist war maneuvers, the Central Executive Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party has issued the following statement:

• • •

APPEAL TO AMERICAN WORKERS AND FARMERS.

Working Men and Working Women.

Energetic efforts are being made by the imperialist governments, including the government of our own country to plunge the world into another orgy of mass murder, into another world war.

Thru a new world conflict, the imperialist powers, particularly Great Britain and the United States, hope to destroy the Chinese revolution and to smash the Soviet Union.

Let every worker be on his guard! Not since 1914 has the world faced so grave and imminent a danger of war.

Preparing a New World War.

Every step that can be taken to plunge us into war is being taken. For a long time the international bankers, especially those of Britain and the United States, have been financing the militarists and counter-and trots along into the vessel with it. They sling as they work and keep at it from sunrise until sundown for a few cents a day. This is the kind of labor that the capitalist likes. It takes it on the neck with a song. But the Chinese are singing a different song now.

(Continued on Page Five)

CURRENT EVENTS

(Continued from Page One)

* * *

OVER twenty thousand people gathered in Union Square last Saturday afternoon to show their solidarity with Sacco and Vanzetti. It was a spirited demonstration. There is no doubt in the minds of the American workingclass that their fellow workers are not guilty of the crimes charged against them. They are determined that they shall be saved from the electric chair. The Union Square meeting was a fine testimony to the spirit of unity in the workers when it is called forth by a heart-touching appeal. The action of the socialist party in trying to run a little show of their own hoping to gain a little publicity at the expense of two doomed workers shows that they are stupid as well as false to the workingclass movement.

* * *

BETWEEN now and July 10th, the day set for the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti, the workers of this country must redouble their efforts to demonstrate to the powers that be in Massachusetts that there are millions of people within the borders of the United States that will consider the execution of those two workers plain and unqualified murder. And we must not be satisfied with a demonstration of sentence. We must make it clear that they shall not rust for the rest of their lives in a prison cell. They must be freed, because they are innocent.

Phone, EMERSON 9800.

Auto Tops	Cushion Work
Seat Covers	Floor Carpets
Radiator Cover	Rubber Mats
Side Curtains	Polishing
Body Trimming	Glass Windows

Union County Auto Top Co.
ALL WORK GUARANTEED
252 Union St, Nex. Westfield Ave.
ELIZABETH, N. J.

Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!

Don't Be Without
The COMMUNIST

the place of the Workers (Communist) Party in the United States, and how to build it.

Other publications in English, Russian, German, Jewish, Hungarian, Finnish, Lettish, Lithuanian, Polish, Ukrainian, Czecho-Slovak, Spanish and Italian.

IMPOSSIBLE WITHOUT
THE COMMUNIST

SUBSCRIBE!
THE COMMUNIST
1113 Washington Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.

ORDER
A copy for every Party Functionary

For every active
Communist

THE PARTY ORGANIZER
First number of a new monthly, party organizational publication.
10 CENTS
$1.00 a year.
The WORKERS PARTY
1113 W. Washington Blvd,
CHICAGO, ILL.

HOW THE UNITED FRONT OF LABOR HATING CAPITALISTS AND HIGH SALARIED UNION OFFICIALS WORKS

(Continued from Page One)

understand that the active, intelligent and organized resistance to the strangulation of American trade unions by efficiency unionism and "I-love-my-boss" schemas propagated by the Civic Federation's agents, comes from the Communists and the left wing.

The hardboiled attitude of the coal barons which has compelled the miners to strike to save their union and their living standards is the complete proof of the bankruptcy of the efficiency unionism policy. The coal barons, in spite of the shameful divided and surrender program offered by President John L. Lewis, are determined to accept nothing but still more complete capitulation.

IN the face of this attack on the most important union in the American labor movement, unquestionably a forerunner of a general drive on the working class, the heads of the American labor movement unite with labor's enemies to make war on one of its most conscious and loyal sections.

Even in a labor movement which accepts American capitalism as the beginning and end of all things this requires some explanation. A united front with churches, bar associations and businessmen, equal if not greater in number than the workers, carrying on a section of the working class, was tolerated by the union membership during the red scare. The slire danger in which, according to the Wilsonian theory, democracy stood, was its excuse.

WHAT reason or reasons prompted the present shameless abandonment to cannibalism with the Civic Federation on the part of the Militia of Christers? Remember that Woll and his crew are not campaigning against Communism in the abstract but that the living standards of some 50,000 needle workers and the liberties of their tried and proven leaders are menaced by the attack of the A. F. of L. special committee.

Working with the police department and the bosses, Woll has succeeded in framing-up 11 officials of the Furriers' Joint Board. They are treated worse than the lowest criminals, are denied bail and are brought into court manacled.

WHY? It is very simple. The Furriers' Joint Board officials won a strike and established the forty-hour week. In so doing they upset labor officialdom's pet theory that it is also the pet theory of the bosses that workers can gain nothing by strikes.

There is the second reason that labor officials of the type of Woll are popular and valuable to the bosses now when they can prevent strikes and cajole workers into taking less than they could win. Even gilded Civic Federation stool pigeons have to make good.

THIRD, there is the fact that an advance of a general attack on American labor, presaged by the offensive against the miners, the bosses want to crush all elements which could and would organize labor for successful resistance.

Fourth, American imperialism is getting ready to put the nation on a war basis. As usual the preparation begins with an attack on the revolutionary section of the labor movement—the Communists and the left wing. The only section of the working class that is fully conscious of the danger to the masses and that has a practical program which is put forward fearlessly.

THE invasion of Nicaragua, the continual threats and plots against Mexico, the participation of American gunboats in the Nanking massacre—all of these are only preliminary skirmishes of American imperialism. As the English say, these little affairs serve to "blood" our brave fighters. Wall Street government dares not undertake a major war until the labor movement has been made even more solidly a part of the imperialist machinery than it is today. The furriers' strike, the cloakmakers' strike and the Passaic strike came after the anthracite strikers had been maneuvered into a defeat by John L. Lewis and a sharp contrast was drawn between the attitude of militants and those of Civic Federation leadership.

IN a period when labor officialdom, following its many expulsion campaigns beginning in 1924, was undoubtedly boasting to the bosses of its success in "chasing the reds," these strikes appeared like a bolt from the blue and gave them the lie. There must have been many severe reprimands administered to sheepish labor leaders in the privacy of the Civic Federation offices and the Union League Club.

Evidently they vowed to do better and were given promises of support.

No one can say that Green, Woll and Company are not trying to make good with their bosses.

THEY have abandoned all pretense of decency and depending upon the police forces of Tammany Hall and various obliging prosecuting attorneys and judges who know where the orders come from, are trying to jail Communist and left wing workers after having failed to drive the masses of workers away from them.

These labor leaders have employed all the devices of government informers and industrial spies. They have offered immunity to convicted workers as the price of giving perjured testimony against Gold and others, they have scoured the underworld for gangsters whose word is worth nothing anywhere except in trial where lies and slander are given preferences, they have tried to appear as friends in order to betray.

NEVER in the history of the American labor movement has there been court proceeding of the character of that staged in Mineola. The history of the American labor movement does not contain too many bright spots but until now it has not been blackened by the spectacle of the heads of the trade unions procuring the prosecution of workers for the crime of winning a strike.

We repeat again that this is the chief reason why Gold and his comrades are on trial. Revolutionary workers who have little or no connections with the trade union membership, whose knowledge of the labor movement is academic, who have no mass following, who are unable to give the practical direction necessary to workers' struggles for better living standards, who do not know how to take advantage of every loophole in the defenses of the capitalists to strengthen the position of the working class, have little terror for the Civic Federation type of labor leader.

BUT when revolutionists show superiority over the old type of trade union leader even in the daily struggle, then it is something else again. It is then there is real alarm in the camp of the capitalists and their agents. What is to become of American if Communist trade union leadership can take the bosses to a clearing? Even tho it demonstrates its ability in comparatively small strikes like Passaic and in the fur industry, it is a forerunner of what the future holds. That future is not pleasing to a labor officialdom which bases its claim to leadership upon the close and friendly relations it maintains with the enemies of the working class and its unquestioning support of the domestic and foreign policies of American imperialism.

THUS labor officialdom has decreed that Communist and left wing trade unionists who organize, lead and win strikes shall go to jail.

The price of liberty, of honor and ease, of a seat high in the councils of official labor, of glittering smiles from the hard-faced and soft-paunched dictators of the Civic Federation, is betrayal of the workers.

Ben Gold and his fellow workers will not pay this price.

That is why they are on trial while the Greens, Wolls, Sigmans, Frayne and Berbergs stand up during their address into the ears of the prosecutor to the tune of applause from the Civic Federation and the Union League Club.

THE "Citizens Committee" which Woll has organized, indiscreetly tips us its first order of business: the extension of persecutions and prosecutions to a broader field than the needle trades unions. In order not to use the machinery that Woll has set up to jail militants in other sections of the labor movement with special emphasis on Communist workers.

Labor officialdom has powerful backing but it has one weakness. Its open adoption of the role of champion of the bosses' interests, its brazen united front with individuals and interests which American workers know are symbols of complete reaction, tends to widen the breach between it and the rank and file.

AT the end of the Julius trial which American labor officialdom is following is a dungeon and a gallows. There are there is implicated all of the revolutionary elements in the American labor movement. For a while they may fulfill this function, but sunlight and sunlight dispels evildoers will the glaring betrayals of all the old honest traditions of American labor by the Greens, Wolls, etc., have their illuminating effect. It remains us to the part they play in the drive of the capitalists against the labor movement.

We believe otherwise is to believe that the workers who make up the American labor movement want to have the Civic Federation become synonymous with the American Federation of Labor, to believe that there is no spark of working class integrity left in the American labor movement.

WE know better than this. We know that the memory of Homestead of Bisbee, of Paint Creek, of Lawrence, of Coeur D'Alene, of Mc-Kees Rocks, of Mesaba, of Bisbee, of Butte, of the A. R. C. strike, of Hoyt, of Everett, of Centralia, of Ludlow of Newport, of the great steel strike, of Seattle, of the West Virginia miners' march, of the dozens of bloody struggles fought by the United Mine workers to establish their union, is dear to the American working class.

We know that the American workers revere the memories of the first-line fighters—men and women—who died in battle with the bosses' agents that the labor movement might live.

THE graves of these heroes of the American workingclass are being desecrated by Greens, Wolls, Sigmans and Traynes. They spit upon the pages which chronicle the history of the deeds which made the trade union movement of the United States. They fraternize with the heads of corporations whose thugs have clubbed and murdered workers who fought for unionism. They have made an unholy pact with tyrants and they urge the workers to hold up their hands for the manacles. The handcuffs on Ben Gold and his fellow workers symbolize the shackles the Greens and Wolls would put upon the limbs of American labor.

IT is not enough, however, to express horror and disgust at the revolting spectacle of the heads of the American Labor movement, trying, with the full cooperation of the bosses to jail workers who have won strikes. It must be understood that cooperation in the courtroom springs logically out of cooperation with the bosses in industry, that it is the theory of efficiency unionism carried to its logical practical conclusion, that it comes natural to labor officials who are part of the machinery of the political parties of American imperialism.

IT is this damnable theory and these damnable practices that the Communists and the left wing oppose with all their might.

If the rank and file of labor in America doubts that the Wolls and Greens are leading the labor movement to disgraceful disaster let them know that Ben Gold and ten other workers, manacled in the Mineola courtroom as the prosecutor builds his case on statements of the heads of the trade union movement, are not on trial.

Ben Gold and his fellow workers are on trial.

It is the right to strike that is on trial, it is the right to organize unions free from capitalist control that is on trial, it is the solidarity of workers against the stoolpigeons of the Civic Federation of capitalist government that is on trial.

The Civic Federation—the instrument of the capitalists—or the American Federation of Labor—the instrument of the workers—that is the issue in Mineola courtroom.

IT is likewise the issue in the whole American labor movement. The outcome of the Mineola trial is important but it is not decisive. The question will be decided in the unions, in the shops and factories—wherever the shameless policy and tactics of the Civic Federation labor agents come to the interests of the workers.

The Mineola trial with the Civic Federation in a united front with the officials of the American Federation of Labor for the purpose of aiding workers who win strikes is proof for every honest worker that the Communists and the left wing are fighting to save the trade union movement of America from the clutches of the capitalists.

Plumbers Helpers Ask The Plumbers to Assist Entrance Into A. F. L.

An appeal to all greater New York members of the United Association of Plumbers and Steamfitters has been issued by the American Association of Plumbers' Helpers, urging the plumbers to help them in their locals so that the plumbers' helpers may be brought into the American Federation of Labor as quickly as possible.

Helpers Get Little.

Calling attention to the fact that the wage of plumbers' helpers is $1 a day, while other helpers in the building trades of New York receive from $8 to $11, the appeal states:

"We (the plumbers' helpers) were the only unorganized workers in the building trades. As a result we did not have any protection that a union offers. The employers took advantage of this by giving us low wages, making us do all kinds of work, work all kinds of hours and imposed upon us in many other ways that you know of.

Fight For Union.

"We are now organized in the American Association of Plumbers' Helpers and are fighting to become a union, and a part of the organized American labor movement thru affiliation with the United Association of Plumbers and Steamfitters."

There have been many unsuccessful attempts in the past to organize this group of workers, but now they have a vigorous organization which started unanimously to go on strike with the plumbers of Brooklyn, as soon as it became clear that a strike was eminent there.

Want To Enter United.

The American Association of Plumbers' Helpers is now calling upon the members of the plumbers' union to make arrangements to admit them into the United Association.

"Remember," say the helpers, "when we get better conditions, it will mean raising the standard of the whole trade.

"Brother plumbers, we ask you again are you going to keep quiet or are you going to fight with us to help us get into the United Association?"

The American Association of Plumbers' Helpers has already organized a large proportion of the workers in this city.

Thousands Meet to Free Sacco and Vanzetti

(Continued from Page One)

the threats of the masses of working men and women as the names of Governor Fuller of Massachusetts; President Lowell, judge, who was governor of that state when the frame-up was concocted; Mussolini, the bloody dictator of Fascism in Italy and other agents of capitalism and imperialism throughout the world were mentioned.

Cheer Victims of Capitalism.

Every mention of the names of Sacco and Vanzetti and other victims of capitalist class justice in this country was cheered to the echo.

Sea of Banners.

Blocks away from the demonstration the sea of banners carrying denunciations of those guilty of the persecution of Sacco and Vanzetti could be seen; outbursts of cheering reechoed much farther; puzzled capitalists slowed up their motor cars as they passed the adjacent streets. It had been a very long time since such a demonstration was staged in the city of New York.

The spirit of the crowd was militant, defiant. Hundreds of policemen, on foot and horseback patrolled the outskirts of the crowd, while, according to reports many detectives mingled with the demonstrators. On the opposite side of 17th street motorcycles with bullet-proof shields were lined up, facing the crowd. But the masses controlled themselves as though they were totally unaware of this show of force.

Objected to Sign.

Of the many signs carried, only one incurred the wrath of the police. That was a sign reading "We Demand the Impeachment of Judge Thayer." This was ordered taken down and the order was obeyed, as it was recognized that the officer giving the order did not even know who Judge Thayer is. Being well-trained Tammany henchmen they are supposed to protect judges of all stripe against open expression of mass contempt for them and their decisions.

Many Prominent Speakers.

At one o'clock the general chairman of the meeting, Robert W. Dunn of the Civil Liberties Union, ascended one of the platforms and was immediately followed by the other chairmen, Jack Stachel, I. Winakour and Morris E. Taft. Announcing the purpose of the meeting, speakers were introduced and spoke in five languages—English, Italian, Hungarian, Yiddish, and German.

All of the speakers covered some outstanding phase of the case and connected it up with the general issues of the ruling class against the foreign-born workers; others assailed the general imperialist ravages of the government in China, Nicaragua, Mexico and the Philippines, showing that Sacco-Vanzetti case was a part of the general struggle against despotism everywhere.

Trial Witness Speaks.

One of the speakers was Frank J. Burke, witness for the Sacco and Vanzetti trial, who was hot ten feet away from the crime charged against the two men. He declared that the men he saw commit the crime at South Braintree on April 15, 1920, were not Sacco and Vanzetti. He was greeted with prolonged cheering. Carlo A. Tresca, from the beginning of the case has worked tirelessly for the release of Sacco and Vanzetti, spoke and again related some of the outstanding facts in the frame-up.

Displays Electric Chair.

Charles Clune, recently released from a life sentence in Texas after serving thirteen years for participating in the struggle of the Mexicans for freedom, displayed a miniature electric chair that was made by one of the "lifers" in the Texas prison. This made a profound impression upon all those able to see it.

Among other speakers were: Forrest Bailey, director of Civil Liberties Union, Bishop Paul Jones, Leonard Abbott, James P. Cannon, secretary of the International Labor defense; Scott Nearing, Paxton Hibben, Dr. H. G. Elgin, McAlister Coleman, Carlo Tresca, H. M. Wicks, one of the editors of The DAILY WORKER; Enen Sormenti, editor of the Italian Communist paper, Il Lavoratore; Louis Hyman, Bert Wolfe, director of the Workers' School; Rebecca Grecht, R. B. Moore, William W. Weinstone, Richard Brazier, A. Ramaglin, Lena Chernenko, one of the leaders of the Passaic strike; Charles Kiss, Editor of "Elore," Ludwig Lore, and James Walsh.

Many Slogans Displayed.

Some of the slogans, among the many that were displayed on placards held aloft were: "Freedom for Sacco and Vanzetti," "Massachusetts Justice Wants Sacco and Vanzetti Murdered; They are not guilty," "Persecution of Workers Must Stop," "Workers' Solidarity Will Save Sacco and Vanzetti," "Today It Is Sacco and Vanzetti, Tomorrow Who?" "Stop the Legal Murder of Sacco and Vanzetti!"

Other cards carried excerpts from the famous speech made by Vanzetti in court when he hurled defiance at the miserable puppet Judge Thayer, just before sentence was pronounced upon him.

The following resolution was adopted, after being read simultaneously from all four platforms and on a signal from the chairman, Robert W. Dunn:

WHEREAS, Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, two champions of labor, have been sentenced to death in the electric chair; and

WHEREAS, the overwhelming evidence in the case has convinced labor bodies and disinterested people throughout the world that Sacco and Vanzetti are innocent of the crime charged against them, and that they were convicted for their views and activities in the labor movement; and

WHEREAS, the American Federation of Labor, at the Cincinnati and El Paso conventions, branded their conviction as a "ghastly miscarriage of justice";

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that this meeting of thousands of workers, gathered in Union Square, New York, on Saturday, April 16, 1927, is in favor of all workingclass organizations, regardless of their political differences, uniting their forces to free Sacco and Vanzetti whose persecution is a general attack on the freedom of expression so necessary to the workers;

1. That we stand solidly behind the movement for a National Conference at which the question of National Action could be discussed;

2. That this meeting is wholeheartedly in favor of a general local strike movement;

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that we request the Governor of Massachusetts to intervene and give justice to our two persecuted fellow workers, who have devoted their lives to the cause of labor, by giving them their absolute and unconditional freedom.

Copies of this resolution shall be sent to Governor Alvin T. Fuller, State House, Boston, Mass., to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, Washington, D. C., and to the labor press.

Adopted Saturday, April 16 1927.

ROBERT W. DUNN, Chairman.

Demonstrators March.

When the Sacco-Vanzetti meeting adjourned at 5:30 P. M., New York witnessed one of the most remarkable and spontaneous workingclass demonstrations in many years. For three and a half hours New York's east side was aroused by over 6,000 workers marching for freedom of Sacco and Vanzetti and covered the lower east of Manhattan with their slogans.

Cheer For Newspaper.

Assembling at the east end of Union Square they marched to the office of the Jewish Daily Freiheit, where they stopped for several minutes and cheered for Sacco and Vanzetti and for the Freiheit. During this time they turned into 14th Street stopping in front of the Workers' (Communist) Party headquarters at 108 East 14th Street. In front of 14th Street between Fourth Avenue and Irving Place was blocked by the assembled workers who shouted and cheered. The representatives in the building displayed red decorations and a flag with a hammer and sicle which aroused the workers to a higher point of enthusiasm.

PILOTS DESERT CHINA

These three bishops of the methodist church, George B. Gross, Wallace E. Brown and Laurens J. Birney, are among those who have decided to leave China because the Chinese do not appreciate such benefits of Western civilization as the massacre of workers by U. S. battleships.

Boo Fascism.

Going east to Second Avenue they reached the headquarters of the Fascist Soldiers League at 12th Street and Second Avenue. Then cheers for Sacco and Vanzetti were here interrupted with boos for Mussolini. Marching down Second Avenue, the workers displayed copies of The DAILY WORKER. The Freiheit, The II Lavoratore and the H. Martello. Several of these were sold. By the procession a more impressive appearance.

Brutally Beaten

When they reached 14th Street and Second Avenue they were assailed by the police and their lines broken. It is quite significant that on this occasion when the workers wanted to show their approval of The DAILY WORKER, they were brutally beaten.

Arrest Worker.

Once again they started to march northward to Second Avenue and 23rd Street. Patrolman Thomas Hall took a small picture of Vanzetti off the hat of Samuel Levenson, one of the workers. When Levenson objected, Hall started to hit him with his club. When other workers protested, the workers were called down again but in the workers. After reaching 23rd a new meeting was the order, and it was one of the most spontaneous industrial workingclass demonstrations staged in a long time.

The parade began to disintegrate at 23rd Street, but the spirit of unity was held without fail and charged with decidedly militant.

Latin-American Workers Ask Release

The Argentine Labor Union of New York, representing 2,000 Latin-American workers in the United States, last night sent the following telegrams to Gov. Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts:

"We most vigorously condemn the sentence pronounced upon our fellow workers, Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti. Every labor organization in Latin America has protested against this infamous attempt to create an atmosphere favorable to suppression against them because of their defiant radicalism. In the name of common justice we call upon you to free our brothers or we are unashamed that"

WORKERS' PROTEST AGAINST DEATH HE'S SAID and VANZETTI

Here's How

To greet the workers of the world The DAILY WORKER will print the names of individual workers and all workingclass organizations in its SPECIAL MAY DAY EDITION.

Here's How Much

Individual names will be printed at the rate of $1.00 per name. Organizations will be given a special rate of $1.00 per inch.

Here's When

Ad greetings must be mailed at once to reach The DAILY WORKER before April 25. All greetings arriving later will be printed in following editions.

SEND GREETINGS TODAY—

Thousands Are Homeless As Result of Floods In Southern Part of U. S.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Suffering from the flood in the vicinity of Natchez, Miss., and Wickliffe, Ky., is rapidly growing more serious, according to despatches received today by the American National Red Cross, it was announced.

National headquarters of the Red Cross reported that a conservative estimate of the number of flood refugees in the four states east of the Mississippi affected by the floods is:

Kentucky 4,000, Tennessee 1,000, Mississippi 3,000, Louisiana 1,000; a total of 9,000.

Other thousands have been driven from their homes in states immediately west of the Mississippi River.

Farmer-Labor Party Of Minnesota Will Run Entire Slate

MINNEAPOLIS, April 17.—Contrary to all dire forecasts, the Minnesota Farmer Labor Party continues to grow more vigorous and to gather ever-increasing strength among the farmers and workers of the state. Right at this moment, much interest is manifest in the Minneapolis municipal elections, and indications are that there will be a full Farmer-Labor ticket in the field, which will be energetically supported by all branches of the labor movement.

Convention Soon.

It is believed that there will be a state convention of the Association within a short period, and this, no doubt, will have the beneficial effect of consolidating all forces within the Association and laying the base for an unprecedented growth and activity. It is reported that applications for affiliation with the Farmer-Labor Association continues to flood the State Office in St. Paul, while the ward clubs increase in size and strength.

Ready to Go On.

The veto of the McNary-Haugen bill has strengthened the conviction of the farmers and workers in Minnesota that relief can only be obtained through a powerful organization which will fight unswervingly in their interests, and in their interests alone. With the bankruptcy of the working farmers, and the resulting miserable conditions of the city workers, a powerful bond is being cemented between the two, which presages well for the Farmer-Labor Party.

Earl Carroll Improving.

GREENVILLE, S. C., April 17.—An official bulletin issued today by the physicians attending Earl Carroll says he is gradually improving.

APRIL 23
1900

The Birthday of our Lady

L

Choose this appropriate time to tend what he has to say

E

on the complete control of essential things in the problems [illegible] all the space we can [illegible]

N

I

N

ON ORGANIZATION

$1.50

In a cloth bound library edition.

The DAILY WORKER PUB. CO.
33 First Street, New York, N. Y.

REPORT 800,000 CHINESE WORKERS WILL STRIKE IN SOUTH CHINA TO PROTEST RAIDS

(Continued from Page One)

vicinity of Nanking, sweeping the Nationalist and Northern troops with shell fire. The number of Chinese killed by American and British guns has not yet been determined. The destroyers Preble and Ford and the cruiser Cincinnati were the American vessels taking part in the bombardment.

Enter, Standard Oil.

The firing began when a Standard Oil vessel was accidentally hit by Chinese gunfire. The Ford and the British cruiser, Emerald, immediately opened fire with their four-inch guns. The Preble, on its way up the river to Hankow, seat of the Nationalist government, opened fire on Nationalist troops who were entrenched on the north bank of the river.

Nationalists Take Yangchow.

Despatches received here state that the Nationalists have captured Yangchow, about fifty miles northeast of Nanking. It is also stated that the war lords have been driven back to Pengpu, in Anhwei Province.

* * *

Delay Answer To Note.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—What action the state department will take with regard to the conciliatory note of Eugene Chen, Nationalist foreign minister, is unknown. Secretary Kellogg is spending his "Easter vacation" at Hot Springs, and action on the notes will be delayed until his return.

It is understood that the domineering attitude, adopted by the state department in its identic note set the Nanking "outlaws" has met with the opposition of certain members of the cabinet.

British Want War.

That the British die-hard government favors an ultimatum to China is indicated by dispatches received here from London. Chen's request for an international investigation of the Nanking affair strikes Austen Chamberlain as unsatisfactory, reports state.

Scores Press Reports.

Rear Admiral Bullard, retired, chairman of the Federal Radio Commission, who has just returned to Washington after a trip to China, criticized the news about China that has appeared in the American press. "I do not see how newspaper men could be in contact with what is going on," he said. "They get the big events, but I don't know how they could get general news on what is taking place, except from travellers who come back. The spheres are so big they must take another's word to get information."

* * *

MOSCOW, April 17. The Executive Committee of the Communist International has issued an appeal to workers thruout the world and to all colonial and oppressed peoples to help avert a new world war.

The appeal declares, "Workers, demand the withdrawal of troops from China. By all means prevent the transportation of troops and arms. Down with the imperialist provokers of a new world war. Down with the imperialist henchmen of the Chinese people. Down with Chiang Kai Shek and other deserters, traitors and organizers of massacres of workers. Long live the workers of Shanghai. Long live the revolutionary Kuomintang. Long live the Communist Party of China."

Coal Miners Prepare For Unemployment

(Continued from Page One)

train pulled out. The first soldier to jump down at the station was requested to hand over his gun. The same with the next, until all had given up their guns. Then they marched out and we saw no more militia until the strike was won."

Operators Warlike.

The Illinois situation seems to look warlike, they report, but all the preparations seem to be on the operator side. The big No. 9 mine of the Pendeady Coal Co. at Taylorville has set a war precedent by completely fencing in its property, a proceeding hitherto unheard of in the easygoing Illinois district. A 7-foot fence of closely woven wire strung on iron posts set in concrete is surrounded by 4 strands of barbed wire. Below the shut-down interests, and in their interests alone. With the bankruptcy of the working farmers, and the resulting miserable conditions of the city workers, a powerful bond is being cemented between the two, which presages well for the Farmer-Labor Party.

Earl Carroll Improving.

GREENVILLE, S. C., April 17.—An official bulletin issued today by the physicians attending Earl Carroll says he is gradually improving.

By LEN DeCAUX.

CLEVELAND, (FP)—Not content with locking out their miners to enforce a general wage cut, many ohio coal operators are resorting to driving them out of house and home, even cutting off their water supply and prohibiting them to grow vegetables in their garden in some cases. The first instances to vacate were served on 300 miner families in Belmont and Perry counties by the Powhatan Mining Co. at Bellaire and the Somers Creek Coal Co. at Sunday.

Sheriff Hesitates.

So drastic has been the Sunday Creek Coal Co. the Sheriff Hanley McNeely of Perry county announced that he will refuse to evict miner families at Sunday and it is believed that no justice of the peace or constable in the county will help with eviction.

Not only did the company order the miner families to vacate within 15 days but it notified them that it would cut off the water only April 15. As this little mining village has been supplied with water and light from the company's power plant, the order will mean that the miners will be without light and will have to carry water from old spring and creeks that have been unused for years and may now be polluted.

No Garden.

As each house is rented by Sept. 1 to other miners, the work leads fundamental [illegible] problems [illegible] the space we can [illegible]

but more serious still. The miners will not be allowed by the action of the Powhatan Mining Co. to plant gardens on the company property. Many miner families depended during hard times upon the vegetables which they could grow in the gardens, this cuts off an important source of food supplies from the workers.

More than 1,000 persons are said to be affected by the action of the Powhatan Mining Co. in the Belmont field in ordering evictions of 200 of its miners alone, to pay rent in advance during the lockout or to move out. Only five days notice was given, the union announces that it would go to court to fight the eviction order if necessary, and that in an emergency tents will be supplied in homeless families.

With the exception of a few mines operating non-union before the lockout on a few that have agreed to continue under the Jacksonville scale, all of Ohio's 35,000 miners have been locked out.

Injunction Against Traction Workers Will Be Appealed

WASHINGTON, April 17. An appeal to the higher court will be taken against the injunction issued by Judge Delahanty in New York restraining representatives of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes from attempting to organize employes of the Interborough Rapid Transit Co. and the Manhattan Railway Co., it was announced today by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, as counsel for the union, which will be supported by the Federation of Labor.

Condemn Injunction.

Commenting on the injunction, President William Green of the Federation said: "The American Federation of Labor condemns in the strongest possible terms the injunction issued by Judge Delahanty as unwarranted, unjustifiable and unwise. We believe that the injunction issued by Judge Delahanty is unwarranted, unjustifiable and unwise.

"We believe that employes of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company system should be permitted to unite with the forces of organized labor and to use a bona fide trade union if they wish.

"They should not be prohibited from doing so through the operation of a court injunction, nor should the representatives of organized labor be enjoined from calling these men to join a bona fide trade union."

* * *

"They should not be prohibited from doing so through the operation of a court injunction, nor should the representatives of organized labor be enjoined from calling these men to join a bona fide trade union."

Most Lawyers Ignorant, Columbia Dean Asserts

Declaring that most lawyers were ignorant of social and economic problems, Dean H. W. Beckey, of the Columbia Law School, in a letter to the New York Every Day Association, pledged a higher standards for admission to the bar.

Beckey declared that "lawyers should be better trained to think about the world in which they live before they even come to law school.

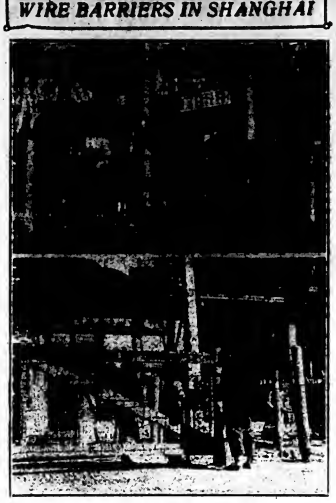
* * *

No Dusting Without Union.

NEW YORK. Less blood on the coal if mines are properly rock dusted. The American Association for Labor Legislation points to two recent mine explosions in Pennsylvania at Ehrenfeld and near Washington—where 700 lives were saved because the mines had been rock dusted. A Ehrenfeld only four died and 500 were saved. Rock dusting prevents the coal dust in the mine air from exploding.

Twenty bituminous coal states still lack rock dusting legislation, says the association. Only Indiana, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Utah and Wyoming require it by law.

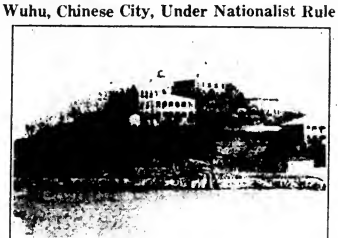
Rock dusting is somewhat more expensive, on the whole, than merely paying a little compensation for men killed in deadly explosions. Therefore, there is, in the opinion of miners, very little possibility of getting any efficient dusting, with or without laws, unless there is strong union organization to enforce regulations for dusting. Recent terrific explosions in non-union mines have resulted from the failure to effectively rock dust the mines.



* * *

10 Miners Killed.

MONS, Belgium, April 17. — Ten people were killed yesterday by an explosion in the Levant de Mons Mine here, it is officially announced.



Twelve men are still missing and thirteen are injured.

WIRE BARRIERS IN SHANGHAI

Barriers

Wuhu, Chinese City, Under Nationalist Rule

Wuhu is a large and important city, the capture of which by the Nationalists struck a fatal blow at the militarist Chang Tsung-chang. The imperialist navy pays special attention to it, because of the presence there of one of the largest methodist religious huge factories in all China.

Millions Withheld From "Big Four" Customers

(Continued from Page One)

income. The official New York State Insurance Report for 1925, which is the last available document on the subject, shows that the Metropolitan's surplus was $220,607,867.00 greater than was required for all claims and expenses.

Profitable Business.

The Prudential Life Insurance Company, a sister to the Metropolitan and one of the largest companies in the world, reported that its surplus was $17,210,998,380. In this case, as in all others, the current expenses and claims were deducted from the current income.

The John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston, Mass., another member of the "Big Four" had a surplus over expenses of $35,-309,463.00.

These companies operate, as was said before, under the guise of mutuality. They are mutual to this extent: all losses are mutually shared by the defrauded policyholders while profits and the manipulation of Billion Dollar Funds are enjoyed by the boards of directors who are vitally interested in the investments in which the assets of these companies are invested.

Operate With Banks.

Let us take a very concrete example. In New York City, the Metropolitan deposits its funds in the metropolitan branch of the Chase National Bank on 23rd Street. Its cash balance varies between eleven millions and thirty-five millions. The yearly statement is as follows:

Jan.	$14,758,282.33
Feb.	11,150,541.27
Mar.	13,624,256.18
Apr.	15,785,704.97
May	24,970,697.65
June	20,421,614.79
July	19,564,966.34
Aug.	11,966,775.09
Sept.	15,747,363.23
Oct.	21,807,554.11
Nov.	23,655,232.74
Dec.	31,976,524.54

In addition to the Chase National Bank the Metropolitan is interested in the following banks and trust companies: Adirondack Trust Company, Royal Bank of Canada, Bankers Trust Company, Central Union Trust Company, Chatham Phoenix National Bank, Chemical National Bank, Equitable Trust Company, Farmers Loan and Trust Company, National City Bank, New York Trust and the Crocker National Bank.

It has been shown in previous articles that if the "Big Four" are "mutual," the industrial policyholders do not benefit by this mutuality.

Important figures on the Board of Directors of the Metropolitan are Joseph P. Day, the New York supertraitor, who at one time, rightly interested in the Metropolitan's real estate activities.

Frank H. Goodyear, once a Metropolitan president, is president of the Associated Press which supplies news service to more than 1,000 newspapers throughout the United States and Canada. Mr. Goodyear is a militant financier, and controls, and is a prominent director of the Metropolitan Loan Company, a subsidiary of the Chase National Bank.

The writer knows through intimate experience that any go-as-paper which carries the Associated Press news dispatches will not utter a word which hints of the gigantic fraud which is being practiced upon 40 million American worker-insurees. Moreover cases of press and radio propaganda finds its way into the Associated newspapers and thus the press and Wall Street troops is completed.

As was mentioned above, the Chase National Bank is the depository of the Metropolitan, in New York City. The following are Metropolitan Life Insurance Company directors who are also directors of the Chase National Bank.

Charles M. Schwab
Henry Ollesheimer
Frederick H. Ecker
Albert H. Wiggin

Now in view of the fact that the Metropolitan always has an average balance in the Chase National of about Twenty Millions of Dollars, this interlocking directorate takes on a special significance.

It is not by mere chance that these "boys" are sitting pretty on the board of one of the largest banks in the world. A permanent balance of Twenty Millions Dollars in cash obligates the Chase National to the officials of the Metropolitan and it is the "mutual" officials and directors of Mother Metropolitan who benefit by this friendly contact, rather than the bewildered policyholders of the "Big Four."

Mr. James A. Beha, the Superintendant of Insurance up at Albany, a personal appointee of Governor Smith, is acquainted with these facts. He knows that the reports issued by the "Big Four" are doctored, he knows that the high-handed, sleek Wall Street gang sits astride the tens of millions of policyholders who are defrauded of hundreds of millions of dollars every year. He knows that "mutual" policyholders do not benefit by any transaction, official and unofficial which these companies engage in.

If Mr. Beha continues to prove himself in league with the "Big Four" by ignoring these specific charges, certainly Governor Smith should demand an immediate investigation into the avils of the weekly payment insurance business.

1928 is not a long way off!

Berger Asks Mercy For Horthy Victims In Cable to Regent

Victor L. Berger, socialist congressman from Wisconsin, has just sent a cable to Regent Horthy of Hungary under whose direction a reign of terror is being made against all liberal and labor elements in the country. The protest is made by Berger especially because of the court-martialing of Szanto and 30 others who face possible execution because of proletarian activities.

Berger's cable, a copy of which he sent to the International Labor Defense says: "Remember Mazzini and Kossuth were considered dangerous radicals by the rulers of their day. Therefore heed history. Be merciful and prevent the murder of your radical countrymen."

VICTOR L. BERGER, Member of Congress.

Ex-Spy Exposes Security League Strike Breakers

(By Federated Press)

PASSAIC, N. J.—Strike-breaking methods of the National Security League are being exposed by Jack Bryan, former mill spy and agent provocateur employed by the Botany mills during the 1926 textile strike. Bryan's letters to the Passaic Daily News accuse Robert J. O'Brien—lately of the National Security League—of framing up Albert Weisbord, strike leader, last summer. O'Brien, he says, was well paid for the work, getting an initial retainer of $1,000 and more later.

Accused by Bryan, O'Brien directed the raid on the office of the United Front Committee at Passaic last April. He helped the grand jury frame up the "evidence" in the indictment on which Weisbord is still held under $30,000 bonds. O'Brien also, in a flippant mood, tossed off the figure of $200,000 as the amount of "Moscow gold" which he feared was behind the strike. Senator Edwards of New Jersey used this figure in his speech in the U. S. Senate defending the mill owners.

O'Brien is now reported to be operating another "League for the Constitutional Defense" at 200 Fifth Avenue. Within the last few years he is said to have founded at least "a score of these leagues, devised solely for the purpose of raising money from the bosses by fair or foul methods. In Norman Hapgood's forthcoming book on "Professional Patriots" (Boni Bros.) Mr. O'Brien will receive "honorable mention" as one of the world's foremost inventors of names for "patriotic" leagues.

* * *

"Czar" Daly is Removed.

One of the first acts of Labor Commissioner Warren has been to remove Deputy Commissioner Daly, known as the czar of the taxi industry. Warren says he will appoint an eviliian in his place as director of the traffic division of the police department.

WORKERS! PROTEST AGAINST DEATH OF SACCO and VANZETTI!

Berger Asks Mercy For Horthy Victims In Cable to Regent

Victor L. Berger, socialist congressman from Wisconsin, has just sent a cable to Regent Horthy of Hungary under whose direction a reign of terror is being made against all liberal and labor elements in the country. The protest is made by Berger especially because of the court-martialing of Szanto and 30 others who face possible execution because of proletarian activities.

Berger's cable, a copy of which he sent to the International Labor Defense says: "Remember Mazzini and Kossuth were considered dangerous radicals by the rulers of their day. Therefore heed history. Be, merciful and prevent the murder of your radical countrymen."

VICTOR L. BERGER, Member of Congress.

POLISH WORKERS PROTEST AGAINST WHITE TERRORISM

Extort False Evidence By Torture; Bar Marx

WARSAW, Poland, April 17.—The ruthless cruelty with which Marshal Joseph Pilsudski has attempted to crush opposition to his reactionary government is indicated in a resolution adopted by the Polish Federation of Labor.

"Citizens are robbed of their rights in a manner which makes the guarantees promised by the Constitution a mockery. It is despicable that citizens should be arrested and kept in jail for their political convictions, for their membership in a party or for having had party fees or read literature. Even worse things happen.

"Agent provocateurs are employed for the discovery of offenses. Suspects are held for months in prison, and there often subjected to unmentionable torments, only to be finally released, wrecked and exhausted for want of proof.

Bar Marx.

"Newspapers such as the Robotnik and Kurjer Potarny, works such as 'Capital' and 'Communist Manifesto' of Marx are prohibited.

"Prisoners in the outer districts of Poland are exposed to maltreatment. After preliminary examinations confessions are extorted by physical terrorism, by blows and sometimes by elaborate cruelty. In this fashion there is often extorted false evidence whereby fresh victims are then drawn in.

"To all the above must be added the activities of the courts of law, with their incredibly harsh sentences in political cases, sentences which are only founded on the evidence of spies. By such sentences there are often sent to prison innocents who have perhaps committed some trifling offense."

Ask Amnesty.

The appeal ends with the following demands:

"Amnesty for political prisoners, especially minors, above all when they have been sentenced to merely belonging to a party.

"More lenient sentences, especially for young offenders.

"Abolition of the prevailing methods of police investigation, of the system of police spies, etc.

"Strict supervision to the prison staff of the treatment of prisoners.

"Energetic resistance to all attacks on the rights of citizens.

"Compulsory consideration of the sentences of the court of cassation on the demand in all political cases."

* * *

Worry Over Kellogg.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—President Coolidge was reported today over resuming new peace moves of spirit and possible resignation of his cabinet.

The president is said to have declared there was no disagreement in the cabinet over the administration's Chinese policy. He particularly made the point that secretary of Commerce Hoover approved all steps taken by this government in China.

The White House denied reports of intention of Secretary of State Kellogg to resign, it was said. Even if Kellogg should retire, the spokesman declared that Hoover would not be appointed to the post.

Our Australian Letter

March 11th, 1927.

As I mentioned in my last letter, the Commonwealth Arbitration Court decided that 44 hours per week would be the standard hours for workers in the metal industry of Australia. All of the unions in the metal industry are now preparing their cases for the variation, which will give them the reduced hours of work.

Last year the metal unions in N. S. W. had the 44 hours week by the strike method, and they lost 4 hours pay.

It is the 4 hours pay that they are after now. The fact that the metal workers in N. S. W. already had a 44-hour working week was a big factor in the recent 44-hour case in the Commonwealth Court. It is known that N. S. W. ironmasters were anxious that similar hours should prevail in each state, so the employers in other states would have the noble advantage of those of other states.

Fear American Methods.

There is a grave danger that American methods are about to be introduced into the factories of Australia.

Sometime ago, a delegation was dispatched by the Commonwealth government to America for the purpose of studying speed-up methods, bonus systems, co-partnership, etc., and last week Chief Judg Dethridge made the following very true remarks.

"The forty-four hour week is possible only if the workers in every way work up to their limit to keep up to the collar all the time. No court, no parliament, no power on earth can get a forty-four hour week for the workers if they do not do their best. It means that payment by results will have to be recognized as a legitimate thing. It does not matter about union rules. Payment by results must come. If it does not come the forty-four hours will have to go."

Fight Piece Work.

We shall see. Some of the unions, realizing that a good attack is the best defence, are already taking steps to counteract the intentions of the employers and are carrying on a campaign against piecework.

Labor Party Fight.

There is a terrific fight being waged in the N. S. W. branch of the Australian Labor Party at the present time. By various methods the officials of the Australian Workers' Union, led by J. Baily of ballot box fame, have gained control of the executive of the A. L. P., and have got together a Special Conference from Easter until June. They know that if the conference is held at Easter the will lose control, because at Easter, on account of the holidays, rank and file delegates can attend. On the other hand, if the conference is held in June, most of the officials will be away in America. This decision has aroused a storm of protest throughout N. S. W.

The president, Mr. Seale, took matters into his own hands and called the conference for Easter. For doing this, Mr. Seale has been suspended by the executive, and it is quite possible that the conference will be declared legal. Nevertheless, I am convinced that the rank and file will rally to Seale, the conference will be held at Easter, and that the Baily faction will be rejected.

Building Workers Out.

Active preparations are being made among N. S. W. unions to send a delegation to the Pan Pacific congress to be held at Canton on May 1st. We hope to send five delegates.

The building workers of Brisbane, Queensland are still being locked out because they refuse to work more than 40 hours per week. The "Labor" government is still doing all in its power to defeat the workers, but the men are still solid notwithstanding that they have been locked out for two months.

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
Daily, Except Sunday
33 First Street, New York, N. Y. Phone, Orchard 1980

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail (in New York only):		By mail (outside of New York):
$6.00 per year	$4.50 six months	$6.00 per year	$3.50 six months
$2.50 three months		$3.00 three months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, New York, N. Y.

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE ..... Editors
BERT MILLER ..... Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail at the post-office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Advertising rates on application.

Bonapartism in China.

Those spokesmen for imperialism who fondly imagine that history repeats itself are hailing the despicable treachery of Chiang Kai-shek as the beginning of another period of military dictatorship in China. There is apparent historical vindication for this interpretation. After the victory of Sun Yat Sen over the Manchu dynasty in 1911, the nationalist leaders, desiring national unity above everything else, permitted the former military leader of the dynastic armies, Yuan Shi Kai, to become president of the republic. Before many weeks Sun Yat Sen and his supporters were confronted with the open betrayal of the revolution by Yuan, who established a bonapartist regime in the interest of the Anglo Japanese interests. But history will not repeat itself in China. Since 1911 a new epoch has dawned and the old one has died.

Fifteen years ago the nationalist movement was directed against the dynastic regime of the Manchus; the menace of imperialism was not evident to the broad masses. Today, with the lessons of the Russian revolution before them and with a thorough understanding at least by the working class leaders, of the nature of imperialism, the military adventurer and miserable hireling, Chiang Kai Shek, will not be able to follow the footsteps of his ignoble predecessor.

That military dictatorship of a minority, which was known as bonapartism during the struggles of the bourgeoisie against the remnants of feudalism, becomes fascism in this period of social revolution. Bonapartism is military despotism exercised in the interest of a military clique against all the rest of society; fascism is the military suppression of the proletariat and those elements in society that stand closest to the working class, in the interest of the big bourgeoisie. In China, Chiang Kai Shek is trying to assume the role of fascist tyrant in the interest of imperialism against the workers, the peasants and the small bourgeoisie.

The working class is the natural leader of all suppressed elements in China and is bearing the brunt of the attempted coup d'etat. It is mobilizing its forces for the extension of the strike and is raising the revolutionary demand for arms to enable the liberation movement to continue the struggle.

Under the influence of the Communists in the important industrial centers the labor movement has adopted the correct attitude toward the peasantry and will have the support of the active elements of that class.

Chiang Kai Shek's betrayal of the revolution will not go unpunished. The movement in China has gone too far to subside at the behest of this renegade and traitor and the money he has obtained from the agents of the great powers in China will be of no avail against the mass movement that is growing ever mightier and must drive onward until imperialism's bloody fangs can no longer reach out to crush the Chinese people.

Defend the Imprisoned Furriers and Cloakmakers!

The defense of the furriers and cloakmakers, whom Green, Woll, Sigman, the bosses and the socialist party officialdom are trying to railroad to jail is a first call on the workers of all shades of political opinion.

The most active, able and militant union members, beginning with Ben Gold of the Furriers' Joint Board, have been arrested on framed up charges and all forces of the bosses from courts to their agents in official labor circles are united in an effort to imprison them for long terms so the destruction of the unions can be facilitated.

The defense of these workers is defense of the trade union movement. A powerful movement in behalf of these workers is the best possible answer to the enemies of labor within and without the trade unions.

All workers behind the Joint Defense Committee!

Sign the Roll Call!

Strengthen the movement for Sacco and Vanzetti, give more power to the demand for Hands Off China by freeing the needle trades militants, repelling the attack of reaction of the labor movement and leaving it free to devote all of its energy to the tremendous tasks which face it in this period when the imperialists are plotting another blood bath for the world's working class.

Defend the militants of the furriers' and the cloakmakers' unions.

The City Elections in Passaic.

When, during the great strike in Passaic, the workers were being clubbed, gassed, run down by motorcycle police and jailed by the score The DAILY WORKER told them there would come another day—a day of reckoning with the vicious city administration that was responsible for these outrages against workers striking for the elementary sort of living wage.

The opportunity to hit back and hit hard against the city administration is now here. The opening of the campaign in Passaic on Tuesday night, when the labor candidates for commissioners made their first appearance before the masses was a magnificent testimonial to the fact that the spirit of militancy is still alive. Unquestionably the demonstrations at two halls threw fear into the hearts of the hirelings of the mill owners who now control the city administration.

Passaic has the commission form of government, which means that no party lines are supposed to be drawn. Candidates run as individuals. But the working class candidates can be distinguished from all others as effectively as if they ran on a straight labor ticket and the workers of Passaic will recognize and support them.

The campaign is also significant from another point of view, for as much as it brings back to Passaic Albert Weisbord, leader of the strike, who yielded to the demands of the A. F. of L. officials of the United Textile Workers and stepped out for the duration of the strike in order that the strikers of Passaic could watch this new phase of the fight.

Woman and Child Labor in the Anthracite

By H. M. WICKS.

DURING the past few years the anthracite field in Pennsylvania has been invaded by light industry, particularly textiles, which employs mostly women and children. The invasion of that territory teaches profound economic lessons for the working class.

There are thousands of places that geographically, and economically, as far as transportation and other facilities are concerned, offer better advantages than Scranton, Wilkes Barre, Pittstown, Old Forge and the other anthracite towns. But these places have one advantage for the investment of textile capital that is not to be easily duplicated in points otherwise strategically situated for their purposes. That is an abundance of cheap labor.

The Inducement to Textiles.

All the towns in the anthracite have chambers of commerce (sometimes called industrial boards) whose task it is to endeavor to induce industries to establish themselves in their midst. These organizations are always circularizing manufacturers of textiles, clothing, candy, etc., telling them of the splendid opportunities offered because of cheap labor.

The industrial board of Old Forge, a mining town in the very heart of the anthracite, tells prospective manufacturers:

"We will furnish as many women workers as you require at a wage of from eight to fifteen dollars per week."

The board further states that "manufacturers will be able to make a saving of from fifteen to thirty-five per cent on manufacturing costs by moving to smaller cities besides being free of union labor."

Fruits of Treachery.

Superficial observers may think this agitation for new industries merely an awakening of the so-called civic spirit of the business men, who want to make the anthracite region something more than a one-industry territory, but the cause is to be found in the profound social and economic changes that have taken place quite recently and is due to the crisis in the coal industry itself.

While the standard of living of the inhabitants of the anthracite region has never been higher than that of the average American worker there was a time that families of miners were able to live on the wages obtained by the adult males. But that is no longer the case. The series of wage cuts, and the failure of the United Mine Workers' of America, under the national leadership of John L. Lewis, who betrayed the miners during the last great strike in the hard coal region, and under the local leadership of the renegade and traitor, Rinaldo Cappelini, have so reduced the miners' wage that no longer can families be supported from the mines alone.

The shameful united front of the mine owners, the police, the courts and the labor officials against the miners has crippled the miners' organization so that it functions more as a company union than a trade union. This united front was plainly in evidence during the last hard coal strike when every militant leader in the region was jailed at the behest of Cappelini and his henchmen. The fruits of the treacherous policy of the leaders at the head of the miners' union are seen today in the proud boast that the region is free of union labor. The chamber of commerce gang knows that they have nothing to fear from the officials of the miners who control the various central labor councils and who would, if they were not agents of the employers, organize workers in any industry that could be established in their vicinity.

Changing Economics.

The economics of the new situation in the anthracite are known to all Marxians. Capitalism, in order that it may constantly replace labor power in the market, must pay the heads of families sufficient to enable them to live and raise a family in order that there may be a new generation of slaves to become heads of families when the present generation goes to the scrap heap of industry.

But the wages and conditions of labor in the anthracite have fallen to such an extent that it is impossible for the "head" of the family to earn wages enough to maintain the rest of the family. Instead of receiving the value of his labor-power that he sells in the market, he receives less than its value. The result is that other members of the family have to enter the labor market in order to supplement the family income. If the man works for less than the value of his labor power—the equivalent of the food, clothing and shelter necessary to maintain himself and family—his wife and children work for much less. The total income of the entire average family is barely sufficient nowadays to cover the value of the labor power of the man alone.

Lines of Slaves.

In other days, when the union had a fighting policy in the anthracite, one passing through the region could see long lines of men coming from various towns and villages, finally merging into streams converging at the mouths of a few mines.

Today the men are not so numerous upon the barren highways of the region, because of unemployment. But the thinning lines of men have been augmented by thousands of women and children, some of whom walk from two to four miles to work the, because their miserable wage forces them to try to save even the few cents required for carfare) in the silk mills and other textile establishments of Scranton and other cities and towns.

When miners resent seeing their wives and children herded like cattle into the slave pen of the new industries that have come into the region because of the exceptional advantages of cheap labor, they can thank the reactionary leaders of their union, whose policy not only aids the anthracite trust but aids the capitalist class as a whole by turning the region into a great hole of scabbery.

However, the "open shop paradise," as the Scranton chamber of commerce describes the hard coal region, will not endure very long, for the simple reason that the horrible conditions of living, of themselves, will drive the workers to organize. The time is not far distant when even the anthracite, which Lewis considers his stronghold, will rise against him and the labor movement will then become dominated by men who will start organization drives in every industry—including those who head the least of the industrial Board of Old Forge and establish themselves there to be "free of union labor."

Passaic Election Struggle Continuation of Strike Struggle

By SYLVAN A. POLLACK.

The campaign that is now taking place in Passaic, N. J., where Albert Weisbord, Simon Bambach and Simon Smelkinson are running as labor candidates with the endorsement of the Workers (Communist) Party is a vindication of the policy of participating in the every-day struggles of the workers that is practiced by the Communist movement the world over.

Until Strike Started.

When on January 25, 1926 the workers of the Botany mills went out on strike, to be followed by the workers in the other mills, they were underpaid, overworked and bewildered without any centralization, they had toiled day after day until the historic day that Albert Weisbord with the assistance of a small group of workers started the struggle that gained world wide prominence.

The strike is over. True, they have not won all of their demands, but in spite of that they have two important points as their heritage. One, a union. Two, an understanding of the class struggle and their class interests. During the political campaign that is now going on they will have an opportunity to prove that the strike has been a great educator as well as an organizer.

Many of the former strikers are foreign born. They have no vote. But those who are citizens and still live in the city of Passaic will, with practically no exceptions, vote for Weisbord and his colleagues. Some might say that it will be a personal vote, that the individual Weisbord will get the votes, not the program he will advance. That might be true in some cases but thousands of Passaic workers have begun to understand their class interest and will vote for all candidates that stand for the interests of the working class exclusively, as opposed to the liberals or the reactionary.

Liberals Not Friends.

They are beginning to understand that a liberal as Judge Cabell, who, altho he supported the strike, is no more their friend in the long run than Commissioner of Public Safety Preskel, who had them beaten on the picket line. Cabell was seeking office and supported the strikers. Preskiel was in office and suppressed the workers. Today, both Cabell and Preskiel are candidates for commissioners and both of them ignore the strike.

While Cabell and Preskiel and the other capitalist candidates ignore the strike, to Weibord, Bambach and Smelkinson it is a most vital issue. They will dramatize the happenings of that famous page in labor's history and —sign it to the workers who are now listening to the many candidates for political office.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

Editor, The DAILY WORKER:

The following is a tid-bit from a speech by Rev. John N. Lyle, speaking at the Workers Educational League, and reported in the Seattle Union Record, for March 5:

"Don't be too hard on old Britain. We owe a lot to the British. If it hadn't been for them we would be speaking Spanish here now. Are we going to scuttle out of China? The Indian did not make the best use of the land in America and the white man took it away from him. If the Chinese do not make the best use of their land then the other nations will."

This is given space in a so-called labor paper. The man of god has overlooked a few items, as follows: England produces 90 per cent of the world's opium, thanks to the Lord. England has a revenue of nearly 100 million pounds, sufficient to run its own government.

England has had two opium wars in China, and is now going through the same one. Thanks to the Chinese Awakening. England lends money to opium growers in India to join the main stream of the American trade union movement. Now that the strike is over he can again take his place as leader of the Passaic masses and his candidacy for commissioner gives him an opportunity to discuss before the workers the policies to be followed in resisting the conspiracies of the bosses to take from them gains made during the strike. The United Textile Union officials have been yielding too much to the bosses, have been retreating and forcing the workers to accept impositions. This retreat must stop and the struggle must be intensified all along the line.

The workers of Passaic have shown their fighting spirit as strikers. If those who have the right to vote will "vote as they strike" and strive to get other workers in Passaic to support them they can make another valuable contribution to the labor movement through laying the foundation for a powerful local labor party that will give impetus to a state labor party and tremendously aid in stimulating sentiment for a labor party on a national scale. Just as the working class of the nation watched Passaic during the great struggle of last year so they will eagerly

Let's Fight On! Join The Workers Party!

In the loss of Comrade Ruthenberg the Workers (Communist) Party has lost its foremost leader and the American working class an outstanding fighter. This loss can only be overcome by many militant workers joining the Party that he built.

Fill out the application below and mail it. Become a member of the Workers (Communist) Party and push forward the work of Comrade Ruthenberg.

I want to become a member of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Name .....

Address .....

Occupation .....

Union Affiliation .....

Mail this application to the Workers Party, 108 East 14th Street, New York City, or if in other city to Workers Party, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Distribute the Ruthenberg pamphlet, "The Workers Communist Party, What It Stands For and Why Workers Should Join." This Ruthenberg pamphlet will be the basic pamphlet through the Ruthenberg Drive.

Every Party Nucleus must collect 50 cents from every member and will receive 20 pamphlets for every member to sell or distribute.

Nuclei in the New York District will get their pamphlets from the District Office—108 East 14th St.

Nuclei outside of the New York District write to Daily Worker Publishing Co., 33 East First Street, New York City, or to the National Office, Workers Party, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

without interest. It has nearly 8,000,000 dope customers in America, many of them only school children.

The British Empire has far greater interest in opium than the U. S. A. at the present time than the total population in the year 1776. Yours truly,

S. F. BRANCH, Seattle, Wash.

Likes Insurance Articles.

I was over delighted to read your just indictment of the "Big Four" insurance gang. I hope that this effort of yours will bring about an honest investigation.

At any rate it will disturb some of the nests of the vultures of the "Big Four" and as every progressive move results in a certain amount of disturbance—let's go!

Best wishes for your insurance exposes. Joseph P. Roth.

The I. R. T. Situation.

Editor, DAILY WORKER:

I take this opportunity to address and inform you I have become a reader of your wonderful paper and I am delighted at its aspirations in favor of the working men.

I, as an employee of the I. R. T. New York, want to bring under your notice the 5% increase in pay starting April 1 donated by Mr. Hedley. This is what he confiscated from us two years ago by a fake vote controlled by Paddy Connolly from the windy city.

Now then, every man on the job employed by the I. R. T. knows that the granting of this 5% at this time was a stall. You will see by the papers that Mr. Hilley called down all delegates and had them sign up for two years when granting this 5% increase without any authority of the men.

I understand that the motormen of the I. R. T. are going to get 91 cents per hour as they are linked with the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Now that is Hedley's idea to stall off. He also wants to stall off the injunction brought against the A. F. of L. in the recent strike, but I assure you the employees of subway and elevated are with you in this coming battle, which we anticipate soon after winning that injunction suit.—Mr. Mitchell ought to give a good write up on this 5% increase.

You are going to hear from me often hereafter.

I. R. T. Worker.

On Sacco-Vanzetti

Editor, DAILY WORKER:

The trial and sentence to death of Sacco and Vanzetti, two stalwart labor defenders, by Judge Webster Thayer, the lackey of Massachusetts capitalist autocracy is a deliberate and unashamed frame-up and no ordinary case.

This is one of class-hatred against two radicals and active fighters for the labor movement. For seven years they have been incarcerated in Jail. Think of the agony they have endured. They have no right to suffer.

DRAMA

Michael Gold's "Fiesta" Postponed Till October

Michael Gold's "Fiesta" will not be produced until next fall. Following a dress rehearsal last week, the directors of the New Playwrights Theatre decided to withdraw the play for rehearsing and rewriting. The ambitious group of youth dramatists who were responsible for "Loud Speaker" and "Earth," the two plays put on at the 52nd Street Playhouse, have decided to call it a season, and postponed any further production until next October, when "Fiesta" will open the 1927-28 season.

John Howard Lawson, managing director of the New Playwrights, and author of "Loud Speaker" said that Gold's play contained "great artistic values and vital potentialities, which the production had not realized." "A theatre of our type," he added, "requires a typed audience so that our plays can be brought to their highest artistic level before a formal presentation. The New Playwrights learned a valuable lesson from their experience."

Broadway Briefs

"The Seventh Heart," a comedy by Sarah Ellis Hyman, is announced by the Lionel Productions to open at the Mayfair Theatre May 2. Arthur Brander, Sylvia Beecher, Robert Farrell and Mildren Kent will be in the cast.

The Shakespeare Fellowship will present a revival of "As You Like It" under the auspices of the American Theatre Association Tuesday afternoon, May 7. The performance will be for the benefit of the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford-on-Avon.

"Blood Money," a melodrama by George Middleton, adapted from a short story of H. H. Van Loan's, will be presented by Mrs. Henry B. Harris in New Haven on May 16, prior to its New York premiere. The cast includes Thomas Mitchell, Shirley Warde, Reginal Barlow and Malcolm Duncan.

Frank C. Reilly, whose production of "Pickwick" has been playing on tour and is now playing in Boston, announces that his next Dickens production will be "The Mystery of Edwin Drood."

"Freidel," a play by Samuel Shipman and Kenneth Perkins, and which Hatcher Hughes is revising, will be placed in rehearsal next month by Albert Lewis.

The Cape Repertory Players begin their final two weeks in New York this evening. On May 2 the company will begin a Spring tour opening that night in Washington for a week's stay. The program this week includes "The Cradle Song" tonight, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights; "John Gabriel Borkman," on Tuesday night; "Inheritors," Wednesday matinee; "Master Builder," Thursday night and "Three Sisters" Saturday matinee.

Three premieres are scheduled for this evening. Milee's "The Pin Passes Here" at the Garrick, "Close Le Lake That" at the Cort and "Lady Do" at the Liberty.

Another opening tonight will take place at the Central Theatre where Thurston, the magician begins an engagement.

ALISON SKIPWORTH

In "New York Exchange", playing a week's engagement at the Bronx Opera House beginning tonight.

AMUSEMENTS

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN
TWICE DAILY, 2 P.M & 8 P.M.
RINGLING BROS. and BARNUM & BAILEY CIRCUS
Last among these Marvels PAWAH SACRED WHITE ELEPHANT
TICKETS at GARDEN BOX OFFICE 50th Ave and 49th St., and Tyndall Bldg.

TIMES SQ. Thrs., W. 42 St. Evgs. & 30. Mats. (West of 8th) Wed. & Sat. 2.30
CRIME
with James Rennie & Chester Morris

The LADDER
Now in its 6th MONTH
WALDORF, 58th St., East of B'way. Mats. WED. and SAT.

WALLACK'S West 42nd Street, Mats. Tues., Wed., Thurs and Sat. Evenings 8.30
What Anne Brought Home
A New Comedy Drama

HAMPDEN'S THEATRE 62nd St at Broadway Evs 8.45. Matinees Wed. and Sat.
WALTER HAMPDEN in CAPONSACCHI

BROADWAY
B'WAY & 41st. Evs. 8.15
PRICES EVES $1.10 TO $2.75

Civic Repertory Cor 6 & 14 Sts. Evgs. 8.30 Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2.30
EVA LE GALLIENNE
Tonight: CRADLE SONG
Tomorrow: JOHN GABRIEL BORKMAN

Theatre Guild Acting Company in PYGMALION
Sq. W. 52 St. The Second Year
GUILD THEA. Evs. 8.30 Mats. Thurs. & Sat. 2.30

Mr. PIM PASSES BY
New Comedy by A. A. Milne
GARRICK W. 35 St. Evs. 8.40 Mats. Thurs. & Sat. 2.40

NED McCOBB'S DAUGHTER
New Week: The Silver Cord
John Golden 58th, E. of B'way Evs. 8.40 Mats. Thurs. & Sat. 2.40

EARL CARROLL Vanities
Earl Carroll Thea. 7th Ave. & 50th St. Evs. 8.40 Mats. Thurs. & Sat. 2.40

MARTIN BECK 45th W. of 8th Evs. 8.40 Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2.40

JED HARRIS Presents a Drama
'SPREAD EAGLE'

Bronx Opera House 149th Street, Near Third Ave. Evs. 8.40 Mats. Wed. & Sat.
"NEW YORK EXCHANGE"

Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!

They have been in jail too long for "associated anarchy," to prove that they have done any crime. This alone is enough to prove that they are innocent. This has not been a open and honest trial. All the facts and evidence for the defense has been suppressed. Even prominent liberals have been horrified at the censorship of "Liberty." What are the leaders of the A. F. of L. doing? Why are they silent?

They are now busy expelling left wing workers from the trade unions. Also spending time and money with the bosses' police and gangsters of the injunction, to break the labors and imprison their militant and honest leaders. In order to labor movement must organize quickly and effectively.

The can only be done by sending petitions to the governor of Massachusetts and general stoppage of work for a short time. Also the workers must come out on the street and demonstrate their determination for their liberation. The cry of the workers must be Sacco and Vanzetti must not die; they must be set free!

—Mark Stone, New York

BUY THE DAILY WORKER AT THE NEWSSTANDS

Bazaar Roll Call.

Names on the special Bazaar Roll Call at 50 cents are commencing to pour in on the Bazaar Roll Call lists. All names will be published in English in the Bazaar number of "Unity."

HANDS OFF CHINA, STOP WORLD WAR, IS APPEAL OF WORKERS (COMMUNIST) PARTY

(Continued from Page One)

revolutionary armies in China. Now American and British marines have perpetrated in cold blood the massacre of defenseless Chinese working men and working women at Nanking. The notorious bandit and imperialist tool, Chang Tso-lin, has been ordered to make an unwarranted attack on the Soviet Union in Peking. Chiang Kai-shek has been induced to attack the Chinese labor movement. Every effort has been made to make it appear that the war, when it breaks out, has been caused by the Chinese labor movement or by the Soviet Union.

Soviet Union for Peace.

But the Soviet government, being a republic of workers and farmers, has foiled the maneuvers of the bankers and imperialists. The Soviet Republic struck for peace by merely withdrawing its representatives from the seat of the imperialist puppet, Chang Tso-lin. Every capitalist government in the world would have declared war instantly for far less provocation than this outrageous attack.

On the heels of this there came the criminal ultimatum of the British, American, Japanese, French and Italian imperialists demanding immediate heavy payments and humiliating apologies by the Cantonese for the supposed losses suffered by foreigners while British and American bandstrongers were bombarding Nanking.

Chiang Kai-shek—Traitor.

Now the infamous imperialist efforts to split the Kuomintang, to throw the revolutionary forces into chaos, have come to light in all their ugliness. Chiang Kai-shek, the commander of the Cantonese military forces, has surrendered to the imperialists. Chiang Kai-shek has declared war on the best fighters of the Chinese revolution by making a murderous assault upon the laborers, the trade unions of Shanghai, wounding and killing hundreds of workers after disarming them.

All of these events are only links in the chain the imperialists have been forging for intervention in and destruction of revolutionary China, for an attack upon the Soviet Union—in short for the bringing on of a colossal world war.

The American Imperialists' Game.

Why is the United States government so militant and aggressive in its hostility to revolutionary Chinese nationalism? Why is the Wall Street administration of Coolidge step by step moving with the other imperialist powers towards another world war?

The answer is as plain as daylight. The American imperialists dread the effect of a revolutionary Chinese nationalist victory upon the Philippines. Inspired and encouraged by such a victory, the Filipino people would take steps to wrest their national freedom and complete independence from American imperialism. A victory for revolutionary Chinese nationalism will lower the prestige of all imperialist powers. It will tend to lower considerably the prestige of haughty Yankee imperialism in all Latin-America.

Our ruling class is today the dominant imperialist world power. It is best equipped for a war because more than half the world's gold is in its coffers. American imperialism hopes to gain through a world war new, tremendous advantages for consolidating, extending and perpetuating its present dominating position in the mastery of the world's resources.

Stand by Revolutionary China and the Soviet Union.

Working men and working women!

Let us unite our ranks against the growing menace of a new imperialist world war.

We must do all in our power to stop our imperialist government from helping to drown the Chinese revolution in a sea of blood.

In this critical hour everyone of us must spare no effort or pain to crush all attempts to attack the Soviet Union.

Let not the momentary efforts of the treason of Chiang Kai-shek to the cause of revolutionary Chinese nationalism dismay us! The working and farming masses of China will soon come into their own despite the blackest manipulations of the American, British, and other imperialist plunderbunds.

Communists Demand World Peace.

There must be no new imperialist world war! The Communists throughout the world, inspired by the glorious example set by the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics which has been and continues to be the greatest defender and champion of world peace, stand resolutely opposed to another imperialist war. We Communists are firmly set against another imperialist world war. We Communists want world peace.

The Workers (Communist) Party of America strongly urges the American working and farming masses to do everything in their power to hold back the American government from plunging the world into a new mass slaughter!

Hands Off China!
Hands Off the Soviet Union!
Down With Imperialist War!
Long Live the International Solidarity of the Workers of the World!

CENTRAL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE WORKERS (COMMUNIST) PARTY OF AMERICA.

Violin and Viola Lessons
Given by expert teacher.
For reasonable rates write to
JOHN WEINROTH
6132 LANCASTER AVENUE.
Phone Granite 7252. Philadelphia, Pa.

PHILLIP FIDLER
Manufacturer of
CAPS AND HATS
Union Made
WORK A SPECIALTY
843 Belmont Ave. 2015 Milwaukee
CHICAGO

Celebrate
MAY DAY

With a bundle of the
SPECIAL
of the
DAILY WORKER
On May Day, a Special Issue of The DAILY WORKER will be issued.

ORDER A BUNDLE

There will be special articles on the world labor, special cartoons and photographs.

ORDER A BUNDLE

A whole section will be devoted to greetings to the workers from international workers and from working class organizations.

ORDER A BUNDLE

This issue should be brought into the hands of thousands of workers. Order a bundle for yourself to give away and be sure to order a bundle

FOR YOUR MAY DAY MEETING

Special Bundle Rates
$2.50 A HUNDRED
RUSH
THE DAILY WORKER,
33 First St., New York
Please send me ... copies of the SPECIAL MAY DAY ISSUE
Name .....
Address .....
City .....
State .....

Weisbord to Speak At Sacco-Vanzetti Protest Meeting

PASSAIC, N. J., April 17.—Albert Weisbord, strike leader and one of the labor candidates in the race for Passaic city councilmen, will be one of the speakers at a Sacco-Vanzetti protest mass meeting to be held in Belmont Park, Garfield, on Wednesday night, April 20.

Others speaking will include Carlo Tresca and Francesco Ciccio, the latter also a prominent figure in the Passaic textile strike.

Weisbord's return to Passaic was hailed with unrestrained joy by over 4,000 textile workers packed into Ukrainian Hall last Wednesday night, where he acquiesced to their demand that he run for councilmanship.

Passaic Workers Aroused.

That the workers of Passaic are aroused over the brazen attempt to railroad these two men to the electric chair was demonstrated last Wednesday night when Weisbord and other members of the Workers (Communist) Party were cheered to the echo in their demand for justice for Sacco and Vanzetti.

The six United Textile Workers locals in Passaic and vicinity, together with the District Textile Council, have sent telegrams to Governor Fuller of Massachusetts, protesting this attempted murder and demanding the release of Sacco and Vanzetti.

The mass meeting at Belmont Park is called by the local branch of the International Workers Aid, in conjunction with the anti-Fascist leagues of Clifton and Lodi.

CO-OPERATIVES

Results of the Soviet Union Organizational Conference of the Consumers' Cooperatives

(Foreign Bulletin of the Centrosoyus)

MOSCOW.—A conference of managers of the organized departments of the national and regional consumers' co-operative alliances of the U. S. S. R. has recently taken place in the Centrosoyuz. The decisions of that conference will be of vital importance for the further development of the organizational activities of the consumers' co-operatives.

In accordance with the decisions of the seventeenth session of the Centrosoyus council (November 29-December 4, 1926), the conference took up, in the first place, the practical side of the immediate tasks of the organization work of the consumers' co-operatives.

General Tasks.

Starting out with the general tasks which are confronting the co-operatives at the present time, the conference decided that most of the attention of the organizational departments must be directed primarily to the solution of the following three groups of questions:

1. To the organizational and systematic work in all branches of consumers' co-operation and the construction of a unified systematic management.

2. To the rationalization of the system and the technical work of the apparatus.

3. To the further activization of the co-operative masses and the drawing in of the membership for the solution of the burning questions connected with co-operative construction.

The main pre-requisites for a successful systematization of the trading activities of the co-operative organizations must, according to the conference, be the improvement of the business relations within the system. Plans must be drawn up on the basis of the paying capacity of the consumers, particularly the shareholders, and on the basis of the organizational, technical and financial possibilities of the system and the economic situation in general. The planning should be effected by special commissions which form part of the organizational Departments.

Urgent questions concerning the rationalization of the system and the work of the apparatus in connection with the price reduction campaign make it incumbent upon the Organizational Departments to investigate the most rational types of construction of regional unions, the possibility of the further strengthening of the district unions, the elaboration of prospective plans of further extension of the periphery and in general, the question of the advisability of constructing the periphery on the type of the multiple-shop system or the single shop system, in the various districts.

Not Too Many Employees.

The numerical composition of employees must be regulated in accordance with the quotas for a maximum amount of work for every employee. In questions of commercial organization, attention should be centered on the struggle against indirect forms of conveying commodities, on maximum development of operations in transit, and also on the establishment of storing centres and regulations of transport.

In co-operating with the masses and drawing them into the practical work of co-operative construction, the conference devoted special attention to the solution of the following questions: on facilitating new membership affiliation with the consumers' cooperatives of the village poor; on the methods of materially interesting the shareholders, on mobilizing the means of circulating in the hands of the population; on the creation of a co-operative cadre of active workers, and finally, on the methods of co-operative education work.

The conference has also dealt with the system of assigning special funds from the profits of the co-operatives for the co-operation of the poor peasants, and worked out ways and means for the improvement of his work. The best methods of interesting the shareholders materially have been recognized to be the granting of the premiums on sales to shareholders.

New Methods.

The conference has also dealt with the methods of carrying out the organizational measures which it decided on. In this respect the conference stressed particularly on the necessity that the instructors of the organizational departments of the co-operative alliances should also be instructors of the co-operative system and organizers of the co-operative membership.

Furthermore the conference endorsed the decision of the First All-Union Conference (1925) on the necessity of annual investigations in all consumers' co-operatives and that the instructors of the alliances should act primarily in the capacity or organizers controlling the activities of the investigating committees.

The conference has also decided that the principal instructors' work should consist in investigating the activities of the consumers' co-operatives in their special spheres of activity and that the general control of the periphery should be effected on the basis of establishing systematic accounting.

The conference devoted a good deal of attention to the questions of raising the qualifications of the instructors. The main form of retraining the instructors was recognized to be the organization of special three or four week courses organized by the regional alliances and the Centrosoyus during the summer.

Finally, the conference considered the questions relating to the rationalization of the work of the co-operative inspectorate and of regulating the co-operative press. On the first question detailed decisions were adopted on the methods of drawing the co-operative employees into the work of perfecting the co-operative apparatus. On the second question, the tasks of the local and central publications were specified.

Subsequent to the All-Union Organizational Conference, national and regional conferences will be held. These conferences will work on the basis of the decisions of the national conference and will devote their time to adapting those decisions to the local conditions of the various regions.

Mineola Audience Disgusted by Stool Pigeon's Testimony

By MICHAEL GOLD.

Since Judas hung himself on a sour-apple tree, the feeling has been widespread that a stool pigeon is the meanest form of human life.

This may be superstition, but the stool pigeon who testified yesterday at the trial of Ben Gold and 19 other furriers at Mineola shifted his eyes from side to side and found not a friendly face in the courtroom.

Everyone seemed a little nauseated, even the hard-boiled dicks and court attendants, as the slimy, smelly and jigsawed story dropped from the twitching lips of the young Judas on the witness stand.

His name was Barnet Basoff, and he held the stand for about four hours before a fascinated audience. In that time he admitted at least twenty times that he had lied in previous testimony, and had double-crossed the union, the lawyer who had previously defended him, and most of his friends.

His testimony was a bewildering mass of admitted lies and counter-lies. In a previous trial he had been asked whether he was telling the truth about a certain matter.

"I can say it to God alone that this is the truth," he testified dramatically.

When asked whether it had been the truth Basoff said it was not but that he had used the words of God to make his previous lie more impressive. This admission did not help sweeten the color of rat in the courtroom. It was a sample of all his testimony.

Basoff was not an important member of the furriers' union during the strike last year, but he has become important in this trial because it is on his story that the prosecution is chiefly basing its case against Ben Gold and the others.

His testimony yesterday went back and forth through the questions levelled at him by the district attorney and the attorneys for the defense, but synthesized, the following queer tale, worthy of a Joseph Conrad was unfolded:

1.—Basoff said he had been a furrier only a year, and then when the strike came, he was put on the G. F. C., three letters which he repeated again and again very mysteriously, until the defense attorney got him to admit they meant only the General Picketing Committee.

2.—He didn't belong to the union while serving on this committee, but was employed only for "strong-arm" work, in return for which he was paid his room rent, he said.

3.—Last April, while seated in the cafeteria at Astoria Hall, Schneider and Shapiro, two furriers' union officials, told him he must come upstairs, to go out with 11 other furriers to Long Island, to wreck a shop there.

4.—Then according to his story, he came out in a car with about 12 furriers, and they entered a little shop over a chop suey house in Rockville Centre, L. I. To his horror, the stool pigeon said, he discovered the shop was owned by Mike Barnett, a friend of his here and in England for the past 16 years.

5.—Terrible things happened in the shop, cutting of furs, and terrorizing of women, and the beating up of Barnett, the man who was running the "open shop" with two Greek girls who had carried union cards up to the time of the strike, but had now decided to work on the American plan while their fellow-unionists were on strike.

6.—Basoff the stool pigeon was arrested the next day. The union got him out on bail for $25,000. While out on bail he heard two furriers arguing in Astoria Hall as to who had cut the boss of the open shop in Long Island, and each had boasted that he had done it. The stool pigeon had a friend named Eddie who was also present at this queer conversation. He even said to this friend:

"You hear what they said, Eddie?" And Eddie of course, answered, "yes."

7.—In September, 1926, after he had been tried, the stool pigeon came to the district attorney and voluntarily told him all the secrets of the alleged assault and the strike.

Denies Original Confession.

On cross examination further juicy details were added to this melodrama. At his first trial Basoff had been confronted by a sworn confession he had made to the chief of police, stating that he had been one of those in the alleged assault. In court he repudiated this confession, saying it had been extracted from him after four detectives had beaten him up with blackjacks, rubber clubs, hats and fists and feet.

Statement by Joint Defense and Relief Committee of Cloakmakers and Furriers to All Workers

From the Joint Defense and Relief Committee of Cloakmakers and Furriers comes the following stirring appeal to all workers to join in the campaign in behalf of their fellow-workers in jail.

"No one must stand aside in the fight to save the Needle Trades Unions. It is time to act together against the union smashers. Sigman, Schachman, Wolf, Beckerman, Green, McGrady and the bosses have united to destroy every free expression within the working class movement. It is a deliberate conspiracy to impose class collaboration, i. e. unions serving the interests of the bosses, upon the workers.

Uses All Means.

"This gang stops at nothing. Squads of gangsters, provocateurs are used to break the morale of the workers. Bloody onslaughts occur in the markets. New men are picked daily to be sent away for long prison terms.

"About 40 cloakmakers and furriers are now lying in jail. The list of workers attacked and beaten up grows daily. Dozens of workers who have been framed up on various charges have been placed under bail bonds running up as high as $25,000.

"Ben Gold, Mencher, Shapiro and other members of the Furriers' Joint Board are now experiencing the workings of capitalistic justice in the Ku Klux Klan town of Mineola. The trial of J. Goretzky, manager of Local 35 has been postponed to the 22nd of April, to be heard before the same considerate Judge Rosalsky, who has already sentenced a score of innocent cloakmakers to long prison terms because of their steadfast loyalty to the union during the strike.

Yellow Socialists Responsible.

"Behind all of this stand the official union smashers allied with the Forverts and socialist party officialdom in their treason to the working class.

"Workers, it is your plain duty to enter into the fight to save the unions in the garment industry. Victory will go a long way toward driving the agents of the bosses, out of the unions of food, building, transportation, leather, etc., etc.

"It is time to deliver a death blow to the power of the black legion in the unions. The workers in jail must be torn from the clutches of their so-called "justice." The families whose breadwinners are imprisoned must be furnished relief.

"The Joint Defense and Relief Committee is exhausting every effort to raise enough money to cover the enormous expense. 100,000 dollars must be raised at once. Regardless of your condition, we call upon you to pay a voluntary tax.

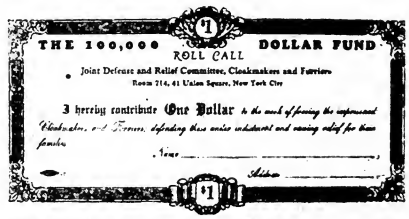
"ONE DOLLAR FROM EVERY WORKER."

"However great the burden, however much you have given, do not postpone this immediate donation. Remember! your cost is a dollar—our brother workers are paying with their freedom.

"Do you like to see the imprisoned Cloakmakers and Furriers in jail?

"Do you like to see their families suffering and in want?

"Do you like to see other active union members now under charges sentenced to long prison terms?



"If not! Fill out its certificate printed in the advertisement of this committee and mail it to the office of the committee with one dollar. This reply will encourage the mass of workers to keep up their fight for a clean union.

"The necessity is so great that even if you have already given, we ask you to give again and sign this Roll Call."

CUT OUT THIS CERTIFICATE AND SEND IT OR BRING IT IN WITH ONE DOLLAR

We call upon all Workers to support the 100,000 Dollar Drive of the Joint Defense and Relief Committee, Cloakmakers and Furriers.

(Signed) BEN GOLD, LOUIS HYMAN.

Joint Defense & Relief Committee, Furriers & Cloakmakers, 41 Union Sq., Room 714

CUT OUT THIS CERTIFICATE AND SEND IT OR BRING IT IN WITH ONE DOLLAR

WHITHER RUSSIA—
Toward Capitalism or Socialism
Leon Trotsky

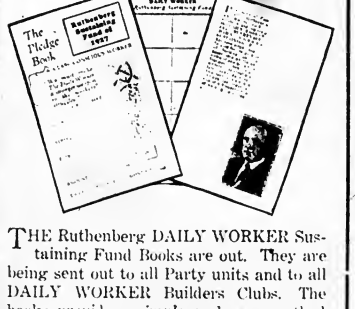
An extraordinarily timely discussion of the tendencies in Russia's internal and international policy as affecting its economic development. Trotsky, in his well-known brilliant and incisive style, analyzes a question that has been the outstanding problem before the Soviet government.

Cloth bound—$1.50

MY FLIGHT FROM SIBERIA—
By Leon Trotsky

A new edition of the famous story.

Attractively board-bound—$.25



EDUCATION IN SOVIET RUSSIA Scott Nearing

A first-hand account of aims and methods of education in the Soviet republics.

Cloth bound—$1.50
Paper— .50

DAILY WORKER PUB. CO.
33 First Street New York

Ruthenberg Sustaining Fund BOOKS ARE READY

THE Ruthenberg DAILY WORKER Sustaining Fund Books are out. They are being sent out to all Party units and to all DAILY WORKER Builders Clubs. The books provide a simple and easy method whereby The DAILY WORKER may secure regular and systematic support from its friends and sympathizers. The funds thus collected will be used to build up our paper, to cover the cost of adding new features, to attract new writers, and to meet the expenses of the trial we are facing against the attack of various patriotic societies. See your local DAILY WORKER Agent. Be sure you have a book. Join the Ruthenberg Sustaining Fund.

DAILY WORKER
33 First Street,
New York, N. Y.

Inclosed is my contribution of
..... dollars ..... cents to the Ruthenberg Sustaining Fund for a stronger and better DAILY WORKER and for the defense of our paper. I will pay the same amount regularly every .....

Name .....
Address .....
City .....
State .....
Attach check or money order.

Frey to Go to Geneva As Government Expert

WASHINGTON, April 17.—John P. Frey, reactionary ex-secretary-treasurer of the Molders' Union, and at present president of the Ohio State Federation of Labor and member of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, will be named labor expert on the American commission to the Geneva economic conference, the White House announced yesterday.

Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!

Klan and Church in Mineola Both Anti-Labor

By MARGARET LARKIN.

In the great, palatial county court house in Mineola, Bec Gold and ten of his comrades, fighters in the vanguard of labor, are standing trial. They were denied a change of venue to another community. Supreme Court Justice Callaghan thinks that they will get "justice" in Nassau County.

Mineola and Rockville Center, where the original assault was supposed to have occurred some months ago, are curiously dead, deserted villages. They are the backwash of the office buildings of New York. Clerks and petty managers, bookkeepers who have married stenographers, three thousand dollar a year men who hang onto the fringes of Big Business, and little business men, form the bulk of the population of Nassau County.

They Commute.

They have moved to Long Island, bought one of the standardized houses put up cheaply by real estate development corporations, and settled down in the good air to bring up their families. Small storekeepers, garage men, beauty parlor operators, and ministers of the gospel have followed them to care for their bodies and souls.

There is little industrial life in the county. The people are all glad that they do not have to work in factories, or risk their lives in the building trades, or their lungs in the fur shops. They are getting up in the world, and they are very much in favor of the status quo. They are contented with their homes, their jobs, their commuting schedule, their babies, and their automobiles purchased on time. The provincial air of these villages, set down between garbage heaps only forty minutes' ride from New York, is incredible.

In Mineola the people have "real American ideas." They are vaguely alarmed at the talk that there are "a bunch of Communists" on trial in their handsome courthouse. The real estate and insurance men who helped me find the courthouse shook his head sadly over the situation. "I guess there's a lot of this radical stuff around in the country now," he grieved. "I tell you what, the American people has to protect themselves from that bolshevism. We aren't going to have anything like that going on here in Mineola. I guess old Lou Smith will see to it these fellows get what's coming to them."

Catholic Community.

The fat, toothless catholic priest and his smart young assistant were of much the same opinion. "I guess if they can prove they're Socialists, it'll go hard with them, hm?" he queried. The assistant explained that the community was strongly catholic, and the relative size and importance of the catholic real estate holdings seemed to bear him out, although this is not always an indication, since the priests are better business men for the Lord than the protestant ministers ever dare to be.

In Rockville Center, as well as in Mineola, there is much vague talk about the Ku Klux Klan. Although the general opinion among priests, protestant ministers, lawyers, radio experts, and doctors seems to be that the move of the Klan has declined in Nassau County as well as in the nation at large, there is no doubt that it holds some of its old prestige in some villages.

Burn Fiery Cross.

There are periodical meetings in fields, a fiery cross is burned now and then, a Jewish garage owner has received a threatening letter some months ago, Mineola witnessed a Klan Konklave and parade. The Klan seems dormant now, but mostly, I believe, because in that exemplary, one hundred per cent community, there is not sufficient evil doing to sustain the interest of the members. It is not inconceivable that the trial of "that bunch of Communists" might kindle the spark for a vigorous demonstration.

All Hate The Union.

Even if the actual membership of the Klan has declined, it has left behind it a residue of prejudice, hatred, and anti-Semitic and anti-radical sentiment that cannot fail to operate against the furtherance of labor's significant, that not one of the fifteen or twenty middle citizens whom I interviewed, was ready to state that Klan influence might not affect the fate of the men on trial. The priests declared staunchly that the Klan was "mostly social," but I think that they were whistling in the dar!

HIRELINGS AT WORK

By EUGENE KREININ.

The innocent condemned
Hurl the lie of justice
Into the face
Of the guilty. . . .

For class rule
And its consequent justice
Has at no time
In any land under the yoke
Of capitalist oppression,
Shown its ugly criminal-sly face.
As today, in the fortress of Wall Street,

And exposed they stand
Before the thinking proletariat.
As the hired henchmen
Of the ruling class. . . .

The cry of protest
Spreads over fields and workshops;
Even beyond the heads
Of the official labor bureaucracy,
Engaged at all times
In the service of the enemy. . . .

So vicious the motive,
So criminal the attempt,
That even legality
Cannot cloak its lawlessness. . . .

And the hirelings,
Robed for the role assigned
And conscious of their mission,
Twitch nervously at the glare of light
Thrown upon them
By the accusation
Of their victims. . . .

Moscow in October

III.—SELF-MADE COMMANDERS

The soldier comrades of the cyclist battalion which was on Lubanskaya Square came up and assembled in the street of China Town in the night, and at day-break the Junkers opened machine gun and rifle fire from the roofs. The soldiers kept close to the walls, and retreated leaving the dead and dragging along the wounded. They brought many wounded to the Moscow Soviet.

"Comrades!" Those "cyclists" who were still living, said to us, "Give us commanders, we are losing through the lack of them."

But who could be sent to command?

Some non-commissioned officer getting canned-meat out of a tin with a pen-knife, heard (as a "cyclist" told me) about the defeat in China Town. Wiping the knife on his overcoat, the non-commissioned officer said to me:

"Give me the order and I will get safe command."

"There is a battalion there," I replied.

"I can ever command a battalion," replied the non-commissioned officer, continuing to chew a piece of cold-meat.

The order was immediately typed out on the machine by Comrade Samsonov, and the non-commissioned officer was sent off to the rear of combat as commander of the battalion.

* * *

In the evening of the same day, together with Comrade Muralov, we went over the entire buildings of the Moscow Soviet: yard, various outhouses, etc., and everywhere there were soldiers. Soldiers in compact crowds and parties. I came out on the Skobelev (now Soviet) Square. Some detachment of soldiers or other without a commander, was calling the roll and lining up.

"One, two, one two."

Afterwards, the soldier who stood in front cried out:

"Left turn! quick march!"

And the detachment marched off down Bryusovsky Pereulok.

I went up to the one who was commanding, and who was marching in the front ranks. He was a peck marked almost hairless little man with a musical voice.

"Where are you going to?" I asked him.

"Down Brussovsky, can't you hear, the Cadets" are making it hot for our fellows down there.

"How do you know, who ordered you to go there?"

"If we did not know, we would not go: our own fellows have told us, and who can give orders anyway? The officers of our regiment are over there on the side of the Cadets, can't you hear?"

I wrote down the name of the soldier and he afterwards took command of the entire Brussovsky sector.

* * *

On the next day early in the morning, before my table there stood complete with gold epaulettes, a smartly dressed young non-commissioned officer with a little black moustache who said:

"Please give me a job at the front."

"Are you a Bolshevik?"

"Yes."

"What regiment do you belong to?"

"I came here together with the whole of our regiment from Padolsk. I am the only officer who remained with the soldiers. And now we are all at your disposition."

"And what a pity you did not come before. Things are not going well with the cyclist battalion in China Town. We had to send an unknown non-commissioned officer there."

"That does not matter, I can also go there."

"It is not convenient to change now. If you like, you can go to the Nikitskie Vorota. Our position there in in two houses. The Junkers have all the time kept up a steady fire there and this evening they tried to come up and attack."

"Alright then, I'll go there. I will take one or two fellows from our regiment. Here. . . this comrade," the non-commissioned officer opened the door of the headquarters and called a soldier who was standing there; "this comrade will act as liaison with H. Q." said the non-commissioned officer, "I will send him to tell you how things are going on."

"And your name comrade, I asked the non-commissioned officer?"

"Ensign Reutov," he replied.

Comrade Samsonov again tapped off an order on the typewriter and Ensign Reutov, after receiving it, came boldly forward, shook my hand and marched out with a gait of a young fine soldier.

He had hardly gone out when again the same "cyclist" ran in and threw himself on me almost shouting.

"Comrade! Our commander is gone."

"How, where?"

"The devil knows. I only know that the Junkers are making it hot for us on Lubyanka and we can hardly hold out. Send someone."

"Oh hell, this Reutov has only just gone out."

I went to the field telephone. I phoned up the detachment of Red Guards and soldiers which was operating in the town district, coming down from the Sukharevka to Lubyanka with the object of getting onto the Red Square through China Town.

I spoke with Bobinsky and the non-commissioned Ershov, who were at the head of this detachment.

"Where are you," I asked.

"Near the Lubyanka. Moving forward successfully. . . ."

"Link up with the 'cyclists' and take them under your commnnder."

I went off to the "cyclists" myself. They had certainly been having it hot from the cross-fire with the Junkers. There was no general command. Whoever liked was commanding several groups. Running from group to group I told the "cyclist" that he should go through from Lubyanka and join up with the detachment of Bobinsky and Ershov.

* * *

In the evening of the second day, I was again going round to the Moscow Soviet with Comrade Guralov, in order to talk with the soldiers. Suddenly in one of the corridors, I noticed the familiar face of the non-commissioned officer. He was sitting on the floor changing his foot-wear.

"Comrade," I said to him, "why are you here and not in the position with the 'cyclists'?"

The question was also as unexpected to him (the non-commissioned officer had not seen me as I had walked up to him from behind) as a stone dropped from heaven.

The non-commissioned officer jumped up on one leg with one gaiter unwound and muttered:

"The question was there. . . ."

I did not succeed in understanding him as the soldiers who were jostling around replied by concerted guffaws of laughter.

And without malice, but with amused contempt, they arrested the unfortunate non-commissioned officer on the spot and sent him to the Hotel "Dresden."

* * *

Returning to our little room at headquarters after making the round, I found a soldier there who was to have been the liaison between us at H. Q. and Ensign Reutov. This soldier was smothered in mud and taking off his grey fur hat, wiped the sweat that was running in stream from his forehead.

"Non-commissioned officer Reutov is killed," the messenger said to me. "Comrade Reutov commanded, went from one house to the other where our soldiers were stationed. We made a sally out of one house against the Cadets on two occasions. And nothing happened. And just a little while ago he came into the house where our detachment was stationed—on the third floor. A stray bullet got him in the nut. He fell down straight on the spot without a word. The soldiers were on the verge of tears especially our regiment."

And all the time, something was trickling down the face of the narrator towards his chin, both dirt, sweat, and perhaps tears.

The soldiers carried Comrade Reutov's corpse gently away from the fighting zone.

THE END.

* The soldiers called all their enemies "cadets" no matter whether they were Junkers, officers, volunteers, students of any other defenders of the old order.

 It was these that were afterwards burnt by the Junkers. But one of them, we think, has already been restored and the Timiryasev statute erected in the place of the other.

 Now a trade union house (on the Soviet Square) and at this time nearly always occupied by prisoners.

SACCO-VANZETTI MEETING SNAPSHOTS

By CHARLES YALE HARRISON

A hard-boiled mounted cop viewing the enthusiastic demonstration with utter contempt.

* * *

Workers' Party worker arguing with a couple of snap necktie kiskos about the innocence of Sacco and Vanzetti and convincing them to the extent of their purchasing:
2 copies of The DAILY WORKER.
1 copy of Frankfurters book.
2 signatures on the petition.
2 sheepish looks.

* * *

Scott Nearing making an appeal for readers for The DAILY WORKER and being uproariously cheered by the crowd.

* * *

The spirited ovation which greeted Gitlow as he made his appearance on the speaker's stand.

* * *

The contrasted appearance between the vendors of the New Leader (sleek, well dressed, obviously law students breaking into a profitable field—from the ground up), and Rufus, the unofficial Worker sales representative looking more proletarian than the proletariat.

* * *

Scores of pretty little misses and shipping clerks out for the afternoon, all of them paused to look and remained to cheer.

* * *

The look of amazement on the face of a tabloid reporter when a pert little W. P. comrade buttonholed him and compelled him to sign the Sacco and Vanzetti petition.

* * *

A young Irish blue-eyed cop who kept asking "When will this party break, I want to get home—I gotta date with my girl tonight."

* * *

The impromptu demonstration held afterwards outside the offices of the Freiheit. The crowds singing International. The Freiheit staff waving red streamers and loosing a shower of red confetti.

Antheil: Composer of the Machine Age

By A. B. MAGIL

The body of Antheil is short. His straight, hay-colored hair curves obediently over his head. His nose is full and gently upturned at the end. His solemn, firm lips are slightly snarling. The color of his eyes I could not see.

The torso of Antheil bows. The audience applauds, shouts, gesticulates, waves hankerchiefs.

* * *

At Carnegie Hall, New York, on Sunday evening, April 10, George Antheil, the twenty-six year-old Trenton boy composer who had conquered eclectic Paris, hurled his new and defiant music at the standpatters, the pedants, the concert lobbyists, the serious student, the worshippers of his native land.

The standpatters shuddered. Ugh, how barbarous! Many of them left before the concert was over. Others, from their exalted towers in the press, sprinkled the music of Antheil with good-humored condescension.

* * *

The music of Antheil is rigidly contemporaneous. It is rooted firmly in the machine, in jazz, in the mechanical rhythms of our supremely mechanistic age. It is a sophisticated music, but sophistication is its dress, neither flesh nor bone. And its core there springs a massive energy, an overwhelming sense of life.

And the music of Antheil has learned how to laugh, to stick out its tongue and thumb its nose. How much of laughter is there in the music of the past? The austere Beethoven sometimes in the scherzos of his symphonies permitted himself a little laughter, playfully without impudence. Can anyone imagine Brahms laughing?

In his Sonata for Violin, Piano and Drum Antheil laughs a suave, saturated laughter, poking fun at sentimental banalities, the sob melodies of a bygone day.

* * *

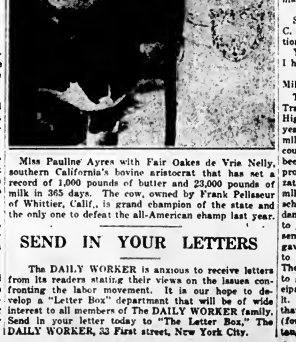
The Jazz Symphony. Negro leaping naked and sardonic, syncopated perpendicularly, without curves. It is jazz ferocious and strong, animal-like, nothing soft, nothing langorous.

* * *

And then the Ballet Mecanique. Antheil's most daring work. No wonder the audience shouted, laughed, jeered, hissed while the great tread of the music plunged on relentlessly. The Ballet Mecanique is a gigantic mechanical chorus, a pounding of mighty hammers of sound. This huge, infinite whirling of wheels, the roar of machinery, the scream of an aeroplane, bells ringing unduly, a monster of sound leaping upon the brain—it is too much for human nerves. Under this insistent tonal attrition, the sublimated maliness and ferocity of the machine age, human nerves give way—they require some psychological exhaust valve.

No wonder the audience shouted, laughed, jeered, hissed. While the bodies of the players at the pianos swayed in cataleptic rhythm and Antheil pumped away darkly at his mechanical piano.

* * *



The music of Antheil is a mass music. This is in contradistinction to the music that has been dominant since Beethoven—the music of personality. The music of Stravainsky is also a mass music, but Stravinsky goes back largely to the past for his inspiration—to primitive sex worship in "Le Sacre de Printemps," to a folk tale in "L'Oiseau de Feu." Antheil's music, however, is an expression, a magnified sublimation of the mechanistic city life of our day.

Both Stravinsky and Antheil have an extraordinary sense of rhythm. But Antheil has gone even further than Stravinsky, his rhythms are more subtly manipulated. He can be gentle or crushing, he can be suave and precise as a whip, he can be treacherously ingratiating.

Compared to the Jazz Symphony, George Gershwin's Concerto in F is sentimental and texturally flabby. Compared to the Ballet Mecanique, Honnegger's impressions of a locomotive, Pacific 231, is a mere mechanical toy.

Antheil sitting at the piano is rapt and inexorable. His hands rise and fall on the keys like cool pistons—plunge and hiss, plunge and hiss. And they beat out a lens, uncompromising music that is swift and terribly alive.

Cow Annexes a Few Records

Miss Pauline Ayres with Fair Oakes de Vrie Nelly, southern California's bovine aristocrat that has set a record of 1,000 pounds of butter and 23,000 pounds of milk in 365 days. The cow, owned by Frank Pellasaur of Whittier, Calif., is grand champion of the state and the only one to defeat the all-American champ last year.

SEND IN YOUR LETTERS

The DAILY WORKER is anxious to receive letters from its readers stating their views on the issues confronting the labor movement. It is our hope to develop a "Letter Box" department that will be of wide interest to all members of The DAILY WORKER family. Send in your letter today to "The Letter Box," The DAILY WORKER, 33 First street, New York City.

With the Young Worker

YOUNG MINERS! FIGHT LIKE HELL FOR VICTORY!

Bituminous miners! You are on strike—150,000 strong—to preserve your wage scale and your living standards which you won after many long struggles in the past. The aim of the operators is to wreck the miners' union and to reduce the miners to a condition of practical slavery.

In this strike the entire life of the union is at stake.

AT THIS MOMENT THE OPERATORS THINK THEY SEE AN OPPORTUNITY TO DESTROY THE UNION COMPLETELY AND MAKE THE COAL INDUSTRY OPEN SHOP.

Despite the fact that the average miner works only part time thruout the year and must support a family and maintain a home, the operators wish to cut your wages. In their offensive to eliminate the union their first attack is at the present wage scale of $7.50 which they wish to reduce by $2.00 per day.

As a giant stride towards wrecking the union, the cry of district agreements has been raised. Unfortunately for the miners this is the desire not only of the operators but has also been expressed by President Lewis. District agreements are only the first step towards complete destruction of the affectiveness of the union as an instrument of struggle on behalf of the coal miners and must be resisted just as vigorously as wage cuts.

Youth In The Mining Industry.

The young miner is an important factor in the mining industry. At an early age you experience the hazards of the industry generally but in addition you concquer the most dangerous jobs in the mine, such as trappers, couplers, spraggers, greasers, trip riders, etc. Accidents are commnon in these jobs and at the same time we find that the jobs you work at receive less wages than your adult brother in the mine.

NUMBER ONE.

NUMBER ONE. The operators are enemies of the miners. They are out to destroy the union and to reduce the wages and worsen your conditions. The miners' strike must be turned into a militant offensive against the operators—weak policies must be replaced by fighting policies.

NUMBER TWO.

NUMBER TWO. In past strikes every force at the command of the operators has been mobilized against the miners, including the government, all the way from the federal government at Washington, D. C., to the local militia. The police, the state constabulary, the militia and even the national troops were mobilized against the miners. Now too, the courts will turn out injunctions and imprison miners for fighting the dirty scabs and for picketing the mines. The miners must appeal to their brothers in the militia.

"Don't Break Our Strike!"

"Don't Shoot Your Brothers!"

NUMBER THREE.

NUMBER THREE. Any attempts on the part of the union offrials or anybody else to disrupt the fighting morale of the strikers by raising the cry of "District agreements." "Work while negotiations are proceeding," etc., must be fought vigorously. The rank and file of the miners themselves must organize RANK AND FILE COMMITTEES to cope with the situation, to consolidate the forces for a 100 per cent strike and conduct a victorious struggle.

How To Win The Strike!

The miners must show thru their actions and activity that they are prepared to resist any attempts coming either from the operators or from Lewis to force a reduction in wages or district agreements which mean a step in the direction of destruction of the union.

Organize The Unorganized.

The fact that so many thousands of miners are unorganized is a standing menace to the wages, hours and conditions of the unionized miners. The only effective way to insure victory is a united front of all miners against the bosses. Not only must the miners demand that their officers institute a campaign for the organization of these non-union miners, but the rank and file themselves, and especially the young miner, must undertake this task.

No District Agreements.

For years the miners have fought district agreements. District agreements mean surrender to the operators. Anyone advocating district agreements must be branded as a traitor to the interests of the miners.

National Unity.

The anthracite miners, altho not immediately affected by this strike must realize that once wages of the bituminous strikers are reduced and the union eliminated, their turn will be next. The anthracite miners must stand solid and give their utmost support to a victorious strike.

Pull Out The Maintenance Men.

The maintenance men are key men in the industry. The union must call out the maintenance men and in this way make the strike 100 per cent effective against the bosses.

International Solidarity.

While the officials of the U. M. W. of A. expressed little solidarity in their strike, the American miners today must appeal to the miners of all countries to join with them in their struggle and, more the slogan, "MINE NO COAL FOR AMERICA WHILE THE STRIKE IS ON!"

The ingresets of all the miners demand an equalization of wages thru the raising of the lower paid jobs to the same level as the higher paid jobs.

As an immediate step towards this equalization of wages the young miners must demand that the union consider raising all jobs at present paying $4.00 and $4.59 per day, to $5.00 and $5.50 per day respectively.

Onward To Victory!

The Young Workers (Communist) League calls upon the young miners to stand solid in the struggle—to be in the forefront and lead onward to victory. The Y. W. L. calls upon all workers—young and old—to stand by the miners in this moment of struggle and to be ready to support them in their struggle to preserve their wages and living conditions as well as their fighting organization.

A 100% Strike!
Organize the Unorganized!
No District Agreements!
Withdraw the Maintenance Men!
No Wage Cuts!
No Arbitration!
Support from the Anthracite Miners!
Onward to Victory!

National Executive Committee,
Young Workers (Communist) League of America.

Line o' Type or Two.

I know a guy named Steve McCruteh
That always helps to put us in Dutch
He works all day and works all night
And hasn't the courage to put up a fight.

Headline in N. Y. Times—Moscow supports organizations of liberal clubs in colleges by subsidies of hundreds of thousands of dollars—"Blah."

The Poor Fish says:

There is nothing that my boss loves more in a young man than loyalty to his employer.

Sign In The Subway: Join the C. M. T. C. and get a month's vacation.

Young Straphanger: "Where did I hear that before?"

Militarism In Our Local High School.

The R. O. T. C. (Reserve Officers Training Corp) in the New Utrecht High School was organized about a year ago with the auspices of two military officers sent to give the course. Since that time there has been an ever increasing amount of propaganda for this organization. On more than one occasion military officers have visited the school and have spoken to the student body at assemblies urging them to join the organization. At one assembly when two officers came, one gave a speech and presented a flag to the R. O. T. C. of N. U. H. S. The other urged the older students to go to the C. M. T. C. Our principal, Dr. Potter, has also spoken of it. He says that it is not compulsory, that it is not for the purpose of war (for what other purpose are students taught to march and drill with an eight pound gun similar to those used in the World War). He also has emphasized the physical benefits to be derived from such training. He has even gone so far as to allow credit towards graduation to any student who should join and attend the bi-weekly meetings of the R. O. T. C. By doing this he has made military training as important as drawing or music. Two hours of drawing a week taken for two years gives a student 1 point towards graduation, a similar amount of time given to military training shall also give a student one point towards graduation as well as any favor that the principal can grant him, so says the principal. So you see military training has been made a subject for study in N. U. H. S. and any student who fails for the propaganda, which is continually going on, can have his school program so arranged that it shall be possible for him to take a course in military training.

There are about one hundred students who have already joined this organization out of about 6000. Even such a small percentage is too much for there are always chances for its growth.

Yet Coolidge speaks of disarmament when such organizations C. M. T. C. and R. O. T. C. (its junior branch) are provided for by the National Defense Act of 1916. As H. W. Fleet Lieutenant Colonel, Infantry says in a letter to Dr. Potter of N. U. H. S. the camps (C. M. T. C. are a part of the National Defense Act, and their primary mission is to build up the manhood of the Nation, on which, in a national emergency the preservation of our institution will rest.

Remember in case of a "National Emergency."

—BEN LITWAK.

HANDS OFF CHINA! WITHDRAW TROOPS AND BATTLESHIPS!

THE DAILY WORKER FIGHTS: FOR THE ORGANIZATION OF THE UNORGANIZED FOR THE 40-HOUR WEEK FOR A LABOR PARTY

THE DAILY WORKER

NATIONAL EDITION

Entered as second-class matter at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Vol. IV. No. 82. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In New York, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside New York, by mail, $6.00 per year. NEW YORK, TUESDAY, APRIL 19, 1927 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 33 First Street, New York, N. Y. Price 3 Cents

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

THE Monday morning papers carried several important and interesting stories. From the point of view of local or nationalist interest Alfred E. Smith's reply to the question whether allegiance to his church might prevent his full allegiance to the government of the United States comes first. Al replied cautiously and cleverly and convincingly. Al is as patriotic as the best of them and more so. Al is right. His allegiance to his church does not conflict with his duty to American capitalism.

ALFRED E. SMITH, whose reply to the leading question referred to, was written by a Jesuit hand, is as loyal to his government as Mussolini the former atheist is to the capitalist class of Italy. Religion has no more to do with the loyalty of a capitalist politician to the system on which he fattens than has the religion of one of Ford's slaves to do with his wage scale. The catholic church is a powerful ally of capitalism, not only here but in all countries. It supported feudalism with equal loyalty but veered around like a yacht under the direction of a good helmsman when it saw that obstinate opposition to the rising capitalist storm would mean disaster.

YET Al Smith may never occupy the white house as president. Were it a question of a show of hands the men and women who like their beer and wine might give him a majority. But there are more votes in the wide open spaces than most people think. And the millions who believe the pope is out to overthrow a perfectly good capitalist government will not vote for Al. And the fat boys in Wall Street don't particularly care. Al may be the wisest available tool on the political horizon but their system is still sound and if four years from the next presidential election the social weather is stormy a popular fellow like Al will be still available barring accidents.

ANOTHER sweet bit of news is the Shanghai dispatch that appeared in the N. Y. World from Vincent Sheean who was Moscow correspondent for the Chicago Tribune until he got himself fired for writing too much of the truth. Sheean spills the chop suey all over Chiang Kai-Shek's imperialist uniform and ties the can to him, politically. According to Sheean, Chiang is a deserter from the Kuomintang, a would-be warlord who that he could ignore the party and get away with it. As it is he got away with several millions of dollars but is lucky if he keeps his head. Practically all the members of the Kuomintang executive are against him and the great majority of the army.

CHIANG-KAI-SHEK staged a fake anti-Bolshevik drive as an excuse to break with the Kuomintang party and become the tail that wagged the dog. But the Chinese masses know the Communists are the steel rod that run them their revolutionary organization and keep it firm in its purpose. In order to lead the favor of the masses Chiang has to mouth anti-imperialist slogans much to his disgust. Now he cannot cease being imperialist and continue to agitate the Chinese against the feudal sys-

(Continued on Page Three)

MINERS RESENT SUPPRESSION OF MASS PICKETING

Local Union Demands Right to Hold Meeting

NEW EAGLE, Pa., April 18.—The coal and iron police (company police operating under sanction of the state) and the Pennsylvania state constabulary continue to break up picket lines. The miners as continually reform them.

There is considerable resentment growing here at the evident intention of the state and county officials to destroy the union, and feeling grows for a labor party, which may stop the use of state power entirely on the side of the coal operators, as at present it is evidently used.

Pass Resolutions

Local Union No. 280, of the United Mine Workers of America, has passed and made public a resolution which expresses the feeling of the working class section of this community, against the action of the sheriff in issuing an order against picketing. The miners feel that to permit the scabs to operate in numbers of any amount, and to allow whole companies of coal and iron police to parade the highways, and at the same time to permit pickets to go in couples only, under so much as three together, is putting it on rather strong.

Fight For Living

Their resolution points out that the miners fight for nothing more than a living wage and bearable working conditions, and says:

"Whereas, the sheriffs of Allegheny and Washington Counties posted notices throughout the counties prohibiting picketing of the scab mines except in groups of not more than two, and

Resolved, that we Local Union 280 of the United Mine Workers of America of New Eagle, Pa., protest against this action of the sheriffs of Allegheny and Washington counties and request that their order be withdrawn and that the scab mines be allowed to be picketed by the union men on strike, and be it further

Resolved, that mass meetings be allowed to be held by the unions.

Test Trans-Atlantic Plane.

MITCHEL FIELD, N. Y., April 18.—The tri-motored biplane in which Lieutenant Commander Noel Davis expects to attempt a trans-Atlantic flight between New York and Paris, left Mitchel Field at 12:20 today for Langley Field, Virginia, where a series of tests are to be made to determine the plane's fitness.

Kiwar Pasha, Premier Of Egypt, and Entire Cabinet Leave Office

LONDON, April 18. The Egyptian Government, headed by Premier Kiwar Pasha, resigned today, according to an exchange telegraph dispatch from Cairo.

The Kiwar Pasha Ministry, in which Kiwar Pasha, held the portfolios of personal, foreign minister and minister of the interior, was formed March 13, 1925.

German Communist Youth And Red Front Fighters Meet Ruthenberg Ashes

HAMBURG, April 18.—J. Louis Engdahl, conveying the bronze urn containing the ashes of Charles E. Ruthenberg for burial in front of the Kremlin wall in Moscow, was met on landing here by a delegation from the Young Communists' congress and the Red Front organizations. A reception takes place today in Berlin.

"Forward" Crimes To Be Related at 3 Meetings Sunday

Spokesmen for the American and Jewish labor movement in New York will tell how the Jewish Daily Forward has been betraying the interests of the workers during many years in three separate halls next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock—The Central Opera House, 67th St. and Third Ave.; New Star Casino, 107th St., and Park Ave.; and Manhattan Lyceum, 66 East 4th St.

Will Expose "Forward."

Precisely at that hour, too, J. Ramsay MacDonald, just republished by the influential Independent Labor Party of Great Britain, will be the "guest of honor" of the "Forward" which is celebrating the 30th year of its existence.

MacDonald, who declined to comment on the notorious Sacco-Vanzetti decision on the pretext that he doesn't want to "interfere in American internal politics," has been brought here by the "Forward" and the reactionary trade-union officials and socialists to assist the white guard, recently, in the campaign to glorify treason to the working class.

Indifferent to Verdict.

MacDonald's coolness toward the fate of the two framed-up Italian workers is all the more remarkable in the face of the protests against the verdict sent to Gov. Fuller of Massachusetts by practically all leaders of his own party in the British parliament.

A large number of speakers will offer additional information by giving exact details of the consistent treachery of the "Forward" in its relation to the workers of America, and particularly of New York.

Many Crimes Listed.

The indictment against the yellow sheet presided over by Abraham Cahan, contains a large number of important counts. Included among them are: (1) the treachery to cloakmakers in 1912 by the "Forward"—the "Bisnow affair."; (2) the "Hourwich affair" in 1913-14; the General Strike of 1916; the struggle of the operators in 1917-18; the campaign against the waist-makers in 1920; the campaign against joint agreements in 1922; in the campaign of the Joint Action Committee in 1923; the general strike of 1926, the treachery of the "Forward" toward the furriers during the strike of 1926.

Behind Move to Jail Gold.

This culminated in the present attempt to railroad Ben Gold and the 10 other leaders of the furriers to prison, together with 10 other active

(Continued on Page Two)

"Big Four" Insurance Directors Elected by Fraud

ARTICLE VIII.—PAST EVENTS OF INSURANCE EXPOSE.

The DAILY WORKER herewith continues its expose of the "industrial" (weekly payment) insurance trust. Previous articles have dealt with the methods employed by the "Big Four" in misusing "control" assets to the benefit of the banks which operate hand in glove with this powerful combine. The Big Four is composed of the Metropolitan, Prudential, John Hancock and the Colonial Life Insurance Companies. Names prominent in financial and government circles have figured largely in the series. Charles Evans Hughes, Governor Smith, Supt. of Insurance James A. Beha, Charles M. Schwab, Alanson B. Houghton and others are among those present.

By CHARLES VALE HARRISON.

Haley Fiske, the venerable president of the gigantic Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, recently made a most remarkable discovery. He has come to the conclusion that his 24 million policyholders are all capitalists. He says so in a pamphlet to his defrauded customers entitled, "Your Rights as a Capitalist."

Mr. Fiske starts his opus on the newer economics with this statement of fact:

"The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has in force more than 35 million policies, insuring 24 million individual lives—one-fifth of the population of the United States and Canada."

This statement is perfectly true and serves to show to what extent the fraud of industrial life insurance has been perpetuated upon the worker-insuring public in this country and Canada.

If the reader pays for his life or endowment on insurance weekly basis he is a defrauded victim of the "Big Four." In view of the fact that there are 40 million weekly payment policyholders throughout the country there is little chance that he is not a victim.(Continued on Page Three)

15 Workers Join Communist Party At Passaic Meet

(Special to the Daily Worker).

PASSAIC, N. J., April 18.—Albert Weisbord addressed a meeting of the labor campaign workers last night at the Workers' Home, 27 Dayton Ave., following it by a speech at the Garden Place, where he spoke from the open-air platform as the capitalist candidates.

Weisbord was given a reception at the Workers' Home last Saturday evening by the Passaic branch of the Workers (Communist) Party. He spoke on the role of the party in the strike declaring that it was due to the impetus given by the Workers Party that the strike was carried on so successful.

Emil Garos, local organizer of the party presided. The other speakers were Simon Smelkenson and Simon Bambach, Weisbord's associate candidates in the campaign for city commissioners; Irving Freiman, Felix Panerisel and Tom Garal. Fifteen workers joined the Workers (Communist) Party at the reception.

ANOTHER REFUGEE

Decisive Defeat of MacDonald Forecasts Defeat of Reaction in the American Labor Movement

To the list of reactionary refugees fleeing from the wrath of the workers they have incensed and finding asylum in imperialist America the name of Ramsay MacDonald must be added.

The working class section of the Independent Labor Party rose in its wrath and repudiated MacDonald and his policies by the astounding vote of 312 to 118. The verdict of the working class delegates to the Independent Labor Party conference must be given the utmost consideration by the American workers. It marks a new phase in the development of the British labor movement, it expresses the rapid swing of the left among the masses which has been going on since the general strike and which now has given to the whole world, by its repudiation of MacDonald, notification that it intends to purge the ranks of labor of the leadership responsible for the betrayal of the miners and the whole labor movement.

The main indictment of MacDonald seems to have been made by Fenner Brockway, secretary of the I. L. P., who at the Brussels Conference Against Colonial Oppression, represented the party officially.

Brockway charged MacDonald with aiding British imperialism and to anyone who has been following the MacDonaldites' policy it is clear that the late leader of the I. L. P. has been of the greatest aid to the tory campaign of aggression in China.

The Daily Telegraph's Peking correspondent was able to report, for instance, that MacDonald's utterances "earn approbation here" and the same imperialist sheet could say editorially that "We are able to quote MacDonald with satisfaction."

On January 21, when the decision of the imperial military conferences to send warships and troops to China had been made, and when troops were already embarking on their mission of slaughter, MacDonald endeavored to quiet mass protest by writing in the official organ of the British labor party, the Daily Herald:

"It may be assumed that there is no intention whatever of any Western or foreign Eastern power fighting the Canton army. It is not there the danger lies."

MacDonald (in company with other reformist leaders of his party) gave unqualified endorsement to the Chinese memorandum of the foreign office—a typical example of slimy British imperialist diplomacy. MacDonald indulged in exclamatory lyricism in praising this document—a document which was part of a foreign office maneuver to halt mass protest and gain time for gunboat movements and troop shipments. Admirable . . . admirable . . . excellent," said MacDonald.

During his term as premier, MacDonald sent gunboats to China and wrote an official letter to the Indian Nationalist

(Continued on Page Two)

NEWS IN BRIEF

Earl Carroll Improves.

GREENVILLE, S. C., April 18.—Earl Carroll, New York Theatrical producer, regained consciousness this morning, according to his physicians.

Carroll, who collapsed here last Wednesday enroute to the Atlanta Federal Prison to serve a year and a day for perjury, has been conscious at times for several days.

Cyclone in Sydney.

SYDNEY, April 18.—Two persons are dead, three injured, and the lives of 150 passengers aboard the S. S. Riverina were endangered as a result of a cyclonic gale which accompanied the torrential rains sweeping New South Wales for the last three days. The ship was blown ashore west of the Gabo Islands. Its position is dangerous.

Hang Man to Settle Argument.

DELAND, Fla., April 18.—Charlie Brown, alias Pisselli, was hanged in the county jail yard here today for the murder of Hotard Usher, Daytona Beach taxicab driver.

Sheriff Stone, after the execution, wired Brown's mother, Mrs. Rigsio, in Brooklyn, N. Y., to learn what disposition she wanted made of the body.

It marked the last legal hanging in Volusia county and probably in the state. Several times Brown narrowly missed electrocution in the state prison at Raiford, each time a stay being granted on the ground that at the time he was sentenced to die in the electric chair, hanging was the legal medium of execution in Florida.

Central Labor Union Acts on Globerman's Candidacy This Week

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 18. The law and legislative committee of the Central Labor Council announced they will recommend to that body that the candidacy of Sam Globerman for Board of Education be endorsed, despite the fact that he is known as a Communist.

It is believed the officials take this course and intend to fight against the endorsement on the floor of the council itself, rather than by an unfavorable committee report, for too many unions are behind him which they cannot ignore, as they have a weather eye on the coming June elections for new council officers. They are still trying to get unions to withdraw the endorsement of Globerman so as to strengthen their own position before the next meeting of the Central Labor Council.

Fought By Buzzel.

The secretary of the Central Labor Council, J. W. Buzzel, is desperately seeking to prevent the endorsement of Globerman. He appeared before the Carpenters District Council last Monday, and charged Globerman with being a member of the Communist Party; he submitted proof in the form of minutes which a stool-pigeon of the police department undoubtedly got for him, and attempted to get

(Continued on Page Two)

CHIANG KAI-SHEK ISOLATED FROM MAJORITY OF KUOMINTANG PARTY

Treachery Causes Sun's Family, Nationalist Leaders, Civilians and Soldiers to Oppose

SHANGHAI, April 18.—General Chiang Kai-Shek, right wing Nationalist general, is reported to be practically isolated in his attempt to split the Kuomintang.

Although no news of the much-advertised "anti-Bolshevik" conference at Nanking has yet reached this city, it is confidently predicted that by the end of this week, Chiang's ambition will lead him into open war not only with the Northerners but with the majority of the Nationalist civilians, a large portion of the Nationalist army and practically all of the Kuomintang leaders. Whether or not Chiang will openly ally himself with the Northern war lords is a problem for speculation here.

Leaders Oppose Chiang.

That none of the leaders of the Kuomintang attended the Nanking conference has been definitely ascertained. Not only the Communists in the Kuomintang, but Sun Fo, son of Sun Yat-Sen, Eugene Chen, Nationalist foreign minister, Mrs. Sun Yat-Sen, T. V. Soong, Nationalist minister of finance and Wang Chin Wei, Sun Yat-Sen's disciple, have denounced the Nanking conference as an attempt to split the Nationalist movement.

Chiang Kai-Shek, who has represented the interests of the wealthy bankers and industrialists in the movement, has been led by personal ambition to betray his party, it is believed. Since November Chiang has received more than $30,000,000 from the Nationalist treasury for his northern campaign for which he has rendered no accounting.

The attempts of the Nationalist leaders to curb his all-embracing governmental activities and money offered him by native industrialists for suppressing labor unions are reported to have been the causes of his desertion.

Executes Professor.

The greatest indignation has been aroused here by reports from Nanking that Hou Shao-hiu, a professor in Shanghai University, was executed in Nanking on April 9th at Chiang's orders. Professor Hou was well known for his left wing sympathies.

In the meantime Chiang Kai-Shek is continuing his raids on labor unions. Swasow reporting raids by his troops resulting in the arrest of the chairman of the General Labor Union and ten other leaders. Reports

(Continued on Page Two)

Reed Gets Indigestion; Cause of Adjournment of the Ford-Sapiro Suit

DETROIT, April 18.—A twenty-four hour adjournment was taken at the $1,000,000 Ford-Sapiro libel suit in federal court today because of the illness of Senator James A. Reed, chief of Henry Ford's counsel.

Reed was stricken with acute indigestion on a train nearing Detroit, as he returned from a week-end trip to Washington.

The senator was hurried to a hotel where physicians were called to attend him.

Counsel for Aaron Sapiro, so-called cooperative king, agreed to the adjournment.

Reed has cross-examined Sapiro for the last two weeks.

U. S. Steel Evades Tax By Issuing Millions of New Stock Dividends

HOBOKEN, N. J., April 18. Stockholders of the United States Steel Corporation, at the annual meeting of the corporation here today, approved the proposed increase in capitalization by voting to issue 25,032,210 shares of par tax free common stock, to be distributed as a 40 per cent dividend to present shareholders.

The officials of the corporation presented proxies for 2,682,235 shares of preferred stock and 3,047,883 shares of common stock. After the distribution of the new shares, the steel corporation will have outstanding 7,333,210 shares of $100-par common stock.

New Japanese Premier To Be Named Tomorrow

TOKYO, Japan, April 18.—A new Japanese premier will be appointed Wednesday, it was expected today, following the resignation of Heijiro Wakatsuki and his entire cabinet.

Until the appointment of a successor, Wakatsuki will continue to serve as premier.

The resignation of the Wakatsuki cabinet followed action of the privy council in vetoing relief plans for the Bank of Formosa.

HIGH CHURCHMEN DEMAND QUIZ ON SACCO, VANZETTI

Labor Thruout Country Insists on Freedom

BOSTON, April 18.—Bishop William Lawrence of the local Episcopal diocese and four other prominent Bostonians today joined in asking Gov. Alvan T. Fuller to name a commission to inquire into all the vital facts of the case of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, friendless Italian workers now facing possible death in the electric chair.

Included among the signers with Bishop Lawrence were Roland W. Boyden, F. W. Tassig, Henry J. Burr, and Charles T. Carter, Jr.

Boston Labor Demands Quiz

Organized labor of Boston has joined in the demand for the freedom of Sacco and Vanzetti with a resolution just adopted by the Central Labor Union here calling upon Gov. Fuller to stay their sentence and to have a commission appointed to review the evidence in the case, and to free them if the committee's findings favor the defendants.

Resolutions Pour in on Governor

DOWELL, Ill., April 18.—Resolutions have been adopted by Local 376, United Mine Workers of America, demanding the "unconditional release" of Sacco and Vanzetti.

EAGLE, Pa., April 18.—Local 1570 of the United Mine Workers of America today unanimously adopted a resolution calling upon Gov. Fuller of Massachusetts to give full and immediate freedom to Sacco and Vanzetti. It also stated that "great injustice has been done not only to those two men and their families, but also to the entire labor movement of this country."

CLEVELAND, April 18.—Resolutions were last night adopted by the Cleveland local of the American Negro Labor Congress condemning the verdict in the case of Sacco and Vanzetti, and demanding their immediate release.

3 Million Chinese To Be Represented At Labor Congress

BERLIN, April 18. (U.P.) Three million members of labor unions will be represented in the 1927 trade union congress in China, according to Chen Kuen, general secretary of the Chinese Seamen's Union, who delivered a lecture in Berlin on the position and tendencies of this movement.

"On May 1, 1921," he said "the first trade union congress was attended by 160 delegates representing 200 unions of some 300,000 members. At the second congress, in May, 1925, the trade unions had a membership of 540,000. This congress was followed by the founding of the All-Chinese Trade Union Center. When the third congress was held in 1926 the delegates represented 1,200,000. This year's congress will represent 3,000,000 members.

With R. I. L.?

"The All-Chinese Trade Union Center is affiliated with the revolutionary Red International of Labor Union. It has not the slightest sympathy with pacifist or reformist principles. However, a united front including all the workers and the bourgeoisie is absolutely necessary at the present moment."

This statement was made before it became evident that General Chiang Kai-Shek, backed by the southern Chinese merchants and middle class in general, would repudiate the radical aims of the All-Chinese Trade Union Center and seek to crush the growing power of the trade unions in Shanghai, Canton and other cities.

DOWNFALL OF MacDONALD PRESAGES COLLAPSE OF REACTIONARIES IN AMERICAN LABOR UNIONS

(Continued from Page One)

movement which was more brutal, arrogant and threatening than those of his tory predecessors.

The repudiation of MacDonald is therefore a repudiation of all agents of imperialism in the British labor movement.

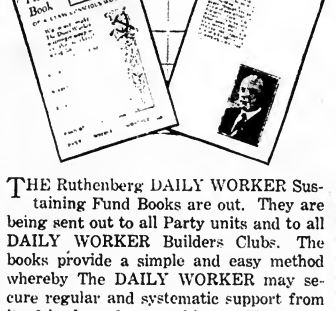
The second important charge made against MacDonald was his opposition to the wage policy of the labor movement. The I. L. P. has gone on record for a blanket 20 per cent increase in wages. MacDonald says nothing about a wage increase but talks glibly about the necessity of "stabilizing" British industry.

MacDonald was for the Samuels report which in reality was based on a wage reduction for the miners and his denunciation of Cook and other leaders of the miners centers around their opposition to the Samuels recommendations.

The I. L. P., estimated to have 50,000 members, is the dominant force in the British labor party. Inside of it has developed a left wing, having close connections with the working class in general and the trade unions. It has opposed MacDonald's warfare on the Communists and the National Minority Movement and in the bitter struggle which followed the sabotage of the Scarborough anti-imperialist resolution and the exclusion of Communists following the Liverpool conference of the Labor Party, it has secured a majority. It represents the mass reaction to the pressure of imperialist policy at home and abroad and is eloquent testimony of the magnificent work of the British Communist Party in the labor movement.

The defeat of MacDonald, administered at a time and in a manner which convinces one with a knowledge of the tradition of the British labor movement—its toleration for opposition opinion and desire to let everyone be heard—that the intention of the majority of the I. L. P. delegates was to dramatize their repudiation of his leadership—will give new hope and energy to the left wing in the United States which is facing the heaviest attack in its history.

MacDonald enjoyed almost unexampled prestige at one time. His position seemed to be unassailable. He raved and ranted against the Communists and the left wing and urged their expulsion in the name of "democracy." He was powerful and clever.



But he espoused the cause of the ruling class against the working class and the working class has cast him out to find refuge in the arms of his masters.

Reactionary labor officialdom, just as does the capitalist system it serves, creates the conditions, and the movement, which destroys it, providing there is a revolutionary party to expose it and organize the masses for struggle against their betrayers.

This is the reason why the MacDonalds fight the Communist Party of Great Britain. This is the reason the Sigmans, Wolls, Greens and Cahans fight the Communist Party of America. They know that their acts of treachery cannot be concealed from the workers nor all revolt crushed as long as the Communist Party lives and carries out its historical tasks.

MacDonald has passed. The Greens, Wolls, Sigmans and Cahans will pass from the scene in America under the pressure of a disillusioned and wrathful working class.

Ruthenberg Sustaining Fund BOOKS ARE READY

THE Ruthenberg DAILY WORKER Sustaining Fund Books are out. They are being sent out to all Party units and to all DAILY WORKER Builders Clubs. The books provide a simple and easy method whereby The DAILY WORKER may secure regular and systematic support from its friends and sympathizers. The funds thus collected will be used to build up our paper, to cover the cost of adding new features, to attract new writers, and to meet the expenses of the trial we are facing against the attack of various patriotic societies. See your local DAILY WORKER Agent. Be sure you have a book. Join the Ruthenberg Sustaining Fund.

DAILY WORKER
33 First Street,
New York, N. Y.

Inclosed is my contribution of

..... dollars .... cents to the Ruthenberg Sustaining Fund for a stronger and better DAILY WORKER and for the defense of our paper. I will pay the same amount regularly every .....

Name .....

Address .....

City .....

State .....

Attach check or money order.

"Forward," MacDonald Both in Bad Fix

(Continued from Page One)

cloakmakers by the "Forward," in cooperation with the bureaucrats in the American Federation of Labor.

A huge mass of evidence will be offered in addition to these general accusations by the speakers at the three counter-demonstrations to the "Forward" circus to be held next Sunday.

Will Tell Paper's History.

How the paper which was built up by the pennies of the workers of this city betrayed them in one situation after another will be related by the spokesmen of the militant trade-unions, by Jewish writers who have exposed from time to time the prostitution of the yellow sheet, and by prominent leaders of the American trade union left wing revolutionary movement, represented by the Workers (Communist Party.

Many Speakers.

The speakers at the three meetings on Sunday which are expected to draw thousands of New York workers include Moissaye J. Olgin, editor of "The Hammer," Jewish Communist Monthly; Shachno Epstein, editor of "The Freiheit," Jewish Communist daily; P. Yudlah, labor editor of "The Freiheit"; Louis Hyman, manager of the Joint Board of the cloak and dressmakers' union; Ben Gold, manager of the Joint Board of the furriers (if he is released from jail by that time); Sasha Zinmerman.

Rose Wortis, Julius Portnoy, A. Gross, S. Liebowitz, S. Liptzen, Ben Gitlow, Dr. A. Mindel, N. Pollack, Bertram D. Wolfe, William W. Weinstone, William W. Dunne, editor of The DAILY WORKER, Alexander Trachtenberg, J. Boruchowitz, J. Murmar, Dr. Caspe, A. Zazar.

"Forward", MacDonald, Allies of Imperialism.

There will also be representatives of the Chinese and Indian workers. Members of the rank and file at the various halls will be invited to state their experiences from the floor.

The general tone of the meeting is expected to be that of intense opposition to the present imperialistic attitude which MacDonald, his lieutenants, the "Forward" crowd, are following toward the oppressed colonial peoples throughout the world.

Big Passenger Traffic.

Passenger traffic on the New York, Westchester & Boston Railway during March broke all previous records for the month and contributed to a record-breaking first quarter, it was reported today by Leverett S. Miller, President.

In March 1,044,570 passengers were carried, which by comparison with the 885,599 carried during the month in 1926 was a gain of 158,720 or 17.92 per cent.

Leave For Court Fight.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Senators King (D) of Utah, and La-Follette (R) of Wisconsin, left here today for Philadelphia, to participate in the court fight in Philadelphia, in which the Ilced Campaign Fund Committee of the Senate is trying to get control of Pennsylvania ballots in the last senatorial election. Both are members of the Senate Investigating Committee.

Los Angeles Labor for Globerman, Communist

(Continued from Page One)

the carpenters body to withdraw their endorsement of Globerman, but as he succeeded in getting, was the election of an investigation committee to look into the charges.

Never Denied Membership.

Globerman issued a statement that he has never denied being a Communist, and he was well-known as such in the local labor movement. He charges that the labor officials are attempting to raise a red issue because they have no other way of opposing an independent labor candidate who is running on a labor platform and has been endorsed as such by many unions. They are lining up with the police department and the Los Angeles Times, anti-labor sheet, in an attempt to frame up a militant candidate. To this end, the law and legislative committee of the Central Labor Council hauled Wm. Schneiderman, campaign manager, before the committee, questioned him as to his Communist affiliations, and cited the charges made by a reporter of the Los Angeles Times that Globerman was not a citizen. They evidently fear the results of a test vote in the council on the question of his endorsement.

Form Committee.

Last Wednesday night, a meeting of delegates representing several large unions organized a Trade Union Program Committee whose avowed purpose is to "drive corruption out of the labor movement." With this slogan they are preparing to oust the Buzzel machine in May 3 election for officers, and are seeking to support a progressive and left wing delegate to the Central Labor Council. At this date, it is difficult to say whether this opposition group represents only another set of reactionaries or whether there are honest progressive elements among them. It is reported that several prominent officials who were active in the Labor Party of 1923, which was knifed by the Horn-Buzzel machine that they are now fighting, took part in this opposition caucus.

Coolidge Snaps at Hoover; Won't Oust Kellogg for Rival

WASHINGTON, April 18. (FP)—"Secretary of State Kellogg is not going to resign, and even if he should resign Mr. Hoover will not be made Secretary of State."

Behind that political bomb, hurled from the White House on the afternoon of April 16, is the petit-up irritation of Calvin Coolidge toward a member of his cabinet whose name has been mentioned more and more frequently, in the past three months, as the probable successor to the unfortunate and unpopular head of the cabinet.

No Useless Lies

The Spokesman did go on to say that Hoover had been one of the most ardent supporters of the Chinese policy pursued by Kellogg, and that in any case the President does not permit a cabinet officer to interfere with the running of another department by the head of that department—that Kellogg is running the State Department, subject only to the approval of his acts by Coolidge. But his denial that there was a split in the cabinet on the Chinese policy, between Kellogg and Hoover, was not convincing.

Hoover Criticizes

It is notorious in Washington that Hoover has for months been criticizing Kellogg, from the standpoint of American foreign trade. He has been telling his subordinates and friends that the Mexican and Nicaraguan aggressions have been too costly in the ill-will of all of Latin America.

He has been reported as arguing that the American note to the Chinese Nationalists should never have been made the same as the notes of Britain, France, Japan and Italy. Hoover has spoken privately in the tone of a man anxious to get into the State Department, to show the world how to get the maximum business advantage out of diplomacy and naval power.

Cal Suspects

But Coolidge does not trust Hoover. He looks upon his ambition as pointing to the presidency. Coolidge is not through with that job. He considers any attempt by a cabinet member to get into the presidential race, so long as Coolidge seems to be a candidate, to be intratitude if not downright treachery. Hence the sudden ill-tempered blast at Hoover.

Now come the anti-Coolidge Republican regulars with a fitting reply. In deep confidence they say to the press that Cal is about to "get his" in the form of an open letter from a group of them, asking him to say where he stands on the third term issue. Nicholas Murray Butler raised that objection some time ago, and National Chairman William Butler was obliged to tour the country to flatten it out. But it is coming back as a challenge.

The Atlantic Monthly forced Gov. Al Smith to make a reply to the question as to whether Smith, if elected president, would permit his religious ties as a Catholic to influence his duty under the Constitution in dealing with Mexico. Smith is about to publish a direct answer to this challenge. The anti-third term Republicans believe that their letter, when published, will compel Coolidge to admit that he is trying to get a third term and that he disapproves of the two-term limit on presidents, or else that he is not going to run next year.

Consider Coolidge Thru

Whether the fine hand of Herbert Hoover is behind this group is a matter for speculation. Sen. Moses of New Hampshire may be one of the promoters, and former Sen. Wadsworth of New York may be another. Dawes will be pleased when the letter comes out. So will Nick Longworth and Frank Lowden. All of these hard-boiled politicians feel that Coolidge should step aside and give them a chance to show how well they can carry out Morgan policies.

Not Too Far West

Coolidge is sufficiently disturbed by the drift of party intrigue to be unwilling to go very far west this summer. His choice of a "western" summer vacation has narrowed down to Minnesota, Wisconsin or Michigan, according to the last inspired rumors. He will not see the Black Hills nor the Rockies. And since the political garbage stirred up by his new inquiry into the Schall senatorial election has tainted the air in Minnesota, it appears reasonably sure that the summer White House will not be located within 150 miles of the Twin Cities.

Farm propaganda will be carried on during the summer by Sen. McNary of Oregon, who now is thought to be considering an offer of the secretaryship of agriculture, to replace Jardine. The latter has been a sad spoiler, and will not be missed when he leaves Washington. If McNary goes into the Coolidge cabinet, he will have to stop talking about his bill for farm relief which Coolidge vetoed with scorn and ridicule.

Hang Crape On Vare's Door.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(FP)—Mm. S. Vare, claiming to be senator from Pennsylvania, has been much upset by discovering crape hung over the door of the office room he now occupies in the Senate office building. Morning after morning the black emblems have reappeared, and no trace of the identity of the jokes has been found.

250,000 Acres to Jewish Settlers, Is Soviet Grant

MOSCOW, April 18.—Over 100,000 hectares of land were allotted to Jewish settlers in 1926, about 50,000 hectares in Crimea and the rest over 50,000 hectares in Ukraine. The number of Jews who settled in the farms in 1926 reached 6,008 families, 3,566 of which settled in Ukraine. Altogether 10,229 Jewish families were settled on land during the last two years.

On the newly allotted lands there was built, in 1926, with State funds, as well as funds supplied by public organizations and by the settlers themselves, 1,517 houses and 261 wells were dug out, while more than 300 hectares was planted with vine.

On an average, an area of 8.8 hectares was sown by each family.

Nerve System Is Seat of Disease, Professor Claims

LENINGRAD, Mar. 20.—(By Mail)—Professor Speransky, who works in the laboratory of Academician Pavlov, has made an important discovery referring to the study of the causes of diseases of the organism. He introduced vaccines—antidiphtheritic and anti-scarlet fever—into the brain of a sick organism, at the same time taking spinal liquid from the vertebral column.

After Effects

After performing experiments on animals professor Speransky inoculated into the brain of children suffering from a heavy form of scarlet fever anti-scarlatina vaccine in doses of from four to eight grammes. These children recovered.

Professor Speransky has come to the conclusion that the disease infecting the organism is always seated in the central nervous system. The ailment of local organs—lungs, throats, stomach—is only the external manifestation of the nervous disease. Therefore the struggle against any disease must be directed into the domain of the nervous system and the brain.

Workers Party Calls On All to Work for Passaic Labor Ticket

The Workers (Communist) Party, New York District Organization has issued the following statement to all party units on the coming election in Passaic, N. J.:

Dear Comrades:

"We wish to call your attention to the election campaign which has opened in Passaic, N. J. and which will run up to May 15. For this election campaign for commissioners of Passaic, the Party has put up nominations for commissioners which include Albert Weisbord, Simon Bamhach and Simon Smelkinson.

"The other candidates running on the capitalist ticket are A. Preiskel, the police commissioner who was responsible for the violence against the strikers and also another candidate who is a prominent manufacturer, running a shop with non-union labor.

Not An Ordinary Campaign

"This campaign is not an ordinary election campaign. With the nomination of Albert Weisbord, the fight takes on a struggle to build the union, against unemployment and against the violence of the police and an agitation for the need of a Labor Party, not only in Passaic but thruout the country.

"We ask that all units and all members give maximum support to this campaign which will be very short but very intense. We are distributing contribution lists for the campaign which we enclose herewith. We ask that you collect for this campaign in your shops and send it in to the party office. The importance of the campaign is seen in the fact that about 4,000 workers turned out for the first meeting of the campaign and greeted with joy the nomination of the candidates on the Party ticket.

"Do your utmost for this campaign."

Fights to Hang Boy.

JEFFERSON, Ohio, April 18.—Completion of the state's case against Floyd Hewitt, 18-year-old youth on trial here for the murder of Fred Brown, Jr., 5, by Tuesday night was indicated today, as the prosecutor battled desperately to obtain admission of a second signed statement purporting to have been made by Hewitt as evidence. Hewitt is also under indictment for the murder of Mr. Fred Brown, the mother of the child.

The alleged "second confession" was made in the county jail here, after Hewitt had been brought here from Conneaut.

Na Snyder Jurymen Yet.

LONG ISLAND CITY, N. Y., April 18.—Fifty talesman was examined today on the murder trial of Mrs. Ruth Snyder and her lover, Henry Judd Gray, accused of beating the woman's husband, Albert Snyder, a magazine art editor, to death, and at adjournment not a single juror was obtained, giving rise to the belief that it may require a week to obtain a jury to hear the case.

Court had been in session from 10.09 a. m. until 4.38 p. m. with an hour out for lunch.

Chiang Isolates Himself Of Party Membership

(Continued from Page One)

add that many were killed in the raids.

Protest Against Raids.

Protesting against the labor-smashing tactics of Chiang Kai-Shek, workers at Kiukiang are holding monster parades.

Smash Anti-Imperialist Meeting.

A huge anti-imperialist demonstration, which was to have taken place at Hongkong on Sunday, was forestalled by Li Chai-sum, right wing commander.

Nationalists Attack Pukow.

Nationalist forces have surrounded Shantung troops at Pukow and heavy fighting is in progress, according to reports received here tonight.

The Shantung forces are putting up a stiff fight and are shelling portions of Nanking, but the Nationalists claim that the Shantung forces will be forced to capitulate soon.

Capture 4,000.

Four thousand northern soldiers, captured in fighting between Pukow and Pengpu, arrived today from Nanking. Nine thousand others will arrive later. Nationalist military chiefs said.

Nanking dispatch reported the capture of Pengpu by the Cantonese.

The 4,000 prisoners were trapped in an enveloping movement carried out by the Nationalists moving from the Anhwei district several days ago.

Nationalist leaders are planning to send all the prisoners to Fukian later enrolling them in the Southern army.

French police boarded the steamship Chenoneeaux and arrested five Chinese Communists.

* * *

Report Move Against Chiang.

LONDON, April 18.—The Hankow government has sent 7,500 troops to Kiukiang to meet any hostile force that Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek might move against the Hankow-controlled branch of the Southern army, said a Central News dispatch from Shanghai today.

The Fighting Marines.

A number of United States sailors, British soldiers, French marines and Dutch sailors staged an international free-for-all battle in Nanmu's cafe in the international settlement last night.

Bottles, tables, chairs and sticks flew freely, and the interior of the cafe was wrecked before military riot-squads from the various contingents finally restored order.

There were no serious casualties. The cause of the row was not determined.

* * *

Delay Note.

WASHINGTON, April 18. The American government was still undecided today whether to make common cause with other foreign powers in dealing with Nationalist China's note on the Nanking outrage, or act alone.

Secretary of State Kellogg announced that the state department is in communication with Minister MacMurray in China.

Dispatches from Peking state that the representatives of the five powers regard Eugene Chen's request for an international investigation of the Nanking affair as "unsatisfactory."

36 Gunboats At Hankow.

The imperialist powers have distributed their troops and warships with a view to open war against China. Thirty-six foreign warships have their guns trained on Hankow, the present seat of the Nationalist government. These include thirteen Japaneses, eleven British, seven American, three French and two Italian ships. Others war vessels are "patrolling" the Yangtse between Shanghai and Hankow.

Approximately thirty thousand imperialist troops are stationed at Shanghai, while other large forces are entrenched at Hankow and Tientsin.

* * *

Charge To Leave.

PEKING, April 18.—The Soviet Union Charge D'Affaires, who was recalled as a result of the recent raid upon the Soviet embassy compound, advised the Peking foreign office that he will depart for Moscow tomorrow, accompanied by a large portion of the embassy staff.

Chang Continues Raids.

Chang Tso Lin, Manchurian warlord, is continuing his persecution of Nationalist sympathizers. His officials carry on raids on students and workers' organizations, and severely restrict the activities of citizens of the Soviet Union. Chang Tso-Lin, it is reported, is preventing Russians from moving from one town to another.

* * *

British Prepare For War.

CANTON, April 18.—In spite of repeated declarations of authorities, Kwantung province that all necessary measures will be taken to protect life and property of foreigners and that no trouble will be allowed foreign consuls instructed foreigners to move to Shamteen (foreign quarter Canton).

There is a sharp contrast between calm reigning Chinese city and Shameen where barricades, machine guns, field artillery are protected by literally mountains of sand bags and surrounded barbed wire. Scotch artillerymen serve guns. Chinese quarters are most indignant at the closing of labor unions in Hongkong by British authorities and petitfoggering in regard to passengers landing Hong Kong.

* * *

1,440 Marines Leave.

WASHINGTON, April 18. The third expeditionary force of U. S. marines is enroute to China aboard the Dollar steamship, President Grant, the navy announced today.

Sailing from San Diego yesterday, three days ahead of the tentative schedule time, the liner carried 76 officers and 1,443 enlisted men, commanded by Col. H. G. Davis.

While the destination of the marines is given as Shanghai, Rear Admiral C. S. Williams, commander of the Asiatic fleet, has authority to divert the liner to any Chinese port where the situation is threatening.

To Attempt Trans-Atlantic Flight.

PARIS, April 18.—Another noted French aviator, with an American flier, intends attempting a trans-Atlantic flight, Lieut. G. Teste, holder of the straight line non-stop flight record, accompanied by Lieut. Clarence Glover, former member of the Lafayette Escadrille, will attempt this summer to win the new much coveted Orteig prize.

Hugo Gellert to Draw Mineola Trial Scenes For The Daily Worker

The DAILY WORKER wishes to congratulate its readers on the pleasure in store for them by reason of the fact that Hugo Gellert has offered to donate his services in furnishing sketches of the Mineola trial where an attempt is being made to convict Ben Gold and 11 other officers and members of the Furriers Union on framed up charges. The sketches will be of the defendants, the prosecuting and defense attorneys, the judge and typical jurors. They will be drawn in the court room.

Here's How

To greet the workers of the world The DAILY WORKER will print the names of individual workers and all working class organizations in its SPECIAL MAY DAY EDITION.

Here's How Much

Individual names will be printed at the rate of $1.00 per name. Organizations will be given a special rate of $1.00 per inch.

Here's When—

All greetings must be mailed at once to reach The DAILY WORKER before April 25. All greetings arriving later will be printed in following editions.

SEND GREETINGS TODAY

Cook Predicts Revolt If Die-Hards War on Chinese Nationalists

LONDON, April 18.—At a mass meeting in Holborn, A. J. Cook declared: "The government knows that it cannot declare war on China. It knows that if it declares war, the miners will declare war on it."

CURRENT EVENTS

(Continued from Page One)

tem. Without the support of the masses he is about as useful as a deflated gas bag.

THE Chinese revolutionary movement received a severe set-back in Chiang's defection. His treason at a critical moment in the campaign against the Northern warlords and their imperialist cashiers halted the victorious march of the Nationalist army, encouraged the imperialists and gave them a chance to organize their forces and develop their strategy. But the millions of Chinese workers and peasants will succeed despite the treachery of individuals. The Chinese revolution will conquer, if not just now, later on, because over four hundred millions of human beings that have once tasted the sweet of their own power cannot be held in perpetual bondage.

ANOTHER interesting item of news comes from London. It has a bearing on the Chinese question. It deals with the revolt of the Independent Labor Party against Ramsay MacDonald's leadership. While the former labor premier of the British empire was receiving the plaudits of American capitalism and homage from American socialists, the official socialist organization of Great Britain was having a little run with his political ears. After several well-directed kicks at Mr. MacDonald were registered, the annual conference of the party of which he is a leader decided that he no longer found favor in their eyes. They refused to communicate him as treasurer of the Labor Party or appoint him as delegate to the Labor Party conference. This is certainly an emphatic rebuke to the imperialist mountebank who has been saluting the British working class movement for several years.

LIKE Chiang-kai-Shek in China, MacDonald claims he is alert to other parties. This opponent of the dictatorship of the workers and peasants of Russia scents the decision of a delegate conference of the I.L.P. and declares that it means nothing. MacDonald, like the rest of the critics of the governmental norm thru which the Soviet Union functions is a believer in personal dictatorship. But he will bow meekly enough to the decisions of the British government, because like Al Smith, the catholic, Ramsay MacDonald, the fake socialist, is loyal to imperialism.

3 Women In Murder Trials Here.

Women play important roles in criminal litigation in and around New York this week. Two are wives accused of killing their husbands, and one is charged with the murder of her daughter.

"BIG FOUR" INSURANCE OFFICIALS ELECTED BY FRAUD ON "MUTUAL" STOCKHOLDERS

(Continued from Page One)

Mr. Fiske further says in his little masterpiece:

"Its (the Metropolitan's) assets of over $1,854,000,000 belongs to its policyholders."

This is only an half truth. Mr. Fiske knows, and every honest actuary knows that not one of the present 24 million policyholders will ever see one cent of these assets. Mr. Fiske knows perfectly well that all expenditures made by his company, whether it be in the form of death claims, matured endowments, dividends or in any form, are made from the current premium income.

Mr. Fiske further knows that the yearly premium income is more than sufficient to pay all payments to policyholders. As a policyholder leaves the company either as a death claim, or a matured endowment, he is out, and his share of the tremendous assets remains in the crooked custody of Mr. Haley, Mr. Albert Wiggin, Mr. Charle M. Schwab and the remainder of the Chase National Bank brigands.

Plenty of Gravy.

Mr. Haley Fiske, the author of this misleading and fraudulent pseudo-financial tract, knows as well as the writer does, that in the year 1925 that avnilable public report the Metropolitan's income was 220 million dollars greater than all of its disbursements. This allows for every conceivable form of expenditure. And the "boys" at number One Madison avenue can conceive of more expenses than a crooked A. F. of L. labor leader can. And that's going some.

Mr. Fiske still further says:

"This huge sum of money is their savings."

This is a piece of ironical writing. Legally, morally, and ethically it belongs to the Metropolitan policyholders but these 24 million policyholders will never benefit by it in any way until an insurance investigation releases this gigantic sum of money.

In theory the "Big Four" are "mutual" companies, that is to say, the policyholders are given the right to vote for the board of directors. The nominations are all fixed and any credulous policyholder who tries to exercise his insurance franchise soon discovers that he is voting for Tweedledee and Tweedledum. The same gang of Wall Street hijackers manage to get in year after year.

In fact, the "Big Four" are not "mutual." They operate under the cloak of mutualization. The poor policyholder is given a snip of a refund which the company refers to as a dividend, but that is the extent of its mutuality. The assets keep piling up year after year, the directorates of the "Big Four" keep becoming more powerful and more powerful.

If the weekly payment insurance companies are purely mutual, as they are supposed to be, then how does Mr. Fiske explain the presence of Charles M. Schwab and his gang of associated high financiers in the trough. Surely Schwab's interests are not identical with those of the 40 million workers who put their hard earned money into this patent swindle. Schwab, et al., are not acting as directors of any billion dollar corporations for the fun of the thing. They are in it for what they can get out of it.

Like "Dollar A Year."

The last insurance report issued by the New York State Department of Insurance says that Charles Schwab, chairman of the board of directors of the Bethlehem Steel, director of the Chase National Bank and various other multi-million dollar corporations, finds time to act as a director of the "mutual" Metropolitan Life for the ridiculous salary of $135 per year.

At this point Mr. Fiske takes the old glory into his talon-like hands and patriotically waves it with the utter abandon with which he handles statistics. Says he:

"The Metropolitan owns over $5,000,000 of the securities of light and power companies." When one of these companies is unfairly treated, it is you . . . the policyholders of the Metropolitan and in other insurance companies who are the real governing body of this republic who suffer."

You see the inexorable logic? You theoretically own the Metropolitan, but the Metropolitan actually owns bonds of light and power companies. Therefore it is wrong to vote for state ownership of public utilities, says Mr. Fiske.

Expensive Glory.

It will be a great relief for the millions and millions of weekly life insurance policyholders to learn that although they cannot get a loan on their policies until they have been in force for ten years, nevertheless, they are the honored partners of Fiske, Schwab, Day, Wiggin and others. The policyholder may be about to be ejected from your mind. "The Metropolitan owns over $75,000,000 of the securities of light and power companies."

At the juncture Mr. Fiske delivers himself of a chunk of "Big Four" propaganda that surely must have been written with the presidential tongue in the presidential cheek. It is as follows:

"It must be recognized that no corporate abstractions but the American people are the owners of the bond capital of the companies furthering to the light and power companies. Every policyholder is upon such capital investments as an attack upon the wage earners of the country."

One is inclined to pause for a moment after reading those gems from Fiske and wonder how any adult in his senses could possibly imagine that the American insuring public, papa-fed though it is, would take the above statement seriously.

A Tall Story.

I understand that Haley Fiske's office is right up in the upper reaches of the Metropolitan building's tower. Can it be that the rarified air up there has gone to his head? Or is it that he has fooled the workers for so surer public so gullible that he is trying to see to what extent he can go without being openly laughed at? "Every policyholder's interest is an capitalist." The reader may not have been aware of his good fortune heretofore, but now he has it on the most reliable authority, that he is a member of the owning class. He may be living in the most degrading slums, he may be scrimping and saving to make both ends meet. That means nothing to Haley Fiske, $1650,000 a year president of the Metropolitan, if only one has a swindling weekly payment life insurance policy, then one is, upon facts, a capitalist.

Every policyholder is not a capitalist, he is merely a customer buying much needed protection from an insurance trust at exorbitant prices on criminally harsh conditions.

To The Point.

Dizzy with his success at back alley economics, Mr. Fiske gets down to what is known in the best Rotarian circles as hard tacks:

"Plans for municipal, state or federal ownership of public utilities often sound well as presented by their advocates. But before assenting to them, every policyholder should examine them carefully, asking himself how political ownership can possibly give him results to compare with those attained through private ownership."

Mr. Fiske may not know it, but across the international boundary the Ontario Power Commission, which belongs to the people of Ontario, serves the Canadian power and light consumer with these necessities at infinitely cheaper rates than his American cousin can buy it from privately owned companies.

To behold the president of a "mutual" life insurance company canting against mutualization in its highest form—state ownership—is laughable indeed.

There are millions of Mr. Fiske's customers who incline to the view that not only light and power companies ought to be state owned, but they feel that industrial life insurance companies might be operated by the state to quite some advantage to the 40 million policyholders who now find themselves in the economic grip of the "Big Four."

Plan Celebration In Warren

WARREN, Ohio, April 18.—There will be a united front May Day demonstration in this city on May 1, at 2 p. m. at the Hippodrome Hall. Among the speakers will be N. Shaffer of Cleveland, and Jean Blair, Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!

What's What in Washington

Coolidge Faking Farm Relief Thru Proposed Travels

(By a Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, April 18.—President Coolidge has let it be known that he is casting about for "desirable" farm relief legislation.

He wants the boys out on the profitless farms to know that he is now concerned about them. Having vetoed their equalization fee idea, the McNary Haugen bill which put teeth in them six years to finally put through Congress, he is now agitated about their troubles and really wants to help them, provided some way can be found that does not meddle with such fundamental matters as tariff, subsidy, exchange gambling and other items.

No Promises Yet

The President has not as yet discussed the matter even through the convenient device of his official spokesman. But on his behalf others have. The department of commerce, headed by Secretary Jardine, to date has bitterly fought every scheme put forward by the farmers for their aid, has indicated that it is engaged in gathering much data and information preparatory to undertaking the task of formulating a farm relief bill ingenuous enough to be able to obtain the President's approval.

Dares An Enemy

Of course no administration men say anything about the pressure of politics having caused the President's change of heart. The fact that numerous reports have come in from the west; that Mr. Hilles, New York national chairman, told the President after his swing around the circuit that he had better get busy to appease western resentment; that Vice-President Dawes has related among friends his disgust and dissatisfaction with Coolidge and the suspicion among them that the irascible Vice-president may be barboring the idea of taking a public fall out of Coolidge; all these factors are most carefully avoided.

Administration quarters relate that the president out of the goodness of his great heart has decided that the farmer must have succor, so he is going to loose them with a $100,000 appropriation for a swell junket thru this summer, working all the time for a "solution" for the farmers' ills.

Wants to Run.

The fact is, of course, Coolidge is a candidate to succeed himself. Whether he runs or not may still be an undecided question, but Coolidge is leaving nothing undone, so anything in the way for him to be able to reach for the nomination if the situation remains such as to permit him doing so. The farm issue is a possible obstacle, and so, in his secretive, undecidable way, he is getting the cogs astir to frame a way out.

Flatter "Farm Leaders"

The plan he is said to have in mind is simple. By the time he leaves Washington for his "vacation" location, around the middle of June, he will either have a so-called farm relief bill, or some scheme to such legislation.

Located in his summer White House somewhere in the Middlewest or Northwest, he will invite "farm leaders" to visit him to discuss farm relief legislation.

He will flatter them with attention, publicity, pictures and verbal gas. They will return and talk in grandiloquent terms about the great president. The word will go out that Mr. Coolidge is struggling with the issue, making a brave battle, and slowly but certainly gaining ground.

Then Farmer Will Vote

Next December when congress reconvenes, there will be offered with much clanging of the drums, the administration's farm relief bill. The farmers will be told that now all will soon be well among them. They will then subside, relieve themselves of their suspicions about the president and vote the good old straight republican ticket.

No plan can possibly work out before the election is over, so that it will be impossible to determine so that it can be proven to the farmer whether the legislation is faked or not. In the meantime Mr. Coolidge will have been re-elected and the reactionary administration will be in the saddle for another four years.

May Not Work.

That is the plan. It may not be consummated however, although so far Mr. Coolidge has always put them successfully his neat little schemes. But in this farm controversy are several factors besides Coolidge, there is congress, the other is the farmer.

In both genuses are many good republicans who hate and despise Coolidge and who are not at all concerned about seeing him embarrassed. Some of the farmers being bankrunt are downright angry. Among republicans in congress are men who are fed up with Coolidge and determined to derail him if possible.

Many Will Rejoice.

It is therefore entirely possible that Mr. Coolidge's plans may go awry. The farmers may stand pat and insist on the equalization fee principle, as the only possible solution. Congress, with a senate controlled by democrats and insurgent republicans

Pennsylvania G. O. P. Machine Splits Apart

By LAURENCE TODD (Fed. Press).

WASHINGTON, April 18.—War is on once more between the rival republican machines in Pennsylvania, with Boss Vare of Philadelphia lined up for revenge against Boss Bill Mellon of Pittsburgh and Boss Grundy of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Assn. President Coolidge and his advisers were not warned of the impending clash between the two forces until too late.

Mellon and Grundy struck first, when in the closing hours of the session of the legislature they defeated, in the lower house, Vare's resolution for old age pensions. Vare's sister-in-law, a state senator, sponsored this humane measure, which would change the constitution so that aged workers throughout Pennsylvania could be paid state pensions.

His Political Stuff.

On this issue of old age pensions Vare had staked his political future. He knew that he would be rejected by the U. S. Senate in the coming session on the credentials he secured through the lavish use of money in the primary and election of 1926.

But he was preparing to run again and win by no actual count of real votes, by giving old age pension assurances to the millions of wage workers and their voting relatives in the Keystone commonwealth.

"Mother" Grundy Fears.

Grundy, who has dictated tariff schedules at Washington and has collected millions from manufacturers for political purposes at home, looked upon Vare's plan as nothing short of graft. He knew that pensions would undermine company unions, destroy the fear of the boss in mine and factory and railroad employ, and give trade unionism and political radicalism a new start.

He protested. Andrew Mellon, head of the family and head of the Coolidge cabinet, was not officially informed of the Grundy Mellon revolt until it had begun. If he was privately consulted he gave no sign. In any event the U. O. P. in Pennsylvania—alone for a novel among them this summer, working all the time for a "solution" for the farmers' issue.

Mellon Pulled in.

Backing Vare is Rep. Morin of Pittsburgh. In 1922 the U. S. Steel Corporation tried to beat him for renomination. He was with Vare in the primary fight last year. Now he wants to run against Sen. David Reed, Mellon family lawyer, who will be a candidate for renomination next spring. Morin is said to control the Allegheny County organization in Allegheny County, as Vare does in Philadelphia

Thus Mellon will have to fight for Reed and against Morin and Vare in Pittsburgh under a handicap: he must build up a separate organization with the millions of cold cash which the manufacturers will now proceed to pay into the hands of Grundy. Since old age pensions have a strong appeal to slaves of the steel companies, it may prove that Vare and Morin have discovered a way to break Mellon's political power in his own stronghold.

Andrew Mellon failed to get Coolidge to go into the Pepper primary fight last year. It is improbable, politicians say, that he will induce Coolidge to pay anything for David Reed and against Morin next spring.

Literature Leads in Soviet Book Exports

MOSCOW April 18.—The export of soviet books into foreign countries started on a big scale in 1925-26, when 20,000 roubles' worth of books were exported to Germany, 13,000 roubles to France, 12,000 roubles to America, 22,000 roubles to China, 17,000 roubles to Latvia, etc. The total value of exported books from the USSR in 1925-26 was 112,000 roubles. As for the first half of the current working year 1926-27, the total value is 70,000 roubles.

Art literature ranks first among the soviet books exported, making up 46 per cent of the total. Of the books exported to America, the art literature constitutes up to 50 per cent.

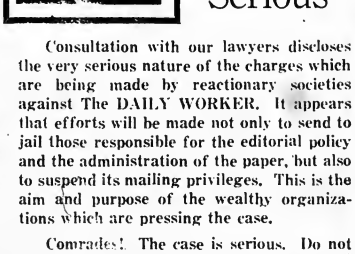
Two Alarm Fire.

Two alarms were sounded yesterday for a fire that burned through the press room of the News Stock House at 25 Broadway, Flushing, the plant of the Flushing Journal, a daily newspaper.

OFFICE BOYS OF THE AMERICAN EMPIRE

Upon these lads have devolved the holy task of commanding the battleships of the American representatives of world imperialism in China. This photo, taken at Shanghai recently, shows left to right: Capt. G. W. Steele, commanding the U. S. S. "Pittsburgh," flagship of the Asiatic fleet; Admiral C. S. Williams, commander of the fleet; and Capt. W. N. Vernou, chief-of-staff.

Frazier to Expose Gunboat Diplomacy In Lecture Tour



WASHINGTON, April 18. (FP)—Sen. Lynn J. Frazier of North Dakota, Nonpartisan League Republican, has started on a cross-continent speaking trip devoted to exposing the imperialist policy of the Coolidge-Mellon administration and its ostensible by Morgan & Co. He will be accompanied by Benj. C. Marsh, executive secretary of the People's Reconstruction League, and Walter Liggett, the newspaper man who first rehearsed before the Senate committee on foreign relations, last winter, that Doheny's oil land titles in Mexico were largely fraudulent.

The schedule includes Indianapolis April 19, St. Louis April 19, Kansas City April 21, Topeka April 22, Denver April 24, Salt Lake City April 27, Cheyenne April 28, Los Angeles April 30 and San Francisco May 3.

Marsh and Liggett will meet certain other Northwestern senators at Portland, and will hold meetings there and in Seattle, Bismarck, Minneapolis, Sioux Falls, Sioux City and Milwaukee.

American relations with Mexican oil and Mexican counter-revolutionary plotters will be Senator Frazier's topic at some of these meetings. At others he will tell the story of American intervention in Nicaragua and American naval threats against the Chinese Nationalists.

WORKERS PROTEST AGAINST DEATH OF SACCO and VANZETTI

Our Case is Serious

Consultation with our lawyers discloses the very serious nature of the charges which are being made by reactionary societies against The DAILY WORKER. It appears that efforts will be made not only to send to jail those responsible for the editorial policy and the administration of the paper, but also to suspend its mailing privileges. This is the aim and purpose of the wealthy organizations which are pressing the case.

Comrades! The case is serious. Do not wait until too late. Do not wait until the blow falls upon your paper. We must put up a powerful defense of our paper. We must prevent the withdrawal of mailing privileges. We must fight for the right to continue our fight against the Wolls, the Sigmans, and the Greens. We must retain our paper for the fight against imperialism.

We urge all friends of The DAILY WORKER to immediately turn their efforts to the raising of the necessary funds to fight for the right to maintain our paper. Delay or lack of effort may be disastrous.

If comrades who want to see The DAILY WORKER live will get behind the defense of our paper and our staff with half the energy that our enemies are using to silence us, we will be able to win this battle and continue the fight.

DAILY WORKER
33 First Street,
New York, N. Y.

Inclosed is my contribution of dollars cents to the Rothenberg Sustaining Fund for a stronger and better DAILY WORKER and for the defense of our paper. I will pay the same amount regularly every .....

Name .....

Address .....

City .....

State .....

Attach check or money order.

Books That Lead to a Better Understanding and a Greater Usefulness in the Revolutionary Movement

ALL BOOKS CLOTH BOUND

MARX AND ENGELS		LENIN ON ORGANIZATION	$1.50
By D. Riazanov	$2.50	THE ECONOMIC THEORY OF
SELECTED ESSAYS		THE LEISURE CLASS
By Karl Marx	$1.75	Bucharin	$2.50
PEASANT WAR IN GERMANY		EDUCATION IN SOVIET RUSSIA
By F. Engels	$1.50	Scott Nearing	$1.50
THOS. MORE AND HIS UTOPIA		LEFT WING UNIONISM
By Karl Kautsky	$2.25	By H. J. Sapose	$1.60
ELEMENTS OF POLITICAL		WOMAN WORKER AND THE
EDUCATION		TRADE UNIONS
Berdnikov-Svetlov	(Paper $1) $1.50	By Theresa Wolfson	$1.75

SEND FOR A FREE CATALOGUE OF ALL PUBLICATIONS.

THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
33 FIRST STREET, NEW YORK.

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
Daily, Except Sunday
Phone, Orchard 1680
83 First Street, New York, N. Y.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail (in New York only):	By mail (outside of New York):
$8.00 per year $4.50 six months	$6.00 per year $3.50 six months
$2.50 three months	$2.00 three months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, New York, N. Y.

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE .....Editors
BERT MILLER.....Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail at the post-office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Advertising rates on application.

A Sign of Labor Movement Revival.

It was Frederick Engels who once said that our reactionaries are frequently our greatest revolutionaries. His observation was based upon the fact that the flagrant despotism of the reactionaries often makes conditions so unbearable and their tyrannical acts make such indelible impressions upon the masses of workers that they rise against their oppressors. One could not help being forcibly reminded of this famous quotation from Engels, when viewing the thousands upon thousands of workers who assembled in Union Square Saturday and who blistered their throats shouting meledictions against the judge who sentenced Sacco and Vanzetti to the electric chair, against capitalism and two of its most unto.ious agents—Mussolini and Coolidge.

This demonstration and others of a similar nature in other cities in the United States, combined with the action of innumerable labor bodies, is indicative of the beginning of a revival in the labor movement, a swing away from the miserable official policy of the American Federation of Labor that devotes most of its energies to preaching class collaboration and aiding the master class persecute the militant section of the working class.

Unnumbered thousands of workers throughout the country joining in preparation for a world-wide strike in protest against the murderous agents of the codfish aristocracy of Massachusetts are proof that the anti-strike agitation of the labor lieutenants of capitalism has not taken deep rod among the masses of workers.

The demonstrations thus far held are only the beginning of the struggle and they will continue to grow in volume and power until Sacco and Vanzetti are taken out of the shadow of the electric chair and the dungeon doors are opened and they again resume their places in the labor movement.

The Coolidge Cabinet Crisis.

Last Friday President Coolidge, discussing the possible resignation of Secretary of State Kellogg, declared that in case of Kellogg's resignation Herbert Hoover, now secretary of commerce, would not be chosen in his place. That assertion is symptomatic of a smouldering crisis that exists in the cabinet at Washington. Many back writers bearing the euphonious title of "Washington correspondents," have tried to analyze the cause of this repudiation of Hoover by the President. Most of them attribute it to the fact that Hoover's supporters are boosting him for the republican presidential nomination in 1928.

But the real reason for bad feeling between these two stalwart defenders of imperialism goes much deeper than mere aspirations for honors a year hence. Close observers of the administration's Chinese attitude have for weeks been aware of an absence of unified policy. Hoover fully appreciates the necessity of maintaining a policy distinct from that of England. On the other hand Coolidge has permitted those narrow interests directly involved in China, particularly those Americans on the Municipal Council in Shanghai, to influence him so that the country's naval forces are playing the role of pawns in the game of England.

In face of the danger of extermination of imperialist influence in China, the powers will unite in an effort to crush it. But Hoover wants that unity of action to be under the direction of the United States and not England. Until now the Wall Street policy has been to take a tolerant attitude toward China, not because its imperialism is less vicious that that of Britain, but simply because it hopes, through pursuing such a policy, to gain advantages that could not be obtained by a display of terrorism. Then, with England eliminated and discredited, Wall Street could step in and dominate the situation. Coolidge's blunders have changed this policy and Hoover, the most able spokesman of Wall Street, is making it hot for him.

The world-wide antagonism between England and the United States, becoming ever more intensified in spite of certain unity of action, such as jointly enforcing the Dawes plan in Germany, may easily burst forth into the devastating flames of a World War in which untold millions of workers will be used as cannon-fodder, and China may furnish the spark that will kindle it.

The conflict in the cabinet is a danger signal and one more reason why the workers of this country should demand "Hands Off China."

The Amalgamated's Y. M. C. A. Policy.

Speaking recently before the Supper Club of the Harlem Y. M. C. A., Leo Wolman, research director for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, said:

"The primary aim of the labor union is to co operate with the manufacturer to produce more efficient conditions of production that will be of mutual advantage. In some cases labor unions will even lend money to worthy manufacturers to tide them over periods of distress." (Emphasis Ours.)

There are large numbers of Amalgamated members to whom the Wolman viewpoint will be repulsive—members who know that the Amalgamated was not built by having as its "primary aim" more production for the bosses or by lending money to "worthy manufacturers," but by bitter struggle.

The fact is that Wolman was voicing the policy of Amalgamated officialdom which has put the Amalgamated on the same efficiency basis as the most reactionary unions of the American Federation of Labor.

But it is doubtful if Wolman or his bosses would speak so frankly to a meeting of the Amalgamated membership as he did before a Y. M. C. A. gathering. The membership is not as yet so saturated with worker-employer co operation that it would accept such statements without rebuking those responsible.

Read The Daily Worker

Tranquility First—Reforms Later

AMSTERDAM AND THE CHINESE REVOLUTION

By J. C.

The Amsterdam International (I. F. T. U.) is pretending not to notice the struggles of the Chinese proletariat but from time to time its alleged leaders and the bewildered world hears from the heights of Amsterdam, revelations—one better than the other.

Oudegeest's (Secretary of the Amsterdam International) last statement was in connection with the visit of two representatives of the Chinese Nationalist revolutionary movement to Amsterdam—the visitors were Chan Ku-en, the secretary of the Chinese Marine Workers' Union and G. Lain, representative of the general staff of the Nationalist army.

The delegation had an interview with Oudegeest and a short report of this interview was published in the Dutch Social Democratic paper "Het Volk" on March 10.

According to the report the delegates asked the following questions:

"Is the Amsterdam International prepared to organize demonstrations in Europe in favor of the Chinese National movement? The reply to the Chinese was that the possibilities of such organizations are being INVESTIGATED (emphasis mine, J. C.) that it is not an easy matter to organize demonstrations in Europe and one should not think that they can be held every day."

After all, is it worth while for the Amsterdam International to occupy itself with such trifles as the Chinese revolution? Is the Chinese revolution sufficient cause for the organization of demonstrations of the European workers? That is preposterous. Such revolutions apparently, in the opinion of the Amsterdamers, are an every-day affair.

However, there is even something more interesting in the rest of the interview:

"To the request of the delegation to send a committee to China to investigate the actual state of affairs, the Amsterdam International replied that it is not able to do this in the near future and that under the present conditions IT DOES NOT CONSIDER IT DESIRABLE TO SEND SUCH A DELEGATION AS THE TRADE UNION MOVEMENT IS A CONSTRUCTIVE MOVEMENT WITH PROGRESS ONLY IN A COUNTRY WHERE THERE IS POLITICAL TRANQUILITY. THE AMSTERDAM INTERNATIONAL DOES NOT INTEND TO SEND A DELEGATION UNTIL CHINA WILL BECOME PACIFIED." (Emphasis mine).

Here is tranquility first and reforms, or more correctly reformist, later. This proves again what the upper strata of the Amsterdam International really are. In these statements Oudegeest does not say a word about the liberation, national and class struggle. He declares that a trade union movement, i. e., reformist trade union movement, is possible only under conditions of "political tranquility." Oudegeest declares thereby that the aim and the content of the trade union movement is the struggle and the "creation" . . . apparantly of sport teams and chess tournaments.

In one respect Oudegeest is undoubtedly right; in the revolutionary atmosphere of present-day China there is no place for a reformist trade union movement. There is no place in China for the trade union movement now and there will be none in the future as the Chinese workers fully appreciate the attitude of the Amsterdam International to their heroic struggle against imperialism.

The communication in "Het Volk" concludes with the absolutely unexpected words:

"Oudegeest's impression is that the interview had a favorable impression on the Chinese delegation."

Somehow, we do not believe it. We cannot believe that the delegation was satisfied with such answers, nor can we believe that Oudegeest and that impression. After all Oudegeest is not such a fool as he would have us believe.

Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!

Workers' Education in Great Britain

By ARTHUR V. CODE.
(Federated Press)

The education of worker students has received very careful attention the past quarter of a century in Britain. The growth of the adult educational movement has been phenomenal. Institutions and organizations have sprung up all over the country; the labor movement, politically and industrially, the co-operative movement, the Workmen's Clubs and Institute Union, the Workers' Education Association, and the Catholic Workers' Guild are but a few of many bodies that now cater for the needs of workers.

The state, through education authorities and the board of education, contributes large amounts and numerous philanthropic individuals give liberal financial support to many of the undertakings.

Workers For Marx.

The only organization supported entirely by the workers' movement in Britain is the National Council of Labor Colleges; it, too, is the only body that claims to be "educational" in the sense of giving students a knowledge of the working class education.

Taking Marxism as its basis of interpretation and working class history as its teaching "the education of the workers to achieve their social and industrial emancipation" it does not hide the fact that its aims are the overthrow of capitalism and the building of a new social order.

Other labor education movements are less ambitious in their declared aims. Without exception, they are said to be class "less" or "impartial" in their educational policies and the majority of them receive financial aid from the trusts.

Chief among these "impartial" organizations are the Workers' Education Association and Ruskin College, residential Oxford. These bodies work together to a large extent and both receive support from private individuals and the state. In addition, they are encouraged by the Universities.

There has been a growing tendency of late for the W. E. A. and the N. C. L. C. to become openly antagonistic toward each other.

Right Wingers Fail.

Meanwhile, both Ruskin College and the London Labor College are in financial straits and may have to close this summer. This year the support of the T. U. C. General Council saved Ruskin. The London Labor College has been owned and controlled by the National Union of Railwaymen and the South Wales Miners' Federation since 1916 and has enjoyed financial stability.

By a recent decision, the N. U. R. intends to withdraw its support at the end of this college year; if this decision is put into effect, there is little possibility of the college continuing.

More Extension Work.

Whilst the condition of these two residential colleges is precarious, the numbers of worker students attending evening classes, week-end and summer-school, etc., are continually on the increase. The loss of the residential colleges would be most felt in the field of tutors and lectures as a considerable number have received their training at the London Labor College and at Ruskin.

The adult education movement now caters for about 100,000 evening class students; in addition, thousands receive tuition thru correspondence courses—particularly in the smaller places that are difficult of access—and nearly 100 students leave the 12 dozen residential colleges annually.

MAY DAY IS DAILY WORKER DAY

BERT MILLER.

THE outlook of the class conscious worker, of the revolutionist, is the outlook of the one who has succeeded in leaping beyond the boundaries of the problems of the individual worker, or of the particular groups of workers in a trade, a shop, craft or country. It is the outlook of the worker who sees his problems in terms of the class.

America is particularly fertile soil for the development of narrowness and sectarianism among the workers. The division of the working class of this country into many racial groups stimulates the growth of a limited outlook. This division into many language groups, into many foreign, is a marked obstacle to the development of a broad class viewpoint as against a narrow nationalist one. Further we have the stratification of the workers into more or less privileged groups, skilled and unskilled, with large groups maintaining a standard far superior to that of workers in other countries, as an added tendency toward the development of a feeling of exclusiveness. There is in addition class conscious rivalry between sexes, which is encouraged by the capitalist class. To cap it all, the powerful capitalist publicity machinery, the press, the cinema, the schools, the church and the radio, plays up carefully, nationalist prejudices, individual success ideology and other anti-class ideas.

The DAILY WORKER with its broad class appeal, with its news of all sectors of the proletarian battle front is a powerful weapon to use against these prejudices. It is the most effective instrument for the development of a class viewpoint in America, the viewpoint of the international working class. It is the foremost spokesman for class solidarity, in so far as it speaks for no particular group of workers either racial or craft. It is the amalgam binding all these groups together with the workers of the world with indissoluble bonds of working class unity. It speaks for the working class of America as an integral part of the international working class.

Had to May Day, the day of international labor solidarity. Hail to The DAILY WORKER, the American organ of the international working class.

Workers Party Issues New Application Cards For Ruthenberg Drive

The Workers (Communist) Party of America has printed new membership application cards for the Ruthenberg Recruiting Campaign Drive.

The application card has on one side the regular declaration that every applicant to party membership must sign before being examined as to membership in the party. It also has a special pledge that all party members take in the drive. Then there is a picture of Comrade Ruthenberg, with information regarding his standing in the Communist International, as well as his last words.

The card is printed on deep red paper.

The DAILY WORKER Drive, which forms one of the major phases of the Ruthenberg Recruiting Drive, has issued special books known as the "Pledge Book of a Class Conscious Worker." The message of this book is one of the most stirring declarations of Comrade Ruthenberg, reading:

"We must make the DAILY WORKER a more powerful weapon in the workers' struggle."

The book has space for a dozen stamps, each stamp for the amount pledged monthly by the worker.

Read The Daily Worker Every Day

Letters From Our Readers

To The Daily Worker:

Gentlemen: Imagine how the poor workers would suffer, if there wasn't any "Unions." The bosses would work their help twenty-one hours per day if they could. Still we have a lot of "Rats" among us. Not so many now-a-days, as Workers Union was starting to organize, but the old men refused to join. What's the consequences. Today when wages are high, and living conditions are far above normal, these same "old men" are far underpaid for their labor, and cannot exist on their incomes. Shipping clerks and packers, majority of them, are receiving from $18 to $25 per week, a condition which would never have existed, if these old men had a union.

"Union" is a standard bearer, leads up of real red blooded he-men who believe in justice, and stand ready to sacrifice everything in order to win this justice. "Live Let Live."

Every tinde, every line of work should be unionized. I believe in unions, and without them the workers would be lost. Respectfully, —Thomas A. Gillen.

P. S.—We must have "Union" if we ever expect to exist and live.

Cossacks in Pennsylvania.

To the Daily Worker,
Dear Comrades:

Czarist Russia has nothing on Western Pennsylvania. On Sunday, April 10th, Lodge No. 126, Croatian Beneficial Union of America, held their meeting and members of the above-named society were discussing at this meeting about participating in the parade on the 4th of July and to spend $500 to decorate their plot.

Some of the members which stood for the rules and by-laws of the society were against the spending of the above named amount of the society's money, and put the motion to the chair for collecting the amount from the members and not spending the money from the treasury which is against the rules and by-laws.

And while discussing the motion, a member of the Farrell police force, also a member of the Croatian lodge, walked out of the meeting and arrested two members of the above city, without a warrant—as they usually do in Western Pennsylvania. The members that were arrested are president, Joe Zidar, and Secretary Dusan Dudas and Frank Petrinac.

The charge against those arrested was disorderly conduct, according to the question and answer of Ignorande Libby Sacks, and of the Young Pioneers, Vita Kvolick 1. Auter will preside.

The Young Workers Dramatic Club is preparing a play, "The Workers Will Decide," while the Freiheit Singing Society, the Lithuanian and South Slavic Singing Societies, and Children Choruses will furnish the music. The Finnish Athletic Club will do some of their fine stunts. Supper at 6 P. M. and dancing in the evening completes the program.

Is Russia Successful?

CLEVELAND.—The question of Soviet Russia is one of the burning issues of the day. Although travelers of all shades have been in Soviet Russia and most of them have reported most favorably on the situation there, still there are some people who are not only skeptical but even antagonistic.

This vital issue is to be fought out in this city in a debate between the Communists and the anarchists, will be held on April 23 at the Insurance Center Building, 1730 E. 13th Street, Assembly Room B, I. Amter, District Secretary of the Workers' Communist Party, will take the affirmative in the debate, S. Marcus, anarchist writer and lecturer of New York, the negative.

WORKERS! PROTEST AGAINST DEATH OF SACCO and VANZETTI!

Broadway Briefs

The Theatre of the Dance, under the direction of Borsha, will open a week's engagement at the Grove St Theatre, beginning Monday, May 2.

"The Lady Screams," by Everett Rose

DRAMA

A. H. Woods Plans for Next Season

Patrick Kearney, author of "A Man's Man" and adapter of "An American Tragedy" is listed on A. H. Woods' production plans for next season. His play, titled "Three Wishes," is booked for the Maxine Elliott's Theatre in October.

Other plays planned by the Woods' office are: "The First of the Gentlemen," from the French farce, "Au Premier de ces Messieurs," adapted by Harry Wagstaff Gribble, is booked for showing September. "The Third Day," adapted by John Van Druten (author of "Young Woodley") from William Bergwvie, with Chester Morris and Sylvie Sidney in the cast. "The Garden of Eden," adapted by Avery Hopwood from the German success by R. Bernauer and R. Oesterreicher, with Lowell Sherman and Claudette Colbert in the leads.

Sachs Guitry and Yvonne Printemps, who made their American debut this season will return to New York next February. In addition to acting "Mozart," which they played here, they will present the "Yvonne Printemps Revue," which they have already played in Paris. Other plays that Mr. Woods expects to test this spring are "The Jury of Fate," a posthumous play by C. M. S. McLellan and "The Everlasting Question," by J. B. Lartie.

PATRICIA COLLINGE

featured in "The Comic," a new play opening tonight at the Theatre Masque.

Chantler, will be produced out of town on April 25, coming to Broadway later. Grant Mills and Betty Weston head the cast. Charles J. Mulligan is sponsoring the production.

William Boyd, last seen as Sergeant Quirt of "What Price Glory," will be in "Tenth Avenue," a drama by Jack McGowan and Lloyd Griscom, by the producers of "Pigeon." Edna Hibbard and Louis Calhern will play leading roles in the play.

A musical version of "Rip Van Winkle" is under way according to an announcement from the office of Sam H. Harris and Albert Lewis. Rudolph Friml is to write the music and Dorothy Donnelly the book.

"Career," a new play by Hugh Stanislaus Stange, author of "Fog-Bound," is announced for early production by Harry L. Cort and Clark Robinson.

AMUSEMENTS

I Theatre Guild Acting Company in PYGMALION
Now Week The Second Man
GUILD THEA. W. 52 St. Evs. 8:15
Mats. Thurs. and Sat. 2:30

MR. PIM PASSES BY
New Week Right Age Inv.
GARRICK W. 35 St. Evs. 8:30
Mats. Thurs. and Sat.

NED McCOBB'S DAUGHTER
New Week The Silver Cord
John Golden W. 58 St. Evs. 8:30
Mts. Thur. & Sat. 2:30

Neighborhood Playhouse
466 Grand St. Orchard 9626
Beginning Tuesday Eve. Mat. Sat.
Bill of lyric Drama

TIMES SQ. CRIME
Thea. W. 42 St.
Evs. 8:30 Mats.
Wed. & Sat. 2:30
with James Rennie & Chester Morris

The LADDER
Now in its 10th MONTH
WALDORF, 58th St., East of 5th Ave.
Mats. Wed. and Sat.

WALLACK'S West 42nd Street
Evenings 8:30
Mats. Tues., Wed. Thurs. and Sat.
What Anne Brought Home
A New Comedy Drama

HAMPDEN'S THEATRE
Eves. 8:45 Matinees Wed. and Sat.
WALTER HAMPDEN
in CAPONSACCHI

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN
TWICE DAILY, 2 P.M. & 8 P.M.
RINGLING BROS. and BARNUM & BAILEY CIRCUS
The Greatest Show on Earth
SACRED WHITE ELEPHANT
CHORUS of GARGOYLES from Cathedrals
All Acts and Features Imported Direct
PRINCESS THEA. Macdougal St. Evs. 8:30
PLAYHOUSE W. 48 St. Evs. 8:30
RAPID TRANSIT
A New Play by Lewis Beach
Civic Repertory Cor. 6 Ave. & 14 St.
Tel. Watkins 7242.
EVA LE GALLIENNE
Tonight at 8:30 Mat. Thurs. & Sat. at 2:30
Tomorrow Mat. IMPERTINENCE
Tonight CHARLE'S AUNT

EARL CARROLL Vanities
Earl Carroll Thea. 7th Ave. & 50th St.
Evs. 8:30 Mats. Thurs. & Sat. 2:30

MARTIN BECK THEATRE, 45 St. W. of 8 Ave.
Evs. 8:30 Mats. Wed. and Sat.
JED HARRIS Presents A Drama
'SPREAD EAGLE'

Bronx Opera House 149th Street, Bronx
Pop. Prices Mat. Wed. & Sat.
"NEW YORK EXCHANGE"
The Sensational Comedy

BROADWAY
BROADWAY & 41st, East of 8th Ave.
CRUCIFIX EVES $2.50 TO $5.50

Patronize Our Advertisers.

Let's Fight On! Join The Workers Party!

In the loss of Comrade Ruthenberg the Workers (Communist) Party has lost its foremost leader and the American working class its staunchest fighter. This loss can only be overcome by many militant workers joining the Party that he built.

Fill out the application below and mail it. Become a member of the Workers (Communist) Party and carry forward the work of Comrade Ruthenberg.

I want to become a member of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Name .....
Address .....
Occupation .....
Union Affiliation .....

Mail this application to the Workers Party, 108 East 14th Street, New York City, or if in other city to Workers Party, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Distribute the Ruthenberg pamphlet, "The Workers (Communist) Party: What it Stands for and Why Workers Should Join." This Ruthenberg pamphlet will be the best pamphlet thruout the Ruthenberg Drive.

Every Party Nucleus must collect 50 cents from every member and will receive 20 pamphlets for every member to sell or distribute.

Nuclei in the New York District will get their pamphlets from the District Office—108 East 14th St.

Nuclei outside of the New York District write to Daily Worker Publishing Co., 33 East First Street, New York City, or to the National Office, Workers Party, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

WORKERS! PROTEST AGAINST DEATH OF SACCO and VANZETTI!

Coolidge Balks at Porto Rico Relief; Backs Sugar Trust

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(FP)—President Coolidge will take no action to relieve the economic misery of the masses of the people in Porto Rico, it was indicated at the White House after Coolidge had heard the report of Secretary of War Davis, who recently visited the island. It was at a banquet by the island legislature to Davis that the terrible condition of the workers of Porto Rico was described in a speech by Sen. Iglesias, Socialist.

Coolidge has decided that Porto Ricans are "friendly toward the rest of the United States," but that there is no reason for giving them special attention now. He will soon appoint a new governor in place of Governor Towner, who is ill, but he will not name a Porto Rican for the place. He does not propose to humor their demand for the right to elect their own governor.

Towner, who was formerly chairman of the House committee on insular affairs, has been a tool of the American corporations in the island which control the sugar, coffee, tobacco and fruit industries. Standards of living among plantation workers have sunk to a level of semi-starvation, but corporate profits have been high.

Elizabeth G. Flynn Is Slowly Recovering

PORTLAND, Ore., April 18.—Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, who has been under the constant care of Dr. Marie Equi is slowly recovering from a serious illness.

Chicago Defense Meeting.

The Chicago Local of International Labor Defense will hold a city-wide membership meeting on Thursday night, April 21st, 1927, at Northwest Hall, North and Western Avenues, to discuss the present situation in the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

The purpose of the meeting is to inform the membership of the International Labor Defense of the situation and to arouse discussion as to how we can best mobilize a real protest movement in Chicago.

Celebrate

MAY DAY

With a bundle of the

SPECIAL

of the

DAILY WORKER

On May Day a Special Issue of The DAILY WORKER will be issued.

ORDER A BUNDLE

where will be special articles on the world labor; special cartoons and photographs.

ORDER A BUNDLE

A whole section will be devoted to greetings to the world of labor from individual workers and from working class organizations.

ORDER A BUNDLE

This issue should be brought into the hands of thousands of workers. Order a bundle for yourself to give away and be sure to order a bundle

FOR YOUR MAY DAY MEETING

Special Bundle Rates

$2.50 A HUNDRED

RUSH

THE DAILY WORKER
33 First St., New York

Enclosed find $..... for copies of the MAY DAY SPECIAL

Name .....

Street .....

City .....

State .....

Organized Labor—Trade Union Activities

News and Comment
Labor Education
Labor and Government
Trade Union Politics

Policies and Programs
The Trade Union Press
Strikes—Injunctions
Labor and Imperialism

Basoff on Stand to Be Cross Examined In Mineola Trial

The stool pigeon Barnet Basoff went back on the witness stand for further cross-examination yesterday when tha trial of Ben Gold, I. Shapiro, S. Hencher and 3 other members of the New York Furriers' Joint Board, charged with responsibility for an assault said to have occurred in a scab shop during tha strike, is resumed before Judge Lewis J. Smith at the Nassau county court house, Mineola.

Contradicted Himself.

Basoff was on the stand for four hours last Friday and contradicted himself so continuously that his testimony served as clear evidence of the fact that these fur workers are a clean-room, and facing a possible jail sentence, as a result of a frame-up.

Members of the union are in no doubt as to who has brot about this frame-up. They are seeing, the day by day attempts of Matthew Woll, Edward F. McGrady and Hugh Frayne to smash the furriers' union, to force registration with the Sculin International by methods of terrorization, and by having workers dismissed from their jobs. They remember McGrady's boast that Gold and the other leaders would be put in jail—and that would end the struggle in the union.

To Continue Union Work.

But the response of the fur workers to these tactics is expressed in a leaflet issued by the Furriers' Shop Chairmen Council, of which Simon Biro is chairman and Hayim Bassen is secretary. It urges the workers to push forward the organization of the buildings, and to give to the provocateurs and traitors "the reply that you gave them in Carnegie Hall."

It is expected that the Mineola trial will last for several days longer, since none of the 11 defendants has yet been put on the stand. The fur workers are being represented by five prominent lawyers, Frank P. Walsh, Charles W. Weeks, former district attorney of Nassau county; George Madalie, George Levy, and Harry Uterhart.

Consolidation Wiping Out Retailers of Minn.

ST. PAUL, (FP).—"Nearly all the basic industries are monopolized and the remorseless process of consolidation has entered the retail field in a number of forms and is beginning to wipe out the little merchant," declares the Minnesota Union Advocate, official organ of the St. Paul and Minnesota labor movement.

"The chain stores have entered the country towns; they are not customers of the regular jobbing and wholesale houses as the chain stores buy their supplies through eastern agencies at rock bottom prices. The result is that traveling salesmen are taken off the road, and jobbing houses have to consolidate to save themselves.

"Monopoly of the means and opportunities of wealth production gives to an ever diminishing few the power to dictate the life of the masses. The only protection against this impending slavery is to make monopoly of industry a public matter and employ it for the common good.

Party Political Campaign.

LOS ANGELES.—A well-attended general membership meeting of the Workers Party of Los Angeles and the Young Workers League officially opened the membership drive in this city, and the political campaign for the municipal elections May 3rd and June 6th. Malcolm Bruce, Sub-District Organizer, presided.

The Workers' Party is issuing a leaflet for the election campaign containing its program of immediate demands, under the slogans, "Boycott the Bosses Candidates," "Support Labor Candidates," and "Build A Labor Party."

It is expected that the Party will shortly issue a leaflet endorsing the platform of Sam Globerman, Independent labor candidate fur the Board of Education.

New Date "Hands Off" China Meeting

LOS ANGELES, Cali.—The Hands Off China mass meeting called by the local Anti-Imperialist League has changed its date and place to Sunday May 8th, at the Music Arts Hall, 233 S. Broadway.

There will be two Chinese speakers, a Mexican speaker, a prominent A. F. of L. official, and a representative of the Workers' Party.

Woman Killed By Elephants.

NEWARK, N. J., April 18.—One woman was killed this afternoon, when three elephants broke loose as they were being led into Proctor's Theatre in Market Street, and fled through the business section.

COTTON INDUSTRY, ONE TIME LEADER, IN ENGLAND, ENTERING INTO DECLINE

By LELAND OLDS
(Federated Press)

That the British economic empire is fighting with its back to the wall is revealed in cold statistics of the British cotton spinning and weaving industry from the British census of production in 1924. The figures reflect a big drop in the foreign demand for English cotton goods compared with the two previous census years 1912 and 1907.

The cotton industry made the first rapid strides in the industrial revolution which gave England the lead in the capitalist struggle for world dominion. The British commercial and investment empire of the 19th century virtually rested upon the world market for the cheap cotton goods produced in England.

Criminal Offense.

So important did England consider this market in the early days that it made the export of textile machinery or of designs for textile machinery a criminal offence. The first textile machinery brought to America from England was smuggled out part by part and reassembled by emigrant mechanics who carried away the designs in their heads.

India and China afforded the great market for British cottons. In these distant economic provinces the oppressive arm of British imperialism has functioned to a considerable extent in the interest of Manchester cotton manufacturers.

Seriously Hit.

Now the census shows this vital market seriously hit. With curtailment of the overseas market has come curtailment in production, reduction in the number of workers in the cotton mills and spread of chronic part-time.

The production and export of British cotton yarn and cotton piece goods in 1907, 1912 and 1924 were:

British Cotton Industry	Cotton yarn (thousands of pounds)	Production	Exports
1907		1,800,000	241,500
1912		1,976,000	244,000
1924		1,579,000	162,000
	Piece goods (thousands of yards)
1907		7,088,000	6,208,000
1912		8,044,000	6,918,000
1924		6,426,000	4,627,000

Compared with 1912, exports of cotton yarn have fallen 33.6 per cent and exports of cotton piece goods 33.1 per cent. Compared with 1907 the reductions are 26.5 per cent and 26.6 per cent. Production of cotton yarn is 20.2 per cent under 1912 and 25.4 per cent under 1907 while production of piece goods has fallen 22.5 per cent from 1912 and 23.3 per cent from 1907. Reductions in the production of piece goods have paralleled reductions in exports.

The census report shows 347,252 workers employed in the British cotton industry in 1924 compared with 621,516 in 1912 and 572,062 in 1907. It also refers to the part-time prevalent in 1924.

Important factors in the world situation which these figures reflect are the spread of the industrial revolution to British economic colonies and the development of a widespread boycott of British goods by colonial peoples slowly rising to shake off the imperial yoke.

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF LABOR REVEALS 41 CENTS AN HOUR WAGE FOR UNSKILLED FACTORY WORKERS

The average hiring rate for unskilled labor in American factories on Jan. 1, 1927 was 41c an hour, according to the U. S. Department of Labor. This is a slight improvement over January, 1926, when the average rate was 40.2c. Throughout the year the average has been creeping up.

Some Work for 12 cents an Hour.

If general contracting is included with manufacturing, the average hiring rate for common labor Jan. 1 was 43.2c. But the average gives no indication of the extraordinary range at which employers hire adult male common labor. It covers the colored or Mexican worker hired for 15c an hour by the brickyards of the southern Mississippi valley or by sawmills in the south Atlantic region. At the other extreme it covers the unionized common building labor of the middle Atlantic region hired at 124½ cents an hour.

Highest Rate 49 cents.

The highest average rate is 49.8c in general contracting. In this industry unionization has made considerable progress. The lowest average rate is 33.4c in sawmills.

The low, high and average hourly rates by industries are:

Common Labor January, 1927	Cents per Hour Low	High	Average
Automobile	39.5c	62.5c	45.6c
Brick, tile	15.0	55.6	40.2
Cement	25.0	60.0	39.6
Electric equipment	31.0	52.0	47.0
Foundries, machine shops	17.5	56.0	38.7
Iron, steel	20.0	70.0	42.7
Leather	22.5	54.2	43.1
Lumber (sawmills)	15.0	62.5	33.4
Paper, pulp	22.5	56.3	43.8
Petroleum refining	30.0	62.0	46.1
Meat packing	37.5	50.0	41.9
Utilities	20.0	56.3	39.4
General contracting	20.0	112.5	49.8
All industries	15.0	112.5	43.2

Little Change From 1926.

The average rate for common labor in the lumber industry is 2.8c an hour above last year. Other gains are paper and pulp 2.3c, foundries and machine shops 2c, leather 1.6c and electrical equipment 1.5c. The average has fallen 2.6c in the petroleum industry, 1.5c in brick and tile, 1.2c in public utilities and 1c an hour in the automobile industry.

The hiring rate for unskilled labor has always been important to labor. It is the basis on which the entire wage system rests. With the progress of automatic machinery, making is possible for employers to hire an increasing proportion of factory labor as unskilled, the common labor rate becomes vital. As long as there is a great body of unskilled labor available at an average wage amounting to less than $1,200 a year on a 9-hour day basis, union wages will be inadequate and insecure. The great problem of organized labor is to raise the standard of these unskilled workers.

DISCUSS PROSPECTS FOR STRIKE BY RUBBER WORKERS OF AKRON, OHIO

AKRON, Ohio, April 18.—A discussion is going on nationally about the next big wage movement that will occur in a basic industry. It is shown that Passaic has opened the way for further victories of the exploited workers in the basic industries, and that it is merely a question of time before more demonstrations of solidarity will take place at other points, namely, Lawrence, Bayonne, Gary, Detroit and Akron, particularly Akron, since here the wage cuts and the speed-up have been geared up to an acute extent, and a union has already sprung into existence.

Different Situation.

The mistaken impression has been prevalent, however, that the Passaic victory can easily be duplicated here in Akron; that the objective conditions are similar; and that we therefore can employ similar tactics in developing a mass movement among the rubber workers.

The reader will see by reading this and the following articles the fundamentally different situation you find here as compared to Passaic and I hope will get a clearer conception of Akron and so be better able to judge this and other situations that will certainly arise in the immediate few years.

Akron is an overwhelming native-born city. Akron is probably the most purely American industrial city in the United States. Out of 210,000 you find but 38,000 foreign-born, while Passaic has 26,000 out of 64,000 (according to the 1920 census).

From The Backwoods.

It is not only native born, but its workers are fresh from the backwoods. The biggest bulk of the workers are recruited from West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Georgia. The company maintains recruiting agencies in these states attracting the most backward white workers of the south by means of the (to them) fabulous wages of $5 to $7 a day. In Tennessee, with its lower living costs, these wages are truly unusual. However, it takes some time to learn that a high money wage doesn't go far in Akron, where living costs are as high as in Chicago, making their real wage little above what they could have earned back down in old "Wes' V'ginny."

For Still Dryer Alaska.

WASHINGTON, April 18. — The supreme court today granted the government's petition for a review of lower courts decision holding that the Alaska bone dry law was superseded by the less drastic Volstead Act.

R. R. Brotherhood Official Scores Company Pensions

CLEVELAND, April 18 (FP).—When a railroad offers a pension scheme it is a good thing to examine it before swallowing the hook and sinker. Usually the union gives far more for the same money and gives it with greater certainty and less red tape. This at least is the conclusion reached by 2d Vice Pres. H. P. Daugherty of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

"My advice to our members is to have nothing to do with any of these proposed company pension schemes," Daugherty says, "for you can get better and cheaper pension protection through your own organization and you will have the satisfaction of controlling it yourself.

"For example an employe earning $250 a month under the company plan would have $11.25 a month deducted from his wage for 30 years to be eligible for a pension of $137.50 a month. If a member paid $11.25 a month into the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineer Pension Assn. for 30 years and retired at the age of 65, we could pay him a pension of $297 a month instead of the $137.50 the company proposes to pay."

Daugherty notes in studying the most unfavorable company pension plans that they usually contain a provision that either party may withdrnw on 30 days notice. This simply means, he says, that the company is keeping the way open to ruin the pension racket any time the plan becomes burdensome and the employes will find "that they have been holding an empty sack." In Chicago the employes of Nelson Morris & Co. lost their pensions when Armour & Co. bought up the firm. Armour bought the assets but dumped the pension liabilities and the Illinois courts decided that Armour could not be held for the obligations.

Lots of strings are tied to the pension plans by the railroad companies, Daugherty further discovers. If a disabled engineer can tend a crossing he would get only part of his company pension until he is 65, for example, any any employe who sues the company for personal injury or any other reason thereby forfeits his pension rights.

"If members of the B. of L. E. Pension Assn. would contribute in the same proportion that the company proposed to deduct dues from their wages it would enable us to pay a pension that would equal if not exceed their salaries," he concludes.

"Forward" on Trial as Betrayer of Workers

The Jewish Daily Forward will celebrate its 30th birthday next Sunday with J. Ramsay MacDonald as its guest of honor. It proudly announces that it has always stood for the workers' interests but those who have participated in the labor struggle in this city are of a different opinion.

To settle this question the Forward will be given a public trial next Sunday, April 24, two p. m., at Central Opera House, New Star Casino and Manhattan Lyceum.

WORKERS! PROTEST AGAINST DEATH OF SACCO and VANZETTI!

Violin and Viola Lessons
Given by expert teacher.
For reasonable rates write to
JOHN WEINROTH
4256 LANCHWOOD AVENUE.
Phone Granite 7252, Philadelphia, Pa.

Chinese Speaker At Chicago May Day Celebration

CHICAGO, Ill., April 18.—May First means a lot to the workers of Chicago. Historically, it is to the fathers of Chicago's present generation of wage slaves that world labor owes its annual International holiday. During the great working class struggles of the eighties in this country, Chicago was the center of the fight for the eight hour day that culminated in the murder of the Haymarket victims.

The eight-hour strikes during that fiery decade were called each year on May First. The biggest of these efforts was that of 1886. The workers of Chicago were the standard bearers. A huge strike at the McCormick Harvester works called prior to May First was fused with the general eight-hour movement. On the second of May a great demonstration was held at the McCormick plant, Company gunmen and police opened fire on the crowd and several were killed.

Haymarket Frameup

The following day a meeting was called in the Haymarket as a protest, it was at this demonstration that the dastardly frame-up was perpetrated that ended in the hanging of the Haymarket martyrs and a reign of terror that crushed the eight-hour movement.

For the workers of Chicago the observance of the international holiday to be held at the Ashland Auditorium on Sunday, May First in the evening, is of special moment.

But aside from its historical significance, May First this year comes at a time when the revolutionary movement is looking up again. Next to the Russian Revolution, the Chinese nationalist liberation movement is the greatest working class achievement of recent years.

Chinese Speaker

The meeting being held on May First this year throuout the country under the au-pices of the Workers' Communist Party will put special emphasis on the Chinese revolution and voice the demand that American and all other "imperialist powers" keep "Hands off China." C. T. Chi, who has just returned from the world congress against imperialism recently concluded in Brussels, Belgium, will be a speaker at the Chicago meeting.

Wm. Z. Foster, nationally known strade union leader, will head the speaker's list.

Socialists Refuse to Aid Milwaukee Hands Off China Campaign

MILWAUKEE, April 18.—Efforts to secure the co-operation of the local Socialist Party in a "Hands off China" protest demonstration sponsored by the local branch of the Anti-Imperialist League for April 17 proved unavailing. The same excuse given was that "our Speakers are too busy."

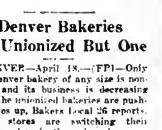
The local capitalistic paper The "Journal" has given free space in its columns to announce the meeting, by Mr. Berger's Socialist Organ "The Leader" although it writes editorials in opposition to the Wall Street policies of the State Department in China, evidently for-iders its space far too precious to waste on practical steps in the interest of colonial slaves.

Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!

Textile Magnates Attack Open Shop; Defend Low Wages

The protest of forty-one Southern bishops and ministers against the inhuman conditions in southern textile mills was answered by the National Association of Manufacturers yesterday.

Attacking the closed shop, the industrial barons said that "wages can neither be fixed on the principle of the needs of men or moral requirements."



"The closed union shop," the Association said, "is a monstrosity which will never be tolerated in America. The appeal of the clergymen, though couched in servile terms, called attention to the long hours, and the meager wages in southern textile mills.

All Denver Bakeries Unionized But One

DENVER.—April 18.—(FP)—Only one Denver bakery of any size is non-union and its business is decreasing while the unionized bakeries are pushing sales up, Bakers Local 26 reports. Chain stores are switching their bakery orders to the union shops.

Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!

CHINA
IN REVOLT

a new pamphlet

including the discussion by outstanding figures in the Communist International on the great revolt in China by

STALIN
BUCHARIN
MANUILSKY
TAN PING SHAN

15¢

On China Read Also
THE AWAKENING OF CHINA
by Jas. H. Dolsett.

A complete history of the awakening of over four hundred million people. With photographs, maps and original documents.

NOW 50 CENTS

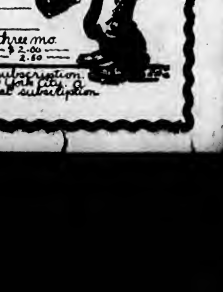
The DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING COMPANY
33 First Street
NEW YORK

ATTENTION, WORKERS!

OAKLAND RICHMOND SAN FRANCISCO

MASS PROTEST PICNIC

Sacco, Vanzetti Must Not Die; Hands Off China, Nicaragua and Mexico



SUNDAY, APRIL 24, 1927, ALL DAY
at East Shore Park (near Richmond, Calif.)

GAMES REFRESHMENTS DANCING

Price 25 cents in advance, 35 cents at the gate.

DIRECTION TO THE PARK: From San Francisco: Key Route Ferry, then Sab Pablo Car to San Pablo Avenue, the street car to take. From Oakland-side: Any car to San Pablo, then transfer.

strike a blow for labor subscribe to THE DAILY WORKER
The National Labor Daily

Name .....
Address .....
City ..... State .....
Subscription rates: one year—six mos.—three mos.
Outside New York $6.00 $3.50 $2.00
In New York 8.00 4.50 2.50
Enclose cash, check or money order with subscription. Make all checks payable to Daily Worker Publishing Co., 33 First St., New York City.
Copy of Red Calendar of 1927 free with each annual subscription.

MEXICATECHISM

By V. K.

Q. What is the purpose of the existence of Mexico and of its inhabitants?

A. In His infinite wisdom and foresight, the Creator planned Mexico for three supreme purposes: (1) That we, Americans, might readily see our superiority and be justly proud of it. (2) That rich, legitimate outlet be available for our excess capital, under the protecting shadow of the Golden Eagle. (3) That our great statesmen, at times of internal difficulties and strife, might unite all brave and patriotic Americans, rich and poor alike, in insisting upon our legitimate rights and honor in Mexico, and thus make them forget their petty internal squabbles.

* * *

Q. How should a red-blooded one-hundred-per-cent American learn the truth about Mexico?

A. Since it is impossible for an average person to learn the truth by an individual investigation, and since the resourceful American corporations which have invested in Mexico have the permanent welfare of that country nearest their hearts the facts should be taken from newspapers and magazines subsidized by such corporations.

* * *

Q. Would you advocate similar unconditional support of the administration of all local affairs concerning your community?

A. In local politics, one's business interests, friendships, church affiliations, advantages offered by this or that party, and family traditions, definitely determine one's opinion, so that a wise man may always act or vote to his own best advantage, and at the same time not incur the displeasure of the party in power.

* * *

Q. Who spreads misinformation about Mexico?

A. Persons and organizations commonly known as "red."

* * *

Q. Against what kinds of misinformation about Mexico should one be on one's guard?

A. The Reds pretend to love the common people of Mexico, and show that American corporations are enslaving Mexico by virtually controlling its natural resources. The Reds would make unimaginative persons believe that illiterate and degenerate half-breeds and their brigand chiefs could make a bright future like ourselves and could advance both materially and spiritually if left alone.

* * *

Q. What is the real purpose of this pernicious propaganda?

A. The radicals are using Mexico as a tool in spreading discontent against our wonderful present-day economic system. By discrediting our beloved leaders of industry and finance, who have reached their present positions by their christian virtues, the agitators hope to become more influential with their blind followers, and to earn thus, an easy living without working.

* * *

Q. How should the Red propaganda about Mexico be combatted?

A. When a disloyal organization wilfully obstructs a profitable and successful war for national honor, and finances to deprive hundreds of thousands of honest workers of their rightful wages in the manufacture of munitions of war, all means of suppression and violence are not only permissible, but sanctioned by the spirit of our highest laws, both human and divine.

* * *

Q. Do you, as an individual, pledge your unconditional support to our impending war against Mexico, and to the suppression of opposition within our own land?

A. Inspired by the wonderful success of the Great European War, which has brought peace, plenty, and in liberty love to the world, I pledge the sacred impulse to surrender my reason when even the richest men of the country clamor for war and are ready for supreme sacrifice; bowing my head humbly before the wisdom of our intrepid and cool-headed statesmen and army chiefs; hoping that this war will arouse the whole of Latin-America against us, and thus ultimately give us wealth-bringing control over their great natural resources; inspired by the lofty thought that during the war thousands of brilliant business men will become multi-millionaires; deeply satisfied with the forthcoming curbing of loose talk of irresponsible scatterbrains and their just severe discipline in military prisons; rejoicing at the wonderful manly experiences of our young soldiers in camps and in trenches, and at the unfoldment of their full manhood through wounds and disease—as a christian and an American, I pledge my unconditional support.

So help me Coolidge and Kellogg, and a gambler's chance.

The Story of a Retired Clothing Merchant Who Became Patriotic

MR. JACOB CASH, a retired clothing dealer and for 12 years a city marshall, organized himself as the United States Patriotic Society in 1925. On the walls of the banquet room at the Hotel Commodore where the organization was brought into being was drawn a picture to show the growth of radicalism in the United States. Mr. Cash dedicated his "society" chiefly to the business of fighting this radicalism by means of "educating workers" in the United States constitution. A number of prominent democratic politicians and a well-known Jewish rabbi (Silverman), spoke at the initial meeting. "Founder Cash", as he was referred to, beamed upon the lawyers and business men present, and assured them that he would fight radicalism in all its forms. But most of them refrained from joining his society.

At the same time Mr. Cash distributed copies of his monthly paper, "The Patriot" (all back copies of which may be obtained from his office at 299 Broadway).

* * *

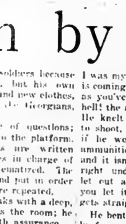
MR. CASH is keen for keeping all of foreign radicals out of this country and has advocated "constitution intelligence tests" to be given all immigrants before they take ship for America. In case they get in without trouble Mr. Cash would make sure they were kosher by giving them further doses of the constitution in their own language. He considers the constitution a solution for all our industrial ills. When "The Passover Lamb"—to the picket lines in the hope that the workers, on reading of Cash's success in America, would hurry back to work. The attempt to propagandize the workers with the constitution apparently was of no avail, especially as they saw the Bill of Rights—the first ten amendments to the constitution—violated every day by the local police. Later Mr. Cash offered Jack Bryan, a spy for the Botany Mills, a regular job traveling about the country distributing copies of his book among the workers. Bryan refused, even though Cash promised to make him a city marshall if he would work for him.

* * *

Mr. Cash declares that his present activities for "Americanism" cost him $25,000 a year. The organization is, of course, a one man affair and simply Jacob's hobby. In 1926 it reported 58 contributors, paying dues of from $2.00 up. Mr. Cash covers all necessary expenses as the income from contributors is apparently negligible.

Said Mr. Cash in December, 1926, when he was offering free speakers on Americanization to address clubs, conventions and private gatherings, "Patriotism is needed as much in times of peace as of war. Our country is facing a crisis, gradually coming to a head. She needs her children to help. We must form a bulwark not only to withstand the combined onslaught of hatred, jealousy and greed but to promulgate the doctrine of good citizenship, honesty and harmony within our borders."

* * *



Mr. Cash is a Spanish War veteran and says he was a close friend of the late T. R, whose influence on Major Mitchell made Cash a city marshall. Cash was very fond of meeting big political figures. He once went to the White House to call on President McKinley and requested an autograph of the president, which was given him. Later he called on General Fitzhugh Lee, governor of Cuba. The latter gave him a note which informed the world as follows: "I hereby certify that Mr. Jacob Cash called at my headquarters today." That was January 21, 1899. Cash has been ever since trying to behnob with the "great." At the outbreak of the world war he was organizing the National Business Men's League, composed chiefly of petty dry goods merchants and dealers with whom he was associated in a business way.

* * *

It may be noted that Mr. Cash, although he served in the Spanish-American War says, "We were under full pack three times ready to go but we never got to the front." (See picture of Jacob himself in military regalia on page 41 of his illustrated "What America Means To Me." Also his picture handing Roosevelt a glass of water on page 61 of the same book.) His comical flunkeyism is his outstanding characteristic.

One of Mr. Cash's most telling pamphlets was entitled "Whither America," in which he reprinted (without credit to The DAILY WORKER or the International Publishers) parts of Trotsky's "Whither England" in parallel columns with Cash's crude conception of Whither America. He had swallowed most of the fairy tales of the Lusk Report on "Subversive Movements" and retails it in this pamphlet with all its mistakes.

Held for Crime

Earl Jackson, 15, of Poplar Bluff, Mo., killed his step-mother, Mrs. Mary Jackson, 21, with an axe "because she begged me to do it," according to a confession given out by the Prosecuting Attorney Byron Kearbey. The prosecutor says Earl declared the step-mother said she was "tired of living with his father." The murder was committed last October. The body has just been found. The boys had said his step-mother was an Arkansas or a cotton-picking job.

RED MARCH

Bind up our uncouth wounds, O granite earth!
With bannered marching we are buffeted
Between contemptuous winds,
And catapaulting minds
Breaking upon us with shoddy of the dead,
Shrilling against us for our uncommon birth.

O sounding earth, be resonant for us!
Their cormorant clamor and witches' brew in vain
Are flung upon us here,
Our ranks are without fear,
Our banners catch the red of dawn again,
Our shouts devour them, our march is ominous!

Bind up our wounds, but never be at ease
Within quiescent tents and panoplies,
But climb up to the portals of the wise,
But clamber to the outposts of the skies!

—MARTIN FEINSTEIN.

REBELLION

All day I walk the velvet lawns
And fling my papers on their stairs,
And see the bored and lazy yawns,
And realize what's mine—and theirs.

The hate the worker feels when caged
By bars to one unsightly place
Runs thru my veins; I am enraged
With all my impotent disgrace.

What vistas of a magic land
I glimpse thru massive, swinging doors
That never will yield to my hand
As long as this that is, endures.

What rose and amber blend to hold
An artists's dream of summer dawn,
What pearl and sapphire unfold
As aching feet plod on and on.

Smile, masters, in your gilded bowers
Shut from the hungry mass away,
Steel claws are flexing in this hour
Ready to rend the bars, and slay!

—HENRY GEORGE WEISS.

DEFRAUDED

I saw him, thin and pasty white,—
Thirteen or fourteen years maybe,
One morning when it scarce was light;
Boarding an early car with me.

A knapsack on his back there was;
"Out hiking, kid?" I asked him; he Replied, "No, sir, I'm bound for work
Down at the cotton factory."

He coughed; the lint of cotton clung
Upon his coat; I looked away.
I could not bear to see his face.
"What money do you get a day?"

"Two-forty, sir, thirteen a week.
The dust? it makes a feller cough.
We don't work all day Saturdays;
Come twelve o'clock at noon we're off."

He said good-bye and went his way,
Poor hapless lad, so gallantly.
To toil the sunlit hours away
Down at the cotton factory.

—HENRY GEORGE WEISS.

THERE IS NO PEACE

There is no peace; who talks of peace
In this mad hour is fool or knave.
Give over; let the babbling cease!
King Gold is tottering to his grave.
Now is no time for sophistries,
Choose whom you fight for in the fray
It is not peacefully he dies:
It is not peacefully we slay.

—HENRY GEORGE WEISS.

Literary Criticism by the Masses

By Alexander Serafimovitch*

FORMERLY this place used to be a stable for the horses of the grand dukes, who used to stage drinking bouts and orgies in a swell restaurant nearby.

Now the walls have been painted white; white pillars support the ceiling; this is now one of the may clubs of the Leningrad metal workers.

I sit at the red table and look into the faces of the proletarian readers who fill the entire hall.

I am not here to read from my works, make a bow, and go off.

Party functionaries, Soviet employees, trade unions officials, our economists all give an account of their activities to the masses of workers. Must not the artist, also, give an account to his proletarian readers?

Why has no one mentioned it before? First, because at the beginning of the revolution there was no time for it; struggle, hunger, disorder absorbed all our energies. Second, it was necessary that not only isolated individuals, not only small sections of readers, but that broad masses of workers should enter into relations with literature, that the mass reader should arise.

This reader now exists. There are tens of thousands of him. He now exercises his right, the right to demand an account from his functionary in the field of art.

I STAND at the red table. Hundreds of eyes are directed toward me. I do not have to give an exposition of the contents of my works. The comrades of the library of the metal workers' trade union have carried out, adroitly and successfully, a well organized campaign of preparation. Whenever the workers came to the libraries of the trade union—there are thirty such libraries—to take out books, they were urged to read and think over the works of the writer who was going to address them. Leaflets were circulated with the photograph of the writer, a brief biographical sketch, and a short estimate of his work. The workers were asked to write their opinions of the artist in question. They also jotted down the name of their factory, their age and sex. The official organ of the trade union, "The Metal Worker" published articles on the writer and on the forthcoming literary evening.

And now these hundreds of eyes were watching me calmly and with assurance. They know who I am, what I have done, and what can be demanded of me. A worker from the Baltic Works speaks briefly on the significance of the workers' literary evenings. A specialist on literary history, brought in for the evening, gives, for the benefit of those who had not been reached by the preparatory campaign, a short sketch of my development and a characterization of my work.

I THEN relate how I wrote The Iron Torrent. Everything interested them. What tasks I set myself in the form of an episode showing the relations of the peasantry to the revolutionary struggle—a mass which in the beginning is anarchic, disorderly, and which, through unbearable suffering, blood, tears, and despair, achieves organization, which is filled with devotion to the Soviet power). They wanted to know how far my story tallies with real facts, how I gathered the material for it (by cross-examining the participants), whether I was personally in the region described, whether I know the population, its mode of life, the surrounding country; whether I have correctly described the landscape.

They pointed out inaccuracies and contradictions; the sailors were the revolutionary part of the old troops, they were the most determined fighters for the revolution. But I describe them as bandits. Koschukh wants to punish the soldiers because they have plundered, but his own staff, which wears brand new clothes, probably takes it from the Georgians, he leaves unpunished.

THERE is a deluge of questions; notes are sent up to the platform. The verbal questions are written down by the comrades in charge of the evening, and systematized. The notes are numbered and put in order so that no question will be twice repeated.

A metal worker speaks with a deep, ringing voice that fills the room; he speaks calmly and with assurance.

"Comrades, I am the representatives of a literary circle."

"What factory?" ask the comrades who organize the evening. Here, too, a note is made of all information.

"Electro-power", voices from the benches shout.

"Our literary circle has appointed me to make a report on the work of the writer Serafimovitch."

"Well, we read and discussed his Iron Torrent, and found that it was well written, and that the scenes are as vivid as if he had been there himself and had gone through the story in person. There is only one fault, and we have discussed it on every page there is the most awful swearing. We already have too much of that kind of thing. Everywhere there is swearing, in the street, in the factory, at home, and now in this book, too. We have enough of it; we want that this kind of thing should not happen in the books."

THE speaker stopped. In the former stable with the white pillars there was a dead silence. Suddenly in the first row a worker leaped up. He wore a torn summer overcoat, though it was bitter cold outside. His hands were dirty; apparently he had just come in from his bench in the factory.

"Now, comrades, that is not correct." He poured out his words with great speed. "It's not at all correct. I was myself at the front. The enemy is coming straight at us. Just as you've got your machine gun set, hell! the ammunition-belt gets stuck. You kneel down as if he were about to shoot, struggled over the floor as if he were trying to pull out the ammunition belt. "Hell! its coming and it isn't coming. The Whites are right under your nose. Then you let out a mighty oath and just as you let it out, the ammunition belt gets straight again."

He bent low, turned his head rapidly from side to side as if he were watching out for the enemy, closed his left eye, and "swept" his machine gun right and left.

"Ta-ta-ta. . . there they go flying!" he said gleefully and stood upright.

THE hall held its breath, began moving a little, and burst into applause.

A young boy stood up.

"Comrades, what the comrade from the Electro-power factory said is not true. If the author had written swear words just so, for the mere sake of swearing, out of bravado, it would be a different matter. There are words and whose every third word is a swear-word, without any necessity, so that it's disgusting to read their stuff. But in this book it is the pure truth. Take these peasants who retreat along the sea; they swear all over the place without thinking about it; that's their habit. The peasant must be described as he is."

"Hear! Hear!"

"That's how it is!"

A piece of paper is sent up:

"If these peasants who suffered so much during the retreat and through blood and pain learned to organize themselves, one more should stick to their piece of land, would they remain as well organized, or would they once more hang around the samovar."

YES, the workers seek in art not only entertainment, but also instruction, the solution of social, economic and other questions.

At the end of the evening the workers gave their judgment:

"The writers should give us a picture of how we live, work, act toward our wives and children, how we drink, what we have achieved—as a picture as they give of the peasantry."

IN Leningrad the critical things are best organized, but also in Moscow, Charkov, etc. the workers put forward their demands as readers:

"Write intelligibly; you are not writing Russian but some kind of jargon."

"Write about workers and not always about peasants."

"Your sentences are too short. One has hardly begun to get the drift of the sentence when it is over and one hasn't quite grasped it."

"We need think books. If you describe a man, describe him from start to finish. We can't get along with these thin little volumes. You have hardly started the book, and it's already done. We prefer to read the old books."

At last there exists for the writer a wide reading public, a public of his own class, a public, without which healthy creation and life is impossible.

* Alexander Serafimovitch, the author of this article, is considered one of the most brilliant of the proletarian writers in Russia. He is the author of a novel called The Iron Torrent.

Postpone Pratt Case.

Illness of six year old Roberta Jane Pratt yesterday caused adjournment until Friday of the trial of her foster mother, Mrs. Everett S. Pratt in special sessions court on charges of torturing her.

BOOKS

AMERICAN HUMOR: MODEL 1927, G. O. P.

Formdations of the Republic: Speeches and Addresses, by Calvin Coolidge. Charles Scribner's Sons. $2.50.

"To my mind America has but one main problem, the character of the men and women it shall produce" (p. 75). "America recognizes no aristocracy save those who work. The badge of service is the sole requirement for admission to the ranks of our nobility" (76). "We have had our revolution and our reforms. I do not favor a corporation government, a bank government, a farm government or a labor government. I am for a common-sense government by all the people according to the American policy and under the American constitution" (76). "I am thrilled at the thought of my audience tonight, for I never address boys without thinking, among them may be a boy who will sit in the White House" (67). "It is hard to see how a great man can be an athelst" (68).

* * *

"These are not only some of the fundamentals of the teachings of the Boy Scouts, they are the fundamentals of our American institutions" (68). "Another activity which is being encouraged is that of gardening. It is extremely practical on the one hand, and lends itself to relaxation on the other" (81). "It is only by surrendering a certain amount of our liberty, only by taking on new duties and assuming new obligations that we make that progress which we characterize as civilization. That is the answer to every herald of discontent and to every preacher of destruction" (23). "I will now turn this meeting over to General Lord, the director of the Bureau of the budget. He is human . . . He will tell you more in detail of the things which have been accomplished and of the work which lies before you under the financial program" (17).

* * *

"As already indicated, America is turning from the mere thought of the cultural advantage to a greater appreciation of the cultural advantage of learning" (57). "This occasion is dedicated to freedom. The people of Baltimore and of Maryland are gathered here in that spirit" (89). "The time for Americans to range themselves firmly, squarely and unecompromisingly behind American ideals is now" (96). "We have contributed hundreds of millions of dollars to foreign charities. We have given freely of our counsel to the settlement of difficulties in Latin-America and the adjustment of problems in Europe" (98). "Laws and treaties may help, but peace and war are attitudes of mind" (99). "Something in all human beings makes them want to do the right thing" (105).

* * *

"The government of the U. S. is a device for maintaining in perpetuity the rights of the people, with the ultimate extinction of all privileged classes" (111). "No American coming to Philadelphia on this anniversary could escape being thrilled" (115). "I have a double satisfaction in welcoming home the victorious Washington baseball team" (129). "Manager Harris, I am directed by a group of your Washington fellow citizens to present to you this loving cup" (131). "The great truth cannot be too often repeated that this nation is exactly what the people make it. Our government rests upon religion" (148). "The Young Men's Hebrew Association and the Young Women's Hebrew Association do social and educational work of the greatest value" (170).

—SENDER GARLIN

"The Communist."

The second issue of "The Communist" is in itself the justification for the transformation in character and form involved in the change from the "Workers' Monthly."

In content this issue is certainly noteworthy. Of course the leading article is devoted to a discussion of the historical role of C. E. Ruthenberg in the American revolutionary movement, by Max Bedacht, the editor and for many years his close co-worker. The recent International conferences are each given two articles, one by Jay Lovestone on the VII Plenum of the Executive of the Communist International ("Towards Another Wave of Revolutionary Struggles") and another by Herbert Zam on the VI Plenum of the Communist International of Youth ("Winning the Youth").

A short examination of the relations of the U. S. and Tacna Arica ("The United States and Tacna Arica," by Ella G. Wolfe); another on the historical background of the present Nicaraguan situation ("Historical Background of the Nicaraguan Situation," by A. G. Bosse), and a discussion of the question of rubber ("The World Struggle For Rubber," by Leon Platt) are valuable contributions to the study of the problems of American imperialism in this issue.

* * *

Unquestionably, however, the center of the April issue of "The Communist" is "With Marx and Engels Section," this time devoted to the first of a series of letters by Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels on the civil war in America. These documents are prefaced by a general introduction by Max Bedacht ("Applied Historic Materialism") and special introductory remarks by A. Landy. The documents along with the introductions are certain to prove of great value to the student of historic materialism and of American history.

The review of the events of the month ("Thru the Mouth") concludes this issue of "The Communist." Apparently unavoidable circumstances demanded the omission of the editorials and of the reviews but we hope that this will not re-occur in the future as these two features are of considerable interest and importance.

* * *

In make-up and in typography this second issue is also a great improvement upon the first, showing a certain habituation to the new form of the journal.

It is becoming more and more evident that "The Communist," the successor to the "Workers' Monthly," is really indispensable to the Communist and to the advanced worker who wants really to understand the theoretical and practical problems facing the American revolutionary movement at this time.

F. L.

The Biography Of An Epoch.

"Michael Collins and The Making Of Ireland," by Piaras Beaslai. Harper & Brothers. $10, 2 Vol.

This book is partly a history of the struggle between the Irish nationalists and the British government from 1916 until the death of Michael Collins—a strong man of the Free State government and one of the signatories to the treaty that created the Free State and partly a polemic against Eamon De Valera.

The author gives scant attention to the contribution made by the Irish labor movement during that struggle. General strikes and refusals to transport soldiers and munitions of war for use against the Irish people are lightly dismissed. Mr. Beaslai is a pure and simple nationalist and wastes no time on the working class. Their's not but to toil and ask no questions. The author does not express hostility to the labor movement. He simply ignores it, tho James Connolly, commander of the Dublin revolutionary army, was in fact the chief strategist of the revolt and the man who was principally responsible for the decision to fight at that time.

* * *

Nevertheless Beaslai has turned out the most informative work of this troubled period that has yet seen the light of day. The Irish rebels were confronted with the task of meeting the mighty power of the British empire with a handful of men. Yet they baffled this murderous machine for six years and forced the proud rulers of Britain to compromise.

* * *

The hero of the story, Michael Collins, was an amazingly ingenuous and courageous leader of a guerilla army. Even making allowances for exaggeration due to hero-worship on the part of the biographer there is no doubt but Collins was a born leader of men and a straightforward person, who was convinced that a compromise with Britain was the only course left to the rebels when he signed his name to the treaty under threat of a renewal of the murderous orgy of destruction conducted by the Black and Tans under the direction of Lloyd George.

Eamon de Valera, who is now among us, is revealed as a quibble and reactionary who refused to join the Irish Republican Brotherhood, a secret organization, after the Easter week rising, because the catholic church condemned secret organizations.

* * *

If you can afford ten berries and wish to know something of the struggle waged by a small devoted band of workers and peasants against a trained army of 60,000 mercenaries you could put your money to worse use than by purchasing those two volumes, always keeping a salt shaker handy when Mr. Beaslai devotes himself to the pleasant task of doing justice to his political opponents.

—T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

HANDS OFF CHINA! WITHDRAW TROOPS AND BATTLESHIPS!

THE DAILY WORKER FIGHTS:
FOR THE ORGANIZATION OF THE UNORGANISED
FOR THE 40-HOUR WEEK
FOR A LABOR PARTY

THE DAILY WORKER

NATIONAL EDITION

Entered as second-class matter at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Vol. IV. No. 83. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In New York, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside New York, by mail, $4.00 per year. NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 20, 1927 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 33 First Street, New York, N. Y. Price 3 Cents

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

CALVIN COOLIDGE is not credited with being a fount of wisdom but he certainly is wise in refraining from delivering impromptu speeches as a rule, judging by the effect of his recent observations on Hoover's unknown position on the Chinese question.

* * *

THE president's spokesman, alias Calvin Coolidge amazed the hardened news hounds of Washington with an unexpected oracular statement that there was no difference of opinion in the cabinet over the administration's Chinese policy, that Hoover was one of that policy's stoutest defenders and that even if Kellogg resigned as secretary of state, Hoover would not take his place.

* * *

THIS kind of language might be expected from one tottering on the verge of insanity or from one in delerium tremens, but coming from such a canny fellow as this ex-bill collector from Vermont it hit the ears of the reporters like the sound of an exploded firecracker in a powder magazine. Journalistic noses went immediately to work to sniffle out the truth but to date the sum total of the result of the collective sleuthing is a series of presidential grunts each less enlightening than its predecessor. That there is a difference on the all-important Chinese policy is evident. But what the nature of the difference is is yet a secret.

* * *

It is sad duty to inform our sophisticated readers that neither Hoover nor Coolidge is a friend of the Chinese nationalist movement. Both are loyal servants of Wall Street and competitors for Wall Street's favor. Hoover has "presidential ambitions" and it looks as if Coolidge would like to succeed himself. This is the key to the president's unexpected comment on the secretary of commerce.

* * *

CHIANG KAI-SHEK has set up a rival government in Nanking of the legal Nationalist government with headquarters in Hankow. The traitor general's chief support comes from the Northern militarists who recently deserted and joined the Nationalists. There is no doubt but that Chiang-Kai-Shek has been preparing for this coup for a long time and that he gave the deserting war lords of the north to understand that he would take care of them later on. It remains to be seen how much mass influence Chiang will manage to hold. Shanghai correspondence appearing in the capitalist press is extremely unreliable with the exception of Special dispatches to the New York World which are fairly accurate and unbiased. We have reason to believe that the overwhelming mass of the workers, peasants and the army will support the legitimate government.

* * *

THE downfall of the Japanese cabinet is likely to be more nearly related to the Chinese situation than to the crisis in the affairs of the Bank of Formosa. The government favored giving the bank financial aid but the Privy Council rejected the proposal. There are rumors that the next government is likely to favor a "stronger" policy in China. Which means a more hostile policy towards the Nationalist government. But as most of the news dispatches are written by people hostile to the Chinese revolution this prediction may be only the still-born child of a wish.

* * *

THE daughters of British peers are learning the womanly art of dancing with a view to making a living out of it. Two daughters of Lord Ruthven are dancing professionally in Manchester. The girls are wise in preparing for the future. Had their Russian prototypes displayed equal foresight they would not now be driven to the extremity of massaging automobiles and slinging hash to proletarians. With Winston Churchill trying to explain away a treasury deficit of over $500,000 to an astounded tax-paying population and with the Independent Labor Party figuratively fastening an empty cracker-ean to Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's evening dress it is hard to say what little lords and their progeny may have to do to keep the teeth from getting rusty.

* * *

THE attempt of Ramsay MacDonald's supporters to minimize the strength of the wallop he received from his own party in convention assembled is amusing to those who know something about the political situation in Great Britain. Arthur Henderson, secretary of the Labor Party tells us that the booted ex-premier will have the support of the overwhelming majority of the or-

(Continued on Page Three)

LOCK OUT 1,000 FUR WORKERS AS GOLD IS TRIED

Four Protest Meetings Thursday at 5.30

In a frantic effort to crush the Joint Board of the Furriers' Union while Ben Gold, its manager, and ten other leaders are on trial at Mineola on a trumped-up "assault" charge inspired by officials of the A. F. of L., working in collaboration with bosses and the police, the Associated Fur Manufacturers yesterday afternoon locked out more than 1,000 furriers.

Want "Company Union."

The refusal of the workers in 44 shops to register with the fake union being concocted by the "Reorganization Committee" of the A. F. of L., is the cause for the present attack by the fur bosses. This latest action is the final evidence showing how the reactionary officials of the International Fur Union are working hand in hand with the employers in an effort to form a docile "company union."

Workers Will Fight.

A huge mass meeting of the locked-out workers was held at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Manhattan Lyceum, 66 East 4th St. Samuel Lieberwitz, nether manager of the Joint Board of the furriers, Fannie Warshafsky and Esther Polnasky were cheered enthusiastically when they announced that the latest attempt to smash the workers' organization would fail.

Picketing at Once.

Hundreds of workers will begin immediate picketing of the 10-odd shops tomorrow morning.

Protest Thursday at 5.30.

A protest demonstration against the imprisonment of Ben Gold, manager of the Joint Board of the Furriers' Union, together with the ten other leaders now on trial at Mineola, will be held tomorrow at 5.30. Four halls, Cooper Union, Astoria Hall, Stuyvesant Casino and Manhattan Lyceum will be used to voice the determination of the thousands of left wing fur workers against the conspiracy to railroad their leaders to jail for the crime of winning a strike after the reactionary officials had failed.

Defense in Fur Workers' Trial to Open

MINEOLA, N. Y., April 19.—The prosecution rested its case late this afternoon in the trial of Ben Gold, and

(Continued on Page Five)

DAILY WORKER IS MENACED BY NEW JOINT ATTACK

The legal basis for an attack by the federal authorities on The DAILY WORKER Publishing Company and the second-class mailing privileges of The DAILY WORKER was laid yesterday when the corporation was served with a summons in the Essex Market magistrate's court.

According to Joseph Brodsky, attorney for William F. Dunne, and J. Louis Engdahl, editors, and Bert Miller, business manager, summoning The DAILY WORKER Publishing Company signifies an attempt to involve it in the charges brought against the editorial and business management by the Keymen of America, the American Defense Society and other "patriotic" bodies.

Purpose of Attack.

"It is evident," said Brodsky, "that the prosecution is preparing a line of attack similar to that by which Carlo Tresca was forced to serve six months in Atlanta penitentiary, and that the forces behind the prosecution will try both to procure conviction of The DAILY WORKER staff under state and federal statutes and revocation of second-class mailing privileges."

Brodsky expressed the opinion that even without the existing wave of censorship and reaction, that the case would be a serious one requiring systematic publicity and organization of defense forces in labor and liberal circles.

Hearing of the case was postponed until April 29, the law requiring a ten day period for summons served upon a corporation.

Dies From Fight

GREAT NECK, N. Y., April 19.—Stephen Geston, thirty-nine, whose skull was fractured a week ago during an altercation with John Rinkowitz, according to the police, is dead at his home here.

UNITED FRONT OF UNION WRECKERS

MacDonald Cold On Sacco, Vanzetti; But Eats With Governor

BOSTON, April 19.—"The Sacco-Vanzetti case is purely an internal affair and a matter of government. No outsider has any business to express any opinion. The matter must be left to yourselves."

This was the comment of J. Ramsay MacDonald on the case of the two framed-up Italian workers yesterday. Last evening the former "labor" premier of Great Britain accepted an invitation to have dinner with Gov. Alvan Fuller of Massachusetts.

This brutal coolness on the part of MacDonald is all the more remarkable in the face of the fact that 22 leaders of his own party in the British parliament have demanded the immediate release of Sacco and Vanzetti in cables to the governor.

Weisbord Stopped From Speaking at Campaign Meeting

(Special to the Daily Worker).

PASSAIC, N. J., April 19.—Albert Weisbord was stopped from speaking last night at the political rally held by the Dundee Republican Club, Commissioner of Public Safety, Abram Preskell's own organization to which all candidates for city commissioner were invited to present their point of view.

After Weisbord had been speaking for a short time he was heckled by a woman member of the club, by Charles Sach, a candidate for city commissioner and his campaign manager, Addion Deane. He was then stopped from speaking by Sandor Weiss, chairman of the meeting.

Audience Divided.

The audience of 200 were divided, about 100 favored his continuing speaking, and the other half supported those who wanted to suppress the labor point of view.

When Weisbord entered the hall, the

(Continued on Page Two)

SACCO-VANZETTI FREEDOM DRIVE GAINS STRENGTH

Tho Socialist Opposes Mass Meetings

(Special to The DAILY WORKER)

BOSTON, April 19.—Governor Fuller is understood to be weakening under the pounding of the nation-wide criticism of Massachusetts persecution of two innocent workers. The leaders of ultra conservative bodies have been forced by the treamendous volume of labor protests to warn the governor that Sacco and Vanzetti must not be murdered.

Tide is Turning.

The defense forces here feel the tide is turning. The great New York mass meeting last Saturday has stimulated mass meetings throughout the country.

Edward Horton, wealthy Boston liberal was arrested today for proving in Braintree that Sacco and Vanzetti could not have committed the crime of which they are convicted. He was making surveys of the territory and was nabbed for refusing to move on.

Faneuil Hall Meeting.

Mrs. Glendower Evans is trying to persuade Mayor Nichols to permit the use of Faneuil Hall, cradle of liberty, for a protest meeting.

Thousands of names on hundreds of petitions poured into Governor Fuller's office today demanding pardon or a new trial.

The efforts to put punch in the local labor councils appeal failed when the Irish catholic majority steam rollered the left wingers. The council ask for a commission, but will follow up by asking President Green of the American Federation of Labor to bring pressure on the governor.

Sherwood Eddy has appealed publicly here for a new trial.

* * *

Socialist Opposes Meetings.

A rabid speech against protesting the Sacco-Vanzetti decision by mass-meetings or demonstrations was made on the floor of the Boston Central Labor Union today by a socialist, Fellerman, delegate from the Cigarmakers' Union and chairman of this

(Continued on Page Three)

The Prosecution Scores a Point

We Must Hit Back Hard!

The District Attorney has decided to take action against The DAILY WORKER Publishing Company. With the transference of the responsibility from the staff of The DAILY WORKER to the corporation, the prosecution makes an important move to take direct action against our mailing rights. If they succeed in taking away our second-class mailing privileges, it will mean the suspension of our paper.

Comrades! You do not realize the seriousness of the situation. The ruling class will make use of any and all expedients to fight and exterminate the fighting organ of the exploited class. They will even use the publication of a poem.

You must be on your guard. Failure to respond in the present emergency will be disastrous.

The Ruthenberg DAILY WORKER Sustaining Fund is being used at this time for the purpose of covering the expenses of the trial. Pledge books have been sent to District DAILY WORKER Agents throughout the country. We ask our friends and supporters to take up this matter at once, to devise ways and means of raising funds, through donations and loans. All party units should make this a major order of business. All our forces should be mobilized to protect the party's chief weapon, The DAILY WORKER. Stand by our paper. Don't delay. Act now.

Send all contributions to DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, New York City.

GENERAL FENG MADE COMMANDER OF PEOPLES ARMIES; RIGHT WING HOPES ARE SMASHED; CHIANG'S ARREST IS ORDERED BY HANKOW

Losovsky Speaking On China Over Radio

Above is a picture of Losovsky, general secretary of the Red International Labor Unions, delivering a broadcasted address to the meeting of the trade union council. Radio mechanics are taught in government schools.

THOUSANDS LOSE HOMES IN FLOOD OF MISSISSIPPI

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 19.—With the entire Saint Francis basin in jeopardy from a break in the levee near New Madrid, Mo., government engineers today directed the effort of hundreds of workmen to prevent a change in the course of the Mississippi River at that point.

Engineers said only a sudden stoppage of the waters can prevent the flood of the Saint Francis basin. The water was still rising steadily today.

Reports that the levee at Farrenburg on the Little River, has broken were denied, but it was admitted that water was lapping over the side. All night long more than 1,000 men labored to prevent the levee from crashing before the pressure of the waters.

The flood situation, especially in Arkansas, Mississippi and along the lower Mississippi valley, became worse today. A dozen deaths are more or less attributed to the floods, while nearly 30,000 are homeless. The

(Continued on Page Two)

Forty-two Warships of Great Powers Anchored In Harbor of Hankow

Imperialist Intervention Leading Straight to War, Says Rykow

CHINESE NEWS TODAY.

1.—General Chiang Kai Shek, betrayer of the Nationalist movement, dismissed as commander-in-chief of the Nationalist armies. General Feng appointed in his place.

2.—Hankow Government sends troops to suppress Chiang.

3.—Imperialist fleet masses on Hankow.

4.—Shanghai business men plan annexation of adjacent cities.

5.—Chiang Kai Shek continues raids on labor unions.

5.—Rykoff says foreign intervention in China may lead to an imperialist war.

7.—Powers plan second series of blackmail notes to Nationalist Government.

* * *

HANKOW, April 19.—General Chiang Kai Shek was dismissed as commander-in-chief of the Nationalist armies in a mandate issued by the Nationalist Government today. Branding him as a traitor to the Chinese liberation movement, the mandate ordered his arrest and punishment.

Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang has been appointed his successor, while General Tang Seng-chi, governor of Honan, has been appointed associate commander-in-chief.

People Back Hankow.

Declaring Chiang Kai-shek a rebel against the Nationalist Government, the mandate orders General Tang to march against Nanking. With the solid support of the workers and peasants and the backing of large sections of the army, it is expected that General Tang will have little difficulty in suppressing the counter-revolutionary "government" set up by Chiang at Nanking.

Prevent Economic Crisis.

Declaring that Chiang Kai Shek and the imperialist powers are trying to create an economic crisis, the Nationalist government has placed an embargo on silver. Soldiers have been posted outside of all banks to prevent the removal of the metal from the vaults.

The platform adopted by Chiang Kai Shek at Nanking calls for the expulsion of left wing members of the Kuomintang.

* * *

Plan Attack On Hankow.

SHANGHAI, April 19.—Imperialist warships are concentrating at Hankow in preparation for a possible attack on the Hankow government. Forty-two war vessels are at Hankow now, and more are patrolling the Yangtse River between Shanghai and the Nationalist capital.

The powers are reported to have delayed their answer to Eugene Chen's request for an international investigation of the Nanking affair in the hope that Chiang Kai Shek, who has betrayed the Nationalist government, will set up a new government and split the Nationalist movement.

Plan Annexatinn.

Foreign business men here are planning to forcibly annex territory lying outside of the international settlement. Dalny experts are surveying the surrounding territory with a view to conquest and annexation.

Blessed By American.

The plan contemplates the conquest of all the native cities adjacent to the international settlement, the removal of all Chinese troops in the area and the suppression of all labor organizations as well as the activities of the left wing of the Kuomintang. Although the plans have not yet been approved by the governments of the imperialist powers, they have been sanctioned by Stirling Fessenden, American lawyer, acting as mayor of the international settlement.

Reports from Hongkong state that three villages were burnt by right wing members of the Kuomintang.

Continue Raids On Labor.

A series of strikes are being conducted in Canton to protest against the right wing raids on unions.

* * *

Chang Kills 26 Nationalists.

PEKING, April 19.—A Tientsin dispatch states that fourteen students, alleged Nationalist sympathizers, who were arrested last November in the British concession have been executed by Chang Tso Lin, Manchurian war lord.

Twelve other Nationalist sympathizers are reported to have been de-

(Continued on Page Two)

LATIMER SEIZES MORE TERRITORY IN NICARAGUA

Stimson Arrives on Fake Mission

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 19.—In spite of American military and given the conservative imperialist-created fraud that passes for government under Adolph Diaz, the liberal forces still menace the regime of that agent of Wall Street. Rear Admiral Julian Latimer, in command of the invading forces of the United States has just declared the important inland city of Matagalpa to be "neutral territory," which means that he is giving aid to the Diaz forces against those supporters of the duly selected president, Dr. Juan Sacasa.

Population Against Diaz

The population of Nicaragua is almost to a man against Diaz, the creature of American imperialism and Latimer knows that only the armed power of the United States can maintain even a semblance of government under Diaz. Throughout the whole country the United States government is despised and its political and military agents are looked upon as beasts of prey. Even in the red light districts of the coast cities the denizens scorn American soldiers.

Another Agent Arrives

Former Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, arrived here the other day on a special mission from President Coolidge. He claims he is here to study the state of affairs of Nicaragua, but he feels no one as his mission is recognized as an attempt to whitewash the Diaz supporters and furnish a clean bill of health to the Coolidge administration to be used at the next session of the United States congress.

Thus far Stimson has associated only with the American military invaders and the Diaz lackeys and has made no effort to get in communication with Sacasa or his supporters.

British Socialists Rap Die-Hard Stand In China; Fight War

LONDON, April 19. If the die-hard Government goes to war with China, it will do so in face of the determined opposition of the Independent Labor Party.

Refuse to Fight Chinese.

Delegates at the Leicester Conference, representing nearly 1,000 branches, adopted a resolution binding the members of the party "individually and collectively to refuse all war service, including the manufacture and transport of munitions, should an outbreak of war occur."

Resolutions attacking the Government's militant stand in China and demanding an investigation of the bombardment of Nanking were also adopted.

Editor of New York World Calls "Big Four" Unfair

WHAT'S WHAT IN THE INSURANCE EXPOSE.

The ending is the ninth of series of thirty articles exposing the fraudulent operations of the "Big Four" weekly payment insurance trust, which is composed of the Metropolitan, Prudential, John Hancock and Colonial Life Insurance Companies. In the preceeding articles Mr. Harrison has made specific charges of fraud, misrepresentation, overcharging and misuse of "mutual" funds belonging to the 40 million American workers who are insured with this powerful combine. Names prominent in the exposé thus far have been Charles Evans Hughes, Charles M. Schwab, Haley Fiske, Supt. of Insurance James A. Beha, Albert H. Wiggin and others.

ARTICLE IX.

By CHARLES YALE HARRISON

Bucking billions of dollars is a heartrending proposition. Newspapers who are ever ready to take up their editorial cudgels to beat down "art magazines" and other fake liberal causes turn green with fright at a proposal to expose a billion dollar plunderband.

When the present writer completed his series of stories exposing the fraud of "industrial" insurance and its attendant evils, he was naive enough to think that all he had to do was to take it to some nice, public-spirited editor, and lo and behold the track would be done.

Advertisers Pay.

But that was in the days before he realized that a fat advertising contract is more potent than all the truth in the world.

So very naively he went to a friend of his who edits a liberal weekly and asked for counsel and guidance. The liberal editor read his weighty manuscript and it was decided that the facts warranted widespread publicity.

Here was an expose that involved 40 million people. Here was, editorially speaking, popular appeal. A statement and table of statistics was footnoted giving the official source of information. The liberal editor was enthusiastic. Here was a big story." In new-paper parlance a piece of news is referred to as a "story."

Try It On the World.

Finally, through a process of elimination it was decided that the New York "World" would be a suitable medium for the "story."

The reasoning that led to this decision was something like this: the editorial staff of the "World" is composed of amiable, forward-looking liberals. "The World" has always been in the vanguard in protecting the people's interests. Look at the [illegible]-coinage campaign in Florida, [illegible] the anti-lynching campaign in the south, look at the statement of editorial policy which heads the editorial page, written by none other than the Joseph Pulitzer himself. We read:

THE WORLD, as established by JOSEPH PULITZER May 10, 1883: "An institution that should always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fights demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always opposes privileged classes and PUBLIC PLUNDERERS, (capitals ours) never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be fearlessly independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty."

All of which sounded very liberal and broad-minded.

We read the Pulitzer manifesto again and finally decided that the World should be the paper to attack the "Big Four." Surely the "Big Four" were PUBLIC PLUNDERERS, surely the Wall Street gang who sat on the top of the defrauded heap are "privileged classes," surely here was an opportunity "to attack wrong" and to oppose "injustice and corruption." Yes, the World was the paper to handle the story.

Wall Introduced.

The editor of the weekly liberal journal knew the "boys" over at The World." Knew them well. Would he be so good as to give the present writer a letter of introduction to one of the editors. With pleasure. So he sat himself down at his typewriter and wrote the following letter. It read:

"Dear Bill—I don't know a thing about insurance, but Charles Yale Harrison has just come in with a whale of a story on industrial insurance." If his facts are right—and he seems to be well documented it ought to start another Armstrong investigation. I think it will be worth your while to give him some attention."

And He Signed It.

Eventually a series of conferences started with this net result. The World decided that it would undertake to expose the "Big Four." A story a day for thirty days. Yes, the price was quite satisfactory.

They Talk It Over.

Several editorial councils were held. Ways and means were no doubt discussed and the writer was informed that he would be notified as to the first day of publication.

Several weeks went by and no news. Attempts to get Mr. Herbert Swope, the managing editor, were abortive. A polite secretary smoke-screened the executive editor.

"Unfortunate"

them . . . one day the articles exposing the great insurance fraud were found in the writer's mail box. In the package was this letter:

"My dear Mr. Harrison:—I was much interested in the insurance matter you placed before us, but I am afraid that I do not find it available for use in "The World." I doubt if the conditions you complain of are properly described as 'Scandalous.' I incline to the view —and it is supported in authoritative quarters—that the conditions may be described as unfortunate and, perhaps unfair, but these are characteristic of almost every business which, it is reasonable to assume, those engaged therein are seeking to correct.

"If you should not place the material elsewhere, The World might be interested in one article from you in which you might point out where industrial insurance might be strengthened and the costs reduced. Such an article might be helpful, even though it lack sensationalism. With thanks for the thoughtfulness that prompted you to submit the subject to The World,

I am, faithfully,

Herbert Bayard Swope.

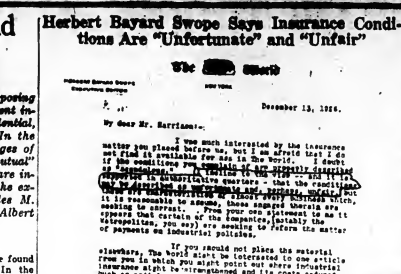
Two weeks after the receipt of this masterpiece The World printed a series of camouflaged anti-labor propaganda directed against Ben Gold of the left wing furriers, charging him and his associates with bribing the spotless New York police force. Since then these charges have been exploded as arrant fabrications. The World considered this as a piece of "scandalous" news.

Mr. Swope admits in his letter to the writer that weekly-payment insurance is unfortunate and unfair, and still this Tammany-controlled publication did not feel it was unfair enough to acquaint a defrauded public as to the extent of the fraud.

How unfair must a condition be before The World begins to feel the pangs of conscience? Obviously, from Mr. Swope's letter, the "Big Four" are public plunderers. Joseph Pulitzer, the founder of the World, said that public plunderers must be attacked.

But Not News.

The World is committed to the slogan that a campaign a day keeps the sheriff away . . . Art magazines, "Reds." Republicans, light wines and beer, Wayne B. Wheeler, any campaign is good enough that has "readers' interest"—anything as long as it does not attack the powers that be, anything so long as it creates a flare that keeps the circulation circulating.



But when 40 million American workers are being deceived by the slickest gang of financial buccaneers that ever looted the public, why, that's not news. If the public defrauded Wall Street looters that would be news, according to the World news standards.

Mr. Swope has it from "authoritative quarters" that industrial insurance is unfortunate and unfair. We are heartily in accord with Mr. Swope. In the interests of the millions of workers-insurers who suffer from the malicious industrial insurance system, Mr. Swope should reveal who and where the "authoritative quarters" are.

Louisiana Leases Convict Labor

NEW ORLEANS, April 19.—(FP)—In accordance with an act passed by the last Louisiana Legislature, state prisoners are being leased for construction work at a compensation fixed by the contractor and the warden of the prison. The revenue goes to the parish (county) from which the prisoners are received.

Herbert Bayard Swope Says Insurance Conditions Are "Unfortunate" and "Unfair"

The opinion of the editor of the New York World, one of the great capitalist dailies of America, emphasized above, is corroboration of the charges made in our exposure of the "Big Four." Please note that Swope solicited an article from Harrison which would be of assistance to the insurance companies and a reminder to them that reforms were needed in order to forestall public indignation.

MacDONALD FOE OF LABOR, SAYS MINERS' CHIEF

Charge Former Premier Assisted Capitalists

By A. J. COOK

(Special to The DAILY WORKER)

The government representing the Federation of British Industries, has introduced its bill to attack the Trade Unions. The government has been forced to oppose the Trade Unions in consequence of the great fights put up by the workers last year during the General Strike and the miners' struggle.

The determined mass resistance of the rank and file, last year, not only amazed the right wing leaders, it frightened the government and the capitalist class. This explains why an attempt is being made to break the organized power of industrial labor.

Need For Unity

One would imagine that, in face of the government's reactionary onslaught upon the Trade Unions, the Labor Movement would be as united as a solid rock in defence of the struggles put up by the workers last year. This, however, is not so. Just at the moment when the government launches its offensive, Mr. J. R. MacDonald, writing in an I. L. P. journal, declares:—

"Trade Unionism today is suffering as it has never suffered before, because last year it was misled into battle where defeat was inevitable, and because the men who could have saved it were temporarily pushed aside by those who could not."

This is the sort of stuff that gladdens the heart of the reactionary tory who is plotting to find any sort of excuse to attack Trade Unionism. He takes it up—as it was by Mr. Spencer, the Nottinghamshire renegade, and also by the "Morning Post"—in order to show the need for "reforming" Trade Unionism in the interests of the community.

The statement by Mr. MacDonald is almost on a par with his declaration to a Rotary meeting of business men in South Wales, that if he were prime minister he would be in favor of appointing a commission of inquiry into Trade Unionism! Any real labor premier would tell the upholders of capitalism to keep their hands off the Trade Unions; and he would do everything in his power to strengthen the industrial power of the militant masses.

Helping the Enemy

Mr. MacDonald's reference to the Trade Unions being misled into inevitable defeat is another sneer at the General Strike resolution passed at the conference of T.U. Executives last May Day.

If he knew the policy was stupid why did he not say so? He was on the platform and actually spoke in favor of the decision!

His criticism of Trade Unionism, like that of Philip Snowden's in the tory press, is not only an attack upon the organized workers; it is placing ammunition into the hands of Labor's enemies, as he will know when Baldwin introduces his bill against Trade Unionism into the house of commons.

Weisbord Stopped From Speaking In Forum

(Continued from Page One)

underworld elements of the city, who are staunch supporters of Fresikel, gathered in the rear of the hall and tried to terrify him during the entire time he was present.

Issues Statement.

After he was stopped from speaking Weisbord issued the following statement:

"I must protest against the use the Bundee Republican Club conducted its political rally last night. These rallies are supposed to permit all of the candidates to express their views on the issues involved in the election.

No Free Speech.

"Citizens came to listen to all candidates.

"What must be the astonishment of the citizens lured into such rallies to find that free speech and fair play are confined only to those candidates whom the local politicians of the club desire to speak. As a nominee of the labor ticket with Hamlbach and Sellkson, I believe I should be treated the same way as the others.

Ruled Out Discussion.

"Officials of the Dundee Republican Club ruled out all discussion relating to certain activities of the present commissioners. If we speak of women's club, it is slander. When we speak of gas bombs, it is throwing mud. When we criticize the commissioners, we are thrown off the platforms. Let the other candidates declare, are they going to raise their voices for free speach, or under the guise of free speech rallies quash all points of view but their own?

Wants Debate.

"I challenge the candidates, especially Mr. Fresikell to debate with me on the issues of the campaign. I also challenge the candidates to answer—free speech or no. Given free speech and the ticket must win."

Coolidge, Having Done His Job, May Withdraw Troops from Nicaragua

WASHINGTON, April 19.—President Coolidge hopes to be able to withdraw a considerable number of the U. S. marines from Nicaragua in the near future, he informed callers at the White House today.

The Diaz government forces, aided by the marines, are gradually getting the upper hand in Nicaragua and conditions are becoming more stable.

Jury Tampering Is Charged in Ford-Sapiro Libel Case

DETROIT, April 19.—Charges of jury corruption are flying thick and fast in the $1,000,000 five million dollar libel suit, during the recess occasioned by the sudden illness of the chief of Ford's attorneys, Senator James A. Reed.

Official notice was given that a mistrial would be demanded upon reconvening of the court. The action is to be taken by Stewart Hanley, of Ford's counsel. The action is said to involve serious charges against one of the women jurors.

Sapiro Also Kicks

Anticipating the action of Ford's lawyers, William H. Gallagher, chief of the Sapiro legal battery, created another stir by complaining that the Ford secret police, or those who are maintained by the labor-hating lizzie manufacturer, have been talking to jurors. "Whether they are trying to learn their state of mind, or influence them, I am unable to say," said Gallagher.

Woman Dislikes Ford

The charges against the woman juror are that she remarked five weeks ago that she "would give Ford the limit" in the libel case. A number of affidavits to this effect were filed with the court.

Judge Raymond appeared greatly interested in the charges of the Ford secret police, and waved aside as of no consequence the complaints of Sapiro's attorneys. This has caused considerable speculation to the effect that Judge Raymond is influenced by the Ford interests in Detroit and many anticipate a victory for Ford.

Thousands Lose Homes In Great Floods

(Continued from Page One)

property loss will be many millions of dollars.

Kan-as Flooded.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 19. — Southeast Kansas was today in the grip of a flood, the third in two weeks, with rivers rising at a rapid rate following heavy rains.

Burlington, Kans., and Iola, were hardest hit the Neosho River at the latter place spreading out over lowlands for three miles.

The Verdigris River at Madison was rising at the rate of thirty inches an hour during the night and by morning had driven hundreds and driven residents from the town.

Many Again Homeless.

Many were again homeless today after they had returned from the two floods last week to set their houses in order.

Several small towns visited the vicinity of Eeastern Oklahoma but no lives were lost. At Texarkana, Ark., one was killed and four injured in a tornado.

Ottawa, Kas., 20 miles from Kansas City, was threatened today with inundation. The Maires Des Cyone River had risen to the highest level for several years.

Spread In Illinois.

ST. LOUIS, April 19.—New breaks below this city late yesterday inundated additional territories in Southern Illinois and Arkansas.

The latest reported was in Illinois across the river from Cape Gipardeau, Mo., driving 25 families from their homes. These refugees and others between Reynoldsville and Gale, Ill., are being taken across the river to Missouri for safety while hundreds are being housed in tents erected on high ground near Cairo.

* * *

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 19.—A series of small tornadoes struck central Illinois today, causing a number of deaths, many injuries and heavy property damage.

One twister struck near Lincoln, Ill., killing two school children, Hobart Baker and Murray Goodwin as they fled from the village school of Chestnut, near Lincoln.

Another tornado was reported to have struck De Kalb, injuring several and causing heavy property damage. All wires were reported down.

Elkhart, Ill., Mt. Pulaski, Galesburg, Quincy and other points throughout the state were affected by the torrential rains which at times took on cloud-burst proportions.

* * *

Thousands Homeless in Flood.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 19.—Thousands were added to the huge army of homeless today following the crash of the St. John's Bayou Levee near New Madrid, Mo.

Twenty-one towns in Arkansas and Missouri probably will be inundated in another 24 hours, and the course of the Mississippi River changed by the greatest flood in history.

The flood waters are reported sweeping through a mile-wide gap, and rushing down the Saint Francis Basin in a southwesterly direction, emptying back into the Mississippi at the mouth of the Saint Francis River.

Mock Passover Affair Yields $30

At a mock celebration of the Passover Feast, held by "Yugend," a Jewish workers' monthly at 35 E. 2nd street, last Sunday, an appeal to aid the defense, made by Sam Liptzin netted the sum of $30.34.

French Miners Fight Plan to Slash Wages

PARIS, April 19.—The idea of general strike is spreading. The mining companies are beginning to dread the anger of the miners. And they are attempting to maneuver quickly, with the aid of the bourgeois press, a lowering of the salaries of the miners. M. Pigeol, president of the Committee of Mines of the Loire, has made the following statements:

"Fellow workers," he said, " the English miners were beaten, their salaries were lowered and their work day was lengthened. Then look at Germany. The miners work an hour longer and produce double the amount of the French miner."

His conclusions were to the effect that a lowering of the price of coal was impossible without a diminution of salaries. The lowering of salaries would naturally mean a decrease in purchasing power, but this would not be as high as the losses sustained by striking.

Oppose Wage Cut.

The delegations of miners from Carmaux and Cazrac have passed a resolution refusing any diminution of salaries, and will demand of the federation, very energetic action, even to the point of a general strike.

The miners of the Saar Basin, have decided to take similar action, so that now, 83,000 miners—70,000 in the Saar, and 13,000 in the basins of the Aubin and Tarn are actually on the eve of industrial war.

Extent of Flood

Entertainment in Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 19.—The Slovak Dramatic Society will hold an entertainment for Fraction "A" of the Czechoslovak Section, Workers Communist Party. It will be held Sunday, April 24 at Walsh Hall, corner of Noble St., and Milwaukee Ave., beginning at four o'clock sharp.

Read The Daily Worker Every Day.

Professional Patriots Raise Yelp for Blood Of Sacco and Vanzetti

Professional patriots pledged to war against the "sinister radical influences which put La Follette forward" as a candidate for the presidency in 1924 at a dinner given by the Key Men of America at the Hotel Roosevelt last night.

Frederick Marvin, labor-batter and executive director of the Key Men who does a profitable business "exposing reds" was toastmaster. He urged the professional patriots who attended the dinner to see that Sacco and Vanzetti "do not get another trial."

Nationalists Make Feng Commander in Chief

(Continued from Page One)

capitated by Chang in a small town near Harbin. Six students, three labor leaders, two Communists, and the leader of the local trading organization were those executed.

* * *

Rykoff Raps Imperialist War

MOSCOW, April 19.—"Foreign intervention in China, if persisted in, will evolve into an imperialistic war which, as it will be fought on the coast of the Pacific Ocean, will in all probability be a world war," said M. Rykoff at the opening of the All-Union Soviet Congress last night.

Declaring that Britain is attempting to surround Soviet Russia and is attempting to use the Chinese situation as the means of provoking the Soviet Union to war, Rykoff denied that the Soviet Union has in any way interfered with the Chinese situation.

Shows British Guilt.

"We are accused of fomenting anti-British feeling in China," he said, "but let them give us the facts."

Accusing the British of attempting to "stir up anti-Soviet feeling in China, he declared, that our embassy was raided it was only by the police with the consent of the Diplomatic Corps. It never has and never will be raided by the Chinese people."

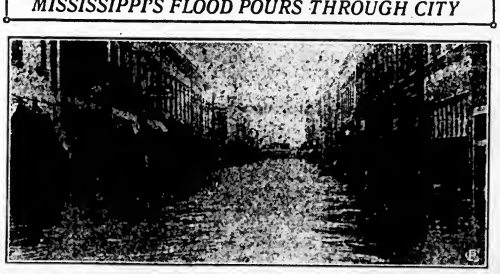
* * *

Send More Rubber Notes.

WASHINGTON, April 19. It was learned today that the administration will soon put the four other superintendents in a second set of identic notes to the National of government.

Minister MacMurray will be informed by cable today, probably after the cabinet meeting, of the views of this government. Following receipt of these instructions he will confer with the ministers of Great Britain, Japan, France, and Italy and Belgium, and together, these five envoys are expected to draw up the new identic notes. This will not be expected to take more than 48 hours, because most of the ministers' work has been completed by the daily conferences they have been holding since receipt of Eugene Chen's reply last Thursday.

* * *



"Firm" Note.

The American minister will be instructed to make his note as firm as possible. What response he will make toward Chen's proposal that an international commission inquire into the cases of the Nanking affair could not be learned today.

The American note may touch upon Chen's suggestion that the old unequal treaties be revised, but mention of this matter is made it is expected to be a refusal to entertain a proposal at this time.

BUY THE DAILY WORKER AT THE NEWSSTANDS

MISSISSIPPI'S FLOOD POURS THROUGH CITY

A scene common along a 1,900-mile stretch of the Mississippi river—in this instance, the city being Hickman, Ky., with flood waters eight feet deep in Clinton Street, the main thoroughfare of the city, and two feet more expected.

Here's How

To greet the workers of the world The DAILY WORKER will print the names of individual workers and all working class organizations in its SPECIAL MAY DAY EDITION.

Here's How Much

Individual names will be printed at the rate of $1.00 per name. Organizations will be given a special rate of $2.00 per inch.

Here's When

All greetings must be mailed at once to reach The DAILY WORKER before April 25. All greetings arriving late, will be printed in following editions.

SEND GREETINGS TODAY

CURRENT EVENTS By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

(Continued from Page One)

ganizations affiliated to the Labor Party.

* * *

NO doubt he will have the support of the right wing labor leaders, but if the Independent Labor Party of which MacDonald was the leader accepts the Communist program for a united front in the trade unions and in the Labor Party, the right wing leaders will get left. The repudiation of MacDonald by his own party may mean the beginning of a decisive struggle between left and right that may end with MacDonald, Snowden, Thomas and Co., lining up with the liberals and splitting the Labor Party. The sooner those elements quit the Labor Party the better it will be for the British workingclass. And what a dirty trick the I.L.P. played on the Jewish Daily Forward that paid Mac's expenses to this country?

* * *

COUNT BETHLEN, the Hungarian premier retained recently from Italy after having exchanged an alliance with Mussolini. The count intends to introduce Fascist "reforms" in Hungary learned in the Italian school. Bethlen did not state the nature of the reforms he intends to adopt but it is safe to predict that they will keep the executioners of the workingclass busy. Thirty Hungarian workers are now before a court martial with the possibility of being executed immediately after a decision is rendered. No doubt Mussolini explained to Bethlen how to end a mass murder unsuccessfully and win the esteem and the dollars of Wall Street bankers.

* * *

A NEGRO janitor was walking along an east-side street yesterday morning when one of a group of little boys playing in a doorway shouted: "Nigger" at him. The Negro lectured the little fellow sternly until the young culprit screamed with fright. A passer-by suggested that the little fellow should be excused on account of his extreme youth but the Negro of the opinion "hat youth was no excuse, "I know he is young" retorted the janitor "but his mother ought to have taught him better. I never call anybody kike or shanney. I admit being called a nigger makes me sore but I wouldn't mind so much if I was only called me a Chinaman."

* * *

THERE was a time when the averse to Negro would not recognize as much. The poison of slavery has sapped his manhood. He suffered from a racial inferiority complex. The fear that was bred in the soul of his ancestors by the awful cruelty of the million lashes wielded by the slave drivers, was transmitted to him. But the Negro is no longer the meek and humble individual of yore. Like the Chinaman he has developed guts. Like the Chinaman his exploiters have forced him to organize and fight back. When the Negroes organize their tremendous collective power the white morons in the south will stop lynching them and the white workers in the north will stop hurling insults at them.

Dr. Parkhurst Marries

LOS ANGELES, April 19.—Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, ex-pastor emeritus of the First Presbyterian Church of New York, and veteran crusader against crime and vice, and Miss Eleanor Mors, 42 who for 20 years has virtually been a member of the Parkhurst family, were on their honeymoon here today following a quiet ceremony here.

Wall Street's Conception of the Monroe Doctrine

"The human side of Red Russia"

RED LOVE

By

ALEXANDRA KOLLONTAY

THIS is the first authentic, unbiased novel of Soviet Russia, in which Mme. Kollontay gives a picture of Soviet Russia's new codes on marriage, morality, children and the responsibility of women to the State.

BUT the canvas against which Mme. Kollontay has painted the epic of the new woman transcends the borders of Soviet Russia.

"RED LOVE" is the frank, lucid, simple story of sex-relations in the post-war period.

"RED LOVE" is the story of free marriage—the standards of morals—career vs. love—motherhood—free divorce in the country where the theoretic aspects of these problems have been tested by life.

You can get "Red Love" at JIMMIE HIGGINS BOOKSHOP

127 University Place,
New York.

RAND BOOKSTORE
7 E. 15th St.,
New York.

Or from your local bookseller.

$2.50

SEVEN ARTS PUBLISHING CO.
106 Fifth Avenue,
New York City.

Gentlemen: Send me ..... ($2.50 per copy) copies of "Red Love" by Alexandra Kollontay. Money order herewith enclosed.

.....

.....

.....

SACCO - VANZETTI SECRETARY LOSES JOB WITH STATE

By PHYLLIS FENDSTON.

BOSTON, April 19. General Leroy Sweetser, of Lawrence fame for turning the guns of the militia on the strikers to the workers and now Superintendent of the State Department of Labor and Industries, has done it well once again.

At a public hearing at the state house, a secretary-girl was made by Mary Donovan, for ten years a factory inspector in Sweetser's department, against her discharge by him for having signed her name without getting permission to do so.

Sweetser Hates Workers

With the assistance of a woman police spy who, Miss Donovan charged, was Sweetser brought evidence to show that Miss Donovan had visited the Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Committee, of which she is secretary, during working hours. Miss Donovan was discharged, she charged, because of her interest in cases of workers in the department.

Miss Donovan made no secret of her statement at the end of the hearing, that it was her "no great earnestness in protecting the workers by enforcing the labor laws" that caused such animosity by powerful or favored employers, that brought on the hostility of her superiors in office.

Fought Night Work

"During various months past and several years ago," she said, "when I reported the cases of a woman working part in violation of the law in a mercantile shop in Brookline. The morning I met Mr. Bliss, the employer, accompanied by Senator Bliss coming from a visit to the department.

"Mr. Meade then told me we could not prosecute this case as the woman in question was employed as clerical help, and the law did not apply to clerical workers. This was a lie for another inspector and I had seen the women assembling machinery at ten o'clock at night.

Protected Youth.

"Next came a bowling alley case in Hyde Park, where boys under sixteen were being employed at night. That was five years ago. Two years previously the proprietor had been jailed him court and had pleaded guilty. Again in this case he pleaded guilty. Again in this case he pleaded guilty. Again in this case he pleaded was filed.

"In December of 1923 I found that girls were being employed fifty-four hours a week in the Roxbury Exchange of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company. I went to Mr. Meade and he put me out of his office.

"Then I wrote him a letter stating I had found that girls were being employed in other telephone exchanges [illegible] that the legal limit and said if he did not wish the inspectors to enter these cases to state so in writing. I told him his violence to me led to suspect that there was some ulterior motive for his attitude toward me."

Meade, Employers' Spy.

The reason for this violence, Miss Donovan said was her refusal to divulge the name of her informant, because of previous cases she had found it meant immediate dismissal for the worker.

There were other cases against shoe factories, where Miss Donovan declared proper enforcement of the labor laws was blocked within the department, following her reports. It was just one week after one of these shoe factory owners told her she was causing him too much trouble with her persistent demands that he observe the laws safe-guarding workers, and that he would have her discharged —that she received the notice of her dismissal, while this employer's case was pending in court.

Drive to Free Sacco and Vanzetti Gains

(Continued from Page One)

district of the Workmen's Circle.

The most conservative delegates had taken the floor to favor a resolution appealing to Governor Fuller for an investigation and retrial. Even John P. Kearney had talked attention to the fact that officials of the A. F. of L. have set a precedent of entering the cases of anti-labor decisions of the American courts.

Introduced by Vanvaraenwyck.

Signed by 16 local unions including the Typographical Union, Painters, Upholsterers, Cigarmakers and Leather Workers, this resolution was introduced by John Vanvaraenwyck, president of the Mass. State Federation of Labor. This was the request which brought forth denunciation from a socialist against participating in a militant protest of labor at the monstrous miscarriage of justice.

The Labor Herald, edited by John P. Kearney, received the endorsement of the C. L. P. today with the provision that the C. L. P. supervise its editorial and advertising matter.

Maurer Demands Pardon.

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 19. (FP)—James H. Maurer, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, demands a pardon for Sacco and Vanzetti and assails the courts that doomed them. He says:

"We used to believe that our courts and departments of justice were established for the purpose of dispensing justice. But their action in the Sacco-Vanzetti case makes it seem that their chief purpose is to execute innocent men, and indirectly, to foment revolution. In the face of evidence which overwhelmingly discredits the verdict of 1921, Sacco and Vanzetti are denied a new trial, and are sentenced to be electrocuted some time during the week of July 10. The only possible explanation of this action of the Massachusetts courts is the hatred which the judges feel toward the radical doctrines of these two men. If the day has come when men can be executed for holding radical beliefs, American democracy is doomed.

150 Years Ago.

"But surely that day has not come. A hundred and fifty years ago the men of Massachusetts defied tyranny at Bunker Hill. Seventy-three years ago they dared death in their endeavor to prevent Anthony Burns, a runaway slave, from being returned to servitude. Gov. Fuller has it in his power to make the year 1927 as memorable, in the history of the long struggle for liberty and justice, as the years 1776 and 1854. A pardon to Sacco and Vanzetti will proclaim to the world that Massachusetts still honors the doctrines for which her early patriots died."

What's What in Washington

Coolidge Violates The Constitution In Nicaragua War

By LAURENCE TODD
(Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Dr. Albert H. Putney, former chief of the Near Eastern division of the State Department and a nationally recognized authority on international and constitutional law, has found President Coolidge guilty of making illegal and unconstitutional war against the people of Nicaragua.

He does this in an article published in the National University Law Review, just issued.

"One of the most remarkable chapters of the constitutional history of the United States," says Putney, "has been the gradual passing of the war making power, at least insofar as war can be made with the military and naval forces already existing, from the hands of the legislative department of the government to those of the executive. One of the most important questions which today confronts the citizens of the United States, one which must affect their future to an extent which is only just beginning to be appreciated, is whether such transfer of power may be accepted as permanent."

An Issue.

Quoting President Coolidge's message to Congress in which the policy was declared of using the navy and army to "preservation and protection of the lives, property and interests of American citizens and of this Government itself" in Nicaragua, Dr. Putney says Coolidge has brought the question squarely to an issue.

"It is, in effect," he says, "there asserted that the President has the power to wage an offensive war upon his own authority against any country, and for any reason which he in his opinion appears to affect the lives, the property and the interests of its citizens and of this Government itself."

Constitution Not Effected.

"In the determination of the constitutional question involved it is not necessary to consider whether the United States in its attitude towards Mexico and Nicaragua, towards Santo Domingo and Haiti, has acted in the role of a high-minded philanthropist or in that of a self-interested eavesdropper. The construction of the United States constitution cannot be affected by such questions as whether Mexico is endeavoring unjustly to confiscate American-owned property, or whether the United States is endeavoring to collect just debts or force claims against Mexico which in the minds of the claimants are undoubted, that the exact facts in relation to such claims, whether [illegible] Calles is developing religious liberty or not, be it upholding religious equality, whether intervention in Nicaragua was necessary to protect legitimate American interests, or whether, as it is charged, in support of a rebel has fled to the American vessels off shore, or whether the people of Nicaragua prefer they had still the same [illegible] that they had when a single Bluejacket, who arrived in town only a few hours ahead of the marines."

Well Known Actor Dies.

LOS ANGELES, April 19. Ray Raymond, well known actor and husband of Ruddy Mackaye, screen actress, died in a hospital here today after a short illness.

Changes in Mexico Since Land Revolt Told by the Embassy

(By a Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, April 19.—A graphic picture of what the land revolution in Mexico has meant to the people of the Central American Republic is presented in the formal figures of a report issued by the Mexican embassy on the findings of a study of agriculture in Mexico.

The facts show that the break-up of the once huge landed estates and the return of the land to the people, and the liberalization of the masses from the yokes of peonage and serfdom in the past few years has not only materially increased the quantity of agricultural production, but that modernization is entering into the field of farming. This is of the greatest importance when it is remembered that agriculture is by far Mexico's greatest industry.

Heavy Increases.

Compared with the average annual production that obtained from 1906 to 1910, the last years of the Diaz tyranny, the average annual crops harvested from 1923 to 1926 show not only heavy increases in production, but show the trend is away from the extensive cultivation of a few food crops, such as corn, wheat and beans, and more and more attention and effort is being paid to the modern method of diversified farming.

During the years 1923 to 1926 heavy increases of production took place in ten of the most important products; chick-peas, coffee, cotton, potatoes, beans, rice, sisal, sugar, tobacco, tomatoes, bananas. The increases in production of these crops, figuring the prices at the lowest current rates, amounted to $[illegible],000,000 Mexican pesos.

False Statements.

These facts of late been much propagandized disseminated by interventionists that Mexico has been compelled to import corn, wheat and beans from the United States. The implied inference was that the break-up of the huge estates has resulted in losses in production. This is unqualifiedly false. Diaz urges in production of corn, wheat and beans this year have been due to the devastating floods that Pacific and Southern Mexico, particularly the rich Guanajuato fields, in ruins. The importations that have resulted, despite the tremendous losses have amounted to only 1¾ per cent of the present average production of corn, wheat and beans, respectively.

Not New.

These floods are no new experience. The Mexican Year Book published in 1909 under the direction of Diaz devoted much attention to the losses from inadequate irrigation facilities.

The report points out that there are under way great irrigation and flood control projects, whose completion within a few years will put an end to the recurring disturbance.

New Love Campaign

Determined to round up the unusually large number of stray dogs now roving the streets, Dr. Louis L. Evarts has written to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, Chief Magistrate William McAdoo and Dr. William H. Parks, director of the Bureau of Laboratories, asking for cooperation.

Palisades Fire

WEEHAWKEN, N. J., April 19.—Authorities today were investigating the origin of a fire at the Palisades Amusement Park atop the Palisades here which last night caused damage estimated at about $15,000 despite the efforts of firemen from Fort Lee, Cliffside and Edgewater.

Read The Daily Worker Every Day.

Announce Steel Merger.

CANTON, April 19.—Henry A. Romer, President of the Superior Sheet Steel Company of Canton, today announced a $15,000,000 steel merger involving his own company, the Kokomo Steel & Wire Company, of Kokomo, Ind., and the Chapman-Price Steel Company of Indianapolis, Ind.

The new organization, which will own and operate all three plants, will be known as the Continental Steel Corporation. Roemer will be manager and president.

The Kokomo factory is valued at about $8,000,000; the Indianapolis plant about $4,000,000, and the local concern approximately $3,000,000.

BUY THE DAILY WORKER AT THE NEWSSTANDS

AMERICAN MARINES IN PEKING

American marines before the United States consulate in Peking, the seat of the northern forces in China. It is believed that the Nationalist army will soon occupy this city. What the above pictured marines would then do, is a matter of speculation. That they will act as the navy did at Nanking is not out of the question.

APRIL 23
Is Lenin's Birthday

SEND A LENIN BIRTHDAY PACKAGE
To Another Worker
You Know

On the occasion of the Birthday of our Leader (April 23, 1870) a special Lenin Birthday Package has been made

AT LOWER PRICES.

To use this day to acquaint a greater number of workers with the principles of Lenin.

Every worker can afford to buy at least one package for this purpose.

We will mail it to you to give to your shopmate or the brother in your union. If you wish we will mail it to any address you give.

NOTE
Orders for single books at regular prices only.

OFFER NO. 1
Lenin, His Life and Work ..... $ .25
Lenin, the Great Strategist ..... .10
Lenin and the Trade Union Movement ..... .25
Lenin, Liebknecht and Luxemburg ..... .05
Lenin, Stalin and Theory and Practice of Leninism ..... .35
Leninism vs. Trotskyism By Stalin-Kamenev-Zinoviev ..... .10
Total $1.20

ALL FOR $1.00

OFFER No. 2
Books by Lenin
On the Road to Insurrection ..... $ .50
Infantile Sickness—or Leftism in Communism ..... .10
Imperialism—Final Stage of Capitalism In the new complete English edition ..... .60
Total $1.20

ALL FOR $1.00

A Bronze Medallion of Lenin
(Reproduced above)
Selling at one dollar will be sent for fifty cents IF INCLUDED with offer No. 1 or No. 2.
Separate orders for medallion at regular price only. ($1.00.)

Offer No. 1 and No. 2, and the Bronze Lenin Medallion all for

$2.50

THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
33 First Street,
New York, N. Y.

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
Daily, Except Sunday
26 First Street, New York, N. Y. Phone, Orchard 1080

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail (in New York only):		By mail (outside of New York):
$8.00 per year	$4.50 six months	$6.00 per year	$3.50 six months
$2.50 three months		$2.00 three months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER, 26 First Street, New York, N. Y.

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE .....Editors
BERT MILLER.....Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail at the post-office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Advertising rates on application.

Force Coolidge and Kellogg Into the Open—Make Them Say What Their Chinese Policy Is!

The imperialist forces in China are concentrating on Hankow, the seat of the Kuomintang government, as shown by the concentration of some forty warships in that port. Hankow is now the center of the Chinese liberation movement and the biggest heavy industrial district in China.

The strategy of the imperialists is obvious. It is to keep the mass liberation movement in check, even to the extent of bombarding and occupying Hankow, while the traitor Chiang Kai Shek is to be allowed a free hand to consolidate his counter-revolutionary forces.

But it is becoming more and more evident as the days pass that not only has Chiang failed to secure the support of the most influential leaders of the Kuomintang but that he has no substantial following either in the trade unions or the peasant organizations. He has been able only to organize sections (how large is not known here) of the northern troops which joined the People's armies after their long succession of victories. The days of military dictators in China have passed, however. Chiang appears nakedly as an imperialist tool and the masses will have none of him.

No leader can get to first base in China today without the support of the labor movement and it is precisely because he and his native and imperialist supporters feared the shifting of power to the trade unions that he split with the great majority of the Kuomintang and chose to ally himself with the murderous plunderers of the Chinese masses.

That the defection of Chiang has been a severe blow to the liberation movement no one will deny. That the imperialist powers will use him to the limit, that they are anxious to turn the guns of forty warships on Hankow and its masses of militant organized workers, that in every other city the imperialists will aid Chiang's attempts to kill off the trade union and left wing leaders and suppress the unions cannot be doubted.

The Chinese liberation movement is a mass movement and it cannot be crushed. Neither is it defenseless. It can—and it will—rather than submit, employ the mighty weapon of the boycott and starve the imperialists and their mercenaries out of China.

It is clear now that the liberation movement must prepare for a much longer struggle than appeared necessary two months ago. But the issues of the struggle have been immensely clarified and only a few traitors are left in the ranks of the Kuomintang.

Chiang has failed in his main purpose—to rally the Kuomintang for a war on Communists and their supporters. In the north of China, Chang Tso Lin is executing Communists and trade unionists. Chiang Kai Shek executes Communists and unionists. The Chinese masses see at once that Chiang Kai Shek and Chang Tso Lin are applying the same old murderous militarist-imperialist game and for the same reasons.

Without his imperialist backing the Chinese masses would deal with Chiang Kai Shek in summary fashion.

The position of the American government in this situation is decisive. If it continues to support Great Britain by deeds while disclaiming in words any such intention, it means a long and bloody war—the slaughter of great masses of workers and peasants and a new world war.

It is time that Coolidge and Kellogg were called to account. The American labor movement can focus attention on the whole bloody conspiracy against the Chinese labor and revolutionary movement by demanding that the state department say now, plainly, so that all can understand, what its policy in China is.

Are Kellogg and Coolidge to be allowed to hide in the dark holes and corners of Washington, send more armed forces to China (as they are doing) and stall off protest by the most shameful lying ever indulged in by a state department?

Who is framing American policy in China—Coolidge and Kellogg, or the Shanghai municipal council composed of five Britishers, two Americans and two Japanese?

Why is not the suggestion of Eugene Chen, foreign minister of the Peoples Government for an inquiry by a commission into the Nanking massacre, acceptable to the United States government?

Will American warships take part in the bombardment of Hankow which is scheduled under the pretense of protecting the handful of Americans who are there but who long ago were ordered out by the consular authorities?

Why are Americans in so much danger in Hankow, requiring seven warships to ensure their safety, while not a single German has left Hankow nor has a single German been injured in spite of the fact that there are no German warships or troops in China?

These are questions that demand an answer. From day to day the heads of the government either maintain silence or issue insolent statements which are an insult to every intelligent person. Coolidge and Kellogg are playing with lives of millions.

They must be held responsible and the American masses must know that their attitude is one which has a sinister meaning. Nothing but the intention to involve the United States in a war on the Chinese people which will develop into a world struggle can explain the mysterious manner in which Coolidge and Kellogg are acting.

Knowing that the American masses are against them they dare not tell their plans.

The demands of Hands Off China must make itself heard in Washington. If it does nothing else it will at least force a reply from two mediocrities who by a combination of circumstances are able to juggle with the lives of workers and farmers in China and America; the humblest of whom is worth more to the world than they are.

Kerensky Doing His Stuff

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

LIKE a trained poodle showing off his tricks on a stage under the direction of his owner, Alexander Kerensky, short-lived premier of Russia last Sunday performed before an audience in Mecca Temple to the satisfaction of Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor and acting-president of the National Civic Federation.

Kerensky's theme was the general wickedness of Communists in general and of the Communist government of the Soviet Union in particular. Kerensky finds it hard to forgive the Russian working class for booting him out of office and out of the country. He is as sore as an insurance agent with a bunion on his heel. The brief taste of power still haunts his lips. But the Russian workers and peasants consider him a political leper and Kerensky is wise in staying away from home. Of course he expects that some day the fatted calf will be slaughtered for him, but it is more likely that Kerensky will be found playing the veal role.

• • •

The ostensible object of the meeting which was addressed by this tool of world imperialism was to appeal for assistance for the so-called political prisoners that are in Soviet jails. That there are no workers in Soviet jails for having an honest difference of opinion with the government as to how the interests of the workers and peasants should be served is well known. The pretense that Kerensky is appealing for, are tools of capitalist governments who have never ceased to plot against the Soviet Union. They are imprisoned for actively engaging in war on the people's government and the government which is entrusted with the responsibility of guiding the progress of the revolution would be guilty of criminal carelessness—for which they would pay with their lives—were they to allow paid agents of capitalist governments to carry on their destructive work.

• • •

The working class of the world has an sympathy for the so-called political prisoners that Kerensky is panhandling for. Of course, Kerensky's object in coming here is something else again. Here let me call attention to the fact that on the day previous to the one on which Kerensky delivered his tirade against the Soviet Union, approximately 30,000 people listened to speakers in Union Square from four platforms urging the American working class to rally in a great united front effort to save Sacco and Vanzetti, two militant labor leaders, from the electric chair which is being rigged up for them by the State of New England. Kerensky had no word to say in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti. Neither had Matthew Woll. Those two lapdogs of big business were helping the Massachusetts executioners in their plan to send the current of death thru the bodies of Sacco and Vanzetti by staging a fake appeal in the Russian Czarists who now enjoy Soviet cells.

• • •

Neither did Kerensky nor Woll have a word to say in behalf of the victims of fascist rule in Italy, Hungary, Lithuania, Bulgaria and in every other land where capitalism suppresses the workers under one form of government or another. At this very moment scores of Hungarian trade unionists are liable to be facing a firing squad two hours after a courtmartial decision sentences them to death. Kerensky and Woll agree that workers who fight the capitalist system should be executed. Therefore they have no word of criticism for the White Terror. And if the black flag of fascism instead of the red symbol of Communism flew over the Kremlin, Woll and Kerensky would have no word to say in behalf of the hundreds of thousands of workers that would be mowed down by cannon and machine guns, after the fashion of the mass slaughter of workers by the Finnish white guardists and the carnage that took place in Germany when the social-democrats saved that country for capitalism by turning the guns on the revolutionists.

Kerensky declared that there is more terrorism today in Russia than there was under the czar; that there is no freedom of speech and that the prisons are crowded.

Kerensky is a liar. Even capitalist correspondents that have sniffed the ejectors of the Riga fiction factories for years are now compeled to turn to some other kind of blackguarding for a living. Their stories of terrorism, revolts and atrocities became so stale that even the socialist papers refused to publish them.

• • •

Undoubtedly things were better under the czar's regime for the Kerenskys. They are better under the Wall Street regime for the Wolls. The fact that should be borne in mind by the workers in connection with Kerensky's charges against the Soviet Union, is that the workers have freedom of expression in Russia which they did not have under the czar. The capitalists have not. The workers are flooding the land with papers and books. The capitalists cannot print a paper as large as a postage stamp. Under the czarist regime the workers' press was almost always outlawed. Under the czarist regime militant workers went to prison for any offense against czardom, ranging from the organization of workers into a trade union to throwing a bomb at a tyrant. Now, czarists go to jail for trying to organize conspiracies against the Soviet Union and for attempts on the lives of Soviet leaders. The truth of the matter is that the shoe is on the other foot. The workers now rule and they intend to retain power.

The new-found interest of the American Federation of Labor bureaucracy in the socialist Kerensky is indicative of the international character assumed by the struggle against the Soviet Union and all that it stands for, by the imperialists of all countries. The right wing labor leaders and socialists in all lands are being used as tools by their respective governments in this struggle. Their foreign policy is a diplomatic and economic war on Russia and their domestic policy a war of extermination against the Communist movement. The vagrant Kerensky and the lame duck Ramsay MacDonald are in thorough accord with Matthew Woll, the Civic Federation, with Winston Churchill and Benito Mussolini on this program. But MacDonald and Kerensky have been repudiated by their own former followers. The British workers rewarded the former labor premier for his united front with the tory government against the Communists, for his aid in defeating the general strike and for his tacit support of the government's policy in China, by trying the pants off him when he was wandering thru New England on his way to keep tryst with some ancient Mrs. "Doe," who befriended him in the past. Kerensky's posterior still feels the impact of the gigantic Russian proletarian boot that kicked him into permanent exile.

• • •

The American working class will some day confer the "Order of the Boot" on their own MacDonalds and Kerenskys. For a while yet, the Wolls and Greens will sit pretty.

The comic side of the Kerensky meeting was supplied by Woll who asked the speaker the pre-arranged question: "What can American wage-earners do to promote democracy in Russia?" And Woll answered his own question: Kerensky's mouth by telling the American wage-earners that they can do this by stamping out Communism in the United States, by helping the United States government stop the spread of "Soviet influence" and by insisting that the government refuses to recognize the Soviet government.

This is the program with which the A. F. of L. bureaucracy concerns itself with, at a time when the imperialists are on the rampage in China, in Central America and riding rough shod over the rights of people everywhere. While the coal operators are busily engaged in starving out the miners' union in the bituminous coal fields, Green, Woll and Company in an unholy alliance with the yellow socialists are engaged in a war to smash the progressive wing of the trade union movement in this country and to turn the unions into capitalist auxiliaries.

All the tools of imperialism from the scurvy labor faker of the Woll type, to the West Point graduate who commands the gun for his master are being lined up in the most widespread and ambitious program against the working class that was ever conceived. Against this motley crew of social scavengers the working class will struggle and will succeed eventually under the leadership of the Communist International in establishing Soviet governments in all lands.

The Daily Worker Needs Your Aid—NOW.

The DAILY WORKER is being attacked on all sides.

Joining in the new drive on the only American labor daily are professional patriotic societies and the district attorney of New York City. Latest developments show that the federal authorities can be expected to join in the campaign to send the editors and business manager of THE DAILY WORKER to prison and bar the paper from the mails—strangle the most militant expression of the working class ever published in the United States.

The reason for this new attack are obvious to every reader and supporter of the paper. It has occurred because the allied capitalists and labor agents of capitalists in the unions know that The DAILY WORKER is a stone wall against the wave of reaction that is sweeping the country. It holds together the left wing in the labor movement which fights the efficiency unionism policy of the officialdom. It exposes the war plots of Wall Street government, it fights for the workers and peasants of those countries American imperialism is trying to subjugate.

The DAILY WORKER is a mighty weapon in the hands of American workers. It has the ability to become a far more effective weapon and this the enemies of labor know and fear.

They will stop at nothing to smother the voice of militant labor.

The DAILY WORKER has no money. It depends exclusively upon the support of its readers. It has no other sources of income except a few dollars from sympathetic advertisers.

The DAILY WORKER needs money. If it does not get liberal donations at once it will suspend. There will then be no avenue thru which the conspiracy of reaction against the masses can be exposed. There will be left in the United States not one singlesingle American labor daily.

Help The DAILY WORKER. Help to prevent the muzzling of the American working class.

Do it now.

Nicaraguan Drive Continues.

The gunmen of American imperialism, under command of Rear Admiral Julian Latimer, have swept inland in Nicaragua and established military rule under the pretext of "neutralizing the zone," in the important city of Matagalpa.

In spite of the aid given the servant of imperialism, Adolf Diaz, that worthy is not able to establish his rule any place except with the aid of American armed forces. Liberal forces, supporting President Sacasa, threatened to occupy the city and the Diaz forces were inadequate to repel them. Hence Latimer steps in and declares it a neutral zone which, stripped of all camouflage, means that he is supporting the forces of reaction and stifling the legally chosen government of Sacasa, because that government will not become totally subservient to Wall Street.

Throughout Central America there is deep resentment against the frightfulness of American imperialism; a resentment that will eventually crystallize into an anti-imperialist upheaval that will challenge Wall Street and its gunmen with thunder and lightning. Such a movement will be encouraged by the class conscious elements of the working class of this country, who will not only demand that the United States get out of that part of the world but will aid those who are trying to drive them out.

Ruthenberg Drive In Chicago Continues; Circularize Workers

CHICAGO, April 19.—The Chicago District Ruthenberg Enrollment Campaign is gradually going ahead, and promises to bring substantial results for the party. To date, the following steps have been taken by the District Committee to push the Drive:—

In Main Cities

1. Ruthenberg Memorial Meetings were held in the main cities of this District. Propaganda meetings are held regularly in every city in the District. Also by the Sections in Chicago. Open propaganda meetings are also being arranged by Nuclei. All possible efforts will be made thru these meetings to secure the signing of membership lists of workers' organizations to bring in all sympathizers.

Complete Lists

2. Every language fraction has been instructed to compile lists of members formerly having belonged to language branches to draw them into the campaign, to organize propaganda meetings in every language, draw in sympathizers through activities in language fraternal societies, etc. Language fractions to send regular reports to the press and to the District Office.

3. In addition, we are planning to circularize all the signatories to the Ruthenberg for Mayor petitions to bring them closer to Party activities.

"Friends" Exposed By Record.

The labor party movement in the city of Los Angeles should receive a great impetus from the publication of the story in the Citizen, official labor organ, that Assemblyman Lyons and Woolwine, elected with the endorsement of organized labor on a "reward your friends" policy, voted against a bill which would strengthen the women's 8-hour law of California.

Carpenters Join Chamber Commerce.

The Carpenters' Union, Hollywood local, has become "respectable" by affiliating with the Chamber of Commerce of Hollywood.

DRAMA

Little Theatre Tournament Here Next Month

The fifth annual Little Theatre Tournament, participated in by organizations from all over this country and England, will be held here at a Broadway playhouse the week of May 2nd. The Little Theatre players will compete for the David Belasco cup, under the auspices of the Drama League.

The local organizations who will take part include: The United Players of Montclair; the Association Players of the Manhattan Y. M. H. A.; the Krigwa Players, of Harlem; the Garden Players, of Forest Hills; the Union Players of Bayridge; the Temple Players of Manhattan; the Thalian Players of the Bronx Y. M. C. A., and the Lighthouse Players. The last-named group is made up of blind people. Out of town groups will include: the Welwyn Garden Players from England; the Little Theatre of Shreveport, La.; The Memphis Little Theatre, the Indianapolis Theatre Guild, the Barnswallows of Wellesley; the Tulsa Players from Oklahoma; and the Central Players of Charlotte, N. C.

Broadway Briefs

Three new plays are listed for showing this evening: "The Comic," at the Theatre Masque; "The Gossipy Sex," at the Mansfield and "The Thief" at the Ritz.

MARY FOWLER

Plays an important role in "Rapid Transit," Lajos N. Egri's interesting play at the Provincetown Playhouse.

The Stagers will return to the producing field with a melodrama "Wall Street," which opens at the Hudson Theatre this evening. James N. Rosenberg is the author.

"Mixed Doubles," the new comedy starring Margaret Lawrence, will have its first showing Thursday evening, in Great Neck. The supporting cast includes: Marion Coakley, Thurston Hall, Eric Blore, and John Williams. The play opens in New York April 25th.

AMUSEMENTS

Theatre Guild Acting Company in
PYGMALION
GUILD THEA., W. 52 St. Eves. 8:15
Mats. Thurs. and Sat. 2:15
Next Week—The Second Man

MR. PIM PASSES BY
GARRICK 65 W. 35 St. Evs. 8:30
Mats. Thurs. and Sat.
Next Week—Night You Are

NED McCOBB'S DAUGHTER
John Golden 58-64 W. of B'way Circle 8:40 Mats. Thurs. & Sat. 2:40
Next Week—The Silver Cord

Neighborhood Playhouse
466 Grand St. Dryd'k 3516
Every Eve. (except Mon.) Mat. Sat.
Bill of Lyric Drama

TIMES SQ. Thea., W. 42 St. Evs. 8:30 Wed. & Sat. 2:30
CRIME
with James Rennie & Chester Morris

The LADDER
Now in 17th MONTH
WALDORF, 58th St., East of B'way. Mats. WED. and SAT.

WALLACK'S West 42nd Street. Evenings 8:30
What Anne Brought Home
A New Comedy Drama
Mats. Tues., Wed., Thurs. and Sat.

HAMPDEN'S THEATRE
Eves. 8:15. Matinees Wed. and Sat. 2:15
WALTER HAMPDEN
in CAPONSACCHI

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN
TWICE DAILY, 2 P.M & 8 P.M.
RINGLING BROS. and BARNUM & BAILEY CIRCUS
Incl. among many Marvels: HAWAIIAN SACRED WHITE ELEPHANT
TICKETS at GARDEN BOX OFFICE 8th Ave. and 49th St., and Gimbel Bros.

PROVINCETOWN 133 MacDougal St.
PLAYHOUSE Spr. 9503
RAPID TRANSIT
Every Eve. Exc. Mon. 8:30 Sat. 2:30
MATINEE SATURDAY

Civic Repertory Co. 6 A.V. & 14 St.
Mats. Thurs. & Sat. 2:30
EVA LE GALLIENNE

EARL CARROLL Vanities
Earl Carroll Thea., 7th Ave. & 50th St.
Mats. Thurs. & Sat. 2:30

MARTIN BECK 45th W. of 8th Ave. Evs. 8:30
Mats. Wed. and Sat. 2:30
JED HARRIS Presents a Drama
'SPREAD EAGLE'

Bronx Opera House 149th St. and Third Ave.
Pop. Prices Mat. Wed. and Sat. 2:30
"NEW YORK EXCHANGE"
The Sensational Comedy

BROADWAY
B'WAY & 41st. Evs. 8:30
PRICES EVES. $1.10 TO $2.75.

Patronize Our Advertizers.

Let's Fight On! Join The Workers Party!

In the loss of Comrade Ruthenberg the Workers (Communist) Party has lost its foremost leader and the American working class its staunchest fighter. This loss can only be overcome by many militant workers joining the Party that he built.

Fill out the application below and mail it. Become a member of the Workers (Communist) Party and carry forward the work of Comrade Ruthenberg.

I want to become a member of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Name .....

Address .....

Occupation .....

Union Affiliation .....

Mail this application to the Workers Party, 108 East 14th Street, New York City, or if in other city to Workers Party, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Distribute the Ruthenberg pamphlet, "The Workers (Communist) Party, What It Stands For and Why Workers Should Join." This Ruthenberg pamphlet will be the basic pamphlet thruout the Ruthenberg Drive.

Every Party Nucleus must collect 50 cents from every member and will receive 20 pamphlets for every member to sell or distribute.

Nuclei in the New York District will get their pamphlets from the District Office—108 East 14th St.

Nuclei outside of the New York District write to Daily Worker Publishing Co., 33 East First Street, New York City, or to the National Office, Workers Party, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

WORKERS! PROTEST AGAINST DEATH OF SACCO and VANZETTI!

GOOD printing of all description at a fair price.

Let us estimate on your work.

ACTIVE PRESS
INCORPORATED
33 FIRST STREET NEW YORK

Telephone ORCHARD 4744

Organized Labor—Trade Union Activities

News and Comment
Labor Education
Labor and Government
Trade Union Politics

Policies and Programs
The Trade Union Press
Strikes—Injunctions
Labor and Imperialism

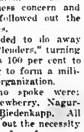
French Artist, Winner Of Prix De Rome, Joins Boston Painters' Union

BOSTON, April 19.—(FP)—Jacques Carlu, world famous painter, winner of the Grand Prix de Rome, becomes a rank and file member of Local Union No. 11, Intl. Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers.

It happened this way. The French artist, now living in America as professor of Advanced Design at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was given a commission to paint a garden scene on the silver paper walls of the lounge room of the Ritz Carlton Hotel. The painters' union has jurisdiction over all mural work in new construction. The artist was told there might be a walkout on the, other jobs in the building unless he took out a cenrd.

Jacques Carlu said he was glad of the chance to join the brotherhood. He paid out his $100 initiation fee and became a member of the A. F. of L. The work went on without interruption.

Junk Peddlers and Teamsters Organize Union in Chicago



CHICAGO, April 19.—A meeting of junk peddlers and teamsters was held here at 3422 Roosevelt Road to form a union free from the grafting influence of Mike Galvin who used it as a personal business concern and at the same time followed out the wishes of the bosses.

The meeting decided to do away with Ickeir old time "leaders," turning in their union books 100 per cent to Galvin and resolving to form a militant working class organization.

Among those who spoke were: Lurie, Newman, Newberry, Naguraky, Simpson and Biedenkapp. All the speakers pointed out the necessity of having the union free from any influence of the bosses, carrying out only the wishes of the workers who belong to the union.

Celebrate

MAY DAY

With a bundle of the

SPECIAL

of the

DAILY WORKER

On May Day a Special Issue of The DAILY WORKER will be issued.

ORDER A BUNDLE

There will be special articles on the world labor; special cartoons and photographs.

ORDER A BUNDLE

A whole section will be devoted to greetings to the world of labor from individual workers and from working class organizations.

ORDER A BUNDLE

This issue should be brought into the hands of thousands of workers. Order a bundle for yourself to give away and be sure to order a bundle

FOR YOUR MAY DAY MEETING

Special Bundle Rates
$2.50 A HUNDRED

RUSH

THE DAILY WORKER
33 First St., New York

Enclosed $ ..... for ..... copies of the MAY DAY SPECIAL

Name .....

Street .....

City .....

State .....

FACTORY EMPLOYMENT LOWER LAST JANUARY THAN IN PREVIOUS 5 YEARS; U. S. ADMITS

By LELAND OLDS.
(Federated Press.)

Factory employment in the United States in January dropped 1.7% to a level 3% below January, 1926, according to the U. S. department of labor. This means that about 240,000 workers who had jobs in industry a year ago were out of work in January. More than a quarter million workers have been laid off since October, 1926.

The department, as usual, softpedals the fact that industrial activity is on the down-grade. So the falling off from December is attributed to seasonal factors. But employment in January was the lowest of any January since 1922. It is more than 8% below January, 1924, and nearly 9% under January, 1923.

Below December.

The total distributed in wages on a weekly basis declined 4.9% from the December level. This brought the weekly factory wage Bill 3% under a year. Per capita weekly wages averaged $25.40, precisely the figure for January, 1926.

Industries which show serious curtailment both in employment and in weekly payroll are:

Industries showing serious decline from January, 1926	Employment loss	Payroll loss
Automobile	19.9%	26.9%
Auto tires	9.1	8.9
Agricultural implements	11.6	14.3
Brick, tile	5.0	9.1
Cement	5.1	7.5
Cigars, Cigarets	10.0	13.9
Car building, repair	5.8	1.1
Iron, steel	5.5	7.4
Hardware	9.8	9.0
Kitchen, enamel ware	15.8	20.1
Lumber, millwork	10.7	20.8
Lumber, sawmills	5.2	7.0
Millinery, lace goods	8.0	5.1
Shirts, collars	9.1	13.5
Silk goods	8.1	11.5
Steam heating apparatus	11.6	12.9

These 16 important industries showed employment in January 5% to 20% below January, 1926. This means either a serious drop in the demand for a large variety of products or a tremendous speeding up of the individual worker forcing new hundreds of thousands into non-productive ranlings or the bread line.

Take Less Rates.

The auto industry, practically all of the industries producing building materials and supplies and the luxury clothing industries are outstanding in the list. If this means a real drop in the demand for automobiles and buildings the secondary effect will be a further drop in the demand for goods produced by other workers. A drop of nearly 20% in the total wages of the army of automobile workers means a drastic cut in the purchasing power of this group.

There were no conspicuous gains compared with January, 1926, to balance these losses. Gains of between 4% and 5% in women's clothing, newspaper printing and petroleum refining and a gain of 18.5% in steel ship-building about cover the situation. Altogether a serious discrepancy between the productivity of industry and the purchasing power of consumers is increasingly apparent.

MISSOURI'S BACKWARDNESS EXPOSED BY NATIONAL CHILD LABOR COMMITTEE

By The Federated Press.

Missouri's defeat of a child labor reform law in the closing days of the legislature leaves her one of the most backward labor law states. The national child labor committee makes these six counts against this central middle western commonwealth:

1. In Missouri children under 14 may work in factories outside of school hours. In 36 states this would be illegal.

2. In Missouri a child of 14 may receive a permit to work without meeting any education requirement. In 41 states there is some educational standard, and in 25 states the completion of at least the 8th grade.

3. In Missouri a child of 14 may receive a permit to work without a statement from the prospective employer showing promise of employment and exact nature of the work to be done. In 20 states this would be required.

4. In Missouri a child of 14 may receive a permit to work without showing any documentary proof of age. In 32 states this is required.

5. In Missouri the health of a child applying for a work permit may be passed on by any "reputable" physician. In 27 states this examination must be made by a specially authorized physician.

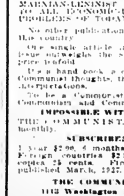
Missouri also, the committee have added, is one of the few states still without a workmen's compensation law.

Millions Withdrawn From Portland Bank After Its Failure

PORTLAND, Ore., April 18.—The Northwestern National Bank of this city has ended its business career. The Northwestern National Bank was one of the largest banks in this section, having 70,000 depositors of some $75,000,000.

Definitely connected with the failure of the bank, which was a member of the Federal Reserve system, was the involuntary receivership of the Portland Telegram.

A run on the bank started on Monday morning. Crowds gathered long before opening hours and the bank paid off accounts until 6 o'clock. About $7,500,000 was withdrawn the first day.



Subway Fires Brings Holidas.

An unexpected holiday was gained today by 25,000 workers in the buildings along Eighth Avenue and the upper thirties due to the burning out of power lines from two fires in the new subway excavations.

There was no telephone, electric light nor elevator service available in the buildings—hence no work.

Don't Be Without

The COMMUNIST

(Taking the place of the Workers Monthly)

Larger Size now and increased to 64 pages.

MOST VALUABLE AND NECESSARY FOR ANYONE WHO IS SEEKING THE CORRECT, THE MARXIAN-LENINIST ANSWERS TO ALL ECONOMIC-POLITICAL PROBLEMS OF TODAY.

No other publication like it in this country.

One single article is 5 times your outweighs the subscription price hereof.

It is a hand book of reference of Communist thoughts, theories and interpretations.

To be a Communist, to know Communism and Communists.

IMPOSSIBLE WITHOUT

THE COMMUNIST, published monthly.

SUBSCRIBE!

1 Year $2.00, 6 months for $1.00 Foreign countries $2.50 Single copies 15 cents. First number published March, 1927. Address:

THE COMMUNIST
1113 Washington Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.

Brooklyn Shoe Workers Make Defence Plans

Plans for the preservation of the Brooklyn shoe workers' union will be mapped out at an important membership meeting to be held this evening at the Amalgamated Temple, 21 Arion Place, Brooklyn.

The shoe manufacturers have forced strikes upon Brooklyn workers by a series of wage slashes. They have employed thugs and private detective agencies to smash the strikes. Defense measures will be planned at tonight's meeting.

Girls Have Forgotten All About Valentino

LONDON, April 19.—The thousands of flappers who used to flock to see the film star, Rudolph Valentino, and who avidly read bulletins regarding his spectacular sickness and death, have forgotten all about him. A firm advertised the sale of certain personal belongings of the actor and invited admirers to view them. No one came and so the junk is a total loss.

Painter Dies in Fall.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Irving Nitsky, of 1094-43 One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Street, Richmond Hill, Queens, a painter, died last night in St. John's Hospital, Long Island City, Queens, of injuries received yesterday when he fell about fifteen feet from a ladder while painting a house at 3734 Seventy-fourth Street, Elmhurst, Queens.

A. F. of L. Will Fight Against 2 Injunctions

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The American Federation of Labor has announced that it will support appeals to higher courts in two cases where union men were convicted of violating an injunction.

The cases in question are two members of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railways Employes and the Carpenters' Cutters union.

The two organizations, representatives of the Amalgomated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, guilty of violating an injunction, is truly disappointing and again attracts our attention to the inconvenience and suffering to which labor organizations and labor representatives are subjected through the use of the injunctive process.

"Because of this principle involved in the injunction proceedings at Indianapolis and the alleged violation of the injunction on the part of Organizers Armstrong and Parker, the American Federation of Labor is deeply interested in this case."

Offsetting the attack upon them by the courts, the members of the granite cutters' union are getting back of the organization campaign just launched. The officials of the union have issued a statement pointing out the advantages of organization. It is, in part, as follows:

"To all the workers engaged in granite cutting, monument work, etc.: After a careful survey made in the various cities and regions of the United States and Canada we have arrived at the conclusion, with considerable regret, that a large percentage of the workers engaged in granite cutting, monument work, etc., are organized. Naturally, this fact rebounds to the great disadvantage of all those who follow this trade.

"Lack of organization among the workers is a calomity; it makes for miserly wages and bad working conditions, and permits the bosses to overwork their men on the workers, with unsanitary working conditions, defective lighting, inadequate ventilation, and the resultant dust that the workers must inhale.

"Stone cutters, and granite cutters especially, are undoubtedly aware of the deleterious influences of such dust, which in a few years permeates the lungs, to the great detriment of the workers' health, respecting neither the healthy, the strong nor the young. Only rarely does a granite cutter who follows the trade continuously reach the age of 45 years.

"Tuberculosis decimates our ranks inexorably. Young men between 30 and 40 years of age succumb to the disease, victims of the deadly dust that lays them low in the tower of their youth.

Duty To Organize.

"First among the duties that every granite cutter should feel and heed, should be that of joining the organization of his craft.

"Certain victories obtained by the bosses as against the workers, such as at Barre, Vt., Chicago, Ill., Milwaukee, Wis., in California, etc., were made possible precisely because of the great anus of unorganized granite cutters. The bosses could not have inaugurated their "open shop" policy and the reduction of wages if they had not been able to find large numbers of unorganized granite cutters.

"Why is its follow granite cutters, that you continue to allow yourselves to be thus used by the bosses in their selfish game? Have you no thought or consideration for your own health? Have you not care to protect your own lungs? Have you no consideration for the welfare of your family, or your own children?

Betray Yourselves.

"In remaining outside of the ranks of the Granite Cutters' International Association of America you contribute to the betrayal of yourself and your own interests, as well as to the betrayal of your fellow granite cutters in general.

Miserable Pay.

"We know that unorganized granite workers, especially in the states of Michigan, Minnesota, Indiana and others of the Northwest and Southwest, are paid but a miserly wage—of seventy or seventy-five cents an hour. Is it not a shame to sell your labor power at so comparatively low and inadequate a wage? The organized granite cutters naturally receive a better wage; over a dollar an hour as a minimum. This rate, it is understood, is still very inferior to the wages received by workers in other trades, trades that are healthier than ours. But due to the large number of unorganized workers it is impossible to obtain what we could otherwise expect as a right.

Join The Ranks.

"Heed our call, then, fellow toilers; come and join our ranks and help strengthen our organization and so make our union stronger, as it is the only means we have of effectively protecting our interests against the grasping and exploiting bosses. The granite cutters who are as yet unorganized should get in communication with the headquarters of the Granite Cutters' International Association of American 25 School Street, Quincy, Massachusetts.

Those who wish to correspond in Italian regarding our organization, may communicate direct with Antonio Presi, 1508 N. Massasoit Ave., Chicago, Illinois, who as a union granite cutter will no doubt be able to supply any information desired.

Sam Scuilli, International President, Granite Cutters' International Association of America, 23 School Street, Quincy, Massachusetts.

Antonio Presi, Secretary of Chicago Branch of the G. C. I. A. of A., 1508 N. Massosoit Ave., Chicago, Ill.

P. S.—We shall be very greatful to all workers, all good and true union men, of whatsoever trade or craft, who may send us information regarding localities where unorganized granite cutters are employed.

SPY SWEARS USE SCAB UNIONS TO "GET" BEN GOLD

(Continued from Page One)

ters other members of the Joint Board of the New York Furriers' Union who are charged with "assault," as a result of the successful strike last summer.

The last witness brought forward by the district attorney was Capt. Harold P. King, of the Nassau county police, who testified that he saw Leo Frankin and Morris Malkan, two of the defendants, in Rockville Center the afternoon the alleged assault took place.

King declared that both furriers had told him that they had been sent from union headquarters to picket the shop of Michael Barnett and his brother, the 'complainants.' They denied, however, that they had, that they participated in any assault.

Judge Upholds Defense.

County Judge Smith, presiding in the case broke his record of overruling objections by defense lawyers when the district attorney attempted to introduce into the evidence a furriers' knife with which it is alleged Michael Barnett was slashed. In this instance, the judge sustained the objection of the defense lawyers.

Detective Grebe, accompanied by a stool pigeon, is looking "for information" about members of the New York Joint Board of the Furriers' Union in visits to the union-owned Greek headquarters, formed by the reactionary A. F. of L. leaders from the old company union; and the International Furriers' union formed of all the old gangsters and other discredited leaders who were driven out of the union by the workers.

Tells Of Strikes.

This was the testimony of Detective Benjamin Grebe of Nassau county who was a witness for the prosecution Monday.

With Bernard Basoff, the stool pigeon, who turned state's evidence and who over and over against lost Friday, and again Monday contradicted his testimony and stated that he had deliberately lied at his former trial, Detective Grebe came to New York on a number of days hunting for the fur workers whom Basoff planned to identify.

Look For Information.

"We went thru the fur market between one o'clock and three," said the detective in discussing the particular day he was searching for Otto Lenhardt, Jack Schneider, Joseph Katz and Joseph Weiss.

"Then when we did not find them there we went first to the Greek union, and then to the International."

"Judgment to the Greek union hunting Jewish furriers?" asked Attorney Henry Uterhardt.

Wanted Squealers.

"No, we just went for information." It was before this testimony that Detective Grebe, who with Basoff's help, arrested Ben Gold, I. Shapiro, S. Mencher, Jack Schneider, and Otto Lenhardt, swore that every one of these workers with the exception of Gold confided to him, almost as soon as they were arrested, that they had taken part in the Rockville Center furrier trip during which an assault was said to have been made on two brothers, Michael and Jack Barnett. Gold, he said, acknowledged that the raid took place.

"Did you get these confessions in writing," asked Attorney George Levy.

"No," said the detective, "except in the case of Schneider. I wrote out his statement, but he would not sign it." (This unsigned so-called statement was later ruled out as evidence.)

"Did you make any effort to get these 'confessions'? Did Captain Basoff not meet with you, hear the 'confessions' of Mencher and Shapiro? Did you discuss 'confessions' on the way to Mineola?"

"No, we discussed diet. Captain Bacon was surprised to know that any Jews ate pork." (General laughter in the courtroom.)

It developed upon further questioning of Attorney Levy that although the detective realizes how important a "confession" is in any case, he made no effort to get written confessions from these fur workers except in Schneider's case—and then his alleged statement Schneider would not sign. He said Lenhardt promised to write out his own statement, but he never found out whether he did or not.

Walsh Cross-Examines.

Detective Grebe was the last witness on the stand at Monday's session which began with the cross-questioning of the stool pigeon Basoff by Attorney Frank P. Walsh. He brought out more clearly than ever the string of lies which have been manufactured by this man ever since he turned state's evidence.

The judge exhibited marked hostility to Mr. Walsh all during his questioning. Several times he interrupted to remark that questions were irrelevant, or repetitious. With unfailing regularity he overruled all Mr. Walsh's objections, such as his objection to Basoff's repeated reference to the General Picket Committee as "the strong arm squad."

Judge Sorry For Stoolpigeon.

The judge at times turned to Basoff as tho he were a poor, innocent creature who was being rudely handled by these terrible lawyers.

"Take your time," he admonished Basoff who was stumbling over one of his lies. "Answer the question the best you can. Don't be hurried.

Move Mistrial.

Mr. Walsh twice during the day moved that the jurors be dismissed and that he declared a mistrial, and in refusing the second request, Judge Smith said curtly.

"You have asked for this twice; try again."

This second demand for a new trial came after Basoff had left the stand and taken a seat in the front row of the courtroom. He had scarcely sat down when the district attorney rushed over to him, and then immediately announced to the Judge.

"Your honor, there are two men in back of this man who are annoying him."

For The Record.

And without further question the two men, Max Hamberg and Benjamin Latarus, who have been subpoenaed to testify against Basoff, were ordered from the court room.

Mr. Walsh vigorously objected to this action as being prejudicial to these two witnesses and therefore demanded the new trial. The judge refused, as reported above.

Scab Testifies.

Charles Weisenbloom was the state's witness called after Basoff, and his testimony revealed that he had been a scab before and during the strike; had worked in the Barnett shop in Rockville Center for a while; and had finally begun reporting at the office of the strike halls every day, telling the hell committee that he had been sick.

He alleged that he had accompanied all the defendants to Rockville Center to point out the Barnett shop to them; and when that was done had left town on a train.

Denies His Past.

This witness hotridly denied the details of an affidavit made to the defense lawyers by Samuel Ockstein and his son, Samuel, fur workers who have a shop at 7 East 110th street.

This statement reveals the fact that Weisenbloom told of a former business partnership with Barnett, and a quarrel over the property; and that he also told that a friend of his had attacked Barnett's Rockville Center shop because of a personal grudge against him.

Weisenbloom could not tell who had identified him last December at the time of his arrest, following which he confessed complicity in the alleged assault at Rockville Center and turned state's evidence against the present defendants.

Weisenbloom stated that he had never been represented by council; did not know he pled guilty to a felony; did not even know what the meaning of the word felony is. He said he refused counsel when arraigned.

Not only did Weisenbloom try to impress the jury with his innocence of crime by his ignorance of the word "felony"; but he tried to ingratiate himself by stating that he always had a hard time getting a job in fur shops before the strike because he was not a union man.

Pittsburgh Labor to Hold Sacco-Vanzetti Conference, April 26th

PITTSBURG, April 19. — A call has just been issued for a Sacco-Vanzetti Emergency Conference to all labor and fraternal organizations of this city to be held at Walton Hall, 220 Stanwix St., Tuesday, April 26, at 8 o'clock. The call was issued by the Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Committee of western Pennsylvania.

All secretaries are requested to act upon the call even though their organizations do not meet before the date of the conference. If no delegates are elected, the secretaries themselves should come or should assign someone to attend.

For further details, communications should be sent to the secretary, Caroline Scollen, 807 McGeaugh Bldg., Pittsburgh, Pa.

LOS ANGELES NOTES

Labor Against Military Training.

Upon the initiative of the Central Labor Council, dozens of local unions have gone on record against compulsory military training in the schools, as a means for propaganda and preparation for war.

Studio Workers Sore

The rank and file of the Studio Workers' Alliance are beginning to find out the true nature of the agreement made between the big four unions and the motion picture producers. After a most enthusiastic organization campaign, and the initiation of hundreds of new members in preparation for a striko to recognize union conditions, the "big four" international officials signed a secret agreement with the producers and called off the strike. The agreement was a flagrant betrayal. Most of the new members, disgusted, are dropping out. Union men are forced to work alongside of non-union men, and are in many cases discriminated against and even fired or "layed off," and then non-union men are put on the job. The agreement provides for arbitration.

NOW SOLD AT REDUCED PRICES

4

Books which should be included in every worker's library

At 50 Cents Each

THE AWAKENING OF CHINA

by Jos. II. Dolsen.

When all China awakens with recognition, today battle against the world should be read by every worker.

ON THE ROAD TO INSURRECTION

by Lenin.

Among Lenin's enough recommendations as to the same time the first English publication

THE AFTERMATH OF NON CO-OPERATION

(Indian Nationalist and Labor Politics)

by N. Roy.

Not only does this but the whole East is awakening. This book records the facts at work in India.

RED CARTOONS (1926)

Perhaps you do not own the last satirical collection of the best work of Gropper, Low, Minor, Hollander, Art Young, Robinson, Fitzpatrick, Hall, Redfield, Boardman Robinson, Quirt, Fraser, Soglow, Hugo Gellert, Ware, Ryan, Fuller, Refregier, Hirschfeld, Ribak, Ellis, Crockett Johnson, Ruth Suckow, Ruth Pickering, Ralph Chaplin, Wallace Morgan, Ralph Fabri, Ralph Steiner, Lydia Gibson, Ralph Stackpole, Lydia Gibson, Ralph Stackpole, Lydia Gibson, Ralph Stackpole

The Chinese War

By WM. PICKENS.

THE war-makers are making progress, according to the reports of today (Apr. 7th). The northern Chinese general, whom the British and American imperialists seem to favor, has raided the Russian embassy in Peking,—and "report has it" that he was assisted by "British soldiery." Whether this latter "report" is true or not, it is clear that Chang Tso-lin, if he can arouse Russia to enter the war against him, will at the same time furnish England with a good excuse for entering the war against the southern or Cantonese faction in China, on the plea that it is made necessary because Russia has entered on the other side.

People are so foolish in the world today that the "red" excuse would be a good one to start a new world war on. If only England can say to the people at home: "We would not have entered this war if it had been left to the two Chinese factions, but when Russia enters on the side of the Cantonese, then Britain has to enter on the other side to save China and the world from "bolshevism."

It is hard to believe that the human race can be so dull to learn a lesson. Anybody can begin a war but nobody knows what will be the end of that war. If you don't believe it, ask the ex-Kaiser; or call up Czar Nicholas or old Franz Josef in the other world and ask them. They will tell you that the END of war may be altogether different from its beginning.

If England, Russia or anybody else wants an Asiatic war, the United States ought to stay out of it and leave it to the pleasure of those who want it. But we are not staying out. We are bundling off our marines in large numbers to Asia, getting ourselves so "entangled" that when the calamity falls it will involve us in the ruin.

* * *

England is anxious, like all other imperialists, to see South China force fail, because those Cantonese represent the workers, the scholars, and the revolutionists of China. If South China succeeds, the day of big business robbery in China will be short.

We have helped to educate those Chinese leaders, but we were hypocrites; we did not mean to make full-grown men out of them. We thought, as men have often thought before, that somehow we could indulge in missionary zeal and Christian brotherhood teaching, and at the same time continue to be the "superior race."

We proclaimed it from the housetops that we were educating Chinese students, but when they got educated and showed it by demanding to be on a plane of equality with us, we were ready to shoot them for it. They are "radicals," "bolsheviks," and anything else hard to pronounce or not quite understood.

I met twenty generals of Feng's army in Europe. They were all splendid fellows and many were scholars, several speaking good English,—some educated in the best schools of America. If we are against their aspirations for human equality in their own country and in the world, we were hypocrites when we handed them their diplomas.

If we are saved from another world war, it seems that we cannot look to statesmen for the salvation. The prospective "cannon fodder" must do it.

HITTING FORD BETWEEN THE EYES

It may not add to the joys of Henry Ford in these trying days that "THE FORD WORKER," the militant shop paper of the Ford industries, is celebrating its first anniversary, but to the workers the fact is an outstanding achievement.

To have been able to write, edit and print their own shop paper, which has kept them in touch with their fellow workers' problems, has exposed the profit-making machinery of the Ford system, and to have built the circulation of their paper to around 10,000, this is a creditable accomplishment to the sponsors of The Ford Worker.

Exposes Ford Myth.

Relentlessly, sometimes critical and sometimes satirical, The Ford Worker tears to pieces the "humanitarian" myth which has been built around Henry Ford the man. Taking Ford at his own argument as printed in the Detroit Times, saying: "The money I have accumulated is not the product of downtrodden, underpaid, blood-sweat labor. It is clean money." The Ford Worker reminds Ford that it is just that, and every bit of "downtrodden, underpaid, blood-sweat labor," which Ford has made use of to accumulate his fortune.

Urges Auto Union.

Recognizing that a shop paper must have a constructive basis, The Ford Worker devotes much space to point out the necessity for an automobile workers' union. The Worker editors urge upon every reader, the workers in the Ford industries, to write up their own experiences and to have it published in their own shop paper, The Ford Worker. The response has been very gratifying and shows that the paper is not only read earnestly but that the workers actually realize the value of a shop paper.

We wager that the activity of the Ford Worker will do more toward bringing about the formation of a union than all the promises of William Green, and we are also ready to bet our last dime, that Henry realizes this much himself and that he has spent in the past and will spend in the future more funds to hunt down the sources of the Ford Worker and its correspondents, than he spent on his last spring suit.

—FRED HARRIS.

* * *

"Harvester Worker," April, 1927.

Another shop paper which is on hand just now is the April issue of the Harvester Worker, written and published by workers of the International Harvester Company, Cyrus McCormick's plant. Coincidentally we also have a copy of the Harvester Industrial Council, the organ of the company union, which contains the minutes of the company union meeting.

We are therefore in a position to evaluate the merits of both, and to render judgment. The H. I. C. organ brings the message that representatives of employers and employees met and discussed their mutual problems, for instance: "A suggestion was discussed that poldi steel be substituted for stellite in machining 1 raetor main frames. Investigation showed poldi to be superior to stellite, etc., etc."

One may easily understand from this excerpt, what part the company union and its publications plays in bringing about better working conditions to workers. It proves itself to be an appendix to the bosses' administration.

We therefore lay the precious pamphlet aside and peruse the Harvester Worker and our face brightens up instantly. Here we have vigor and daring, a smasher of shams, tearing the Sunday school argument of McCormick about "reconciliation and employee representative plan" to pieces. It enunciates the class struggle and tells the workers that they must rid themselves from any and all illusions of class collaboration. It advocates the establishment of a strong workers' union, and to demand higher wages and an eight-hour workday.

Many contributions are sent in from the workers in the shops which gives the paper a real proletarian character. Thus by giving the workers a means of expression many brutalities by bosses and foremen are exposed and will result at least in protecting the workers from future attacks. The Harvester Worker is already in its second year and by now has a circulation of more than 6,000.

—F. H.

DE PINEDO 'DOES' NEW ORLEANS

The fascist trans-Atlantic flier, Francesco de Pinedo, who is making an air tour of four continents in the interest of Mussolini's regime lu Italy, touched the United States first at the "Crescent City," New Orleans, "the city ever forgot." He flew there from Havana in his plane, the "Santa Maria," which is shown pictured above on the Mississippi at New Orleans.

My Country 'Tis of Thee

By NAT KAPLAN.

Chimes From A Broken Pitcher

1. Spring Song.

I chant the song of verdant Spring,
Awakened from her sleep,
Of Nature free, of birds that sing,
Of woodlands, cool and deep.

I weave the tale of robers sprites,
The virgin kin of Pan,
Who dance and play 'neth starry nights,
Far from the haunts of man.

I sing my songs, through mirth and pain,
When comes the vernal sign,
I greet the sun, I hail the rain,
At two bits per each line.

Notice

Not so long ago this errant scrivener was stranded in Montreal with less than two bits. A hobo, that day discharged from the local jail-house, approached him on St. Catherine street and asked for the price of coffee. We shot the works at Thompson's, then hoofed it to Delson and hopped the cars to Champlain, where we parted. We hate to boast—but if our former road companion reads The DAILY WORKER this is to let him know of our present affluence. At this moment our wealth consists of twenty-six cents (cash) and four cents (postal stamps).

* * *

Also this note of obligation to the genial station-master at Rousse's Point who furnished us with food at a nearby lunch-wagon and lodging in the detention pen of the Custom's headquarters—direct all sightseers to the scenes of our notable visit. Some day when we find time we will head for Rousse's Point in the Rolls-Royce which we purchased after signing with The DAILY WORKER.

* * *

All of the above is advance copy. We are going to incorporate it in an address: "America, Land Of Opportunity," to be delivered for the next Ad Men's Club meeting—if we are invited.

* * *

In The News

Paul Berlenbach, one-time light heavyweight champion, is engaged, according to the rumor. In view of his earlier retirement from the ring, this latest venture suggests that he is hopping out of the frying-pan into the fire.

* * *

A Chicago judge recently granted a lady a decree of divorce because her husband struck her after she overbid a bridge hand. More than a few bridge addicts we know would render a verdict of justifiable homicide in a similar case carried to a more conclusive extreme.

* * *

Not a Sunday passes by without the appearance of some speaker at the Brooklyn K of C who testifies that the Bolshevik are in conrol of Mexico. And Brooklyn, in its own somnolant way, seems to say: "Well, what of it?"

* * *

Dr. S. Parkes Cadman favors the formation of a protestant Holy Name Society. We would like to be around when tha good preacher plays the game of his native heath and is stymied.

* * *

When McLaughlin leaves his job with the New York police to go to the Postal Telegraph Company here's hoping hat he furnishes the messengers with flivvers—or aeroplanes.

* * *

If the New York boxing commission persists in its efforts to elavate the cauliflower industry, the solons it?)

Never Left Home

The call of the wanderlust never has gripped Henry P. Bergmau, who, although living on a paved highway only five miles from Fort Wayne, Ind., never has been outside of his home county during the 76 years of his life. He is pictured "seeing the world" through an atlas.

Board of Education to Use Movies in Schools

A series of nation-wide experiments in visual education will be made this fall in four public schools in each of twelve cities of the United States, through the co-operation of Boards of Education. On April 21 and 22, a conference will be held in Rochester to consider the matter. By September, at least forty motion pictures for use in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades in geography, elementary sciences and hygiene will be ready. These will be shown in four public school classrooms in New York City; Newton, Mass.; Atlanta, Ga.; Winston-Salem, N. C.; Detroit, Chicago, Kansas City, Lincoln, Neb.; Denver, Oakland, San Diego and Rochester.

Spring Flood in Canada.

WINNIPEG, April 19.—Thousands of acres of grazing land have been inundated by floods in Western Canada and heavy damage was reported today.

Spring farm work has been halted in many places.

* * *

will probably refuse to renew "Tex" Rickard's license when they discover that he once played marbles for keeps.

* * *

(All of the above may prove that brevity is the soul of wit—but brevity never did fill a columu. Spring is very much in evidence . . . Nature is arrayed in its latest garb, some girls are beginning to demothballize their spring furs—which should interest you and me while we try to figure how we can scrape together enough jack to get that fairly wearable light suit out of hock. Spring is here, and what the hell of

West Chester Normal School Fight

EDITOR'S NOTE:— In reply to a request for detailed information on the fight that is raging in the West Chester, Pa., normal school, The DAILY WORKER has received the following statement of issues involved and the facts which indicate that the two professors and ten others were kicked out of the faculty because the munition makers and other war-mongers objected to criticism of the Coolidge-Kellogg policy in Nicaragua and Mexico:

ISSUES INVOLVED.

1. Refusal of Board of Trustees to renew the contract of 12 teachers, 3 men and 9 women. Two of the men, Dr. Robt. T. Kerlin and Prof. John A. Kinneman, state that they were fired because of their political beliefs, and radical tendencies. They are fighting to obtain a hearing before the Board of Trustees, all 12 being fired without warning or a hearing.

2. Dr. Andrew Thomas Smith, principal, prohibits students from signing a petition and presenting it to the trustees, asking for re-instatement of the two teachers.

3. Dr. Smith prohibits The Liberal Club, a student orgauization, from holding meetings.

4. Dr. Smith prohibits the "Green Stone," a student weekly publication, from referring to this fight in any way, and his command that the paper should not be published any longer.

THE FACTS.

1. The fight started this year (a previous but abortive attempt was made last year to induce Dr. Kerlin to resign), by Samuel Wesley Loug, Commander of the Bernhard F. Siegel Post of the American Legion, sending a petition to Governor Fisher, asking for an official investigation into the activities, loyalty, etc., of the Liberal Club. Mr. Long has been, and to the best of my knowledge still is, employed by or is an agent of Mr. S. DuPont, or the Dupont de Nemours E. I. Powder Co. He has recently circulated literature for Mr. Pierre S. DuPont. It is also alleged that he was employed in the U. S. Secret Service during the war.

Agents of DuPonts.

2. Mr. Long's second in command is Dr. John A. Farrell, a member of the Knights of Columbus and the American Legion.

The objection made to the Liberal Club and the two teachers is the fact that the President's and Secretary Kellogg's policies in dealing with Nicaragua, Mexico and China were severely criticized at meetings of the Liberal Club, the inference being that the Knights of Columbus, desirous of American intervention in Mexico on behalf of the R. Catholic Church, and the DuPonts Powder Co. don't want anti-militarist propaganda in a teachers' school.

3. Certain Ku Klux Klan sympathizers, who are not coming out openly but keeping under cover, object to the two teachers because they oppose race discrimination against the Negro, and one of the teachers is charged with having entertained two Negro Principals of Negro Schools at his home.

4. Miss Isabel Darlington, a lawyer, whose sister is the wife of Congressman Thomas S. Butler, chairman of the Naval Committee in the House of Representatives, and advocating a lot of new ships for the U. S. Navy; and who is the aunt of General Smedley Darlington Butler, who is now commanding the American forces in China, is the secretary of the Board of Trustees. Col. A. M. Holding, a corporation lawyer, who spends most of his time practising before the Public Service Commission as attorney for various corporations, including the United Gas Improvement Co. of Philadelphia, is the President of the Board of Trustees, and the dominant member of it. Herbert P. Worth, the treasurer of the Board is Vice President of the Farmers and Mechanics Trust Co., and President of the Board of Trade of West Chester.

Gang Accused of Graft.

5. Some years ago a graft scandal was started against the administration of the school, charges being alleged that Steward Johnson and Dr. Phillips, Principal, were involved in various forms of petty grafting. Some business men, students and former pupils of the school are now alleging that the same or similar conditions are now existing in the school; it is alleged that Bursar John R. Hollinger gave the construction of a new building, said to have cost approximately $525,000, to an out-of-town firm, to his own personal enrichment; that this building is already in bad condition, although not finished, having been constructed of the cheapest material, cracks appearing in it, although it has not yet been in use; that photographers, who take photos of the students, have to pay 25% commission to Mr. Hollinger; that vendors of potatoes, and other food supplies have to pay him commissions; that firms selling text-books, and other supplies, also have to pay tribute to him; that he also is financially benefited when celebrated musicians and other artists give entertainments at the school, and in general, business men allege that before they can do business with the school or the students, they first have to "sugar" Mr. Hollinger, as they express it.

Mr. Hollinger was a poor man when he took the position of business manager or bursar at the Normal School some years ago; he is now reputed to be well-off and the owner of two hotels in Atlantic City.

6. Principal Smith threatens to expel all student members of the Liberal Club if they continue in their "rebellious" conduct.

The Daily Symposium

Conducted by EGDAMLAT.

THE QUESTION

Are you in favor of a mass protest in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti?

THE PLACE

Fourth avenue between 14th street and Cooper Square.

THE ANSWERS

Henry Weber, 326 East 23rd street, plumber: "Yes. I don't believe they got a fair deal. They should be given a new trial. I have faith in their innocence."

* * *

Anthony Paresi, 126 First avenue, street cleaner: "Yes. A general strike will influence Governor Fuller to investigate the case. I am sure that an unbiased jury could have never convicted them."

* * *

Morris Bortnick, 46 Stuyvesant street, artista: "Yes. It is the revolutionary duty of the American workers to come to their defense. Sacco and Vanzetti are innocent—they have been framed for their radicalism. We must do all in our power to save them from the gallows."

* * *

Thomas Kelly, 191 Third avenue, laborer: "No. It would be more effective to have the Massachusetts state legislature force Governor Fuller to investigate the case. Personally, I believe both Sacco and Vanzetti are innocent."

* * *

Jack Davis, 75 East 4th street, chauffeur: "Yes. I don't believe they had a fair trial. Because they are radicals the government tries to get rid of them. I am sure they have been framed up."

* * *

Sol Mirk, 837 East 181st street, pharmacist: "Yes. There is every reason to believe that their conviction has not been reviewed impartially. A general strike might persuade Governor Fuller to intervene."

FOOTNOTES TO THE NEWS

By EUGENE LYONS

AN ALL-STAR AMERICAN REPORTING TEAM.

Now that Prof. Will Durant, who put a kick into philosophy, has been engaged by certain yellow sheets to report the Snyder murder trial, we prophesy that Mrs. Ruth Snyder, if she gets away with it, will be signed up for a series of articles on philosophy. In fact, we would put her at the head of our all-star American reporting team. The line-up, by subject and reporter best suited to cover same, would be something like this:

PHILOSOPHY—Ruth Snyder; Judd Gray, alternate.
MURDER—Will Durant.
LABOR—Elbert H. Gary.
FOREIGN AFFAIRS—Jackie Coogan.
RELIGION—Clarence Darrow.
SPORT—Cal Coolidge.
THEATRE—Helen Keller.
POLITICS—Ringling, or any other circus impressario.
LITERATURE—Big Bill Thompson.
DIVORCE—Cardinal Hayes.
FINANCE—Bert Miller.
RADIO—Any phonograph manufacturer.
WASHINGTON NEWS—The city editor of the Gopher Prairie Gazette.

Other suggestions for an all-star reportorial line-up will be welcomed by this department, with due credit to the suggestor. As soon as a perfect team is picked, we shall approach Otto H. Kahn to finance a paper for them.

MASSACRE OF THE INNOCENTS
1927.

Sacco and Vanzetti—
No murderers are you.
But worse than mere assassins,
That judiciary crew
Grim, black-robed and stony
Like their Plymouth rock;
Killing guiltless workers
By electric shock.
These judges hang together
They ought to hang—by God!
These foul birds of a feather
Smell worse than putrid cod.
Oh land of boasted freedom
Whence liberty has fled,
It seems that even your justice
Is cock-eyed drunk or dead.

—ADOLF WOLFF.

Let Young Poets, With Nothing To Say, Stop Writing As They Please a Little.

(With the customary apologies to Eli Siegal.)

Bold, bold in this world,
And writing their damndest and boldest,
And a young poet with nothing, absolutely nothing to say thinks of destiny or something; thinks (? of this in a smoke-laden, low-ceilinged dive in Greenwich Village; and wonders who will pay his check.
And he sits down next a young woman and tells her he's a poet.
Can he write, though; can he, though. He'll say so!
The young poet muses; while hands are clapped. Muses of unwritten sonnets; of verses free and unrestrained. Does he muse though.
Does the young poet worry about what the young woman tells him? Does he, though? (Does he?)
Tomorrow the young poet with nothing to say will rise wearily; think of what the young woman told him; he will go to his "eating shoppe" in the Village; young poets with nothing to say do this; let young poets with nothing to say stop writing as they please a little even if they are hell out of luck, or aren't they, though. (Who knows?)
My, though, how the unsavory, acrid aroma of stale coffee hovers over the head of the young poet with nothing to say.
Let young poets, with nothing to say, stop writing as they please a little, young poets who go to eating shoppes and poetry salons, and who, somehow, go to them every evening (or is it every evenin?)
Even though, presumably, they are hell out of luck.
What would existence be without young poets with nothing to say; do you know?
Hell, no, let young poets with nothing to say stop writing as they please a little;
Even though—even though—well; even though we have to put them all together;
Together, together—and drown them.

—PUNCHINO.

CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW

Chauncey M. Depew, former U. S. senator from New York, chairman of the board of directors of the New York Central railroad since 1898. He will celebrate his 93rd birthday on April 23.

Depew has gained prominence as an after dinner speaker, long being the pet delight of Rebbits all over the United States.

HANDS OFF CHINA! WITHDRAW TROOPS AND BATTLESHIPS!

THE DAILY WORKER FIGHTS:
FOR THE ORGANIZATION OF THE UNORGANIZED
FOR THE 40-HOUR WEEK
FOR A LABOR PARTY

THE DAILY WORKER

NATIONAL EDITION

Entered as second-class matter of the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Vol. IV. No. 84. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In New York, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside New York, by mail, $6.00 per year. NEW YORK, THURSDAY, APRIL 21, 1927 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 33 First Street, New York, N. Y. Price 3 Cents

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

COLUMNS of piffle on Al Smith and his brand of religious hokum versus the brand favored by Mr. Marshall and his ilk, continue to clutter the pages of the capitalist press. Thousands of patriotic citizens make a living in this country telling their fellow-patriots that there is a papal army in every parochial schoolhouse cellar waiting for the word to rally forth and burn every "little red school house" in the land.

* * *

ON the other hand we have the lieutenants of the self-styled prisoner in the Vatican make a better living telling their deluded followers that all those who are not believers in the catholic faith will roast and sizzle for ever and ever and ever in a hell specially built by the kind christian god for all those who refuse to contribute to the upkeep of the pope and his hordes of employes. And the christian god was good enough to employ a devil and a host of roustabouts to keep the home fires burning for his rebellious creatures.

* * *

BETWEEN the two brands of religious opium peddled by the rival spiritual joss houses there is no more choice than there is between two different kinds of poison, both equally deadly. Al Smith could state quite honestly that he is a loyal son of the catholic international in Rome and of American imperialism with headquarters in Wall Street and an annex in Washington. Theoretically, of course, the vatican has never relinquished the claim to the spiritual and temporal dominance of all the human beings on this earth. But it uses its head.

* * *

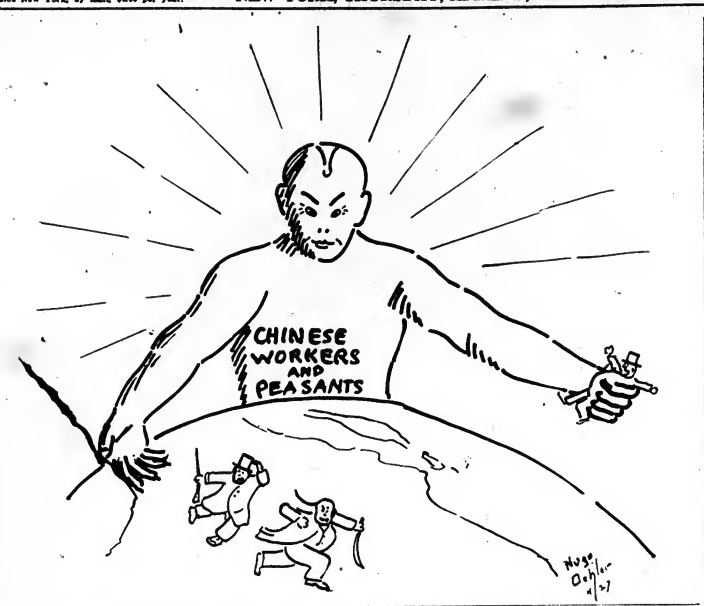
THERE was a time when kings trembled every time the pope blew his nose in anger. Those were in the good old feudal days when a refractory prince could be brought to the papal knee to renew his allegiance under threat of a loss of his power. The papacy was more powerful politically in those days than it is now. It was more the boss of the existing social order than now. Today it is the servant of world imperialism and gives tit for tat. It renders a service to world imperialism and receives valuable concessions in return. There is an almost perfect entente between the vatican and world capitalism. Here and there a rupture occurs. But quarrels take place even in the best regulated families.

* * *

WHEN Governor Smith declares that the catholic church does not interfere in temporal matters he is talking for the benefit of the moron. What is the catholic church doing in Mexico today when it supports counter-revolutions against the Mexican government which happens to be a liberal government and opposed to foreign imperialism and the native blood-suckers who have lived on the backs of the Mexican people for centuries? And every student of Irish history knows that the church has been used by Great Britain ever since the conquest of Ireland as an overseer holding the country in subjection for a consideration. The sale of Ireland to a British king on condition that the king turn over to the papal treasury one penny for every human being in Ireland is a historical fact. Not a very spiritual agreement!

* * *

THE catholic church must do a lot of spade work yet before the political soil in the United States is sufficiently prepared for the election of a catholic to the presidency. Smith's blast is part of a definite policy to break down the existing prejudice. Whether his interrogator, Mr. Marshall, was in on the plan or not makes little difference. As a result of the publicity that accrued to Al from the controversy he is more of a national figure today than ever and will prove a powerful contender for the nomination in the next democrat convention.



* * *

SHOULD Smith receive the democrat nomination the religious issue will be one of the dominating factors in the election campaign tho there is little likelihood that either of the main contenders will deal with the religious publicity. But two armies of whisperers will be busy. The leaders of the capitalist parties will try to make the workers forget their own class interests at the more election debauch. When the workers should be building a Labor Party to fight their own battles they will be asked to check their political brains until the spree is over. Then they will return to the slave pens—if they are lucky enough to have a job—while the successful and unsuccessful candidates sleep off the effects of the jamboree.

* * *

TEARS welled to my eyes as I read an editorial wail in a recent issue

(Continued on Page Three)

PASSAIC BOSSES WORRIED BY THE LABOR CAMPAIGN

Program of Workers Shows Them Up

PASSAIC, N. J., April 20.—Apparently Albert Weisbord's campaign for city commissioner in Passaic, N. J., has the capitalist candidates worried. Together with Simon Smelkenson and Simon Bambach he is putting up an aggressive working class campaign that is linked up with the vital issues that confront the workers of that city.

Endorsed by the Workers' (Communist) Party, the three labor candidates for city commissioner have issued a detailed program presenting the issue of the campaign from a working class point of view.

Free Rents.

It raises the issue of a moratorium on rents which to the textile workers at the present time is a major question. After more than a year of strike and with very little work in the mills at the present time, most of them can not pay their rent. Hence the declaring of a moratorium would, for the time being at least, solve an important question.

Linked up closely to the question of a moratorium on rents is the plank that demands compensation from the city for those who are unable to secure a job. No comment is necessary on the need of such a bill at present.

Right to Strike.

After the brutal beatings and arrests as well as the mass terrorism that was the lot of the textile strikers they can easily see the importance of that plank in the labor program that calls for the right to picket and strike and asks for the abolition of injunctions in labor disputes, also opposing the use of police against strikers.

It raises the issue of the exclusive use of union labor on all municipal work which effects every trade unionist in the city, something the other candidates completely ignore.

Unemployment Bureau.

It demands that the city establish an unemployment bureau in which the local labor movement shall participate. It is interesting to note that this demand was first made by the

(Continued on Page Three)

$500 Fine For Drink

TALLAHASEE, Fla., April 20.—A bill which would make it unlawful to drink intoxicating liquors in this state, was introduced in the House today by Representative Frisbee, of Clay County.

The bill would provide a penalty of not more than six months' imprisonment and up to a $500 fine for indulging in a drink.

Famed Writers Cable to Cal Coolidge for Freedom For Sacco and Vanzetti

BOSTON, April 20.—Governor Alvan T. Fuller today received from Secretary of State Frank Kellogg cablegrams from Europe received at the White House by President Coolidge asking freedom for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, sentenced to die in the electric chair.

A joint cablegram to the president was signed by Professor Albert Einstein, of relativity fame, Romaine Rolland and Henry Barbusse, internationally known writers of France.

Another cablegram to the White House forwarded here was from Herr Sneevliet, secretary of the Dutch Labor Secretary at Amsterdam.

A third, unsigned, came from Prague.

FULLER, UNKNOWN FACTOR IN SACCO, VANZETTI AFFAIR

Strictly a Capitalist; Wants Courts Honored

(By Special Correspondent).

BOSTON, Mass., April 20.—What will Governor Fuller do?

This is the dominating question in Massachusetts today as its chief executive ponders on the thousands of appeals from all parts of the world for a new trial or pardon for Sacco and Vanzetti, who face the electric chair July 10 on a framed-up murder charge.

The question is still unanswered, for few know what is in the governor's mind. Only one fact is apparent, that labor must keep pounding on the gates of Sacco and Vanzetti's prisons with renewed force in the coming weeks if they are to escape death.

A Look at the Governor.

A picture of Governor Fuller will aid DAILY WORKER readers in forming their own estimate of his prospective action. Here it is, in broad outlines:

The governor is a self-made man. Back when he was 14 years old, he conducted an ambitious bicycle venture, and has kept his money on rubber tires ever since. Residents invariably point to Fuller's Folly far out on Commonwealth Ave. where he has erected huge Ford-like plants to handle his extensive New England Packard business. Catering to one of

(Continued on Page Two)

TEN GREAT MASS MEETINGS TODAY SUPPORT LOCKED OUT FUR WORKERS

Picketing of Forty-four Shops Where Bosses Line Up With Right Wing Already Started

Ten huge meetings, with thousands of needle-trades workers in various parts of the city, to be held today at 5:30 will reply to the lockout of the 1,000 fur workers by the Associated Fur Manufacturers, and the imprisonment of Ben Gold, together with 10 other leaders of the Joint Board of the union on a fake "assault" charge.

Picketing of the 44 shops out of which the workers were locked for refusal to register in the company union of the bosses—the International—began yesterday morning. Mass meetings of workers were held in Manhattan Lyceum and other halls where mobilization of all the forces of the Joint Board took place for the present phase of the struggle with the right wing officials now openly aligned with the manufacturers and the police.

"Forward" For Bosses.

The Jewish Daily "Forward" for the past few days has been publishing advertisements from the Associated Fur Manufacturers, "explaining" that they had to lock out the 1,000 furriers Tuesday in order "to preserve their agreement with the International union."

At today's meeting, to be held at Cooper Union, Webster Hall, two halls in Manhattan Lyceum, two halls in Stuyvesant Casino and several other halls in the immediate neighborhood, a large number of speakers will voice the attitude of the workers in the entire needle trades who will refuse to be intimidated into forming company unions which will eventually result in their return to sweat shop conditions.

Leader Will Speak.

Among the speakers at the huge protest meetings will be Louis Hyman, manager of the Joint Board of the cloak and dressmakers, Sam Liebowitz, acting manager of the Joint Board of the furriers, Ben Gitlow, Albert Weisbord, leader of the Passaic strike, Juliette Stuart Poyntz, Lena Charnenko, Moissaye J. Olgin, William Weinstone, Joseph Boruchowitz, Joseph Goretzky, C. S. Zimmerman, Julius Portnoy, and other officials of the cloakmakers' union, Fannie Warshawsky, Irving Potash, S. Polansky, and other active leaders of the Furriers' Union. It is announced that a message from Ben Gold will be read at these meetings.

"Peaches" Is Discharged

CHICAGO, April 20.—"Peaches" Heenan Browning was discharged when she appeared in Town Hall court today on a disorderly conduct charge preferred by motorcycle police who arrested Al Mann, her escort, for driving 41 miles an hour.

Brazilian Workers Are Still Being Terrorized At Government's Orders

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 20 (FP).—In spite of the announcement by the Brazilian government that the "state of siege" has been lifted, after three years of suspension of civil law, the workers in this republic are terrorized as persistently as before. Regular labor papers cannot be issued. Arrests of labor organizers are made without explanation.

Due in part to world economic conditions and in part to the terror imposed on plantation workers, these workers have fled by tens of thousands to the cities, where they have depressed wages while adding to the number of unemployed.

The national government—the dictator president—declares that social and industrial unrest is a problem solely for the police.

Fur Leaders Called 'Red' When Charge Of Assault Pales

MINEOLA, L. I., April 20.—Jack Schneider, one of the 11 leaders of the New York Furriers' Joint Board accused of being involved in an "assault" upon two owners of a scab fur shop in Rockville Center, L. I., testified this morning at the trial before County Judge Lewis J. Smith that he was at a strike meeting at the time of the alleged attack.

Schneider is assistant chairman of the picketing committee of the furriers' union.

When District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards, continued the line of cross examination which he followed yesterday and asked Schneider if it was not true that he had taken part in the beating of a non-union furrier in Manhattan, Frank P. Walsh, of defense counsel, strenously objected

(Continued on Page Five)

IMPERIALIST POWERS CAUSE PEKIN TO MAKE WAR GESTURE AT U. S. S. R.

Peasants' Union Controls Wuhu; Workers and Farmers Support Hankow Government

SUMMARY OF TODAY'S NEWS.

1.—Chang Tso Lin refuses Soviet's request for release of officials captured in raids on the Soviet embassy compound at Peking. This interpreted as move on the part of the imperialist powers to goad the Soviet Union into a war.

2.—Bukharin advises Chinese Communists to work within the Kuomintang, and to eliminate right wing counter-revolutionary elements.

3.—British rush more troops to China.

4.—Peasants' Union controls Wuhu. Peasants and workers throughout Yangtse Valley flock to the support of the Hankow Government.

5.—General Tang, National associate commander-in-chief, moves against Chiang Kai-Shek.

5.—Imperialist gunboats continue to concentrate at Hankow.

PEKING, April 20.—The Peking Government has flatly rejected the request of the Soviet foreign office for the release of Soviet officials and property seized in Chang Tso Lin's raids on the Soviet embassy compound.

The refusal is interpreted by observers here as an attempt on the part of the imperialist powers to goad the Soviet Union into war. Chang's raids were conducted with the full permission of the foreign diplomatic corps at Peking, and it is believed that his refusal of the Soviet requests was made at the suggestion of the British foreign office.

Sent Mild Note.

The Soviet note which was handed to the Peking Government early this month made no threats whatever and fixed no time limit. It made the following requests:

1.—"The immediate withdrawal of Peking troops from the Soviet embassy compound.

2.—"The release of all Soviet officials arrested in the raid.

3.—"The immediate return of all documents, money and property secured."

Interferes with U. S. S. R. Citizens.

Chang Tso-Lin continues to interfere with the activities of the citizens of the Soviet Union in Manchuria. Reports from Harbin indicate that they are prevented from moving from town to town by the Manchurian war lord.

* *

Bukharin Scores Chiang.

MOSCOW, April 20.—"Communists must mobilize their propaganda against Chang Kai Shek, taking up the cudgel against him only when in full readiness," declared M. Bukharin, leader, today, commenting on Chiang's campaign in opposition to the Communists in China.

"We must remember that we have the army of Feng Yuh-Siang, which as yet has not been brought into the fight. It is necessary to avoid forms and organizations that will give the imperialists cause to yell about 'the Sovietization of China.' The Communists must not leave the Kuomintang, but must push out the right wing elements instead. Workers must enter the Kuomintang and here from within, never forgetting that Hankow is a left government and a considerable part of the National army favors it and that Hankow will become more and more the center for the worker and the masses."

* *

British Rush Troops.

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., April 20.—Two additional batteries of the royal field artillery and a motor transport company, consisting of 54 six-wheeled lorries, were embarked upon a transport for China today.

A British battalion is being held in readiness at Shanghai for immediate departure for Tientsin if the situation in north China becomes menacing.

A squadron of the royal air force and a general hospital section, complete with nurses, was also embarked.

* *

Peasants Control Wuhu.

SHANGHAI, April 20.—Reports from Wuhu state that the Chinese Peasants' Union has assumed complete control at Wuhu. Workers and peasants are taking over control of cities and towns thruout the upper Yangtse Valley and are rallying to Hankow today. General Tang Sengchi, associated commander-in-chief of the Nationalist armies, is already marching against Nanking, reports from Hankow state.

Execute Labor Leaders.

In the meantime Chiang Kai Shek continues to execute left wing and labor leaders at Nanking. Secret executions are proceeding nightly at

(Continued on Page Two)

Ford's Attorneys Have Woman Juror Secretly Quized By U. S. Agents

DETROIT, April 20.—An air of mystery was thrown about the alleged jury scandal in the $1,000,000 Ford-Sapiro libel suit today when Mrs. Cora Hoffman, one of the women jurors in the case was again brought to the federal building for questioning.

Accompanied by her husband, Mrs. Hoffman, who is accused by Ford's attorneys of expressing antipathy towards the motor king, was secretly grilled by department of justice agents.

Neither the agents nor attorneys in the suit would discuss the latest development in the alleged scandal.

MINERS' LOCKOUT DRAGGING ALONG; CRISIS NOT YET

European Operators in Near Panic

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 20.—The coal lockout continues its regular way. The miners are enduring their enforced vacation, the companies in general are not producing, the public is slowly using up the coal reserves. The crisis is some weeks ahead, when the stocks grow low, and the activity of left wing and progressive elements in the miners' union brings out the unorganized workers.

From the beginning, and in spite of the apathy of the union officials to their appeals, the progressive "Save the Union" bloc in the United Mine Workers of America has insisted that the unorganized miners are the key to the situation.

Energetic organization has resulted in a considerable strike activity among them already, but the real issue is still ahead, in the opinion of all familiar with the present circumstances.

* * *

Costs Ordered Revealed—Perhaps.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—At last the mask of secrecy has been almost ordered torn from the books of the biggest coal, coke, pig iron and steel

(Continued on Page Two)

Mussolini Might Be Proclaimed as First Chancellor in Italy

LONDON, April 20.—Reports of the possibility of a proclamation creating Premier Mussolini as the first chancellor of Italy, being issued tomorrow on the anniversary of the founding of Rome, were current here today.

The reports, which are as yet unconfirmed, state that the chancellorship would be based upon the German Bismarckian pattern and that the chancellor would be responsible to the king and not to the parliament. The cabinet at the same time would be responsible to the chancellor and might be dismissed by him at will.

One report is that the proclamation will also create "the empire of Italy."

"Big Four" Swindle Legalized by Legislature

Past Events of Insurance Expose.

This is the tenth of a series of thirty articles exposing the fraud of "industrial" (weekly payment) life insurance. Previous articles have dealt with the methods employed by the "Big Four" in misusing "mutual" assets to the benefit of the banks which operate hand in glove with this powerful combine. The "Big Four" is composed of the Metropolitan, Prudential, John Hancock and the Colonial Life Insurance Companies. Names prominent in financial and government circles have figured largely in the series. Charles Evans Hughes, Governor Smith, Supt. of Insurance James A. Beha, Charles M. Schwab and Alanson B. Houghton are among those present.

(Copyrighted by The Daily Worker 1927)

By CHARLES YALE HARRISON.

ARTICLE X.

If the reader has ever gone through the harrowing experience of having his life insured (and who hasn't) he will remember that during the preliminary negotiations his agent mysteriously reached into his hip pocket and drew therefrom a black, leather-bound book. Peering into its mystic contents he announced that at such and such an age, insurance per thousand would cost so and so much.

The Gambling Percentage.

The rate of insurance is based upon what is technically known as the American Experience Table of Mortality. This is a compilation of death statistics. For example this inaccurate table says that if a prospect for insurance is, let us say, 40 years of age and is in a sound enough condition of health to pass a rigid medical examination, he will continue to live for 28 additional years.

A premium will then be charged based upon the theory that if the annual premium is invested at 3 1-2 per cent per annum, the principal and interest at the expiration of the 28 years will equal the face amount of the policy. The higher the amount of insurance, the higher the premium.

Figures Don't Fit Now.

Now all this sounds very scientific and very business-like and very honest. But it isn't, for the following reasons:

To begin with the Table of Mortality used by the "Big Four" is one that was compiled in 1868. Since that time the death rate has shot downwards with a most gratifying speed. New discoveries in medicine such as diphtheria anti-toxin, the Schick test, the wiping out of yellow fever, insulin, and new clinical devices and practices together with modern plumbing and sanitary conveniences have mitigated against a high death rate.

Charges As Much.

But the lowered death rate means nothing to the "Big Four" with regard to the frequency of insurance costs. While it is true that a lower death rate means a lowered cost of operation, the millions of policyholders do not benefit by the saving in death claims.

An extremely obliging state legislature has permitted this fraud to be written into the statutes and today this table of mortality which predicts two deaths for every actual funeral is the law of the land.

Billion dollar insurance companies are permitted to operate upon the theoretical lie that their invested capital will each 3 1-2 per cent interest, whereas any moron knows that these companies earn 6 per cent—any moron, not an up-state legislator.

"The Big Four" earn, it is true, 6 per cent on their bonds and stocks, but what is illegally earned on the scores of millions of dollars in cash which is rented out for call loans and short term notes only the "mutual" directors know.

High Payments.

There is a mistaken notion current among non-industrial policyholders that only a few cents a week is collected from the poor in payment for his petty larceny form of protection.

On the contrary, the average weekly payment family pays an average of $3.00 per week and in many cases much more. The writer knows of a widow living in Brooklyn who pays $10.00 per week. During the past ten years hordes of agents have terrified her with the threat that she will be penniless in her old age and be dependent on charity. During each spell of illness or unemployment she drops her insurance. By the time she is able to start paying again she is unable to meet her payments in arrears. New policies are then issued which means a total loss of her previous payments. There are millions of dupes like this woman throughout the country.

Last year lapsed policies which were a complete loss to five million erstwhile insurers totaled $1,143,426,575. And on this item alone the "Big Four" netted upwards of fifty million dollars.

Policies Lapse.

When the price of insurance is being figured by the high salaried bookkeepers of the "Big Four," it is assumed that every policy will mature either as a death claim or as an endowment.

In reality only about 15 per cent of policies issued mature. What happens to the hundreds of millions from this source which have been piling up years after year? Have they been credited to the "mutual" policyholders who have the infinite patience and gullibility to continue with the "Big Four"? Certainly not.

A Conscious Swindle.

After 80 years of experience insuring tens of millions of lives these companies still use an antiquated table of mortality which was compiled in 1868.

The "Big Four" have no record in varied death experience at all ages. The death loss per 1,000 at any individual age is not a matter of guesswork—it is a mathematical certainty.

Company Sues Itself.

Assuming that 1,000 men at 40 years of age insure their lives for $1,000 each. The old table of mortality says that at the end of the first year 9 will be dead. This means that the 1,000 prospective risks must agree to pay at least $9,000 or $9 each in order to cover the deaths. According to the modern table of mortality only 5 will die within the year instead of 9, thus reducing the death loss cost to $5 per $1,000.

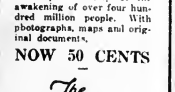
They Cheat.

From the above it seems that any table of mortality which fails to predict within 5 per cent of the actual death loss per thousand at any given age from 28 to 46, which covers 90 per cent of the total insurance in force, may be regarded as being used for the company's ends. And any table which predicts within 10 per cent of the actual death loss is maliciously fraudulent.

The "Big Four" charge 100 per cent more on death losses than they should. Maliciously fraudulent is a mild term to use in characterizing the operations of the petty larceny insurance trust, but one soon runs out of invective.

Get Rich.

In retrospect then, the "Big Four" assume an original premium charge twice as great as it should be and operate under a system whereby 1 per cent of all terminated policies each year are endowments and only 9 per cent are death claims.



Is it any wonder then that the "Big Four" have a reserve fund of assets of nearly $4,000,000,000 and that Charles M. Schwab, Joseph P. Day and Albert Wiggin act as directors on the Metropolitan?

The cause offered by apologists for the "Big Four", is that these men "know high finance." That is quite true but these hi-jackers have as much in common with the millions of weekly payment policyholders as a weasel has with a hen.

Hooch Explosion Kills 3.

CHICAGO, April 20.—Three persons were reported killed in a mysterious explosion on the west side of Chicago early today. It was the second such mysery blast in that section within a week, the first claiming eight lives. The debris was being searched for the bodies of a grocer, his wife and baby daughter, who lived over a store in the wrecked building. Police believe an illicit still in the two-story frame building exploded.

CHINA IN REVOLT

a new pamphlet

Including the discussion by outstanding figures in the Communist International on the great revolt in China by

STALIN
BUCHARIN
MANUILSKY
TAN PING SHAN

15¢

On China Read Also
THE AWAKENING OF CHINA
by Jas. H. Dolsen.

A complete history of the awakening of over four hundred million people. With photographs, maps and original documents.

NOW 50 CENTS

The DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING COMPANY
33 First Street
NEW YORK

Governor Fuller May Overrule the Courts

(Continued from Page One)

the best upper class markets in America, he has made a large fortune of between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000 out of Packards. He picked up the car in the early days of the motor industry and has hung on to it ever since.

Fifteen years ago when he put up his huge factory in what was then "the sticks" he was laughed at. But, today he is conceded to have the best marketing location in greater Boston.

"Old-Fashioned American."

The governor, then, is a full-blooded American go-getter, convinced to the very narrow of the justice and righteousness of individual initiative and private property. With that he combines a certain degree of independence on the political field. Just as he pioneered Packard in days when few could see the future of motors, so he backed Roosevelt in 1912 as financier of the Massachusetts Bull Moose forces. Elected to the state legislature and later to congress. He fought for "clean government" and against petty graft, but never saw the implications of class-bossed government. He cracked old Henry Cabot Lodge over the head as a "senile old whelp" and won ever bitter machine opposition in his bid for the Lieutenant governorship in 1920. In 1921 he became governor and since then has made his pence more or less with the Bay State "machine" in the ways well known to politics.

Patron of Arts.

To fill out the picture of the "retired man," successful in business and politics, well liked as a hale fellow well met, Fuller's conversion into a patron of the arts must not be overlooked. The walls of his Commonwealth Ave. home are covered with the plunder of European art galleries. In fashioned Back Bay society Fuller won a certain grudging standing because of his ability to put a quarter of a million dollars into a single picture.

An interesting incident is related of him during the heyday of the pampering of Sacco-Vanzetti agitation. While solicitude for the pair was about Judge Thayer and elaborate precautions taken to convince the public that the two were not to be deprived of the constitutional right to "appeal" but against judicial lynch-law.

Add to this the $2,000 given Adelbert Hopkins Bosson when his church in New York burned down, and the favorable advance notice given Governor Fuller's Executive Prerogatives.

The other side shows possession of all the usual prejudices of a member of the American upper class. Capitalism is the best system in the world, since the road he traveled is open to every young American, there is no class justice in America, the courts can do no wrong.

This last conviction is unanimous. He has met Judge Thayer a few times. A keen judge of men, the governor has undoubtedly been impressed with the man, if he has been able to distinguish him from Thayer, the black-gowned representative of law and order and respectability in the Bay State.

Perhaps he has not been able to. Perhaps he holds to the devastating theory, current in Boston, that Sacco or was prejudiced would be to overturn popular respect for the Massachusetts judiciary. It may not occur to him that Judge Thayer will deliberately nullify the Massachusetts bench no matter what action he takes on Thayer.

Fuller is stubborn, too. Some people here who have followed him closely believe he may balk when world-wide pressure is used to force his hand. But while he might resent the activities of "outsiders" and radicals, he cannot resent the pressure of the most conservative and influential upper class leaders of the state. And their pressure is applied principally because labor's united thunder of condemnation has struck fear into their hearts for the sanctity of the system.

Labor May Force Appointment of Commission.

The cloud of labor indictment over the courts of Massachusetts and the rest of the country has been thin in former years. But now it becomes black and threatening. Knowing full well that the courts are a keystone in their system, these eminent bankers, lawyers and their intellectual lackeys realize that labor's confidence in the courts will be destroyed forever if Sacco and Vanzetti are executed. That is the reason for the panicky appeals to the governor for immediate action.

Will Fuller, too, see that fatal blow at the courts? Those in a position to know feel that he will. They feel that if labor keeps up its emphatic protests against the murder of its fellow-workers, Fuller will act, appointing a commission to review the entire case.

This may happen within a few weeks.

* * *

Coolidge Gets Many Protests.

Besides a number of cablegrams which he received from prominent European writers and thinkers, including Albert Einstein and Henri Barbusse, President Coolidge has forwarded numerous telegrams and letters asking for the immediate release of Sacco and Vanzetti to Gov. Fuller of Massachusetts.

Included among those who appealed for the two framed-up Italian workers were Winfred Nicholas Donovan, professor of the department of bibliocal interpretation at the Newton Theological Institute; the Chandler Associates, a large number of others.

Coal Mine Lockout Still Drags Along

(Continued from Page One)

companies in the United States, as intended by the Federal Trade Act and as specifically directed by resolution of Congress in 1919.

The Federal supreme court, with only Justice McReynolds dissenting, has refused to enjoin the commission from carrying out that instruction. It has ordered the 22 companies cited by the Claire Furnace Co., and really representing the steel and coal trusts, to deliver to the commission the information required—provided the Attorney General shall approve the questions asked by the commission.

May Disclose Robbery.

On its face the decision looks like a victory for the people. It may lead to discovery by the unorganized steel workers, for instance, as to how much they have contributed to the $200,000,000 stock dividend just distributed. Big wage figures, if the commission ever secures them, should show how steel workers and coal miners are exploited.

But, there's a catch in the decision. The fact that Chief Justice Taft delivered it may already have aroused suspicion as to that. The court has ruled that the coal and steel and allied companies started their fight against giving up their cost-figures at the "wrong point." It fails to learn that instead of enjoining the Federal Trade Commission when that body announced its request for detailed information, the companies should have waited and let the Attorney General censor the questions of the commission first.

Won't Ask Too Much.

It appears that the supreme court thinks the attorney general's office will begin the safeguarding of the interests of the steel manufacturers and coal barons. Under the law, it is his business to exercise discretion as to which question, formulated by the commission, are "pertinent and important" for the proposed investigation. Then he is supposed to defend the commission against any attempt of the companies to avoid answering the questions he has approved. The

Hands Off China Demand of Meet In Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 20.—"There must be no interference with the struggle of the Chinese workers and peasants toward self-government and freedom. HANDS OF CHINA." This was the keynote of a mass meeting held here last Sunday under the auspices of the conference against intervention in Mexico, Nicaragua and China.

Wo Yong Park, who delivered a stirring talk on the determination of the Chinese workers to throw off the yoke of foreign imperialism, sounded a note of warning to the foreign powers, called for the recall of all foreign nationals from Chinese soil and the withdrawal of all military and naval forces from Chinese workers.

Wm. Watkins of the St. Paul Switchmen's union stated that organized labor was solidly behind the fight of the Chinese workers to achieve a decent standard of living. Norman H. Tallentire, Workers Party Organizer, analyzed the economic-political development of China, giving the background of the present conflict. Ole Hedbe of the Mid-West Student also spoke, and S. A. Stockwell, of the Farmer-Labor Party, presided.

A resolution calling for the withdrawal of troops and warships from China, the recognition of the Nationalist Government, the abolition of unequal treaties, customs control and extraterritoriality were unanimously adopted at the meeting. Copies of the resolution were sent to President Coolidge, the State Department, all of the representatives and Senators from Minnesota, and to the Kuomintang.

Accuses Former Sweetheart

NEWBURGH, N. Y., April 20.—Under severe cross-examination here today William Wright, who turned state's evidence in the murder trial of Mrs. Lucy Baxter Farley, pointed an accusing finger at the woman whom he formerly loved.

Read The Daily Worker Every Day.

Passaic Bosses Worried By Labor Campaign

(Continued from Page One)

unemployed workers before Welsbord entered the campaign. Then it was ignored; but since they have to contend with a labor ticket, the local politicians have "promised" to consider the matter. Of course, that is the usual election time buncombe.

For City Construction.

The program has a part devoted to the immediate undertaking of construction work on a large scale by the city to provide jobs for unemployed workers. These workers to receive pay at the union rate of wages.

In addition to the above quoted planks, which are only a few in the program, the Workers' (Communist) Party has issued an expose of the role of the present officials who are now seeking reelection as strike-breakers and enemies of the workers.

Many Business Administrations.

"We have had too much of business men's administration in Passaic," it says, "yet most of the rival candidates are also business men. Cabell is a manufacturer whose workers are unorganized, Vanacek is a lawyer and Rubacky is a lawyer. What we need in Passaic as we do all thru the country is the unity of all labor forces into one powerful party of all the producers, a labor party, not a bosses' government or a business man's government, but a workers' government."

Educating Workers.

Just as the strike was a means of educating the 16,000 textile workers to understand more fully the class government in America, so will the election campaign be a further education, not only for the textile workers but for all the members of the workingclass of that city.

Already we see attempts to suppress the labor group. Weisbord's speech last Monday was stopped by the gangsters of Commissioner of Public Safety, Abram Preskiell. The campaign may meet further obstacles, but they will all help to give a clearer understanding to the workers of the role of the American government—local, state and national, as a weapon to keep the workers in industrial and political bondage.

WHITE TERROR IN EUROPE

YUGOSLAVIA

"Whilst Attempting to Escape"

BELGRADE.—The leader of the Macedonian liberation movement, Kosta Leondreff, who had been arrested last year for organizing the murder of the Serbian nationalist Popovitch, was shot by Jugoslavian gendarms on his way from the prison to the court, allegedly because he "attempted to escape."

* * *

Yugoslavian Class Justice.

BELGRAD.—The supreme court has increased the sentence against the bookkeeper Radomir Bogdanski, whose house the police had found two parcels with copies of "ABC of Communism", from six months to two years prison. The sentence of the young worker Janko Schneider, who had received two years in prison for Communist propaganda, was increased by the appeal court to five years.

RUMANIA

KISHINEV.—A trial took place against six young workers who were accused of "crime against the safety of the state" because they had been members of a reading circle for Communist literature. They received the following sentences: the 19 year old tailor, Braunstein, 5 years; the young workers, Guilowitsch and Gutalnik, each four years hard labor. The other accused received sentences of two months each. The long imprisonment on remand was not deducted from the sentences.

POLAND

Arrest of Communists.

STANOW.—In district Labartschki, a meeting of the district committee of the Communist Party took place. All participants of the meeting were arrested and delivered to the court.

The following is a short survey of the arrests, sentences, etc., in the last few days in Poland:

RADOMIR.—A trial against 44 workers took place for having participated in a demonstration—21 of the accused were sentenced to a total of 57 years hard labor.

LODZ.—The trial against 52 workers has begun who are accused of being members of the Communist Party. 460 witnesses are called for this trial. The accused have waited 17 months for their trial.

LUBLIN.—A process against nine young workers has also had to be accused for distribution of Communist literature. No material at all was found in their houses. Seven of the accused have waited 15 months for their trial. Only 3 judges acted as witnesses in the process. One accused, a women, was sentenced to two-and-a-half years, two accused to two years each, and the others each to one year hard labor.

VILNA.—16 people were arrested, five students, four typesetters and six workers.

LEMBERG.—Twenty members of the Ukrainian organization were arrested.

New Police Brutalities.

According to Polish newspaper reports, 315 prisoners, Ruthenians who were recently arrested with many others, was found hanged in his cell. The bourgeois press attempts to call this a "suicide". However, according to statements of Ruthenian's fellow prisoners, Ruthenian was called to "examination" several times previously and had returned every time half dead from the torture-cell, but been taken unconscious into his cell. This it is obvious that Ruthenian was a new victim of the murderous practices of the Polish police.

ITALY

32 Workers Deported.

ROME.—According to reports, 32 workers were newly arrested in Palermo. They will be deported. In Catanzaro 16 Communists and socialists were arrested for the distribution of anti-fascist leaflets. Among the people who were arrested in Rome there is the Communist deputy Riccobi.

Before Exceptional Court.

ROMAGNA.—On the 2nd of March, the trial against 40 Communist "enemies" began.

The trial against Zamboni and the other accused in his case will be postponed on account of an illness of the leading judge of the exceptional court. The trial will probably take place on March 14th.

It is reported from Italy that 1,500 members of the Catholic People's Party, among them 37 priests, were deported to various islands. The deportees lived in Lombardia, Venice, and Romagna. Their fate is unknown. Many of them were beaten.

Protest of World Labor Gets Civil Trial for Szanto

The trial of Zoltan Szanto and his "accomplices" of the "Szanto plot" has been transferred from the military court which could only pass the death sentence to the civil courts. Despite a carefully prepared campaign by the subsidized, bought and paid for press, under shelter of which the Hungarian Horthy Dictatorship attempted to railroad these brave proletarian fighters to the gallows the storms of protest of the workers all over Europe has forced the military court to relinquish its victims.

Opposed Horthy Terror.

Zoltan Szanto, the brother of Bela Szanto, one of the People's Commissars for War under the Soviet Government of Hungary, was arrested several months ago on charges of "conspiracy to overthrow the Horthy regime" growing out of his active propaganda among the masses.

Fearing the results of a civil trial the Horthy gang demanded the trial of Szanto and his "accomplices" by the military court made up of the hand picked reactionary among the army's subservient officers.

Faced Death.

In 1919, when the "leaders of the Social Democrats and the Allies, using the troops of the Rumanian reactionaries, forced the downfall of the Hungarian Soviet and the triumph of the White counter-revolution, Szanto and other Communists were compelled to seek safety abroad. But by 1922 the necessity of building up the Hungarian Communist Party illegally brought the most active and courageous fighters back to Hungary the to be caught meant certain imprisonment and probably death.

A Legal Farce.

In 1926 Rakosi was caught, tried and convicted. His trial and that of his fellow workers, legal farce, was utilized by Rakosi to bring to the oppressed Hungarian workers the fearless message of militant Communism. The Horthy Terror was frightened and had recourse to fiercer persecutions. The trial of Szanto and his 30 "accomplices" was the first arrests of this terror.

Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!

Remarkable Gains In Soviet Union Told In Theses

MOSCOW, (By Mail).—Remarkable developments in the industry and agriculture of the U. S. S. R. are foreshadowed in theses and reports presented by state planning bodies here this week.

The All Union Conference of state planning commissions now sitting examined a five year plan which provides that in 1931 the production of the state industry will reach nine and a half milliard roubles (9½,750,000,000) which means an increase of 3.2 milliard roubles (3½,700,000,000) compared with 1926.

State and local budgets will reach 8.3 milliard roubles (8¼,150,000,000) against the present 6.1 milliard roubles (6½,050,000,000).

More Money for Social Needs.

Expenditure for administration and defense remains almost without alteration, while there will be considerably increased expenditure on social and cultural needs.

Kalinin's theses to the fourth Soviet Congress, just published, point out that the growth of the area under cultivation in the Soviet Union has increased to 96.1 of the 1913 standard. In 1925 the area was 92.8 per cent of the pre-war figure. The area under cultivation in 1926 was 112 million hectares (about 440,000 square miles). In 1931, 132 million hectares will be under cultivation, it is estimated. This will be 11 per cent over the 1913 level.

Cooperative Farming.

There were 27,000 motor tractors in the Soviet Union, 90 per cent of which were in the hands of the peasantry. The production of agricultural machines this year will reach 86 million roubles (about $480,000,000) or 40 per cent more than in 1913.

The growth of cooperative farming is seen in the fact that about 7,000,000 peasant households—or about one-third of the peasant population have pooled resources amounting to a milliard and a half roubles (1½,500,000,000).

Arrest Speculators.

DETROIT, April 20.—Federal Internal revenue agents, cooperating with police, arrested 17 alleged ticket scalpers outside the gates of Navin Field this afternoon shortly before the opening game.

CURRENT EVENTS

(Continued from Page One)

of the Detroit Labor News, official organ of the Detroit Federation of Labor, over the ingratitude of a mayor who has failed to reward the labor fakers who helped to elect him to office with the promised jobs. Now Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago is not that kind of a girl. A gang of fakers known as the "Wage Earners' League" bet on his election and won. One of the boys will be placed on the Civil Service Commission. Big Hearted Bill!

* * *

If the editor of the Detroit Labor News and his owners sought appointments for labor for the sake of the filthy lure that is attached to such positions one's grief would not be so burning. But those decent fellows are only concerned with the dignity of labor. Still, we know that some of our more skeptical readers will not shed any sympathetic tears with 'em. They will simply reason that if the labor bureaucrats were concerned with the dignity of labor and the interests of the rank and file rather than with graft they would organize a Labor Party instead of asking favors of the capitalist political leaders on bended knee and with hat in hand.

* * *

In yesterday's paper I predicted that even the capitalist correspondents in Europe no longer found a market for tales of revolts in the Soviet Union. I spoke too soon. The profession of a prophet is one of the most precarious. Indeed a wise prophet should only predict after, not before the fact. So it happened with mine. The truth is that the liars were on their way from Riga to Bukarest having heard that Queen Marie had come out of seclusion and had re-entered society. The correspondents had a bad winter in Riga and they are candidates for a little relaxation.

* * *

A BUKAREST dispatch had it that the Red Army was busy putting down rebels in the Ukraine who shouted maledictions on the heads of the international bourgeoisie who are crucifying China. Under the slogan "Hands off China" the workers and peasants held demonstrations and the Red Army had an awful time blocking their path to the great Gobi desert which we are informed by fairly unreliable authority is the path over which a crow would fly to China. Not having succeeded in breaking thru the bayonet wall interposed between them and China by the Red Army, the disappointed crusaders dodged into cellars and cursed the Soviet government and all its works and pomps. Then the reporters took another look at Queen Marie's maids of honor, had a few more drinks and that they were licking the Red Army. This is a sample of the news that is served up to its customers by Mr. Ochs's paper. Perhaps there is something in a name after all.

Berlin Conference Brings World Trade Union Unity Nearer

LONDON, (By Mail). — General agreament is reported in connection with the discussions which have been proceeding during the week in Berlin between representatives of the British T. U. C. and the All Russian Council of Trade Unions.

Discussion centered round the British desire for "non-intervention" in the domestic affairs of either country. The Russians have insisted both countries should work together in the common interest. They have also stressed the importance of an unconditional conference between the I. F. T. U. (Amsterdam) and the Russian Unions in view of the world-wide offensive of the capitalists against the workers.

APRIL 23

Is Lenin's Birthday

SEND A LENIN BIRTHDAY PACKAGE

To Another Worker You Know

On the occasion of the Birthday of our Leader (April 23, 1870) a special Lenin Birthday Package has been made AT LOWER PRICES.

To use this day to acquaint a greater number of workers with the principles of Lenin.

Every worker can afford to buy at least one package for this purpose.

We will mail it to you to give to your shopmate or the brother in your union. If you wish—we will mail it to any address you give.

NOTE

Orders for single books at regular prices only.

OFFER NO. 1

Lenin, His Life and Work By J. Yaroslavsky . . $ .35
Lenin, the Great Strategist By A. Losovsky . . .10
Lenin and the Trade Union Movement By A. Losovsky . . .35
Lenin, Liebknecht and Luxemburg By Jan Ritschman . . .10
Theory and Practica of Leninism By I. Stalin . . .35
Leninism vs. Trotskyism By Stalin-Kamenev-Zinoviev . . .10
Total $1.20

ALL FOR $1.00

OFFER No. 2

Books by Lenin

On the Road to Insurrection $ .30
Infantile Sickness—or Leftism in Communism .10
Imperialism—Final Stage of Capitalism In the new complete English edition . . .60
Total $1.20

ALL FOR $1.00

A Bronze Medallion of Lenin (Reproduced above)

Selling at one dollar will be sent for fifty cents IF INCLUDED with offer No. 1 or No. 2

Separate orders for medallion at regular price only. ($1.00.)

Offer No. 1 and No. 2, and the Bronze Lenin Medallion all for

$2.50

THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
33 First Street,
New York, N. Y.

Defend Your Paper

In wartime a sentry who sleeps at his post of duty, is shot. Today The DAILY WORKER is facing a combined attack on every front. The employers, masking under the name of various patriotic societies, are seeking to suppress our paper. The heavy financial difficulties which the paper is facing, are made even more difficult by the addition of this trial. The prosecution is prepared. First class legal talent is at their disposal. The District Attorney and the Bomb Squad are giving their full co-operation to the enemies of The DAILY WORKER. The paper is in serious danger.

Any comrade, who, at such a critical time, does not awaken to a realization of his duty, is like the sentry, sleeping at his post. Proletarians will consider this comrade false to his trust, and his duty to his class.

We ask every comrade to awake to his responsibility, to respond when the paper is under fire. Now is the time before it is too late. Any delay, any hesitation may mean the loss of our paper.

Raise money among your friends and sympathizers. Meet the attack of the reactionaries with a united front of the workers behind our paper. Meet the sinister aims of the employers' organizations with swift and effective response of the workers. DEFEND YOUR PAPER.

DAILY WORKER
33 First Street,
New York, N. Y.

Inclosed is my contribution of

..... dollars .... cents to the Ruthenberg Sustaining Fund for a stronger and better DAILY WORKER and for the defense of our paper. I will pay the same amount regularly every .....

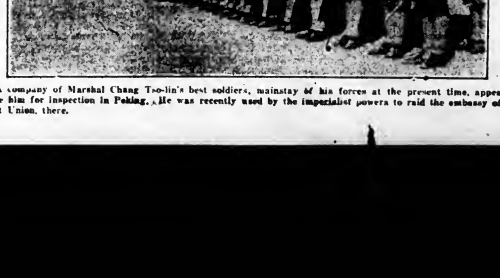
Name .....



Address .....

City .....

State .....

Attach check or money order.

PEKING DEFENDED BY MERCENARIES

A company of Marshal Chang Tso-lin's best soldiers, mainstay of his forces at the present time, appearing before him for inspection in Peking. He was recently used by the imperialist powers to raid the embassy of the Soviet Union, there.

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
Daily, Except Sunday
33 First Street, New York, N. Y. Phone, Orchard 1680

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail (in New York only):	By mail (outside of New York):
$8.00 per year	$6.00 per year
$4.50 six months	$3.50 six months
$2.50 three months	$2.00 three months

Address all mail and make out checks to THE DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, New York, N. Y.

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE .....Editors
BERT MILLER.....Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail at the post-office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Advertising rates on application.

Support the Labor Unions and the Peasant Organizations of New China!

The London correspondent of the New York Herald-Tribune has this to say on the Chinese situation:

"Obviously, on the basis of his actions to date, Chiang's Nanking government will start life with far more sympathy from the powers, AND PARTICULARLY FROM GREAT BRITAIN, than the Hankow government has enjoyed. Too hasty proclamation of this fact in China probably would not suit Chiang's plans, but the knowledge that if he plays his cards cleverly he may be able to arrange a modus vivendi with the foreigners, where the Cantonese politicians hitherto have failed, should do much for Chiang's prestige." (Emphasis ours.)

This is very frank speaking. It says in so many words that Chiang Kai-Shek is the new hope of the imperialists and that in view of his betrayal of the liberation movement they are willing to give him some sort of recognition. His murder campaign against trade union and left wing leaders shows that there is nothing to fear from Chiang. He represents that section of the manufacturing, trading and professional groups which is willing to bargain with imperialism and give to the foreign robbers greater concessions than they will make to the Chinese workers and peasants.

Chiang has carried out his assaults against the trade unions under the guise of destroying "Communist influence." In other words he is following the same hypocritical policy that the right wing of the labor movement is following in the United States.

But the smashing of trade unions only serves to convince the masses that Chiang is the same kind of an imperialist that Chang Tso-lin is. They will not accept him or support him.

The Kuomintang, with the exception of the extreme right wing—small in numbers—decided against the exclusion of Communists from the party at the recent conference and at previous conferences. The results of the right wing policy, its hostility to the Communists being only one feature of it, were to turn the peasants and the labor movement against the Kuomintang. It was the failure of Chiang's policy from the standpoint of successful struggle against imperialism that was responsible for his defeat.

The attitude of the Kuomintang was well expressed in the joint statement issued by the Communists and non-Communist sections of the Kuomintang in Shanghai, April 5. The statement was signed by Wan Ching-wei, the closest associate of Sun Yat-sen, for the non-Communists and Chen Tu-shu, former vice chancellor of Peking university, for the Communists. It said:

"Some say the Communists are determined to establish a labor government, to break into the concessions, to endanger the expeditionary force, and to overthrow the Kuomintang; whilst others report that the Kuomintang leaders will expel the Communists and suppress the labor unions and their pickets. . . ."

"The Kuomintang has made it known to the world its resolution that no steps should be taken to oust the Communists and to terminate the labor unions."

"The military authorities at Shanghai (Chiang Kai-shek, Ed.) have manifested a willingness to obey the instructions of the Central Government and it is probable that the differences and misunderstandings, if any, between them will be adjusted. The Communists are as anxious as others to maintain order, and have endorsed the Kuomintang resolution to refrain from using military force to effect repossession of the settlements."

"The labor unions have issued a manifesto that the laborers must not break into the international concession singly and independent of others. . . ."

The above statement shows that it was not a question of order or disorder that prompted Chiang to make his treacherous and bloody raids on the unions. Neither was there any question as to the attitude of the Communists.

The principal question was solely one of the method of waging the struggle against imperialism and the decisive role played by the unions in that struggle. The strikes, the wage increases and improvements in working conditions which resulted from them, of course affected the Chinese bosses—Chiang's supporters—adversely, the rise of the labor movement and its alliance with the peasantry, made certain the downfall of the middle classes' leaders.

This class, at least the section of it following Chiang, decide to make terms with imperialism rather than with the masses. All thru history the middle class has made a similar choice when confronted with a similar necessity.

The Herald-Tribune dispatch and the optimistic tone of the imperialist press in general show that the enemies of the Chinese liberation movement recognize an ally in Chiang.

But he is a weak ally. The Kuomintang and the labor and peasant organizations which are its base will smash Chiang. They will smash him quickly if the labor movements in the other countries demand and enforce the slogan of Hands Off China—withdraw all troops and battleships—support the workers' and peasants' movement of New China!

The Cabinet Crisis in Japan.

The so-called Japanese financial crisis, the outward manifestation of which was the closing of a number of prominent banks, causing an upheaval in the government that resulted in the downfall of the cabinet, is directly connected with the revolutionary situation in China.

Marxists recognize the fact that financial crises are only reflexes of industrial crises. In Japan the industrial crisis, one of the periodic depressions, has been intensified by the inability to secure raw material from China and has produced the greatest collapse since the earthquake in 1923. All large banks that have closed represented powerful industrial groups, the smaller banks were simply auxiliaries of the larger ones.

The former opposition which claimed that the Japanese policy in China would ruin the industries by destroying the source of raw material has now been entrusted with the formation of a government. Baron Tanaka, former leader of the opposition, and now premier, is a military despot and, according to reliable information, a "renowned exponent of conservatism and patron of bureaucracy."

He is the agent of the big industrialists and the finance capitalists, who have heavy investments in China.

A change of Japanese policy in China will be enforced by the new regime. Instead of the hands-off policy that has characterized the last government, there will be aggressive intervention, with a possible revival of the old Anglo-Japanese Alliance that was formally dissolved at the Washington arms conference in 1921. Tanaka is the political heir of the late Prince Yamagata, who was always a defender of the alliance in the Pacific between England and Japan against the United States.

The inept gang of politicians at Washington now have one more problem confronting them in the Pacific. Britain has thus far been successful in using American forces for its own purposes in China. But British statesmen know full well that the present situation is abnormal, an anachronism, in face of the world-wide antagonism between England and the United States, and will welcome a change of front on the part of Japan. But such a change makes more imminent another World War.

If ever historical events call for united action on the part of the working class of the imperialist countries and the oppressed peoples of the colonies, that time is now at hand. To fulfill our historical mission the Communist Parties of the world, under the leadership of the Communist International, must mobilize all our forces to challenge the impending cataclysm.

Ramsay MacDonald and the I. L. P.

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

WHILE James Ramsay MacDonald, former, and first labor premier of Great Britain was receiving the plaudits of the capitalists and labor fakers in the United States and spreading good cheer, optimism and a certain brand of pacifism—beloved by the less swashbuckling section of the capitalist class—everywhere he went, a delegate conference of his own party in annual meeting assembled was busy discussing ways and means of how best to wind up his political career, as an I.L.P. leader.

The conference finally decided not to put forward MacDonald's name for treasurer of the Labor Party or to nominate him as a delegate of the I.L.P. to the next Labor Party conference.

What Does It Mean?

Is this a gentle tap on the wrist or a sock like unto what one would get from a mule?

Why has the Independent Labor Party— not a revolutionary party of action by a long way—turned down the best advertised political labor leader in Britain?

What relation does the I.L.P. bear to the Labor Party and how much influence has it in the councils of the Labor Party?

From the correct answers to these questions and not on the observations of Arthur Henderson and other supporters of Ramsay MacDonald can be determined the weight of the wallop inflicted on MacDonald's political rear by the conference of the I.L.P.

Followers No Longer.

In refusing to nominate MacDonald for treasurer of the Labor Party or for delegate to the Labor Party conference, his party showed its repudiation of his policies and his general attitude towards the class struggle in as vigorous a manner as one could expect from an organization composed of such genteel characters as most of the I.L.P. leaders.

But genteel as they are they were forced to respond to the pressure of the masses from below who have deeply resented MacDonald's treachery during the general strike and his sabotage of the miners afterwards.

One Defeaded Him.

In those days the I.L.P. leaders who have now practically ousted him from the I.L.P. upbraided the Communists telling the British workers that MacDonald was a traitor to the workingclass in the throes of a mighty struggle and that he and Thomas and Clynes and the rest of the ilk should be left to cool their heels outside the workingclass movement or warm their shins before the drawing room fires of the inhabitants of Mayfair.

The I.L.P. leaders charged the Communists with using "unparliamentary language; that while it is perfectly alright to disagree with a person it is beastly to call a crook a crook or a faker a faker. Stop the nonsense would smell sweeter and would keep the bridge from right to left safe for the political pedestrian who might like to cross over to the right when the left began to lose its charm.

Do Hate a Scab.

But the rank and file of the workingclass do not affect the Asquith manner. They don't stroll along the Strand becaned and bespatted. They drink their beer in their neighborhood pub of an evening and mutually curse the capitalist system and all its works and pomps.

And when a strike is called they stand on the picket line and consider every enemy of theirs from the scab to the king lower in the social scale than the flea on a skinny dog's back. They have no time for politeness. They growl and grumble and finally the polite lads at the top of the I.L.P. took notice and offered Mac to the wolves.

The Issues.

Concretely what in particular were the issues over which MacDonald and the I.L.P. parted company?

The political policy of the I.L.P. is based on a theses (they don't call it that; it would smell of Communism) entitled "Socialist In Our Time." MacDonald, the outstanding leader of the party, indeed the leader, wrote a big book, ridiculing the I.L.P. for formulating such a program and pouring ridicule and scorn on those who would put the interests of the workingclass above those of the "community." And the community, as you know, is none other than our dear friend the "public" who is supposed to be the injured person in all struggles between the capitalists and the workers.

Deaconed Striker.

MacDonald, in this book, denounced strikes and referred to the leaders of his party as "easie-osie asses" for taking socialism seriously. The I.L.P. leaders bowed like gentlemen and maintained their dignity. MacDonald stuck to his knee breeches and his presbyterian socialism. The Communists split the air with raucous laughter and ribald jest at the expense of the I.L.P. leaders and called on them to line up in a real struggle against the capitalists. Nothing happened just then at the top, but way down in the depths of the I.L.P. ship the firemen were spitting on their fists and muttering.

Then the great General Strike broke out. The British trade unionists—all those who were called—came out and stood to their positions like disciplined soldiers. The Communist Party descended complete solidarity of all labor's forces. They demanded concrete measures to make the strike effective.

Half Hearted Solidarity.

The I.L.P. leaders were content with half measures. MacDonald, Thomas and Clynes sabotaged from the start and in conjunction with the leaders of the General Council finally broke the ranks with an abject surrender. It was then there really started the struggle against MacDonaldism that came to a climax at the Leicester conference of the I.L.P. The Communists rounded the masses and under the influence of the Communist propaganda the members of the I.L.P. forced their leaders to act.

The Chinese situation provided the last straw that broke the MacDonald back in the I.L.P.

When the tory government decided to sent its naval and military forces to China the Communist Party called for the organizations of "Hands Off China" committees. The leaders of the I. P. issued carefully written manifestos. They sent greetings to Eugene Chen, foreign secretary of the Nationalist Government. MacDonald secretly supported Chamberlain and openly declared that British interests in China should be protected. He did not object to the policy of the tory government but to the manner in which his policy was carried out. The Peking correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph reported that MacDonald's efforts "earn approbation here" and the editorial writer of the same paper declared that "we are able to quote MacDonald with satisfaction."

Here is a sample of the kind of language used by MacDonald that the capitalists were able to quote with approval:

"The force that came into operation in Nanking to save the situation was not the Shanghai Defence Force, but naval forces who were in China before our troops left England.

"The Labor Party never said that the forces in China at the time should be evacuated. Our view all along was that if the Chinese situation was to be handled as a whole and with your eye on the future and security, a mobile force and not a fixed force, a naval force such as was there at the time, was the best that could be used for the purpose."

In other words, Mr. MacDonald only disagrees with the Baldwin government because its method of subjugating the Chinese was not nearly so efficient as would have been the case had he been premier!

Friend Thomas.

J. H. Thomas, the strongest right wing labor leader in England and MacDonald's closest ally declared that he favored sending a large army to England rather than a small one.

The Communists, and the left wing rank and file, led by A. J. Cook called for positive action to stop the transport of British troops to China. The reformist leaders of the I.L.P. and MacDonaldy lone-man-party of George Lansbury, indulged in the usual nonsense hoping that both sides would show "good sense" and "moderation." But the rank and file of the workers had no stomach for a war with China, the cost which they would have to pay with their lives and with a low standard of living, and it is the rumbling of this earthquake that forced the polite leaders of the I.L.P. to break with MacDonald.

Gently Kicked Out.

The language used by the Chesterfieldian I.L.P.'ers nevertheless only sweetens a bitter pill. Here is a sample of it from the April 8, issue of the New Leader, official organ of the I.L.P.:

"Mr. MacDonald is opposed to the policies which the I.L.P. is seeking to get the Labor Party to adopt, and is the principal spokesman of the Labor Party against them. This places both Mr. MacDonald and the I.L.P. in an anomalous position. Confusion is naturally created, and, with the fullest personal good-will towards Mr. MacDonald, the National Council of the I.L.P. feels that it would be better that the delegation representing the Party should reflect the I.L.P. policy. In consideration of the National Council does not, of course, mean that Mr. MacDonald would not be nominated as Labor Party treasurer. Last year 28 organizations, in addition to the I.L.P., nominated him. The chairman and secretaries of the I.L.P. have seen Mr. MacDonald, and have explained to him that the recommendation of the National Council is made on these broad grounds, without any diminution of personal regard."

As far as we are concerned, were we in MacDonald's shoes a similar decision couched in less diplomatic verbiage would have the same effect on us. The fact is that MacDonald was given such a jolt by the I.L.P. that he cannot properly continue to be a member of the organization.

I.L.P. Important.

Arthur Henderson, secretary of the Labor Party, belittled the importance of the organization that booted his friend MacDonald. He who got slapped agreed with Henderson. Both agreed that the majority of the Labor Party would support MacDonald; which is quite possible. But what relation does the I.L.P. bear towards the Labor Party?

It is the strongest and practically the only political party affiliated to what is known as the Labor Party. The Communist Party being refused admittance, the other component parts of the Labor Party consist of affiliated unions and that political mirage known as the Fabian Society.

I. L. P. Created Labor Party.

The I. L. P. was the creator of the Labor Party, has thirty thousand members and provided the first labor government with its leading officials. It is the official socialist party of Great Britain. Thousands of officials of the trade unions are members of the I. L. P.

Should the I. L. P. leadership carry on an active struggle against the MacDonald policy in conjunction with the Communist Party and the left wing movement in general, Arthur Henderson, MacDonald and Thomas would have to speedily decide to go where they belong: in the liberal party or with the tories.

Lansbury Is MacDonald.

In addition to the I. L. P. opposition George Lansbury, a liberal socialist who has a large following, joins the anti-MacDonald chorus against MacDonald. Lansbury's Weekly has a large circulation and in a signed article in the issue of April 9, has the following to say on the report that John Wheatley, former health commissioner in the MacDonald cabinet was fighting for the leadership of the party:

"As to his fighting for the leadership of the party: this is all pure bunkum. The question at issue does not concern the National Labor Party, but is simply one for the I. L. P., and resolves itself into the question, Shall James Maxton, chairman of that party, speak for and declare its policy, or shall J. R. MacDonald do so?"

"The National Council of the I. L. P. has refused to nominate MacDonald as treasurer of the National Labor Party because of his attitude towards the I. L. P. policy and programme as passed last Easter. He does not represent I. L. P. policy, and therefore, it is held, should not be recognized as one of its leaders. This question will be decided at the conference of the I. L. P. which takes place at Easter."

Voice of Healthy Elements.

Despite the honeyed words used by the official organ of the I. L. P. and by Lansbury's Weekly it is evident that the great majority of the forces that give even lip service to socialism are against the former premier. The Communist Party which has a tremendous following among the workers and strong influence in the unions is against him. The minority movement which attracted delegates representing almost 1,000,000 to its last conference is opposed to him.

With the official condemnation of the I. L. P., his own party ringing in his ears, Ramsay MacDonald has heard the angels calling him to his presbyterian political heaven and the illusion that he saw of a return to Downing Street as labor premier must now seem as intangible as the fanciful world of an opium-eater.

No matter what we may think of the motives of the I. L. P. leaders who broke with MacDonald there is no doubt but the action registers a further leftward step on the part of the masses. They don't stroll along the British mazes.

J. Ramsay MacDonald, who was the premier of the first British Labor government, together with his daughter, Ishbel, has come to the United States

DRAMA

The Playwright as Surgeon

Translator of "Rapid Transit" Finds Life Petty, Ridiculous.

Dramatic Editor:

Concerning "Rapid Transit" and the review of it in today's DAILY WORKER:

You complain of the absence of a "warm emotional pull." Could you really expect to find it in a play of this character? Rapid Transit is a reductio ad absurdam not only of the antics of life, but of the emotions of life. It is necessarily an Olympian comic. Or better still; it is a page out of Jove's diary, recounting a visit of his on this funny little planet, Earth. One does not grow sympathetic over things one finds laughable and petty.

Love Is Ridiculous

Egri's intention is plainly to "turn the hose on our ardors," whether these are of the heart or brain. You may have observed that he himself laughs up his sleeve at the love-episodes between the hero and heroine, because love too is ridiculous in the way we live it. The hero, indeed, strains for something higher, but he is helpless and futile, because one man in a million is always helpless and futile.

You complain that all the figures remain shadowy and do not come to life. You are right. But that is something that might be said in favor of the play, rather than against it. All the characters were meant to be puppets.

Electrified Puppets.

In another version of the play, the prologue showed the Great Wheel parting curtains and exposing a group of mannikins. When he winds up his clock and the pendulum is set swinging, a galvanic shock runs through these inanimate figures, infusing them with the current of life. These mannikins, later, become the inhabitants of Hekuba-Hakuba.

Into the scene is employed merely as a gauge against which the rapid passage of time may be measured and made vivid. The author is by no means sympathetic with his hero, or with any of his characters. Nor is it his intention to be. He has the attitude of an eminent surgeon towards his patient—truth a tout prix.

If you should suddenly transplant a Hindu mystic to Times Square, he would get about the same reaction that an average audience gets watching the mad cavortings in "Rapid Transit." None of us have a thousand years to live; if we had, then the ambitions which claim us and the time we give to them, might be justified. But against the 50 or 60 years, practically all our activities are ludicrous. We ought to get back to the fundamentals, to recognition of true values. Life is certainly not the indignity we live it as.

You complain that "the feeds you too fast." That is exactly what Egri complains of our existence. We are fed too fast.—GUSTAV DAVIDSON, Translator of "Rapid Transit."

VIVIENNE OSBORNE

In "One Glorious Hour" the new comedy playing at the Selwyn Theatre.

Broadway Briefs

"The Field God," by Paul Green, author of "In Abraham's Bosom", will have its premiere at the Greenwich Village Theatre tonight.

Two additional companies of "The Spider", are now being assembled, one company will be sent to Chicago and the other company is being recruited for London.

"Cradle Snatchers", headed by Mary Boland, will return to New York for a two weeks' engagement, opening at the Century Theatre Monday evening, May 2nd.

Clara Verdera is now playing the role of "Mary Maddee" in "Wooden Kimono" at the Fulton Theatre.

AMUSEMENTS

Theatre Guild Acting Company in PYGMALION
GUILD THEA., W. 52 St. Evs. 8.15. Mats. Thurs. and Sat. 2.15. Next Week—The Second Man

MR. PIM PASSES BY
GARRICK 65 W. 35 St., Evs. 8.30. Mats. Thurs. and Sat. 2.30. Next Week—Final Two Weeks

NED McCOBB'S DAUGHTER
John Golden Thea., 58 St. E. of B'way. Circle 1161. Evs. 8.30. Mats. Thurs. & Sat. 2.30. Next Week—The Silver Cord

Neighborhood Playhouse
466 Grand St. Orchard 9814
Every Eve. (except Mon.) Mat. Sat.
Bill of Lyric Drama

TIMES SQ. Thea., W. 42 St. Evs. 8.30. Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2.30
CRIME
with James Rennie & Chester Morris

The LADDER
Now in its 4th MONTH!
WALDORF, 58th St., East of B'way. Mats. Wed. and Sat.

WALLACK'S West 42nd Street. Evenings 8.30. Mats. Tues., Wed., Thurs. and Sat.
What Anne Brought Home
A New Comedy Drama

HAMPDEN'S THEATRE
Evs. 8.15. Matinees Wed. and Sat. 2.15
WALTER HAMPDEN
in CAPONSACCHI

Patronize Our Advertizers.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN
TWICE DAILY, 2 P.M & 8 P.M.
RINGLING BROS. and BARNUM & BAILEY CIRCUS
SACRED WHITE ELEPHANT
TICKETS at GARDEN BOX OFFICE 4th Ave and 49th St, and Gimbel Bros.

PROVINCETOWN PLAYHOUSE 133 MacDougal St. Tel. Spring 9503
RAPID TRANSIT
Daily Exc. Mon. incl. Sun. at 8.40
Matinee Saturday, 2.40

Civic Repertory Cor. 6 Av. & 14 St. Tel. Watkins 7242.
EVA LE GALLIENNE
This Afternoon CRADLE SONG
Tonight MARTIN BECK
Tomorrow Evening "CRADLE SONG"

EARL CARROLL Vanities
Earl Carroll Thea., 7th Ave. & 50th St. Mats. Thurs. & Sat. 2.30

MARTIN BECK THEATRE, 45 St. W. of 8 Av. Evs. 8.30
Mats. Wed. and Sat.
JED HARRIS Presents a drama
'SPREAD EAGLE'

Bronx Opera House 149th Street, Pop. Prices Mat. Wed. & Sat.
"NEW YORK EXCHANGE"
The Sensational Comedy

BROADWAY
BROADWAY & 53rd STREET
PRICES EVES. $1.10 TO $3.85

MINEOLA TRIAL BRINGS OUT MORE CONNECTIONS BETWEEN BOSSES, POLICE AND SCABS

(Continued from Page One)

In the trial of the far workers on a charge of complicity, Chester A. Evans, a member of the Nassau County detective force, appeared in the Mineola court room Tuesday morning as a witness for the prosecution.

Go To Scab Unions For "Evidence."

He repeated the testimony given by Detective Bernard J. Greeve on Monday to the effect that on the day they were seeking to arrest Phillip Lenhardt and Jack Schnaider, in connection with this case, in March, 1927, the two detectives came to New York with Bernard Basoff, the stool pigeon. They went hunting thru the fur market, the detective said. Then they went to the Greek union, then the International, then two police stations, then to the Joint Board where the workers were found.

Questioned By Defense Lawyer.

"How long did you stay at the Greek Union," asked Attorney Henry Uterhardt in cross-examination.

"Oh, about half an hour."

"How long did you stay at the International?"

"About two hours."

"What were you doing there for two hours?"

"Working on the case."

"On the case of Lenhardt and Schneider?"

"No, on the case of the whole eleven."

Went To Picket Only.

Another detective, Captain Harold P. King who was the prosecution's first witness testified that he had seen Leo Franklin and Morris Malkin, two of the defendants, for workers, on the day of their arrest in Rockville Centre. He declared that both of them had told him they were sent out to picket the shop of Michael Barnett and his brother. They denied however that they had gone up into the shop.

Judge Upholds Defense.

County Judge Smith, presiding in the case broke his record of overruling objections by defense lawyers when the district attorney attempted to introduce into the evidence a furriers' knife found on Joseph Katz when he was arrested a few weeks ago, and with which it was alleged Michael Barnett was slashed last year by Detective Evans. In this instance, the judge sustained the objection of the defense lawyers.

With the testimony of these detectives, the state rested its case. After motion by all the defense lawyers for dismissal of the case on the grounds of insufficient evidence, the trial proceeded—following a recess—with the calling of the first defendant to the witness stand. This was Samuel Mencher, of Jail.

Judge Shows Bias.

From the moment he began to testify, the judge interposed repeated objections to his answers and ordered many of them stricken from the record as irrelevant. In an effort to prove the falseness of Basoff's testimony that he had been taken into the union without payment of any initiation fee—the implication being that he was taken in for strong arm duties—defense attorney Frank P. Walsh questioned Mencher as to the system practiced during and after the strike about taking in new members.

The judge ordered Mencher's explanation stricken from the record. He also ordered that Mencher's testimony in relation to the settlement of the strike be stricken out. He refused to allow Mr. Walsh to file in evidence, or for identification, a copy of the peace agreement made by Hugh Frayne and William Green with the Joint Board just a year ago.

Tells Of Union Meeting.

This peace agreement was important because it was presented to a meeting of shop chairmen, so Mencher testified, on the afternoon of April 19, 1927, when the Rockville Center raid occurred. The meeting was held in Manhattan Lyceum, and Menshel stated that he spoke there, and was present continuously from 2 o'clock to 6. He stated that Jack Schneider and Morris Rosenberg acted as guards at the door of that meeting, and were also there continuously during this time when the stool pigeon Basoff declares they were with him in Rockville Center.

Mencher recalled that during this meeting his nephew was with him and he recalled introducing him to Mr. Zuckerman, reporter for The Day, who was on the platform. Mencher stated that Mr. Charles Green of "Women's Wear" was also present, and both Mr. Green and Mr. Zuckerman have been subpoened as witnesses in this case.

Refutes Stool Pigeon.

Mencher absolutely denied all the statements made by Basoff concerning him, or concerning his alleged "orders" to the members of the General Picket Committee to damage property or attack people. He stated that he never met the stool pigeon, Charles Welsonbloom, until he saw him in court. Mencher showed tha the had voluntarily submitted to arrest by going down to New York police headquarters with his attorney and surrendering himself. He denied that he had ever told Detective Greeve or Evans that he was at Rockville Center on April 19, 1927.

Prosecutor Asks Wild Questions

When the District Attorney began cross-examination of Mencher, he asked:

"Were you at Rockville Center on April 19, 1927?"

"No."

"If you had been at Rockville Center, would you have cut people, or would you have prevented your men from cutting people?"

The judge sustained the motion that this question be stricken out. He insisted it must stand, altho he had previously refused to allow Mencher to answer questions of Mr. Walsh which would have shown that both he and Shapiro were busy on April 19 arranging for the 69th Regiment Armory affair of April 21.

Defense Objects to Prosecutor's "Stunts"

The District Attorney's method of cross-examination was repeatedly objected to as creating prejudice, but these objections were constantly overruled by the judge. The district attorney made no attempt to disprove that Mencher had been at Manhattan Lyceum all afternoon on the day of the Rockville Center raid. He spent all his energies endeavoring to discredit Mencher in the eyes of the jury.

More Witnesses

A series of witnesses were asked to stand in the courtroom, among them I. Newman, Abraham Richman, Jacob Weiss, a Mr. Ellis and a Mrs. Jackoff. In each case Mencher was asked whether it was not true that he had sent someone, or gone himself, to cut up these persons or wreck their shops. Defense attorneys objected that these were unproved charges not connected with the present case, but these objections were regularly overruled.

The district attorney had another line of questioning designed to discredit Mencher. He began questioning concerning the status of the Joint Board in the union.

Clashes With Walsh.

"Are you a member of the International Fur Workers' Union?"

"Yes."

"Is it not true that the Joint Board was expelled by the American Federation of Labor? Aren't you a member of the left wing Joint Board and not the International?"

Walsh objected to the use of the phrase "left wing," but when the objection was overruled as usual, the district attorney asked again.

"Aren't you a member of the Joint Board which has been expelled by the American Federation of Labor—answer yes or no."

"Yes."

Judged Annoyed Only By Hisses.

A burst of applause and one hiss greeted this remark. The applause was openly led by Miss Mary Fargas, the scab from the Barnett shop who testified against the fur workers. But the judge was enraged only by the one hiss. He insisted that the person who did it be found and expelled at once. He ignored the clappers, even Miss Fargas who sat in the front row. When the defense attorneys pointed her out and asked that she be requested not to do that again, the judge ignored the request, even when Miss Fargas said loudly, "Yes, I did clap," in answer to Mr. Walsh's question.

Quotes Green's Letter.

In further proof that the Joint Board was expelled, the district attorney introduced in evidence a story published in the New York Times on Monday quoting President William Green's reply to a letter from the furriers' shop chairmen's council. This letter contained a refusal of a request that he bring peace in the union.

Only For Evidence.

This reply from Mr. Green was received two weeks ago. It was an old story.

The fact that it was given out for publicity by the A. F. of L. leaders on Monday was inexplicable until it appeared in the court room yesterday.

It was introduced to further discredit the standing of Mencher and his fellow-prisoners as union men.

"Is it not true that the Joint Board was expelled by the American Federation of Labor for just such tactics of cutting and wrecking of machines as occurred in Rockville Center?" asked the district attorney.

Does He Know Prominent Communists?

"Do you know Mr. Lovestone? Mr. Weinstone? I suppose you never heard of Mr. Ruthenberg? Isn't 'The Day' a Joint Board paper? Isn't it true 'The Day' is a Communist paper? Isn't the Freiheit a Communist paper? Isn't it true that you call the people in the Joint Board 'comrade'? Isn't it true that Mr. William Green, Mr. Frayne, and Mr. Schachtman were not at your so-called 'peace meeting' on the 19th of April? (No, I don't want any explanation as to why they were not there.)"

Such was the stream of irrelevant, provocative questions.

NOW SOLD AT REDUCED PRICES

4

Books which should be included in every worker's library

At 50 Cents Each

THE AWAKENING OF CHINA

by Jos. H. Dolsen.

When all China is astir with revolution—today particularly this book should be read by every worker.

ON THE ROAD TO INSURRECTION

by Lenin.

A book by Lenin is enough recommendation as to its value. This is the first English publication.

THE AFTERMATH OF NON CO-OPERATION

(Indian Nationalist and Labor Politics)

by N. Roy.

Not only China but the whole East is awakening this book records the forces at work in India.

RED CARTOONS (1926)

Perhaps you do not own this gay satirical collection of the best work of American artists. Get it now at the reduced price.

SEND $2.00 FOR ALL FOUR BOOKS

Organized Labor—Trade Union Activities

News and Comment
Labor Education
Labor and Government
Trade Union Politics

Policies and Programs
The Trade Union Press
Strikes—Injunctions
Labor and Imperialism

90 Days In Jail Given to Garment Worker Yesterday

Bruno Silva, a cloakmaker, who was arrested "on suspicion of carrying a weapon" in Brooklyn last month, was sentenced to 90 days in Special Sessions by Judges Featherson, Salmon and Voorheis in spite of ridiculous contradictions in the testimony of the police officer who arrested him and was the only witness against him.

The officer testified that he arrested Silva when he "saw him hanging around and that an hour and a half later he discovered a "bludgeon" in an adjoining vacant lot, whereupon he placed a charge of carrying a weapon against Silva. Questioned as to whether he saw Silva with the weapon in his hand, he admitted that he had seen him make "some sort of motion," but that he saw the "bludgeon" in his hand nor being thrown away.

"To Protect America."

In spite of this weak story, Judge Voorheis, who presided, sentenced Silva to 90 days, delivering a lecture in which he declared that "anarchists were "stirring up trouble," and that "America must protect her own interests." His case will be appealed.

Worker Freed.

Bertha Seid, who was charged with violating the injunction obtained by the American Association of Dress Manufacturers by picketing the shop of Skarlen and Kauffman, was discharged in Jefferson Market Court.

Held In High Bail.

Samuel Kurland and Samuel Gold, furriers, were bound over to the Grand Jury under bail of $5,000 and $3,000 for an alleged attack upon another fur worker. The two were arrested on April 5 as they were leaving court where they were witnesses in the case of Joseph La Presti, who was severely slashed and beaten by gangsters in the fur market on that day. The complainant was told to "pick out the big one" (who was Sam Kurland), by attorney of the International, according to former who overheard the conversation, and Kurland and Gold were arrested upon this "identification."

Porters Union Hopes To Be Recognized By Board of Mediation

Leaders of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters are very hopeful of winning recognition at the hearings before the United States board of mediation the week of April 26th. They say that the Pullman company union will not have a leg to stand on.

Company unions are not recognized by the department of labor as bona fide labor organizations, the brotherhood men. They cite Bulletin No. 490 of the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, which says: "This compilation disregards entirely unions which are purely local in character, works councils, and those organizations which are or may fairly be regarded as company unions."

And the same Bulletin says: "Another organization, the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, which had barely come into existence at the first of the year, is rapidly attaining a vitality which indicates permanency."

Philadelphia Worker Tells of Dangers in Dupont Paint Factory

(By Worker Correspondent)

PHILADELPHIA, April 20.—After walking the streets for a month searching in vain for a boss, I noticed an ad in a employment agent's window for "White Factory Hands." I went in, made inquiries and learned that it was a paint factory and that the pay would be 45 cents per hour and that I would be required to work alternately on day and night shifts.

So I handed over $2 and was soon on my way to my new job. Upon arrival I was escorted to a corner and told to hang up my coat, and was informed that this was strictly not be helped. I was then put to work doing various jobs; in fact I tried nearly every job in our department.

Dangerous Job.

I had not been working long before I discovered that this was an unusually dangerous place to work, as the paint (advertised as Duco) is of an unusual nature being composed of chemicals that are liable to explode if they become ignited in any way. The first intimation of this came from an old hand when he saw me hitting a brace with a steel bar.

"Say, young feller, do you want to have a fire? Don't you know that it is unsafe to hit with steel as it is liable to cause a spark, if you have to hit anything use a bronze hammer."

Get 45 cents An Hour.

I was careful after that but several days later I learned that everything must be grounded before paint is emptied from one container to another, as static electricity is created and liable to cause an explosion if not carried off. Imagine working under tanks holding 600 gallons of this highly explosive material, and you should understand the danger the workers who make Duco labor under for hourly rates of 45 and 55 cents.

This plant is one of the many owned by Dupont-Deneymours Inc. in addition to Duco, oil paints, alums, acids and various chemicals are manufactured.

Patronize Our Advertizers.

GOVERNMENT REPORT SHOWS LABOR'S SHARE FROM PRODUCT OF ITS LABOR DECREASES CONTINUALLY

(By LELAND OLDS, Federated Press.)

Substitution of mechanical power for human labor in factories is proceeding steadily, according to a summary of the 1925 census of manufactures by the U. S. department of commerce. Features of the report are the increase in production, the decrease in the employment of wage earners, and the increase in horsepower.

"The average number of wage earners employed in 1925," says the report, "was smaller by 4.4% than the corresponding average for 1923, and was 8.7% below that for 1919. Despite this decrease in wage-earner employment, production increased and this increase, as might be expected in view of the decrease in employment, was accompanied by a considerable increase in horsepower over 1923 and a pronounced increase over 1919, the rates for the two periods being 8.1% and 22% respectively."

Less Than Half.

The report shows that factories whose output during 1925 was $10,000 or over employed 8,383,781 wage earners and paid a total of $10,729,469,000 in wages. The product was worth $68,708,714,000 at factory prices. The total value added in the process of manufacturing raw materials into finished goods was $26,774,840,000. In other words the workers received in wages 17.1% of the total value of the product and 40.1% of the value added to the raw materials by their work.

Gets Less and Less.

The workers in 1925 got the smallest proportion of the value added by manufacture of any census year since the government began gathering such data in 1849. In 1923 their share was 42.8%, in 1919 42.2% and in 1914 it was 41.3%. In 1889, before the days of mass production, wages absorbed 45% of the value added by manufacture and in 1849, when neighborhood, hand and building trades played a considerable part, the workers got 51%.

The table shows for 16 industrial groups the number of workers employed in 1925, the average annual wages and the share the workers received of the value which they produced:

1925 U. S. Census of Manufactures	Number employed	Average wages	Worker's share
Food products	664,760	$1,192	29.7%
Textiles, clothing	1,627,141	1,017	43.8
Iron & Steel	881,270	1,509	47.1
Lumber and products	921,145	1,060	49.8
Leather products	315,288	1,130	47.3
Rubber products	141,121	1,351	35.5
Paper, printing, etc.	536,766	1,501	31.8
Chemical products	380,595	1,328	22.5
Stone, brick, glass	353,038	1,322	45.0
Nonferrous metal products	278,292	1,382	49.9
Tobacco manufactures	132,132	841	16.8
Machinery	858,843	1,427	40.4
Musical instruments	46,980	1,330	47.0
Transportation equipment	559,576	1,623	44.0
Railroad repair shops	437,755	1,459	86.9
Miscellaneous	252,079	1,285	34.3

Labor's apparently big share of the product in the railroad repair shops is not comparable with figures for the other industries because the profit element does not enter. Railroad shops engaged in repairing rolling stock do not sell their output, consequently the figure reported as value added represents simply the labor cost plus small amount for rent, taxes, etc.

Great Variation.

The other industries show an extraordinary variation in the workers' share of the values they are creating. In the manufacture of cigars and cigarets the low point is reached, with labor receiving only 16.8%, about a sixth of the value added in the process of production. Other industries in which labor's share is low are chemical products 22.5%, food products 29.7% and paper and printing 31.8%. At the other extreme are the lumber and nonferrous metal industries in which labor gets nearly 50% of the product.

Workers on B.-M.T. and Other Brooklyn Lines To Get Increase of 5%

Both the Brooklyn - Manhattan Transit Corporation and the Brooklyn City Railroad Company announced yesterday that wage increases of approximately five per cent had been granted, effect as of April 18, to the employes of the two organizations.

With the City Railroad Company, the existing agreement between employers and employes will remain in effec tuntil August, 1928, while the B. M. T. system a two year extension effect until August, 1928, while the been arranged.

On the B. M. T., the increase affects wages of the motormen and conductors on the surface lines, ticket agents, conductors, trainmen, and porters on the rapid transit lines, and shop, powerhouse, sub-station, line department, track and building division employes.

The raise of the wage schedules of the B. M. T. at this time, prior to the expiration of the arrangement, is due, it was declared, to an understanding between representatives of the workers and of the management when the agreements were entered into last summer that if there were changes made in wage schedules by any other transit companies in New York City during the year, the workers would have the right to see a like advance in their own payrolls.

After the recent announcement of the Manhattan Transit Companies' increase in wages, the B. M. T. employes conferred with the management and obtained a similar advance.

Parkhurst Marries Lady Who Lived in His House For More Than 20 Years

LOS ANGELES April 20.—Rev. Charles H. Parkhurst, veteran New York preacher long known as a viceprosecutor, and Mrs. Eleanor Mare, were married here yesterday in what they declared was an effort to avoid the publicity a marriage in New York would have entailed. The groom is 80 years of age and the bride is 67.

Mrs. Marx has lived in the Parkhurst home for more than twenty years, having taken up her residence there a few years before the death of Parkhurst's first wife.

Rev. Parkhurst has not yet expressed an opinion on Sinclair Lewis' latest novel "Elmer Gantry," which deals with a reverenced vice crusader who has numerous shady affairs with ladies of the faith.

WORKERS: PROTEST AGAINST DEATH OF SACCO and VANZETTI!

ON TO AN ENTERTAINMENT!

Given by

Slovak Dramatic Society

For Fraction 1, Czecho-Slovak Dramatic Society

On SUNDAY, APRIL 24th, 4 P. M. Sharp

At WALSH HALL

Corner Noble Emma Street and Milwaukee Avenue

CHICAGO, ILL.

ADMISSION TICKETS in advance 60c, at the door 75c.

Chicago I. L. D. Tom Mooney Branch

BOX SOCIAL

SATURDAY, APRIL 23, 8 P. M.

FREIHEIT SINGING SOCIETY HALL

3837 West Roosevelt Road.

Five-Piece Dance Orchestra. Admission 25c.

ENTERTAINMENT AND REFRESHMENTS.

Coolidge Patches Up Things With Herbert Hoover; Denies Rebuke

WASHINGTON, April 20.—President Coolidge today took steps to correct the impression that he had "rebuked" Herbert Hoover when he stated last week that Secretary of State Kellogg was not resigning, and that if he did resign Secretary Hoover would not be appointed to succeed him. Hoover's friends have been worthy over the manner in which the announcement was made.

In the regular press conference today, President Coolidge explained that no rebuke to, or reflection on, Secretary Hoover's abilities had been intended. The president explained that he considered the secretary of commerce highly capable of filling any post in the cabinet, and that he had meant to convey only that Hoover's work in the department of commerce was too important to be dispensed with.

Patronize Our Advertizers.

Violin and Viola Lessons

Given by expert teacher.

For reasonable rates, write to

JOHN WEINROTH

4156 LARCHWOOD AVENUE.

Phone Granite 7252, Philadelphia, Pa.

Celebrate

MAY DAY

With a bundle of the

SPECIAL

of the

DAILY WORKER

On May Day a Special Issue of The DAILY WORKER will be issued.

ORDER A BUNDLE

There will be special articles on the world labor; special cartoons and photographs.

ORDER A BUNDLE

A whole section will be devoted to greetings to the world of labor from individual workers and from working class organizations.

ORDER A BUNDLE

This issue should be brought into the hands of thousands of workers. Order a bundle for yourself to give away and be sure to order a bundle

FOR YOUR MAY DAY MEETING

Special Bundle Rates

$2.50 A HUNDRED

RUSH

THE DAILY WORKER
33 First St., New York

Enclosed I ... for ... copies of the MAY DAY SPECIAL

Name .....

Street .....

City .....

State .....

strike a blow for labor subscribe to THE DAILY WORKER

The National Labor Daily

Name.....

Address.....

City..... State.....

Subscription rates: one year—six mo.—three mo.

Outside New York ... $6.00 ... $3.50 ... $2.00

In New York ... 8.00 ... 4.50 ... 2.25

Enclose cash, check or money order with subscription. Mail to the Daily Worker, 33 First Street, New York City. A copy of Red Cartoons of 1926 free with each annual subscription.

A Society to Advance the Reputation of White Men

By WM. PICKENS.

A white woman tells us that she wants to start such a society, and as the reason why she wants to do so, she tells us the following:

She and another white woman, a friend of hers, went out for a bit of exercise in a small rowboat at New York. Sha had rowed many times out into the Sound as far or farther than she went this time, and experienced no difficulty. But this time, when she started to row back to port, there was such a strong outward movement of the tide that, rowing with all her waning strength, she could make no headway back toward land, but was slowly drifting out further and further to sea.

Ignored.

As sunset was coming on, she began to get afraid. Her friend could not row. "I began to wave and call for help to some of the motor boats and fine yachts that passed near us," she said, "but they gave no help and seemed to ignore us contemptuously. We were getting worried. Finally, I tied a white garment to one of the oars and waved it as high as I could, shouting for help. A power-driven yacht came within further from us than any of the yachts of the wealthy, finally seemed to sense our predicament and stopped.

Rescued By "Negroes."

"Two men got off the barge into a little dory and rowed out to us. They were two colored men.

"I threw them the chain from our boat and they began to row back toward the barge. But with all their might they were unable to make any headway against the water.

"Finally, as there were two seats of oarlocks in our boat and only one in theirs, one of the men suggested that they climb into our boat, so that both of them could do the rowing in one boat. But even this strenuous work seemed to be getting us nowhere.

White Gentlemen Pass.

"Getting frightened again, and seeing some grand white man passing near in a power boat, I got up and began to call to them for help. Then one of the colored men who was struggling to save us, waved his hand cooly and said something which, when I thought of the tragic truth of it, cut me to the quick. He said, with a mixture of bitterness and calm contempt: 'Aw, sit down, Miss, and save your breath. No use calling those guys: when they see two white women "with two niggers," they'll simply say: "they ought to drown".'

"That the white world could have impressed upon a brave and generous colored man of that type such an opinion of the savageness of white men, hurt my feelings."

Despises Old Ideal.

Nevertheless, this woman knew that this black man spoke truly, and she sat quietly and waited for an anxious hour until they fought their way to the barge and saved the woman. And the more she reflected upon that "opinion" expressed so coldly by that black man, the more she felt the need of "improving the reputation of white men."

She was humiliated to think that when two white women were seen with two colored men, even in such a predicament, white people would not put an honorable, instead of a dishonorable, construction on the situation; and she was still more humiliated to think that, even if they did put a dishonorable construction on it, white men could be so savage as to refuse to rescue the lives of four fellow humans—whatever their opinion or attitude on any social or racial question.

WOMAN: TO CAPITALISM

By AMY WAYNE.

I spit on your pages of Holy Writ:
I laugh at your sacrosanct laws,
I am the Law and the Word.

Chilled with a new and terrible negation
More potent than cauldrons of orthodox hell,
I sneer at your treasures and palaces;
I am the Gift and the Giver.

No longer cajoled nor commanded
Life and Love I give freely as I will.
Caring naught for coarse priestly threats.
I am the Bond and its Maker.

Chattel no longer, I am untrammelled
By your ancient hypocrisies and lies;
Dauntless, free, I fare forth in new power.
I am the Revolt and its Renewer.

A GREATER AMERICAN TRAGEDY

By RAY CARSON.

JOE walked into the tiny flat and closed the door softly. How was he going to tell Min why he was home so early? He paused in the doorway. No one was home. Min must run across the hall to one of the neighbors. There was the pot boiling on the stove. Potatoes! The third time this week. Well, potatoes were cheap. The broom stood propped up against a chair as if it had just been used. Joe heard footsteps in the hall. Min! His heart beat hard. Could he tell her? The door opened. Sammy rushed in. "Hello, pop," he exclaimed in surprise, "home so early?" But not waiting for a reply he grabbed a piece of bread and bended for the door, "Say, Pop, tell Ma I'll be home late tonight 'cause I'm working overtime—I'm staying to sell papers after that big show tonight." And he was gone.

* * *

Joe sank down despondently in the chair. 12 year-old Sammy on the streets every night selling papers, 16-year-old Jennie working in the department store for 12 dollars a week, Bennie working all of them working to buy food for Min and the four little ones at home, and he—what was he doing? At last, when he had gotten a job—Again, footsteps in the hall. Min came in carrying the baby and holding Paul by the hand. She put the baby on the floor giving it a spool of thread to play with, and came into the dingy kitchen and stopped in surprise. "What's the matter, Joe? Are you sick?".

"No," came roughly from the depth of the newspaper.

"Well, then what is the matter?" Min asked impatiently. Joe cleared his throat, "We went out on strike this afternoon." A pause. Min's hand tightened on the chair she was leaning against. A—went black before her eyes. Visions of bills danced before her. Grocery bills, butcher bills, rent bills! For five months Joe had been out of work. At least, three weeks ago, he had gotten a job at the factory for $20 a week. And now—strike! How she had come to hate and fear that word! It meant starvation, cold and bills unpaid.

* * *

Joe glanced uneasily at his wife. Why didn't she say something? Poor Min, he knew it was hard for her, but what could he do? It was a hell of a life for her. How well he remembered how pretty and ambitious she had been when they had married. How they had planned the rosy future and when Bennie came—weren't they proud? Now—there were seven to care for. Min was old and wrinkled with worry and work. They didn't have much love for love or dreams now. Their whole conversation consisted of money—bills—debts. But damn it, it wasn't his fault. He wanted to work. Hang it, why didn't she say something.

"Min", he paused, "Min, I can't help it. You wouldn't want me to scab would you? I had to go when the others did."

* * *

"Oh, what's the use of your excuses? Go ahead and strike—but where's the money for the rent coming from tomorrow? Where are we going to get our bread? Our credit is gone now. Sammy needs a sweater. Jenny needs some shoes—Bennie doesn't give us very much now that he has joined the Y. M. C. A. I've got exactly $3 now. Go ahead and strike—stick up for your rights ask for more pay and meanwhile don't get any—do what you please but what are we going to do?" Min became hysterical. Her voice grew higher and higher. Little Paul and the baby, attracted by the noise came into the kitchen. Joe rose impatiently. "Oh, keep still, you don't know what you are saying. You needn't think I'm enjoying this any more than you are. These kids are mine as much as yours and it hurts me just as it does you. But, Gosh, Min, I'd rather starve than scab. Doggone it, we'll manage somehow. We've got to."

* * *

"Don't worry, you'll starve alright. There is nothing else you can do. But why make the kids starve with you? God, what a life," she added, bitterly turning away.

Joe went into the other room. Anyway, he had done the right thing by himself savagely down on the bed. Why couldn't she understand? But he'd rather stand anything than go back with the strike unsettled. It would not take so very long. It was the rush season at the mills. The bosses needed their men. God, they would win that strike—but until they did? He heard Min preparing supper. How much longer before there wouldn't be any supper to prepare? How much longer before the kids would be crying for food?

After supper the little ones in bed, Min in the kitchen, Joe looked proudly across at Bennie, he'd understand. After all, it took a man to understand a man's sense of honor in such things as a strike. Bennie, feeling his father's eyes upon him, looked up from his paper and feeling that he ought to start conversation said contemptuously, "I heard that the mill workers have gone on strike today." Joe started with surprise. The contempt and hatred in his son's voice hurt him. So that was the way he felt about the strikers! Bennie continued, "Darn fools, don't know when they are lucky. Mr. Watson, up at the Y. M. C. A. told us fellows that those strikers are a bunch of foreigners and they are lazy and always are dissatisfied. He says they won't get what they want this time, tho, 'cause there's a bunch of scabs already on their way down here. Gee, we'll show these strikers they'll either work and be thankful for it, or else get out and slave. Who do they think they are, Rockefeller?"

* * *

"What do you know about the conditions in the mills?" Joe asked quietly.

"Mr. Watson told us all about it."

"You tell your Mr. Watson not to think so much about the mills and the foreigners from behind his desk at the Y. M. C. A. Why don't you ask your Pa about the condition in the mills?" Joe and Bennie turned around quickly. Min was standing in the doorway wiping a dish, and speaking quietly. Why don't you find out what the strikers want from your Pa and not from that white livered Watson?" Bennie gazed astounded at his father "What—are you striking too?"

"foreigners."

"Yes, Ben, I am. I am one of your 'damn fools' and one of your 'lazy foreigners.'"

* * *

"Yes," added Min, "We're all strikers. Its going to be awfully hard. We'll starve and we'll quarrel and I'll, yell—but we're going to stick it out. No one's going to scab on my account.

Bennie sat dumbfounded. "Pop, you're crazy. Mr. Watson says it's a crime to strike. Only ignorant foreigners or crazy bolsheviks ever strike. Why, you wouldn't strike and paralyze our mills? You wouldn't make our city lose thousands of dollars just because you want to strike."

"Because I want to strike? God, they're making us strike," Joe shouted. "Tell your Mr. Watson to learn before he talks. Tell him to raise a family of seven kids—tell him first to feel the hurt of seeing them all freeze and starve—tell him to work in those mills 9 and 10 hours a day, tell him to work under the damn speed-up and piece work system, tell him to work by those machines all day and see women and children caught in the machines and carried out crippled for life, tell him to work at $15 or $20 a week and then tell him to have the bosses come along with another wage-cut, the third this year and then ask him if he'd give a damn about paralyzing the mills—that's what we intend to do—ask him if he'd give a damn about the city losing thousands of dollars. Do the stockholders care that we are starving throughout the year? God, to hear you talking this way!

* * *

"I don't care, Pop, you have absolutely no pride in your country—You won't Americanize, that's the trouble. You think that you are still in oppressed Europe. Wake up, you are in Free America, and Mr. Watson says that any man who's ambitious and industrious can succeed in America. Doggone it, I only hope none of the gang hear that my father's a striker, that's all I can say," and with that he grabbed his cap and went out.

* * *

The weeks that followed were bitter ones. Joe wandered about like a ghost. Up at the strikers' headquarters it was easy enough to keep up his courage. There was always work to be done and the reports were favorable. Relief funds were received from all over the country. The fight was becoming a hard one. Pickets were clubbed by the police. The ranks of the wounded swelled. But the courage of the crowds would not be broken. At home, however, away from the crowd, away from the cheers and song, it was difficult. Min's silence and attempted pluck seemed harder to bear than her anger. The kids were complaining of the cold. Bennie spent his entire time at the Y. M. C. A. now and ever home only to sleep. Joe never saw him any more. When he passed him in the street, Bennie would ignor him.

* * *

Joe slackened his pace as he came in sight of his home. Tomorrow was to be a hard day. He had been assigned to early 6 o'clock picket and there rumors of the militia being called out. Doggone them, they couldn't frighten the strikers that way. They would stick this fight out to the bitter end.

Joe stopped in this tracks. He started across the street. Was he dreaming? No, there was Bennie with two other fellows dressed in the state militia uniform an American Legion button and an American flag in his lapel. Joe's lips trembled, his fists clenched. Damn these bosses, they weren't satisfied with crushing the workers but even turned their children against them. "God damn them," shouted Joe in his heart, "we'll make you pay for this."

* * *

Six o'clock in the morning. Joe drew his jacket closer as the rain continued to come down in torrents. He walked hurridly towards the mill where he was to picket. He reached the gates. He passed with the rest of the picketers against the roped-in area in which police stood on guard. The rain poured down upon the mob of strikers. A truck load of scabs arrived safely guarded by police. Jeers and cries of "Down with the traitors," rang out of the mob. The crowd drew in close. The police bent in. The mob grew tense. The turmoil drew in closer. The police tried to hold them back, but couldn't. The voices grew louder. Crys of anger, hunger, pain, and cold mixed with the commands of the police in the wet and stifling air. Joe felt himself carried along with the mob. His long-felt hatred arose to the top. He yelled with the loudest and pulled with the strongest. Suddenly, a rock whirled through the air, whether it came from the strikers aimed at the police or from the scabs aimed at the strikers, no one knew. It flew through the air and hit one of the strikers on the forehead. The rock acted as a releaser of energy. The mob grew wild. They surged on. Amid clubs and fists, they moved on as one great body through the rain. The police and scabs were pushed against the wall. A shrill whistle—and out of nowhere appeared the militia—500 strong. The crowd grew blindly, yelling, cursing, wiping the blood from his mouth. He found himself being pushed to the outskirts. He stumbled over a man's body—fell—heard the report of a gun—and felt something warm ooze out of his heart. He turned face up—and saw—a state militia uniform, an American Legion button and an American flag in the lapel—it was his son "Bennie."

SACCO AND VANZETTI

When Editi Cavell faced the fire,
And bullets pierced her nurse's robe,
Those shots rang out around the globe,
And waked whole continents to ire.
Yet she was guilty; as a spy,
All manmade laws said she should die.

The Englishman who did his bit,
The French who fought for human right,
The German crippled in the fight,
Good God! What do they think of it?
Is this the Justice of our time,
With a crime added on to a crime?

Where'er they've heard of Rights of Man,
The gaucho roaming o'er the plain,
The Russian moujik, peon of Spain,
The fisherman in far Japan,
They pray their Gods, their obols give
That these two innocent men may live.

When the purse proud and money mad
Must seek protection for their spoil
By victimizing those that toil
And dare to speak, as these men had,
'Tis time to change: 'tis time, by God!
To maim the hand that wields the rod.

Oh, all who love fair freedom's name,
Let's raise our voices thru the land,
To show we do not share the shame
Of Massachusetts' bloody hand.
Around the world resounds the cry,
"Vanzetti and Sacco MUST NOT DIE,"

—JOHN MARTIN HAMILL.

Read The Daily Worker Every Day

THOUSANDS RUSH TO FILE DIAMOND CLAIMS

A view at the start of South Africa's greatest diamond rush, at the Grasfontein farm in the Lichtenburg district. More than 25,000 contestants rushed to file claims, the more enterprising diamond companies hiring professional runners.

A CERTAIN IVORY TOWER

(The Antique Lord to his Seneschal)

I had forgotten that the sun could set
On other places than this tower of mine,
I had forgotten that the days could let
Their subtle sands slip elsewhere, or that wine
Could drop from other lips as superfine.

I had forgotten that the night could bring
The shadows groping in a lesser tower,
That in the hurly-burly death could sing
As pagan and as dark, and evilly lower
Where poor men lie and cry their mortal hour.

I had forgotten that ever marching feet
Could shock the far horizon of my heart.
Open the gates, O Seneschal, we'll meet
The love of men with love, we'll set apart
Our vintage and our carnival. Now, start!

Let the drums beat!

—MARTIN FEINSTEIN.

LINES TO LENIN

By AMY WAYNE.

You arose like a shape hewn of granite
Out of the welter of torture, blood and betrayal,
Unfurling our banner to the winds of the world,
Bearing our challenge and defiance
To tyrants, hypocrites, liars.

We awaken, we arise, we answer
To your thundering battle call
In voices that will echo
Down through time.

Oh, that you could hear us marching, marching—
The steady romp of millions of unfaltering feet,
That you could see the glory light our faces,
Ilyitch, mighty giant, faithful Comrade,
Of bitter, but triumphant, endless days.

With the Young Worker

An Autostrop Young Worker

Letter Of Young Worker to Autostrop Bulletin, Issued By Young Workers League, District 2.

Dear Friends:

I read your leaflet that was distributed a few weeks ago and I am very glad that at last an attempt has been made to organize our plant. The conditions here are very bad. We work long hours, receiving low wages, unsanitary conditions still exist, though the boss has actually begun to improve them after the distribution of your leaflet.

As I read the leaflet, I saw that you were acquainted with all the problems of the plant, but you failed to mention one—and that is about the Auto Strop Club. This club was formed by the bosses under the mask of being a beneficial society for the workers. First of all, we are compelled to pay fifty cents a month dues, in return for which we get less than nothing. We never have any meetings in which we can discuss the problems which face us in the plant. A few of the bosses and a representative from every district (floor), who are usually either foremen or assistant foremen, are the rulers of this club, and of course the club works in the interests of the bosses. If we, the workers of this plant, want to get anything that is beneficial for us workers we must run this club by ourselves and not by the bosses or their agents.

I hope, since you have taken the initiative, you will continue to explain to us the importance of our sticking together and organizing.

A WORKER FROM THE SHOP.

Cleveland Young Workers Protest Against Imperialist Wars.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 20.—When the militarists of this country, in league with the capitalists and the capitalist government, are working over-time to fill their quotas for the Citizens Military Training Camps, the Young Workers Communist League calls upon all young workers to stand up and fight for their own class, and to refuse to accept the dictates of Wall Street to prepare for war.

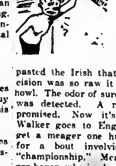
The Citizens Military Training Camps are a training ground for murderers and strike-breakers, and the local American Legion is loud in its censure of the Young Workers' Communist League for telling the truth about the camps. A recent campaign meeting held by the Legion to campaign for the C.M.T.C. was flooded with League leaflets, and the local papers are still resounding with the anger of the American Legion authorities.

On Thursday, April 22, there will be a mass demonstration on the Public Square, at which prominent speakers will take up the imperialist situation of today, and show the correct line that the young workers must follow. The meeting will begin at 7:00 P. M., and all workers are urged to come and take part in the demonstration against war.

Spring Ball of Young Workers' League.

Plans have been completed for the spring ball of the Williamsburg section of the Young Workers' League at the Royal Palace, 16 Manhattan Ave., Brooklyn, on Saturday evening. There will be a musical entertainment and a number of exceptional features, it is announced.

The Young Workers League at Work. Students Debate Communism with Young Workers.



By WM. SCHNEIDERMAN.

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—The Young Workers (Communist) League and the Forum Debating Society of the University of California at L. A., will hold a debate on the subject: "Resolved, That the Communist theory is practical and desirable."

It will be held Sunday night, May 22nd, at the Music Arts Hall, 233 S. Broadway. Under the joint auspices of the Young Workers League and the Civil Liberties Union. The speakers representing the university debaters will be Gregorio Diaz, a Filipino; Newal Easeye, a Negro; and Leo Jacobson. The speakers for the Young Workers League, tentatively selected, will be William Schneiderman and Minnie Karasick. The students, fearing the "bias" of the audience in favor of Communism, as they expressed it, have requested that no decision be rendered. To promises to attract wide-spread interest, and will be utilized by the Young Workers League in connection with their membership drive.

SPORT

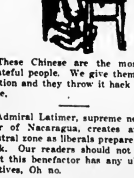
The Bugle-Busting Business.

Fight hugs with a memory six months long will recall how surprised Mickey Walker was to win the middleweight championship one night in Chicago. Tiger Flowers also pasted the Irish that night. The decision was so raw it raised a terrific howl. The odor of sure-thing gamblers was detected, but the bout was promised. Now it's forgotten and Walker goes to England in July to get a meager one hundred thousand for a bout involving his curious "championship." Meanwhile the Negro boxer, who is also a church deacon can go back to preaching.

Tex Riekard.

Tex Riekard, officially the Madison Square Boxing Corporation, is peeved—asell because a rival promoter and the New York Boxing Commission are butting into his boxing trust. Richard has a good number of champs and near champs under contract and Ansata that if these fellas will scrap, it must be for him. This is not like in the old days. If a bird wanted to scrap—he just did. Even in the best saloons. Now, when a boxer wants a sock another on the bugle—he's a manager, a couple of lawyers, a movie contract and boxes under the supervision of a board and they call it a sport. Yes, verily brotherly hugs, the gentle art of scrambling eggs ain't what she used to be!

Line O'type or Two



Mr. Cash of the United States Patriotic Society is the kind of a guy who knows how to cash in on his patriotism.

Ramsey MacDonald contemplates writing his autobiography, A suggested title: "The story of a Traitor."

Bedtime Stories.

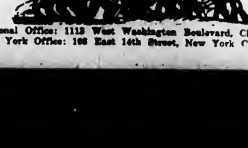
Red Army fighting revolt in South Russia and Ukraine.—N. Y. Times Headline.

The Poor Fish

These Chinese are the most ungrateful people. We give them civilization and they throw it back in our face.

Admiral Latimer, supreme neutralizer of Nacaragua, creates another neutral zone as liberals prepare to attack. Our readers should not imply that this benefactor has any ulterior motives, Oh no.

Y. M. C. A. Campaign Slogan.
"Give the boy a chance," which means:
a. More Chance
b. To make him immune from unionism.
c. To make him a better wage slave.
d. To make him a more loyal son of Jesus.



How to Catch a Sub.

By A. CATELLO

The whole idea is to put salt on his tail. First you get a good grade of salt. Be sure it's not sweet. Put this into a nice salt-shaker. Then, when your preparations are made, learn the habits of a sub. Find out what it eats, where it works and what language it speaks. Then pick out a good dark night. When the least suspects it, you sneak up behind, pour the salt on its tail and shout: "Now I've got you!" Some suspicious people don't believe a sub has a tail. But it has! The tale of all our woe is this: We need subs for the Young Worker. Send your subscription, $1.00 a year, for six months to the Young Worker Editorial Committee, 26 First Street, New York, N. Y.

JOIN OUR RANKS

National Office: 1113 West Washington Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.
New York Office: 108 East 14th Street, New York City, N. Y.

STOP WAR ON CHINA AND SOVIET UNION!

THE DAILY WORKER FIGHTS: FOR THE ORGANIZATION OF THE UNORGANIZED FOR THE 8-HOUR WEEK FOR A LABOR PARTY

THE DAILY WORKER

FINAL CITY EDITION

Entered as second-class matter at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Vol. IV. No. 85. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In New York, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside New York, by mail, $6.00 per year. NEW YORK, FRIDAY, APRIL 22, 1927 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 33 First Street, New York, N. Y. Price 3 Cents

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

PRACTICALLY all the outstanding columnists, philosophers and playwrights at large or available, with the exception of your humble servant, are drawing fat salaries explaining the Gray-Snyder murder trial to a thrill-hungry public. The only remarkable thing about this trial is that it is remarkably like a bar-room brawl where two people not too drunk to lift a cast iron cuspidor might swing this receptacle on the head of another person so much under the influence of liquor that he might feel the impact of the blow as lightly as he would the playful tickle of a barfly and awake up on the other side of the dark ocean before he could have another drink.

• • •

THE murder was brutal and cruel, but so are all murders. The more refinement there is to cruelty the more brutal it becomes. But why should the philosophical furniture of the country be mobilized to analyze and picture the mental agony of those two unfortunate victims of human weakness and their environment for the delectation of the sadistic part of the reading public, that takes to tales of blood and torture as a tout takes to a racecourse?

• • •

THE answer is: circulation. And circulation means increased advertising revenue. More money for the owners of the papers. This was the reason they picked on the old dotard Browning and made him as much of a household word thruout the land as Al Smith has been made by his reply to a question involving his relation to the catholic church and his loyalty to the American capitalist system. Yet those social germ carriers are not interfered with by the authorities or prosecuted for poisoning the minds of the people of New York vicinity. But the DAILY WORKER finds itself haled into court because it happened to carry a poem that did not sit well on the stomachs of certain patriotic panhandlers.

• • •

JAMES RAMSAY MACDONALD does not believe that the Sacco and Vanzetti case should concern "outsiders." He thinks it is a problem for Americans only. But he was not sensitive about interfering in the domestic affairs of other countries when he defended the anti-Soviet bandits of George and denounced the Soviet Government for imprisoning them, tho it was amply proven they were acting under the instructions, and in the pay of the foreign powers, chiefly Great Britain. Neither did Mr. MacDonald have any reservation about commenting on Al Smith's political reply to the religious questionnaire.

• • •

THE criminal action of the socialists in New York led by the Jewish Forward in doing everything possible to break up the unity of labor in the effort to save the lives of Sacco and Vanzetti deserves the severest condemnation. So far they have not only refused to co-operate with the other sections of the labor movement that have borne the brunt of the defense struggle but they actually refuse to permit any delegate to attend their meetings if they think he is tainted with radicalism.

• • •

IT is not surprising that the capitalists of New England should be anxious to murder Sacco and Vanzetti as an example to others. It is not surprising that the bureaucracy of the A. F. of L. who have their legs under the same table with the employers should stand idly by and let the executioner take his course. Both are for the system and believe death too good for the enemies of capitalism. But the socialist pretend to favor the abolition of capitalism. That is their excuse for being in existence. Yet, in this case as in other cases, they split the unity of the workers and give objective aid to the hangmen of Sacco and Vanzetti.

• • •

PRESIDENT Coolidge is quite happy over the prospect of peace in Nicaragua, now that he hears the conservatives under Diaz are about to claim another "complete" victory. This man Diaz has not enough native supporters to fill a sea-going hack and if the United States marines left the country for a week end, or went on a long drink, Diaz would have returned involuntarily to the dirt from which he sprang by the time they came back. This is the kind of neutrality Coolidge is observing in Nicaragua.

• • •

FEW skeletons, human or political, can withstand the test of time. Secretary Kellogg, waxed mysterious over the alleged forgeries that were said to president Calles of Mexico which are said to prove that the state

(Continued on Page Three)

BASOFF BRAZEN BLACKMAILER, SAYS GOLD

WHITE TERROR IN CHINA

A Chinese trade union leader under the executioner's knife. Hundreds of executions like this are carried out daily by the allies of Great Britain and Wall Street.

ILLINOIS STRIP MINES WILL PAY UNION WAGE RATE

CHICAGO, April 21.—Following the lead of the Indiana strip mine operators, Illinois strippers today were reported prepared to sign an agreement with the United Mine Workers to pay a basic wage of $7.50.

The negotiations, which have been held secretly, are the first of any importance between miners and operators since the central competitive bituminous suspension March 31.

Strike In West Virginia.

The eastern and western Kentucky fields alone have benefited by the suspension. These are non-union. Eastern Kentucky production has increased one per cent, while western Kentucky has gone up three per cent.

In the strong non-union West Virginia field, the production has been cut 30 per cent.

This reduction indicates the spread of the strike activity among non-union miners, on which the progressive elements in the United Mine Workers' of America have been especially relying for a final victory over the operators.

Even before the lockout took place, the progressives especially emphasized the necessity of organizing the unorganized miners, and of bringing them out in sympathy with the union miners.

Resist Wage Cut.

Under very adverse circumstances, union miners, filibering thru the non-union fields have convinced a portion of the former union men and others mining coal in non-union fields that the smashing of the U. M. W. would be only a step towards a further reduction of wages, both in northern and southern coal fields.

The first week of the suspension saw a 4,000,000 ton production decrease for the entire country. This figure includes the outlying districts in which most of the operators are mining coal under tentative contracts. The weekly production has fallen off gradually ever since, according to reports to the government.

Washington Pioneers Will Enter Y. W. L.

A concert will take place in Washington, D. C., at 1337 Seventh Street, N. W., Sunday, April 24th at 8 o'clock to celebrate the graduation of three Pioneers into the Young Workers Communist League. This day will be of great significance. It means that the three have reached that stage when they are capable of carrying greater responsibilities in the revolutionary movement.

WORKERS! PROTEST AGAINST DEATH OF SACCO and VANZETTI!

COLDBLOODED MURDER!

Chang Tso-lin soldiers executing a Chinese labor leader while American and British troops look exultingly on.

RUSH MADEIROS TOWARDS DEATH AS SACCO, VANZETTI APPEALS POUR IN BOSTON, April 21.—Black clouds hanging over the head of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, loomed rapidly over the horizon today.

Celestino Madeiros was sent to the death house at Charlestown prison, to be electrocuted next week. Madeiros has confessed that he took part in the South Braintree payroll murder for which Sacco and Vanzetti were sentenced to death. His confession pointed certainly to the Morelli gang of Providence as the men who murdered the two payroll guards seven years ago.

Death to Close His Mouth

Granted two reprives by Governor Fuller, Madeiros was refused a third. Thus the leading witness who can prove the two Italian workers innocent is to be done to death without an opportunity to tell a court of commission that he and his gang are the South Braintree payroll murderers.

Friends of Sacco and Vanzetti were struck with fear when Governor Fuller refused to prolong the life of Madeiros.

It may mean that Fuller has made up his mind that Sacco and Vanzetti must die.

Madeiros' case is an apt illustration of Bay State justice. A confessed murderer, he was granted a retrial where Sacco and Vanzetti, innocent, have been denied a shadow of justice. Overcome with remorse when saw Mrs. Sacco and her children sitting his fellow prisoner, he confessed, implicating the Morelli gang although unwilling to mention them by name.

The deluge of appeals continued today to swamp Governor Fuller's office. The Belgian Federation of Labor, representing 600,000 workers, a dozen Tampa cigar factories, 381 students of Mt. Holyoke College, the Workers School of Springfield, Mass., San Francisco and Everett, Wash., Central Labor Councils, the Central Labor Council of Toulon, France, the liberal club of the University of Chicago and scores of individuals and groups joined in appeals for freedom or a review of the case.

Sacco-Vanzetti Meet At the Labor Temple Tonight, at 8 O'clock

A conference of the Sacco-Vanzetti Emergency Committee will be held tonight, 8 o'clock at the Labor Temple, 243 East 84th Street to decide on the question of calling a national conference to help save the lives of Sacco and Vanzetti and to act on the question of a general strike. All trade unions, fraternal and other labor organizations should be represented.

THE ATTACK ON THE LEFT WING

1.—Fur and garment workers crowd 10 large halls, including Cooper Union, and Manhattan Lyceum in gigantic protest against jailing of Ben Gold on framed-up charges and the lockout of 12,000 fur workers who refuse to join company union of the bosses.

2.—Supreme Court Justice Tierney grants application of manufacturers for injunction restraining members of the Joint Board of the Cloak and Dressmakers' Union from picketing.

3.—Ben Gold, on witness stand in trial of himself and 10 other leaders of Fur Workers' Union, reveals details of blackmail scheme against him by Bernard Basoff, stool pigeon used against defendants.

20,000 WORKERS ANSWER BOSSES' FURRIER LOCKOUT

Cheer Letter from Gold; Denounce Injunction

More than 20,000 needle-trades workers jammed ten large down-town halls, including Cooper Union and Manhattan Lyceum last night and expressed their solidarity with Ben Gold, and the 10 other leaders of the Furriers' Union now on trial on a fake "assault" charge at Mineola, and cheered lustily a resolution declaring that they would refuse to be stampeded into the company unions being concocted by the American Federation of Labor, with the aid of the bosses.

On the heels of the lockout of the 1,200 fur workers in 53 shops by the Associated Fur Manufacturers in an effort to smash the Joint Board of the union and to give control to the right wing who were deposed during the last strike, a sweeping injunction was granted yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Tierney against the Joint Board of the cloak and dressmakers' union. The order will attempt to restrain the further picketing of the shops of the manufacturers.

A Finish Fight.

At the meetings last night speaker after speaker was cheered as he urged the workers to fight to a finish the most recent offensive of the right wing officials of the bosses.

"We must defend our union and the conditions achieved through struggle." This was the keynote of the message which Ben Gold, leader of the fur workers, sent to the thousands who attended last night's meetings.

Message From Gold.

From his cell in the Mineola jail, where he is being held without bail (a notorious procedure), Gold urged that "thousands of workers join the striking pickets. Organize and unite your ranks as you did during the period of the general strike. We send you our hearty greetings and hopes for a successful struggle and sure victory."

Speaking at Cooper Union, Louis Hyman, manager of the Joint Board of the cloak and dressmakers' union, characterised the injunction granted against the union as the last frantic attempt of the employers to smash the workers' organization.

Courts A Last Resort.

"The fact that the Association of Dress Manufacturers had to apply for an injunction is the best answer to the false statements of the Sigman machine that the International controls the dressmakers.

Speakers at the protest meetings

(Continued on Page Five)

Ruthenberg's Ashes Are In Moscow; Met by Minor And William D. Haywood

MOSCOW, April 21.—The American Communists in Moscow, headed by Robert Minor and "Big Bill" Haywood will today accompany the funeral urn containing the remains of Charles E. Ruthenberg, General Secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party, in the procession to the Kremlin.

The remains of Ruthenberg will be interred in the wall of the Kremlin facing Red Square.

AMERICA AND OTHER POWERS UNITE TO SEIZE SOVIET UNION AMBASSY; CHIANG MURDERS SEAMEN'S LEADER

Nationalist Forces Reviewed at Wuchang; Preparatory to Advance on Nanking

Shanghai Traitors Dined by Capitalists; Unite With War Lord Sun Chuan-fang

1.—Americans, British, French, Italians and Japanese in international imperialist force which takes possession of Soviet Union embassy at Peking.

2.—Chiang Kai Shek reported forming open alliance with war lord Sun Chuang-fang.

3.—Traitor Chiang murders over hundred labor leaders, including head of Seamen's Union.

4.—Tang Shen-tsi, Nationalist commander, ordered to move on Nanking.

5.—Stalin advises Communists to stay in Kuomintang as revolution enters new stage.

• • •

PEKING, April 21.—A detachment of American marines and the forces of other protocol powers under the command of Col. Little of the United States marine corps, took possession of the embassy compound of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics today.

American marines scaled the walls and smashed open the western gate with sledge hammers. This is interpreted here as practically a declaration of war on the Soviet Union by the imperialist powers acting in concert.

The Soviet Union embassy compound was raided two weeks ago by agents of Chang Tso Lin, Manchurian war lord, with the full consent of the imperialist powers. Soviet Union officials were arrested and maltreated and money and valuable documents were confiscated.

It was reported yesterday that the Peking government had refused the request of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics for the release of the arrested officials.

Chiang Joins War Lords.

SHANGHAI, April 21.—Reports from Nanking state that Chiang Kai Shek is forming an open alliance with the northern war lords.

The reports state that Chiang has appointed Sun Chuan-fang, British-subsidized war lord, "Southern Defense Commissioner."

Execute Labor Leaders.

The execution of six labor leaders, including the head of the militant Seamen's Union, at Pei Chuan-hai's headquarters at Lunghua, brings the total of left wing and labor leaders put to death by Chiang Kai Shek to more than 100. It is reported that 200 more are being held by the right wing leaders.

Chiang's Staff at Shanghai was entertained at luncheon Tuesday afternoon by native bankers and industrialists who are reported to be subsidising his war against workers and peasants' unions.

Prepare For Drive.

A large demonstration and military parade was held yesterday at Wuchang, across the Yangtze from Hankow. The paraders were addressed by Tang Seng-tsi, associate commander-in-chief of the Nationalist armies, who has been ordered to march against Chiang Kai Shek. The meeting is regarded as a prelude to a drive against Chiang and the northern war lords.

Feng Preparing.

General Feng, commander-in-chief of the Nationalist armies, is said to be preparing his armies for movement south to Hankow where they will join the other Nationalist forces.

• • •

Stalin Cautions Chinese.

MOSCOW, April 21. — Joseph Stalin, leader of the Communist Party, has declared that Chinese Communists must remain within the Nationalist Party. He states that the time is not ripe for forming workers', peasants' and soldiers' soviets built on Russian lines.

"In the first place, soviets can't be formed at a moment's notice. Such tactics would give the enemy the opportunity of charging that China has not had a Nationalist revolution but is being subjected to artificial transplantation of the Moscow Soviet system," he said.

Stalin declared that the latest events show that the Chinese revolution has passed the first period of a united national front and it is now clearly a revolt of the workers and peasants.

WORKERS! PROTEST AGAINST DEATH OF SACCO and VANZETTI!

PRIESTS LED IN MASS MURDER ON MEXICAN TRAIN

'Long Live Christ, King' Answers Death Shrieks

MEXICO CITY, April 21. — The Mexican bandits who burned 187 passengers to death by locking them in a train bound from Guadalajara to Mexico City, and then setting the train on fire, were led by priests, and were armed with American rifles, presumably purchased after Washington had opened the border to arms smuggling by denouncing the Mexican-American treaty. This was the statement of Mexican survivors. American business men on the train were carefully saved, while the Mexican travelers were horribly murdered, says an American doctor, among the survivors.

After setting fire to the train, the clerical bandits rode away, responding to the agonized cries of their victims, burning to death in the locked passenger coaches, with cries of "Viva Cristo Rey" (Long live Christ, the King)—the war cry of the Catholic rebellion in Mexico.

Recognized Priests.

Senor Garcia, a Mexican passenger, declares he recognized the two priests, Gonzales and Vaga, apparently leading the rebels. Garcia paid great tribute to the soldiers killed defending the train.

The rebels took 200,000 pesos from the express cars of the train and all but seventeen mail pouches were carried off.

Saved U. S. Capitalists.

The bandits made no attempt to injure the seven American business men passengers on the train, but, on the contrary, showed them the greatest consideration and evinced anxiety for their safety, according to survivors of the raid who arrived here today.

Dr. Henry Dock, an American resident of Guadalajara, who was one of the survivors of the raid, told a vivid tale of the affair on his arrival here today and declared that care had been taken that no harm came to the American passengers.

Rich Survive.

"There were seven Americans aboard the train, but none of them were injured," Dr. Dock said. "They were shown all consideration and the rebels showed anxiety for their safety.

"Pullman passengers generally escaped, including Dr. Mestre Ghiliazza, director of public charities and the national lottery.

"The first and second class passengers were less fortunate.

"When we were about 100 kilometres away from Guadalajara and had been on the road three hours the engine of our train was derailed and turned over. The rebels opened fire from the side of the tracks. Indescribable confusion reigned.

Soldiers Defend.

"The first volley from the rebels was ineffective. Perhaps they hoped

(Continued on Page Three)

Banks and Railroads Aid Insurance Holdup

Past Events of Insurance Expose.

This is the eleventh of a series of thirty articles exposing the fraud of "industrial" (weekly payment) life insurance. Previous articles have dealt with the methods employed by the "Big Four" in misusing "mutual" assets to the benefit of the banks which operate hand in glove with this powerful combine. The "Big Four" is composed of the Metropolitan, Prudential, John Hancock and the Colonial Life Insurance Companies. Names prominent in financial and government circles have figured largely in the series.—Charles Evans Hughes, Governor Smith, Supt. of Insurance James A. Beha, Charles M. Schwab and Alanson B. Houghton are among those present.

(Copyrighted by The DAILY WORKER, 1927.)

By CHARLES YALE HARRISON

ARTICLE XI.

To the uninitiated the question occurs, "If the 'Big Four' are mutual companies, and there is no wholesale theft of assets by the directors, where does the swindle arise?" In this article evidence will be adduced to show the interests of the "mutual" weekly-payment policyholders, and those of the high-finance Wall Street directors are in direct opposition to each other.

Following the Armstrong Insurance Investigation in 1905, the public began clamoring for the mutualization of life Insurance companies. It was argued that the insuring of lives was a public service of great social significance, and that the attendant accumulation of great sums of public money in the hands of hard-boiled manipulators was a menace to the economic life of the country.

To Sell and Keep!

Came the day when the "yellow dog" directors reasoned thus: why continue as privately owned corporations and thus invoke the wrath of a defrauded public? Would it not be wiser if we were to "sell" our interests to the policyholders, taking the payment price from the assets, and still retain our seats on the directorates and still continue to manipulate the "reserves" and "assets"? In this manner two birds will be slaughtered with one projection of financial reasoning.

So the mutualization of the "Big Four" began. The capitalistic press hailed the move as benevolent and far-seeing. The then superintendent of Insurance beamed and declared that "a new day had dawned for the insurance business". All this happened in 1915. The old stockholders dipped a hungry hand into "the necessary 'reserve' which is required to insure payments to policyholders in the event of epidemics." The old boards of directors elected themselves to the fattest, cushiest jobs they could lay hands on. The insurance business secured a new lease of life. A life free from the prying eyes of a suspicious public.

Hughes Gets Job.

Charges Evans Hughes attended insurance company luncheons and dinners and loosed streams sugary, panegyric, about the selflessness of life insurance corporations now disguised as "mutual" companies. The press saw nothing ludicrous in the sight of the late insurance investigator now hobnobbing with his erstwhile "foes."

But Charles Evans Hughes was no longer outside looking in—he was acting as counsel for the Equitable Life Insurance Company. The odor of the fleshpots smelled sweet to the ex-investigator's nostrils.

The Insurance companies let loose on a fury of uplift. "Service" became the slogan and watchword. "Free" nursing service was given to the bewildered policyholders, who were so amazed at this burst of benevolence that they failed to notice that the cost of their insurance already too excessive in price) was being jacked up.

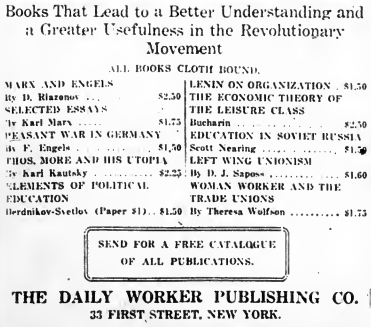
Haley Fiske became president of the Metropolitan—he was second vice-president under the old regime.

On assuming office he issued an encyclical letter to his underling agents that henceforth the company must be referred to as "Mother Metropolitan."

Slingy Step-Mother.

Said he, "Your Mother Metropolitan is a sweet, kind Mother to her agents and clerks." In those days clerks at the home office were getting $10 per week. Today twelve and fifteen dollars is a good week's pay. Sounds more like a step-mother!

To the outsider all this motherliness may sound like so much slop. But the officials of the "Big Four" go in for the new uplift and all its attendant hokum. To this day Haley Fiske in opening his annual managers conventions leads off by calling them "my children. . . ."



But uplift or no uplift, hardness is business. "The Big Four" assets were pyramiding. Now that the weekly payment life insurance companies are no longer soulless corporations but nice big brothers to their policyholders, everybody may therefore rejoice in a friendly spirit of mutuality.

Same Situation.

But when the festivities are over, these facts still persist: The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has hundreds of millions invested in public utilities and railroads. Take for example Frederick H. Ecker, who pinch hits for Haley Fiske as the first executive at number One, Madison Avenue.

Mr. Ecker is a director of the following corporations in which the Metropolitan Life invests most of its "Mutual" funds:

Chase National Bank
Chicago Eastern RR
Cincinnati & Western RR
Denver & Rio Grande RR

Books That Lead to a Better Understanding and a Greater Usefulness in the Revolutionary Movement

ALL BOOKS CLOTH BOUND.

MARX AND ENGELS
By D. Riazonov	$2.50
SELECTED ESSAYS
By Karl Marx	$1.75
PEASANT WAR IN GERMANY
By F. Engels	$1.50
THOS. MORE AND HIS UTOPIA
By Karl Kautsky	$2.25
ELEMENTS OF POLITICAL EDUCATION
Berdnikov-Svetlov (Paper $1) ..	$1.50
LENIN ON ORGANIZATION ..	$1.50
THE ECONOMIC THEORY OF THE LEISURE CLASS
Bucharin	$2.50
EDUCATION IN SOVIET RUSSIA
Scott Nearing	$1.50
LEFT WING UNIONISM
By D. J. Saposs	$1.60
WOMAN WORKER AND THE TRADE UNIONS
By Theresa Wolfson	$1.75

SEND FOR A FREE CATALOGUE OF ALL PUBLICATIONS.

THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
33 FIRST STREET, NEW YORK.

400 Plumbers Are Back At Work With All Their Demands Granted Them

Victory for almost 400 of the striking plumbers of Brooklyn was announced yesterday with all of their demands granted. They are $14 a day and the five day week. The workers are back at their jobs today following meetings with the bosses in Lenduth Hall, Waverly and Myrtle Aves.

Helpers Prepare.

C. E. Miller, president of the American Association of Plumbers' Helpers, said last night that they are preparing to organize the helpers throughout the city in preparation for the threatened lock-out.

John Dewey to Speak At Anti-Legion Meet

PHILADELPHIA, April 21.—John Dewey, psychologist and author, of Columbia University, will be the principal speaker of the mass meeting held by the American Civil Liberties Union in the Stephen Girard Hotel auditorium, Philadelphia, Sunday at 3 p. m., "to expose the meddlesome tactics of the American legion in schools and colleges."

Other speakers, who will talk on the attack of the Bernard F. Schlegel Post of the American Legion against the West Chester State Normal School Liberal Club are Dr. Albert C. Barnes, of Merion, Pa., founder of the Barnes Foundation; a representative of the Willard Straight Post of the American Legion, New York City; and Professor Robert T. Kerlin, and John A. Kingsbury, of the National Liberal Club and were dismissed from the Normal School faculty. Congressman Hamilton Fish of New York announced that he was unable to attend the meeting but would send a statement.

Four Aviators Killed.

MELBOURNE, Australia, April 21.—Four aviators were killed today when two planes taking part in the official ceremonies welcoming the Duke and Duchess of York collided in mid-air. The accident took place just as the royal visitors reached Government House.

Indiana & Illinois RR
Interborough Rapid Transit
Pittsburgh Terminal
St. Louis & San Francisco RR
Western-Pacific RR
Wheeling & Lake Erie RR

The total amount of "mutual" Metropolitan money invested and deposited with the above corporations of which Mr. Ecker is interested is $48,566,000.00. In addition to earning whatever he makes as an investment genius between the spring of 1915 and 1925, the Metropolitan Life pays him $125,000 per year for his services as vice-president.

When will the 24 million policyholders of the Metropolitan Life become aware of the fact that the interests which Mr. Ecker serves and their own are in contradistinction to each other?

Let us now impale Mr. Albert H. Wiggin upon the lance of our publicity. Mr. Wiggin is one of those shy, retiring Wall Street buccaneers who detests the limelight. He prefers to work in the dark; somehow or other knowledge of his operations mitigates against success.

Mr. Wiggin is on the Metropolitan board of directors for the following reasons:

Chase National Bank
Adams Express
American Locomotive
American Railway Express
American Securities
Chase Securities
Delaware Light & Power Co.
Franklin Securities
Great Fall Power Co.
Greenwich Savings Bank
Hudson & Manhattan RR
Lawyers Title & Trust Co.
Montana Power Co.
N. Y. Rapid Transit
Pacific Coast RR
Pittsburg Utilities
Western Union Telegraph
Westinghouse Electric
Southern Express Co.

In addition to giving Mr. Wiggin the privilege of looking after some of its investments the Metropolitan pays him $880 a year or $16.84 per week for acting as a director.

Robert W. deForrest, another Metropolitan director, is tied up with:

Lehigh & Hudson RR
Niagra Fire Ins. Co.
Nat'l Employment Exchange
Title Guarantee
Russell Sage Foundation

One could go on indefinitely showing the nests of corporations which are intimately linked with the directors of the "Big Four." Banks, railroads, security companies, and public utilities of any prominence are all interwoven in this general scheme to defraud and swindle the 40 million weekly payment policyholders who are victimized by this gigantic holdup.

Many of the corporations listed above are the most notorious union-smashing organizations in this country. For many years they have controlled the Western Union, the Montana Power Company, a subsidiary of the ill-famed Anaconda Copper Company, whose gunmen killed and wounded 23 pickets during a strike in 1921.

How long will the American worker-insurer tolerate this gigantic fraud which operates in a vicious circle that perpetuates his slavery?

DEATH TOLL IN RECORD FLOOD REACHES SIXTY

ST. LOUIS, April 21.—Though it has not reached the crest, the greatest Mississippi River flood in history already has taken a toll of 60 dead, 300 injured, made more than 50,000 homeless and caused property damage estimated at approximately $25,000,000 according to official totals here today.

Waters Still Rise

Flood waters today are rapidly spreading out over the entire St. Francis basin, and hopes of repairing the main Mississippi levee near New Madrid, Mo., have been abandoned. The levee at that point has been swept away for a distance of ten miles.

Clarendon, Ark., where the crumbling White River levee sent the turbulent waters flowing into the town at a speed of 40 miles an hour, was under 15 feet of water today. Clarendon's streets were canals and scores of houses were reported to have been washed away. The town's 3,000 population fled to the hills.

Medical authorities of Arkansas and Missouri are rushing vaccines, supplies and manpower to the refugee centers to check any outbreaks of disease.

Some cases of measles and mumps have been reported and with the concentration points hourly increased in numbers of refugees, fear of contagion is felt.

Thousands Homeless

The main barrier at Scott, Miss., crushed before a torrent, sweeping a wall of water into a dozen counties in the delta section of the state of Mississippi, and adding thousands to the huge number of homeless.

The known death toll mounted to 22 today with the death of a negro workman, who was drowned near Scott when the levee gave way. Three other Negroes went to the bottom of the raging torrent in the same manner.

The 14-year-old daughter of James Ross was drowned at Paragould, Ark., and E. Rainwater, 14, was drowned near Moreliton, Ark.

Refugees in Arkansas have been kept almost constantly on the move the past 24 hours, according to reports. Following the break in the levee of the White River at Clarendon, 2,000 persons fled from that city when water one to 15 feet filled their homes.

These refugees went chiefly to Brinkley but they were advised to move even further from the flooded section and an appeal was sent out for 1,000 tents to be used in that section.

Arkansas Hard Hit

Arkansas is probably the hardest hit section in the flood-torn territory, at Jonesboro, 700 additional refugees have just arrived and 3,000 more are expected from Craighead, Poinsett and Mississippi. Red Cross relief workers there reported if the situation becomes more serious, mass feedings soon will be necessary.

Seven companies of Missouri National guardsmen have been called out, by Governor Baker to patrol the areas most affected by this state—Mississippi, Pemiscot and New Madrid counties.

National, state and local agencies were rushing relief to the stricken areas along the river from Illinois to the Gulf. Vaccines and other medical supplies were in particular demand because of the fear of an epidemic in the refugee camps.

L. N. S. Manager a Suicide

BREMEN, Germany, April 21.—As the result of a nervous breakdown, S. Dunbar Weyer, for the past six years manager of the International News Service Bureau in Berlin, shot and killed himself in a compartment on the Berlin-Bremen express early today.

Weyer was on his way to Bremen to embark for the United States. He was accompanied by H. R. Knickerbocker, Moscow correspondent of the International News Service who was to fill in for Weyer during his trip to America.

Marconi Is Silent.

ROME, April 21.—Senator Marconi on his arrival here tonight refused to discuss the Roman Rota's annulment of his first marriage. This evening Marconi joined the party of the crown prince and princess of Sweden and Lord Rothermere for a gala Eastern dinner at the Grand Hotel.

Weisbord and Dunne Speaking Tonight at Passaic Mass Meeting

PASSAIC, N. J., April 21.—A campaign rally for Albert Weisbord, Simon Smelkinson and Simon Bambach, the labor candidates for city commissioners will be held tonight at Ukranian Hall, President Street. The speakers will include Albert Weisbord, William F. Dunne, editor of The DAILY WORKER, Emil Gardos and others. The meeting will open 7.30 p. m.

All those who have election campaign subscription lists are urged to return them with donations at once to campaign headquarters, 27 Dayton Ave., Passaic, N. J.

New York's Water Front

News and Views of the Biggest World Port

UNITED FRUIT CO. WORKS MEN UNDER WORST CONDITION

The United Fruit Company exercises one of the most tyrannical methods of supervision and control of the workers in the Maine industry that any Wall Street controlled corporation can be found guilty of. This company is the leader in the importation of fruits and similar products such as coffee, etc.

The work in the industry at its best is very hard and exhausting being the connecting link between the source of the supply and its transportation into the United States and the freighting and shipping of the fruit or coffee or cocoa.

Working Conditions.

Working conditions on the docks and ships of the United Fruit Company are miserable.

The men commence work at 6:45 A. M. on the company's program, but in reality if the men are not down at the dock and at work ten minutes before this time they are either heavily fined or else fired before the job really begins. Most of the men are up at four or five in the morning waiting to get this work, which consists at this time of the year in unloading of the heavy bunches of bananas which arrive from Cuba and Central American ports. It is no rare sight to find a veritable mob of men of all nationalities around the empty docks piled into the empty freight cars, shivering and milling about waiting for their turn to slave away the day from four in the morning to six thirty, when the foremen come around to pick their men.

Do they get these jobs then, by rotation or some other such method. Nothing of the kind, regardless of the fact that they have been waiting all morning and that some of the weaker men have even gone to the extent of getting in the ovens which are provided for the heating of the freight cars by the company, that the cargo may not spoil.

Hardboiled Foremen.

The foremen then choose the men whom they feel will do the most work or else pick their personal friends from out of the hungry, cold mob.

As to the actual working conditions these are of the worst type imaginable on any longshore work whatsoever. The work is by no means steady. Four or five hours in the slow season and ten hours a day in the busy season. There is never more than an average of four days a week. When the men do work ten hours they work at a fierce pace without stopping to rest or eat. If you are caught eating, the foreman will fine you anything from fifty cents to half of your wages, and you got no kick coming and no damned chance to kick if you want to.

If you do raise hell about it, and you are unable to protect yourself against the strong arm tactics of the foremen who are specially selected for this kind of work, you are in for a heck of a bad beating and then getting fired afterwards. The fire also holds good in the event that you are too tired to stand the average grind for a length of time.

When the longshoremen are not carrying bananas for the United Fruit Company they are carrying two hundred and fifty pound sacks of coffee all day, and when it isn't coffee its two hundred and seventy pound bags of cocoa beans—enough to breaks the average man's back if overdone, but it seems that the longshoremen that work for United Fruit are beasts of this quality in the eyes of the company.

Ford-Sapiro Case Ends in Mistrial; Frame-Up Charged

DETROIT, April 21.—The million dollar Ford-Sapiro libel case was thrown out of court today when Federal Judge Fred M. Raymond ordered a mistrial, discharged the jury and remanded the case for a new trial. The preliminary scenes to this action were featured by charges and counter-charges, in which the Ford attorneys charged that a woman on the jury had expressed prejudice in talking with newspaper reporters and the Sapiro forces declared the whole thing was a frame-up engineered by Ford agents because Ford feared the case would go against him.

Baron On Detroit.

Ford's immense wealth and the fact that he practically controls Detroit and all its institutions gives color to the Sapiro charge that the trial ended today in order to protect Henry Ford from keeping him off the witness stand. Many recalled the famous Chicago Tribune suit in which Ford was placed on the stand and under cross-examination proved to be one of the most ignorant men in the United States, having not the slightest knowledge of history or anything else except devising ways of getting an exorbitant amount of labor out of workers in his slave pens where he endeavors to standardize the workers as he does his flivvers that are turned out of his industries. At that time he made his one contribution to the gayety of nations with the observation that "History is Bunk."

Judge Plays Newspapers.

The judge declared the trial might have continued, "if it had not been for the newspapers which went so far as to intrude upon the duties of the court."

"It is unfortunate that any reporter or editor should so far forget his ethics as to intrude upon the court's functions," the court added. "These facts, though, make it impossible to make further progress with this trial."

"This intrusion of the newspapers exceeded any appreciation of the demands of justice," the court concluded. "Justice has been crucified upon the cross of sensational journalism. There will be no chance to make progress in future trials of this case unless justice is given the right of way over sensationalism. It is a terribly unfortunate experience for the court. It has set back the progress of justice for a long time. The court deplores it, but the court has no other choice but to allow the motion for a mistrial."

The judge than discharged the jury but ordered all subpoenaes in force for a new trial.

Machado, Murderer and Sugar Trust Puppet to Be Entertained by Cal

WASHINGTON, April 21. (FP)—President of Cuba, whose police agents are credited by the investigators for the Pan-American Federation of Labor with having murdered more than 100 labor union leaders in Cuba in the past 18 months, is to be given a pompous reception by the Coolidge administration when he comes to Washington April 22.

Trade unionists have formulated no plans for approaching him during his visit with either a petition for decent humanity toward the Cuban workers, or with a warning that the P. A. F. of L. will take steps to bring upon him the denunciation of organized workers in the other republics of the western hemisphere. Machado will be closely surrounded by police and detectives, and will be accessible only to known conservatives and reactionaries and the official set.

Bank Failure Brings Panic to Japanese

TOKYO, April 21.—Japan faced financial panic today. The failure of the Jugo-Bank of Tokyo, one of the five largest financial institutions in the empire, created great uneasiness throughout Japan. Numerous smaller banks have suspended. The Wakatsuki cabinet fell because of its attempt to bolster the tottering Bank of Formora. The new cabinet, inducted yesterday, is doing everything possible to stabilise conditions.

Injunction Hits N. J. Teamsters' Union

JERSEY CITY.—(FP)—April 21.—Another injunction hits teamsters and building trades workers of northern New Jersey. The writ, issued by vice chancellor Church, is an attempt to prevent unionization of 21 open shop firms.

Went Closed Shop.

The injunction is a counter move of employers against the vigorous drive that the teamsters and building trades unions have been making in the northern counties. Nearly all of the actual construction work is done by union labor but half the hauling and most of the building material work is non union. By an informal alliance recently formed between the various trades the construction workers have been discouraging the use of scab building materials and all goods hauled by non union teamsters and chauffeurs.

Most of the seven unions enjoined in the temporary writ—returnable April 26th—have already been enjoined by other firms. They are Local 560, teamsters; Local 139, Hudson County carpenters; the Intl. Brotherhood of steam and operating engineers and Locals 825 and 824 of that organization; also the flooring and Portable Engineers of New Jersey; the international iron workers union and their Bergen county board of business representatives. The open shop firms are: building supply, quarry and construction firms employing several thousand workers.

Read The Daily Worker Every Day.

Brooklyn Shoeworkers To Defend Their Union

The Shoe Workers Protective Union held a membership meeting last night at the Amalgamated Temple, 21 Arion Place, Brooklyn where plans for the preservation of the union were discussed.

It was disclosed that the bosses have forced strikes upon the Brooklyn shoe workers by a series of wage cuts. Tactics have employed thugs and private detective agencies to smash the strikes. Defense measures was adopted by the meeting.

ORDER
A copy for every Party Functionary

For every active Communist

THE PARTY ORGANIZER
First number of a new monthly, party organizational publication.
10 CENTS
$1.00 a year.
The WORKERS PARTY
1113 W. Washington Blvd.
CHICAGO, ILL.

Here's How

To greet the workers of the world The DAILY WORKER will print the names of individual workers and all working class organizations in its SPECIAL MAY DAY EDITION.

Here's How Much

Individual names will be printed at the rate of $1.00 per name. Organizations will be given a special rate of $1.00 per inch.

Here's When—

All greetings must be mailed at once to reach The DAILY WORKER before April 25. All greetings arriving later will be printed in following editions.

SEND GREETINGS TODAY

Super-Patriots Jilt By Professor Fired For "Radicalism"

WEST CHESTER, Pa., April 21.—"It is a semi-comic masterpiece—a hodgepodge of unsupported accusations." This is how Dr. Robert T. Karlin, recently discharged from the West Chester Normal School for "radicalism" described the report of the local American Legion which described the Liberal Club of the school as a "tool of Communistic and other radical organizations."

Karlin was fired together with Prof. A. Kinnerman at the behest of the local legionnaires.

Bailey to Speak.

The American Civil Liberties of New York who has stepped into the case has announced that Forrest Bailey, one of its directors, would address a public meeting in Philadelphia near here on Sunday and explain the stand of the organization.

Nearing and Sha Speak At Hartford Meeting

HARTFORD, Conn., April 21.—A meeting to demand hands off China will be held here Sunday afternoon, April 24, 2:30 p. m. at the Liberty Theater, North Main St. with Scott Nearing and S. Sha of the Kwomintang as the principal speaker.

The Citizens Anti-Imperialist Conference was formed at a conference called by the Swedish Workers' Club, Upholsterers' Union and the Mothers' Club. More than 1,000 people were represented.

BUY THE DAILY WORKER AT THE NEWSSTANDS

"Viva Christo Rey," Cry Clericals Killing 187

(Continued from Page One)

to intimidate our escort and compel us to surrender, but the soldiers in our escort quickly and efficiently distributed themselves at vantage points in the first and second class passenger cars and returned the fire of the rebels. Train lights were extinguished and we were in darkness, the lights being put out to make the train a more difficult target for the rebels, but a lively fusilade continued between the soldiers and the rebels.

"The unceasing hail of rebel bullets gradually cut down the soldiers, and two soldiers seeing that resistance was futile saved their lives by putting into civilian clothes they borrowed from passengers. The fire took place immediately after removal of the loot."

A heavy force of federal soldiers, under personal command of Minister of War Amaro, is today in pursuit of a rebel band numbering between 500 and 1,000, which held up a Mexico City train near Guadalajara, killing 187 persons.

An official communique, issued by Gen. Jose Alvarez, chief of staff to President Calles, said that most of the 135 passengers killed, had been burned to death or hacked to pieces with knives after the rebels had locked the doors of the coaches and set them on fire. The statement said that the screams of the terrified and tortured passengers could still be heard from the burning coaches when federal troops arrived on the scene, some time after the attack had opened.

Capture Fire Prisoners

DETROIT, April 21.—Five prisoners who escaped from the county jail at Dayton, O., last night were captured at Riverview, Mich., near here today.

WORKERS! PROTEST AGAINST DEATH OF SACCO and VANZETTI!

SPANIARD SHOWS FASCIST PLANS OF DE RIVERA

Mussolini's Friend Is Proved Conspirator

By JAR

(Written Especially for The DAILY WORKER)

MADRID, (By Mail)—In spite of the great efforts by the Imperialist Spanish press, to awake public opinion in favor of the Tangier problem at present discussed at the Paris Conference, the Spanish people have not the slightest interest in the question.

Primo de Rivera like Mussolini, uses the tactics of staging international scenes when his position at home is not very firm. The Tangier problem was staged last September when the artillery plot made everybody expect the end of Primo de Rivera's dictatorship.

The Right Time.

Abd-el-Krim's surrender, and consequently the apparent end of the Morocco war, was the reason why the Spanish colonists judged the moment convenient to develop the problem of a "Spanish Tangier." Primo de Rivera himself started international diplomacy and made public declaration explaining his position.

The following words taken out of one of his speeches, will clearly point out his point of view: "Europe and the whole world will not regain tranquility about Tangier nor clear the sky of this cloud, which is more menacing than it seems, as long as the administration and control of the city and the care of its bay and positions are not completely and definitely entrusted to Spain."

Supporting Mussolini's Policy.

Since the first day of his dictatorship, Primo de Rivera, maintained close relationship with Mussolini. Primo de Rivera's organ "LA NACION," has on many occasions said that Spanish Dictatorship sympathized entirely with Mussolini's policy and accordingly censorship does not allow us to publish any criticism against it.

Before attempting the question of Tangier Primo de Rivera was visited by well known Italian politicians, with whom he held many interviews.

Sign Secret Treaty.

Some days later it was known that a secret treaty had been signed with Italy. The fascist politician's visit to Spain had not only the purpose of preparing such treaty but what was more important, it resulted in an accord between both countries on the problem of Tangier.

Spain is acting on this question following those accords and relationships, and carrying out entirely what Italy thinks convenient. Both countries' imperialists have exactly the same aims; at present they work together on the Tangier problem; in the near future their aims may probably differ. Both governments also are carrying out a policy of cruel repression against the proletariat.

The African League.

The African League, (LIGA AFRICANISTA) organized since the beginning of the present century, represents the colonial feeling of the Spanish Monarchy. Since the 1923 coup d'etat, its policy has been favored because it coincides with Primo de Rivera's partisan aims.

At present, with entire freedom, under government control and sympathy, the League is developing an imperialist campaign all over the country. The League has lately published a book, in which Primo de Rivera, and General Jordana, Spanish delegate at the Paris Conference, have collaborated.

This book, in which France is violently attacked is a clear statement of the League's policy.

The Program.

The points wanted are the following:

1. The suppression of the Committee of control.

2. The members in future to be appointed, not as at present directly by the Sultan of Morocco, but by his Khalifa for the Spanish zone, and for a period of ten years.

3. The abolition of the post of Administrator, and the substitution of a Spanish Controller of Shereefian Affairs.

4. The reduction of the Legislative Assembly to the status of an international municipal council.

Wants Substitution.

5. The substitution for the mixed tribunals of Spanish judges, in which the judges would be assisted by representatives of the Foreign Powers.

6. The International Zone to be limited to the town area of Tangier.

7. The Gendarmerie to be merged into the existing Spanish Regiment of Military Police.

8. A complete reorganization of the Customs Services and the system of taxation.

General Indifference.

The Spanish colonist's activity strikes against the people's general indifference. The Spanish people have not the right interest on Primo de Rivera's opinion. The Spanish press does not in the least express public opinion.

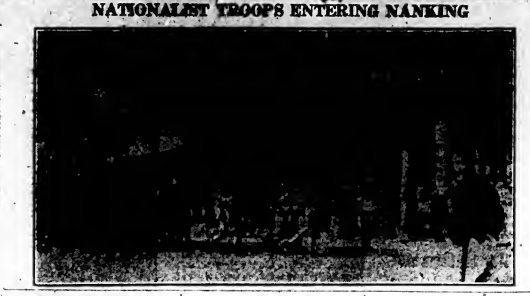
Open any Madrid newspaper, except the organ of the patriotic union and the two journals of the Right, who support the dictatorial regime,

DAILY WORKER
33 First Street,
New York, N. Y.

Inclosed is my contribution of

..... dollars ..... cents to the Rutheberg Sustaining Fund for a stronger and better DAILY WORKER and for the defense of our paper. I will pay the same amount regularly every .....

Name .....



Address .....

City .....

State .....

Attach check or money order.

NATIONALIST TROOPS ENTERING NANKING

CURRENT EVENTS

(Continued from Page One)

department in Washington had sent instructions to its agents in Mexico to engage in counter-revolutionary activities against the Mexican government. The alibi was that some reactionaries had forged the secretary of state's signature and filled in the rest. But now we learn that a military attache of the American embassy in Mexico has been invited to Washington to report on the theft of the documents from his office. The truth may get out before we are much older.

Committed to State Hospital

RIVERHEAD, N. Y., April 21.—Raymond Herzog, 31 years old, former principal of the elementary public school at Lake Ronkonkoma, who was indicted several months ago on a charge of impairing the morals of minors, was committed to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Matteawan, N. Y.

Rostov-on-the-Don Workers Mourn the Death of Ruthenberg

To the Editor of the Daily Worker,

I just received a letter from my sister who lives in Rostov-on-the-Don, in the south of Russia, in which among other things she writes about is the reaction of the workers to the news of the death of Comrade Ruthenberg. I think our comrades will be interested to know what the Russian workers in the remote sections of the country think about the loss which our party has sustained in the death of Comrade Ruthenberg. She writes as follows:

"As soon as the news of the death of Ruthenberg reached the city the local newspapers came out with black borders announcing his death and giving a biographical sketch of his life and work as well as telling the place which he occupied in the Communist movement in America and the International. Meetings are being arranged in the various Workers' clubs to hear of Comrade Ruthenberg and to express condolences to the American movement, on account of the untimely death of its leader. Portraits were taken from the newspapers, and all the Russian workers will not forget its dead comrade."

Being impressed with the interest shown by the Russian workers and not familiar with the status of the Communist movement in America, she adds:

"I imagine how grieved must be the American proletariat at such a loss."

It is true that at the present time only the advanced section of the American proletariat mourns the death of Comrade Ruthenberg. We are, however, certain that in the not distant future the entire working class of America will pay homage to one of the pioneers and revolutionary leaders of the American labor movement. Ruthenberg is already a part of the tradition and heritage of the American working class.

Alexander Trachtenberg.

There is nothing to indicate that the newspaper has any opinions; it has become a sort of inanimate newssheet, in which articles on abstract questions fill the columns. Even newspapers which support Primo de Rivera are only allowed comment in a favorable sense, and are at once censored if they criticize. As a result, there is no real expression of public opinion.

Against Dictator.

In the meanwhile, public opinion in each day more intensely against Primo de Rivera. It is almost impossible to find a person who will openly defend Rivera's dictatorship and his man.

The movement against the dictatorship of Primo de Rivera seems also to have permeated the antechamber of the Royal Palace. Increasingly alarmed by the discontent in the army and the country, those about King Alfonso, who have hitherto been united in the appreciation of the situation, are now united against the dictator.

This opposition explains the King's delay in signing the decree convoking the National Assembly. Although General Primo de Rivera is fighting with great tenacity to get the King's acquiescence of the decree, it still The Spanish colonists' activity awaiting the royal signature.

U. S. MARINES OPENLY ATTACK NICARAGUANS

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 21. United States marines are no longer confining their aid to the reactionary forces of the fake Diaz government, recently through establishing so-called neutral zones, but have now thrown off the mask of hypocrisy and are directly, side by side with the conservative forces, equipped with United States guns and munitions, shooting down supporters of the duly constituted government of President Sacasa.

Kill and Maim Workers.

Yesterday afternoon United States bluejackets shot into a peaceful meeting of workers near the village of Pozoltega, killing not less than three and wounding some twenty out of a total of fifty who had gathered for the meeting. It is understood the meeting was for the purpose of discussing advisability of a railroad strike to prevent future movements of reactionary troops.

At Chinandega a group of men, suspected of being supporters of the Sacasa government were fired upon by marines and conservative forces and two were killed and three wounded, while three conservatives are reported wounded.

Marines Guard Brigand.

Early yesterday morning a train with a gang of hired brigands in the pay of the Wall Street backers of the Diaz "government" were sent from Chinandega to Nagarote, under protection of a United States marine guard. When the train pulled into Nagarote the marines began firing with machine guns upon a group of liberal supporters assembled at the station, killing and wounding a considerable number. The United States officers in command of the marine guard explained that the "marine guard was sent for the protection of the train and not of the conservative troops." Nevertheless the marines were the ones who did the shooting.

Half Not Known

It is exceedingly difficult to get accurate information on the depredations that are being committed in Nicaragua by the armed forces of the United States, because marines are scattered throughout the country and endeavor viciously to suppress every semblance of protest against their imperialist ravages, and exercise censorship over news so that only those lies favorable to the invaders can be openly sent out of the country.

Coolidge-Hoover Break Is Not Healed In Spite Of Calvin's Statement

WASHINGTON, April 21. (FP)—Although President Coolidge has conveyed to the press through his mythical spokesman that he considers Herbert Hoover a man of great ability—fit for any cabinet post—he has failed to make amends for the slap he administered to his secretary of commerce on April 15. Not even the semi-silent breakfast given at the White House on Easter morning, when Secretary Mellon was welcomed home from Paris and Hoover was supposed to be the guest of honor, has healed the breach between Coolidge and the former food administrator.

The press conference has been told that Hoover's abilities are so well known that Coolidge could not, if he would, upset the Hoover reputation with the American public. However, the press has not been told that Hoover might, after all, be as eligible to the office of secretary of state as any lame duck senator or trust lawyer.

FLORA ANNA SKIN OINTMENT

for PIMPLES, BLACKHEADS, CHARGE SORES

freckles, rash, itching skin, eczema or stubborn skin trouble of any kind will be banished by use of FLORA ANNA SKIN OINTMENT, $1.00. Sold on money back guarantee.

NEW WAY LABORATORIES

276 West 43rd St. New York City

2½% of all sales are donated to The DAILY WORKER. Always mention The DAILY WORKER on your order.

Son In Moscow Says Feng Will Smash New Counter-Revolution

MOSCOW, April 21.—The son of Feng Hu-siang, who is attending Sun Yat Sen University here, predicts a "quick success" for his father who was yesterday appointed commander-in-chief of the Hankow armies, succeeding General Chiang Kai Shek.

The son of Chiang Kai-shek, who called his father a liar and traitor for his defection from the radical Nationalists, stood by shamefacedly and refused to comment on the possible outcome of the Chinese turmoil.

The son of Feng Hu-siang, who has adopted the Russian name of Binoff, said:

"I am extremely proud of my father. When he came to Moscow last year he did not know anything about class struggle. On the contrary, he believed all sorts of trash about Christianity, but he learned in Soviet Russia just what class struggle means.

"He learned all about it from a student at the Far Eastern University and who is now head of the political department of the Hankow government.

"My father has not fought lately because he was reorganizing his army which by this time probably exceeds fifty thousand men."

California Town Terrorized

PETALUMA, Cal., April 21.—One man was killed, five more persons reported wounded and the entire town terrorized when an unidentified man went amuck here today with a gun which he had just purchased at a hardware store. The man believed to be insane, barricaded himself in his house, held his reign of terror, and defied police.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, (CIRCULATION, ETC., REQUIRED BY THE ACT OF CONGRESS OF AUGUST 24, 1912.

Of The Daily Worker, published daily, except Sunday, at New York, N. Y., April 1, 1927.

State of New York, County of New York.

Before me, a Notary Public in and for the State and county aforesaid, personally appeared Rose Miller, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the Business Manager of The Daily Worker and that the following is to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management, etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 443, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are:

Publisher, The Daily Worker Publishing Co., 33 First First St., New York City.

Editor, Louis Engdahl and William F. Dunne, 33 First First St., New York City.

Managing Editor, Louis Engdahl.

Business Manager, Rose Miller, 33 First First St., New York City.

2. That the owners is: If owned by a corporation, its name and address must be stated and also immediately thereunder the names and addresses of its individual owners must be given. If owned by a firm, company, or other unincorporated concern, its name and address, as well as that of each individual member, must be given. The Daily Worker Publishing Co., 33 First First St., New York City; Louis Engdahl, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.; Max Bedacht, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.; Rose Miller, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.; Alex Bittelman, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.; James P. Cannon, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: (If there are none, so state.) None.

4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

5. That the average number of copies of each issue of this publication sold or distributed, through the mails or otherwise, to paid subscribers during the six months preceding the date shown above is 26,119.

6. This information is required from daily publications only.

ROSE MILLER, Business Manager

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 28th day of March, 1927.

J. PHILIPS, Notary Public

(SEAL)

(My commission expires March 30, 1928.)

APRIL 23

Is Lenin's Birthday

SEND A LENIN BIRTHDAY PACKAGE To Another Worker You Know

Or the occasion of the Birthday of our Leader (April 23, 1870) a special Lenin Birthday Package has been made

AT LOWER PRICES.

To use this day to acquaint a greater number of workers with the principles of Lenin.

Every worker can afford to buy at least one package for this purpose.

We will mail it to you to give to your shopmate or the brother in your union. If you wish—we will mail it to any address you give.

NOTE

Orders for single books at regular prices only.

OFFER NO. 1

Lenin, His Life and Work
By J. Yaroslavsky... $ .35
Lenin, the Great Strategist
By A. Losovsky... .10
Lenin and the Trade Union Movement
By A. Losovsky... .25
Lenin, Liebknecht and Luxemburg
By Max Shachtman... .15
Theory and Practice of Leninism
By I. Stalin... .35
Leninism vs. Trotskyism
By Stalin-Kamenev-Zinoviev... .10
Postage... .80
Total $1.20

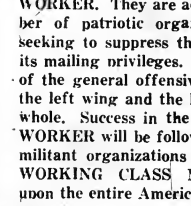
ALL FOR $1.00

OFFER No. 2

Books by Lenin

On the Road to Insurrection... $ .20
Infantile Sickness—or Leftism in Communism... .10
Imperialism—Final Stage of Capitalism
In one book as originally English edition... .80
Total $1.20

ALL FOR $1.00



A Bronze Medallion of Lenin
(Reproduced above)
Selling at one dollar will be sent for fifty cents IF INCLUDED with offer No. 1 or No. 2.

Separate orders for medallion at regular price only. ($1.00.)

Offer No. 1 and No. 2, and the Bronze Lenin Medallion all for

$2.50

THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
33 First Street,
New York, N. Y.

Show Your Fighting Spirit

The employers are attacking The DAILY WORKER. They are acting through a number of patriotic organizations. They are seeking to suppress the paper by revoking its mailing privileges. The attack is a part of the general offensive against our party, the left wing and the labor movement as a whole. Success in the case of The DAILY WORKER will be followed by attacks on all militant organizations of labor, upon ALL WORKING CLASS NEWSPAPERS, and upon the entire American working class.

We must meet this attack with the right Bolshevik spirit. We must meet it with the same firmness and determination which Comrade Ruthenberg showed when under attack. Our answer must be a powerful mobilization of our forces behind The DAILY WORKER.

The immediate need of the hour is money for the defense, for lawyers, witnesses, and other court expenses. Our case must be defended against the legal talent employed by the full resources of the government.

This is a plain statement of our case. We expect a plain and unmistakable reply from every supporter and sympathizer of The DAILY WORKER, and particularly from Party members, upon whom falls the main responsibility for its defense. This reply must take the form of funds contributed with all possible speed, and sent to The DAILY WORKER. Every available dollar must be put behind the fight for the life of our paper. Act at once. Get others to do the same.

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
Daily, Except Sunday
26 First Street, New York, N. Y. Phone, Orchard 1680

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail (in New York only): $8.00 per year $4.50 six months $2.50 three months
By mail (outside of New York): $6.00 per year $3.50 six months $2.00 three months

Address all mail and make out checks to THE DAILY WORKER, 26 First Street, New York, N. Y.

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM P. DUNNE ..... Editors
BERT MILLER ..... business Manager

Entered as second-class mail at the post-office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Advertising rates on application.

Workers and Farmers! Stop War on China and the Soviet Union

The imperialist powers in China, falling to provoke the Soviet Union into a declaration of war against the bandit gang of Chang Tso-Lin who raided buildings in the compound of the Soviet legation two weeks ago, have made a second assault upon the legation at Peking. This time it is a band of international hooligans, composed of five Americans, five English, five Japanese, five Italians and five French, under command of Col. Little, of the United States marine corps, who used sledge hammers to break open gates of the compound and forcibly occupy it.

Imperialist arrogance can go no further and the imperialists are arrogant because they know that the Soviet Union would sacrifice even the lives of its representatives rather than fall into the trap set by the imperialists and their tool, Chang Tso-Lin. It is not that the Soviet Union, with its Red Army, impatient at inaction in the face of the imperialist provocation, is not able to fight. But, unlike the imperialist nations, the Soviet Union, does not make even such deliberate insults the pretense for war.

It is to be noted that, according to recent dispatches, Chang Tso Lin has executed 14 members of the Kuomintang arrested IN THE BRITISH CONCESSION . This is evidence that Britain insists on the inviolability of her concession only when enemies of the liberation movement take shelter there. Provocative tactics are being used on the Western frontier of the Soviet Union as well, and Bucharest dispatches tell of the massing of Roumanian troops on the Bessarabian frontier.

The flagrant vandalism in Peking is only the latest of a series of provocative acts, deliberately staged in an effort to embroil the Soviet government in a Chinese war so that the forces now in China can be supplemented and endeavor to hurl armed forces into Russian territory from Manchuria and Mongolia, while the servile governments of the European nations bordering Russia invade Soviet territory from the West.

Just as the former provocation failed, so this latest attempt will fail. But the very attempt should arouse the workers of the imperialist nations involved to a realization that their governments are capable of any foul act in an effort to provoke war.

The imperialist powers believe that this is the time to strike. They believe that the treason of Chiang Kai Shek and the propaganda and murder campaign against Communists, the labor unions and the peasant organizations has demoralized the mass support of the Chinese liberation movement and the Soviet sufficiently to enable a successful offensive to be launched.

This is not the time to argue as to the correctness or otherwise of these imperialist beliefs. What is needed now is one huge concerted effort by all haters of imperialist war that will halt the bloody plot of these mass murderers.

Realizing that their governments will resort to any enormity the class conscious workers of America, Britain, France, Italy and Japan must throw all their energy into a struggle against the imperialist conspiracies against China and the Soviet Union.

An attempt to extend the war against China and invade the territory of the Soviet Union should be answered with revolutionary challenges to the imperialist brigands; in Japan, England and the Continental European countries the general strike as a first step toward insurrection; in the United States agitation for transportation strikes to prevent the shipmen of munitions and instruments of war to the imperialist battle front.

Stop the imperialist war!
Workers and Farmers! Force the government to repudiate this imperialist plot.
Hands Off the Chinese Liberation Movement.
Hands Off the Chinese Labor Unions and Peasant Unions.
Hands Off the Soviet Union!
Stop this threatened slaughter before it is too late!

Smash This Infamous Conspiracy Against Militant Trade Union Men!

The Furriers' Union and the leaders who headed the strike struggle which resulted in obtaining the 40-hour week of which President Green boasted at the Detroit convention of the American Federation of Labor, are now the victims of the most despicable conspiracy in trade union history.

Ben Gold and 10 other officers and members of the local unions supporting the New York Joint Board are on trial in Mineola—a notorious Ku Klux Klan community—and are confronted with alleged evidence of "assault"—the prosecutor's term for pickeling—which it is plain to anyone familiar with the case has been furnished by the "Special Committee"—Woll, Frayne and McGrady—appointed by President Green of the American Federation of Labor.

Ben Gold and his fellow defendants are being tried for hostility to the efficiency unionism policy of the A. F. of L. and their refusal to smirch their records as union men with endorsement of this policy.

If anyone doubts this statement let him spend a day in the Mineola court room and listen to the oft-repeated question hurled at defense witnesses by the prosecution: "Has not your union been expelled by the A. F. of L."

The testimony of Greeve, a detective who arrested two of the militant furriers, to the effect that he spent two hours in the Sigman-Schachtman headquarters "working on the case of the whole eleven" defendants is decisive in making clear the connection between the Civic Federation—headed by Matthew Woll—the Sigman-Schachtman right wing, the Mineola prosecution and the A. F. of L. committee.

We have said it before and we repeat it again that the Mineola case is without precedent in the American labor movement—the highest union officials working hand in hand with employers, detectives and prosecuting attorneys in an attempt to jail union men who scored one of the outstanding victories for labor in 1926.

We have been accused many times of specializing in invective to the exclusion of argument but now we freely admit that we are at a loss for words to characterize adequately the actions of Green, Woll, Frayne, Sigman, Schachtman and company, assisted to the best of their ability by socialist officialdom.

There is one reply, however, that can be made and for which words are not necessary. Every worker who hates and despises stoolpigeonism in the labor movement can respond to the appeal of the Joint Defense Committee of Furriers and Cloakmakers and answer the conspirators who plot to imprison militant union men for carrying on union activities honestly and efficiently, with dollars.

Every cent given for defense of these workers, every kind of support given to the locked out furriers, will be a blow directed at an infamous conspiracy at the memory of which the American labor movement will soon hang its head in shame.

Chicago Politics in Prose and Picture

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

THE recent campaign in Chicago, which will probably give a clearer picture of the political mentality of the majority of Chicago's hundred percent voters than the most learned theses that ever dripped from the pen of a social psychologist.

The outstanding feature of this contest between Tweedledee Dever and Tweedledum Thompson was the obscene lengths to which both went in their efforts to use the Negro question in the mad scramble for the privilege of looting the city of Chicago for the next four years.

It is no credit to Thompson that Dever's campaign managers sinned more baliously against the Negro than he did, because the ignorant Negro voters are traditional republicans, worship the shade of Abraham Lincoln and are led to believe that the election of a democrat would mean the resurrection of Jefferson Davis and the return of the overseers of slavery days. They have not yet realized that their race brothers and sisters are being lynched with impunity inside the confines of the federal jurisdiction of the United States, while a silent republican Cal looks on with neutral eye. They have not come to see the approach to similarity between the brutal lash wielder of the southern cotton plantations to the stockyards foreman in Chicago, whose lash is the threat of dismissal and the prospect of hunger on jobless slavemarket of modern capitalism to the Negro worker, unless he drives his weary body to produce as much profits for the beef packers as the beef packers think just and reasonable.

There are fifty thousand votes in the famous "black belt" of Chicago, as poor and dilapidated a residential district as ever the human eye rested on. It was for the votes of those poverty-haunted and hovel-living wage slaves that William Hale Thompson angled with promises he knew he could not fulfill and it was to catch the votes of the race-hatred-poisoned whites in the "white" wards that Dever's campaign managers flooded the city with the most vicious anti-Negro propaganda that an American community was ever insulted with. The pictures of the propaganda shown here tell the tale.

A clever piece of work. Thompson's slogan: "America First" and "Me First."

It is not necessary to deal here with the conduct of the labor bureaucracy. They were for sale as usual. Politics is a gamble to them. The leaders split, some of them supporting Dever and another faction supporting Thompson. Both were animated by the same motives; a share in the spoils of office. Both tried to prove to their followers that their particular candidate was a friend of labor. One set of labor fakers won. The other set lost. All the workers who voted for either lost. So much for the disgraceful part played by the "official" labor leaders in the election.

The leaders of the Negroes in the "black belt" played a similar role. Those shepherds of human lives also split, one faction supporting an independent republican candidate and the other and stronger faction supporting Thompson.

Negro communities thruout the country are agitated over the results of the election. The Thompson victory is generally acclaimed, few Negro publications to the contrary. Yet it is a safe prediction that the living conditions of the Chicago Negroes will not be a whit improved during the incumbency of Thompson. The present mayor chartered a steamer to take a party of his friends down the Mississippi for a holiday to celebrate the emancipation of Chicago from King George. The papers did not say whether Negro leaders were included among the guests.

The Negro vote in Chicago remained republican as usual. The only change in the situation was the overthrow of the old republican leader of the second ward: Edward Wright, who split with Robert E. Crowe, state attorney, and refused to support William Hale Thompson, Crowe's candidate. Wright lined with Fred Lundeen, a gentleman with K. K. K. tendencies, who entered Dr. John Dill Robertson against his former political bedmate, Thompson. Wright was appointed to the Illinois state commerce commission by Len Small and felt that he owed something to his friends. He supported Frank L. Smith at the slush fund hearings under the direction of Senator Reed and attracted considerable notoriety when he boasted from the stand in the hearing of Robert E. Crowe, that he was the Crowe organization on the near south side and would not tolerate any opposition among his lieutenants. Now this mighty man has fallen and more pliable bosses have taken his place, who will do their best to keep the Negroes in the capitalist fold for tha benefit of the employers of Chicago and the political bosses who still have a hold on their imaginations.

The Chicago election proves that the task of weaning away the Negroes from capitalist politics has barely begun. A heavy task lies in front of our Negro comrades and one that should be given the hearty support of the white workers who understand the tremendous role that will be played in the working class movement of this country by the ten millions of exploited and persecuted workers and peasants of another color who are now beginning to feel the thrill of conscious strength.

Along with the organization of the Negro workers, in order that they may be able to fight for better conditions of life and against the race prejudice that sears their souls as hot iron burns the flesh, must go the organization of the white workers.

The low level of political consciousness among the workers, black and white, in Chicago, may have been barely depicted for the delectation of the nation, by the anti-Negro propaganda of Dever and by the buffoonery of Thompson in the recent election, thon by the more advanced tricks employed by the capitalist confidence men in other cities, but there is only a difference in degree.

Chicago is a typical American city and the majority of the white workers are blinded by the smoke-screen of capitalist prosperity which is shared by only comparatively a few of the working class, while the colored workers are still flopping around in the Lincolnian puddle and permitting themselves to be sold like cattle at a fair to the profit and glory of their own corrupted race leaders and the profit of the employers.

Only when capitalism is abolished and a socialist society substituted for it, will the race discrimination and all forms of human exploitation cease. The program of the Workers (Communist) Party in America shows the way to freedom to both black and white workers.

BIG BILL'S EXPRESS!

Will Start for Chicago April 6th unless you stop it April 5th

William Hale Thompson pictured at the throttle of a train carrying a load of Negroes to Chicago. Dever propaganda.

Here Thompson is pictured kissing a Negro child while a white boy begs for attention. A reproduction of a piece of Dever propaganda.

THINK OF IT!

The NEGROES now boast of

1 Colored Judge
2 Colored Aldermen
1 Colored Senator
6 Colored Representatives
1 Colored State Utility Commissioner
Civil Service during Thompson's regime.
300 Colored Policemen
200 Colored Firemen
500 Colored Teachers
Do you want them to teach your children?

50 Colored Employees
In the office of County Treasurer under Geo. F. Harding, Thompson's Campaign Manager.
500 Colored Employees
In the City Hall placed under Thompson.
200,000 Negroes of Chicago
Working in the Stock Yards, International Harvester and in hundreds of other factories. Thompson's election will insure other public offices for the colored people. They will flood the white neighborhoods — and what will you do. Stop that now!

The "EMANCIPATOR"

a paper for the colored people of Chicago expects a colored Mayor in Chicago in about 15 years

Reproduction of a democrat circular designed to make white aspirants for city jobs actively support Dever under threat of an influx of colored job holders should Thompson win.

Hundreds of Dollars Reach Defense Office; But Thousands Needed

The response to the $100,000 Fund Roll Call campaign has been so prompt and satisfactory that the defense office was taken by surprise. Other activities ceased as the entire office staff was put to work to handle the rush of subscribers. Bunches of certificates accompanied by dollar bills are received with every mail.

At the end of the day the income from this source alone totals hundreds of dollars, but this is not enough when thousands are needed, so some workers have hit on the plan of paying for five or ter certificates at a time, and as each certificate carriers with it a separate receipt, these workers are the proud possessors of blocks of five and ten receipts beaiden the sealed and stamped certificates. Watch "Unity" for the names of all who subscribed.

Sport Club Meets Saturday.

A meeting of the Red Star Sport Club will be held at its clubrooms, 29 Graham Ave., Brooklyn, on Saturday evening at 7:30. New members are welcome.

DRAMA

Civic Repertory to Give Seven Plays in Closing Week

The Civic Repertory Theatre will close its first season at the 14th Street Theatre on Saturday evening April 30th, with a performance of Tchekov's "Three Sisters." After seven months successful work, Eva Le Gallienne and her company opened with Benavente's "Saturday Night," Monday evening, October 25th.

On Monday, May 2nd, the players begin their tour at the National Theatre in Washington, D. C., Baltimore, Philadelphia, and Boston will follow. The plays selected are: "Cradle Song," by Sierras; "Master Builder," by Ibsen, and "La Locandiera," by Goldoni.

The final week will include seven plays. They are as follows: "Cradle song," Monday night and Wednesday matinee; "Master Builder," Tuesday night; "John Gabriel Borkman," Thursday night; "Inharitors," Wednesday night; "La Locandiera," Friday night; "Twelfth Night," Saturday matinees, and "Three Sisters," Saturday night.

Broadway Briefs

Dorothy Dilley and Vivian Marlowe are the latest additions to "Oh, Ernest," the musical comedy version of Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Ernest," which opens here soon.

The producers of "The Night Hawk," have accepted a new play by Herbert Hall Winslow, titled "Six Women" for immediate production. "The Night Hawk," by the way, will end its long run at the Frolic next week.

Tito Coral, Spanish baritone, and the Andreini Trio, Spanish musicians, were added yesterday to "A Night In Spain," the new summer revue which the Messrs. Shubert are bringing here Monday evening, May 2nd.

The revival of the Henri Bernstein's drama "The Thief," which was scheduled for Tuesday night, will take place this evening at the Ritz Theatre. Alice Brady and Lionell Atwill are the featured players.

Gladys Baxter has replaced Desiree Tabor in the title role of "Countess Maritza." Miss Tabor will be the prima donna in the new musical show, "The Circus Princess," which opens Monday at the Winter Garden.

JULIUS TANNEN

Featured in the "Earl Carroll Vanities," in its third month at the Earl Carroll Theatre.

AMUSEMENTS

Theatre Guild Acting Company in
PYGMALION
GUILD THEA. W. 52 St. Eves. 8:15. Mats. Thurs. and Sat. 2:15
Next Week—The Second Man

MR. PIM PASSES BY
GARRICK W. 35 St. Eves. 8:20. Mats. Thurs. and Sat.
Next Week—Right You Are

NED McCOBB'S DAUGHTER
John Golden W. 58 E. of B'way. Mats Thurs. & Sat. 2:15.
Next Week—The Silver Cord

Neighborhood Playhouse
466 Grand St. Dryd'k 7516
Evs. 8:30 (Except Mon.) Mats. Sat.
Bill of Lyric Drama

TIMES SQ. Thea., W. 42 St. Evs. 8:30. Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2:30
CRIME
with James Rennie & Chester Morris

The LADDER
Now in its 6th MONTH
WALDORF, 49th St., East of B'way. Mats. WED. and SAT.

WALLACK'S West 42nd Street. Evenings 8:30
Mats. Tues., Wed., Thurs. and Sat.
What Anne Brought Home
A New Comedy Drama

HAMPDEN'S THEATRE 62nd St. at Broadway
Evs. 8:15. Matinees Wed. and Sat.
WALTER HAMPDEN
in CAPONSACCHI

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN
TWICE DAILY, 2 P.M & 8 P.M.
RINGLING BROS. and BARNUM & BAILEY CIRCUS
Incl. Among Many Marvels: PAWAIN
SACRED WHITE ELEPHANT
TICKETS at GARDEN BOX OFFICE
8th Ave. and 50th St. and Ringling Bros.
PHOENIX KNOWS 2nd Academy Mat. PLAYHOUSE 15th Spring 8362
RAPID TRANSIT
Every Eve. (Ex. Mon.) Incl. Sun. at 8:40
MAXINE ELLIOTT THEATRE, W. 39th St.
Civic Repertory Cor. 6 Ave. & 14 St. Tel. Watkins 7707.
EVA LE GALLIENNE
Tonight "CRADLE SONG"
Tomorrow Mat. "THREE SISTERS"
Tomorrow Evening "CRADLE SONG"
EARL CARROLL Vanities
Earl Carroll Thea., 7th Ave. & 50th St. Mats. Thurs. & Sat. 2:30
MARTIN BECK THEATRE, 45 St. W. of 8 Ave. Evs. 8:30. Mats. Wed. and Sat.
JED HARRIS Presents a Drama
'SPREAD EAGLE'
Bronx Opera House 149th Street, by 3rd Ave. Prices: Mat. Wed. & Sat. 50c to $2.
"NEW YORK EXCHANGE"
The Sensational Comedy
BROADWAY
BROADWAY at 49th St. Evs. 8:30 Mats. Sat. & Sun. 2:30
PRICES EVES. $1.10 TO $2.50.

Patronize Our Advertizers.

Let's Fight On! Join The Workers Party!

In the loss of Comrade Ruthenberg the Workers (Communist) Party has lost its foremost leader and the American working class its staunchest fighter. This loss can only be overcome by many militant workers joining the Party that he built.

Fill out the application below and mail it. Become a member of the Workers (Communist) Party and carry forward the work of Comrade Ruthenberg.

I want to become a member of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Name .....
Address .....
Occupation .....
Union Affiliation .....

Mail this application to the Workers Party, 108 East 14th Street, New York, City; or if in other city to Workers Party, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Distribute the Ruthenberg pamphlet, "The Workers (Communist) Party, What it Stands For and Why Workers Should Join." This Ruthenberg pamphlet will be the basic pamphlet thruout the Ruthenberg Drive.

Every Party Nucleus must collect 50 cents from every member and will receive 20 pamphlets for every member to sell or distribute.

Nuclei in the New York District will get their pamphlets from the District Office—108 East 14th St.

Nuclei outside of the New York District write to Daily Worker Publishing Co., 33 East First Street, New York City, or to the National Office, Workers Party, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Debate on A. F. L. Vs. I. W. W. Held In Seattle, Wash.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 18.—That the American Federation of Labor is the best instrument thru which the progressive workers of the United States can accomplish the emancipation of their class and the establishment of the Workers' Cooperative Commonwealth, was the proposition debated at the regular open forum meeting of the Seattle Labor College.

John C. Kennedy of the S. L. C. took the affirmative side and I. B. Ellis of the Industrial Workers of the World, the negative.

Kennedy declared that the right kind of a labor organization must function in two ways: it must protect the worker today and it must aim at the final emancipation of the working class. In order to be efficient it must possess power—the power of big masses. it must be classconscious, it must be built on right principles, it must fit present day conditions and it must be militant.

Ellis claimed that far more important than big numbers to make a labor organization efficient were just principles and proper structure. He pointed to the achievement of the insignificant I. W. W. in the Northwest in the lumber industry. He admitted its present decaying state, but this was not at all the question to be debated. To challenge for numbers he replied that there are still in the United States 38,000,000 unorganized workers. We were not to be guided in our tactics by authorities dead for many years and who lived in other countries.

Read The Daily Worker Every Day

Bosses Threaten Plumbers' Lockout Next Wednesday

A lockout of all plumbers in New York City next Wednesday is the threat of the Master Plumbers' Association.

The announcement was made by C. G. Norman, chairman of the board of governors of the Building Trades Employers' Association following a meeting in the association headquarters, 30 West 33 Street.

In addition to the 1,500 plumbers and the 1,500 helpers now on strike in Brooklyn it would affect more than 3,300 plumbers and 1,600 plumbers' helpers in Manhattan and the Bronx.

The Brooklyn plumbers and helpers have been on strike since April 1 for an increase in wages and the forty-hour week. The helpers are organized in the American Association of Plumbers' Helpers and are asking for admittance into the plumbers' union.

Will Phone Colored Pictures Very Soon

Experiments which are still in their early stages have manifested to the officials of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company that colored pictures can be sent across the continent by telephone and reproduced with the finest color printing.

The principal of transmission, according to the telephone officials, is the same as that now employed successfully in sending black and white photographs by wire, except that a separate transmission must be used for each color used in the printing process.

BUY THE DAILY WORKER AT THE NEWSSTANDS

CONCERT and BALL

Arranged by the Uj Elore Jubilee Committee to celebrate the

25TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE "UJ ELORE"

At Central Opera House 67th St., near Third Ave.

On Saturday, April 23, 1927 8 P. M.

EXCELLENT PROGRAM—DANCING COMMENCES AT 10:30 P. M. FAMOUS JAZZ BAND OF 11 PIECES.

TICKET IN ADVANCE $1.00 AT THE BOX OFFICE $1.25

The DAILY WORKER receives 50 cents on all tickets purchased at 108 East 14th St. local office.

Monarchist Plotters In Pay of Foreign Powers Caught by Soviet Union

MOSCOW, April 21.—The Soviet Union police are today investigating a plot of monarchists.

An important group of monarchists who are supporters of the Grand Duke Nicholas have been arrested. It has already been established that these monarchists were receiving funds from foreign powers and were acting as spies inside the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

Furriers of Levine's Shop Take Collection For the Defense Fund

The workers of the J. Levine Fur Company have answered the treason of McGrady, Schachtman and Company by making a shop collection of $28.00, as a start for the defense fund.

At the same time the following resolution was adopted: "We, the workers of the J. Levine Fur Company, seeing the treason of the leaders of the A. F. of L. together with the so-called officers of our International in making a united front with the bosses and their gangsters against us, and seeing Ben Gold and ten other of our most active union workers framed up on a grave charge, thru the provocations of these traitors, we express our disgust with them and pledge ourselves to stand solidly with the elected Joint Boards in whom we have the fullest confidence.

"As an expression of our devotion we send $25.00 to the Joint Defense as our first contribution to help defend our leaders. We call upon all shops to follow our example. Although we were formally neutral, many of us even being inclined to the right, we could no longer remain silent seeing the activity of these traitors, and we hope soon to be able to altogether rid our union of the traitors and union smashers.

(Signed) by Pitkowitz, Lorul 1, J. Tabachnick, Local 15, shop chairman. Shop Resolution Committee.

Last Showing of Russian Film

The Russian film "Polykushka," produced in Russia by the director of "Potemkin," will have its last New York showing at the International House, 500 Riverside Drive, on Wednesday at 8 o'clock.

WANTED: "March Of Workers."

We are eager to get for reference a copy of "March of the Workers," a proletarian song book, published by the Young Workers' League, Chicago, and now out of print.

V. F. Calverton says Yes! Kelly Miller says No!

DOES ORTHODOX CHRISTIANITY HANDICAP NEGRO PROGRESS?

Sunday, April 24th, 1927, at 2:30 P. M. in COMMUNITY CHURCH

TICKETS, 75c and $1.10.

For sale at Rand School and Jimmy Higgins

THE MESSENGER FORUM

2311 SEVENTH AVENUE

NEW YORK CITY.

"POLIKUSHKA"

DOWNTOWN

A motion picture, from the monumental work of Leo Tolstoi.

SATURDAY, APRIL 23, 1927

LABOR TEMPLE, 14th St. and 2nd Ave.

4:30 P. M. to 11 P. M. Continuous.

ADMISSION 50c. CHILDREN 25c.

Auspices: Photographic Workers' Union, Loc. 17830.

Hear the Verdict

To be rendered by the jury sitting in the case of

THE WORKERS OF THE UNITED STATES

vs.

J. RAMSAY MACDONALD

betrayer of the British workers, and jointly indicted with "THE JEWISH DAILY FORWARD."

His spokesman—charged with treason to the working class, in the first degree.

Sunday, April 24

At 2 P. M.

CENTRAL OPERA HOUSE, 67th St. and Third Ave.; NEW STAR CASINO, 107th Street and Park Avenue; MANHATTAN LYCEUM, 66 East 4th Street.

Witnessed to be called by the prosecution:

M. J. OLGIN, S. EPSTEIN, ROSE WORTIS, LOUIS HYMAN, S. ZIMMERMAN, A. TRACHTENBERG, A. MINDEL, W. F. DUNNE, BERT WOLFE, W. W. WEINSTONE, BEN GITLOW, and others.

Officer on Ship Brutally Beats a Youthful Seaman

(By A Worker Correspondent.)

A young German seaman was badly beaten yesterday aboard the S. S. Weisse See, a tramp freighter, from Bremen, lying outside of Pier 8, Staten Island. The chief mate of the ship who was drunk at the time was responsible for the atrocity.

Taken To Hospital.

The injuries resulting were so severe as to necessitate the removal of the young seamen to the hospital. The crew was greatly incensed at the attack on the part of the officer, who has been responsible for many such brutal assaults upon a number of seamen, has protested the case before the German consul. As yet, however, no action has been forthcoming from this source. The fact that the chief mate is the nephew of the master of the ship probably has a good deal to do with this.

Ship A Disgrace.

The ship itself is a disgrace to the marine industry. She is a nine thousand ton rebuilt tank pile that has been saved from the scrap heap of the world war. Formerly one of the North German Lloyd cargo boats, time and the strain of the war trade have knocked her to a wrecked hulk. Today she is absolutely unfit for any maritime trade, and a floating graveyard for the exploited seamen that have to sail on her.

There is no doubt that as long as the seamen are unorganized they will have to undergo the same fate and be the victims of brutal treatment at the hands of their officers. With a strong organization to protect their interests it will be impossible for officers to treat sailors like dogs.

Duluth Workers Protest American Imperialism In China and Elsewhere

DULUTH, Minn., April 21.—More than five hundred workers filled Tunnels Hall here at a mass meeting to protest against American imperialism in China, Nicaragua and Mexico. The speakers were O. E. Thompson and William McEwen of Duluth and Ernest Lundeen of Minneapolis. Eskel Romi of Superior was chairman.

It was unanimously decided to organize the Duluth citizens on a large scale against American intervention and for that purpose a committee of 15 was appointed to carry on the work.

Another anti-imperialist mass meeting will be held at the same hall, Sunday, May 29.

Rockefeller Sermon In Contrast to Way He Treats Strikers

(By Federated Press)

NEW YORK, April 21.—Western Maryland R.R. strikers again ask John D. Rockefeller, Jr. to practice what he preaches. The request is made through the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen, whose members have been locked out for two years by the W. M. management, because they asked for the same basic wage rate that other roads were paying.

Rockefeller's Sermon.

They call attention to a sermon the junior Rockefeller delivered recently from the pulpit of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church of Cleveland on the relations that ought to prevail between capital and labor. The magnate said he was convinced that "employers and employes are partners, not enemies; that their interests are common, not opposed; that in the long run the success of each is dependent upon the success of the other."

The "glaring inconsistency" between Rockefeller's pulpit policies and the policies pursued by the Western Maryland and management is shown up.

Deaf to Appeal.

For two years the strikers made appeal after appeal to Rockefeller, then the largest stockholder on the line, says the brotherhood leader. They received no satisfaction. Then they appealed to the Federal Council of Churches, the National Catholic Welfare Conference and the Association of American Rabbis, whose report "substantiated every charge made against the management."

Charleston Contest To Feature Chicago Young Workers League Frolic

According to the committee which is in charge of the arrangements for the Chicago Young Workers' League 4th Annual Youth Spring Dance, this is going to be the liviest yet. A big feature of the evening will be the staging of Charleston and Black Bottom dance exhibitions.

The affair will be held on Saturday night, May the 7th, at the Workers', Lyceum, California and Hirsh Boulevard.

GOLD TESTIFIES TO BLACKMAIL ATTEMPT BY BASSOFF, CHIEF STOOL PIGEON OF PROSECUTION

(Continued from Page One)

last night indicted, besides Hyman, Sam Liebowitz, acting manager of the Joint Board of the furriers, Ben Gitlow, Albert Weisberd, Zellette S. Pyrntz, Lena Chernenko, M. J. Olgin, W. W. Weinstone, and many others.

Wait as Host.

More than an hour before Cooper Union opened thousands of workers were outside waiting for admission. At 8:00 P. M. the doors were opened and in less than fifteen minutes the hall was filled to capacity, every seat being taken, hundreds standing on the stage or wherever they could find a bit of room.

The thousands of disappointed workers were then told to go to the other halls which were also quickly filled.

"Into Two Halls."

Manhattan Lyceum jammed the workers into their two halls, hundreds having to stand. The same night could be seen at Webster Hall, Labor Temple, the Church of All Nations, Stuyvesant Hall—ten all told.

At Cooper Union whenever the name of Gold was mentioned the assembled workers arouse as one, and cheered, yelled, and applauded. The same enthusiastic demonstrations taking place in the other nine halls.

Refers to Detective.

Irving Potash who presided at Cooper Union referred to Detective Greene's testimony at the Mineola trial. How, when questioned by the defense lawyer he told that he prepared this case against Gold and the other officers of the Furriers Joint Board in the office of the right wing controlled International headquarters.

Ben Gitlow said that "you show by your applause, your demonstration and outpouring tonight at these ten large meetings that Gold is the leader of the union." This was greeted by tremendous applause, the workers rising from their seats and shouting: "We want Gold! We want Gold!"

The speakers told of the importance of mass picketing, the workers at the ten meetings promising to be on the picket line this morning. Collections for the defense fund were taken at every meeting.

Among the many other speakers that addressed the ten meetings were: Samuel Leibowitz, acting manager of the Joint Board of the furriers; Albert Weisbord, Juliet Stuart Poyntz, Lena Chernenko, M. J. Olgin, William F. Dunne, Captain Paxton Hibbens, Eskel Romi of Superior was chairman.

Mineola Trial Shows Basoff Acted As Blackmailer

Last of the eleven defendants, Ben Gold, manager of the New York Joint Board of the Furriers Union took the stand late yesterday afternoon in the trial being held in Mineola in connection with an alleged assault committed a year ago in Rockville Center during the fur strike.

In a low, calm voice Gold answered the questions of his attorney, Charles Weeks, and in the same calm manner he replied to the sarcastic, threatening, provocative questioning of the district attorney.

Startling revelations concerning the blackmailing tactics of the stool pigeon Bernard Basoff, were given by Gold in a matter-of-fact, business-like manner.

Basoff At Office.

"Basoff came to my office in the union asking me to translate a letter written in Jewish, which had been sent to him by his father," said Gold.

"In the letter, Baseff's father told him he ought to get some money out of the union for being jailed and beaten by the police. I told him the union could not pay him money any more than other workers. He said he was sick and could not work, and I offered to send him to a doctor. I urged him to go to work, to forget about prison. I told him Malkin and Franklin had the same experience he had; many other workers had been in jail too. The union would stick by him, and the best thing to do was to work and forget what had happened to him."

Blackmail.

A few days later Basoff came back again, and this time and this time he made a demand for a specific amount of money. He wanted $50 a week, and Gold told him the union was not paying anyone. He could not have any money.

"Then he began to threaten, and not wanting to have any scandal in my office, I took him upstair and I took Samuel Zuckerman (labor editor of 'The Day') with me."

Willful Misinterpretation.

Gold used the word "scandal" meaning disturbance or violent argument; but the district attorney, always looking to misinterpret every word, made this as proof that there was something Gold was trying to hide in connection with Basoff and the Rockville Center case. He gloated over this word "scandal" and tried to enrage Gold with insinuations as to what he had meant by it.

Threatened Gold.

In Zuckerman's presence, Basoff repeated his threats to "get" Gold if the union did not come thru with some money at once; but Gold let him talk and then called him a blackmailer who could not intimidate him in any way no matter what he did.

"What did you do about these threats?" the district attorney asked during the cross examination later.

"Nothing", said Gold.

"Did you take Basoff's threats seriously? Did you think he meant them?"

"No."

Is A Communist.

When cross examination began, the district attorney asked:

"Are you a Communist?"

Gold answered "Yes."

Maurice Malkin, one of the defendants who also testified yesterday, answered "Yes" to this same question.

Did Not Send Telegram.

Gold was next questioned as to whether he knew Harry Kessler who stood up in the court room to be identified. Gold did not know him, nor did he recognize a telegram presented by the district attorney which purported to call Kessler to a meeting at union headquarters on Sunday April 3rd.

This was signed with Gold's name but he had not sent it, altho he stated frankly that it might have been sent out of his office.

This was very evidently an effort to discredit the testimony of various witnesses to the effect that the general picket committee had never had meetings on Sunday, as Basoff had testified. Kessler did not claim to be a member of the committee, but he did claim— at least the district attorney's questioning so included—that he had come to the office in response to this telegram and when he arrived there Gold had ordered Samuel Mencher and Phillip to beat him up.

Creating Prejudice.

Gold positively denied this. The story was significant not only because it would prejudice the jury against Gold, but also against Mencher and Lenhard, whose alibis in connection with the day of the raid, April 19, 1927, have not been questioned so far. Prejudice against them must be created as much as possible.

This has been the custom all during this trial; if there is no evidence against the defendant, create a special prejudice in the minds of the jurors. Judge Smith, petulant, bored, at times wrathy and vicious, acts as tho any testimony that shewed the innocence of these workers was a waste of the court's time.

Wants Conviction.

Repeatedly he interrupts such testimony; at times when the district attorney raises an objection, the judge says in long-suffering tone, "Oh let them go on." His whole attitude shows that he has a firm conviction these men are guilty; "why should so much time be taken up proving they are innocent?" At one of Frank P. Walsh's objections—which he always overruled, almost before they are expressed—the judge burst into a tirade and said, "I am running this court. You just remember that."

The defendants Oscar Mileaf, Leo Franklin, Maurice Malkin, and Isadore Shapiro were all called to the stand yesterday to testify in their own behalf. The witnesses called yesterday for the defense Mrs. Katherine Mencher who corroborated Lenhart's testimony; Dr. I. Marie Lerner, who testified that Mileaf had been in her office all day on April 19th, 1926; Isadore Cern, manager of the Butcher's Union, who verified part of Katz' testimony of yesterday; George Sylvester, one of the union's attorneys; Peter Barukin, manager of Manhattan Laycam; Morris Kudrinetsky, a fur worker; Captain Bacen of the Nassau county police; Miss May C. Gresser, secretary to John Coughlan of the central trades and labor council; General John J. Phelan of the 165th Regiment who testified in behalf of Shapiro; Maurice H. Cohen, secretary-treasurer of the Joint Board; Abraham Verber, employed in the office of the Joint Board; Joseph Cohn, former chauffeur of Abraham Goodman; Samuel Okstein a fur dealer; his son Joseph; Morris Lazarus, a fur worker; and Gordon Steinberg.

Prosecutor Sneers at N. Y. Courts.

The district attorney in several remarks attacked the integrity of the New York courts yesterday when defendants testified that they had never been convicted of any crimes but disorderly conduct; and the penalty had been a fine of five or ten dollars, he remarked each time:

"Oh yes, the usual five dollars—the usual ten dollars."

To Mileaf he said:

"Oh, yes I know; your sentences were reduced from threatened assaults to disorderly conduct because there was an arrangement between your union and the court."

To Franklin he remarked:

"Yes I know; by some arrangement, or influence with certain interests, you managed to have felonious assault changed to disorderly conduct and got a fine of $2."

Judge Vindictive.

The district attorney tried to accuse Malkin of being a slacker during the war; then Attorney Uterhart showed that Malkin was only 17 when the war ended. Constantly the attempt to blacken the character of the defendants in the eyes of the business-men jury no matter by what means. And every effort of the attornies to rule out prejudiced questions was ruled out by Judge Smith with vindictive regularity.

Shapiro, Morris Cohen and Verber told of Basoff's damands for money from the union, and Shapiro told of his threats "to get him." At six o'clock last night a recess was called, when Ben Gold was still on the stand, and a night session was announced to begin at 7:15. It is expected that all testimony will be finished today and possibly the case will go to the jury.

Unionist Wins in San Diego.

Edward H. Dowell, secretary of the Federated Trades Council of San Diego, was elected to the city council by a large majority.

Upholsterers For Organization.

The Central Labor Council of Los Angeles has referred to its organization committee for action on a resolution introduced by the Upholsterers' Union No. 18, calling for an intensive organization campaign among the unorganized workers up to the convening of the American Federation of Labor Convention in October, in this city.

BUY THE DAILY WORKER AT THE NEWSSTANDS

Union Meetings

Amalgamated Food Workers

BAKERS' LOCAL No. 1.

350 E. 85th St. Office hours from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. Meeting on announcement of Executive Board.

Advertise your union meetings here. For information write to The DAILY WORKER Advertising Dept. 33 First St., New York City.

"POLIKUSHKA"

IN THE BRONX

A motion picture, from the monumental work of Leo Tolstoi.

Sunday, Apr. 24, Scholem Aleichem School Auditorium

1373 Clinton Ave., near 180th Street, Bronx, New York.

2 P. M. to 11 P. M. Continuous.

ADMISSION 50c. CHILDREN 25c.

Auspices United Council of Working-Class Housewives, Council No. 8, Bronx, N. Y.

BUSINESS & PROFESSIONAL DIRECTORY

FRIENDS OF ORGANIZED LABOR

Tel. Lehigh 6822. DR. ABRAHAM MARKOFF SURGEON DENTIST Office Hours 9 A.M. to 1 P.M. & 2 to 8 P.M. Daily Except Friday and Sunday. 249 EAST 118th STREET Cor. Second Ave. New York.

ANYTHING IN PHOTOGRAPHY STUDIO OR OUTSIDE WORK Patronize our Friend SPIESS STUDIO 51 Second Ave., cor. 3rd St. Special Rates for Labor Organizations Established 1887

Dr. J. Mindel Dr. L. Hendin Surgeon Dentists 1 UNION SQUARE Room 803 Phone Stuyv. 10119

"NATURAL FOODS" Sundried Fruits, Honey, Nuts, Brown Rice, Whole Wheat, Macaroni, Spaghetti, Noodles, Nut Butters, Swedish Bread, Maple Syrup, Tea and Coffee Substitutes, Innerclean, Kneipp Teas, Books on Health. QUALITY FOOD & HIGH FOOD Our Specialties KUBIE'S HEALTH SHOPPE 73 Greenwich Ave., New York 47th Ave. and 11th St. Open Evenings. Mail Orders Filled

Tel. Orchard 3782 Strictly by Appointment DR. L. KESSLER SURGEON DENTIST 48-50 DELANCEY STREET Cor. Eldridge St. New York

Phone, Dryclock 9248. FRED SPITZ The FLORIST 3 SECOND AVENUE Near Houston. FRESH CUT FLOWERS DAILY Fresh and Artificial Flowers Delivered Anywhere. SPECIAL REDUCTION TO LABOR ORGANIZATIONS.

Booth Phones, Dry Dock 9412, 7845. Office Phone, Orchard 9318. Patronize MANHATTAN LYCEUM Large Halls With Stage for Meetings, Entertainments, Weddings and Banquets; Cafeteria. 66-68 E. 4th St. New York, N. Y. Small Meeting Rooms Always Available.

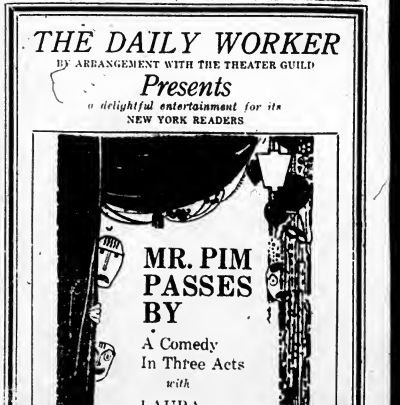
Health Food Vegetarian Restaurant 1600 Madison Ave. PHONE: UNIVERSITY 5462.

Telephone Dry Dock 9049. Meet me at the Public Art Dairy Restaurant and Vegetarian 75 SECOND AVE. NEW YORK Opposite Public Theatre

Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!

Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!

NEWSBOYS WANTED



To sell The DAILY WORKER at union meetings. Commission paid. Report to the Local Office, 108 East 14th Street.

THE DAILY WORKER

BY ARRANGEMENT WITH THE THEATER GUILD

Presents

a delightful entertainment for its NEW YORK READERS

MR. PIM PASSES BY

A Comedy In Three Acts with

LAURA HOPE CREWS

MAY 16 TO 21

NOTE: Buy your tickets now at the Local Office, 108 E. 14th St. SPECIAL PRICES FOR DAILY WORKER READERS. (Fiesta tickets will be exchanged.)

An Encounter

Letter of a Young Pioneer in U.S.S.R.

Three days ago our leader told us, that from Poland pioneers will come to Kijeff and that we'll meet them on the railroad station. All pioneers thought at first, that they expected are children like ourselves or perhaps footballists, because in summer arrived footballists from abroad.

But the day before their arrival our teacher told us, that those are very unhappy children: the father of one was shot for the sake of the workers and the revolution, the father of another was sent to prison and the same is the case with all the others. We were grieved very much and all of us even the not organised children, exclaimed: we all will go to the station.

After the lesson there was much agitation: some of us said, that the Polish children will not remain in Kijeff, but will travel farther; others said, that they will go to school together with us and there were even such, who said that they will arrive in the night and that it will be impossible for us to see them.

I will not boast, but I always direct the publication of the wall paper and I had a secret idea. I told nothing but went away and wrote the following article:

"We will be visited by Polish children, very unhappy children, but they are just such revolutionaries like ourselves and they fulfill the same tasks. We have all—they have nothing. There is no sense in it to meet them with drums and red neckties only.

Comrades, what would be your feelings, if the father or mother of some of us were killed for the revolution, what would be then?

I made the following proposals.

Let us collect money and buy presents for them to show them our proletarian sympathy and gladness.

I pasted the article to the wall and said that it was written by order of the Young Communist League.

This I did to evade questioning and discussion.

But the pioneers not quite agreed with it. They said that it is necessary to collect money but not to buy presents, but to arrange a festival. The teacher approved the latter idea and I consented, for to be sure I was the initiator of the proposal.

The train arrived at 9 o'clock in the morning and we pioneers and even all the not organised children were at the station at 7.

There comes the train.

A drum rattles; we see them descend from the train, all very thin and pals in discoloured shirts, but their looks tell us that they would not submit to the bourgeoisie, even if it were very difficult, but on the contrary would fight on.

We got acquainted on the spot, surrounded them and went together to the school, where all was ready for the tea, pasty and so on. We look on them and it seems to us as if we were long ago acquainted, born together with them.

It was difficult to speak with them, but we have Polish children at school, who know Polish as well as Russian. They were our translators and told us all that was said and very disgusting it was to hear of the capitalism and all its horrors.

Afterwards we began to speak.

We explained who was Iljitch, how the pioneers are working and told them of many other things.

Then we showed them our school, books, work shop.

Regarding our teacher the Polish children told us:

She is like a mother to you. Our teachers are malicious—one can't go near them.

It became dark but we talked and talked and even the unorganized children didn't wish to go home.

Afterwards we went through the town with our drum and sang the "International," being ourselves a real international: Poles, Russians, Jews and one Grizko Yashchuk, even a Moldavian.

—SERGEJ BELOFF.

A Toiler

By J. RASHELL.

On the horizon of a light blue sky, a toiler bends holding a plow. He is trotting after harnessed horse.

The sun bakes down upon his neck. The wind fills his eyes and lungs with dust.

Day in, day out, he passes across the vast green fields. Year in, year out, the soil is swallowing his power. It saturates his sweat, and in return gives bread to man.

His eye engulfs the greatness and wilderness of the horizon. He breaths the spaciousness of the broad borders, fields, and his heart becomes as gentle as the tender field flowers. His mind is as light as the mild winds that blow over the stalk of a corn field. Thus he works the land eagerly, industrious and creates food for men.

Far away from the wide green fields, and from the clear blue skies, in crowded large cities under turbid skies, are people paying the price for the products of the fields, eating to their hearts' content. But they never find time to ask themselves who has given the sweat to the soil to grow the foods that gives them health and strength.

The rich, the masters of life, throw a bone to the toiler for his toil, and he never knows who is enjoying the bread that he produces thru toil.

Sometimes toward twilight when the faint rays of the crimson sun are patting his face and painting it a reddish hue, and the coming cool evening breeze is playing with his disheveled hair, he is trudging over the broken furrows of this vast fields, weary, bent, thinking, "How long will parasites consume my strength? How long will this devilish play continue?"

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

Editor, The DAILY WORKER:

Many of our radical friends seem to take a gloomy view of the Left Wing split in China. In to-day's issue of the paper, for example, O'Flaherty in his excellent column says, "Chiang-Kai-Shek has dealt a serious blow to the Revolution."

All this seems to me an erroneous view of the situation. Let me review some history. We know that the Kuomintang contained within itself all elements of the workers, peasants, and middle class. We can safely assume, I think, that what Chiang did now he always intended to do, inasmuch as he is in the middle class and is a product of his class. And that the middle class was afraid of the growing power of the Left Wing. Again, It must be remembered that he was trained in a Japanese Military Academy which also left its impress.

The question now arises: would it have been more advantageous for the radicals if the split had occurred later, say after the capture of Peking? I say no! Consider. It was the policy of Chiang to spearhead the defeated troops with their Northern militaristic generals into the Canton armies. Already the southern troops were being outnumbered—later they would have been swamped—and the northern generals would all be for Chiang. Chiang's power would have increased greatly.

Let us observe, now, our side of the picture. First, the Left Wing possess the provinces of Hunan Hupeh, Kiangsu, Shensi, and Kiansen, —the last two coming in with the so-called Christian General. Secondly, the right-wing general in Shanghai said that Anhwei Province is doubtful. If he admits that it is "doubtful" it is fair to assume that it will be in the hands of the Left Wing. Moreover, Feng Ilankow is sending troops to Wuhu in that province. Also the section about Swatow, in Kwanung Province, which is north of Canton, according to an unconfirmed report is in the hands of the Left. If true, it cuts off Canton from Chiang, except by boat, thus making the capture of that city with its arsenal fairly easy. And it must be borne in mind that the people are with the Left.

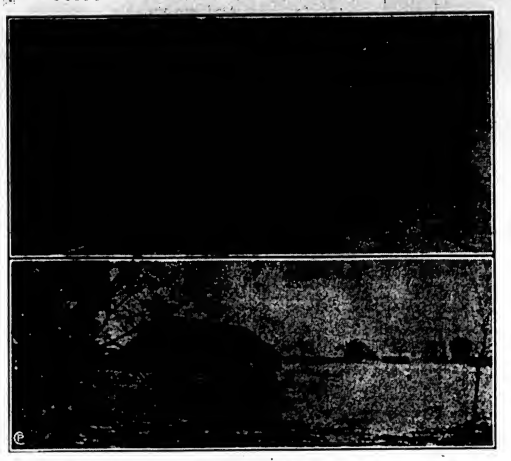
Again, when two groups are fighting, it is logically inevitable for the Right to become more Right and the Left more Left,—to show that they are fighting over something vital. This will make those Lefts who are not Communists approach that position more closely. Thus it seems to me that recent events are not regrettable from our point of view. On the contrary,—Robert Julian Kenton.

Artists, Plays and Proletarians.

Editor, The DAILY WORKER:

Many of our young dramatists and artists in general are attempting to destroy the dragon of bourgeois culture. But in its place they are creating a monster of mysticism and confusion. I am especially referring here to those artists disgusted with capitalism and the proattitnted art.

What is the trouble? As a reaction to capitalism and its legitimate offspring, bourgeois art, our artists begin, so to speak, to walk on their heads. They create something which is neither bourgeois, proletarian, not art.



When these works are presented in the name of proletarian art, it is time that we take note of it. Am when Harbor Allen, in reviewing Em Jo Basshe's drama, "Earth," says among other things that it is an honest attempt,—I am inclined to ask him, for what "it is an honest attempt." The "count-your-days" staging surely does not count the days of capitalism. Of what else it counts the days, is quite mysterious.

The decaying of capitalism and the consequent heavy footsteps of the proletarian revolution has thrown our liberal-radical intelligentsia off their feet. And in its blind search for something new, it goes off at such a tangent of muddleheadedness that only Greenwich Villagites can gloat over the "deep" incomprehensive nothingness.

The masses to whom they are catering cannot understand them. The daily struggle in mine and factory are too crude that the masses should understand any of the mystic bosh handed out to them. Under capitalism, we cannot have a proletarian art but we can and must approach the struggles and yearnings of the workers. Nearer to the masses in work and deed should be the clarion call to these artists sympathetic with the aspirations of the masses.

—EUGENE KREINEN.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER GOES TO RECORD HEIGHTS

Following months of rain and storm over a large part of the Mississippi river watershed, the great stream has gone to record heights, flooding huge areas in its middle and lower stretches. Man-power has been conscripted to strengthen dikes and other barriers. Top view shows the waters near the top of the sea wall at Cairo, Ill., where the flood waters of the Ohio join with those of the Mississippi, creating such a mass of water that the flow is the largest ever recorded in the history of any river. Official forecast was that the crest would be near the top of this sea wall—the water on the outside being higher than the portion of the city beyond. Lower view, taken thirteen miles north of Cairo, gives an idea of the disaster. There is water as far as one can see, with only the tops of the houses and barns showing.

HOW MOSCOW WORKERS RECEIVED THE NEWS OF SHANGHAI'S FALL

News of the fall of Shanghai into the hands of the revolutionary bloertion movement of China reached Moscow early in the afternoon of March 21st. The TASS telegraph agency telephoned It to the newspapers and soon the presses were turning out a single-sheet "extra," printed one side only, sponsored jointly by "Pravda" and "Isvestia." This may reem quite an ordinary proceeding in America where any new turn of a race scandal is greeted with an "extra," but it is something very nuch out of the ordinary in Russia, where there are seldom more than one or two in a whole year.

The News Spread.

Long before the paper appened on the streets, however, the news had filtered into the city. First of all it was caught up by the universities, and one such institution, the "Stalin University of the Toiling Peoples of the East," staged a big street demonstration in front of its building, at which Chinese and Russian speeches and songs alternated. After this short program the students and the gathered crowds formed into a parade and marched five abreast to the office building of the Communist International, the world staff of the proletarian revolution.

Sun Yat-Sen Students.

Here the marchers were greeted by speakers in various languages, Chinese, English and Russian predominating. Close on their heels came marchers from other schools, prominent among them the Sun Yat-Sen University, bearing proudly the blue velvet flag of the Kuomintang side by side with the embroidered red banners of their school.

It was not long before the factory whistles of all Moscow were cheering, and as quitting time came the workers, hundreds of thousands of them, formed impromptu parades and, like the students, marched to the Comintern.

Revolutionary Order.

Headed by factory-club bands, bearing aloft special streamers and banners with slogans on which the paint was still dripping wet, the workers, men and women, streamed in from all parts of the city, not in any regular planned parade formation yet maintaining absolutely perfect order.

From four o'clock until almost midnight the endless detachments of Moscow's army of workers deployed before their own international headquarters, demonstrating their joy at the great victory of their Chinese fellow-revolutionaries. And this is only the beginning, every Chinese comrade in Moscow is lionised, workers' clubs are making gifts and holding innumerable smichka meetings to show their solidarity with the fighters in the new East.

DEFEAT—LAST STATEMENT

Stand up to glory, soldiers! From this spot
We shall not stir, till bone is torn from bone.
The White Guards riddle us with effective shot,
And their countless mercenaries bear like stone.

Our hones shall break, our nerves from nerves shall sever.
We ebb and sink, first of the rebel waves.
But armies follow. The dream shall perish never,
Stalking in victory through laurels on our graves.

Not tomorrow shall the ponderous shells
Beat down the people, who press to dawn ahead.
Take cheer, O comrades, in these flaming hells,
We fashion daybreak! So be happy. So be dead.

Behind us, chains, and hovels foul with dirt.
Ahead, fair dreams, the cities like the sun.
Oh, shall we cower and yield and taste the quirt?
Or go down in full armor, free men every one?

Something it is, to die with jaw stuck out.
In manly act of driving the bayonet home.
On glazing eye fair dreams rise roundabout.
And grateful Freedom's kiss makes sweet the quiet tomb.

This is our swan-song, soldiers. Give one stare
To sun-like cities smiling on ahead.
Then tighten grip on gun-stocks. Close ranks there!
Stand up to glory. So be free men. Or be dead.

SEND IN YOUR LETTERS

The DAILY WORKER is anxious to receive letters from its readers stating their views on the issues confronting the labor movement. It is our hope to develop a "Letter Box" department that will be of wide interest to all members of The DAILY WORKER family. Send in your letter today to "The Letter Box," The DAILY WORKER, 33 First street, New York City.

TWO-FISTED MUSIC

(George Antheil's "Ballet Mecanique")

Staid and conservative Carnegie Hall received the shock of its life the other night. The respectable ghosts of Bach and Beethoven for one hour writhed in agony in the wings. Mozart spun like a top in his mouldy grave while Wagner grinned sardonically.

A revolution had occurred on the stage too. Nothing was arranged as nicely and demurely and as expectedly for a symphony. A futuristic curtain hung in back of the stage; a curtain with gorgeous black and white splashing, screaming all over it. An enormous spark plug hurled its rays in all directions; skyscrapers toppled crashly over one another; the elevator trains zigzagged drunkenly as they do; gigantic wrenches and hammers were striking blows;—in a word Metropolis was there.

• • •

The orderly symphony orchestra was missing too. In its place twelve pianos were stretched semi-circularly across the stage. A mechanical piano occupied the center. In the rear was a row of xylophones and bass drums. Electric bells were there and electric horns and whistles and thunder-making machines and wind makers and wind jammers and aeroplane propellers—peculiar looking apparatus for a concert—all were there.

The conductor, lean and somewhat fearful, stepped on the platform and raised his baton. The audience jammed to the pit was tense, expectant and craving excitement. It knew that at a performance in Paris of this concert a riot had occurred, many were hurt and the police had been active participants. The baton fell, and then it all began.

Trrrrrrrr rr r Trrrrrrrr—the air drills were hiting into the protesting rock. Rat-a-tat rat-a-tat—iron was being riveted to iron—lustily swung picks dug into the earth. Shhh—there's the warning bell—get out of the way you sons of B——. Silence for a while. BANG—off went n stick of dynamite. Trrrr trrrr the drills again—Rat-a-tat rat-a-tat rat-a-tat. There's a heavy log to be shoved out of the way—PUSH. No lullaby this. The pianos crashed—out you son of a gun, and the hurden was heaved away. Like a fury the mechanical piano was being pumped—the subway's got to be finished, the tunnel must be dug. Trrrrrr trrrrrr trrrr—rat-a-tat rat-a-tat rat-a-tat trrrr. Here comes a lull—lunch time or dream time. Only the silvery notes of an xylophone sound. Dream—dream of water flashing through green forests; of the yielding earth; of polished pebbles sparkling in the sun. And its quiet so quiet; there is nothing here.

• • •

Whrrrrrr the city again—there's a fire. Hear tha engins roar—the bowling siren whrrrrr. Put out the fire. Block it. Stop it. The ax. The hose. Ssssss—the water hissea on the flames; see the gray smoke—it's choking; more pressure—axes—bang put it out, out, out.

All right, it's out. Night time—work stops? No—damn, no, turn on the lights. Shift changes. Begin. Trrrrrrrr trrrrrrr trr rat-a-tat rat-a-tat rat-a-tat.

Let Fathead Miners Consider What They Are After a Little

What in the 'ell do you think you're after, miners?
Sunshine, play,
Shorter hours, more pay.
O damn them bolsheviks!
Ludlow, Cripple Creek,
And a Red Wind blowing from the East.

What, by God, do you think you're after, miners?
Happiness, bread,
And an uncowed head.
O damn them bolsheviks!
Masaba Range, Paint Creek,
And a Red Wind blowing from the East.

Mr. Lewis speaking: .
That'll do, boys! You mustn't frighten the boss to death or what'll become of Industrial Co-operation?
What in the 'eli are you after, miners?

—HENRY GEORGE WEISS.

Read The Daily Worker Every Day

BOOKS

Lenin. By J. Yaroslavsky. Published by The Daily Worker Publishing Company. 25 cents.

Simply written, with every point made illustrated by concrete instances from the life and revolutionary activities of Vladimir Ilyitch Lenin, Comrade Yaroslavsky's 80-page pamphlet is the best popular work on the world's greatest revolutionary leader that has been translated into English. There are other pamphlets, notably Comrade Losovsky's "Lenin and the Trade Unions" and Comrade Stalin's "Theory and Practice of Leninism," but they deal either with some particular phase of Comrade Lenin's writing and work or they are designed for workers who have accepted the Communist program.

Without being sentimental, Comrade Yaroslavsky's pamphlet gives much of the human character of Lenin's family life and background. American workers, the alleged to be the most "practical" in the world, will nevertheless be greatly swayed by such incidents as, quoting Comrade Yaroslavsky:

> "In 1899, when Lenin was in exile in Siberia, Lenin's mother went to Petrograd in order to appeal to the director of the department of police to allow her son to go abroad, or at least to transfer him to Pskov. When the director came out of his room and saw Lenin's mother, he said to her sneeringly, with all the arrogance and cynicism of a Czarist official:
>
> "'You ought to be proud of your children: one of them has been hanged and the other has the noose around his neck.' " (Lenin's brother, Alexander, had been executed for his work for the revolution.—B. D.)
>
> And Lenin's mother replied with extreme dignity.
>
> "'Yes, I am proud of my children.' "

Lenin was 23 years old and a Marxist scholar when he began the agitational propaganda and organizational work in the ranks of the working class which the reformists and betrayers of the class struggle point to as evidence of what they are pleased to term his "over-emphasis" on the practical side of the preparation of the working class for the seizure of power.

Forming a "circle," composed of active workers who had the confidence of the Petrograd masses, Lenin threw himself with all the energy, for which he is famous among revolutionists who are themselves human dynamos, into the labor movement. His first leaflet, written in 1895, dealt with a strike in the Semyanikov factory.

Comrade Yaroslavsky—and these two sentences are a fine example of the clear and simple style in which the book is written—says that:

> "He realized how essential it was to react to every strike that took place, to every expression of discontent, and how important that leaflets should reflect what the workers were concerned with most and the hardships they encountered at every step. From these petty things the workers would gradually begin to understand more profound causes of the difficult conditions of the working class."

It will do much good for workers, especially young workers—and many older ones—who yearn for a chance to acquire glory in the more spectacular struggles of the masses, to study well this portion of Comrade Yaroslavsky's pamphlet.

It is to be noted that this devotion to the rather monotonous routine of the class struggle did not hinder but helped Comrade Lenin to better his theoretical equipment, for at this time he wrote one of his important works: "Who Are the Friends of the People and How Do They Fight Against the Social Democrats?"

When Lenin went abroad in 1895 to establish connections with Marxist groups, he was immediately recognized as the new type of leader the Russian movement had until then failed to produce—a combination of Marxist theoretician, able to convince not only himself but others, and a master in getting the best out of any given situation by his ability to mobilize the human elements without which revolutionary activity must of necessity consist of mere phrases or fitter itself away in useless effort. Of Comrade Lenin, Paul Axelrod, then a revolutionist, said:

> "Until now we have not had in Russia a man who combined the knowledge of Marxian theory with the practical qualities of an organizer. Now we have found such a man: he, Vladimir Ulianov Lenin, is the future leader of the labor movement."

As early as 1902-03 Comrade Lenin began to teach the necessity of the alliance of the working class with the peasantry. When the Menshevika were overjoyed when the middle class and intelligentsia began to make demands upon the government and proclaimed them the natural allies of the workers," Comrade Lenin exposed the hollowness of this pretension and put forward the idea of unity of the workers and peasants.

The demand for nationalization of the land which Comrade Lenin urged the Stockholm conference to endorse in opposition to Plekhanov and others. To their questions: "How can we transfer the land to the state? Suppose the landlords come back?", Comrade Lenin replied with a dialectical rapier thrust:

> "We must make every peasant understand that once he has seized the land from the landlords, he must completely reconstruct the state from top to bottom so as to make it impossible for the landlord to return. The government of the country from top to bottom must be a government of the people."

Eleven years later Lenin and the Bolshevik party of which he was the leader by virtue of his ability to see everything of importance to the revolution in its proper perspective and organize to take advantage of every loophole in the capitalist system, demonstrated the practicability of what the Menshevika called an "impossibility."

In the revolutionary movement of the United States, perhaps as a sort of reaction to the temptations which prosperous America places before revolutionists, there has grown up a disregard of personal amenities. It may be what psychoanalysts call "over-correction." Comrade Lenin, merciless toward the capitalist class and the agents of the capitalists in the labor movement, was never hard or cold toward his fellow workers. He realized, better than those who try to reconcile a bloodless asceticism with revolutionary activity, that not only rank and file workers but revolutionists are human beings—human beings subject to all the desires and ills of mankind.

Comrade Yaroslavsky says, and this is one of the tenderest passages in a book that in every page breathes tenderness for the memory of the dead leader and fondness, that:

> "Everybody has observed his great care for the needs of his comrades, and this, too, was the result of Lenin's simplicity. Everybody knows that he not only knew how to listen to a comrade, but that he never forgot that it was sometimes necessary TO DO SOMETHING FOR A COMRADE. Everybody who came into close contact with Lenin became aware of this characteristic. I think that at least half an hour of Lenin's time was spent on an average every day in attending to the needs of some comrade or other, arranging living quarters for him, or, if he were ill, for medical attention. He insisted that we should look after the health of comrades who had broken down, he was always sending some comrade off for a rest or to feed up, or arranging cures for comrades who were suffering from overwork and fatigue. He even concerned himself in the care of children, but he appeared to do so without strain or difficulty." (Emphasis mine.)

This very simplicity and concern for others made possible the attack on him by the counter-revolutionist Kaplan who shot him three times with poisoned dumdum bullets, but the powerful constitution, which his frugal method of living had developed, enabled him to recover—altho not completely.

The simplicity of Lenin, however, was not a humanitarian but a political simplicity, and molded into the working class theoretically and organically, Lenin placed the fullest confidence in workers. It was Lenin who formulated the now famous reply to the Mensheviks when the discussion arose at the 1903 congress over the social composition and discipline of the revolutionary party. When these elements, protesting against the proposed rule that a revolutionary party should be composed of revolutionists who worked at the trade of revolution, asked; "But what about people like professors and college students? Do you insist that these personnily take part in the work of the party organization?", the Bolsheviks replied:

> "We will do without professors and college students; let us have as many working men as possible, who will join the party and work in it as party members."

A great and simple book about a great and simple revolutionist; whose simplicity and directness confounded the diplomats and generals of world capitalism.

—BILL DUNNE.

Read The Daily Worker

HANDS OFF CHINA! WITHDRAW TROOPS AND BATTLESHIPS!

THE DAILY WORKER FIGHTS:
FOR THE ORGANIZATION OF THE UNORGANIZED
FOR THE 40-HOUR WEEK
FOR A LABOR PARTY

THE DAILY WORKER

FINAL CITY EDITION

Entered as second-class matter at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Vol. IV. No. 86. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In New York, By mail, $8.00 per year. Outside New York, by mail, $6.00 per year. NEW YORK, SATURDAY, APRIL 23, 1927 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 33 First Street, New York, N. Y. Price 3 Cents

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

READING books promises to become a popular indoor sport in this country before long if the authorities in various parts of the country continue to suppress harmless publications. It is true that some of the books should be suppressed in the interests of the mental equanimity of a certain section of the population. There is "Elmer Gantry" for instance. If I were a preacher, a man of the cloth, I would urge the author's deportation on the ground that he was born in Minnesota under false pretences and therefore an undesirable citizen.

• • •

READING is an uncomfortable habit for those who read, as well as for those who are written about. While spending a few happy weeks in Berrien county jail (Michigan) a few years back, in company with several other comrades we passed the time pleasantly and instructively reading books, magazines and newspapers. A local pugilist who got into trouble of a quite unpopular but not unusual nature caught the reading habit much to the amazement and horror of the attending detective who shrieked: "My God, so they got you reading." Reading is habit-forming vice.

• • •

THERE is a delusion in existence here in the United States that some races are more addicted to reading than others. The race from which I have sprung may not be the greatest book-consuming public in the world but they are not as averse to burning the midnight gas over a choice piece of literature as is commonly supposed. And they have produced a James Joyce much to their horror. It must be admitted on the whole that the Irish have not been encouraged by their spiritual overseers to send ideological ferrets prowling among the spiritual rabbits in their mental burrows.

• • •

BE that as it may I was more or less interested yesterday on seeing a sign over a bookstore at 127 University Place which seems to give hope for encouragement. This place is near a branch of that gigantic national pawnshop known as the Morris Plan on the corner of Broadway and 14th. The sign read: "The Jimmy Higgins Book Shop." Gazing in the window I was still more amazed. Instead of seeing there "The Life of Saint Patrick" or "The Story of the Immaculate Conception" there were books on economics, politics, biology, historical works and fiction of the kind that Boston policemen consider inimical to their morals.

• • •

I DECIDED to drop in and see Jimmy but apparently he was elsewhere. So his manager replied to my questions and introduced me to his assistant manager who holds the fort while the manager is at lunch. An agreeable staff who know so much about books that it is impossible to leave this orderly, well stocked store without purchasing something—if you have the money. Whether you see Jimmy or not I can recommend his book store to the readers of this column. (Jimmy Higgins is not a person but an idea—Ed. D. W. What of it?—T. J. O'F.).

• • •

BRITISH propagandists in Shanghai are successfully insulting the intelligence of the reading public by explaining the split of Chang Kai Shek with the Kuomintang as a maneuver to save the face of the Nationalist government owing to difficulties with the foreign powers. A realistic maneuver indeed! It is a rather serious piece of diplomatic trickery for the age hundreds of trade union leaders who are being beheaded by the mercenaries of General Chiang Kai Shek.

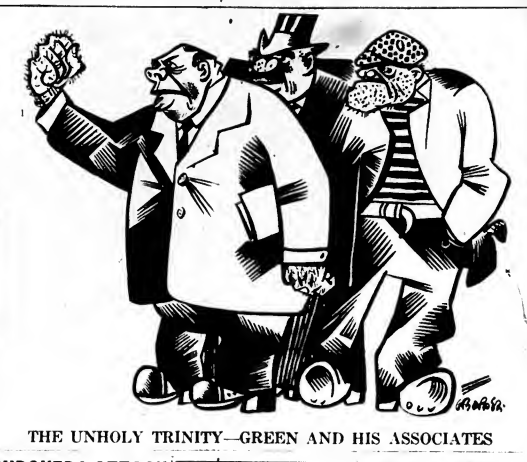
• • •

The explanation of this cock-eyed "news" is that Chiang is under the tutelage of the foreign imperialist experts who have advised him to continue to strut his anti-imperialist stuff lest a sudden dropping of the hostile phrases might leave him without a corporal's guard of a following among the masses. But Chiang's tricks are not fooling the Chinese people. They are getting ready to mete out to him the punishment a traitor deserves. The guns and armies of the imperialists will yet hurl him little when the mighty power of the Chinese workers and peasants pours down on him like a tidal wave.

• • •

THERE is a serious financial panic in Japan. So serious is the situation that it is not likely the new cabinet will risk gratifying the expectations of the anti-Chinese faction with a more aggressive policy in China. The economic system in Japan has been shaky since the end of the world war. Two disastrous earthquakes shook the country's economy to

(Continued on Page Three)



FURRIERS TRIAL IN MINEOLA GOES TO JURY

Mineola Court Room Sketches By Gellert In Monday's "Worker"

A group of remarkable drawings by Hugo Gellert, brilliant radical artist, made in the Mineola court room where the trial of Ben Gold and the 10 other leaders of the New York fur workers has just ended, will accompany the complete account of the trial which will appear in Monday's issue of The DAILY WORKER.

Among those sketched by Gellert in the court room are Ben Gold, I. Shapiro, S. Mencher, Judge Lewis Smith, District Attorney Edwards, Barnett Basoff, the stool-pigeon and star witness of the prosecution, the two "dicks" who cooperated with the right wing, and four members of the jury, including the foreman.

A full page will be devoted to an account of the case in Monday's issue.

THE UNHOLY TRINITY—GREEN AND HIS ASSOCIATES

Mussolini Outlaws Strikes, Boycotts And Minimum Wage

ROME, April 22. — Mussolini's labor-smashing policies reached their climax Wednesday evening with the adoption by the Fascist Grand Council of the "Charter of Labor."

Strikes and boycotts are outlawed while the principle of the minimum wage is denounced and declared "unsound."

The document which purports to establish a "fair and proper relationship between capital and labor" grants Italian workers magnanimous concessions like the six day week, one annual paid holiday, and religious holidays "when deemed possible."

Maurer and Woll Expect to Clash At Boston Meeting

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BOSTON, Mass. April 22.—Labor circles here are watching closely the opening of the biennial convention of the Workers Education Bureau, when two of the most colorful figures in the trade union movement will have an opportunity to cross swords on an old grievance, if they care to. One is James Maurer, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor and of the Education Bureau and the other is Matthew Woll, vice president of the A. F. of L. and the Bureau.

They clashed recently on the National Civic Federation's attitude on old age pensions. Maurer, a leader in the pension movement criticised vigorously the policy of the Civic Federation, of which Woll is acting president. Here at Boston, however, they will find themselves on the same platform with full opportunity either to reach an agreement on the old age pension question, or to discuss further their views.

Sacco-Vanzetti Action.

Some action is being planned on behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti, although the form has not yet been determined. It is urged that the 200 delegates go make a pilgrimage to Dedham jail, where the two workers are held pending their threatened execution on July 10.

One issue likely to precipitate lively action on the convention floor the opening day will be the status of the Workers School of New York. Classing to be one of the largest, if not the largest labor college in America, the school is expected to ask a seat in deliberations. If the Bureau, however, follows out the action of the A. F. of L. convention, the Workers School may be banned because of its connection with the Workers Party.

Rain Quells Forest Fire

ALBANY, N. Y., April 22.—Rain has wiped out the forest fire danger, at least for the present, the Conservation Commission announced today. Every fire was out today and rain was general throughout the forest fire area.

Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!

PURSUERS ATTACK TRAIN MURDERERS CLERICS SQUIRM

Papal Representative Admits Priests Led

MEXICO CITY April 22.—Government forces, following hotly after the marauding band of clericals which day before yesterday burned to death 187 peaceful passengers on a Guadalajara Mexico City train, have caught up with the band at Yurechiaro, a town near the scene of the massacre, and have inflicted a severe defeat upon them.

• • •

Arrest Traducers

MEXICO CITY, April 22.—Archbishop Mora Del Rio, head of the Catholic Church in Mexico, and five other church dignitaries were arrested last night immediately after the issuance of a statement from the episcopate which accused the government of having been responsible for acts similar to that of the Guadajara bandits.

Those arrested besides Archbishop Mora Del Rio included Archbishop Valdespino of Aguascalientes, Bishop Anaya of Puebla, Bishop De La Mora of San Luis Potosi.

• • •

Vatican Admits Leadership.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Irritated by the horror and resentment against the catholic church, whose priests led the clerical rebels who perpetrated the Guadaiajara—Mexico City train massacre, the Rev. Pietro Fumasoni-Binobi, apostolic delegate to the United States, has hastened to deny that the Mexican hierarchy is responsible for it. However, Fumasoni-Binobi, direct representative of the Vatican, inadvertently, in his defense of the catholic rebels, admits that priests led the attack.

Feels Hurt By Charge.

"The charge is without foundation and the result of the bitter hatred of President Calles for the catholic church," said the Rev. Fumasoni-Binoli. "This bitterness of the president of Mexico and his utter lack of logic must be evident to anyone who reads his statement."

"Because three priests led the attacking party, as he asserts, then we must conclude that the catholic church of Mexico is responsible for the massacre.

• • •

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 22.—Rumors that the Mexican government has discovered a wide spread plot to assassinate the public officials may very likely be true, said representatives here, as it is known that the church has thruout its history resorted in times of crisis to inspired assassinations, but the local consul general has not heard of any seizure of the telegraphic service, nor any censorship established in Mexico City.

Foreigners Who Enter United States To Be As Immigrant Aliens

WASHINGTON, April 22. — Drastic changes in the regulations relating to aliens crossing the Canadian and Mexican borders into the United States were promulgated today by the department of labor.

Aliens residing in foreign contiguous countries and entering the United States to engage in existing employment or to seek employment will not be considered as visiting the United States temporarily as tourists, or temporarily for business or pleasure, but will be considered as aliens of the "immigrant" class.

5 Seamen Thwart "Shanghai" Plot; Boat Dangerous

An attempt to "Shanghai" five seamen aboard the S. S. "H. J. Lawrence" was frustrated yesterday when the men escaped from the ship by sliding down a rope to a coal barge which was laying alongside and from there taken ashore by a friendly lighter.

Vessel Dangerous.

The men, George Pappdoqus, J. Cringel, F. McKenna, B. Barran, and a measman, whose name could not be procured, refused to sail on the boat, a coastwise vessel upon which they had been working for four days because of its unsafe condition. They declared that the dynamo was out of order, endangering the lives of the men aboard; the pumps were also dislocated and held together by rope. In addition, the mess service was inadequate, in as much as the ships cook (instead of the customary 2 or 3) had been in a state of chronic drunkenness for the past few days.

The escaped seamen had not signed any "articles," and were consequently not bound to leave with the ship.

J. Louis Engdahl Places Wreaths on the Graves of Liebknecht - Luxembourg

(Special To The Daily Worker)

BERLIN, April 21. (Delayed)—J. Louis Engdahl, editor of The DAILY WORKER who is bringing the ashes of C. E. Ruthenberg, general secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party to Moscow where they will be interred in the Kremlin wall, today placed a wreath on the graves of Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxembourg, pioneer German Communists who were murdered in 1919 by the socialist government of Germany.

LABOR IN CITY OF PASSAIC IS FOR WEISBORD

Cheer Him at Campaign Mass Meetings

(Special to The DAILY WORKER)

PASSAIC, N. J., April 22.—Packing Ukrainian Hall and the Workers Home tonight hundreds of workers shouted their approval of the labor candidates for city commissioner—Albert Weisbord, Simon Smelkinson and Simon Bambach.

Discusses Unemployment

Albert Weisbord spoke on the question of unemployment showing the need of the mills either giving them work or pay them wages nevertheless. He demanded that the city start construction work on the parks, streets, etc.

Weisbord also spoke of the necessity of every worker being a member of a union. How in that way the labor movement would be better able to fight the bosses in the every day struggle.

Dunne Speaks

Greeted with enthusiasm, William F. Dunne, editor of The DAILY WORKER said that "The world of labor is watching the Passaic workers in this election campaign. The labor movement wants to see if the bitter struggle here for union recognition, wages and working conditions, which aroused wide admiration and support has stimulated a class loyalty which sees in support of labor candidates a continuation of the strike struggle on another front.

Meeting Is Answer

"This tremendous meeting gives a partial answer to the American labor movement. An avalanche of ballots marked for Weisbord and his fellow fighters will be the final answer.

"This you will do and once more you will show the textile workers that the Passaic workers know how and when to fight for unionism and the power that it brings."

Heckled At Meeting

Speaking last night at Carpenters Hall at a meeting called by the democratic party he was heckled by the president and secretary of that organization. He also spoke the same evening at a meeting arranged by the League For Women Voters where he received a good reception.

It is apparent that an organized group of hecklers are visiting all the meetings where the labor candidates speak and carry on a campaign to disorganize when Weisbord has the floor. It is believed that they are being paid for this.

Sacco Vanzetti Meeting

The Sacco-Vanzetti meeting that was first arranged for last week will be held Wednesday evening, seven o'clock at Belmont Park, Garfield, under the joint auspices of the International Labor Defense and the Anti-fascist Alliance. Among the speakers will be Albert Weisbord, Robert W. Dunn and Pat Devine.

AFTER FOUR HOURS JURORS ASK TO HAVE PROSECUTION TESTIMONY READ

Judge's Charge Calls for Distinctions Between Groups of Defendants

MINEOLA, L. I., April 22.—At 11 o'clock last night the jury in the trial of Ben Gold and 10 other leaders of the New York fur workers charged with "assault" on a fur scab shop in Rockville Center during the strike last year, was still deliberating.

Return At 9:35.

With all the evidence in, and the summing up of the defense lawyers and the district attorney, the case went to the jury at 5:30. At 9:35 the jurors filed back into the box ,and the foreman asked that the transcript of three prosecution witnesses be read.

These included Greeve, one of the detectives who declared on the stand that he helped "work up" the evidence against the furriers; Miss Mary Fargas, who was a strikebreaker in Michael Barnett's shop, where the attack is alleged to have taken place; and Miss May Grefer, secretary to J. P. Coughlin, of the New York Central Trades and Labor Council.

All the testimony related to I. Shapiro, one of the members of the Joint Board.

The questions of the jury relative to the testimony against Shapiro would indicate that a verdict on Ben Gold had already been reached.

SACCO, VANZETTI HAVE NOT MADE PARDON REQUEST

Attorney General Says Coolidge Will Not Aid

It has last been learned that both Sacco and Vanzetti, now in Dedham Jail, have refused for two weeks to sign a petition to Gov. Alvan T. Fuller for a pardon. Vanzetti held that he and Sacco are innocent and fears that the word "pardon" may be misconstrued.

Attorney William G. Thompson, defense lawyer, stated that a conference with the two framed-up men would be held shortly.

• • •

WASHINGTON, April 22.—President Coolidge and the department of justice will refuse any form of intervention to halt the execution of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti.

This announcement was made officially by Attorney-General Sargent yesterday.

• • •

BOSTON, April 22.—Attorney William G. Thompson, counsel for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, Italian workers convicted of murder on framed-up charges, today asked Gov. Alvan T. Fuller for another respite for Celestinos Madeiros, condemned to die in the electric chair next Thursday morning.

• • •

A large delegation, representing trade unions and fraternal organizations, adopted plans last night looking toward a national conference to help save the lives of Sacco and Vanzetti, at the Labor Temple, 243 East 84th St.

Called by the Sacco-Vanzetti Emergency Committee, the delegates passed a resolution calling upon complete unity in the work of helping to free the two framed-up workers now facing death in the electric chair.

Enthusiastic support was given to the decision to join with other groups in New York City for the purpose of calling a local general strike in protest against the threatened execution of the two men. In order to have united and simultaneous action with respect to the stoppage of work, a committee was appointed to work in harmony with other groups in the city who have initiated plans for the strike.

More Demonstrations Urged.

Additional protest demonstrations in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti, similar to the one held in Union Square last Saturday, at which 20,000 workers protested the decision of the Massachusetts courts, were urged by the delegates.

The immediate selection of a committee representing organized labor in this city to call upon Gov. Fuller of Massachusetts was decided upon as one of the first steps in the campaign to free the two framed-up workers.

CHEN PROTEST AS POWERS PREPARE DRIVE ON HANKOW

1,500 U. S. Marines to Joinn 42 Warships

HIGHLIGHTS OF TODAY'S NEWS.

1.—Powers prepare for attack on Hankow. Concentrate warships, rush 1,500 American marines.
2.—Eugene Chen, Nationalist foreign minister, protests against presence of 42 warships off Hankow.
3.—France adopts more militant policy.
4.—Chiang Kai-shek makes bid for imperialist support; continues wholesale arrest and execution of labor leaders.
5.—Bukharin advises Communists to work within Kuomintang.
6.—American and British fire destroyed setcions of Nanking, eyewitness testifies.
7.—Rumor alliance between Chang Tso-lin and Chiang Kai-shek.

• • •

WASHINGTON, April 22. That the imperialist powers are making preparations for an attack on Hankow, seat of the Nationalist government, was indicated today by the circulation of the report that the 1,500 marines aboard the transport Henderson, due in Shanghai shortly, are bound for Hankow.

Although Secretary of War Wilbar has declared that the ultimate destination of the marines is in the hands of Admiral C. S. Williams, commander of the Asiatic squadron, responsible for the Nanking bombardment, close observers of the situation believe that the Nationalist capital is the certain destination of the marines.

Bound for Hankow.

Dispatches from London quote the Morning Post as saying that the American contingent will proceed directly to Hankow.

Chen Protests.

Eugene Chen, Nationalist foreign minister, has protested against the presence of the imperialist warships off Hankow, according to a dispatch from that city. Conditions in Hankow and small number of foreigners in the city do not warrant the presence of 42 foreign vessels, Chen said.

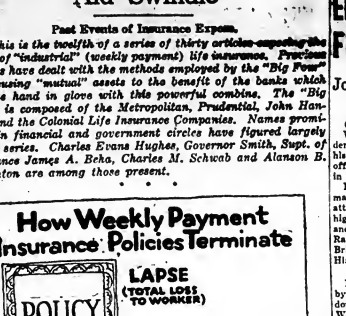
The concentration of imperialist warships outside of Haokow is regarded as part of the preparation for a possible attack on the city. Latest reports put the number of imperialist war vessels in Hankow at 42. Other

(Continued on Page Two)

Mother of 8 to Serve Ten Years in Prison For Shooting Daughter

Mrs. Christine Stoble, who shot and killed her sixteen-year-old daughter immediately after the girl gave birth to an illegitimate child, was convicted of manslaughter yesterday. She was immediately sentenced to serve 10 years in prison—the maximum sentence.

The judge presiding in the case accompanied the sentence by a denunciatory speech.



During the entire time since she was arrested, Mrs. Stoble, a mother of eight children, has been in a half-crazed state, and even now refuses to believe that her daughter is dead.

Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!

"Big Four" Agents Trained to Aid Swindle

Past Events of Insurance Expose.

This is the twelfth of a series of thirty articles exposing the fraud of "industrial" (weekly payment) life insurance. Previous articles have dealt with the methods employed by the "Big Four" in misusing "mutual" assets to the benefit of the banks which operate hand in glove with this powerful combine. The "Big Four" is composed of the Metropolitan, Prudential, John Hancock and the Colonial Life Insurance Companies. Names prominent in financial and government circles have figured largely in the series. Charles Evans Hughes, Governor Smith, Supt. of Insurance James A. Beha, Charles M. Schwab and Alanson B. Houghton are among those present.

This illustration graphically tells the story of the millions made by the "Big Four" on forfeitures on lapsed weekly payment policies. Giving the insurance trust the benefit of every doubt, they made upwards of $50,000,000.00 last year on this item alone.

(Copyrighted by The DAILY WORKER, 1927.)

By CHARLES YALE HARRISON

ARTICLE XII.

Because they have a bearing on what follows it is advisable to mention once more the startling facts relative to "industrial" (weekly payment) life insurance lapse statistics.

It must be remembered that whereas "ordinary" life insurance policies have a loan value after being two years in force, industrial life insurance policies have no loan values whatsoever. An "industrial" policyholder has been paying upon his policy for the past twenty years, during which time he may have deposited upwards of $500, yet, if he is in desperate circumstances, and requires a loan, the "Big Four" will not grant it. They get Little.

In order to secure cash on a weekly payment life insurance policy, it must be surrendered. The available cash is usually about one-third of the total payments made during the payment-period. When the policy is surrendered for its cash value, it is automatically lapsed by the company and further protection, such as it is, ceases.

Ballyhooers for life insurance never fail to stress the point that life insurance is a great investment. Save for your old age. 95% of American workers are destitute at age 65, they say. They quote horrible examples of men who failed to make provision for their old age and who are now languishing in the poorhouse.

The claim is not being put forward in this series of articles that the principle of life insurance is not a good one. On the contrary, it is one of such great merit and of such great social significance that it should not be left in the hands of the swindling Wall Street financiers, who fatten upon the ignorance and credulity of 40 million workers, unwilling victims of the "Big Four" weekly payment life insurance combine.

Rates Too High.

The life insurance rate is a good thing, but not at the present rates which are more than three times too great for the benefits paid.

Certainly life insurance has a great social significance but not in the hands of the present Wall Street directors, who now control the so-called mutual companies to the detriment of the policyholders' interests and to their own aggrandizement and profit.

Consider the question of weekly payment policy lapses. In the year 1925, one and a half billions of dollars of "industrial" insurance terminated on the books of the "Big Four."

Of this enormous termination only 9% were paid in death claims. One percent (1%) of these terminations were paid as death claims.

After all the propaganda about saving for one's age, we discover that the policy conditions are so harsh that only 1% of all terminated policies are endowments. If your agent ever tells you to save for your old age via a weekly payment endowment policy, tell him that you can find a better method than doing it with his company.

Most Policies Lapse.

The above percentages, startling though they may be, are as naught compared with the figures on the "Big Four" weekly payment policy lapses. Of the total amount of yearly terminations 75% are total loss lapses. This means that insurers who are unable to hang on to their policies for the prescribed ten years (after which they may surrender their policies at a 66⅔ loss), drop them at a complete loss.

Save for your old age!

3% of all terminations are paid as surrender values and the balance are what the N. Y. Insurance Report calls "expiries"; which is another name for a lapsed policy.

How to Sell It.

I have before me a booklet issued by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, the largest life insurance company in the world and the biggest seller of weekly payment life insurance in America. The pamphlet is called "Talks to New Agents."

It is a short course in how to sell industrial insurance. It says, "People buy life insurance because of salesmen who sell it to them. Your processes, stripped bare, may sometimes mean to plead, coax, drum or urge men into insuring their lives; but the more you apply cleverness—the greater your success." Nice business ahead, coax, drum! Further on it says, "Keep cool in the background."

The cost is so excessive that as soon as it is mentioned the prospect will fight shy, therefore it is advisable to keep cost in the background. Get him hot on about his old age, about the poorhouse, about anything, but don't mention cost. After you have scared the wits out of him, then you may mention cost . . . it won't matter then.

Get to Their Hearts.

The booklet goes on to illustrate how to get at your prospect's heart-strings: "Suppose the case of, say, your unlaboured neighbour, a good risk, aged 40, who earns a nice salary. He adores his little son, the cutest little four-year-old in the world. . . . You hand the child a small gift and the father is greatly pleased because the toy is a joy to the boy." This is known as sales technique! Great stuff.

Still further, "You must pour out the water of life unsparingly until the rock of resistance sinks out of sight—but you must pour it out with tact."

Tact does not present a proposal (of insurance) with a cool command; does not begin a canvass with talk about cost; does not show many figures; does not dwell on surrender values; does not leave sample policies until asked for. . . ."

From the beginning of his novitiate the new agent is primed to forget cost in talking to his prospect. As stated in the little lesson above, he must never talk about surrender values. Why should he. When the poor dupe discovers what his surrender values really are it is usually too late.

Don't show figures! Of course not, they are unfavorable to the company. They expose the prima facie fraud. No, talk about the weather, bring the son a toy, kiss the baby, but don't mention cost. Don't show figures and above all don't leave sample policies. It might give the game away.

It is due to the terrific number of weekly payment lapses that the enormous "Big Four" assets keep prospering year after year. During 1925, conservatively estimated, the "Big Four" made upwards of $50,000,000 on forfeitures on lapsed policies. But did the 40 million "industrial" policyholders benefit by these profits? Did the "mutual" directors lower the cost of insurance?

"Keep cost in the background."

BOSTON, April 22.—Scott Nearing will talk on "Dollar Diplomacy," the second of a course of four lectures at Lorimer Hall, Tremont Temple, on Monday at 8 o'clock. The lectures are being held under the auspices of the Workers' School of Boston.

GREEN THROWS AN ELEGANT PARTY FOR MacDONALD

Join Nabobs in Entertaining J. Ramsay

(From a Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, April 22.—President Green of the A. F. of L. and his cohorts of high priced labor union officials are having a high old time in the old town these days.

Bedizened in afternoon clothes, formal evening dress, and even morning attire, they are hobnobbing with the high and the mighty—all in honor and homage of the leading friend, J. Ramsay MacDonald, chairman of the British Labor Party and leader of His Majesty's Opposition.

Green's Buffoonery

Mr. Green startled newspapermen by dashing into the British ambassadorial mansion on Connecticut avenue Wednesday noon, all togged out in Prince-Albert and high collar. The British Ambassador, Sir Esme Howard, had invited him and Secretary Morrissey to be present at a dinner he gave for MacDonald.

Throws Swell Dinner

Wednesday night, however, President Green and his boys came into their own. In the ultra-fashionable Hamilton hotel they threw a dinner party for the former Premier, at which several ambassadors, a number of politicians, among them Secretary of Labor Davis, and a group of labor union officials were present.

Mr. MacDonald in his press talks while here explained at great length how it came about that the Independent Labor Party did not renominate him for treasurer and how he expected to be elected to that office just the same.

How About Forward?

"I am very fond of you Americans you know," he began, "and despite your bustle I think there is much to learn."

"Mr. MacDonald," a reporter broke in, "is it true that the Forward is paying your expenses on this trip?"

"That is not true, young man," was the reply, "they are no more paying my expenses than you are. I have written for the Forward and am their guest at the convention."

"Mr. MacDonald, you are no doubt aware of the fight going on in the labor movement in New York, what is your opinion of the issues and factors involved, as put forth by the Forward and The DAILY WORKER and the FREIHEIT?"

"Oh, those are the two papers, they are the Communist papers. Aren't they?" he asked and then went no further.

Mayor James J. Walker of New York City is shown greeting J. Ramsay MacDonald, former prime minister of Great Britain, following the return of MacDonald from Boston and Concord.

MacDonald Lolls In Embassy of Britain; Sneers at Strikers

By LAURENCE TODD
(Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 22.—J. Ramsay MacDonald came to Washington on April 20 and found it all dressed up to meet him. He sat in the British embassy and answered questions from press correspondents. He had lunch with Sir Esme Howard, the Tory ambassador, and a number of guests including Sen. Borah and President Green and Secretary Morrison of the American Federation of Labor, with Secretary of Labor Davis.

In the evening, the A. F. of L. gave him a dinner at the Hamilton Hotel—a dinner for 60 trade union officials with a few public officeholders to round out the occasion.

Slanders General Strike

Talking to the press men, MacDonald said the general strike had "struck labor generally," and because it had proved disastrously expensive to the strength of the labor movement he did not think it would be repeated in a long while.

He attacked Secretary Cook of the British Miners' Federation, saying that Cook is a strong trade unionist at 9 in the morning, but by 10 he is a syndicalist, by 11 is advocating political action, and by afternoon is again relying on industrial action. His own defeat at the hands of Cook's supporters, for nomination for treasurer of the Independent Labor Party, he dismissed as being of slight consequence. He said he would now be nominated by possibly 70 organizations, and expected to win a bigger vote than last year, in the Labor Party as a whole.

On China.

When asked about the new situation in China, created by the anti-red move of Chiang Kai-Shek, MacDonald said that the foreign powers are responsible for all that has happened. He did not discuss the class issue in the Chinese revolution. The interview was cut short by the hour for Sir Esme Howard's luncheon, at that point.

MacDonald answered a question as to his connection with the Jewish Daily Forward's anniversary celebration in New York, by explaining that he writes a London letter for that paper, and hence was asked to speak at its anniversary celebration, but he denied that the paper was paying his expenses on his American trip.

Supports Daily Worker

The International Branch, Union City, N. J., has contributed $15 toward the sustaining fund of the DAILY WORKER. Plans are also being made for the raising of funds for the paper periodically in the future.

SOCIALIST ORGAN IS SPLIT OVER CHIANG'S TREASON

What may develop into a new split in the socialist party for Abraham Cahan, was indicated today when the latest opinion of the New Leader, socialist party organ, appeared on the streets with Norman Thomas and James Oneal locking horns in deadly combat over the recent split in the Kuomintang Party of China.

Dr. Thomas is severe in his condemnation of Chiang Kai-Shek and brands him as a traitor to the Nationalist movement, even going so far as to accuse him of having received British gold, which is going far for such a cautious person as Dr. Thomas.

To quote from his column, "Timely Topics.

"In no proper sense is the sorry split in the ranks of the Chinese Nationalist party a matter of principle or a right and left wing division. Gen. Chiang masks his own treason to the Nationalist movement by the familiar talk of the wickedness of the Reds. Apparently he is without support, save his own troops, the money of some Chinese merchants, and perhaps some British gold. He is charged with not accounting for $90,000,000 of Nationalist money and of having reached a mutual understanding with the Northern militarists. Whatever offenses Chinese Communists in Hankow may have committed against Chiang they are insignificant in comparison with Chiang's criminal defection. In the long run he is likely to fall. In the meantime he has thrown Chinese affairs into new chaos. One way or another the powers may take advantage of that chaos. If they do they will only add to Chinese bitterness. It is highly important to remember that not the Northern militarists nor Chiang himself, although perhaps they may at times be paid tools of foreign powers, British or Japanese, have dared to talk anything but the language of relentless opposition to the unequal treaties."

Lest the New Leader might be accused of one-sidedness James Oneal takes up the cudgels for Chiang on the editorial page, which is not out of harmony with his support of the A. F. of L. officials who are aiding the bosses and bomb squad in trying to send furriers and left wing members of the needle trades unions to jail. Here is what Oneal has to say:

"The split in the ranks of the Chinese Nationalists is wide, and civil war is waged between the two factions. The Communists have set up in business at Hankow and the anti-Communists at Nanking. In Moscow the Communists are terribly shocked because CHIANG-KAI-SHEK HAS EXECUTED SOME OF HIS COMMUNIST OPPONENTS and is carrying the war into the opposition camp. With the Moscow brazes' record of executions, jailings and exiling of Socialists, Chiang probably thought it wise to give his opponents a dose of their own medicine. We note that Earl Browder of the American Communist Party, Tom Mann of England and M. Doriot have gone to Hankow to advise the Communists. Chiang has issued a statement telling what happened."

The socialist officials have little use for a united front even among themselves but they seem to enjoy a divided rear.

MAYOR GREETS EX-PREMIER

Marines and Warships Mass to Attack Hankow

(Continued from Page One)

war vessels are patrolling the Yangtze between Shanghai and Hankow.

France More Militant.

Dispatches from Paris indicate that the die-hard cabinet, fearing a revolt in Indo-China, is adopting a more militant stand on the Chinese situation. Authoritative sources state that the cabinet is willing to follow Great Britain in an open war against the Nationalist government.

In case of intervention the powers will take steps to separate Hankow from Nanking and will direct their attack entirely against the Hankow government.

* * *

Bids for Support.

SHANGHAI, April 22. — Chiang Kai-shek is making an open bid for imperialist support, it was learned from authoritative sources today.

He is prepared to offer the imperialist powers full indemnity for foreign lives lost and property damaged at Nanking, without making counter-demands for reparations for thousands of Chinese killed and valuable property destroyed by the imperialists' bombardment of the city, it is reported.

Sections of Nanking were totally destroyed by British and American gun-fire during the bombardment of the city, according to W. De Crosse, an eye-witness.

That Chiang Kai-shek may form an open alliance with Chang Tso-lin, Manchurian war lord, was intimated by De Crosse, who is connected in a semi-official capacity with Chiang Kai-shek.

Chiang is also carrying the favor of foreign imperialists and native manufacturers by issuing warrants for the wholesale arrest and execution of labor leaders.

A despicatory warrant for the arrest of 116 Nationalist leaders, including Michael Borodin. Several other Russians are included among those for whom warrants are issued.

Murder 112.

The number of Nationalist and labor leaders who have been executed by Chiang now total 112. Summary execution of leaders of workers and peasants' unions are taking place at Nanking, Canton, Swatow and Soochow.

In an attempt to suppress the mass protest against the raids on local unions and the executions of labor leaders, Chiang Kai-shek has declared martial law in the native city of Shanghai.

Chiang's troops patrolled the streets and searched "suspicious-looking" Chinese.

Suppress Unions.

Chow-lu, who has made a specialty of suppressing workers' and peasants' unions has been ordered by Chiang Kai-shek to Nanking, where there has been wide-spread unrest against his ruthless dictatorship.

Reports from Nanking state that six more labor leaders were executed at Lunehwa at the orders of Chiang Kai-shek. Their names are being withheld.

Bombard Nanking.

Two thousand white guard Russians and 7,000 Shanghai troops, surrounded by Chiang's troops, are in Pukow and continue to shell Nanking. These shells are coming principally from guns mounted on armored trains and are taking a daily toll of lives in Nanking. The normal population of Nanking, which is 1,000,000, has been cut down by the flight of the panic-stricken populace. Few shops are open and business is at a standstill with the city over-run with soldiers.

* * *

Bukharin Advises Moderation.

MOSCOW, April 22.—Pointing out that the Communist Party must work within the Kuomintang and ally itself with all of the national forces, but the extreme right, N. D. Bucharin in a statement issued yesterday said, "We must utilize the national forces united in the Kuomintang with the

Who is Behind the Prosecution of the Militant Needle Trades Workers?

Who Are Matthew Woll's Fellow Conspirators?

They Are Leaders of the National Civic Federation!

Woll is Acting President of the Labor Hating Civic Federation.

Ben Gold and 10 other members of the Furriers' Union and 40 members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union are being framed up by a combination of high salaried labor leaders and capitalists. They are trying to jail them for long terms.

There is a United Front of the Special American Federation of Labor Committee, headed by Vice President Woll, and the National Civic Federation, dominated by the most powerful capitalists in the United States.

Matthew Woll is the connecting link in the conspiracy.

Samuel McRoberts is treasurer of the National Civic Federation. His corporation connections are as follows:

President and director Metropolitan Trust Co., of the City of N. Y., 120 Broadway; director American Alliance Insurance Co.; director Sugar Refining Co.; chairman of Finance Committee of Armour & Co.; director Austin Machinery Corporation; director Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul Railway Co.; director Commercial Credit Corporation; director Consolidated Cigar Corporation; director Consolidated Coal Co.; the director Consolidation Coal Products Co.; the director Continental Guarantee Corporation; director Cumberland and Pa. R. R.; director Great American Insurance Co.; the director Kansas City Southern Railway Co.; director Massachusetts Fire & Marine Insurance Co.; director National Surety Co.; director N. Y. Indemnity Co.

Action Against Home Bootlegging Is Due

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Federal "intervention" into home brewing, wine making and small distilling may become necessary as a result of an enormous increase in this method of producing intoxicants, it was learned at the treasury today.

While Gen. L. C. Andrews, dry chief, has passed up the "little fellow" in the drive against big sources of liquor supply which have been keeping the bootleg market satisfied, officials admitted today that the question of home manufacture of intoxicants is looming as a "serious" problem.

BUY THE DAILY WORKER AT THE NEWSSTANDS

Scores Killed When Bridge Falls

TOKYO, Japan, April 22.—Scores of Japanese villagers on Shikoku Island were killed and injured when Mima Bridge cracked under the weight of a 17,000-pound stone today.

The stone, drawn by horses and followed by 1,000 persons, was intended as a monument in honor of Tamada, a greatly-admired liberal leader.

* * *

exception of the extreme right which is flirting with the militarists."

* * *

Chiang Seeks Reinforcements.

MANILA, P. I., April 22.—Professing admiration for Filipino soldiers, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, Chinese nationalist general, sought to recruit twenty-five experienced Filipino soldiers here today for service in his army.

Several Filipino soldiers of forunte are now with Chiang, among them is Vicente Barros, a former major in the Philippine Scouts.

* * *

Japan More Aggressive.

TOKYO, April 22.—That the new Japanese government will adopt a more aggressive policy in China is predicted here.

"Japan cannot remain indifferent about what is happening in China," Premier Tanaka said in a statement issued this afternoon, "as it is directly and deeply affected by it." Japan is ready to cooperate with the other powers, he said.

21 Day Moratorium In Japan; Call a Special Meeting of the Diet

TOKYO, April 22.—The twenty-one day bank moratorium was officially ordered this afternoon. A special five-day session of the diet was called to open May 3rd.

The financial crisis has extended even into the imperial family. The imperial household department held an emergency conference today to advance money to princes who were short of funds.

New England Working Women Have Arranged Conference For May

BOSTON, April 22.—A conference of women labor organizations in New England will be held here Sunday May 15 to mobilize the women to fight against imperialist wars and for the right of the working women.

The agenda calls for action on the following points: to fight imperialist war, to carry on an anti-war campaign to unionize the working women. To encourage and assist the working class women to become citizens of the United States. To fight for equal pay for equal work. To combat child labor and to consider the question of training the children of the workers in sympathy and respect of the cause of labor. To fight for government maintenance of working women for a specific period of time before and after child birth and demand legislative action legalizing birth control. To develop political consciousness and activity among working women. To participate in all struggles of the working people with other labor organizations. To provide for the educational, cutural, and social needs of the working class housewives. To receive maternal and moral support to workers engaged in struggles against capitalism, (relief in time of strikes, lockouts, etc.).

The conference will be held at Credit Union Hall, 62 Chamber St., at two p. m.

LECTURES and FORUMS

THE PEOPLE'S INSTITUTE

At Cooper Union (8 St. & Astor Pl.) at 8 o'clock — Admission Free

Sunday, April 24—Dr. Irwin Edman: "Shelley—Salvation, and the Modern Soul."

Tuesday, April 26—Prof. Henry E. Crampton: "Evolution Today."

Friday, April 29—Everett Dean Martin: What Is the Matter With Modern Art?—The Type of Man Who Thrives in the Modern World."

AT MANHATTAN TRADE SCHOOL for Girls, 119 E. 23rd St., at 8 o'clock. Single Admission, 25 cents. Reduction for Course Tickets.

Monday, Apr. 25—Houston Peterson: Eminent and the World of Humbug—"A Literary Saint."

Tuesday, Apr. 26—Dr. E. G. Spaulding: Questions People Expect a Philosopher to Answer—"What Is the Personality?"

Wednesday, April 27—Dr. Scott Buchanan: Platonic Attitudes—"Dialectic as a Method in Philosophy."

LABOR TEMPLE

14th Street and Second Avenue

THIS SUNDAY

5 P. M.—The Pioneers of the Race
DR. G. F. BECK
"The Saint of the Market Place"—Socrates
ADMISSION 25 CENTS

7:15 P. M.—
EDMUND B. CHAFFEE
"The Revolt of Asia"
ADMISSION FREE

8:30 P. M.—Open Forum
HARRY F. WARD
"Economics and Religion"—2.
ADMISSION FREE

INGERSOLL FORUM

anti-religious center of N. Y.
CHAMBER MUSIC HALL,
CARNEGIE HALL.
SUNDAY EVENING, 8 P. M.
DR. WINIFRED SACKVILLE (Mother) STONER
will speak on
"Vitology—The Only Sane Sense Philosophy"
Questions and Speeches from Floor Admission free. All welcome.

TOMORROW NIGHT, 8 P.M.

Joe Freeman
will speak on
"RUSSIA IN 1927"
A brilliant Proletarian Journalist, who has just returned from a half-year's stay in the Soviet Union, tells what he saw there.
At
The Workers School Forum
108 East 14th Street.
NEXT SUNDAY Max Delson on Forum. Attend your Day. Pay Dividend.
ADMISSION 25c

Union Starts Training Class

BOSTON, April 22.—The Young Workers League of District One has organized a training course on Organization and policy of the Young Workers League.

This course will be given in 7 lessons with 2 periods every lesson. The course contains instructions on structure of the Y. W. L. duties and function of units and officers, how to build shop nuclei, how to get new members, discipline and policy of the Y. W. L. on every field of work. Nat Kay the District Organizer of the League will instruct the course.

U. S. Army and Navy In Big Practice 'For New "War to End War"

BOSTON, April 22.—All is set for the big "war game" to be played off the southern New England coast during the week of May 16th.

The U. S. battle fleet will represent the "invading forces" and the U. S. army forces will take the part of the "defenders."

Army war college students will provide personnel to represent the commanders and staff of the landing forces.

The official purpose of this bit of jingoism, euphemistically described as "army-navy exercises" is said to be to test out certain plans of defense and to give practice to high commanders and staff in the detail of, "command and logistics connected with the handling of large bodies of troops."

Festival Dance Tonight.

A spring festival dance will be held tonight at the Astoria Mansion, 62 East 4th St., by the Downtown Section of the Young Workers' League.

ANYTHING IN PHOTOGRAPHY
STUDIO OR OUTSIDE WORK
Patronize our Friend
SPIESS STUDIO
54 Second Ave., cor. 3rd St.
Special Rates for Labor Organizations. (Established 1887.)

Phone: Drydock 3890.
FRED SPITZ
The FLORIST
3 SECOND AVENUE
Near Houston.
FRESH CUT FLOWERS DAILY
Fresh and Artificial Flowers Delivered Anywhere.
SPECIAL REDUCTION TO LABOR ORGANIZATIONS.

"NATURAL FOODS"
Sundried Fruits, Honey, Nuts, Brown Rice, Whole Wheat, Macaroni, Spaghetti, Noodles, Nut Butters, Swedish Bread, Maple Syrup, Tea and Coffee Substitutes, Innerclean, Kneipp Teas.
Books on Health.
VITALITY FOOD & VIGOR FOOD our Specialties.
KUBIE'S HEALTH SHOPPE
75 Greenwich Ave., New York
(7th Ave. and 11th St.)
Open Evenings. Mail Orders Filled

Swift Butchers in Ore. Strike Against "Bonus" System; Join the Union

PORTLAND, Ore., April 23.—The workers at Swift and Co. Kenton plant have gone on strike, more than 400 strong and joined Butchers' Union, Local 656, which is now conducting the strike.

Dissatisfaction started a week ago with the introduction of a "bonus" system that was used to speed up the workers.

Less than fifty workers are left in the plant, all the girls also walking out. Only the office workers are left. The strike meetings are being held at Odd Fellows' hall.

Farm Population Drops 649,000 in 1926

WASHINGTON, (FP)—April 22.—A decrease of 649,000 persons was registered in the census of farm population in the United States last year as compared with the year 1925, says the Department of Agriculture. The total farm population on Jan. 1, 1927, was 27,892,000.

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics estimates that 2,155,000 persons moved from farms to cities, towns and villages, last year, while 1,155,000 moved to farms, making a net movement of 1,020,000 persons away from farms. Births on the farms totalled 658,000, and deaths

Striking Plumbers Helpers Decide to Continue Struggle

At a packed meeting of some fifteen hundred members of the American Association of Plumbers' Helpers held at the Church of All Nations, which was addressed by J. F. Walsh, the organizer, and C. E. Miller, the president of the organization, it was decided to continue the strike in Brooklyn.

It was announced that the Independent bosses are offering to the helpers $6.00 per day, this is a considerable gain as the average wage of the plumbers' helpers was $4.00 per day.

The fact that the independent employers, in order to get helpers, are willing to pay them $6.00 per days shows that we have won a first victory," said Miller. "But the only way the employers can show that they are willing to pay a decent wage is by signing an agreement with us. A signed agreement with the union is the only thing that will guarantee improved conditions."

Will Fight For Lockout.

In regard to the possible lockout, Miller said, "It is unfortunate that the employers should resort to this desperate method, nevertheless, they will not find us unprepared."

James F. Walsh, the organizer, said, "We have helped the Brooklyn plumbers in their just fight for improved conditions. We are going to help the other journeymen in their attack of the employers. We will not permit any helpers in any locked out shop to do the work of the locked out journeymen. We will strike in sympathy with locked out plumbers. We are making preparations to unionize the helpers who are still outside of our ranks. We are calling a special mass meeting for Tuesday evening, April 26, at the Church of All Nations."

Bazaar News.

Thousands of workers and housewives pledged themselves to collect articles. The time to get busy has come. Everyone who has made the pledge must carry it out. Everybody else must help. The bazaar will have large numbers of buyers. Large quantities of merchandise will be needed to supply the demand.

The Downtown Workers Club has arranged for special collection committees for every night. All downtown workers are requested to report for collecting of articles, nightly, at the headquarters, 50 Second Ave., on Wednesday, after the collection, at 10 p. m., Louis Hymns will be at the club to address the workers for the bazaar.

I. L. R. Dance Tonight.

The Jugoslav Branch of the I. L. D. will hold its first dance and entertainment tonight at the Checko-Slovak Workers' House, 347 E. 72nd St. An attractive program has been arranged.

"War Dangers," Topic Of Passaic Forum Talk By Weisbord — Sunday

Albert Weisbord, leader of the recent Passaic textile strike and now labor candidate for commissioner in the forthcoming city elections, will speak on "War Dangers" at the open forum of the Hungarian Workers' Home, 27 Dayton Ave., Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

Sun Spots and Storms.

WASHINGTON, April 23. — Old Mother Earth, next year, again must withstand a gigantic electric bombardment from the sun which recurs in maximum intensity once in every eleven years.

With the sun reaching in 1928 its greatest period of activity, in the zenith of the solar spot cycle, an immeasurable shower of mysterious electrical impulses will descend upon the earth.

Already with electrical tornadoes on the sun's surface roaring to their greatest intensity, the results apparently have been felt on the earth, in an unprecedented wave of storms and other atmospheric phenomena.

Tableau At Jewish Workers University Ball.

An impromptu tableau was arranged by the guests at the ball of the Jewish Workers University last Saturday, that netted the neat sum of fifty dollars for the defense.

Mr. I. Stein impersonated Green of the A. F. of L. Wasserman acted as Sigman, Davidovitch as Schachman, Bloom and Siskind as gangsters and Seltzer as a Forward reporter. A "Scheinman" and a "Sigman" booth were opened and the gangsters went to work on the registration, the charge for which was one dollar with Sigman, and 10 cents with Schachman.

Joseph Freeman to Speak on Russia At Workers Forum

Joseph Freeman, who has just returned from Soviet Russia after a year's visit there, will speak this Sunday night, April 24, 8 p. m., at the Workers' School Forum, 108 East 14th St., on "Soviet Russia in 1927." Freeman was formerly editor of the "Liberator" and of the "New Masses" and together with Scott Nearing wrote the study of American imperialism, "Dollar Diplomacy."

Problems of Russia.

How Soviet Russia is building up socialism within its territory; how the workers and peasants of Russia are solving the complicated problems of the new society; how Soviet Russia is a source of strength and inspiration to the Chinese revolution—will be related by the speaker who has been able to make a thorough study of these problems.

Cultural Aspects.

In a second lecture on "Soviet Russia in 1927" that will be given by the same speaker on Sunday, May 8, at the Workers' School Forum, the cultural aspects of the Soviet Republic will be dealt with. Educational experimants, the extending of education to the masses, changes in art and drama, children's colonies—will be some of the topics discussed.

There will be no forum on Sunday, May 1st, due to the 'May Day meetings held in various parts of New York City. Lectures and discussions will, however, be resumed on the following Sundays.

CURRENT EVENTS

(Continued from Page One)

its base. The rise of the Nationalist movement in China, the establishment of the power of the Soviet Union from Leningrad to Vladivostok and the hostility of the United States gave the Japanese ruling classes plenty to think about during the past few years. The Japanese workers are murmuring under the oppression of the government. Yet they are developing in strength and power. Intervention in China just now might be the signal for a revolution at home.

• • •

WE hope there will be a good attendance at the mass meeting to commemorate the Irish rebellion of Easter Week 1916 which will be held tomorrow evening in Bryant Hall, 725 6th Ave., near 42nd. There are thousands of radicals of Irish birth or descent thruout the country who could be made acquainted with the Communist message thru meetings of this kind if they could only be reached. The real leader of the Easter Week uprising against British imperialism was James Connolly, one of the ablest social revolutionists in theory and practice that the modern labor movement has produced.

• • •

THE bureaucracy of the American Federation of Labor have sunk to unfathomable depths of infamy in their attempts to crush the left wing in the trade unions. They are meek and humble servants in the pay of the employing classes. And as vermin of all kinds are preyed on by lesser vermin, so the socialists are living on the labor fakers as the labor fakers are living on the capitalists as well as on the workers. Matthew Woll and his lieutenants are acting now as auxiliaries of the New York bomb squad in trying to railroad the leaders of the fur workers and ladies' garment workers to jail. The thing is so astounding that words are inadequate to paint its iniquity.

IRISH WORKERS WILL CELEBRATE EASTER REVOLT

The eleventh anniversary of the Proclamation of The Irish Republic during the Easter week revolution of 1916 will be commemorated at a mass meeting in Bryant Hall, 725 Sixth avenue (42nd street) next Sunday, April 24, at 8 p. m., under the auspices of the Irish Workers' Republican Alliance.

This rebellion was the first revolutionary outburst of a subject people that challenged an imperialist power from the time the bugles of war were sounded until then. On the following year the banner of revolution was raised in Russia and was never hauled down.

The spark that was ignited in Ireland by Connolly, Pearse and their comrades will be fanned into a burning flame by the workers and peasants and Ireland. It is the purpose of The Irish Workers' Republican Alliance to help keep that spark alive and to feed the flame.

Among the speakers will be William F. Dunne, editor of The DAILY WORKER, Pat Devine, from the famous Clyde in Scotland, Marius Charles Underwood, Actors' Equity Association and T. J. O'Flaherty. Admission is free.

RATIONAL LIVING
A RADICAL HEALTH MONTHLY
MAY ISSUE. The Role of Sympathy. S. D. Schmalhausen, The Crimes of Dentistry, by A. Ages. Anti-Vaccination. 20 cases. Cancer—Cure and Prevention of. 240 pp. Mary Budderidge. Lessons in Literacy. Letter from Italy. Nutrition and Psychic Calmness. Cases of Disease. How to Treat Them. Rational Typhoid. Sixteen Page Supplement in Medicine—Illustrations. Sex Instruction. War Results. Exercise. Etc.
Rational Living is a new station in thought, personal life, hygiene and treatment of disease. It contains ideas taken from everywhere but not fitting into any system, they form a new philosophy.
A magazine published at a loss. No paid advertisements. No doctors, drugs, institutions, curing methods to recommend. Its aim is to teach its readers to become as independent from them as possible.
Limited circulation.
Subscription, 12 months, $5 (Unique $2); (Confidence System). Those who cannot pay the full price may pay as much as they can. Single copy 40 cents (foreign 50 cents). Cold sample copies free to new readers.
ASK A DOCTOR SEES IT, by B. Liber, an elegant volume of 127 pungent stories from professional life, as seen by a physician, and illustrated by 16 cartoons. 300 pages. $1.50. Free with a subscription to Rational Living if requested.
Address, Rational Living Box 1, Station M, New York.

"POLIKUSHKA"

DOWNTOWN

A motion picture, from the monumental work of Leo Tolstoi.

SATURDAY, APRIL 23, 1927

LABOR TEMPLE, 14th St. and 2nd Ave.

4:30 P. M. to 11 P. M. Continuous.

ADMISSION 50c. CHILDREN 25c.

Auspices: Photographic Workers' Union, Loc. 17830.

Hear the Verdict

To be rendered by the jury sitting in the case of

THE WORKERS OF THE UNITED STATES

vs.

J. RAMSAY MACDONALD

betrayer of the British workers, and jointly indicted with "THE JEWISH DAILY FORWARD."

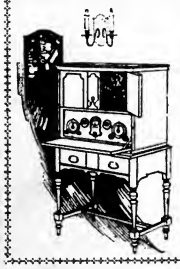
His spokesman—charged with treason to the working class, in the first degree.

Sunday, April 24

At 2 P. M.

CENTRAL OPERA HOUSE, 67th St. and Third Ave.; NEW STAR CASINO, 107th Street and Park Avenue; MANHATTAN LYCEUM, 66 East 4th Street.

Witnessed to be called by the prosecution:



M. J. OLGIN, S. EPSTEIN, ROSE WORTIS, LOUIS HYMAN, S. ZIMMERMAN, A. TRACHTENBERG, A. MINDEL, W. F. DUNNE, BERT WOLFE, W. W. WEINSTONE, BEN GITLOW, and others.

Union Meetings

Amalgamated Food Workers
BAKERS' LOCAL No. 1.
350 E. 85th St. Office hours from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. Meeting on announcement of Executive Board.

Advertise your union meetings here. For information write to The DAILY WORKER Advertising Dept. 33 First St., New York City.

CHARLES SELIKSON

Radios and Victrolas
1225 FIRST AVENUE
Corner 66th Street.
Cash or Easy Payments—
Stromberg-Carlson Radios
Fada-Neutrodyne
Atwater Kent
Radiola Super-Heterodyne
Freed-Eisemann
Freshman Masterpiece, Etc.
No Interest Charged.
INSTALLED FREE.
Everything Guaranteed.
OPEN EVENINGS.

BUSINESS & PROFESSIONAL DIRECTORY

FRIENDS OF ORGANIZED LABOR

Tel. Lehigh 4022.
Dr. ABRAHAM MARKOFF
SURGEON DENTIST
Office Hours 9:30-12 A. M. 2-8 P. M.
Except Thursday Evening and Sunday.
249 EAST 115th STREET
Cor. Second Ave. New York.

Dr. J. Mindel Dr. L. Hardin
Surgeon Dentists
1 UNION SQUARE
Room 803 Phone Stuyv. 10119

Tel. Orchard 2743
strictly by Appointment
DR. L. KESSLER
SURGEON DENTIST
48-50 DELANCEY STREET
Cor. Eldridge St. New York

Dr. Jacob Levenson
SURGEON DENTIST
51 East 109th Street
Corner Madison Ave.
PHONE: UNIVERSITY 7575.

Booth Phones, Dry Dock 6612, 7848.
Office Phone, Orchard 7810.
Patronize
MANHATTAN LYCEUM
Large Halls With Stage for Meetings, Entertainments, Balls, Weddings and Banquets; Cafeteria.
66-68 E. 4th st. New York, N. Y.
Small Meeting Rooms Always Available.

FOR A FRESH, WHOLESOME VEGETARIAN MEAL
Come to
Scientific Vegetarian Restaurant
75 E. 107th Street New York.

For
A Home-Cooked Vegetarian Meal served in a home-like atmosphere
Come to
ESTHER'S DINING ROOM
26 East 109th Street.

Health Food
Vegetarian Restaurant
1600 Madison Ave.
PHONE: UNIVERSITY 4755.

Telephone Dry Dock 3949.
Meet me at the Public Art
Dairy Restaurant
and Vegetarian
75 SECOND AVE. NEW YORK
Opposite Public Theatre

Where do we meet to drink and eat?
at Sollins' Dining Room
Good Food! Good Company
Also Hours! Any Days!
REAL HOME COOKING
222 E. 14th St. Bet. 2 & 3 Aves.
Phone: Stuyvesant 2441

Patronize Our Advertizers.

Brownsville Youth Club To Hold Big Affair For Defense of Workers

On Sunday evening a big affair arranged by the Brownsville Youth Club will be held at 63 Liberty Ave., Brooklyn. This affair is arranged for the purpose of assisting in the work to free the arrested cloakmakers and furriers.

A literary and musical program is arranged. A special feature of the evening is the addresses by L. Hyman, J. Boruchowitz and S. Liptzin, who will speak on the present situation in the needle trades.

"POLIKUSHKA"

IN THE BRONX

A motion picture, from the monumental work of Leo Tolstoi.

Sunday, Apr. 24, Scholem Aleichem School Auditorium

1875 Union Ave., near 180th Street, Bronx, New York.

2 P. M. to 11 P. M. Continuous.

ADMISSION 50c. CHILDREN 25c.

Auspices United Council of Working Class Housewives, Council No. 8, Bronx, N. Y.

JOINT DEFENSE AND RELIEF COMMITTEE CLOAKMAKERS AND FURRIERS

41 Union Square, Room 714, New York, N. Y.

STAND BEHIND THE IMPRISONED CLOAKMAKERS & FURRIERS

Do you like to see the imprisoned Cloakmakers and Furriers in Jail?

Do you like to see their families suffering and in want?

Do you like to see other active union members now under charges sentenced to long prison terms?

If not, fill out the Certificate printed in the advertisement of the Committee and mail it to the office with One Dollar.

This reply will encourage the mass of workers to keep up their fight for a clean union.

The necessity is so great that even if you have already given, we ask you to give again, and sign this Roll Call.

CUT OUT THIS CERTIFICATE AND SEND IT OR BRING IT IN WITH ONE DOLLAR

We call upon all Workers to support the 100,000 Dollar Drive of the Joint Defense and Relief Committee. Cloakmakers and Furriers.

(Signed) BEN GOLD, LOUIS HYMAN.

Joint Defense & Relief Committee, Furriers & Cloakmakers, 41 Union Sq., Room 714

Other stations at Local 22, 16 W. 21st St., or the Joint Boards of the Cloakmakers and Furriers.

Be sure your Certificate is stamped with the official seal, accompanied by the special certificate receipt.

CUT OUT THIS CERTIFICATE AND SEND IT OR BRING IT IN WITH ONE DOLLAR

Demonstrate Against War. Demand Hands Off China. Demand Freedom for Sacco and Vanzetti.

May Day Celebration

TWO LARGE MASS MEETINGS

SUNDAY, MAY 1, at 1 P. M.

Central Opera House
67th Street & Third Avenue

SPEAKERS:
WM. W. WEINSTONE
BERTRAM D. WOLFE
CHARLES KRUMBEIN
JULIET S. POYNTZ
RICHARD B. MOORE
JOHN J. BALLAM

Also representative of Young Workers' League and the Young Pioneers.
Also Chinese speaker.
Chairman: JACK STACHEL.
Freiheit Gesangs Verein.

Hunts Point Palace
163rd St. & So. Blvd., Bronx

SPEAKERS:
M. J. OLGIN
WM. W. WEINSTONE
WM. F. DUNNE
HARRY M. WICKS
REBECCA GRECHT
ROSE WORTIS
FANNY WARSHAWSKY

Young Workers' League speaker.
Young Pioneer speaker.
Chinese speaker.
Chairman: A. TRACHTENBERG
Freiheit Mandolin Orchestra

ADMISSION 50 CENTS.

Auspices: Workers (Communist) Party, District New York.
Doors Open 12 M.

Tonight 8 P. M.
25th ANNIVERSARY of the "UJ ELORE"
CENTRAL OPERA HOUSE, 67th Street, Near Third Avenue
EXCELLENT PROGRAM
DANCING AT 10:30 P. M.
JAZZ BAND OF 11 PIECES

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
Daily, Except Sunday
33 First Street, New York, N. Y. Phone, Orchard 1086

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail (in New York only):	By mail (outside of New York):
$8.00 per year $4.50 six months $2.50 three months	$6.00 per year $3.50 six months $2.00 three months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, New York, N. Y.

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE ..... Editors
BERT MILLER ..... Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail at the post-office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Advertising rates on application.

Politics is a science and an art that did not come down from heaven and is not acquired gratis. . . . If the proletariat wishes to defeat the bourgeoisie, it must train from among its ranks its own proletarian "class politicians" who shouldn't be inferior to the bourgeois politicians.

—LENIN.

On Lenin's Birthday.

Today, April 23, is the birthday of Vladimir Ilyitch Ulianov Lenin, the greatest leader of the working class in all history, whose death called forth the most widespread and profound sorrow among the masses ever displayed.

Wherever workers and farmers are robbed by the capitalist class and their agents, rivers of tears were shed for Lenin. In the Soviet Union, where the masses rule thru their Russian Communist Party, millions marched past his bier in the piercing cold of a Russian winter.

Lenin left two great and indestructible achievements, which have become monuments to his genius and courage and fortresses of the class struggle—the Soviet Union, ruled by workers and peasants, a living source of strength and inspiration to the oppressed masses, and the Communist International, the organizer and leader of the proletarian revolution.

Today the steady march of millions of workers and farmers toward liberation, the gigantic mass struggles which, as in China, are shaking world imperialism to its foundations and making a ghastly farce of its boasted "stabilization," bear out the statements of Lenin that this period is the "epoch of wars and revolutions"—the twilight of capitalism.

The official labor movement of imperialist America hates the very name of Lenin, but thousands of workers love it. The labor officialdom, which makes no protest against the invasion of Nicaragua, remains silent as the imperialist plot against Mexico unfolds itself, which watches either approvingly or passively the rapid preparations for war on the Chinese trade unions, the peasant organizations and the masses in general, sees in the name of Lenin the symbol of the revolt against their continual betrayals, which is in the making.

On Lenin's birthday the Communists of the United States renew their pledge to follow the line of Leninism in the American class struggle and to show by their loyalty to their class, their energy in the class struggle and their unfaltering devotion to the interests of the masses that our dead leader's example and teachings have found deep roots in the most powerful imperialist nation in the world.

On Lenin's birthday we take up anew the challenge of American imperialism and its agents in the ranks of the labor movement.

What Difference Is There Between Mussolini and Green?

All intelligent trade unionists, reading the despicable decrees of Mussolini's "fascist charter of labor," would view with alarm the effort to enforce similar conditions upon the American working class. Mussolini is known to all the world as a blackguard despot, who has deprived labor in Italy of every gain it made through the long years of bitter struggle previous to the fascist usurpation of governmental power. From him no one expects anything but oppressive decrees for labor. He is the incarnation of capitalist despotism, the head of a brigand band of the very scum of Italy in the service of the big industrialists and bankers of that unfortunate country.

But are the workers in the United States free from fascist tyranny? Between Mussolini's decrees as reported in the press today and the well-known utterances of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, there is little to choose, as a comparison will readily reveal. Here are the principles (?) of these two agents of the capitalist class set side by side:

MUSSOLINI	GREEN
"The fascist charter of labor embodies the fundamental principles of the fascist state, which is based primarily upon the theory of replacing the class struggle by fruitful co-operation between capital and labor, establishing equality of rights and duties between them, raising the standard of production and eliminating waste in industry. Both labor and capital must carry out their tasks for the common good."	"Under various systems of union-management co-operation workers have felt a responsibility and a partnership in industry which has brot substantial benefits to the industry. Prevention of waste, saving of materials, better production methods, even inventions of machinery to increase efficiency have been part of the workers' contribution. The workers' demands under this system of co-operation have been restrained by better understanding of the facts of production."

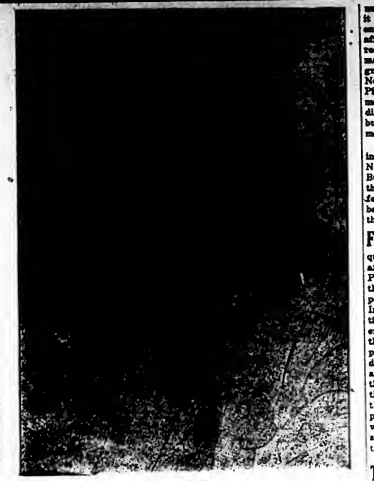
The only difference between Mussolini and Green is that the fascist state enforces its decrees through its political power, while Green tries to enforce it by turning the unions into agencies for increasing production. If Green can succeed in enforcing his policy of co-operation with the employers upon American labor they will need no Mussolini at the head of the state; the right wing officialdom of the American labor movement will answer the purpose equally as well.

However, there is one factor that will eventually deprive Green and his cohorts, Woll, McGrady, Lewis, Sigman, of their fascist roles in the American labor movement and that is the rank and file of the labor movement that, in spite of the shameful alliance between the right wing officialdom, the employers, the police and the courts created to destroy the militant elements

Negro Problems and Tasks

By ALEX BITTELMAN
(Secretary of Committee for Work Among Negroes of W. (C.) P. of A.)

MASS migration of Negroes from the south to the west, north and east presents a complex of problems not only to the southern white capitalist, but also to the Negro masses themselves. With particular urgency these problems impose themselves upon those Negro organizations which sincerely strive to represent and work for the interests of the Negro masses as against those of the small group of Negro capitalists and against the ramified powers of the white capitalists.



FOR the capitalist interests of the south, the exodus of large masses of Negroes creates the serious problem of labor shortage. Employers of labor in the south, agrarian as well as industrial, are actually alarmed of the situation. They are becoming frantic at the mere thought that the inexhaustible supply of cheap, unorganized and docile labor is being seriously interfered with. The task that these capitalists see before them is to stop this exodus, by all means at their command. By persuasion and cajoling if possible, by force if necessary.

TO the Negro workers, to the farmers, and to all militant fighters for the liberation of the race, the situation presents a different complex of problems. These are all related, of course, to the fundamental conditions of Negro life in the United States. They can find their complete solution only in the light of such social and political changes as will bring about the full emancipation of the Negro race. But at the same time tasks must be formulated which could be successfully applied in the immediate situation. And it is with some of these tasks that the present article proposes to deal.

* * *

IT occurs to me that of late the Negro of the south has been somewhat neglected. Is this so, or not? If it is so, then a serious mistake is being committed. For after everything has been said about the tremendous economic, political and cultural importance of the new Negro centers in the north, east and west, which one can successfully dispute, yet the fact of the matter is that the bulk of the American Negro race, the most exploited and persecuted section, continues to live and suffer in the south. Does this fact carry any meaning at all to the Negro emancipation movement, to Negro labor and to Negro farmers? If it does not, it should. It would be a grave injustice to the millions of Negroes in the south and would be a fatal political mistake from the point of view of the liberation struggles of the American Negroes as a whole to hang the fate of the race on migration from the south and the upbuilding of new centers in New York, Chicago, etc. Not of the trade unions, are more and more coming to understand the role of the labor faker and will soon challenge their rule in every union just as they are today being challenged in the needle trades in New York.

Just as it is the task of the Italian workers to settle accounts with their fascist oppressors so it is the task of American labor to settle accounts with the Greens, Wolls, Lewises and other would-be Mussolinis of this country.

LENIN

Stop War on the Chinese Labor Movement and the People's Government in Hankow!

The dispatch of 1,500 marines to Hankow, as stated by Paris dispatches (altho "denied" by Washington thru the transparent deceptive method of stating that they will be "under the command of Admiral Williams"), the adoption of a hostile policy towards Hankow by France under British pressure, the more menacing tone of the Japanese government spokesmen, the continual additions of American gunboats and those of other important imperialist nations to the fleet in front of Hankow—all show that open joint warfare on this great industrial center and its working class is contemplated.

The imperialist powers are going to strike at the center of the Chinese labor movement in the iron and steel industry, they will try to drown the unions, the leaders of the liberation struggle, in their own blood.

The plan is clear. Chiang Kai Shek, in return for his ruthless slaughter of labor union officials and members and his ruthless suppression of the workers, will be given some form of recognition. Thru Chiang Kai Shek world imperialism hopes to establish itself more firmly than ever in China, to ride more securely than ever upon the backs of the toiling masses in the cities and countryside.

The trade unions and the peasant organizations and the Communist Party which has taken the lead in building them, are the sole obstacles in the way of militarist-imperialist domination of China. It is around these organizations that the mass liberation has been built. Their destruction therefore is equivalent to the destruction of the liberation movement itself.

Against this damnable imperialist conspiracy the working class of the imperialist nations must set its face like flint and act so determinedly that world imperialism will not dare to carry out its bloody scheme.

We can be sure that a war on the People's Government at Hankow will be but a prelude to a new world war. If the Chinese liberation movement is suppressed even temporarily the imperialist rivalries will flare up into a conflagration which oceans of the blood of workers and farmers will not serve to quench.

We stand face to face with war today.

Let no one be fooled by the lies of imperialism's puppets in Washington.

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT IS PREPARING FOR WAR!

Will the American masses allow themselves to become the executioners of the Chinese liberation movement? Will they allow themselves to be marshalled as cannon-fodder for Wall Street?

Do they want their corpses and mangled bodies to be strewn over the globe so that fat robbers can become still fatter?

We do not think so. But if there is not organized a mass movement of such dimensions that the rulers will be afraid to disregard its protests, all these things will happen as surely as the sun sinks in the west.

American labor officialdom must be made to speak out against the war plans of the Coolidges and Kelloggs.

In every local union, every co-operative society, every fraternal and benefit organization, in every central labor council resolutions denouncing the presence of American forces in China should be introduced and passed and the IMMEDIATE WITHDRAWAL OF TROOPS AND WARSHIPS DEMANDED.

Stop war on the Chinese labor movement—stop war on the People's Government!

that these latter developments are in any way harmful to the Negro masses. Far be it from us to entertain any such views. The point we are trying to make is that the exodus from the south and the upbuilding of new Negro centers elsewhere, taken by themselves, do not offer a complete solution to the Negro problem in the United States.

* * *

WHY is it so?

First, because not all the Negroes are migrating from the south. Though the forces creating migration are still operating very intensely, yet the probabilities are that the bulk of the race will continue in the south. The overwhelming majority is still there. Even a cursory glance at conditions will show that the scope of Negro migration from the south is bound to become smaller. There are at present several powerful factors working in that direction.

FOR one thing, the industrialization of the south. While some of the earlier features of the industrialization of that section of the country may have contributed to aggravating Negro conditions in the south, thus swelling migration, yet the further this process proceeds the more will it operate, up to a certain point, as a force keeping the Negro masses in the South instead of driving them out of there. Negroes will undoubtedly continue to move from plantations and farms to cities and industrial centers, the same as whites do, and for pretty nearly the same reasons. Negroes will also continue to migrate north, east and west, prompted by the same economic forces as whites are. But mass exodus from the south altogether, the recent phase of which has undoubtedly been accelerated by the cotton crisis, is bound to diminish considerably.

* * *

PARTICULARLY so, when some of the later attendant features of industrialization begin to manifest themselves. Trade union organization, for instance, which, if it develops in the south along modern and militant lines, will give the Negro workers there, same as the whites, a certain feeling of independence and a weapon for struggle to protect their interests. Progressively closer contact with organized white workers, consequent upon industrialization, will certainly give the Negro worker a deeper feeling of self-confidence and a larger sense of power against his exploiters than he has at present. Which by itself will make the south look more desirable in the eyes of the Negroe masses than it does now.

ALSO cultural opportunities are bound to increase for the Negro masses in the south with the development there of a modern labor movement. The entire ideological level of the masses will be raised to a higher plane and most of the medieval features of the typical south will disappear as a result of the development and intensification of the class struggle and the building up of labor and farmer organizations. These struggles are also bound to produce economic opportunities in the matter of employment, wages, and working conditions generally at least as good, or even better sections of the country. Thus the present urge among the Negroes from the south elsewhere will inevitably be weakened to a very low point and migration will assume more or less normal proportions.

This is one reason why one cannot bank the solution of the Negro problem on mass migration from the south. But there is also another reason, and here we come to—

* * *

SECOND, the mere leaving of the south and taking up residence in another section of the country solves only part of the problem even for those who migrate. Because immediately as they set foot on new territory they are confronted with innumerable new problems. Suffice it to enumerate only the following: employment, wages, residence, union affiliation, education for the children, recreation, etc. These are no small matters as every Negro who has migrated from the south can testify. Negro life in New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh or Philadelphia may be more interesting, and the problems different, than in the south, but the difficulties of life in the former are no less than in the latter.

Undoubtedly these questions are being given serious thought by the Negroes and Negro organizations. But the question is, how correct is this thinking and what is its effectiveness? In other words, what basic approach is being made toward the solution of these questions?

FOR it must be understood that the task of finding employment, the question of wages, residence, union affiliation, etc., in cities like Chicago, Pittsburgh or New York, present to the Negro an entirely different aspect than they do to the white worker. In the attempt to solve his difficulties, the Negro comes up against the entire proposition which is known as the Negro problem. Hence, the approach toward the solution of these difficulties must be made in a basic and radical manner. Every one of these questions must be considered in the light of the entire Negro situation, north, east, south ad west, and policies formulated in accordance with it. There is no shorter or simpler way of handling effectively these questions.

* * *

THERE are two dangers which the Negro masses must particularly guard against at present. One is the danger of adopting the attitude that mass migration from the south will do the job for them. The second danger, closely connected with the first one, is to accept and look upon the new Negro centers in the north, east and west as the haven of deliverance and liberty towards which the hopes, ambitions and aspirations of every Negro must be directed.

To fall into the first danger is to become fatalistic and passive. It is to make the fate of the Negro masses depend upon something which, by itself is neither good nor bad, and which cannot under any circumstances solve the Negro problem. To fall into the second danger is to ignore and neglect the suffering and the struggles of the basic part of the Negro race—the Negro masses of the south—as well as overlook the vital practical tasks of the Negro masses in these same new centers.

What is the correct approach?

The correct approach to the problems discussed here is to be found by adhering to the following principles:

One.—That all the individual problems of the Negroes form an inseparable part of one big problem—the Negro problem.

Two.—That the Negro problem is by its very nature a national problem, involving the Negro masses of all sections of the country, whether south, north, east or west, which must be considered from the point of view of the struggles of the whole race for its complete emancipation.

Three.—That this struggle for the emancipation of the whole race in the United States forms an organic part of the struggle against American imperialism and must be conducted jointly with the white workers and with all others, regardless of color, creed or race, who are suffering under the iron heel of American capitalism.

* * *

IT is by following the above principles, which underlie the activities of such Negro organizations as the American Negro Labor Congress, the Chicago Committee for the Promotion of Unionism among Negroes and similar organizations, and which begin to make themselves manifest also among the progressive elements of the old Garvey organization as well as among radical Negro intellectuals and farmers, that the present-day tasks of the Negro masses can be correctly formulated and successfully fought for.

Wilkes Barre Comrades Send More Funds For Sustaining the Worker

True to his promise Mike Berish, organizer-secretary of the Wilkes Barre, Pa., group of the Workers (Communist) Party has sent in the balance of the fund pledged for The DAILY WORKER, totalling $48.00. Less than a week ago a similar amount was mailed in to the office, with the promise that another contribution would be forthcoming. The workers in the anthracite realize the importance of maintaining The DAILY WORKER as the spokesman for the working class in its struggles against reaction in every form.

Entertainment and Dance.

Bronx Branch, International Labor Defense is giving an entertainment and dance, at 1347 Boston Road, Saturday evening, April 24, at 8:30 P. M. D. Benjamin will be the speaker of the evening. A good musical program has been provided. There will be dancing and refreshments. Come and bring your friends along.

Mobilize to Defend YOUR Paper

From every corner of the continent we are receiving words of encouragement and support in our fight against the employers' patriotic organizations, which are seeking to destroy labor's most courageous and beloved organ, The DAILY WORKER. The workers recognize clearly the reason for the attack and the necessity for meeting it with all the resources at their command.

But we must state that although the comrades may recognize the danger in the situation, they are not responding as they should. Words alone will not help at this time. We must have money to fight our case against the odds piled up against us.

We therefore call upon all comrades to get on the job at once in defense of The DAILY WORKER. Failure to respond quickly and effectively, with money raised through donations and loans from every possible source, will be welcomed by the enemies of labor, who are seeking to crush The DAILY WORKER. This means every party member, every reader of The DAILY WORKER. This means YOU.

DAILY WORKER
33 First Street,
New York, N. Y.

Inclosed is my contribution of ..... dollars .... cents to the Ruthenberg Sustaining Fund for a stronger and better DAILY WORKER and for the defense of our paper. I will pay the same amount regularly every .....

Name .....

Address .....

City .....

State .....

Attach check or money order.

HANDS OFF CHINA! WITHDRAW TROOPS AND BATTLESHIPS!

THE DAILY WORKER FIGHTS: FOR THE ORGANIZATION OF THE UNORGANIZED; FOR THE 40-HOUR WEEK; FOR A LABOR PARTY

THE DAILY WORKER

NATIONAL EDITION

Entered as second-class matter at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Vol. IV. No. 86. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In New York, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside New York, by mail, $6.00 per year. NEW YORK, SATURDAY, APRIL 23, 1927 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 33 First Street, New York, N. Y. Price 3 Cents

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

READING books promises to become a popular indoor sport in this country before long if the authorities in various parts of the country continue to suppress harmless publications. It is true that some of the books should be suppressed in the interests of the mental equanimity of a certain section of the population. There is "Elmer Gantry" for instance. If I were a preacher, a man of the cloth, I would urge the author's deportation on the ground that he was born in Minnesota under false pretences and therefore an undesirable citizen.

* * *

READING is an uncomfortable habit for those who read, as well as for those who are written about. While speading a few happy weeks in Berrien county jail (Michigan) a few years back, in company with several other comrades we passed the time pleasantly and instructively reading books, magazines and newspapers. A local pugilist who got into trouble of a quite unpopular but not unusual nature caught the reading habit much to the amazement and horror of the attending detective who shrieked: "My God, so they got you reading." Reading is habit-forming vice.

* * *

THERE is a delusion in existence here in the United States that some races are more addicted to reading than others. The race from which I have sprung may not be the greatest book-consuming public in the world but they are not as averse to burning the midnight gas over a choice piece of literature as is commonly supposed. And they have produced a James Joyce much to their horror. It must be admitted on the whole that the Irish have not been encouraged by their spiritual overseers to send ideological ferrets prowling among the spiritual rabbits in their mental burrows.

* * *

BE that as it may I was more or less interested yesterday on seeing a sign over a bookstore at 127 University Place which seems to give hope for encouragement. This place is near a branch of that gigantic national pawnshop known as the Morris Plan on the corner of Broadway and 14th. The sign read: "The Jimmy Higgins Book Shop." Gazing in the window I was still more amazed. Instead of seeing there "The Life of Saint Patrick" or "The Story of the Immaculate Conception" there were books on economics, politics, biology, historical works and fiction of the kind that Boston policemen consider inimical to their morals.

* * *

I DECIDED to drop in and see Jimmy but apparently he was elsewhere, as his manager replied to my questions and introduced me to his assistant manager who holds the fort while the manager is at lunch. An agreeable staff who know so much about books that it is impossible to leave this orderly, well stocked store without purchasing something—if you have the money. Whether you see Jimmy or not I can recommend his book store to the readers of this column. (Jimmy Higgins is not a person but an idea—Ed. D. W. What of it?—T. J. O'F.).

* * *

BRITISH propagandists in Shanghai are successfully insulting the intelligence of the reading public by explaining the split of Chiang Kai Shek with the Kuomintang as a manoeuver to save the face of the Nationalist government owing to difficulties with the foreign powers. A realistic manoeuver indeed! It is a rather serious piece of diplomatic trickery for the hundreds of trade union leaders who are being beheaded by the mercenaries of General Chiang Kai Shek.

* * *

The explanation of this cock-eyed "news" is that Chiang is under the tutelage of the foreign imperialist experts who have advised him to continue to strut his anti-imperialist stuff lest a sudden dropping of the beatific phrases might leave him without a corporal's guard of a following among the masses. But Chiang's tricks are not fooling the Chinese people. They are getting ready to mete out to him the punishment a traitor deserves. The guns and armies of the imperialists will avail him little when the mighty spower of the Chinese workers and peasants pours down on him like a tidal wave.

* * *

THERE is a serious financial panic in Japan. So serious is the situation that it is not likely the new cabinet will risk gratifying the expectations of the anti-Chinese faction with a more aggressive policy in China. The economic system in Japan has been shaky since the end of the world war. Two disastrous earthquakes shook the country's economy to

(Continued on Page Three)

Mineola Court Room Sketches By Gellert In Monday's "Worker"

A group of remarkable drawings by Hugo Gellert, brilliant radical artist, made in the Mineola court room where the trial of Ben Gold and the 10 other leaders of the New York fur workers has just ended, will accompany the complete account of the trial which will appear in Monday's issue of The DAILY WORKER.

Among those sketched by Gellert in the court room are Ben Gold, I. Shapiro, S. Mencher, Judge Lewis Smith, District Attorney Edwards, Barnett Bassoff, the stool-pigeon and star witness of the prosecution, the two "dicks" who cooperated with the right wing, and four members of the jury, including the foreman.

A full page will be devoted to an account of the case in Monday's issue.

Mussolini Outlaws Strikes, Boycotts And Minimum Wage

ROME, April 22. — Mussolini's labor-smashing policies reached their climax Wednesday evening with the adoption by the Fascist Grand Council of the "Charter of Labor."

Strikes and boycotts are outlawed while the principle of the minimum wage is denounced and declared "unsound."

The document which purports to establish a "fair and proper relationship between capital and labor" grants Italian workers magnanimous concessions like the six day week, one annual paid holiday, and religious holidays "when deemed possible."

* * *

Maurer and Woll Expect to Clash At Boston Meeting

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BOSTON, Mass., April 22.—Labor circles here are watching closely the opening of the biennial convention of the Workers Education Bureau, when two of the most colorful figures in the trade union movement will have an opportunity to cross swords on an old grievance, if they care to. One is James Maurer, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor and of the Education Bureau and the other is Matthew Woll, vice president of the A. F. of L. and the Bureau.

They clashed recently on the National Civic Federation's attitude on old age pensions. Maurer, a leader in the pension movement criticized vigorously the policy of the Civic Federation, of which Woll is acting president. Here at Boston, however, they will find themselves on the same platform with full opportunity either to reach an agreement on the old age pension question, or to discuss further their views.

Sacco-Vanzetti Action.

Some action is being planned on behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti, although the form has not yet been determined. It is urged that the 200 delegates go, en mass, a pilgrimage to Dedham jail, where the two workers are held pending their threatened execution on July 10.

One issue likely to precipitate lively action on the convention floor the opening day will be the status of the Workers School of New York. Claiming to be one of the largest, if not the largest labor college in America, the school is expected to ask a seat in deliberations. If the Bureau, however, follows out the action of the A. F. of L. convention, the Workers School may be banned because of its connection with the Workers Party.

* * *

Rain Quells Forest Fire

ALBANY, N. Y., April 22.—Rain has wiped out the forest fire danger, at least for the present, the Conservation Commission announced today. Every fire was out today and rain was general throughout the forest fire area.

* * *

Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!

PURSUERS ATTACK TRAIN MURDERERS CLERICS SQUIRM

Papal Representative Admits Priests Led

MEXICO CITY April 22.—Government forces, following hotly after the marauding band of clericals which day before yesterday burned to death 187 peaceful passengers on a Guadalajara-Mexico City train, have caught up with the band at Yurechuaro, a town near the scene of the massacre, and have inflicted a severe defeat upon them.

Government Accuses.

The government has issued a statement calling attention to the fact that the band is part of the catholic church forces, recently in open rebellion, and still marauding thru the country, thus two weeks after a large scale campaign in the open field. The fact that two priests, Gonzales and Vega, were recognized as leaders of the murders, and that the atrocity was so foul and cruel in its execution as to immediately suggest religious fanaticism as a motive, is pointed out in the statement. The battle cry of the killers, "Viva Christo Rey" (Long Live Christ, the King) is also recognized as evidence of the reactionary, religious nature of the thugs, who burned common Mexican passengers to death after they had locked them into railway coaches, but carefully shielded and saved American business men on the same train.

* * *

Vatican Admits Leadership.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Irritated by the horror and resentment against the catholic church, whose priests led the clerical revolt which perpetrated the Guadalajara—Mexico City train massacre, the Rev. Pietro Fumasoni-Binobi, apostolic delegate to the United States, has hastened to deny that the Mexican hierarchy is responsible for it. However, Fumasoni-Binobi, direct representative of the Vatican, inadvertedly, in his defense of the catholic rebels, admits that priests led the attack.

Feels Hurt By Charge.

"The charge is without foundation and the result of the bitter hatred of President Calles for the catholic church," said the Rev. Fumasoni-Binobi. "This bitterness of the president of Mexico and his utter lack of logic must be evident to anyone who reads his statement."

"Because three priests led the attacking party, as he asserts, then we must conclude that the catholic church of Mexico is responsible for the massacre. Moreover, in a manner wholly unworthy of the head of a civilized state, President Calles recklessly asserts that this attack is another evidence of what he implies is the systematic tyranny of the catholic church."

The prelate then makes the usual denunciation of the government of Mexico, and alleges that the catholic church is persecuted there.

* * *

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 22. —Rumors that the Mexican government has discovered a wide spread plot to assassinate the public officials may very likely be true, said representatives here, as it is known that the church has thruout its history resorted in times of erisis to inspired assassinations, but the local consul general has not heard of any seizure of the telegraphic service, nor any censorship established in Mexico City.

Foreigners Who Enter United States To Be As Immigrant Aliens

WASHINGTON, April 22. — Drastic changes in the regulations relating to aliens crossing the Canadian and Mexican borders into the United States were promulgated today by the department of labor.

Aliens residing in foreign contiguous countries and entering the United States to engage in existing employment or to seek employment will not be considered as visiting the United States temporarily as tourists, or temporarily for business or pleasure, but will be considered as aliens of the "immigrant" class.

U. S. Army and Navy In Big Practice For New "War to End War"

BOSTON, April 22.—All is set for the big "war game" to be played off the southern New England coast during the week of May 16th.

The U. S. battle fleet will represent the "invading forces" and the U. S. army forces will take the part of the "defenders."

Army war college students will provide personnel to represent the commanders and staff of the landing forces.

The official purpose of this bit of jingoism, euphemistically described as "army-navy exercises" is said to be to test out certain plans of defense and to give practice to high commanders and staff in the detail of "command and logistics connected with the handling of large bodies of troops."

LABOR IN CITY OF PASSAIC IS FOR WEISBORD

Cheer Him at Campaign Mass Meetings

(Special to The DAILY WORKER)

PASSAIC, N. J., April 22.—Packing Ukrainian Hall and the Workers Home tonight thousands of workers shouted their approval of the labor candidates for city commissioner—Albert Weisbord, Simon Smelkinson and Simon Bambach.

The speakers were met with thunderous applause and cheers, the assembled workers eagerly drinking in every word.

Danne Speaks

Greeted with enthusiasm, William F. Dunne, editor of The DAILY WORKER said that "The world of labor is watching the Passaic workers in this election campaign. The labor movement wants to see if the bitter struggle here for union recognition, wages and working conditions, which aroused world wide admiration and support has stimulated a class loyalty which sees in support of labor candidates a continuation of the strike struggle on another front.

Meeting Is Answer

"This tremendous meeting gives a partial answer to the American labor movement. An avalanche of ballots marked for Weisbord and his fellow fighters will be the final answer.

"This you will do and once more you will show the textile barons that the Passaic workers know how and when to fight for unionism and the power that it brings."

Discusses Unemployment

Albert Weisbord spoke on the question of unemployment showing the need of the mills either giving them work or pay them wages nevertheless. He demanded that the city start construction work on the parks, streets, etc.

Weisbord also spoke of the necessity of every worker being a member of a union. How in that way the labor movement would be better able to fight the bosses in the every day struggle.

Heckled At Meeting

Speaking last night at Carpenters Hall at a meeting called by the democratic party he was heckled by the president and secretary of that organization. He also spoke the same evening at a meeting arranged by the League For Women Voters where he received a good reception.

It is apparent that an organized group of hecklers are visiting all the meetings where the labor candidates speak and carry on a campaign to disorganize when Weisbord has the floor. It is believed that they are being paid for this.

The issue of the red flag is being dragged into the campaign by George Hoffman, deputy sheriff and a candidate for commissioner. He raved about Communism at a recent meeting at Carpenters Hall.

* * *

Sacco Vanzetti Meeting

The Sacco-Vanzetti meeting that was first arranged for last week will be held Wednesday evening, seven o'clock at Belmont Park, Garfield, under the joint auspices of the International Labor Defense and the Anti-fascist Alliance. Among the speakers will be Albert Weisbord, Robert W. Dunn and Pat Devine.

100 KILLED FROM FLOOD THAT HAS SWEPT THE SOUTH

Mississippi Waters Six Feet Deep Over Land

GREENVILLE, Miss., April 22.—Scores of lives are believed to have been lost in the path of the flood waters sweeping across the Mississippi delta from a break in the Mississippi levee near Scott Landing yesterday.

The flood waters were six feet deep in Greenville early today and water was still pouring over the top of the city's protective levee.

Officials have sent out an appeal for river boats to rescue the entire population which is reported marooned in the city.

150,000 People Threatened

More than 150,000 people residing in the Yazoo delta region are threatened because of new breaks in the Mississippi levees in that area, according to reports to the War Department.

Refugee camps are being established to care for these people at Vicksburg, Yazoo City, and Greenwood.

The dispatch stated that at least 21 counties are almost completely submerged in that vicinity. Further breaks are feared.

The army rushed 100,000 bags for use in rebuilding the levee near Cairo, Ill. The city is in great danger from the rapidly rising waters, seven serious slides have been reported at Cairo.

Over 100 Dead

Flood deaths during the last ten days are estimated at more than 100, in Missouri, Arkansas, Kentucky, Kansas, Oklahoma and Tennessee more than 60 were reported to have lost their lives.

Louisiana, Mississippi, Illinois and other states affected by the inundation have also reported many fatalities.

Tornadoes in Illinois and Texas are estimated to have taken a toll of at least 10 lives.

* * *

5 Seamen Thwart "Shanghai" Plot; Boat Dangerous

An attempt to "Shanghai" five seamen aboard the S. S. "H. J. Lawrence" was frustrated yesterday when the men escaped from the ship by sliding down a rope to a coal barge which was laying alongside and from there taken ashore by a friendly lighter.

Vessel Dangerous.

The men, George Papadopus, J. Cringel, F. McKenna, B. Barran, and a messman, whose name could not be procured, refused to sail on the boat, a coastwise vessel upon which they had been working for four days because of its unsafe condition. They declared that the dynamo was out of order, endangering the lives of the men aboard; the pumps were also dislocated and held together by rope.

Bad Food.

In addition, the mess service was inadequate, in as much as the single pork (instead of the customary 2 or 3) had been in a state of chronic drunkenness for the past few days.

The escaped seamen had not signed any "articles," and were consequently not bound to leave with the ship.

J. Louis Engdahl Places Wreaths on the Graves of Liebknecht - Luxembourg

(Special To The Daily Worker)

BERLIN, April 21. (Delayed)— J. Louis Engdahl, editor of The DAILY WORKER who is bringing the ashes of C. E. Ruthenberg, general secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party to Moscow where they will be interred in the Kremlin wall, today placed a wreath on the graves of Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxembourg, pioneer German Communists who were murdered in 1919 by the socialist government of Germany.

Salvadoran Comes to Watch Us a Little

J. Gustavo Guerrero, above, Minister of Foreign Affairs of Salvador, visiting in Washington, D. C. Salvador is near the new U. S. conquest, Nicaragua.

MINEOLA JURY HAS CASE OF BEN GOLD AND FUR WORKERS

Gold, on Stand, Tells of Bassoff's Blackmail

MINEOLA, L. I., April 22.—With all the evidence heard in the trial of Ben Gold, leader of the New York fur workers, and 10 other active members of the union, charged with complicity in an "assault" on a scab fur shop in Rockville Center last year, the end of the trial which began about 10 days ago is now a matter of hours. The case went to the jury at 5:15 this afternoon.

Charles R. Weeks, former district attorney of this county, in summing up, said of Ben Gold, who was the last of the defendants to testify:

"Gold is a truthful man and he told a straightforward story. His testimony is worthy of belief; far more worthy than that of Barnet Bnsoff."

(Continued on Page Three)

RUSH MADEIROS TOWARDS DEATH AS SACCO, VANZETTI APPEALS POUR IN

It has just been learned that both Sacco and Vanzetti, now in Dedham jail, have refused for two weeks to sign a petition to Gov. Alvan T. Fuller for a pardon. Vanzetti held that he and Sacco are innocent and fears that the word "pardon" may be misconstrued.

Attorney William G. Thompson, defense lawyer, stated that a conference with the two framed-up men would be held shortly.

* * *

WASHINGTON, April 22.—President Coolidge and the department of justice will refuse any form of intervention to halt the execution of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti.

This announcement was made officially by Attorney-General Sargent yesterday.

* * *

BOSTON, April 22.—Attorney William G. Thompson, counsel for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, Italian workers convicted of murder on framed-up charges, today asked Gov. Alvan T. Fuller for another respite for Celestino Madeiros, condemned to die in the electric chair next Thursday morning.

The governor, it was stated at his office, had the request under advisement.

With the removal of Madeiros to the death house at Charleston prison yesterday, black clouds, presaging the legal murder of Sacco and Vanzetti, loomed rapidly over the horizon.

Has Confessed Murder.

Madeiros has confessed that he took part in the South Braintree payroll murder, for which the two radicals were sentenced to death. His confession pointed certainly to the Morelli gang of Providence as the men who murdered the two payroll guards seven years ago.

Death Is Close His Mouth.

Granted two reprieves by Governor Fuller, Madeiros was refused a third. Thus the leading witness who can prove the two Italian workers innocent is to be done to death without an opportunity to tell a court of commission that he and his gang are the South Braintree payroll murderers.

Friends of Sacco and Vanzetti were struck with fear when Madeiros was sent to the death house.

It may mean that Fuller has made up his mind that Sacco and Vanzetti must die.

Madeiros' reprieve as an illustration of Hugo Bennett, also a confessed murderer, I was granted a retrial where Sacco and Vanzetti, innocent, have been doomed a shadow of justice. Overcome with remorse when he saw Mrs. Sacco and her children visiting his fellow prisoner, he confessed, implicating the Morelli gang, although unwilling to mention them by name.

The deluge of appeals continued today to swamp Governor Fuller's office. The Belgium Federation of Labor, representing 600,000 workers, a dozen Tampa cigar factories, 381 students of Mt. Holyoke College, the Workers' School of Springfield, Mass., San Francisco and Everett, Wash., Central Labor Councils, the Central Labor Council of Toulon, France, the liberal club of the University of Chicago and scores of individuals and groups joined in appeals for freedom for a review of the case.

CHEN PROTEST AS POWERS PREPARE DRIVE ON HANKOW

1,500 U. S. Marines to Joinn 42 Warships

HIGHLIGHT'S OF TODAY'S NEWS.

1.—Powers prepare for attack on Hankow. Concentrate warships, rush 1,500 American marines.
2.—Eugene Chen, Nationalist foreign minister, protests against presence of 42 warships off Hankow.
3.—France adopts more militant policy.
4.—Chiang Kai-shek makes bid for labor support; continues wholesale arrest and execution of labor leaders.
5.—Bukharin advises Communists to support Wuhan Kuomintang.
6.—American and British fire destroyed setcions of Nanking, eyewitness testifies.
7.—Rumor alliance between Chang Tso-lin and Chiang Kai-shek.

* * *

WASHINGTON, April 22 — That the imperialist powers are making preparations for an attack on Hankow, seat of the Nationalist government, was indicated today by the circulation of the report that the 1,500 marines aboard the transport Henderson, due in Shanghai shortly, are bound for Hankow.

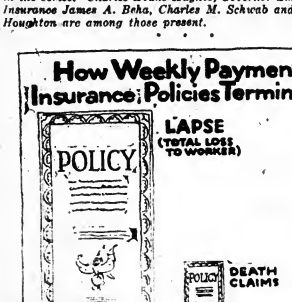
Although Secretary of War Wilbur has declared that the ultimate destination of the marines is in the hands of Admiral C. S. Williams, commander of the Asiatic squadron, responsible for the Nanking bombardment, close observers of the situation believe that the Nationalist capital is the certain destination of the marines.

Bound for Hankow.

Dispatches from London quote the Morning Post as saying that the American contingent will proceed directly to Hankow.

Chen Protests.

Eugene Chen, Nationalist foreign minister, has protested against the presence of imperialist warships off Hankow, according to a dispatch from that city. Conditions in Hankow and small number of foreigners there do not warrant the presence of 42 foreign vessels, Chen said.



The concentration of imperialist warships outside of Hankow is regarded as part of the preparation for a possible attack on the city. Latest reports put the number of imperialist war vessels in Hankow at 42. Other

(Continued on Page Two)

"Big Four" Agents Trained to Aid Swindle

Past Events of Insurance Expose.

This is the twelfth of a series of thirty articles exposing the fraud of "industrial" (weekly payment) life insurance. Previous articles have dealt with the methods employed by the "Big Four" in misusing "mutual" assets to the benefit of the banks which operate hand in glove with this powerful combine. The "Big Four" is composed of the Metropolitan, Prudential, John Hancock and the Colonial Life Insurance Companies. Names prominent in financial and government circles have figured largely in the series. Charles Evans Hughes, Governor Smith, Supt. of Insurance James A. Beha, Charles M. Schwab and Alanson B. Houghton are among those present.

This illustration graphically tells the story of the millions made by the "Big Four" on forfeitures on lapsed weekly payment policies. Giving the insurance trust the benefit of every doubt, they made upwards of $50,000,000.00 last year on this item alone.

* * *

(Copyrighted by The DAILY WORKER, 1927.)

By CHARLES YALE HARRISON

ARTICLE XII.

Because they have a bearing on what follows it is advisable to mention once more the startling facts relative to "industrial" (weekly payment) life insurance lapse statistics.

It must be remembered that, where as "ordinary" life insurance policies have a loan value after being two years in force, industrial life insurance policies have no loan values whatsoever. An "industrial" policyholder has been paying upon his policy for the past twenty years, during which time he may have deposited upwards of $500, yet, if he is in desperate circumstances, and requires a loan, the "Big Four" will not grant it.

Get Little.

In order to secure cash on a weekly payment life insurance policy, it must be surrendered. The available cash is usually about one-third of the total payments made during the payment-period. When the policy is surrendered for its cash value, it is automatically lapsed by the company and further protection, such as it is, ceases.

Ballyhooers for life insurance never fail to stress the point that life insurance is a great investment. Save for your old age. 97% of American workers are destitute at age 65, they say. They quote horrible examples of men who failed to make provision for their old age and who are now languishing in the poorhouse.

The claim is not being put forward in this series of articles that the principle of life insurance is not a good one. On the contrary, it is one of such great merit and of such great social significance that it should not be left in the hands of the swindling Wall Street financiers, who fatten upon the ignorance and credulity of 40 million workers: unwitting victims of the "Big Four's" weekly payment life insurance combine.

Rate Too High.

Weekly life insurance is a good thing, but not at the present rates which are more than three times too great for the benefits paid.

Certainly life insurance has a great social significance but not in the hands of the present Wall Street directors, who now control the so-called mutual companies to the detriment of the policyholders' interests and to their own aggrandizement and profit.

Consider the question of weekly payment policy lapses. In the year 1925, one and a half billions of dollars of "industrial" insurance terminated on the books of the "Big Four."

Of this enormous termination only 9% were paid in death claims. One percent (1%) of these terminations were paid as death claims.

After all the propaganda about saving for one's age, we discover that the policy conditions are so harsh that only 1% of all terminated policies are endowments. If your agent ever tells you to save for your old age via a weekly payment endowment policy, tell him that you can find a better method than doing it with his company.

Most Policies Lapse.

The above percentages, startling though they may be, are as naught compared with the figures on the "Big Four" weekly payment policy lapses. Of the total amount of yearly terminations 75% are total loss lapses. This means that insurers who are unable to hang on to their policies for the prescribed ten years (after which they may surrender their policies at a 66⅔ loss), drop them at a complete loss.

Save for your old age!

3% of all terminations are paid as surrender values and the balance are what the N. Y. Insurance Report calls "expiries"; which is another name for a lapsed policy.

How to Sell It.

I have before me a booklet issued by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, the largest life insurance company in the world and the biggest seller of weekly payment life insurance in America. The pamphlet is called "Talks to New Agents."

It is a short course in how to sell industrial insurance. It says, "People buy life insurance because of salesmen who sell it to them. Your processes, stripped bare, may sometimes mean to plead, coax, plum or urge men into insuring their lives; but the more you apply effectiveness—the greater your success." Nice business—plead, coax, drum! Further on it says, "Keep cool in the background."

The cost is so excessive that as soon as it is mentioned the prospect will fight shy, therefore it is advisable to keep cool in the background, get him het up about his old age, about the poorhouse, about anything, but don't mention cost. After you have scared the wits out of him, then you may mention cost . . . it won't matter then.

Get to Their Hearts.

The booklet goes on to illustrate how to get at your prospect's heart-strings: "Suppose the case of, say, your uninsured neighbor, a good risk, aged 40, who earns a nice salary. He adores his little son, the cutest little four-year-old in the world. . . . You hand the child a small gift and the father is greatly pleased because the toy is a joy to the boy." This is known as sales technique! Great stuff.

Still further, "You must pour out the water of life insurance until the rock of resistance sinks out of sight—but you must pour it out with tact."

Tact does not present a proposal (of insurance) with a crowd around; does not begin a canvass with talk about cost; does not show many figures; does not dwell on surrender values; does not leave sample policies until asked for. . . ."

From the beginning of his routine the new agent is primed to forget cost in talking to his prospect. As stated in the little lesson above, he must never talk about surrender values. Why should he. When the poor dupe discovers what his surrender values really are it is usually too late.

Don't show figures! Of course not, they are unfavorable to the company. They expose the prima facie fraud. No, talk about the weather, bring the son a toy, kiss the baby, but don't mention cost. Don't show figures and above all don't leave sample policies. It might give the game away.

It is due to the terrific number of weekly payment lapses that the enormous "Big Four" assets keep pyramiding year after year. During 1925, conservatively estimated, the "Big Four" made upwards of $50,000,000, on forfeitures on lapsed policies. But did the 40 million "industrial" policyholders benefit by these profits? Did the "mutual" directors lower the cost of insurance?

"Keep cost in the background."

BOSTON, April 22.—Scott Nearing will talk on "Dollar Diplomacy," the second of a course of four lectures at Lorimer Hall, Tremont Temple, on Monday at 8 o'clock. The lectures are being held under the auspices of the Workers' School of Boston.

GREEN THROWS AN ELEGANT PARTY FOR MacDONALD

Join Nabobs in Entertaining J. Ramsay

(From a Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, April 22.—President Green of the A. F. of L. and his cohorts of high priced labor union officials are having a high old time in the old town these days.

Bedizened in afternoon clothes, formal evening dress, and even morning attire, they are hobnobbing with the high and the mighty—all in honor and homage of their good friend, J. Ramsay MacDonald, chairman of the British Labor Party and leader of His Majesty's Opposition.

Green's Baffmery

Mr. Green startled newspapermen by dashing into the British ambassadorial mansion on Connecticut avenue Wednesday noon, all togged out in Prince-Albert and high collar. The British Ambassador, Sir Esme Howard, had invited him and Secretary Morrissey to be present at a dinner he gave for MacDonald.

Throws Swell Dinner

Wednesday night, however, President Green and his boys came into their own. In the ultra-fashionable Hamilton hotel they threw a dinner party for the former Premier, at which several ambassadors, a number of politicians, among them Secretary of Labor Davis, and a group of labor union officials were present.

Mr. MacDonald in his press talks while here explained at great length how it came about that the Independent Labor Party did not renominate him for treasurer and how he expected to be elected to that office just the same.

How About Forward?

"I am very fond of you Americans you know," he began, "and despite your bustle I think there is much to learn."

"Sir, MacDonald," a reporter broke in, "is it true that the Forward is paying your expenses on this trip?"

"That is not nice, young man," was the reply, "they are no more paying my expenses than you are. I have written for the Forward and am their guest at the celebration."

"Mr. MacDonald, you are no doubt aware of the fight going on in the labor movement in New York, which is called "Talks to New Agents." It is a short course in how to sell Forward and The DAILY WORKER and the PRESIDENT—"

"Oh, those two papers, they are the Communist papers. Aren't they?" he asked and then went no further.

SOCIALIST ORGAN IS SPLIT OVER CHIANG'S TREASON

What may develop into a new split in the socialist party for Abraham Cahan, was indicated today when the latest edition of the New Leader, socialist party organ, appeared on the streets with Norman Thomas and James Oneal locking horns in deadly combat over the recent split in the bourgeois Party of Sun Yat Sen.

Dr. Thomas is severe in his condonation of Chiang Kai-shek and brands him as a traitor to the Nationalist movement, even going so far as to accuse him of having received British gold, which is going far for such a cautious person as Dr. Thomas.

To quote from his column, "Timely Topics.

"In no proper sense is the sorry split in the ranks of the Chinese Nationalist party a matter of principle or a right and left wing division. Gen. Chiang masks his own treason to the Nationalist movement by the familiar talk of the wickedness of the Reds. Apparently he is without support, save his own troops, the money of some Chinese merchants, and perhaps some British gold. He is charged with not accounting for $90,000,000 of Nationalist money and of having reached a virtual understanding with the Northern militarists. Whatever offenses Chinese Communists in Hankow may have committed against Chinese unity they are insignificant in comparison with Chiang's criminal defection. In the long run he is likely to fall. In the meantime he has thrown Chinese affairs into new chaos. The way or another the powers may take advantage of that chaos. If they do they will only add to Chinese bitterness. It is highly important to remember that not the Northern militarists nor Chiang himself, although perhaps they may at times be paid tools of foreigners, British or Japanese, have dared to talk anything but the language of relentless opposition to the unequal treaties."

Lest the New Leader might be accused of one-sidedness James Oneal takes up the cudgels for Chiang on the editorial page, which is not out of harmony with his support of the A. F. of L. officials who are aiding the bosses and bomb squad in trying to send furriers and left wing members of the needle trades unions to jail. Here is what Oneal has to say:

"The split in the ranks of the Chinese Nationalists is wide, and civil war is waged between the two factions. The Communists have set up in business at Hankow and the anti-Communists at Nanking. In Moscow the Communists are terribly shocked because CHIANG-KAI-SHEK HAS EXECUTED SOME OF HIS COMMUNIST OPPONENTS and is carrying the war into the opposition camp. With the Moscow braves' record of executions, jailings and exiling of Socialists, Chiang probably thought it wise to give his opponents a dose of their own medicine. We note that Earl Browder of the American Communist Party, Tom Mann of England and M. Doriot have gone to Hankow to advise the Communists. Chiang has issued a statement telling what happened."

The socialist officials have little use for a united front even among themselves but they seem to enjoy a divided rear.

MAYOR GREETS EX-PREMIER

Mayor James J. Walker of New York City is shown greeting J. Ramsay MacDonald, former prime minister of Great Britain, following the return of MacDonald from Boston and Concord.

MacDonald Lolls In Embassy of Britain; Sneers at Strikers

By LAURENCE TODD
(Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 22.—J. Ramsay MacDonald came to Washington on April 20 and found it all dressed up to meet him. He sat in the British embassy and answered questions from press corrrespondents. He had lunch with Sir Esme Howard, the Tory ambassador, and a number of guests including Sen. Borah and President Green and Secretary Morrison of the American Federation of Labor, with Secretary of Labor Davis.

In the evening, the A. F. of L. gave him a dinner at the Hamilton Hotel—a dinner for 60 trade union officials with a few public officeholders to round out the occasion.

Slanders General Strike

Talking to the press men, MacDonald said the general strike had "struck labor generally," and because it had proved disastrously expensive to the strength of the labor movement he did not think it would be repeated in a long while.

He attacked Secretary Cook of the British Miners' Federation, saying that Cook is a strong trade unionist at 9 in the morning, but by 10 he is a syndicalist, by 11 is advocating political action, and by afternoon is again insisting on industrial action. Then the defeat at the hands of Cook's supporters, for nomination for treasurer of the Independent Labor Party, he dismissed as being of slight consequence. He said he would now be nominated by possibly 70 organizations, and expected to win a bigger vote than last year, in the Labor Party as a whole.

On China.

When asked about the new situation in China, created by the enslaved move of Chiang Kai-Shek, MacDonald said that the foreign powers are responsible for all that has happened. He did not discuss the class character of the Chinese revolution. The interview was cut short by the hour for Sir Esme Howard's luncheon, at that point.

MacDonald answered a question as to his connection with the Jewish Daily Forward's anniversary celebration in New York, by explaining that he writer a Loudon letter for that paper, and hence was asked to speak at its anniversary celebration, but he denied that the paper was paying his expenses on his American trip.

Supports Daily Worker

The International Branch, Union City, N. J., has contributed $15 toward the sustaining fund of the DAILY WORKER. Plans are also being made for the raising of funds for the paper periodically in the future.

Marines and Warships Mass to Attack Hankow

(Continued from Page One)

war vessels are patrolling the Yangtze between Shanghai and Hankow.

France More Militant.

Dispatches from Paris indicate that the die-hard cabinet, fearing a revolt in Indo-China, is adopting a more militant stand on the Chinese situation. Authoritative sources state that the cabinet is willing to follow Great Britain in an open war against the Nationalist government.

In case of intervention the powers will take steps to separate Hankow from Nanking and will direct their attack entirely against the Hankow government.

* * *

Bids for Support.

SHANGHAI, April 22. Chiang Kai-shek is making an open bid for imperialist support. It was learned from authoritative sources today.

He is prepared to offer the imperialist powers full indemnity for foreign lives lost and property damaged at Nanking, without making counter-demands for reparations for thousands of Chinese killed and valuable property destroyed by the imperialist bombardment of the city, it is reported.

Sections of Nanking were totally destroyed by British and American gun-fire during the bombardment of the city, according to W. De Crosse, an eye-witness.

That Chiang Kai-shek may form an open alliance with Chang Tso-lin, Manchurian war lord, was intimated by De Crosse, who is connected in a semi-official capacity with Chiang Kai-shek.

Chiang is also carrying the favor of foreign imperialists and native manufacturers by issuing warrants for the wholesale arrest and execution of labor leaders.

A denunciatory warrant for the arrest of 116 Nationalist leaders, including Michael Borodin. Several other Russians are included among those for whom warrants are issued. Number 112.

The number of Nationalist and labor leaders who have been executed by Chiang now total 112. Summary execution of leaders of workers and peasants' unions are taking place at Nanking, Canton, Swatow and Soochow.

In an attempt to suppress the mass protest against the raids on local unions and the execution of labor leaders, Chiang Kai-shek has declared martial law in the native city of Shanghai.

Chiang's troops patrolled the streets and searched "suspicious-looking" Chinese.

Soapless Unions.

Chow-lu, who has made a specialty of suppressing workers' and peasants' unions has been ordered by Chiang Kai-shek to Nanking, where there has been wide-spread unrest against his ruthless dictatorship.

Reports from Nanking state that six more labor leaders were executed at Lunghwa at the orders of Chiang Kai-shek. Their names are being withheld.

Bombard Nanking.

Two thousand white guard Russians and 7,000 Shantung troops, surrounded by Chiang's troops, are in Pukow and continues to shell Nanking. These shells are coming principally from guns mounted on armored trains and are taking a daily toll of lives in Nanking. The normal population of Nanking, which is 1,000,000, has been cut down by the flight of the panic-stricken populace. Few shops are open and business is at a standstill with the city over-run with soldiers.

* * *

Bukharin Advises Moderation.

MOSCOW, April 22.—Pointing out that the Communist Party must work within the Kuomintang and ally itself with all of the national forces, but the extreme right, N. D. Bucharin in a statement issued yesterday said, "We must utilise the national forces united in the Kuomintang with the

Who is Behind the Prosecution of the Militant Needle Trades Workers?

Who Are Matthew Woll's Fellow Conspirators?

They Are Leaders of the National Civic Federation!

Woll is Acting President of the Labor Hating Civic Federation.

Ben Gold and 10 other members of the Furriers' Union and 40 members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union are being framed up by a combination of high salaried labor leaders and capitalists. They are trying to jail them for long terms.

There is a United Front of the Special American Federation of Labor Committee, headed by Vice President Woll, and the National Civic Federation, dominated by the most powerful capitalists in the United States.

Matthew Woll is the connecting link in the conspiracy. Samuel McRoberts is treasurer of the National Civic Federation. His corporation connections are as follows:

President and director Metropolitan Trust Co., of the City of N. Y., 120 Broadway; director American Alliance Insurance Co.; director Sugar Refining Co.; chairman of Finance Committee of Armour & Co.; director Austin Machinery Corporation; director Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul Railway Co.; director Commercial Credit Corporation; director Consolidated Cigar Corporation; director Consolidated Coal Co.; the director Consolidation Coal Products Co.; the director Continental Guarantee Corporation; director Cumberland and Pa. R. R.; director Great American Insurance Co.; the director Kansas City Southern Railway Co.; director Massachusetts Fire & Marine Insurance Co.; director National Surety Co.; director N. Y. Indemnity Co.

Action Against Home Bootlegging Is Due

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Federal "intervention" into home brewing, wine making and small distilling may become necessary as a result of an enormous increase in this method of producing intoxicants, it was learned at the treasury today.

Mabel Gen. L. C. Andrews, dry chief, has passed up the "little fellow" in the drive against big sources of liquor supply which have been keeping the bootleg market satisfied, officials admitted today that the question of home manufacture of intoxicants is looming as a "serious" problem.

BUY THE DAILY WORKER AT THE NEWSSTANDS

Scores Killed When Bridge Falls

TOKYO, Japan, April 22.—Scores of Japanese villagers on Shikoku Island were killed and injured when Mimn Bridge cracked under the weight of a 17,000-pound stone today.

The stone, drawn by horses and followed by 1,000 persons, was intended as a monument in honor of Tamada, a greatly-admired liberal leader.

* * *

With the exception of the extreme right which is flirting with the militarists."

* * *

Chiang Seeks Reinforcements.

MANILA, P. I., April 22.—Professing admiration for Filipino soldiers, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, Chinese nationalist general, sought to recruit twenty-five experienced Filipino soldiers here today for service in his army.

Several Filipino soldiers of fortune are now with Chiang, among them is Vicente Lukban, a former major in the Philippine Scouts.

* * *

Japan More Aggressive.

TOKYO, April 22.—That the new Japanese government will adopt a more aggressive policy in China is predicted here.

"Japan cannot remain indifferent about what is happening in China," Premier Tanaka said in a statement issued this afternoon, "as it is directly and deeply affected by it." Japan is ready to cooperate with the other powers, he said.

21 Day Moratorium In Japan; Call a Special Meeting of the Diet

TOKYO, April 22.—The twenty-one day bank moratorium was officially ordered this afternoon. A special five-day session of the diet was called for noon May 3rd.

The financial crisis has extended even into the imperial family. The imperial household department held an emergency conference today to advance money to princes who were short of funds.

New England Working Women Have Arranged Conference For May

BOSTON, April 22.—A conference of women labor organizations in New England will be held here Sunday May 15 to mobilize the women to fight against imperialist wars and for the right of the working woman.

The agenda calls for action on the following points: to fight imperialist war, to carry on an effective campaign to unionize the working women. To encourage and assist the working class women to become citizens of the United States. To fight for equal pay for equal work. To combat child labor and to consider the question of training the children of the workers in sympathy and respect of the aims of labor. To fight for government maintenance of working women for a specific period of time before and after child birth and demand legislative action legalizing birth control. To develop political consciousness and activity among working women. To participate in all struggles of the workers jointly with other labor organizations. To provide for the educational, cultural, and social needs of the working class housewives. To render material and moral support to workers engaged in struggles against capitalists, relief in time of strikes, lockouts, etc.).

The conference will be held at Credit Union Hall, 62 Chandler St., at two p. m.

LECTURES and FORUMS

THE PEOPLE'S INSTITUTE

At Cooper Union (8 St. & Astor Pl.) at 8 o'clock. Admission Free

Sunday, April 24—Dr. Irwin Edman: "Science, Salvation and the Modern Soul."

Tuesday, April 26—Prof. Henry E. Crampton—Evolution Today."

Friday, April 29—Everett Dean Martin: What Is the Matter With Modern Ideas?—"The Type of Man Who Thrives in the Modern World."

AT MANHATTAN TRADE SCHOOL

Lex. Av. & 22d St., at 8 o'clock. Single Admission, 25 cents. Reduction for Course Tickets.

Monday, Apr. 25—Houston Peterson: Humor and the World of Illusion—"A Literary Satire."

Thurs., Apr. 28.—Dr. E. G. Spaulding: "Questions People Expect a Philosopher to Answer."—"What Is the Personality?"

Sat., April 30—Dr. Scott Buchanan: Platonic Attitudes.—"Dialectic as a Method in Philosophy."

LABOR TEMPLE

14th Street and Second Avenue

THIS SUNDAY

5 P. M.—The Pioneers of the Race

DR. G. F. BECK

"The Saint of the Market Place"—Socrates

ADMISSION 25 CENTS

7:15 P. M.—

EDMUND B. CHAFFEE

"The Revolt of Asia"

ADMISSION FREE

8:30 P. M.—Open Forum

HARRY F. WARD

"Economics and Religion"—2.

ADMISSION FREE

INGERSOLL FORUM

Anti-religious center of N. Y.

CHAMBER MUSIC HALL,

CARNEGIE HALL

SUNDAY EVENING, 8 P. M.

DR. WINIFRED SACKVILLE STONER

will speak on

"Vitology—The Only Sane—Sense Philosophy"

Questions and Speeches from Floor Admission free All welcome

TOMORROW NIGHT, 8 P.M.

Joe Freeman

will speak on

"RUSSIA IN 1927"

A brilliant proletarian Journalist, who has just returned from a half-year's stay in the Soviet Union, tells what he saw there At

The Workers School Forum

108 East 14th Street.

NEXT SUNDAY—Speaking—No Forum. Attend your May Day Meeting

ADMISSION 25.

Boston Starts Training Class

BOSTON, April 22.—The Young Workers League of District One has organized a training course on Organization and policy of the Young Workers League.

This course will be given in 7 lessons with 2 periods every lesson. The course contains instructions on structure of the Y. W. L. duties and function of units and officers, how to build shop nuclei, how to get new members, discipline and policy of the Y. W. L. on every field of work. Max Kay the District Organizer of the League will instruct the course.

Old Age Pension Bill Defeated By Penn. Legislature

By JOHN P. TROXELL.

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 22 (FP).—The Old Age Pensions Bill furnished the only fight in the Pennsylvania Legislature this year. This measure split the Vare and the Mellon gangs into two camps, with Vare favoring and Mellon opposing. Governor Fisher and Joe Grundy, boss of the State Manufacturers' gang, jumped into the fray on Mollon's side, and this triumvirate won the battle.

The measure before the Legislature did not provide a pension, but merely proposed a referendum on the question of changing the state constitution to make pensions possible. The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, secure in the prospect of fat pensions for themselves, decreed that the former Old Age Pension law was unconstitutional. Therefore the change in the Constitution is necessary. Organized labor in Pennsylvania has supported Old Age Pensions for many years; James H. Maurer, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor is chairman of the State Old Age Pension Compission.

Sought by Mellon.

The Mellon-Grundy outfit, fearing to put this measure before the people, fought it desperately. Governor Fisher was their willing tool, and by a campaign full of falsehoods and bullying tactics, they defeated the measure.

If the governor had shown half as much fight in favor of his "Clean Election" bills, as he exhibited in his attack on the Pension bill, he could probably have won. Instead, he meekly accepted the amendments which machine politicians inserted, and the Election Laws have been improved but little.

The Homsher bills, which aimed to saddle the republican machine on the state for all time by practically precluding independent political action, failed to pass. The machine politicians seemed to figure that, having succeeded in knocking down and hogtying the state's voters, it was going a little too strong to kick 'em in the face.

Hertzog Cabinet Hits Organization of Negro

CAPE TOWN, April 22.—(FP)—Premier Hertzog's Nationalist cabinet has brought out a bill aimed primarily at the labor union movement among the black workers in British Africa which has raised a storm of protest from all white trade unionists as well. The African Industrial and Commercial Workers' Union, of the colored race elements, is affiliated with the Intl. Federation of Trade Unions at Amsterdam, which has joined the white unions in denouncing the measure.

Under the terms of this bill, the Governor General "may make regulations to prohibit the dissemination by any person of doctrines subversive of peace and good order among natives" in South Africa. It defines the "subversive acts" as including the inciting of natives to "attempt to procure by unlawful methods an alteration of any matter by law established."

156 Killed in N. Y.

ALBANY, N. Y. (FP).—176 workers were killed on the job in March, reports the state industrial commissioner.

A New Pamphlet

THE THREAT TO THE LABOR MOVEMENT

The Conspiracy Against the Trade Unions

By WM. F. DUNNE

15 cents

Los Angeles Labor Demands Globerman For Place on Board

By WM. SCHNEIDERMAN

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—With trade union bodies representing over 5000 workers endorsing his candidacy for Board of Education, the Trade Union Campaign Committee for Sam Globerman, independent labor candidate, has issued a call for a TRADE UNION POLITICAL CONFERENCE to all trade unions and district councils of Los Angeles, the purpose of which is to outline an acceptable labor platform on which trade union candidates can run in future elections, and to support the labor candidates in the municipal elections May 3rd.

What Workers Want.

Since the State Painters Convention and the State Building Trades Convention have gone on record for a Labor Party and a United Labor Ticket respectively, it is expected that the district councils of these bodies, which have endorsed Sam Globerman's candidacy, will call upon the TRADE UNION POLITICAL CONFERENCE to work for a Labor Party and a United Labor Ticket in future elections. The conference, which has been called to meet Monday, April 25th, in the Needle Trades Hall, will thus become a permanent body to work in that direction.

Make Foolish Charge.

The officials of the Central Labor Council are attempting to prevent the Council from endorsing Globerman, as they charge him with being a "Red," but since many unions have endorsed him on the basis of the labor platform on which he is running, as an independent, it is difficult to see how they can prevent the Council from endorsing him.

They have already postponed the question for one week, not knowing what action they should take. Now they are so desperate, they have even raised the ridiculous charge that he is not a citizen, and forced him to show his papers to them before they were satisfied that they could not frame him up on this issue.

The present situation recalls the 1923 period, when a local Labor Party was organized with over 20 local unions represented on its Executive Committee, but which was swept away by the LaFollette movement.

Workers' Party Statement.

Under the title of "Boycott The Bosses' Candidates," the Workers' (Communist) Party in Los Angeles has issued the following immediate program:

1. Public ownership of all public utilities with workers' control.

2. Work at Trade Union Wages or compensation for all unemployed workers.

3. Abolition of private employment agencies and establishment of public free employment bureaus in cooperation with the trade unions.

4. Abolition of the use of injunctions and anti-labor laws by the police and the courts against the workers.

5. The establishment of the eight-hour day the two day week, and the enforcement of a union scale of wages in all industries.

6. Strict enforcement of the child labor laws, and abolition of night work and dangerous work for women and children.

7. Repeal of anti-picketing ordinance.

8. Enforcement of public health laws in regard to sanitation, safety devices, and ventilation, especially in workshops.

9. All employes of any city department must belong to a trade union, and all work must be done under union conditions.

10. Free text books ad expenses for food and clothing for all children in the public schools who otherwise could not afford a schooling.

11. Educational policies of our school system must be under the supervision of the labor movement.

12. Teachers must be allowed to belong to a trade union, and have a voice in running the schools. Higher wages for all school teachers.

13. Abolition of military training in the schools.

The Workers' (Communist) Party pledges itself to utilize the election campaign for the purpose of rallying the workers to this program, and to work for the final purpose of complete working-class control of government.

Support Labor Candidates, Build a Labor Party.—(Signed) Workers' (Communist) Party.

Boston Foreign Born Council Holds Confab

BOSTON, April 22.—Council for the Protection of the Foreign Born will hold an enlarged Conference in Peabody at 56 Main St., at 2 o'clock Sunday, April 24th, according to an announcement issued by S. Malik, of St. Stanley Polish Society, chairman of the Salem & Peabody Conference, to protest against discriminatory and anti-alien legislation, and to organize a permanent council.

This decision was arrived at a month ago at a preliminary conference held in Peabody at Mouse Hall, and representing a membership of more than 1300 from social, religious and benefit societies and trade unions. Finns, Russians, Lithuanians, Portuguese, Polish and Jews were delegates.

GREEN AND HIS ASSOCIATES

GOLD TESTIFIES TO BLACKMAIL, ATTEMPT BY BASOFF CHIEF STOOL PIGEON OF PROSECUTION

(Continued from Page One)

In a low, calm voice Gold while testifying, answered the questions of his attorney, Charles Weeks, and in the same calm manner he replied to the sarcastic, threatening, provocative questioning of the district attorney.

Startling revelations concerning the blackmailing tactics of the stool pigeon Bernard Basoff, were given by Gold in a matter-of-fact, businesslike manner.

Basoff At Office.

"Basoff came to my office in the union asking me to translate a letter written in Jewish, which had been sent to him by his father," said Gold. "In the letter, Basoff's father told him he ought to get some money out of the union for being jailed and beaten by the police. I told him the union could not pay him money any more than other workers. He said he was sick and could not work, and I offered to send him to a doctor. I urged him to go to work, to forget about prison. I told him Malkin and Franklin had the same experience he had; many other workers had been in jail too. The union would stick by him, and the best thing to do was to work and forget what had happened to him."

Blackmail.

A few days later Basoff came back again, so Gold related, and this time he made a demand for a specific amount of money. He wanted $60 a week, and Gold told him the union was not supporting anyone. He could not have any money.

"Then he began to threaten, and not wanting to have any scandal in my office, I took him upstair and I took Samuel Zuckerman (labor editor of 'The Day') with me."

Willful Misinterpretation.

Gold used the word "scandal" meaning disturbance or violent argument; but the district attorney, always looking to misinterpret every word, fastened on this as proof that there was something Gold was trying to hide in connection with Basoff and the Rockville Center case. He gloated over this word "scandal" and tried to entrap Gold with insinuations as to what he had meant by it.

Threatened Gold.

In Zuckerman's presence, Basoff repeated his threats to "get" Gold if the union did not come thru with some money at once; but Gold let him talk and then called him a blackmailer who could not intimidate him in any way no matter what he did.

"What did you do about these threats?" the district attorney asked during the cross examination later.

"Nothing", said Gold.

"Did you take Basoff's threats seriously? Did you think he meant them?"

"No."

Is A Communist.

When cross examination began, the district attorney asked:

"Are you a Communist?"

Gold answered "Yes."

Maurice Malkin, one of the defendants who also testified yesterday, answered "Yes" to this same question.

Did Not Send Telegram.

Gold was next questioned as to whether he knew Harry Kessler who stood up in the court room to be identified. Gold did not know him, nor did he recognize a telegram presented by the district attorney which purported to call Kessler to a meeting at union headquarters on Sunday April 3rd.

This was signed with Gold's name but he had not sent it, altho he stated frankly that it might have been sent out of his office.

This was very evidently an effort to discredit the testimony of various witnesses to the effect that the general picket committee had never had meetings on Sunday, as Basoff had testified. Kessler did not claim to be a member of the committee, but he did claim— at least the district attorney's questioning so included—that he had come to the office in response to this telegram and when he arrived there Gold had ordered Samuel Mencher and Phillip to beat him up.

Creating Prejudice.

Gold positively denied this. The story was significant not only because it would prejudice the jury against Gold, but also against Mencher and Lenhardt whose alibis in connection with the day of the raid, April 19, 1927, have not been questioned so far. Prejudice against them must be created as much as possible.

This has been the custom all during this trial; if there is no evidence against the defendant, create a special prejudice in the minds of the jurors. Judge Smith, petulant, bored, at times wrathy and vicious, acts as the any testimony that showed the innocence of these workers was a waste of the court's time.

Wants Conviction.

Repeatedly the interrupts such testimony; at times when the district attorney raises an objection, the judge says in long-suffering tone, "Oh let them go on." His whole attitude show that he has a firm conviction these men are guilty; "why should so much time be taken up proving they are innocent?" At one of Frank P. Walsh's objections—which he always overruled, almost before they are expressed—the judge burst into a tirade and said, "I am running this court. You just remember that."

The defendants Oscar Mileaf, Leo Franklin, Maurice Malkin, and Isadore Shapiro were all called to the stand yesterday to testify in their own behalf. The witnesses called yesterday for the defense Mrs. Katherine Mesusicki who corroborted Lenhart's testimony; Dr. P. Marie Lerner, who testified that Mileaf had been in her office all day on April 19th, 1926; Isadore Corn manager of the Butcher's Union, who verified part of Katz' testimony of yesterday; George Sylvester, one of the union's attorneys; Peter Barskin, manager of Manhattan Lyceum; Morris Kudrinetsky, a fur worker; Captain Bacon of the Nassau country police; Miss May C. Gresser, secretary to John Coughlan of the central trades and labor council; General John J. Phelan of the 165th Regiment who testified in behalf of Shapiro; Maurice H. Cohen, secretary-treasurer of the Joint Board; Abraham Verber, employed in the office of the Joint Board; Joseph Cohn, former chauffeur of Abraham Goodman; Samuel Okstein a fur dealer; his son Joseph; Morris Lazarus, a fur worker; and Gordon Steinberg.

Prosecutor Sneers at N. Y. Courts.

The district attorney in several remarks attacked the integrity of the New York courts yesterday when defendants testified that they had never been convicted of any crimes but disorderly conduct, and the penalty had been a fine of five or ten dollars, he remarked each time:

"Oh yes, the usual five dollars—the usual ten dollars."

To Mileaf he said:

"Oh, yes I know; your sentence was reduced from threatened assault to disorderly conduct because there was an arrangement between your union and the court."

To Franklin he remarked:

"Yes I know; by some arrangement, or influence with certain interests, you managed to have felonious assault changed to disorderly conduct and got a fins of $2."

Judge Vindicitve.

The district attorney tried to accuse Malkin of being a slacker during the war; then Attorney Uterhardt showed that Malkin was only 17 when the war ended.

Shapiro, Morris Cohen and Verber told of Basoff's demands for money from the union, and Shapiro told of his threats "to get him."

WORKERS' PROTEST AGAINST DEATH OF SACCO and VANZETTI!

Boost for Borno, The Representative Of United States

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(FP)—As though to rebuke Senator King for his daring to try to go to Haiti to tell the natives that there is still sympathy with their wrongs in the United States, a boost for the Borno regime in that conquered country is published in the April issue of the Bulletin of the Pan-American Union.

This article is written by W. W. Cumberland, financial adviser and receiver-general of Haiti, who used to be an instructor in the University of Minnesota before he got the political plum he now enjoys.

Is Progressive.

"The present administration in Haiti," he modestly says of himself and Borno and the marines and constabulary, "is progressive and enlightened. President Borno systematically supports all legitimate enterprise. Untavorable legislation is being eliminated. With the continuance of law and order, and the extension of productive facilities and development of additional industries, the economic future of Haiti may be regarded as most encouraging."

From the United States, which is exploiting Haiti's resources, come 75 per cent of her imports. To Frnnce go 60 per cent of her exports, chiefly coffee. Sugar cane is now becoming an important crop, because "labor charges are thought to be lower in Hnitl than in any other country in the western hemisphere."

This is the labor situation in Haiti after 12 years of American military occupation.

Read The Daily Worker Every Day

CURRENT EVENTS

(Continued from Page One)

its base. The rise of the Nationalist movement in China, the stabilization of the power of the Soviet Union from Leningrad to Vladivostok and the hostility of the United States gave the Japanese ruling classes plenty to think about during the past few years. The Japanese workers are murmuring under the oppression of the government. Yet they are developing in strength and power. Intervention in China just now might be the signal for a revolution at home.

* * *

WE hope there will be a good attendance at the mass meeting to commemorate the Irish rebellion of Easter Week 1916 which will be held tomorrow evening in Bryant Hall, 725 6th Ave., near 42nd. There are thousands of radicals of Irish birth or descent thruout the country who could be made acquainted with the Communist message thru meetings of this kind if they could only be reached. The real leader of the Easter Week uprising against British imperialism was James Connolly, one of the ablest social revolutionists in theory and practice that the modern labor movement has produced.

* * *

THE bureaucracy of the American Federation of Labor have sunk to unfathomable depths of infamy in their attempts to crush the left wing in the trade unions. They are meek and humble servants in the pay of the employing classes. And as vermin of all kinds are preyed on by lesser vermin, so the socialists are living on the labor fakers as the labor fakers are living on the capitalists as well as on the workers. Matthew Woll and his lieutenants are acting now as auxiliaries of the New York bomb squad in trying to railroad the leaders of the fur workers and ladies' garment workers to jail. The thing is so astounding that words are inadequate to paint its iniquity.

Officer on Ship Brutally Beats a Youthful Seaman

(By A Worker Correspondent.)

A young German seaman was badly beaten yesterday aboard the S. S. Weisse See, a tramp freighter, from Bremen, lying outside of Pier 9, Staten Island. The chief mate of the ship who was drunk at this time was responsible for the atrocity.

Taken To Hospital.

The injuries resulting were so severe as to necessitate the removal of the young seaman to the hospital. The crew was greatly incensed at the attack on the part of the officer, who has been responsible for many such brutal assaults upon a number of seamen, has protested the case before the German consul. As yet, however, no action has been forthcoming from this source. The fact that the chief mate is the nephew of the master of the ship probably has a good deal to do with this.

Ship A Disgrace.

The ship itself is a disgrace to the marine industry. She is a nine thousand ton rebuilt junk pile that has been saved from the scrap heap of the world war. Formerly one of the North German Lloyd cargo boats, this and the strain of the war trade have knocked her to a wrecked hulk. Today she is absolutely unfit for any maritime trade, and a floating graveyard for the exploited seamen that have to sail on her.

There is no doubt that as long as the seamen are unorganized they will have to sail on rotten ships and also be the victims of brutal treatment at the hands of their officers. With a strong organization to protect their interests it will be impossible for officers to treat sailors like dogs.

BUY THE DAILY WORKER AT THE NEWSSTANDS

Bosses Threaten Plumbers' Lockout Next Wednesday

A lockout of all plumbers in New York City next Wednesday is the threat of the Master Plumbers' Association.

The announcement was made by C. G. Narman, chairman of the board of governors of the Building Trades Employers' Association following a meeting in the association headquarters, 30 West 33 Street.

In addition to the 1,500 plumbers and the 1,500 halpers now on strike in Brooklyn it would effect mare than 3,000 plumbers and 1,500 plumbers' helpers in Manhattan and the Bronx.

The Brooklyn plumbers and halpers have been on strike since April 1 for an increase in wages and tha forty-hour week. The helpers are organized in tha Amerlesn Association of Plumbers' Helpers and are asking for admittance into the plumbers' union.

Affair For I.L.D.

CHICAGO, April 22.—A Chechov play, entertainment and dancing will feature a novel affair to be given by the Eugene Barnett branch of the International Labor Defense on Saturday Evening April 23rd. The Workers' Lyceum, 2733 Hirsch Blvd. is the hall. Tickets in advance 40 cents, at the door, 50 cents. The proceeds will help swell the class-war prisoners' defense fund of the I.L.D.

Violin and Viola Lessons

Given by expert teacher.

For reasonable rates, write to

JOHN WEINROTH

6158 LARCHWOOD AVENUE.

Phone Granite 7282, Philadelphia, Pa.

CHICAGO

MAY DAY DEMONSTRATION

SUNDAY, MAY FIRST, 1927, at 8 P. M.

ASHLAND AUDITORIUM

Ashland Boulevard and Van Buren Street.

SPEAKERS:

WM. Z. FOSTER

MAX SHACHTMAN—Recently returned from Moscow.

C. T. CHI—Member of the Kuomintang.

MELECH EPSTEIN—Editor of the Freiheit.

ARNE SWABECK—Chairman.

Film of Ruthenberg Funeral Will Be Shown.

MUSICAL PROGRAM ADMISSION 50c.

Freiheit Singing Society and Symbolic Hammer Drill by Finnish Gymnastic Society.

Your Last Chance to

Here's How

To greet the workers of the world The DAILY WORKER will print the names of individual workers and all working class organizations in its SPECIAL MAY DAY EDITION.

Here's How Much

Individual names will be printed at the rate of $1.00 per name. Organizations will be given a special rate of $1.00 per inch.

Here's When—

All greetings must be mailed at once to reach The DAILY WORKER before April 25. All greetings arriving later will be printed in following editions.

SEND GREETINGS TODAY

DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, New York, N. Y.

Inclosed find ..... dollars for May Day Greetings.

Name .....

Address .....

City ..... State .....

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
Daily, Except Sunday
33 First Street, New York, N. Y. Phone, Orchard 1980

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail (in New York only):		By mail (outside of New York):
$8.00 per year	$4.50 six months	$6.00 per year	$3.50 six months
$2.50 three months		$2.00 three months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, New York, N. Y.

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE ..... Editors
BERT MILLER ..... Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail at the post-office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Advertising rates on application.

Politics is a science and an art that did not come down from heaven and is not acquired gratis. . . . If the proletariat wishes to defeat the bourgeoisie, it must train from among its ranks its own proletarian "class politicians" who shouldn't be inferior to the bourgeois politicians.

—I.ENIN.

On Lenin's Birthday.

Today, April 23, is the birthday of Vladimir Ilyitch Ulianov Lenin, the greatest leader of the working class in all history, whose death called forth the most widespread and profound sorrow among the masses ever displayed.

Wherever workers and farmers are robbed by the capitalist class and their agents, rivers of tears were shed for Lenin. In the Soviet Union, where the masses rule thru their Russian Communist Party, millions marched past his bier in the piercing cold of a Russian winter.

Lenin left two great and indestructible achievements, which have become momments to his genius and courage and fortresses of the class struggle—the Soviet Union, ruled by workers and peasants, a living source of strength and inspiration to the oppressed masses, and the Communist International, the organizer and leader of the proletarian revolution.

Today the steady march of millions of workers and farmers toward liberation, the gigantic mass struggles which, as in China, are shaking world imperialism to its foundations and making a ghastly farce of its boasted "stabilization," bear out the statements of Lenin that this period is the "epoch of wars and revolutions"—the twilight of capitalism.

The official labor movement of imperialist America hates the very name of Lenin, but thousands of workers love it. The labor officialdom, which makes no protest against the invasion of Nicaragua, remains silent as the imperialist plot against Mexico unfolds itself, which watches either approvingly or passively the rapid preparations for war on the Chinese trade unions, the peasant organizations and the masses in general, sees in the name of Lenin the symbol of the revolt against their continual betrayals, which is in the making.

On Lenin's birthday the Communists of the United States renew their pledge to follow the line of Leninism in the American class struggle and to show by their loyalty to their class, their energy in the class struggle and their unfaltering devotion to the interests of the masses that our dead leader's example and teachings have found deep roots in the most powerful imperialist nation in the world.

On Lenin's birthday we take up anew the challenge of American imperialism and its agents in the ranks of the labor movement.

What Difference Is There Between Mussolini and Green?

All intelligent trade unionists, reading the despicable decrees of Mussolini's "fascist charter of labor," would view with alarm the effort to enforce similar conditions upon the American working class. Mussolini is known to all the world as a blackguard despot, who has deprived labor in Italy of every gain it made through the long years of bitter struggle previous to the fascist usurpation of governmental power. From him no one expects anything but oppressive decrees for labor. He is the incarnation of capitalist despotism, the head of a brigand band of the very scum of Italy in the service of the big industrialists and bankers of that unfortunate country.

But are the workers in the United States free from fascist tyranny? Between Mussolini's decrees as reported in the press today and the well-known utterances of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, there is little to choose, as a comparison will readily reveal. Here are the principles (?) of these two agents of the capitalist class set side by side:

MUSSOLINI	GREEN
"The fascist charter of labor embodies the fundamental principles of the fascist state, which is based primarily upon the theory of replacing the class struggle by fruitful co-operation between capital and labor, establishing equality of rights and duties between them, raising the standard of production and eliminating waste in industry. Both labor and capital must carry out their tasks for the common good."	"Under various systems of union-management co-operation workers have felt a responsibility and a partnership in industry which has brot substantial benefits to the industry. Prevention of waste, saving of materials, better production methods, even inventions of machinery to increase efficiency have been part of the workers' contribution. The workers' demands under this system of co-operation have been restrained by better understanding of the facts of production."

The only difference between Mussolini and Green is that the fascist state enforces its decrees through its political power, while Green tries to enforce it by turning the unions into agencies for increasing production. If Green can succeed in enforcing his policy of co-operation with the employers upon American labor they will need no Mussolini at the head of the state; the right wing officialdom of the American labor movement will answer the purpose equally as well.

However, there is one factor that will eventually deprive Green and his cohorts, Woll, McGrady, Lewis, Sigman, of their fascist roles in the American labor movement and that is the rank and file of the labor movement that, in spite of the shameful alliance between the right wing officialdom, the employers, the police and the courts created to destroy the militant elements of the trade unions, are more and more coming to understand the role of the labor faker and will soon challenge their rule in every union just as they are today being challenged in the needle trades in New York.

Just as it is the task of the Italian workers to settle accounts with their fascist oppressors so it is the task of American labor to settle accounts with the Greens, Wolls, Lewises and other would-be Mussolinis of this country.

Stop War on the Chinese Labor Movement and the People's Government in Hankow!

The dispatch of 1,500 marines to Hankow, as stated by Paris dispatches talthо "denied" by Washington thru the transparent deceptive method of stating that they will be "under the command of Admiral Williams", the adoption of a hostile policy towards Hankow by France under British pressure, the more menacing tone of the Japanese government spokesmen, the continual additions of American gunboats and those of other important imperialist nations to the fleet in front of Hankow—all show that open joint warfare on this great industrial center and its working class is contemplated.

The imperialist powers are going to strike at the center of the Chinese labor movement in the iron and steel industry, they will try to drown the unions, the leaders of the liberation struggle, in their own blood.

The plan is clear. Chiang Kai Shek, in return for his ruthless slaughter of labor union officials and members and his ruthless suppression of the workers, will be given some form of recognition. Then Chiang Kai Shek world imperialism hopes to establish itself more firmly than ever in China, to ride more securely than ever upon the backs of the toiling masses in the cities and countryside.

The trade unions and the peasant organizations and the Communist Party which has taken the lead in building them, are the sole obstacles in the way of militarist-imperialist domination of China. It is around these organizations that the mass liberation has been built. Their destruction therefore is equivalent to the destruction of the liberation movement itself.

Against this damnable imperialist conspiracy the working class of the imperialist nations must set its face like flint and act so determinedly that world imperialism will not dare to carry out its bloody scheme.

We can be sure that a war on the People's Government at Hankow will be but a prelude to a new world war. If the Chinese liberation movement is suppressed even temporarily the imperialist rivalries will flare up into a conflagration which oceans of the blood of workers and farmers will not serve to quench.

We stand face to face with war today.

Let no one be fooled by the lies of imperialism's puppets in Washington

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT IS PREPARING FOR WAR!

Will the American masses allow themselves to become the executioners of the Chinese liberation movement? Will they allow themselves to be marshalled as cannon-fodder for Wall Street?

Do they want their corpses and mangled bodies to be strewn over the globe so that fat robbers can become still fatter?

We do not think so. But if there is not organized a mass movement of such dimensions that the rulers will be afraid to disregard its protests, all these things will happen as surely as the sun sinks in the west.

American labor officialdom must be made to speak out against the war plans of the Coolidges and Kelloggs.

In every local union, every co-operative society, every fraternal and benefit organization, in every central labor council resolutions denouncing the presence of American forces in China should be introduced and passed and the IMMEDIATE WITHDRAWAL OF TROOPS AND WARSHIPS DEMANDED.

Stop War on the Chinese labor movement—stop war on the People's Government!

Negro Problems and Tasks

By ALEX BITTELMAN
(Secretary of Committee for Work Among Negroes of W. C. (C.) of A.)

MASS migration of Negroes from the south to the west, north and east presents a complex of problems not only to the southern white capitalist, but also to the Negro masses themselves. With particular urgency these problems impose themselves upon those Negro organizations which sincerely strive to represent and work for the interests of the Negro masses as against those of the small group of Negro capitalists and against the ramified powers of the white capitalists.

FOR the capitalist interests of the south, the exodus of large masses of Negroes creates the serious problem of labor shortage. Employers of labor in the south, agrarian as well as industrial, are actually alarmed of the situation. They are becoming frantic at the mere thought that the inexhaustible supply of cheap, unorganized and docile labor is being seriously interfered with. The task that these capitalists see before them is to stop this exodus by all means at their command. By persuasion and cajoling if possible, by force if necessary.

TO the Negro workers, to the farmers, and to all militant fighters for the liberation of the race, the situation presents a different complex of problems. These are all related, of course, to the fundamental conditions of Negro life in the United States. They can find their complete solution only in the light of such social and political changes as will bring about the full emancipation of the Negro race. But at the same time tasks must be formulated which could be successfully applied in the immediate situation. And it is with some of these tasks that the present article proposes to deal.

* * *

IT occurs to me that of late the Negro of the south has been somewhat neglected. Is this so, or not? If it is so, then a serious mistake is being committed. For after everything has been said about the tremendous economic, political and cultural importance of the new Negro centers in the north, east and west, which one can successfully dispute, yet the fact of the matter is that the bulk of the American Negro race, its most exploited and persecuted section, continues to live and suffer in the south. Does this fact carry any meaning at all to the Negro emancipation movement, to Negro labor and to Negro farmers? If it does not, it should. It would be a grave injustice to the millions of Negroes in the south and would be a fatal political mistake from the point of view of the liberation struggles of the American Negroes as a whole to hang the fate of the race on migration from the south and the upbuilding of new centers in New York, Chicago, etc. Not that these latter developments are in any way harmful to the Negro masses. Far be it from us to entertain any such views. The points we are trying to make is that the exodus from the south and the upbuilding of new Negro centers elsewhere, taken by themselves, do not offer a complete solution to the Negro problem in the United States.

* * *

WHY is it so?

First, because not all the Negroes are migrating from the south. Though the forces creating migration are still operating very intensely, yet the probabilities are that the bulk of the race will continue in the south. The overwhelming majority is still there. Even a cursory glance at conditions will show that the scope of Negro migration from the south is bound to become smaller. There are at present several powerful factors working in that direction.

FOR one thing, the industrialization of the south. While some of the earlier features of the industrialization of that section of the country may have contributed to aggravating Negro conditions in the south, thus swelling migration, yet the further this process proceeds the more will it operate, up to a certain point, as a force keeping the Negro masses in the south instead of driving them out of there. Negroes will undoubtedly continue to move from plantations and farms to cities and industrial centers, the same as whites do, and for pretty nearly the same reasons. Negroes will also continue to migrate north, east and west, prompted by the same forces as whites are. But mass exodus from the south altogether, the recent phase of which has undoubtedly been accelerated by the cotton crisis, is bound to diminish considerably.

* * *

PARTICULARLY so, when some of the later attendant features of industrialization begin to manifest themselves. Trade union organization, for instance, which, if it develops in the south along modern and militant lines, will give the Negro workers there, same as the whites, a certain feeling of independence and a weapon for struggle to protect their interests. Progressively closer contact with organized white workers, consequent upon industrialization, will certainly give the Negro worker a deeper feeling of self-confidence and a larger sense of power against his exploiters than he has at present. Which by itself will make the south look more desirable in the eyes of the Negroe masses than it does now.

ALSO cultural opportunities are bound to increase for the Negro masses in the south with the development there of a modern labor movement. The entire ideological level of the masses will be raised to a higher plane and most of the medieval features of the typical south will disappear as a result of the development and intensification of the class struggle and the building up of labor and farmer organizations. These struggles are also bound to produce economic opportunities in the matter of employment, wages, and working conditions generally at least as good, or bad, as in other sections of the country. Thus the present urge among the Negroes from the south elsewhere will inevitably be weakened to a very low point and migration will assume more or less normal proportions.

This is one reason why one cannot bank the solution of the Negro problem on mass migration from the south. But there is also another reason, and here we come to—

* * *

SECOND, the mere leaving of the south and taking up residence in another section of the country solves only part of the problem even for those who migrate. Because immediately as they set foot on new territory they are confronted with innumerable new problems. Suffice it to enumerate only the following: employment, wages, residence, union affiliation, education for the children, recreation, etc. These are no small matters as every Negro who has migrated from the south can testify. Negro life in New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh or Philadelphia may be more interesting, and the problems different there than in the south, but the difficulties of life in the former are no less than in the latter.

Undoubtedly these questions are being given serious thought by the Negroes and Negro organizations. But the question is, how correct is this thinking and what is its effectiveness? In other words, what basic approach is being made toward the solution of these questions?

* * *

FOR it must be understood that the task of finding employment, the question of wages, residence, union affiliation, etc., in cities like Chicago, Pittsburgh or New York, present to the Negro an entirely different aspect than they do to the white worker. In the attempt to solve his difficulties, the Negro comes up against the entire proposition which is known as the Negro problem. Hence, the approach toward the solution of these difficulties must be made in a basic and radical manner. Every one of these questions must be considered in the light of the entire Negro situation, north, east, south ad west, and policies formulated in accordance with it. There is no shorter or simpler way of handling effectively these questions.

* * *

THERE are two dangers which the Negro masses must particularly guard against at present. One is the danger of adopting the attitude that mass migration from the south will do the job for them. The second danger, closely connected with the first one, is to accept and look upon the new Negro centers in the north, east and west as the haven of deliverance and liberty towards which the hopes, ambitions and aspirations of every Negro must be directed.

To fall into the first danger is to become fatalistic and passive. It is to make the fate of the Negro masses depend upon something which, by itself is neither good nor bad, and which cannot under any circumstances solve the Negro problem. To fall into the second danger is to ignore and neglect the suffering and the struggles of the basic part of the Negro race—the Negro masses of the south—as well as overlook the vital practical tasks of the Negro masses in these same new centers.

What is the correct approach?

The correct approach to the problems discussed here is to be found by adhering to the following principles:

One.—That all the individual problems of the Negroes form an inseparable part of one big problem—the Negro problem.

Two.—That the Negro problem is by its very nature a national problem, involving the Negro masses of all sections of the country, whether south, north, east or west, which must be considered from the point of view of the struggles of the whole race for its complete emancipation.

Three.—That this struggle for the emancipation of the whole race in the United States forms an organic part of the struggle against American imperialism and must be conducted jointly with the white workers and with all others, regardless of color, creed or race, who are suffering under the iron heel of American capitalism.

* * *

IT is by following the above principles, which underlie the activities of such Negro organizations as the American Negro Labor Congress, the Chicago Committee for the Promotion of Unionism among Negroes and similar organizations, and which begin to make themselves manifest also among the progressive elements of the old Garvey organization as well as among radical Negro intellectuals and farmers, that the present day tasks of the Negro masses can be correctly formulated and successfully fought for.

LENIN

Wilkes Barre Comrades Send More Funds For Sustaining the Worker

True to his promise Mike Berich, organizer-secretary of the Wilkes Barre, Pa., group of the Workers (Communist) Party has sent in the balance of the fund pledged for The DAILY WORKER, totaling $43.06. Less than a week ago a similar amount was mailed in to the office, with the promise that another contribution would be forthcoming. The workers in the anthracite realize the importance of maintaining The DAILY WORKER as the spokesman for the working class in its struggles against reaction in every form.

Entertainment and Dance.

Bronx Branch, International Labor Defense is giving an entertainment and dance, at 1347 Boston Road, Sunday evening, April 24, at 8:30 P. M. B. Benjamin will be the speaker of the evening. A good musical program has been provided. There will be dancing and refreshments. Come and bring your friends along.

Mobilize to Defend YOUR Paper

From every corner of the continent we are receiving words of encouragement and support in our fight against the employers' patriotic organizations, which are seeking to destroy labor's most courageous and beloved organ, The DAILY WORKER. The workers recognize clearly the reason for the attack and the necessity for meeting it with all the resources at their command.

But we must state that although the comrades may recognize the danger in the situation, they are not responding as they should. Words alone will not help at this time. We must have money to fight our case against the odds piled up against us.

We therefore call upon all comrades to get on the job at once in defense of The DAILY WORKER. Failure to respond quickly and effectively, with money raised through donations and loans from every possible source, will be welcomed by the enemies of labor, who are seeking to crush The DAILY WORKER. This means every party member, every reader of The DAILY WORKER. This means YOU.

DAILY WORKER
33 First Street,
New York, N. Y.

Inclosed is my contribution of dollars ... cents to the Gathenberg Sustaining Fund for a stronger and better DAILY WORKER and for the defense of our paper. I will pay the same amount regularly every .....

Name .....

Address .....

City .....

State .....

Attach check or money order.

DRAMA

The Artist in the Theatre

Louis Lozowick Puts Him in His Place and Warns Him of Traps

Louis Lozowick designed the settings for George Kaiser's "Gas" when it was produced as the first play in the Goodman Memorial Theatre of Chicago. More than any American artist, he understands the place of machinery and machine interpretation on the stage. His drawings in the New Masses and other journals are well known, and he has had several successful exhibitions of paintings. He is a leader among the artists who are trying to give the machine age expression on canvas.

By LOUIS LOZOWICK.

OF all the arts the theatre is perhaps the most sensitive to social transformations; the art which more clearly than any other reflects the collective temper of an age. It is not surprising therefore to find that the Russian Theatre, seeking to express the radical change in the collective life of the entire country, should have surpassed all other theatres of the world in its daring experiments and unprecedented departures from accepted practices. The Russian Theatre is no longer satisfied to reflect passively the petty tragedies of passing and past generations; it wants to participate actively in the creating of a new social life and in the moulding of a new social personality.

It need hardly be added that just as the forces of social rebelion are not the exclusive privilege of Russia alone, neither are the theatrical innovations its exclusive property. In various degrees the revolutionary theatre has become a fact in most European countries, and is gradually becoming a fact even in the United States.

In this new orientation the modern artist has been of capital importance. So much so, indeed, that he has outstripped all other factors in the theatre—text, actor, music, etc. The function of the modern artist in the new theatre is in brief to bare the essential character of the play, to clarify the meaning of the text, to set in relief the movement of the actor, to create an atmosphere in harmony with each play. For the sake of brevity and clarity one may consider the work of the new artist in the theatre (artists, not stage hands), from three aspects:

1.—Pictorial. Never before have so many excellent artists given their services to the stage. These artists are not merely stage hands following unthinkingly the orders of the stage director. They are original, creative artists and excellent craftsmen. In consequence they do their work with much more regard to its pictorial quality than was ever formerly the case. Whatever the theme of the play, all parts of the settings are so organized in color, line and mass as to form practically an independent work of art—rhythmic, expressive.

And since the new artist has no intention of hiding the fact that the stage is, after all, a stage and not a faithful copy of reality, he gives his imagination free reign. He no longer conceives stage settings as simply an enlarged canvas, a magnified easel painting, but builds in three dimensions, adding to the art of the painter, the art of the sculptor and architect. But this practice is fraught with danger. Once absorbed in his work, the artist is tempted to disregard the requirements of the play and to turn the stage into an art museum, thereby invariably killing the play. American audiences will recall more than one play in the last few years annihilated in this manner.

ANTOINETTE PERRY

Continues in the chief role of the J. Frank Davis drama and "The Ladder," which is in its seventh month at the Waldorf Theatre.

2.—Associative. This danger is easily avoided if the artist pays strict attention to the play—as is indeed the case with the best among modern stage designers. The settings must be related to the theme of the play, must accentuate its essence, create the proper environment and background for the action. The settings must be based on the text and action, and action is always local. The action of every play does not take place just

(Continued on Page 7)

The New Plays

MONDAY.

"THE CIRCUS PRINCESS," the newest musical comedy by Emmerich Kalman, will be presented by the Messrs. Shubert at the Winter Garden Monday evening. Alfred Grunwald, Julius Brammer and Harry B. Smith made the adaption. The big cast is headed by George Hassell, Desiree Tabor, Guy Robertson, George Bickel, Ted Doner and Gloria Foy.

"HIT THE DECK," a musical version of "Shore Leave," adapted by Herbert Fields, music by Vincent Youmans, lyrics by Clifford Grey and Leo Robin, will open at the Belasco Theatre Monday night.

TUESDAY

"MIXED DOUBLES," a new comedy by Frank Stayton starring Margaret Lawrence, will be presented by the Shuberts at the Bijou Theatre Tuesday evening. Those in the cast include: Marion Coakley, Thurston Hall, Eric Blore, John Williams, Roy Cochrane, Marcella Swanson, William Eville and Russell Morrison.

WEDNESDAY.

"ENCHANTMENT," a new play by J. Jefferson Fargeon, will open Wednesday night at the Edyth Totten Theatre, the initial production of the American Theatre Association. Allison Bradshaw, Pamela Simpson, Alan Hollis, Edward Rigby, A. P. Kaye and

AMUSEMENTS

7th MONTH
CIVIC REPERTORY
CORNER 6TH AVE. & 14TH ST.
PRICES 50c, $1.10 & $1.65
Wed. & Sat. Matinees
TELEPHONE WATKINS 7261
LAST WEEK
EVA LeGALLIENNE
7 PRODUCTIONS IN ONE WEEK, INCLUDING:
Mon. Eve., April 25...."Cradle Song" | Thurs. Eve., April 28...
Tues. Eve., Apr. 26...."Master Builder" | Fri. Eve., Apr. 29...."John Gabriel Borkman"
Wed. Mat., Apr. 27...."Cradle Song" | 2nd Mat., Apr. 30...."La Locandiera"
Wed. Eve., April 27...."Inheritors" | Sat. Eve., Apr. 30...."Three Sisters"

The Theatre Guild Acting Company in
ALL NEXT WEEK
"The Second Man"
GUILD THEATRE 52nd Street, West of Broadway. Evgs. at 8.30
Mats. THURSDAY and SATURDAY at 2.30.
Week of May 2nd—PYGMALION
Week of May 9th—THE SECOND MAN

PIRANDELLO'S
RIGHT YOU ARE
IF YOU THINK YOU ARE
GARRICK THEA. 65 W. 35th St. Eve. 8.30
Mats. Thurs. & Sat. 2.30
Week of May 2nd—MR. PIM PASSES BY Week of May 9th—RIGHT YOU ARE IF YOU THINK YOU ARE

ALL NEXT WEEK
"The Silver Cord"
JOHN GOLDEN THEATRE, 58th St., East of B'way. CIRCLE 5628
Matinees THURSDAY & SATURDAY
Week of May 2nd—SID MORRIS'S DAUGHTER
Week of May 9th—THE SILVER CORD

$500 AWARD
for the article of 200 words or less judged to be best on the play "The Ladder". Contest for third week closes Monday at 10 a. m. Money refunded if you do not like the play.
"THE LADDER" WALDORF THEATRE
50th St. E. of B'way. Mats. Wed. & Sat.

TIMES SQ. THEATRE, WEST 42d STREET
Eves. 8.30. Mats. Thurs. & Sats. 2.30
A. H. WOODS presents
CRIME
By Samuel Shipman and John B. Hymer
with JAMES RENNIE & CHESTER MORRIS
and CAST of 100
"A vivid, gripping and absorbing melodrama. I confess that I enjoyed it as I haven't enjoyed a melodrama in months."—Alan Dale, American.

MADISON SQ. GARDEN
49th and 50th ST. and 8th AVENUE
NOW TWICE DAILY (EXCEPT SUN.) 2 AND 8
RINGLING BROS. and BARNUM & BAILEY
COMBINED CIRCUS
Incl. among 10,000 marvels PAWAH the
SACRED WHITE ELEPHANT
GREATEST FEATURE OF ALL TIME
More People—More Acts—More Zoological Realism—More Features—More of Everything Than Ever Before
ADMISSION to all seats (incl. tax) 75c to $3.50
Children under 12 at reduced prices at all matinee performances, except Saturdays, to $1.10 seats and over.
TICKETS NOW ON SALE AT GARDEN BOX OFFICES, 8th Avenue entrance.
Branch Ticket Offices (Same Prices): GIMBEL BROS. and ABRAHAM & STRAUS, INC., BROOKLYN

WALLACK'S West 42nd Street. Evenings 8.30.
Mats. Tues., Wed., Thurs. and Sat.
What Anne Brought Home
A New Comedy Drama

Neighborhood Playhouse
466 Grand St. Dryd. 7216
Every Eve. (except Mon.) Mat. Sat.
Bill of Lyric Drama

PROVINCETOWN 133 Macdougal St.
PLAYHOUSE Tel. Spring 9503
RAPID TRANSIT
Every Eve. Exc. Mon. at 8.30 sharp
MATINEE SATURDAY, 2.40

HAMPDEN'S THEATRE
Eves. 8.15. Matinees Wed. and Sat.
WALTER HAMPDEN
in CAPONSACCHI

FARL CARROLL Vanities
Earl Carroll Thea., 7th Ave. & 50th St.
Evs. 8.30. Mats. Thurs. & Sat. 2.30

MARTIN BECK THEATRE, 45 St. W. of 8th Ave. Evs. 8.30.
Matinees Wed. and Sat.
JED HARRIS Presents a Drama
'SPREAD EAGLE'

Bronx Opera House 149th St. and Third Ave.
Top Prices. Mat. Wed. & Sat.
"NEW YORK EXCHANGE"
The Sensational Comedy

THE NEW MAGAZINE

Section of the DAILY WORKER

SATURDAY, APRIL 23, 1927. This Magazine Section Appears Every Saturday in The DAILY WORKER. ALEX BITTELMAN, Editor

A Quarter to Spend

By ALEX JACKINSON

JIMMEY was walking slowly down one of the side streets.

He wasn't going anywhere in particular, merely sort of dragging his little legs in forward motion. And that he did listlessly, as tho he wasn't conscious of the fact that he was walking at all. Suddenly he slackened his gait, and began thinking, kind of. It wasn't regular thinking. "Uh, shucks," he'd say awkwardly; "you know how it feels when a feller has troubles on his mind"; and Jimmey has lots of trouble on his young mind.

Soon he ceased stepping entirely, his feet came to an abrupt halt, as a pair of dials cease to move on a watch that stops going. He leaned against the window pane of a neighborhood book store, looking hungrily at the display of books. His right hand lifted the cap off his head, which he folded in two, and using it as a fan began shaking it in front of his face.

Jimmey was a slim, dark-skinned boy of fourteen. His lean face was pimpled and coated by a sickly pallor which was visible behind beads of perspiration that continually moistened his features. He wore a blue suit. The right leg of his trousers was buckled over the knee, while the other hung loosely down covering a large hole in his stocking. His waist, unbuttoned at the neck held under its collar a loosely knitted tie, the ends of which he kept twisting around his right index finger. "Whew, but it's hot," he ejaculated suddenly, allowing the back of his hand to glide across his moist brow.

Jimmey had a quarter to spend. It was his first bit of real spending money in a long while; the fruit of a week's toil. And, there were so many ways in which to spend it. So many things he longed for with a longing that only youth can feel.

"Gee," he lamented sorrowfully, as his fingers felt the piece of silver lying in his pocket. "If mom would only have made it a 'half' I'd a been able to get most everything." More than anything else, Jimmey had his heart set upon seeing a movie and vaudeville show combined. He hadn't been to one in years; that he figured should cost at least twenty cents even if he sat in the gallery. Then he wanted to get some candy, what good is looking at a show he argued if you ain't got something to munch on? And a summer thirst urged him to get an ice cream soda.

Jimmey heaved a deep sigh and continued toying with his silver coin, trying hard to decide upon which of the three desires to omit.

Some minutes later he slumped away from the book store window and walked thru the moving columns of people. He seemed hardly conscious of the swarming masses that zigzagged about him. His face gradually became animated by an overwhelming yearning which soon shadowed this temporary desire to indulge in sport. The corners of his mouth screwed up into two dejected lines, which soon lost their individuality in the pale hallow of his cheeks.

Words began to form into sentences and rotate around in his head. Sentences which lost their meaning to him. He was utterly confused by the many problems which weighed on his mind. Only one word broke thru his silent soliloquies which he distinguished from the rest, and that one syllable SCAB beat a steady tattoo against his hopelessly baffled senses. He did not understand its meaning, yet the letters of the word S-C-A-B separated and each letter danced pensively before his eyes.

He continued sauntering along, until he passed a gaily decorated theatre. There he paused to gaze at the colored posters, forgetting temporarily his unhappiness.

II.

Jimmey worked in a sweater factory. Yesterday he received his first pay. It was a small yellow envelope with his full name scrawled in the center, and its contents eleven dollars and sixty cents marked in a corner. It was handed to him by a cashier as he walked out of the factory at noon. He pocketed it with the suppressed joy of a student receiving a diploma on graduation day and hurried out of the building. His limpid blue eyes were ablaze with a keen delight, which was intermingled with an apparent uneasiness.

It was Jimmey's first week at work and he felt vaguely elated. He found the job after a demoralizing search. He liked his work too; it was a bit hard at first, but he was willing to work hard; beside he was promised promotion soon, and the pay twenty-five cents an hour was more than he hoped to receive for a start.

"Now, 'mom' can take things easy with me working," he kept repeating. He would see to that. Jimmey hated to see those worn from the endless house bring them weekly food. The more thought that with his earnings they could live more genuine independent means, was sufficient to elevate his spirits. He visualized many improvements his wages would bring about in the house. In a few weeks he hoped to be able to buy his mother an electric iron. She always dreamt of having one. That meant a great deal to Jimmey, and he felt the pressure of his responsibility keenly.

His joy at finding employment was short-lived. For three days later the factory workers walked out on a strike for better conditions, while Jimmey together with several others remained. He couldn't understand why he should relinquish his job when he was an anxious to work.

The strike he was told by the boss, was called by Communists, and he made up his mind to have nothing to do with it. Jimmey continued working that week, but with an entirely different feeling. Everything seemed to change. His lips no longer whistled as they did the first few days. He felt sullen and morose without knowing just why.

Each morning when he came to work, groups of girl strikers picketing the factory would circle about him and ask him not "to go up. When he would refuse their request by shaking his head, they would jeer at him by calling "creature" and "scab" as he entered the building. Then a policeman, posted nearby would chase the strikers away, sometimes hitting them with his club. It was then that anger gushed to Jimmey's face. He would begin to hate the girls, but he wasn't sure, perhaps it was himself he hated more. The red-faced policeman he also disliked. He wondered why he was there, and why all this strike trouble had to happen.

Jimmey resented greatly being called "scab." A precocious intuition, born out of the working class atmosphere he lived in, informed him that he was doing something wrong by working —'something dreadful; but just what it was he couldn't fathom. He was afraid to tell his mother that there was a strike in the shop, fearful lest she tell him to stop. And yet the desire to bring home a pay envelope such as the one he had just received was so great that he gritted his teeth and determined in his own childish way to stick it out, come what may, the inwardly he was very much agitated and ashamed of himself.

He hurried home in long jerky strides, his heart palpitating rapidly. His hand kept reaching to his pocket, feeling eagerly whether the previous envelope was still in its proper place. The figures, eleven dollars and sixty cents loomed in contorted shapes before his eyes. It was a munificent sum to him, more than he had ever earned before.

Reaching the drab apartment house where he lived, Jimmey ran up a flight of dark stairs, and pushing open a door entered the kitchen, which was a narrow and ill-lit room. Its only window faced a mud spattered wall, belonging to a neighboring tenement. A narrow yard separated the two houses, where sunshine seldom penetrated. When it did, it was as throwing the rays of a powerful search-light into a deep chasm. A dim flame flickered from a half open gas jet, throwing a faint shadow of light over the room which was filled on this day with a stifling humidity. His widowed mother stood over a gas range dropping sliced bits of potatoes into a cooking pot.

Jimmey stepped softly to her and withdrew from a pocket the coveted envelope which he handed to her with an affected smile flickering across his lips. His mother wiped her wet hands in the folds of her checkered apron and looked at him, quietly receiving the extended offering. Their glances met in a silent look. She counted the bills and extracted a quarter from the change which she handed to Jimmey who muttered "Thanks, ma," and promised not to spend it until Sunday.

After supper he donned his other suit and hurried down the street. He shrunk away from his friends who called him to join their play, feeling no inclination to do so. He felt above mere child play. Jimmey considered himself a worker now, a real one, he argued; punching a time card four times a day and everything, same as the others. He kept repeating "worker" over and over again as a new learning a new language. It fascinated him. If only they wouldn't call him scab when he came to work, he could still feel happy. He sighed hoarsely.

Events of the past week kept spinning about in his thoughts. The deafening noise of the heavy weaving machine to which he had not yet become fully accustomed drummed noisily in his ears. Each tick-tock held a distinct message for him which he was readily learning. The ever changing panorama of scenes continued to spin faster and faster. He couldn't escape from their steady hammering—not even in thought. The machines into which he was suddenly geared had no exit. The massive machines assumed in his reflections grotesque proportions. They were operated by ugly looking foreigners, hired especially as strike-breakers. Jimmey hated them. They all looked so stupid to him. He wondered why THEY didn't strike like the rest. Did they all have mothers to support like he did?

Jimmey eyed them curiously. The way they ran after the rapidly-moving spindles interested him. Soon he would become a weaver himself and run his fingers over the silky threads as they did. He thought that he would rather like being a weaver. Then he pictured the girls picketing in front of the building. If only they would leave him alone, things would still be alright. "What business is it of theirs anyhow if I work or not?" he mused.

III.

Jimmey continued gazing at the brightly decorated advertisements of his favorite actors until he became conscious again of his unsettled problem. He recollected his thoughts and once more proceeded on his way.

It was an exceedingly hot summer day. And an intense heat filled the streets with a pungent humidity, which the sweating populace both in and out of doors seemed to absorb, as a sponge absorbs water. The unwashed streets were everywhere littered with fragments of dirt. Here a grocery keeper just dumped a barrel of decayed vegetables into the gutter, which in unison with the open refuse cans around the tenements yielded forth an odor. The stench of decomposed garbage filled the atmosphere. To the masses this was a familiar scent, which they inhaled as on other streets people inhale the fragrance of a perfume.

Yet people moved. Everywhere the hot pavement was crowded with shuffling feet. Their clothing moist from perspiration, clung tightly to their warm bodies. Yet they moved. Body after body appeared and disappeared, in a never ending procession up and down the street.

The vista of bobbing faces swept by Jimmey like the babble of a language one cannot understand. He paid no attention to the many bodies of women, some misshapen by toil, and others hollow eyed from fatigue which continuously circled in and out of his gaze. Men, their heads topped by white straw hats, joined them in the grim procession. They were mostly garment workers, pounding the pavements with their staccato steps on their one holiday in the week.

Jimmey looked about him. On the corner he saw a red-faced traffic cop lift the cap off his head and withdrawing a handkerchief, wipe beads of perspiration from his brow. At a soda fountain stood a fat man drinking orangeade, part of which trickled down his shirt. His attire evoked a grin from Jimmey. Here a woman screamed, as a taxi almost ran a child down. There a mother was nursing her baby on a stoop. Elsewhere a storekeeper lowered an awning hoping it would offer relief from the heat. Here another woman in the shape of a barrel pushed along a baby carriage. Down the street a fireman rigged up a temporary shower, under which children romped. This was the east side. There where people do not make ethics of their behavior and where the drums beat loudest. The drums of revolution that beat everywhere. What a tableau! A circus for Maximus!

From out of the shuffling crowd stepped a young woman. Jimmey looked at her wondering where he had seen her before. Suddenly he recalled her; she was one of the girl strikers who had called him scab. She too had recognized him, and was just about to cry "scab" when she restrained herself. There was something pathetic about his person something so hopelessness which she could not help but notice. She cast a furtive glance at him and proceed to move away when Jimmey's arm reached out and touched her gently.

"I know what you're thinkin'," said Jimmey, "but I'm sorry. I mean for what I am," pleaded Jimmey "an' I won't do it no more. You'll see. You'll see!" he continued pathetically, almost choking with emotion.

(Continued on Page 4)

The British Anti-Strike Bill

The introduction of the tory anti-trade union bill in the British parliament is not only of interest to British labor but to the workers of all lands. Tho the heads of the General Council and officials of the British Trade Union Congress have expressed opposition to it, yet it remained for the Communist Party to analyse it and organize a united fight against it. While alleged revolutionists like George Lansbury and the leaders of the Independent Labor Party are cursing the Communists for trying to influence the masses from inside their class organizations the Communist Party is busy rallying the workers for the struggle against the capitalists and against their most efficient lieutenants in the trade union movement and in the Labor Party.

The following clause-by-clause analysis of this anti-union bill is taken from "Workers' Life" official organ of the Communist Party of Great Britain:

* * *

Clause 1 of the bill prohibits strikes "having any object besides the furtherance of a trade dispute within the trade or industry in which the strikes are engaged" if they are "designed or calculated" to cause "a government to intimidate the community, "or any substantial portion of the community." Agitation for or organization of such strikes can be punished up to two years' imprisonment. No money can be spent "in furtherance or support of" such strikes.

This means that (1) a General Strike in defense of common working class interests against the capitalists would be illegal; (2) solidarity strikes would be illegal; (3) sympathetic strikes within the same industry would be illegal, if the capitalist law courts liked to declare them "designed or calculated," etc.; (4) a strike against war would be illegal; (5) any "substantial portion of the community" is protected against the workers, whereas there is no protection for "any substantial portion" of the workers against lock-outs, such as that of the mine-owners last year; (6) spending money on a campaign for trade union solidarity in the event of a FUTURE conflict would be illegal.

Clause 2 states that there shall be no "expulsion or fine or deprivation of right to benefit" or any other "disability" enforced against a man who refuses to take part in an "illegal strike." If he is punished in any such way, the courts can order him to be compensated from the union funds, instead of being reinstated. And this clause is retrospective, i.e., it applies to past disputes.

This means that (1) blacklegging would be encouraged and protected, the scab himself having the power to decide what is and what is not an "illegal strike," with the moral certainty that he will be backed by the capitalist courts; (2) the capitalists would have the legal power to bankrupt a union to the amount of "compensation" as stated; (3) enforcing class discipline; (4) unions which enforced discipline for blacklegging during the General Strike would be menaced with numerous actions and bankruptcy immediately, as an alternative to withdrawing the penalties inflicted.

Clause 3 makes it unlawful for "one or more persons" to attend "at or near a house or place where a person resides or works or happens to be," for the purpose of "obtaining or communicating information" or inducing anyone to leave work, if they attend "in such numbers or otherwise" as may be "calculated to intimidate" any person. To "intimidate," the bill says, is to cause "apprehension of injury"; and "injury" is defined as meaning, apart from physical or material injury, "boycott, or loss of any kind, or exposure to hatred, ridicule or contempt." The penalty is £20 or three months' imprisonment.

This means that (1) all picketing, whether at a man's home or his workplace, would be rendered impossible, since all he has to do is to say that it is "calculated to inflict" injury; (2) a public meeting to "communicate information" in the neighborhood of a factory where blacklegs are working, at which they are exposed to "hatred, ridicule, contempt," would be illegal; (3) any public meeting anywhere, e.g., outside council offices, factory gates, etc., QUITE UNCONNECTED WITH A TRADE DISPUTE, can be made illegal if it brings into "hatred, ridicule, or contempt," or causes apprehension of "loss of any kind," to anyone "happening to be" in the vicinity. It is for the capitalist courts to decide.

Clause 4 alters the method of collecting the political levy. Instead of a man sending in a written declaration of his unwillingness to contribute (after a ballot majority has declared in favor of the levy), a man who wants to contribute will have to send in a special form. He can withdraw his declaration at any time, by posting a notice to the head office; the mere fact of posting will be considered sufficient. No assets apart from the political fund "shall be directly or indirectly applied or charged in furtherance" of any political object.

This means that (1) the capitalists who raise political funds by exploitation and corruption are making it more difficult for the workers to raise political funds out of their pennies earned by honest labor; (2) a man who enjoys the benefit of any partition; but tonight his room is as still as the grave, and I will never hear him anymore.

Two weeks ago, on Saturday afternoon, I returned from work to find the landlord and police in possession of my room. In apologizing, they informed me that "the colonel took the gas." I stepped into his room, and there he was, as dead as a doornail.

I heard him begin the deed but didn't know. At two a. m. on Saturday morning, while reading, I was startled by a sound like an explosion quite close. Being unable to account for it, I went to bed. Now I know what it was. His gas tube was full of gas, and when he pulled it off the stove, an explosion occurred.

The poor devil must have been pretty hard up for several pawn tickets were found in his clothes, and he hadn't paid anything for his room for three weeks.

The British Great War Veterans of America Association, seeing the suicide in the papers, took possession of the body, and arranged for the colonel to be buried with full military honors, the honors being done by the regiment with which he served—Canadian Black Watch.

A woman who had known him, called to see his abode, and on seeing the house remarked, "No wonder he committed suicide, staying in a place like this!"

Those who could have helped in life, at least, saw to it that he had full military honors on his way to get pie in the sky, or a swig in hell from Gunga Din.

HE WHO EXPLOITS

He who lives on others' toil
Is an exploiter, hated by the mass
Of workers in the shops and soil.
To them he is an enemy who'll pass
Into oblivion, before the rise
Of a social order now in birth;
Which will banish Gods from skies
And exploiters from the earth.

A Scotch Hero Takes Gas

By DONALD McKILLOP

It is said that Aberdeen, Scotland, is the only place in the world the Jew can't make a living. We are now able to tell the reason why. The natives are expected to live on five shillings (one dollar and a quarter) per week. From what is to follow, you will see that the authorities of the Granite City are trying much the same experiment as the old Aberdeen farmer who had just succeeded in getting his horse to work without feeding, when it died.

According to the Glasgow "Sunday Post" of March 27th, "the action of Aberdeen Parish Council in connection with the relief of an elderly woman who lost her son in the war is causing indignation among ex-service men in the city.

"The case has come under the notice of the British Legion. Mr. A. B. McLeod, the secretary, has explained to his branch of the legion that the woman, who is sixty-eight years of age, had no pension for her son.

"She received five shillings a week from the Parish Council, and the legion thought this was not enough to maintain her. They pointed out the whole circumstances to the Ministry of Pensions, and prevailed upon them to give her a pension of six shillings and a penny (a dollar and a half). As soon as the Parish Council learned of this, they withdrew their relief of five shillings. The legion protested, but the council have decided to adhere to their decision.

"As the attitude of the Parish Council in regard to war pensions and relief is that adopted by other Parish Councils in Scotland, the Aberdeen branch are to raise the matter at the annual conference of the legion at Dundee."

It seems to me that everyone on that Parish Council is like the Scotch Highlandman's wife—"no man at all." No wonder we are "mean," it is enough to make us Bolsheviks.

I wouldn't object to the experiment so much if they would try it first on those with whom it is likelier to succeed, that is, on those who have been living on the fat of the land, and are apt to have a strong constitution as a result. Seeing that Balmoral Castle, the Highland home of the royal family, is, with Aberdeen, "On The Banks O' The Silvery Dee," why not start with King George when next he comes to stay there.

If he can survive on a dollar and a quarter a week, I am quite sure the Aberdeen workers will submit, for they are a dour, determined crowd, and will never die in an ordinary fashion. I would also advise the Jews that it is possible for them to live there, pointing out that, since the king is living on a level with the workers, it would be good policy to keep him company at Balmoral, where there are plenty beautiful rooms unoccupied, in preference to the "wee but an' ben" of the workers.

Poor Aberdeen! How your sons are being driven from pillar to post. Here is the case of one of them that came to New York, where he made a better living than was possible in the British empire. He came to stay next room to me, in this rooming house, a little more than a month ago. We couldn't fail to notice that he was different from any other lodger in this cosmopolitan house. I noticed it right away—in accent, dress, and his mode of addressing one. With the exception of myself, everyone seemed to be differential to him, because, as one of them remarked, "he seemed to be a person who had come down in the world."

He had come down all right, for he, who had been known during the war as Lieutenant Colonel John Hector Gilmour Brown, D. S. O., N. R. O., was now working as a night watchman.

The military life had not given him much that was useful in civil life, and being up in years, he found it devilish hard to make a living, even in Calvin Coolidge's prosperous America.

Despite the fact of us being "brither Scots," and living next room to one another, we had little conversation. You see I wouldn't forget that I was only a private during the war; nor could I forgive him for boasting he was "British to the backbone," especially when he had been forced to come here because the empire of which he was so mighty proud, didn't give a damn whether he lived or died.

It was rumored that he wrote articles and poetry for magazines. If he did, he didn't get much for them, or he would have stayed elsewhere because he wasn't in love with his quarters. Occasionally I would hear him moving about through the thin parliamentary victories won by the trade unions through the Labor Party (which they organized and maintain for the purpose), and wants to get out of his obligations, would be able to do so more easily; (3) contributions to the Trades Union Congress, which necessarily passes political resolutions and works for political objects, or special levies for the "Daily Herald," the official organ of the movement, could be prohibited (e.g., the Forster case).

Clause 5 prohibits Civil Servants from being members of any trade union unless its membership "is confined to persons employed by or under the Crown," it is not affiliated to any organization or federation with a different kind of membership, its objects do not include political objects, and "it is not associated directly or indirectly with any political party or organization." If Civil Servants are engaged in some other employment, they can continue to be members of an organization catering for that employment.

This means that (1) government employes of all kinds, including postal workers, dock-yard employes, etc., as well as clerks, could not affiliate to the T. U. C. or Labor Party; (2) they would not be able to send delegates to any international congress or organization with political objects, e.g., the enactment of the working class, in its constitution; (3) Civil Servants who are members of the Employers' Federation could continue their membership, because it is against the workers, an I that is not a "political" object. Similarly that would be no bar to membership of the U. M. S.

Clause 6 makes it unlawful for a local authority to make it a condition of employment that man "shall or shall not be a member of a trade union," or to discriminate between trade unionists and "non-" Public employes who "entered into a contract of service," when they have "reasonable cause to believe" that this will "hinder or prevent the discharge of the functions of the authority," are liable to £10 fine or three months' imprisonment.

This means that (1) Dustmen or other municipal employes who strike without notice would be liable to imprisonment, while capitalists who take advantage of their monopoly hold on industry to fleece the people are untouched; (2) a labor majority, representing the mass of local opinion, and itself enforcing a fair wage clause, cannot enforce the trade union membership which is reasonably associated with trade union rates; (3) the workers get another illustration of how the conquest of the local machinery of capitalist "democracy" is met with the withdrawal of all powers from that machinery by the capitalists.

MUSIC

The Song of the Machine

Playwright Finds Antheil's Music Based on America, Africa, and Steel

By EM JO BASSHE

(Author of "Earth" and "Adam Solitaire," Director of the New Playwrights Theatre)

On Sunday evening, April 11, an audience of more than 3000 people crowded into Carnegie Hall to take part in the birth or death of a new creative force in American music—George Antheil. This Trenton, N. J., youth has been hibernating in Paris the last few years, and according to reports his concerts have caused riots there and in Budapest.

The concert on Sunday night began with a String Quartet in one movement with alternating allegro-presto and andante motives. It was excellently performed by the Musical Art Quartet; but it failed to prove the composer's contention that the tonality used is new to music or that it presented a novel problem in quartet writing. The Sonata for Violin, Piano and Drum came next with Sascha Jacobsen at the violin and Mr. Antheil presiding first at the piano, then shifting to base drums. It is described by the composer as "a composite composition somewhat relative to the Dionysian 1918 Dadaist period."

Futuristic Tinpan Alley.

The piano here is treated percussively against the violin which struggles heroically to maintain itself as a part of the duo. The thematic material here is often original, but snatches from such never-to-be-forgotten tidbits as "Nearer My God To Thee" and "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree" and others are included. It was satirical, often acrid; as humorous as music usually permits itself to be. It was here that the audience began to giggle, forgetting of course, that it was laughing with the composer at the futuristic tin pan alley. Just before the end the composer abandoned the piano as inadequate and changed to the base drums, which, like most of the modern composers, he finds to be the most satisfactory of the percussion instruments.

"The Jazz Symphony," written in 1925 for Paul Whiteman, is in one movement, and very short; but in the fifteen or so minutes that it played it gave one the feeling that at last here is a composer who has caught the beauty of pure Negro harmony. By discarding the sentimentality that has pervaded the school of music which has attempted to interpret the Negro in terms of music, he created a glorious piece of music, unforgettable and astounding. It was a double triumph, for the orchestra composed of the best Negro musicians and conducted by Allie Ross, performed the work perfectly.

America, Africa, Steel.

The tour de force of the evening, however was the "Ballet Mechanique." Originally written to accompany a motion picture by Leger, shown in New York this winter by the Film Associates) it was never used because the composer was not satisfied with the picture. It was planned in three parts, all allegro. Its motif is America, Africa, and Steel. The usual combination of orchestral instruments are discarded and in its place are ten concert grand pianos, one mechanical piano, xylophones, bass drums, thunder effects, an aeroplane propeller, electric bells, a contraption that imitates a riveting machine, fire sirens. Eugene Goosens conducted and a force of the best manipulators of these instruments took part.

Literally speaking "Ballet" in this case is a misnomer—this work could just as well be called a "Polytonal Poem or a "Symphony in Dissonance," for much of the meaning and original intention of the music is lost, since it was written to synchronize with the machine movements in the Leger picture. To those who have heard and seen both creations the music becomes more vital and understandable.

American to the Core.

In this composition Antheil discards all the laws of counterpoint, musical invent and cadence and builds up music that is American to the core; crude, bombastic, contra-lyrical. It has the vitality of the mythical pioneers of the West, its main theme is brazen and keyed in brazen style. It is a tuneful as a riveting engine, as melodious as a concrete mixer, as soothing as a factory whistle, but as important, and as inescapable. If at times it grew monotonous not only to the staff-shirts in the orchestra and the tier boxes, but also to the seventy-five centers in the galleries, —well, millions of workers have to listen to this same theme, to the repeated argument of these engines all the days of their lives. Not only listen but feed, nurse and cajole these monsters so they may keep on playing the merry tune over again. They cannot join their genuine cheers and high hats and attest to a waiting limousine.

This music is the heart beat of the machine; it is the music of our age; it is realistic, imitative, phonographic. If it doesn't "get" you it is because you are saturated with it; if it pounds away and leaves you cold and flat in the end, don't blame the music, lay your accusations at the door of the progenitors of this age and civilization. Its mission is not to rehabilitate you and lift up your soul to higher planes." In fact its charm (if you ask for it—and "music hath charm") lies obviously in its great lack of it. The Christian Scientists are never going to adapt this music to their hymns!

Audience Is a Show.

Next to the music the most important thing at this affair was the audience in the galleries—at times it was more interesting than the music. This time there was no chance for them to sleep. Few kept their seats —they were on their toes all the time commenting, hissing, applauding, jeering, stamping their feet, shouting improventions; they were alive! Nothing was lost to them. They participated every minute, while the dead heads below played with their platinum cuff buttons and sniffed at the perfumed bosoms of their coiffures. There was certainly something symbolic in the mass leaning forward like one man and debating whether the song emanating from the stage and filling their ears was not, after all, the bitter, bloodless, unhuman song of the workers. They knew that intellectual analysis and stop watch reasoning will never decide this point.

The critics next day smashed dozens of typewriters in the rush to condemn the prodigal for daring to go again the very old men of music. They forgot, however, that once upon a time a very great critic (his name? don't ask) called their very own Saint Ludwig Beethoven's music, "Patchwork by a madman."

Joseph Moskowitz, well known cymbalomist, will give his recital this Sunday afternoon at Town Hall.

George Antheil sails this week for Berlin. He will return in the Fall for a tour of the United States and Canada. Due to an inflammation of the arm his second concert at Carnegie Hall was cancelled.

On the Screen

Polikushka

GLORIA FOY

One of the leading roles in the new Kalman Operetta, "The Circus Princess," opening at the Winter Garden Monday night.

The interpretive ability which enables the Moscow Art Theatre players to carry across fine gradations of dramatic meaning to audiences who are often ignorant of their language has enabled them to make a photoplay which borders on greatness. To express thought through pantomime, to render the human body infinitely expressive, to make hands, feet, eyes and mouth convey failure or confidence or fear, to limn in a thousand shades of emotion without any reinforcement from words these are the very essence of cinematic art, and these are the things that the Moscow Art Theatre players have done to perfection in their adaptation of Tolstoi's "Polikushka."

This classic in moving pictures a description of which would take volumes, will be shown on Saturday, April 23rd at Labor Temple, 14th St. and 2nd Ave., under the auspices of the Photographic Workers' union and on Sunday, April 24th in the Scholem Aleichem Auditorium under the auspices of the United Council of Working Housewives, Council No. 8 at 1875 Clinton Ave., Bronx. Admission 50 cents.

Screen Notes

The Capitol Theatre beginning today will show a new film titled "Rookies." Karl Dane, George K. Arthur and Marceline Day play the leading roles.

Next week's picture at Moss' Broadway Theatre beginning Monday will be "The Brute". Monte Blue, Lella Hyams and Clyde Cook are featured.

"Chang," Paramount's picture of jungle life in Siam will open at the Rivoli Theatre Friday, April 29th. "Old Ironsides" now at the Rivoli, will be moved to the Criterion, replacing "Beau Geste."

"Variety" with Emil Jannings and Lya de Putti will be shown at the Cameo beginning Sunday.

"Secrets of the Soul," a new importation from Germany will be the screen feature at the Fifth Avenue Playhouse next week. The picture is based on psychoanalysis.

Universal will make a screen version of the European drama "The Five Frankfurters," which has been popular on the continental stage since 1911.

Ernest Lubitsch has been assigned to do the picturization of "Old Heidelberg", and will sail for Germany in May, to secure the local color of old Heidelberg.

DRAMA

The Artist in The Theatre

(Continued from Page 8)

anywhere but in some definite locality, and while the new artist has given up the futile attempt to clutter the stage in Belasco-Stanislavsky fashion with non-essential realistic detail, he nevertheless suggests unobtrusively, yet clearly where the action does take place. Legers' settings for the film "The New Enchantment," and Rabinovitch's settings for "Lysistrata" are cases in point.

3.—Functional. This is the most important aspect of stake design. It requires that whatever is found on the stage must have a definite function in the play; that all superfluities be rigorously excluded. All the platforms, levels, stairs, towers, etc., that one finds arranged horizontally, vertically and diagonally on the stage are there to allow an effective distribution of groups, to afford the actors the possibility of free movement, up, down, forward and backward in several directions without impeding the action of one another, to keep in full view of the audience and at the same time accomplish the maximum of action in the minimum of space.

Danger of Overcrowding.

This aspect carries likewise its dangers. For just as in attempting to turn the stage into a work of art the artist runs the risk of turning it into a museum piece as in trying to indicate faithfully the locale of the play he is likely to become too imitative, so also in trying to give functional value to his stage settings the artist sometimes overshoots the mark and fill the stage with stairs, platforms and scaffolding that have no earthly use. All this is simply to say that not all modern stage designers are equal to their task. In his best, however, the new artist of the theatre contributes his might to a movement constantly growing and gathering strength. And though this movement may appear to be confined to the narrow limits of the stage alone, its implications are wider than the artist himself is aware of.

Broadway Briefs

Charles Dillingham is sending Frederick Lonsdale's comedy "On Approval," to the Bronx Opera House for a week's stay beginning Monday night. Wallace Eddinger, Hugh Wakefield and Violet Kemble Cooper, head the cast. "Katy Did" a new comedy will come to the Bronx Play House, Monday May 2.

Zola Talma has replaced Kay Strozzi in the cast of "The Crown Prince" at the Forrest Theatre.

The winner of the second week's prize of $.00 for the best letter on "The Ladder" is Helmer O. Olsson, of 92 Morningside Avenue, a young probation officer in the court of General Sessions.

Another company of "Broadway" opened Monday night at the Garrick Theatre in Detroit.

"A Night In Spain," will open on Broadway on Monday May 2. The new revue has a book by Harold Atteridge; music by Jean Schwartz and lyrics by Al Byram.

Glenn Hunter in "Young Woodley" will be at the Shubert-Riviera Theatre next week.

The Young COMRADE

Edited by the Young

A Page for Workers'

Young SECTION

Pioneers of America

and Farmers' Children

THE CHINESE PUZZLE

Many children who read about the victories of the Chinese Revolutionary Army against their foreign enemies and the fools who were supported by foreign capitalists, were greatly surprised and sadly disappointed to learn that there was a split in the Kuomintang (People's) Party.

But that should neither surprise nor disappoint us. Because in the People's Army we found both workers and poor farmers as well as Chinese bosses. They all wanted to get rid of their foreign oppressors first. Then the bosses wanted to form a boss government. The workers and poor farmers wanted to form a Workers' Government and get rid of all bosses, both foreign and native. That is the reason for the split in the Kuomintang Party.

OUR LETTER BOX

TEACHERS ARE PAID TO LIE

Dear Comrades: Last week while I was in school my teachers began to talk about rebellion. She said that when anyone dies or gets killed it is the will of God. I asked her if when anyone gets killed is it the will of God? She said no, it is by catchiness. I then said that before she said that when anyone dies or gets killed it is the will of God. If every child in the public schools organizes and reads the Young Comrade, he will understand that the teachers are paid to lie.—YETE ZABLACKAS.

GREETINGS FROM THE BROOKLYN PIONEERS—RUTHENBERG SECTION

Greetings, Comrades:

Our group of Young Pioneers had been organized for the three weeks, and we have sixteen comrades in our group. Each one of the comrades pledged to be "Always Ready" to aid the workers in their struggle for freedom.

For the past two weeks we have been looking up the lives of our great labor leaders so that we may know what name to choose for our group. We decided at our last meeting to name our group "The Ruthenberg Group."

Just now we are very busy getting ready for a program which we are to give at an early date. We will present the play called "Peter Orga ized a Strike Machine." Most of the cast has already been chosen, and we hope it will be a great success.

We have an educational period at every one of our meetings, and are learning many things about the class struggle. At our meetings we begin with the pledge of the workers, which we prefer to the pledge used in the schools. Comrade Anna Lyons is our leader.

We have sold many Young Comrades, and are trying to get subscriptions for the Young Comrade and Young Worker.

Whenever there are affairs or mass meetings held in our big hall, we have one of the Pioneers speak about our Pioneer group, urging the adults to send their children to join the Pioneers. In this way we hope to get many new members soon. We meet every Sunday, 11.30 at 760 40th Street, Brooklyn.—ANNA MANNISTO, Secretary, Ruthenberg Group.

WORKING

By JULIA DAGILIS.

Be a worker
Don't be a shirker
Belong to the Pioneer Club
Rub a dub, dub.

2.

You'll never forget
Nor will you regret
When once you belong
With the Pioneer throng.

RUTHENBERG SUB BLANK

When the Young Pioneers of America heard that Comrade Ruthenberg's last words were "Let's Fight On!" they swore to, "Always Ready!" Are you too always ready? Well then, how it by getting subscribers for the Young Comrade.

Send all subs to the Young Comrade Corner, 33 First Street, New York City.

1-2 year sub 25c—1 year sub 50c.

Name .....

Address .....

City .....

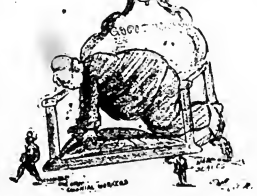
State .....Age.....

Issued Every Month.

OUR LEADER

By a PIONEER—Taken from the Young Comrade.

This is the end of him,
Here he lies,
No more the smile in his eyes
Our Leader.



Never again will we hear
The voice, to all of us so dear
Of our Leader.

Our deepest regret
For your untimely death—
Our Leader.

Your dying words
We will work for;
Our fight continue forever more—
Our Leader.

Farewell, comrade brave and true.
The work you started we pledge to do—
Our Leader.

TOO BAD

This picture was drawn by a Philadelphia Young Pioneer. His name is Sam Silver. This picture has a story. It shows a beautiful chair on which Mr. Capitalism sits. The legs of the chair are the poor oppressed workers in many colonial countries. The picture shows that the Chinese workers are tired of supporting Mr. Capitalism and are walking away. This causes the chair to fall to one side and disturbs Mr. Capitalism. He is shown looking down to see what is the matter. That's the story of the picture.

NOTICE!!!

All those who want a free sample copy of the Young Comrade should write to us and we will send it to you. Please state your name, age, and address.

WORKERS VERSUS CAPITALISTS

By WM. KULKIS.

If the workers would unite in one great union the working class will overcome the money grabbing capitalists. But if we do not unite we shall forever be victims of the capitalists' greedy plans. An elephant is one of the strongest of all animals and yet he could crush his master with ease. We workers are just like the elephant, but if we unite we shall be twice as strong as the elephant and we could crush the capitalists very easily. We read in the papers about capitalists having trouble with the Mexican and Nicaraguan workers over the oil fields and lands. Because the capitalists see that they will lose their holdings in Mexico and Nicaragua they send the workers of U. S. to fight our fellow workers in Mexico and Nicaragua. But if we join our fellow workers and go after the capitalists they would be singing a different tune.

But remember, fellow workers, that capitalists fear strong unions more than death. So why not abolish capitalism forever?

LAST WEEK'S PUZZLE

The answer to last week's puzzle No. 11 is: JOIN TE RUTHENBERG DRIVE BY GETTING SUBSCRIBERS FOR THE YOUNG COMRADE.

The following have answered correctly:

Olga Bruzaukas, Pawtucket, R. I.; Bessie Halper, Bklyn., N. Y.; Mae Feurer, New York City; Sylvia Dlugy, Bklyn., N. Y.; Sylvia Mastig, New York City; Ifilda Wolf, Baltimore, Md.; Jennie Dubinski, Phila., Pa.; Alli Hill, Maynard, Mass.

More Answers To Puzzle No. 9

Raymond Kozul, South Chicago, Ill.; Margaret Herman, Chicago, Ill.; Elsie Rozoff, Detroit, Mich.; Mae Feurer, New York City; Bennie Carino, Chicago, Ill.; Emil Karpowich, Allentown, Pa.; Florence Arkin, Chicago, Ill.; Bobby Rapport, Petaluma, Calif.; Becky Rapport, Petaluma, Calif.

More Answers To Puzzle No. 8

Florence Arkin, Chicago, Ill.; Martha Nilan, Wauconda, Mich.

THIS WEEK'S PUZZLE NO. 11

This week's puzzle is an addition and subtraction one. If you're good at arithmetic you'll get this answer. Let's see you get this one.

YOU+SONG—SO+COME—E+RAID—I=?

Send all answers to the Daily Worker Young Comrade Corner, 33 East First Street, New York City. Give your name, age, address and number of the puzzle.

THE LITTLE GREY DOG

(Continued)

Benjamin went home crying, afraid of the dark, holding the little dog, his only friend, tight in his arms. And now something strange happened. When Benjamin, sobbing, started to tell the little dog of his sorrow, the dog began to bark softly. But it was not an ordinary bark, but speech, and Benjamin understood very well the words, "Don't cry little friend, I will take care of you and guard you. And some day we will go to search for your parents."

Benjamin was so astonished at this that he stopped crying. "What!" cried he, surprised, "you can speak, like a human being?"

The dog shook his shaggy head. "Yes, when the rich people act like wild beasts against the poor people, we animals must help them. When a human being is very unappy and forsaken, he understands our language and knows that we wish him well. I have not forgotten, little Benjamin, that you saved my life. I want to thank you. Lie down on the straw, I will watch over you."

A little comforted, the little boy obeyed, and the dog sat down near him, guarding him all night, licking Benjamin's hand with his warm tongue occasionally.

Then came hard times for little Benjamin. The stout lady who was his neighbor took him to her hut, but she was not good to him. She forced him to carry water from the river in a heavy bucket, and made him do all kinds of hard work. And the worst was yet to come. One day the rich man passed by the huts of the Negroes and saw Benjamin. "A strong boy," he said. "He can work in the fields already." And from then on the little boy had to work in the fields in the heat of the sun till he thought he would die of weariness.

(To Be Continued).

MAY DAY CELEBRATION

May Day will be celebrated by the Young Pioneers as well as other working class children of New York City with a big concert and many games. The concert will take place on Saturday, April 30, at 525 East 72nd Street at 1.30 sharp. The program will consist of recitations, a play, a dance and musical numbers. After the concert we will all leave the hall and hike to Central Park, where we will have lots of games, acrobatic stunts, etc. All working class children who live in the city should be down if they want to have a wonderful time.

A WORKER'S CHEER

By JOSEPH BOYERS.

Roses are red,
Violets are blue,
If you want to join the Pioneers
You could too.

The New Negro

By V. F. CALVERTON

In the day when Rudolph Nigger and Porgy have been succeeded by Nigger Heaven and Black April, and new books by and about Negroes seem to multiply almost with every dawn, it is wise to take inventory of the situation.

While the Negro problem is fundamentally economic, its recent stir has been largely within the sphere of the books. Few problems have absorbed so profoundly the attention of the reading public. Between 1923 and 1924, for instance, thirty books, covering a diversity of themes: fiction, poetry, essays, history, sociology, religion, were written by Negroes, and over eighty books concerned with the Negro and the Negro problem, covering the same diversity of topics, were written by whites. The Negro press itself is an important contributory factor in the cultivation of the Negro writer. In 1863 there were only two newspapers in the United States published by Negroes. Today there are 412 periodicals published by or for colored people; 70 religious, 85 pertaining to education, 7 magazines of general literature, 39 fraternal organs and 220 newspapers. Today there are prize contests that are run every year by two leading Negro magazines, the Crisis and Opportunity, which are no additional inspiration to the young Negro writer. Although the work of the older Negro writers, from Dunbar to Chestnutt developed without the incentive of prize contests, it can be said without exaggeration that the development of the Negro press, and in particular the encouragement of prize contests, have helped to promote if not stimulate the work of Countee Cullen and Langston Hughes.

* * *

The new Negro is thought of as synonymous with these new achievements in the novel, drama, and poetry. Alain Locke's recent volume The New Negro is devoted primarily to things artistic. While There is Confusion has passed into a welcome limbo, the young Negro intellectual still follows the expressions of the Negro in fiction and poetry with an avid curiosity that too often excludes interest in matters economic and political. In Walter White's Fire in the Flint and Flight, or Eric Waldron's Tropic Death, Langston Hughes' Weary Blues or Nine Clothes to the Bone, or Countee Cullen's Color or Jean Toomer's Cane, is seen the evolution of the New Negro. This new Negro thus becomes an art product. In a way he becomes an isolated phenomenon, separate from the economic struggle of his people.

* * *

The cause of this phenomenon is peculiar. Out of the Negro masses has emerged a Negro intellectual. Education has created a new type of Negro. The strides in educational advance have been restricted. An examination of recent statistics will reveal the sweep of this change. First, let us look at the data in reference to illiteracy in the United States. In 1920 there were 1,461,965 persons 10 years of age and over who were illiterate. Of this number 3,087,744 or 62.8% were white and 1,842,161 or 37.4% were Negroes. In 1880 there had been 3,220,878 illiterates among the Negroes, tantamount to a percentage of 70. To pass from illiteracy to literacy, we discover that in 1924 alone, 675 Negroes received the Bachelor of Arts degree and that the total number of Negro college graduates is now about 10,000. Twenty-nine Negroes have won the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from standard American Universities, and sixty Negroes have been elected to the Phi Beta Kappa. In the professions, likewise, the Negro has achieved singular success. In 1900 there were 1,734 Negro doctors; in 1920 there were 3,450. In 1920 there were 1,050 Negro lawyers, two of them women, 1,109 dentists and 3,311 trained nurses. Negro physicians such as Daniel H. Williams, who was the first surgeon to perform successfully an operation on the human heart, and Algernon E. Jackson, who discovered a cure for articular rheumatism, have attained international reputations.

* * *

The force of these facts is all the more striking when we turn to statements that were part of accepted sociology less than a generation ago. At the time when Booker T. Washington was propagating his philosophy of adaptation based upon submission, and inculcating his ideal of segregated endeavor that was to achieve economic unity, A. H. Keane, the well-known anthropologist, wrote in the Encyclopedia Britanica (9th edition):

"No full blooded Negro has ever been a distinguished as a man of science, a poet or an artist; and the fundamental equality claimed for him by ignorant philanthropists is belied by the whole history of the race throughout the historic period."

A few decades earlier Theodore Parker in a letter to Miss Hunt (Letter Nov. 10, 1857) had written:

"In Massachusetts," there are no laws to keep the black man from any pursuit, any office that he will; but there has never been a rich Negro in New England . . . none eminent in anything except the calling of a waiter."

These statements are so grotesquely absurd today. The facts adduced in the preceding paragraphs of this article are sufficient to expose their fallacy. In historical perspective also they reveal a pathetic ignorance of the Negro's past. Since the times of their respective utterances, the Negro in America has advanced in almost every branch of human activity. His educational advance we have noted. In economic life also he has progressed. Immediately following the Civil war the Negro was engaged in approximately forty different business occupations; today he is engaged in over two hundred kinds of trades and business projects. There are about one hundred Negro banks with resources equivalent to $20,000,000, a dozen state wide business leagues and a score of local leagues in a number of states.

* * *

One of the important economic forces behind the development of this new Negro is the vast migration of black people from southern to northern latitudes. In this sweeping hegira, economic law has been predominant. The entire migration has been one of economic circumstances. The old belief that it was persecution which hastened the Negroes from their Southern hovels to Northern ghettoes was decisively exploded by a recent association made between Southern counties in which lynching had occurred during the thirty-year period 1888-1918, and the migration to and from these counties. (See Charles Johnson's article on The Negro Migrations in The Modern Quarter Vol. II, No. 4, page 314, which presents the most valuable study of this migration problem that has been made.) For instance, in Jasper county, Ga., where nine lynchings were effected, the greatest number for any county of the state in thirty years, the Negro population increased between 1890-1920, while the white population during 1900-10 actually decreased. In Harrison county, Texas, which has the largest number of lynchings (16) of any county in the state, the Negro population increased from 15,544 to 15,629. In other words lynching, the most secret and flagrant form of persecution, does not depopulate communities of their Negro inhabitants.

* * *

In view of all these changes we see that the Negro as a social and economic group is passing through a stage of rapid evolution. The possibilities of this change being stemmed, or diverted into futile channels, are enormous. Already the economic philosophy of the Negro is conservative. Already it has accepted a score of American myths. That it has accepted these things as a result of its having been an enslaved group, and is continuing many of them because it is still a submerged class, is obvious to a radical sociologist. Now that the Negro is beginning to grow as a social and economic group, it is important that his philosophy does not become entangled with the webs of American liberalism, and thus be led into a political cul de sac. It is important too that it does not become infected with the racialisms that too often handicap persecuted peoples in their struggle in an economic world.

(Continued on page 3)

* * *

The mass of Negroes are proletarian. Their cause is linked up with the cause of the proletariat.

What has this to do with the problem of the new Negro? What has this to do with the poetry of Cullen and Hughes, the stories of Toomer, Chestnutt, Mathews, the dramas of Gregory, Fauset and Richardson?

The connection is simple and significant. These poets, story-tellers and dramatists have been classified as the new Negro. Their work has been interpreted as the work of the New Negro. Their achievements represent a Negro Renaissance.

It is the argument of this article that the New Negro represents something deeper, more stirring and more signal than that. These Negro artists represent certain artistic fumblings for form. Jean Toomer, for instance, can write of simple things with subtlety, of little things with skill. His genius is the delicate, the precious prettiness of life, the soft, poetic regreta, the purple nuances of fleeting, futile passions. He is the Lafcadio Hearn of Negro literature. He has beautified the trivial, enamored the elusive. Countee Cullen, Langston Hughes and many others have made of words a thing of beauty, but none of them has as yet caught the song of the masses. Their work, in most cases, seems to live in a separate world. It appears in the regular magazines, is featured as an attraction, and the word Negro comes to have an enchantment somewhat like the lure of strange dreams or the fascination of antique furniture.

The new Negro, we venture to prophesy, is and will be something different. The New Negro will really be new in that he will understand the economic situation of his people. His literature will be of a proletarian people, struggling for revolution and freedom. His songs will be the songs of the worker. The new Negro will labor for a new economic world. He will challenge not race-prejudice only, but class-prejudice, class-rule, and class-oppression. He will link himself with the labor movement. Like Dumke, Freiligrath, Wirth and Pfau in Germany of the last century his poetry will be defiant and revolutionary. Contemporary Negro poets represent achievement, but not newness. Their spirit is different from that of Dunbar, but it is a difference more in degree than in substance. Perhaps they represent a transition. The work of Claude McKay is a hint in the new direction. The work of the new Negro in poetry as in life, however, will abandon hint, evasion, and pure prettiness, and seek reality in radical reconstruction and revolutionary aspiration.

AT THE PITMOUTH

By HENRY GEORGE WEISS.

And the crowd is surging around the pitmouth,
And a pall of black smoke is hanging over the pitmouth,
And there is weeping of women and wailing of children around the pitmouth,
And grim-faced men are striving to reach the dead and dying far down below the rim of the pitmouth;
And a fat boss stabs at the pitmouth,
Stabs with a two bit cigar at the pitmouth,
And tired miners come and seal up the pitmouth,
With concrete and brick, wall up the pitmouth,
So the air may not rush down the pitmouth,
May not feed the flame that burns the coal far below the pitmouth;
And frenzied hands beat in vain on the barrier erected at the pitmouth,
Beat in vain at the concrete and brick that prevent them from winning to safety beyond the pitmouth.
O dead, twisted bodies lying with bruised hands behind the implacable Greed that seals the pitmouth!

Lenin's Return and the "April Theses"

THE February revolution of 1917 found Comrade Lenin abroad. As soon as he received news of the revolution he prepared to return to Russia, but the Entente Imperialists who allowed the social patriots to go to Russia refused to let Comrade Lenin pass, as they saw in him their DANGEROUS ENEMY. Then Comrade Lenin decided to go throdgh Germany (together with a group of Bolsheviks).

Lenin's return to Russia is an important date in the history of the October revolution. With his arrival, the Bolshevik Party firmly took over the leadership of the revolutionary movement. Lenin's arrival put an end to the waverings in the Bolshevik ranks.

Comrade Lenin's appraisal of the revolution in Russia and of the tasks arising from it were closely and concisely formulated, in what is styled the April Theses. His appraisal and the tasks he proposed were adopted by the party without any struggle.

A group of Old Bolsheviks under the leadership of Comrade Kamenev considered that the bourgeois revolution had not yet reached its climax and that the proletarjat was still faced with the tasks of bringing about the revolutionary democratic dictatorship of the proletariat and the peasantry. This led to his opposition to the tactics advocated by Comrade Lenin. He was opposed to severing relations with the Provisional Government and to action on the part of the proletariat and the peasantry, to exposing the antagonistic class aims and aspirations of the bourgeoisie, at the helm of the Provisional Government, and those of the proletariat and the peasantry. He proposed to exert pressure on the Provisional Government.

Lenin formulated his views and the tasks of the revolutionary struggle in Russia in his famous April theses. He also pointed out the tasks of the international proletariat in those theses. In Russia the proletariat commenced its struggle for power under the leadership of the Party. The proletariat of the other countries is faced with the task of freeing itself from the opportunists, compromisers, and patriots and of re-establishing the international proletarian front, and transforming the imperialist war into a civil war.

Comrade Lenin returned to Russia on April 3, 1917. In his first speeches, replying to greetings, Comrade Lenin advanced the slogan: Long live the social revolution. On April 4, Lenin advanced his theses at a meeting of Bolshevik delegates of Soviet Deputies. In his theses, Comrade Lenin also proposed to change the name of the Party. This he did in order to dissociate the Party from the patriots and Kautskyians; he proposed to call the Party, the Communist Party

At the station there were sailors, militia-men and Red Guards. The orchestras were playing the Marseillaise, which was then in fashion and the sailors, militia-men and Red Guards with banners in their hands cheered the immigrants. Lenin had to go along through the ranks of the crowds lined up and make a short address of welcome.

In the state rooms, Lenin was awaited by the members of the Petrograd Committee, Skobilev and Chkheidze and Kolontai who presented a bouquet of flowers seat by the Committee. Chkheidze spoke on behalf of "revolutionary democracy" and the Executive Committee. In his speech he Appealed to Lenin to march in "closed ranks" with them and he emphasized in his Caucasian way that he considered the foremost task of the moment, the defense of revolutionary Russia. Lenin replied over the heads of the compromisers, addressing himself to the workers, soldiers and sailors, greeting the victorious revolution on their behalf. His speech was a reply to the national defense advocated by Chkheidze in the form of defending revolutionary Russia. The call for world revolution hurled by Lenin literally took the delegates of the Executive Committee and other opportunist elements off their feet.

The official part of the meeting being over, we were getting ready to leave. We put Lenin into a closed automobile with the intention of going straight to the office of the Petrograd Committee. But this was impossible. The workers and soldiers who crowded the square and the streets in front of the station wanted to see Lenin, and they would not let the automobile pass. Lenin had to get out of his automobile. Next to the automobile there were armored cars, and the workers helped Lenin to get onto one of those armored cars and stading there he delivered a speech. A procession of many thousands was formed to march through Petrograd. During short intervals and even while in motion, Lenin spoke of the necessity to carry on the struggle against the capitalists and imperialists calling for the social revolution. When the demonstration had reached the square where the Petrograd Committee was located, searchlights were illuminating the Petre-Pavlov Fortress and escorted Lenin to Kshesinsky's home.

Salient Points From Lenin's Theses.

I.—The war on the part of Russia even under the new government of Lvov and Co., remains a predatory imperialist war in view of the capitalist nature of that government and we must not make any concessions to "revolutionary defense."

The class-conscious proletariat gives its consent to a revolutionary war and justifies revolutionary defense under the following conditions: (a) the transference of power to the hands of the proletariat and those sections of the peasantry which are closely related to it; (b) renouncement of all claims to annexations in deed and not merely in words; (c) severing of the government's relations with the capitalist interests.

In view of the undoubted sincerity of the broad masses of job seators of revolutionary defense who recognize war as a necessity and not for the sake of conquest, and in view of the deceptive methods of the bourgeoisie, it is necessary to explain to those masses very carefully, persistently and thoroughly their mistake—to explain to them the inevitable connections between capitalism and imperialist wars, and to prove that the war cannot be ended in a truly democratic and just way, without the overthrow of capitalism.

To propagate there ideas extensively in the army.

To advocate fraternization.

5.—We are not for a parliamentary republic; to adopt this slogan would be tantamount to a retreat —we want a republic of Workers and Peasant Soviets throughout the country from top to bottom.

The abolition of the army, the police and officers.

All officers should be elected and be subject to recall at any time; their wages should not be above the average wage of a well paid worker.

6.—In the agrarian program the center of attention should be given to the Soviet of agricultural laborers' deputies.

The confiscation of all lands.

The nationalization of all land in the country and the handing over of the land to the local soviets of agricultural laborers. Soviets should be formed of poor peasants' deputies. Soviet model farms should be organized under the control of agricultural laborers' deputies at public expense of about 100 to 200 desiatins, dependent on local conditions, to be determined by the local institutions.

7. The immediate merging in all banks of the country into one national bank, and the institution of control over them by the soviet deputies.

8. The reorganization of the International.

Initiative should be taken in the creation of a revolutionary internationl in opposition to the social chauvinists and to the "centre."

The Story of the Five Coppecks Piece

By F. YERMILOFF.

Potap Vanytch had in former times a grocer's shop. He was church elder man and being acquainted with the town thieves Djubka "Kasak" and Wasjka "Moment," he bought from them stolen goods.

The revolution struck Potap Vanytch heavily, deprived him of his farm-house with 55 desiatins and cut off his connection with the thieves.

Potap became nothing, and a dreadful hatred settled down in him firstly, enlighted his eyes with wicked fires and made a beast of him, deprived of its claws and tusks.

Potap Vanytsch had a firm belief and his soul was torn two.

Newspapers he can't bear and reads only the holy Scriptures especially the Apocalypse.

The latter he reads in shaking the words, looking with authorate eyes on the hearers: his old sister-in-law, the old nun Eudokin and the calatch baker Engraph Simonoff.

After reading a piece Potap Vanytch has for each Saturday an obligatory page, he lifts his eyes, closes the Apocalypse and says instinctively:

All happened just as it is prophecied here.

Well, . . .

The old women are sighing and blinking their eyes expressing pain, and the old calatch baker, understanding nothing at all, nod approvingly—just so—quite right. . . .

Potap Vangtch is fond of remembering the past; he always begins his speech like this:

In the old normal times . . .

He calls "normal" times the years before the war, when he bought stolen goods from Kasak-Djubka and Wasjka-Moment and helped to rob the peasantry.

The Communists and the Soviet Peace Potap Vanytch never calls otherwise than "those."

"Those" have supplied the cooperative with oil.

Those are again on a meeting of the Soviet.

Not long ago Potap Vanytch casually heard, that Chicherin visited the French states secretaries in Paris.

Hearing it, he didn't believe:

It is impossible, that the French states secretaries have admitted "those."

The young communist Vasun showed him a newspaper. Potap Vanytch refused to read it.

I don't believe in those newspapers.

But in the evening he said to the calatch baker Engraph:

Those have sent to France their secretaries and all Churches.

A dreadful but hopeless hatred was fondled by Potap Vanytch in his breast.

* * *

The deceased son of Potap Vanytch was married to Tatjana, the daughter of the moneyless Silaskyn. His widow lives at Potap-offs and works there like a mule.

Often Pelagea Djatlowa, a member of the local Soviet, where she worked already the second year, told her:

And why do you work for the tzarists!?

Why do you feed his hatred with your blood?

Took it back and see how your time is spent without use.

But Tatjana was educated in patience and in heavy toil and without grumbling she carried on her yoke.

* * *

In September of the last year the nucleus and the young communists decided to organize IPA in the village. A speaker was called from Syzran.

To the meeting came about two hundred persons, and it happened that Tatjana came too.

The speech lasted over an hour. He explained the whole truth, teaching especially on the peasantry.

After the speech a resolution was passed unanimously:

It is necessary to render aid to our brethren!

Pelagea Djatlowa took the secretary's cap and went round:

Sacrifice citizens. It is for our brethren!

Five coppeck and ten coppeck pieces fell in the cap, nil gave. Tatjana took out, her last five coppeck piece and put it into the cap.

* * *

There can't be any secrets in a village. Even if the cow of Stepanida gives instead of one pail of milk only a half—all women know of it.

It thus happened also in this case: Potap Vanytch was informed immediately: Tatjana has also given a five coppeck piece.

Why have you done it, asked Potap, and his torn nostril seemed to quiver.

Because there are such horrors, because the communists are murdered and hanged and emprisoned there.

Those deserve it, answered Potap Vanytch, but I don't understand what for my five coppecks had to be spent.

They were spent for the communists, who are suffering in the prisons for the peasantry.

Those five coppecks!

But yes, if everybody gives five or ten coppecks that will make a sum of millions at the end.

A green hue covered the face of Potap Vanytch.

My five coppecks for those!

Ah, damned woman; ah. . . .

* * *

In the evening, when Tatjana was already gone to sleep on the hay loft, Potap Vanytch took a hewy stick and went upstairs to teach her "manners."

Are you here?

Ay—

Where are my five coppecks?

Where are the five coppecks? hoarsely cried Potap Vanytch.

Thou helpe "Those" . . . and lifting his arm to strike her with the stick, he stood aghast . . .

Something unexpected happened. . . . Tatjana got quickly up and barefooted ran away, soon disappear in the dark.

* * *

The fifth month and Tatjana already lives at Pelagea Djatloffs.

Potap Vanytch remained alone. Of Pelagea he speaks and otherwise than: "Those put the devil into her head, and pointing to the Apocalypse he hisses out:

All this is prophesied there.

In Front of An Employment Office

By I. LAZAROVITZ.

(Student of Advanced Labor Journalism, Workers' School)

Scene: a corner where an employment agency is located.

A big crowd of men, poorly dressed, were waiting to get jobs. I was a few steps from the office, talking with a friend. A fellow came over and said to us:

"Won't you help out an old soldier?"

"Is it such an honor to be an old soldier?" my friend asked him, and the old soldier began to talk.

"I know," he said, "it is not an honor. They fooled us with their democracy bunk.

"What did we fight for? What investments did I have in Germany that I was sent to war, was gassed and since am physically sick?

"When I came from France, I couldn't work several months on account of my weakness. Now I am already five months out of work. Getting up every day at five o'clock and when you come for a job, 50 to 60 men are there while the boss needs only one!

"The government don't give a damn that we are sick on account of war and unable to find work. O boy, they can't get me no more to war. I show these sons of bitches what war means!"

The old soldier didn't have a chance to leave before another fellow near us was saying:

"O buddies, won't you help out with a cup of coffee?"

"What is the matter, are you out of work?" my friend asked.

"Yes, brother, three months out of work and can't make a damn cent."

"Why didn't you save some money while working?" my friend continued.

"How can you save money when they don't pay you enough even to live on?"

"Well, whose fault is that?" I asked him.

"It is the fault of the workers themselves," he replied, "It will be no good until there will be one big union throughout the world. You can't get a thing in this world of ours unless you take it by yourself.

"Here I am," he continued, "a big strong fellow, an American born, want to work, make a living for my family and they won't give it to me. I am without a cent in my pocket while Ford has millions of dollars."

"But look," my friend says, "in Russia it isn't that way."

"Believe me," the fellow said, "these damn Bolsheviks are a good bunch. I wish they'd come here and we'd get rid of these damn suckers.

"What do you say, buddies, won't you help out with a cup of coffee. Got up five in the morning. It is after 11 and I haven't eaten anything yet."

We gave him a few cents and he left, shaking hands with us.

A boy passed by calling out newspapers. We bought one, and, opening the yellow sheet to the second page, we read the big letters:

"U. S. PROSPERITY INCREASING DAILY."

We looked at each other without saying anything and quietly went down to get the subway.

We are used to reading in the American press about the miserable conditions of European workers. While telling us about the terrible conditions of the European workers the American press does not neglect the opportunity of picturing the satisfaction and prosperity of the American workers.

If these gentlemen who sit in their comfortable offices with their big salaries would undertake the job of going down to an employment agency where hundreds of workers are waiting hours to get some kind of a job and would listen to what these American workers think of the so-called prosperity, these gentlemen would realize the awakening of class-consciousness in American workers. They would learn that the workers cannot be bluffed with these prosperity stories.

A QUARTER TO SPEND

(Continued from Page One)

Tomorrow I'll be by the building early, and I'll wait there just like you ———.

The girl did not reply. She saw tears glistening in his eyes. A lump formed in her throat. She uttered "All right, don't forget," and edged away. Jimmey followed her form with his gaze until she was lost to view. "That's what I'll do," he whispered hurriedly. "I'll strike too, no more scabbing for me, an' I'll bet ma'll be glad when I tell her."

With that problem definitely settled, Jimmey felt greatly relieved, and once more redirected his attention to the quarter. Sometime later he solved the enigma of spending it by deciding to see a plum movie for a dime, partake of an ice-cream soda for a like amount and disburse the remainder for sweets. With this compromise affected Jimmey's spirits began to soar.

Spying an empty cigarette box, he picked it up and withdrew the silver foil, which he folded and placed in a pocket. This completed, he smiled and strolled his pace. After walking a few squares he saw a large crowd gathering on a corner. Its curiosity aroused, he ventured over, just in time to see a policeman pull a spenker off a soap box.

Addressing one of the crowd, Jimmey inquired, "What's the matter, Bud?" To which a lanky spectator replied, "Uh, nothin' much; just a guy pinched for speechin' without a permit. Serves him right," he continued, "he was nothin' but a bloomin' old communist."

"Communist," the word echoed in Jimmey's mind. He was always hearing that word and wondered what it really meant.

"What's that word mean?" he inquired in a perplexed tone.

"You mean communists?"

"Yes," interjected Jimmey.

"Oh dem's guys that go aroun' preachin' that there oughtn't to be no rich an' no poor—Bunk I calls it."

The words "oughtn't to be no rich an' no poor," struck Jimmey as a thrown stone crashes thru a window pane. It set his emotions quivering. He cogitated a while and replied aloud, "Yeah, so that's what it is, is it? An' they lock a guy up for sayin' dat, gee whiz."

A thought entered his mind, for the first time in weeks he felt actually happy. Retracing his steps, Jimmey walked back a few blocks, increasing his pace gradually as he walked until he hastened into a trot. At the next corner, he turned back into the street he was on before, and crossed to the other side. There he dashed down a flight of steps into the book shop. Walking straight over to the proprietor, he threw his quarter on the glass counter and asked whimsically, with a capricious twinkle in his eye, "Say mister, can you give me a book for a quarter that'll tell you all about communism?"

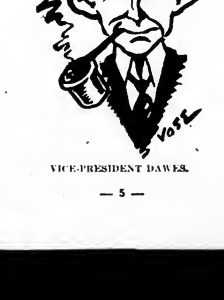
Radio Factory

H. C. SCHWARE.

I BLUFFED my way into this job by telling the boss that I was experienced in the line and I know more about radio than there was to know. I lied so straightforwardly, that he apparently was satisfied that I was three years older than I usually say I am and he took me on, because I made a practice but no profit wiring sets for some big corporation. It is true that all previous experience with radio had been at a distance, but when a man is out of work and needs a job, making radios is also okay. The next morning I came in, went to the boss, and he gave me a slip to take to the foreman.

I got a pair of longnose pliers and a button, No. 44, which was my official designation in the factory so that I must always wear it. I do not mind it, because when the foreman's liver is temporarily out of gear he hawls out at that large, ugly, fat-lard, 443 who's gonna get fired if he don't stop talking.

My work is simple. All day long I bunch my shoulders over a long rude-legged wooden table, under a glaring light, covered with green tin and suspended not quite above the eyes of the workers. There are eight young lads at this table, all doing the same work, all the time. We all have longnose pliers in the right hand, or a pair of snippers, and all we must do is squeeze. When the squeeze is on the snippers there is a slight bite as the snipper bites the wire into two deliberate parts. Or if it's a longnose plier, there is a squeeze and a screwy pinch as the lurating is pushed away, showing a clean white line of wire. This is where the conection in the set will be made according to the foreman. It is all hazy why the Workers must do just this. I don't know. The foreman told me to cut just these wires those lengths, and I cut them just so with never a deviation. I get a big tangle of wire-lengths. I pull them apart. There are a million different colors of those wires. The wax has melted in the hot room and is glistening under the fierce light as dew on a black-green leaf or like the oil on a new machine in the corner which is cutting plug-panels to length. I am just like that machine. I do not know why I snip these brilliant wires. I never know why, nor do I care to ask why. Only I know that I get eighteen dollars a week to do so, and I do it just so. Just so. And all the time I must be careful not snip the wrong wire.



There are eight boys at the next table and at all the other tables there are girls. One day they run out of wiring. The foreman was frantic. He grabbed some wire reels from the girl's tables and threw them at us. The work was harder. Consequently the girls are paid less, receiving only sixteen dollars a week. From this hard handling of the rebel tools, the hands are constantly full of abrasions. The net result of a day's work is a coat of dank sweat; also a beautiful set of blisters. When I first came on, I wondered why they were wearing gloves. Now I know.

The next best thing for blistrys is to wrap court-plaster around the fingers, and over the palm and forget them. Nothing else can be done about them except to get a different job or curse the job. So I put court-plaster on my hand which was numb with pain by this time, and continued gritting my teeth suddenly so as not to cry out when the steel bang-banged against, not only the palm, but the whole nervous system. The work is very wearying. No one ever stayed on this job very much longer than about a week or the whole set of workers would be insane.

I didn't like the job. I didn't like the workers because I was too upset to even think coherently. On this job it is all a jumble of emotions. Even the guys. They quarrel fiercely. Or they brood over the longnose pliers. And over all is a great weariness, over all is a blue-and-white button with a number. Number 443. That's me. I was not a person. I was a hand with a numbered button. It makes no differ-ence if I am of a pleasant disposition. I can only brood over the longnose pliers. Brood and brood.

And often a vision. Clear. And white. There is no coherence. Only a squeeze, a piece, squeeze over wires whose destination or purpose I can't realize. Only this eternal squeezing and vishons of the revolution.

From the lunge, from the shoulders of these lads in this factory and other factories. From the youth, when it is organized for fight.

VICE-PRESIDENT DAWES.

THE APPLE THIEF.

POESY AND THE MACHINE AGE.

In olden days the bourgeois miss
Was worshipped by the bards like this:

"Milady's hair is twisted gold,
Bright stars apiece her blue eyes hold,
Milady's voice tunes all the spheres,
Milady's music charms all ears,
Milady's like the daffodilly,
Fair as the sun, pure as the lily."

But times have changed—the machine age's here
And newer forms of odes appear:

"My sweetie's like a flivver car;
Her eyes more bright than dishpans are
Her voice as pleasant as the squeal
Of rivets driven into steel.
My sweetie's like a huge machine,
Fair, pure, refined as gasoline."

By I. D. TALMADGE.

HANDS OFF CHINA! WITHDRAW TROOPS AND BATTLESHIPS!

THE DAILY WORKER FIGHTS:
FOR THE ORGANISATION OF THE UNORGANISED
FOR THE 40-HOUR WEEK
FOR A LABOR PARTY

THE DAILY WORKER

NATIONAL EDITION

Entered as second-class matter at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Vol. IV. No. 87. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In New York, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside New York, by mail, $6.00 per year. NEW YORK, MONDAY, APRIL 25, 1927 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 33 First Street, New York, N. Y. Price 3 Cents

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

IT costs the Associated Press thirty-three cents for each lying word it sends from Nicaragua to its members in the United States to poison the minds of the American people against the liberal government of that country. The New York, Telegram, a United Press member-paper points out that it cost the A. P. $4.62 to let the American people know that "a band of fifty men wearing red hatbands and carrying a red flag" attacked a band of reactionaries within the proscribed limit of 2,000 yards of a railroad. The United States government did the proscribing.

* * *

THE A.P. is the unofficial news agency of the dominant element of the American ruling classes. European governments have semi-official news agencies. Reuter's is the English government service. It is doing a good job for imperialism in China. The American workers, outside of those that read The DAILY WORKER, are completely at the mercy of the Associated Press and the almost equally poisonous Hearst service for their foreign and domestic news. Where there is no issue of a class nature involved those agencies may be neutral, but in their strike news and reports of events in countries where the interests of American imperialism are involved they are sure to be like gentlemen.

* * *

THERE is reason to believe that the new cabinet in Japan will adopt a more aggressive attitude towards the Chinese revolution, than the one followed by its predecessor. Indeed, the recent cabinet crisis was probably as much due to differences over the Chinese policy of the government as to the financial crisis thru which the country is passing. The imperialist lineup against China is becoming more united. Britain has finally succeeded in buying off France and the new Japanese government uses language that conveys a sinister note.

* * *

LAST Saturday's papers carried a Tokio news dispatch which said that Japan and Britain intend to support Chiang-Kai-Shek as a Dictator of China. This is believable. Chang-Tso-Lin and his brood of underlings and inferior brigands, smelt too strongly of common banditry to enable the imperialist powers to introduce them in tall hats and spats to their publics. But Chiang-Kai-Shek is a bird of a different plumage. He has distinguished himself as a patriot and endeared himself to the hearts of the international bourgeoisie by murdering Communists and labor leaders. It remains to be seen whether this latest Chinese militarist will fare any better than his predecessors.

* * *

A HILL of 17 nble to speak six different languages was unable to secure employment in New York City and landed in a Bronklyn court on a charge of vagrancy. A judge sent

(Continued on Page Two)

GOLD AND SHAPIRO ACQUITTED BY THE MINEOLA JURY; NINE ARE CONVICTED

Arrest Acquitted Fur Leaders Again on Same Charge; Scab Testimony Prominent

At 1:30 A. M. Saturday, Ben Gold, manager of the Furriers' Joint Board, and Isadore Shapiro, its chairman, were acquitted of the charge of assault for which they and nine other workers have been tried for the past two weeks at Nassau County Court House, Mineola, L. I.

The same jury which rendered this verdict declared that Samuel Mencher, Jack Schneider, Phillip Leonhardt, Morris Rosenberg, Oscar Mileaf, Maurice Malkin, Leo Franklin, George Weiss, Joseph Katz were guilty of second degree assault in connection with the raid on the shop of the Barnett brothers at Rockville Center, on April 19, 1926.

Arrested Again.

Immediately, Gold and Shapiro were re-arrested on the same charge made by the second Barnett brother, for the fur workers had been tried only on one complaint.

The judge paroled Gold and Shapiro in the custody of their lawyer, so they were able to leave the jail at 2 a. m. Saturday. It is within the power of the District Attorney to dismiss this second indictment if he sees fit, but what his decision will be cannot be known until after May 2nd, which is the day set for the sentencing of the nine workers who were convicted.

Scab Testimony.

The closing day of the trial, Friday the 22nd, was consumed with the summing up of the case by lawyers for the defense and the district attorney, and the charge by the judge to the jury. The case went to the jury at 5.15; they came in for further reading of testimony at 9.25, returned to the jury room at 10.15 and appeared with their verdict at 1.30 a. m.

It seems probable that it is the testimony of the scab worker, Mary Fnrkas—employed in the Barnett shop at the time of the raid—who brought about the conviction of the nine workers. Apparently, it almost caused the conviction of Shapiro, also, for it was the Farkas testimony which the jury asked to have re-read when they came back to the court room at 9.35.

No Other Evidence.

This scab is the only person, except the two informers, who claim that Mencher, Schneider, Rosenberg, Mileaf, Weiss, Katz, and Lenhardt were in Rockville Center on April 19, 1927. The two bosses, Michael and Jack Barnett, did not identify them; the other girl in the shop did not identify them. They and all their witnesses testified they were not there. Not even Mary Finkel identified Lenhardt; but she said he was there. On her statement they were all convicted—she whose hatred of the union is so great that she led the burst of clapping that broke out one day when the district attorney declared the "left wing" of the union was now expelled, and no longer a part of the American Federation of Labor.

Walsh Condemns Unfairness.

Frank P. Walsh, counsel for Samuel Mencher, Jack Schneider and Martin Rosenberg, was the first of the defense attorneys to speak after the court session opened. Beginning in a quiet voice he condemned the deliberate effort that had been made during the trial to prejudice the cases of these men, to blacken their characters, so that the jury might be influenced to judge not on the evidence but on their impressions of the defendants.

Are Unionists.

He spoke also of the district attorney's repeated attempts to give the impression that these men were no members of a labor union, but mere gangsters.

"This (the Joint Board) is a labor

(Continued on Page Three)

Belgian Physician Finds Hospitals of Soviet Union Good

BRUSSELS, April 24.—Before the "Society for the Clinics of the Brussels Hospitals," Dr. Martenux of this city described conditions as he found them in the hospitals of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

"The hospitals of the Soviet Union are in excellent condition," said Dr. Martenux. "The apparatus is adequate and the general and special laboratories are well equipped with specially trained personnel. Physicians have eight hours of work, only four of which are devoted to work of a physical nature. Abundant opportunity is given for favorite personal researches. Then, too, the practitioners, many of whom were formerly almost as uncomfortably situated as the muzhiks whom they treated, are well pleased with the working conditions that the state has established for them.

Physicians Are Workers.

"Physicians are considered as workers of the first class. They receive good salaries and are favored by numerous reductions accorded to workers. The medical syndicate has been reorganized and, since 1920, has constituted a part of the Federation of Syndicates of Sanitary Workers. Physicians of the Soviet Republic are accorded a consideration that insures the continued influence of their professional organizations. Social Insurance extends to all salaried persons, whether performing mental or manual labor.

"At present, all except a comparatively small number of farm laborers are beneficiaries of social insurance. Social insurance comes to the aid of all persons whose resources have become inadequate by reason of sickness, accident, pregnancy, quarantine, lactation, unemployment, permanent disability, death or the disappearance of the head of the family.

"In the place of a large number of societies, there is a single fund which covers all the risks. It is the employer who pays the assessments, which are collected rigorously, as the treasury does not have reserve funds. Payments made by employers cover at present 98 per cent of the funds required for the maintenance of the social insurance system.

Frank B. Noyes, President of Associated Press, with 'Big Four'

Today's is the thirteenth article of a series of thirty, exposing the operations of the "Big Four" insurance trust. The combine consists of the Metropolitan, Prudential, John Hancock and Colonial Life Insurance Companies. In previous articles Mr. Harrison has made specific charges of graft, misrepresentation, misuse of "mutual" funds and corruption. Prominent public figures in the exposure so far have been, Charles Evans Hughes, Charles M. Schwab, Haley Fiske, Supt. of Insurance James A. Beha and others.

* * *

(Copyrighted by The DAILY WORKER, 1927.)

By CHARLES YALE HARRISON

ARTICLE XIII.

Eighty percent of new weekly-payment life insurance written every year is written in the homes of workers already insured with the "Big Four." The pyramiding of insurance on lives already covered is due to the easy access which the industrial agent has to the homes of the workers on his collection list.

"Industrial" premiums are payable at the homes of the insured. The agent calls weekly and soon becomes familiar with all members of the household. He knows their earning capacity, age, the amount of insurance carried, and during the late war he usually undertook selling War Saving Thrift Stamps to his harassed policyholders.

As calls are made during the daytime his contact is largely with women and children, a circumstance which has led to ugly rumors, more or less unfounded.

As the average agent covers about two hundred homes every week, it can readily be seen that as an agent of propaganda he is invaluable.

In this connection it might be pointed out that during the recent campaign in favor of public ownership of water power in New York State, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company issued upwards of five million pamphlets entitled "Your Rights as a Capitalist" which was dealt with in an article last week.

In this booklet Mr. Haley Fiske opposed all moves in the direction of government ownership of public utilities.

Plays on Ignorance.

As the average worker is notoriously ignorant of business procedure, (a condition that the powers that be manage to perpetuate) and as the wife of the worker is still less posted on financial matters—the agent of the "Big Four" has an easy time of it. All sorts of bunk is spread about with reference to the great institution of life insurance.

For instance 20 payment life policies are sold to industrial insurers while the impression given at the time of the sale is that the policy is on the 20-year endowment plan. The

(Continued on Page Two)

Agents of Capitalism As "Neutrals" in Wage Mediation of Rail Men

WASHINGTON (FP). — "Neutral" members of the board of arbitration to handle the pending wage dispute between the Western railroads and the Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, affecting the conditions of 70,000 members of those brotherhoods, have been announced by the U. S. Board of Mediation. They are Walter M. W. Splawn, president of the University of Texas and Everett C. Brown, general manager of the love stock commission firm of St. John & Brown in Chicago.

The two brotherhoods have asked for a wage increase. On the roads in eastern territory they were granted 7½ per cent. increase in pay, and on the southeastern roads a like advance was given after long deadlock. The demands have been the same in all three regions.

Matthew Woll Appointed To Place on Committee To Drain Latin America

WASHINGTON, April 24 (FP).—Matthew Woll, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor and acting president of the National Civic Federation, has been named by President Coolidge as one of the nine American delegates to the Pan-American Commercial Conference, to be held in Washington, May 2 to 5.

It was to this meeting that the chamber of commerce of Buenos Aires and Rosario, Argentina, refused to send delegates, because they disapproved the aggressive imperialism of the United States in Latin America.

The other American delegates are: Lewis S. Pierson, Columbia Bank & Trust Co., New York; John H. Merrill, All-America Cables, New York; Gano S. Dunn, J. G. White Engineering Corp., New York; F. Abbott Goodhue, International Acceptance Bank, New York; Frank D. Waterman, Waterman Fountain Pen Co., New York; Roy D. Chapin, president, National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, New York; Franklin C. Remington, chairman of board, The Foundation Co., New York, and Daniel G. Wing, president, First National Bank, Boston.

Paul Crouch Will Be Released From Jail June First

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—Paul Crouch, who is a class conscious worker in the ranks of the United States army, and opponent of American imperialism in Hawaii, the Philippines, China and elsewhere and was therefore imprisoned for a period of three years, at Alcatraz, is slated to be released on June 1st.

One of the outstanding frame-ups against militant class conscious workers is that of the case of John J. Cornelison, who is now serving a life term in San Quentin, after conviction on a charge of first degree murder. Cornelison, 27 years of age, was a member of the Boiler Makers Union. He took active part in the shipyard strike of 1919-20 on the coast, serving on the picket line, and also the Railway Shop Crafts Strike of 1922.

Scab Killed.

A scab was killed during the Shop Crafts strike in September of 1922, and in the course of events, Cornelison was drawn in, framed up and convicted. He has already served four years in San Quentin. His victim of the class war has a dependent mother, 70 years of age. Workers desiring to write to him can do so by addressing: John J. Cornelison, Box 37287, California State Prison, San Quentin, Cal.

Similar case is that of Claude Merrit, 41 years old, member of Local No. 735, B. R. C. of America, framed on a charge of second degree murder. The details in his case are much the same as that of Cornelison, as he participated in the same strikes and was framed and convicted on the same case. He has already served four years in San Quentin. Has a boy seven years, living with a friend; the mother of the child is dead. Friends may also communicate with him: Claude Merritt, Box 37336, California State Prison, San Quentin, Cal.

WORKERS! PROTEST AGAINST DEATH OF SACCO and VANZETTI!

Ramsay MacDonald Does Not Discuss Formation Of Labor Party in U. S.

WASHINGTON, April 24. — Ramsay MacDonald, socialist expremier of Britain, met no radicals during his visit to Washington, In the House of Commons hopes to pass, to weaken the Labor Party, but he did not advise the formation of a working class party in this country. He left that subject alone.

The question of affiliation of the A. F. of L. with the International Federation of Trade Unions he also avoided.

KUOMINTANG DENOUNCES CHIANG KAI-SHEK AS TRAITOR; RIGHT WING LEADERS HERE SUPPRESS CABLE ASKING SUPPORT OF HANKOW GOVERNMENT

Boob Bills to Amuse The Capitalist Solons

Senator Fletcher M. Johnson of Oklahoma has introduced the latest freak bill. He wants a law prohibiting biscuits from being made over six inches in circumference or of weight more than one ounce, $50 fine for each violation—brides given one year to learn.

Stay senators get jmd, and if they cannot or will not put through social legislation, they can nmuse themselves at any rate.

Chiang Seeks Alliance With Imperialist Powers; Offers Posts to Reactionaries

Shanghai Workers Form Military Groups to Resist Chiang's Wholesale Massacres

HEADLIGHTS OF TODAY'S NEWS

1.—Central Committee of Kuomintang at Hankow in cable to American Kuomintang denounces Chiang Kai Shek as a traitor to the Nationalist movement and requests the executive committee of the American Kuomintang to notify all branches to support the Hankow Government.

2.—The executive committee of the Kuomintang here suppresses cable; fails to notify branches.

3.—Shanghai workers organize military groups for defense against right wing raids.

4.—Chiang has difficulty organizing counter-revolutionary government; offers Ministry of Foreign Affairs to C. C. Wu, notorious "running dog of the imperialists."

5.—Hankow expects imperialist attack; appeals to British troops not to fight liberation movement.

HANKOW, April 24.—In an effort to acquaint American workers with the full significance of Chiang Kai Shek's treachery to the Nationalist movement, the Central Committee of the Kuomintang at Hankow has sent the following cable to the Central Committee of the Kuomintang in the United States with headquarters at Oakland, California:

"Chiang has slaughtered the people; he would overthrow the Nationalist Government. His party membership has been cancelled and orders have been issued for his arrest. Notify all branches to support Hankow."

* * *

Suppress Cable.

OAKLAND, Calif., April 24.—The Kuomintang here, which is dominated by business men sympathetic to Chiang Kai Shek, have suppressed a cable from the Central Committee of the Kuomintang at Hankow calling for the support of the Hankow Government, it was learned today.

Although the cable requests the committee at Oakland to notify all branches to support the Hankow Government, the Oakland committee has taken no action.

* * *

Workers Resist Chiang.

SHANGHAI, April 24.—Workers here are organizing themselves into military groups to resist the raids on the labor unions by the right wing, it was learned today.

In an effort to split the Nationalists and to prevent communication between unions here and the Hankow Government, Chiang Kai Shek has established a rigid censorship on all letters and telegrams from Hankow.

The united opposition of Nationalist leaders to Chiang Kai Shek is making the formation of a "government" at Nanking extremely difficult.

Alienates Leaders.

Chiang by his desertion has alienated every responsible Nationalist leader and has been forced to seek the support of openly counter-revolutionary elements.

Reports from Nanking state that he has offered the Ministry of Foreign Affairs to C. C. Wu, who is notorious for his friendliness to the imperialist powers. Whether or not Wu will accept the post is unknown.

Imperialist Alliance.

The offer of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs to Wu is in keeping with Chinng's open bid for foreign support. It has been authoritatively stated that Chinng is willing to accept the imperialist demand for reprnrations for the Nanking affair without making counter-demands for indemnity for Chinese killed and property destroyed in the bombardment of Nanking.

Dispatches from Hankow state that the city fears an attack by imperialist war ships concentrated there. Eight of the forty-two war vessels are American. They are the Isabell, Cincinnati, Noa, Preble, Pruit, Monacacy, Pidgeon and Villa Lobos.

Appeal to Soldiers.

Propaganda is being circulated among British troops to forestall a massacre like those at Wanshien and Nanking. A Poster displayed from the British war memorial read:

"British sailors, you are here to fight unarmed people, inspired by ideals of democracy and independence," the poster read.

"You have been sent here to crush a revolutionary movement struggling against militarism and for government by the Chinese people, or the Chinese people for the Chinese people.

"Do not be fooled by your masters, the British capitalists, and their servants. Do away with those damned superstitions of race hatred. We, your friends, have more in common with you than you have with your countrymen of the type who sent you here.

"Go home or join us for liberation

(Continued on Page Two)

MacDONALD SICK; OTHER FAKERS AT "FORWARD" SPREE

5,000 Workers Razz Abe Cahan and His Gang

By SENDER GARLIN.

Exhausted from too many receptions given in his honor by mayors, governors and ambassadors, J. Ramsay MacDonald, once a "labor" premier of Great Britain, was unable to be the guest of the Jewish Daily "Forward" on the occasion of its 20th anniversary.

The Century Theatre, at 59th St. and Central Park West, the home of hundreds of musical comedies, was the scene of the big blowout yesterday afternoon.

Prima Donna Absent.

Lost, lost, were the dollars which the "Forward" expended in bringing MacDonald to the United States. Romantic little yarns about visits to friends met on his honeymoon 30 years ago, notwithstanding, the principal reason for his hurried trip here was to be the guest of honor at the celebration in the Century Theatre yesterday. There he would have sat on the platform, flanked by the "leaders" of the moribund socialist party —Hillquit, Cahan, Algernon Lee, Victor Berger, and the rest.

Came to See English Royalty.

Comparatively few of the 2,500 people who joined in the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" were readers of the "Forward."

From the "swell" automobiles and jerky taxis alighted those New Yorkers who wanted to see what Ramsay MacDonald looked like.

Suave, precise and ingratiating, Morris Hillquit, high priest of the socialist party, was master of ceremonies.

"The Forward," Hillquit boasted "is a prosperous newspaper."

"The British Labor Party," declared Hillquit, "has evolved a new principal of government. It is that the people can run the government."

According to the elaborate, gilt-edged program this was apparently the introduction for Mac Donald. With baited breath, the crowd who paid nothing to get in (admission was by complimentary tickets) waited for the mighty man from Britain to make his appearance.

"I regret exceedingly," said the socialist corporation lawyer, "I regret that due to illness, our honored guest, who is now in Philadelphia, will not be with us this afternoon."

Ishbel A Nice Girl.

But his daughter, friend and com-

(Continued on Page Two)

of the exploited masses of the world and for your own liberation."

* * *

An Invisible Government.

WASHINGTON, April 24 (FP).—John Van Antwerp MacMurray, the state department announces, is American minister to China. As such, he is accredited to the Peking "government," and not to Marshal Chang Tso-lin who is the sole political and military authority at Peking. Since the actual cabinet at Peking disappeared some time ago, and its American minister has had to maintain himself without funds from home for a year or more past, the United States is now in diplomatic relations with a real invisible government.

The case is somewhat like that of the Kerensky ambassador, Boris Bakhmeteff, who continued in possession of the Russian embassy in Washington for two years after his government ceased to exist. He was recognized as Russian ambassador nevertheless. And Minister Sze, accredited by the vanished government at Peking to the government of the United States, is formally recognized at "minister of China." Yet the administration never fails to declare, when challenged, that it does not recognize any of the "factions" in China —neither Chang Tso-lin at Peking nor Chiang Kai-shek at Nanking nor the Kuomintang at Hankow.

* * *

The Bureau of the Socialist and Labor International in a manifesto drawn up in Paris April 4th calls upon workers throughout the world to demand the immediate withdrawal of foreign troops and warships from China at all May Day demonstrations.

Hoover Applauds Chiang's Murder Of Union Leaders

WASHINGTON, April 24 (FP).—Secretary of Commerce Hoover's concern over the Chinese revolution is reflected in a press memorandum issued by his department Apr. 20 which began as follows:

"Some encouragement for prospects of trade at Shanghai may be had from the attitude being shown by the conservative or moderate elements of the Nationalist forces at that point, according to cabled advices to the Department of Commerce from representatives in Chnng.

"With the financial support of Chinese industrial and banking interests, active steps have been taken toward the suppression of activities on the part of radicals within the Nationalist Party and of labor disorder. Agitators and others serving as pickets have been disarmed and the general strike, which was ordered by the General Labor Union for April 13, was only partially successful, with prasent indications of an early termination.

ASSOCIATED PRESS HEAD WORKS FOR "BIG FOUR" INSURANCE EXPOSE BRINGS OUT

(Continued from Page One)

difference in cash return between the two plans is about 66%.

Dodges Point.

When the agent is asked when cash may be realized on a policy the answer is usually a vague one. Instruction books issued to agent call attention to the fact that surrender values must not be mentioned during the sale.

Lurid leaflets are distributed, graphically illustrated, showing that 85% of American workers are destitute or dependent at age 65. Sharp agents, with a gutter knowledge of human psychology, are not slow to capitalize the fear of tomorrow, which propaganda of this sort instills in the heart of the beholder.

No Security Obtained.

Exact data on the subject are not available; generally speaking, about 75% is nearer the mark. But whatever the figure, weekly-payment insurance is not an effective method to forestall destitution in old age.

It never occurs to the average weekly-payment policyholders that there are other means, more effective, to do away with the degrading dependency which the present economic system seems to regard as a just reward after a life of useful toil.

The latest figures on the matter show that for every 100 weekly-payment life insurance policies which terminate only one is an endowment policy. And then only after fifteen or twenty years of overreaching, during which time one has been helping to keep a gang of crooked Wall Street manipulators in ease and luxury.

You May Die!

A horde of industrial agents cover the large industrial centers of the country and a most intense attack upon the worker's purse is waged by these employees of the "Big Four."

Hundreds of millions of leaflets are stuck into letter-boxes carrying alarm and trading. "You, too, may die tomorrow." Or "Have you made provision for your old Age?", or "Will He Come Back," showing a picture of a man going to work. The implied threats are most insidious.

Increase Protests.

Every illness or death is an excuse to urge the increase of insurance in force on the lives of the unfortunate members of the stricken family. As a baby is born its parents are scared into insuring its life from the moment it first draws breath. A common argument used to inspire infantile life insurance is that the death rate is very high among infants under one year of age.

$20 for a Death.

If the infant dies within one year the benevolent "Big Four" pay $20 as a death claim to the bereft parents. Most states permit infantile life insurance; others, notably Colorado, prohibit it.

I have before me a book issued by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, the largest and most powerful of the "Big Four" with a total membership of 24,000,000 workers throughout the United States and Canada. It is called, "An Epoch in Life Insurance—Twenty-five Years of Administration of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company." It says on page xvi, "Today the Metropolitan, with its millions of Industrial policies in force, is recognized as the friend of the working man."

Don't Trust Trusts.

Personally I incline to the view that any time a billion dollar corporation poses as a friend of the working man it is time for him to sew up his pockets and holler for help.

Further on down the same page it goes on to say, "Public appreciation of the Company and its magnificent work is growing. The newspapers are full of news accounts of its manifold activities in behalf of uplift."

I don't wish to appear nasty or catty in any way, but at this point it is only fair to call the reader's attention to the fact that sitting on the board of directors of the great Metropolitan is none other than Frank P. Noyes.

Noyes Should Know.

Mr. Noyes is the president of the Associated Press, a news association which disseminates news to 1200 newspapers in the United States and Canada.

Have any of the Associated Press papers ever called their readers' attention to the fact that 75% of all weekly payment insurance policies lapse? That only one endowment policy out of a hundred matures? That only 9% of all policies are paid as claims? Or that the "Big Four" made fifty million dollars last year on forfeited policies?

Not so as one would notice it.

THESE COMRADES HAVE ANSWERED THE ATTACK OF THE BOSSES

These comrades have rallied to the defense of their paper at the time when it is under the fire of the reactionaries, who wish to destroy it.

Nat	Address	Amt.
A. Segal	Chicago, Ill.	25.00
H. Low	Workers Party: Passaic, N. J.	25.00
N. Stamler	E. B. and Agit. Prop. Dept.	3.00
O. Zimmerman	Chicago, Ill.	10.00
H. M. M. Kuusinen	Brooklyn	1.00
A. Mahlen	Mrs. Viner: Roxbury, Mass.	6.00
B. F. Lundberg	Pittsburgh, Pa.	4.00
Ed. Sittner	Chicago, Ill.	2.00
S. Steinberg	New York City:	25.00
J. Bernal	Bronx, N. Y.	2.00
G. Mollari	Milwaukee, Wis.	6.00
G. Simonini	Chicago, Ill.	2.00
E. Sewaltzer	Cleveland, Ohio	1.00
Nemanic	Chicago, Ill.	2.00
M. Wolf	Milwaukee, Wis.	5.00
W. Bartenetti	Chicago, Ill.	5.00
S. Shallop	New York City	2.00
H. A. Berger	Cincinnati, Ohio	5.00
N. Bechtman	N. Y. C.	1.00
S. Hammersmark	Chicago, Ill.	2.50
L. E. Katterfield	N. Y. C.	54.25
J. Kazlakaus	I.L.W.P.U. Hartford	10.00
J. Plack	Chicago, Ill.	5.00
T. Shalles	Los Angeles, Cal.	5.00
G. Mofphis	Rock Springs, Wyo.	1.00
N. E. Marx	New York City	1.00
Dr. M. Mirlin	N. Y. C.	5.00
Local 41, I.L.G.W.U.	N. Y. C.	5.00
Lithuanian Women's Prog. Alliance	Brooklyn, N. Y.	10.00
A. Gaidow	Bilyn, N. Y.	5.00
I. Mackin	N. Y. C.	79.73

Watch for the names of contributors.

HAVE YOU DONE YOUR SHARE TO FIGHT FOR YOUR PAPER?

DAILY WORKER
33 First Street,
New York, N. Y.

Inclosed is my contribution of dollars .... cents to the Ruthenberg Sustaining Fund for a stronger and better DAILY WORKER and for the defense of our paper. I will pay the same amount regularly every .....

Name .....

Address .....

City .....

State .....

Attach check or money order.

AS BALES SEES A UNITED FRONT

McDonald Ill; Couldn't Come to Forward Affair

(Continued from Page One)

rade, was here and would say a few words, Hillquit promised.

The ex-premier's attractive daughter, Ishbel, stood before the microphone which would carry her stirring insurrectionary message to a million American homes.

"I am chawmed to be with you awl this awfternyoon," she said piquantly.

How proud were the leaders of the socialist party! Judge Jacob Panken, the only socialist judge in the United States able to draw down a salary of $12,000 a year for his bit in ushering in the Cooperative Commonwealth; Norman Thomas, former assistant pastor of the Fifth Avenue Brick Presbyterian Church; the now gets only $100 a week for helping to make socialism safe for college students); little August Claessans, Algernon Lee, the Lord Chesterfield of the Rand School—all were radiant.

I Tell You, Mrs. Feitelbaum!

Imagine, the daughter of a genuine premier of the whole British Empire! "Ard," they must have murmured to each other, "we need to get excited about a socialist mayor in Schenectady!"

Ishbel was very nice. What she said was not especially important, but her English accent was too cute for words. (Several times she forgot the name of the "Forward," and said "paper" instead.)

She did make one contribution, however. The British Labor Party, she said, was opposed to the Communists. Besides, Ishbel said sagely, "all classes and members of all parties are now affiliating themselves with the 'Labaw Pahty.'"

Hillquit is Generous.

Forgetting his own parliamentary ambitions for the moment, Hillquit looked smilingly into the microphone once more, and announced that the "American Labor prime minister" would be the next speaker.

Victor L. Berger, gray haired, broad shouldered, and complacent, told how "only one other paper in this country could give a party like this—the Milwaukee Leader." (scattered applause). The congressman was apparently unaware of the recent fifth jubilee of "The Freiheit," at which 22,000 workers paid admission to all in Madison Square Garden and cheer the five years of achievements of the organ of the Jewish proletariat.

Hillquit had said that "the Forward is a prosperous paper." No admission fees were therefore charged to those who were given pretty pennants to wave in case they became enthusiastic about the speeches.

Expose "Forward" Treachery.

Precisely at this time 5,000 workers in three halls, Central Opera House, Manhattan Lyceum, and New Star Casino, were listening to "witnesses" recite evidence of the consistent treachery of the "Forward" to the working class during its years of existence.

How this huge enterprise, built with the pennies of the workers of New York, developed into its most sinister enemy, was told by a large number of speakers, active in the labor and left-wing movement in this city.

Many Speakers.

Moissaye J. Olgin, editor of "The Hammer" Yiddish Communist monthly; Shachno Epstein, editor of "The Freiheit," Alexander Trachtenberg, Louis Hyman, manager of the Joint Board of the cloak and dressmakers' union, Bertram Wolfe, W. W. Weinstone, Ben Gitlow, S. Zimmerman and a large number of other speakers cited the specific cases of treachery of the "Forward" in the many strikes during recent years.

The indictment against the yellow sheet presided over by Abraham Cahan, which degenerated from the political and cultural representative of the Jewish workers to a sensational, penny-grabbing sheet, contains a large number of important counts.

Disgraceful Record.

Included among them are: The treachery to the cloakmakers in 1912; the "Bisnow affairs;" the "Hourwich affair;" in 1913-14; the General Strike of 1916; the struggle of the operators in 1917-1918; the campaign against the waist-makers in 1920; the campaign against Joint Agreements in 1922; in the campaign of the Joint Action Committee in 1925; the general strike of 1926, the treachery of the "Forward" toward the furriers during the strike of 1926.

This culminated in the partly successful attempt to railroad Ben Gold and the other leaders of the furriers to prison, together with 40 other active cloakmakers, in cooperation with the bureaucrats in the A. F. of L.

"Forward" Brought Kerensky, Too.

Speaking at Manhattan Lyceum to an audience which jammed the hall, Alexander Trachtenberg referred to MacDonald, who left England at a time when a vicious anti-strike bill is being considered in the British parliament.

"The Jewish Socialist Federation which workes hand in hand with the "Forward" brought Alexander Kerensky to America. Now it has helped bring over MacDonald. It seems that the "Forward" is making it a policy of bringing all ex-premiers to this country.

"MacDonald has been disowned by his own party, but he is not worried. He has made new friends. He who assaulted India when he was premier of England, who opposed China for the same reason,—will be taken care of by his new friends."

Vice Chancellor Backes Allows Teamsters Only Part Time Picketing

Part time picketing, with no more than five pickets, is permitted in the latest injunction issued by vice-chancellor Backes. He rules that Local 478, of the Teamsters' Union, may station one "observer" in front of the New Jersey Warehouse Co., and one at each intersecting corner. And the pickets are limited to 7-9 a. m. and 4-6 p. m.

Backes is the author of numerous writs against labor. Other restrictions he has imposed against the teamsters are:

"No "observer," as he calls the pickets, may approach the same employe oftener than once a week. That often they are permitted to tell an employe that there is a strike or to give him a pamphlet stating the case. Applicants for jobs may be similarly notified. The union must keep a record book of "observers" and be ready to submit this to the court at any time.

BUY THE DAILY WORKER AT THE NEWSSTANDS

Campaign Starts to Put Labor's Choice in Los Angeles Office

LOS ANGELES, Calif. April 14.—Campaign meetings have begun for Sam Globeman, candidate for Board of Education endorsed by the Workers (Communist) Party, Central Labor Council, Allied Printing Trades Council, Building Trades Council, Metal Trades Council, Carpenters District Council, Painters District Council, San Pedro Central Labor Union, the Railroad Brotherhood, and many local unions, for primary elections to be held May 3rd, and general election June 6th.

Over five thousand leaflets and large quantities of pamphlets and Daily Workers are on hand for the most wide-spread and systematic distribution Los Angeles has ever had.

Open Air Meetings.

Open-air meetings will be as follows: Every Saturday night at Brooklyn and Soto; every Thursday night at 10th and Central; noon-day meetings at the huge factories of Goodyear Rubber, Llewellyn Iron, and the packing houses; other meetings will be arranged shortly at 5th and Towne, (the "slave market"), Central and Vernon, the Negro district, and near the waterfront at San Pedro.

A trade union political conference was called by the campaign committee of all unions endorsing Globeman's candidacy and in favor of independent political action, which may develop in the direction of an organization of labor party from the tone of the resolutions adopted by several unions and district councils.

Raise Money.

Contributions lists to finance the campaign are being circulated, and it is expected to raise several hundred dollars among sympathizers of the Workers Party and other working class elements. The Young Workers League and Young Pioneers are actively participating in the campaign meetings and other activities.

The following list of speakers is being used at the meetings: Schneiderman, Simonoff, Bruce, Lewis, Bush, Minkin, Feinstein, and Y. W. L., also Globerman, Lubartolsky and Karpiloff in Jewish.

LOS ANGELES NOTES

LOS ANGELES, April 24—R. Saltzman, general manager of the Freiheit, spoke to an audience close to one thousand workers who had gathered to celebrate the Freiheit Jubilee, and one thousand dollars was raised by an appeal for a collection. The meeting was held at the Cooperative Center. A banquet was held for Comrade Saltzman the following Saturday night, where additional appeals brot a generous response.

United Front for May Day.

LOS ANGELES, April 24.—May Day will be celebrated in Los Angeles at Plummers Park, under the joint auspices of the Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Conference, International Labor Defense, Centralia Defense Committee, the I. W. W., and the Workers (Communist) Party and Young Workers League. Speakers representing each organization will be on the program.

CURRENT EVENTS By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

(Continued from Page One)

her to the House of Good Shepherd, pending investigation. Why to the House of Good Shepherd your honor? Why not to a psychopathic ward? What right has anybody who cannot be understood by a police court judge to be at large? If the girl devoted her time to developing her feet instead of her brain she would land a job on the police force instead of a cell in a jail or a cot in a detention home.

* * *

THE psychologists, psycho-analysists, philosophers and debunkers who were hired to bunk the public with expert rubbish on the Synder-Gray trial have sneaked away from their assignments like small boys from school. Will Durant, the synthetic philosopher, simply took up his stenographer and walked away without even apologizing. Another celebrity who quit announced that he would be back in his ring seat when the trial starts. Only the solsisters and the news hacks are holding ground.

* * *

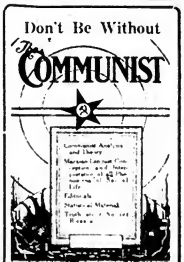
MAURICE WATKINS, author of a good and remunerative play, and one of the sisters that is not sob, is inking advantage of the occasion to hang up a post-graduate course in Shakespeare while covering the trial, the how Lady Macbeth and her husband, the immortal creation of the world's greatest dramatist can be mentioned in the same breath with the two morons who killed a man, so crudely that even a detective could trace the murderers without the aid of newspaper reporters, is beyond anybody but one receiving several pennies a word for what she has to say, and having nothing to say, quotes Shakespeare. In all probability the Bard of Avon oftentimes went without a meal while his brain was writing over the masterpiece that Miss Watkins is now turning into dollars.

* * *

THE murder of one hundred innocent persons travelling on a Mexican passenger train by a bandit gang led by priests is one of the most brutal and cold-blooded deeds in the annals of modern history. Those fiends, in the name of god and the pope, mowed down, men, women and children indiscriminately. This slaughter has taken the punch out of the anti-Mexican propaganda conducted by the Knights of Columbus in the United States, tho they will undoubtedly deny that the clergy were responsible for the crime. And how does this latest atrocity committed by the Mexican hierarchy square with Al Smith's claim that the church to which he owes allegiance does not interfere in spiritual matters.

* * *

JAMES RAMSAY MACDONALD returning to England soon after having a jolly time visiting the rulers of this mighty country and their labor backers. The MacDonald, the leader of His Majesty's Opposition in the British parliament is supposed to favor the abolition of the capitalist system, he is popular with the tories who know that he is one of their most valuable aids in the labor movement. MacDonald is not even a republican. He is a monarchist and is as strongly in favor of maintaining the British empire and all that implies as any member of the Baldwin cabinet. MacDonald amused himself occasionally, while here, attacking A. J. Cook and other honest and militant leaders of the British workingclass.



* * *

THE table of results of the last five years' budgets of the British governments sheds a white and penetrating light on the growing insolvency of British imperialism. Here it is:

	Surplus of
1922-23	.....$555,000,000
1923-24	 240,000,000
1924-25	 20,000,000
	Deficit of
1925-26	 70,000,000
1926-27	 185,000,000

This is one set of figures that does not lie. The British government would have nothing to gain by exaggerating its weakness. In view of the above, Winston Churchill's expectation of a surplus of one million pounds next year is rather delusory.

Don't Be Without
The COMMUNIST

(Taking the place of the Workers Monthly.)

Library Size book and bi-weekly

MOST VALUABLE AND KEEN BOOK FOR ANYONE WHO IS SEEKING THE CORRECT, THE MARXIAN-LENINIST ANSWERS AND SOLUTIONS TO POLITICAL PROBLEMS OF TODAY.

No other publication like it in the country.

[illegible] Radio service [illegible]
[illegible] Workers' Party [illegible]
[illegible] Soviet Union [illegible]
[illegible] Trade union [illegible]
[illegible] Negro question [illegible]
[illegible] Communist Party [illegible]
[illegible] Communist International [illegible]

It is a hand book in regular [illegible] monthly thought, direction and interpretation.

IMPOSSIBLE WITHOUT IT.

SUBSCRIBE!

[illegible] $1.50 per year
[illegible] $1.00 six months
[illegible] $1.00 foreign

THE COMMUNIST
1113 Washington Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.

Your Last Chance to

Here's How

To greet the workers of the world The DAILY WORKER will print the names of individual workers, and all working class organizations in its SPECIAL MAY DAY EDITION.

Here's How Much

Individual names will be printed at the rate of $1.00 per name. Organizations will be given a special rate of $1.00 per inch.

Here's When—

All greetings must be mailed at once to reach The DAILY WORKER before April 25. All greetings arriving later will be printed in following editions.

SEND GREETINGS TODAY

DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, New York, N. Y.

Inclosed find ..... dollars for May Day Greetings

Name .....

Address .....

City ..... State .....

Mineola Jury Convicts Nine Fur Unionists, Acquits Two; Gold and Shapiro Rearrested.

Stoolpigeons Weisenbloom and Basoff

Detectives Green and Evans

(Continued from Page One)

union", said Mr. Walsh. "It is a legitimate labor union. It has for its objects what all just men must have, and honest ones. If any doubt arises in your minds, you have the constitution of the union in your hands.

"Counsel has said these men are not union men; yet testimony has shown that many of them have been members for years.

Took No Salary.

"Here are not the part of labor leaders who fatten upon their brothers and the movement. Here are men who never took a cent of salary during 17 weeks of strike."

Dirks As Filers.

Henry Uterhardt summed up the cases of Katz, Weiss, Lenhardt, Malkin, Franklin and Mileaf, and he brought a smile to faces of several jurors by referring to the two detectives "those foremost prohibitionists

Samuel Mencher

Isidore Shapiro

HISTORY OF THE MINEOLA CASE

On April 19, 1926, during the fur strike, two workers, Maurice Malkin and Leo Franklin, were arrested in Rockville Center on a charge of attacking Michael and Jack Barnett, who run a scab fur shop there.

The workers had been picketing the picketing the shop, and had taken no part in the alleged assault, which was actually the work of two English scabs, and of friends who had a grudge against the Barnett brothers.

An English Pair.

[illegible] Basoff made a statement [illegible] was [illegible] Malkin and Franklin [illegible] Basoff admitted [illegible] Rockville Center [illegible] in March, 1926.

Repudiates Confession.

[illegible] Basoff made a statement [illegible] was [illegible] Malkin and Franklin [illegible] he stated that he [illegible] had been [illegible] to make [illegible]

[illegible] on River rd.

[illegible] Basoff and Weisenbloom were arrested as accomplices in the case. On September 14, [illegible] Detectives Green and Evans [illegible] December, 1926, Charles Weisenbloom, a Jack Turner and a [illegible] were [illegible] Basoff's confession.

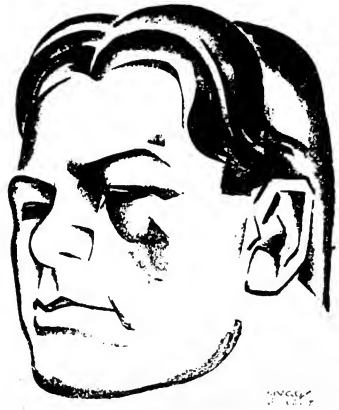
Another "Informer."

In March, 1927, upon indictment of Basoff, Jack Schneider, Philip Lenhardt, Joseph Katz, Oscar Mileaf, George Weiss, Martin Rosenwarz were arrested.

Assault Charges.

As all these [illegible] were charged with [illegible] degree. The state learned that all of these except Ben Gold had been present at the center on the day of the assault, and that Gold was a potential witness he had seen there.

At the time the two Barnett brothers and two girls who worked in their shop declared they had seen Malkin and Franklin in Rockville Center on the day of the assault.



One Scab Witness.

Only one of these girls, Mary Farkas, claimed to have seen the other 8 workers whom the "informers" Basoff and Weisenbloom said were with them in the attack on the Barnetts to which they confess. The Barnett brothers themselves could not identify any of these workers.

Detectives testified to alleged "confessions" of guilt from Gold, Shapiro, Mencher, Schneider and Lenhardt. These confessions were denied by all the defendants, only one of them was written down in any form and that one was unsigned.

Jack Schneider

Ben Gold

Arrange for Big Sacco-Vanzetti Meet in Chicago

CHICAGO, April 24 (FP). Sinister ad minor differences in their business effort to save the lives of Sacco and Vanzetti, representatives of the Chicago labor and liberal movements are uniting in a mass meeting in Carmen's hall May 13.

Chief among the speakers is President John Fitzpatrick, Chicago Federation of Labor, who has been an untiring champion of the Italian-American labor men doomed to die as a sacrifice to the alleged infallibility of Massachusetts justice, though the world knows them to be innocent.

Other speakers include James P. Cannon, secretary International Labor Defense, Anton Johannsen of the carpenters, attorney W. H. Holmes, Rev. Charles Clayton Morrison who is editor of the Christian Century, Rev. David Rhys Williams and John A. Lapp of the Catholics.

The electrocution of Sacco and Vanzetti is set for the week of July 10.

Lodge 307, International Association of Machinists, Chicago, has adopted resolutions urging Gov. Fuller of Massachusetts to release "our two persecuted fellow workers who have devoted their lives to the cause of labor."

Prosecutor Edwards

Judge Smith

Sheriff Holmes Greene and Dr. Watson Evans.

He pointed out that detectives [illegible] notoriously used to testify as "gap fillers", to supply evidence which the district attorney cannot scrape up elsewhere. It was only the statement of Detective Greene that Lenhardt had "confessed" to him that could be found to corroborate the scab Karkas' testimony that Lenhardt was in Rockville Center.

Detectives Made Trial.

George Levy summed up the case of Isadore Shapiro, and again mentioned the detectives whom he accused of giving the testimony desired in order to win promotion.

Without the word of the detectives, there could not have been any trial of Ben Gold, so Attorney Charles W. Weeks pointed out, for a man cannot be convicted only on the evidence of an accomplice as Basoff and Weisenbloom are technically, in the sight of the law.

Weeks also pointed out the fact that the district attorney had repeatedly asked various defendants about the status of the Joint Board in the American Federation of Labor, but he had never asked Ben Gold who was best qualified to speak on this subject.

"I felt sorry for District Attorney Edwards when he had Ben Gold on the stand," said Mr. Weeks who is a former District Attorney of Nassau. "I have been in his position of having on the witness stand a man whom I knew instinctively was perfectly hon-[illegible] and was telling the truth."

Ben Gold is no fool; he has brains. He is not [illegible] enough to make that statement to Greene. Gold knows a detective does not ask questions for nothing.

"No, same ever died because its leader was imprisoned. Even if they get the big men, it will not matter."

Fond of Right Wing.

The District Attorney in his summing up took several cracks at city lawyers "who get big fees for getting their clients off, whether they are guilty or innocent." In his efforts to ridicule the "left wing" Joint Board, he delivered a long paen to the late Samuel Gompers, and stated he was sure that President William Green and Hugh Frayne [illegible] dealing with Gold and the others, as Gompers [illegible]

There is nothing to that story of a meeting [illegible] Referring to the conference at the Hotel Cadillac April 18, at which the A. F. of L. officers [illegible] the strike [illegible] Shirtwaist.

"I stated the strike is still on. That shop chairmen's meeting of the 19th did nothing. It settled nothing."

Fought Facts.

Yet during the testimony, the District Attorney made objections to having any further consideration of the importance of the April 19th shop chairmen's meeting. He objected to having the agreement between Green, Frayne, Gold and Schlesinger, drawn up on April 19th introduced as evidence of the importance of the April 19th meeting.

Judge Rather Technical.

The judge confined himself pretty closely to an examination of the law, altho he made a few remarks to which objection was filed by attorney George Levy.

When the jury rendered its verdict at 1:30 A. M., a formal motion for setting aside, and a motion for a new trial were made by attorney George Medalie. Thus the court denied.

To Appeal Conviction.

As soon as the nine workers are sentenced on May 2nd, steps will be started to appeal this case and to get them out of jail on certificates of "reasonable doubt."

Mass meetings are being planned by the Furriers Joint Board, to be held some time this week, to protest the frame-up of those innocent workers and to organize the move for their quick release.

JOINT DEFENSE AND RELIEF COMMITTEE CLOAKMAKERS AND FURRIERS

11 Union Square, Room 714, New York, N. Y.

STAND BEHIND THE IMPRISONED CLOAKMAKERS AND FURRIERS

Do you like to see the imprisoned Cloakmakers and Furriers in Jail?

Do you like to see their families suffering and in want?

Do you like to see other active union members now under charges sentenced to long prison terms? If not, fill out the Certificate printed in the advertisement of the Committee and mail it to the office with One Dollar.

This reply will encourage the mass of workers to keep up their fight for a clean union.

The necessity is so great that even if you have already given, we ask you to give again, and sign this Roll Call.

CUT OUT THIS CERTIFICATE AND SEND IT OR BRING IT IN WITH ONE DOLLAR

We call upon all Workers to support the 100,000 Dollar Drive of the Joint Defense and Relief Committee, Cloakmakers and Furriers.

(Signed) BEN GOLD, LOUIS HYMAN.

$1

THE 100,000 ROLL CALL DOLLAR FUND

Joint Defense and Relief Committee, Cloakmakers and Furriers
Room 714, 41 Union Square, New York City

I hereby contribute One Dollar to the cost of keeping the imprisoned Cloakmakers and Furriers, defending their union unscathed and winning relief for their families.

Name _____

Address _____

$1

Joint Defense & Relief Committee, Furriers & Cloakmakers, 11 Union Sq., Room 714
Other stations at Local 22, 16 W. 21st St., or the Joint Boards of the Cloakmakers and Furriers.
Be sure your Certificate is stamped with the official seal, accompanied by the special certificate receipt.

CUT OUT THIS CERTIFICATE AND SEND IT OR BRING IT IN WITH ONE DOLLAR

Foreman of Jury

Juror No. 6

Juror No. 5

Juror No. 8

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
Daily, Except Sunday
33 First Street, New York, N. Y. Phone, Orchard 1680

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail (in New York only):	By mail (outside of New York):
$8.00 per year $4.50 six months $2.50 three months	$4.00 per year $3.50 six months $2.00 three months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, New York, N. Y.

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL ..... Editors
WILLIAM F. DUNNE .....
BERT MILLER ..... business Manager

Entered as second-class mail at the post-office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Advertising rates on application.

Toward a New Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

British and Japanese relations are rapidly developing toward a new Anglo-Japanese alliance, just as The DAILY WORKER predicted last week when the new Japanese government was organized under Baron Tanaka. The Peking correspondent of the London Sunday Observer states quite frankly that:

> " " " the conviction is now borne in upon most observers that Great Britain must sooner or later turn to her old pre-Washington conference ally if she requires cooperative adjustment of her immediate difficulties in China."

The correspondent further states that the British legation staff in Peking expects favorable results for Britain from the new Japanese cabinet, and that it greeted with joy the downfall of the former cabinet that refused to aid in the British policy of terror against the Chinese liberation movement.

It is also noteworthy that the London Morning Post, which is a semi-official organ, openly advocates a new rapprochement with Japan and laments the fact that the Anglo-Japanese alliance was ever allowed to lapse because of advantages anticipated from the United States.

So, in spite of the fact that American military and naval forces in China have consistently played second fiddle to England the British are realistic enough to know that, next to the loss of her colonies, the greatest threat to her imperialism is precisely the formidable power of the United States. And while Britain today welcomes the cooperation of the Coolidge Kellogg administration in China, she nevertheless prepares for the day when, if the Chinese liberation movement can be subdued, she will have to fight the United States over the spoils.

This new alignment carries with it the implications of a war in the Pacific that will rapidly inflame the rest of the earth and consume with fire and blood countless millions of the working class of the world.

As a simple matter of self preservation, if all other reasons are eliminated, the workers of this country must demand in thunder tones that the United States get its naval and military forces out of China and keep them out.

The demand should be followed up with action toward mobilizing the workers for a determined struggle with all means at hand against the brigand policy of the imperialist butchers at Washington who are recklessly gambling with their lives.

Why Members of the I. W. W. Do Not Support the "Industrial Worker."

In the April 16th issue of one of the two English language weekly publications of the Industrial Workers of the World, the "Industrial Worker," published at Seattle, Washington, appears an editorial lamenting the fact that one of the biggest units of the membership of that organization which is launching an organizational drive on a large scale does not take even one copy of that publication.

An examination of the identical issue containing that editorial lamentation strikingly reveals the reason for the boycotting of the paper by those class conscious elements of the I. W. W. who have a sense of international solidarity. On the first page, in bold type, it publishes a hysterical headline traducing in the most revolting manner the workers' and peasants' government of Russia. The headline runs: "Russian Workers Appeal for Help in Combatting Savage and Inhuman Treatment from Soviet Government." It is followed by an appeal alleged to have been smuggled out of Moscow on behalf of our comrades imprisoned and exiled in Russia," containing the most monstrous slanders against the leaders and diplomatic representatives of the Soviet Union. It is signed by a trio of adventurers doing the dirty work of the international imperialist brigand- and white guard criminals who hold forth in Berlin and regularly issue barrages of lies against the proletarian revolution in Russia. Informed members of the I. W. W. as well as other intelligent workers instantly recognize such spurious propaganda against the revolution. They know that the only political prisoners in Russia are those unprincipled scoundrels, in the pay of allied military missions, who were caught red-handed trying to organize revolts against the revolution and who even resorted to attempts to assassinate the leaders of the revolution.

The Paris, London and New York bankers who loaned money to the Czar's government so that he could buy gallows on which to hang the leaders of the revolution want to destroy the Soviet Union so that they can again draw interest on their "investments." They employ just such debased and prostituted press agents as the Berlin trio in an effort to alienate from the revolution the working class support in the imperialist countries, and, the editor of the "Industrial Worker," aids these loan mongers by publishing their poison gas attacks in his paper.

Probably the branch of the I. W. W. that is conducting an organizational drive realizes that such palpable lies will repel rather than attract workers, hence they keep the slimy thing out of their reading rooms so that the masses of workers may not know the low level to which some creatures calling themselves labor journalists have sunk. If the I. W. W. wants to use its press for organizational purposes it will have to give the present editor of the "Industrial Worker" the bum's rush and replace him by someone who has some regard for facts and who will not stoop lower than the average capitalist hack-writer in order to defame the leaders of the world revolutionary movement.

Norman Hapgood, from the Olympian heights of liberalism in the service of imperialism, contributes to pragmatic political analysis the startling observation that the death of Abraham Lincoln was a political document. Says this master of English diction in regard to Governor Smith's religious explosion: "It is the greatest American political document since the death of Lincoln."

BE SURE TO GET THE SPECIAL ISSUE MAY 1

Speech of Comrade Kolarov on Comrades MacManus and Ruthenberg

(Speech delivered by Comrade Kolarov, member of the Executive Committee of the Communist International, before a session of that body, in regard to the death of Comrade Ruthenberg and Comrade MacManus.)

COMRADES! A sad duty was thrust upon me to express before you the sharp pain which the sudden and untimely death of Comrades MacManus and Charles E. Ruthenberg evoked in the executive committee of the Comintern and in the entire Communist International. The importance of these comrades has far transcended the borders of their home-land and parties, and therefore their death is a keenly felt loss for the entire Communist International.

MACMANUS and Ruthenberg were not accidental men in the revolutionary Communist movement, although their passing over to Communism coincided with the revolutionary wave which gripped considerable strata of the English and North American proletariat at the end of the imperialist war. This cannot about put us a result of their sentiment, but as an inevitable and logical consequence of their ideological and political evolution. Prior to the world war, they participated in the labor movement on the left wing of the social democracy and always were to be found in the struggle against reformism and opportunism. At the time of the war itself, they came out determinedly against an alliance with the bourgeoisie, and remained irreconcilable enemies of social patriotism. MacManus and Ruthenberg never betrayed the revolutionary ideals of the proletariat and never betrayed the interests of the workers. Therefore, when the October revolution opened up the era of the international proletarian revolution, they actively and logically found themselves in the ranks of the revolutionaries, and began the propaganda of bolshevism and the organization of Communist Parties.

THE deceased comrades differed greatly from each other in the character of their talents in the service of the revolutionary proletariat. MacManus was predominantly a propagandist, and the extension of Communism among the English proletariat is undoubtedly due to his untiring and systematic work. Ruthenberg, on the contrary, was first of all an organizer and a political leader, and because of his talents as a leader, the Workers Party of the U. S. A. has put him forward on the post as its first guide. But they had this in common, that they were bound up with indestructible ties with the working masses whom they splendidly answered "Present" in the hour of battle, grew up and that they firmly believed in the victory of the proletarian revolution and kindly mastered together with their comrades in the International. When the first revolutionary wave which flared up immediately after the end of the war began to recede, many of the active leaders of the Communist parties passed into the camp of the reformists, but MacManus and Ruthenberg just at that moment exhibited colossal courage for the final solidification of the Bolshevik character of their ranks.

I HAVE pointed out that the role and importance of the deceased comrades extended beyond the borders of their lands. They were active workers not only in their own parties alone, but of the entire Communist International. The specific gravity of their personal participation in the international work, intensified together with the growth of their parties and with the strengthening of the world counter revolutionary role of the bourgeoisie of their lands. The work of MacManus and Ruthenberg in the Executive Committee of the Comintern of which they were members, was not limited by far only by the interest in the questions concerning immediately their own parties.

THE grief of the Comintern over the comrades who were taken from the revolutionary work is increased yet by the circumstances that the English Communist Party and the Workers Party of America are comparatively young parties, and their general staffs are small in number. Due to the peculiar character of the labor movement of England and to a considerable degree of North America, the specific gravity on the comparatively small Communist parties of these lands is considerably greater than in many other lands where the Communist movement embraces wider strata of the proletariat. Therefore, the loss of two outstanding leaders of these parties is a very keenly felt loss for the entire Communist International. They descend from the stage just at the ascent of a most tense struggle. The British and North American imperialists just at this moment unfold their brazen grasping and hunter revolutionary offensive over the entire world.

And the reformist leaders made their task easier by putting to sleep the working masses, with their illusions of industrial peace and class collaboration.

THE English and the American parties are confronted with colossal tasks of world-historic importance for the solution of which the revolutionary experience and the outstanding abilities of the Comrades MacManus and Ruthenberg were exceedingly valuable.

AFTER an untiring struggle extending over many years, in the first ranks of the revolutionary proletariat, which provoked deep hatred and vengeance of the bourgeoisie, death found our never-to-be-forgotten comrades at their fighting post. Just recently released from capitalist prison for his courageous revolutionary work, MacManus hurried to the International Anti-Imperialist Congress in Brussels in order to participate in the preparation of a grand international campaign against the brazen British imperialism. As to Ruthenberg, who already experienced several times the pleasures of the American prisons for his leading participation in the revolutionary struggle of the proletariat, the American billionaires were preparing again to throw him for a long period into prison in order to deprive the revolutionary movement of the country of its greatest leader at its one-sum when this movement is more than ever in need of mobilizing and straining all of its forces. The end of the two revolutionary warriors is worthy of their lives. Their untimely exterminated revolutionary careers will always serve, for the young revolutionary generations, as an inexhaustible source of loyalty to the workers' cause of self sacrifice in the revolutionary struggle and of unshakable faith in the victory of the world revolution.

WHILE lowering, as a sign of mourning, the banners of the Communism in honor of the dear memory of the dead comrades, we are far from being depressed. We firmly believe in the revolutionary creative power of the English and American workers which will put forward from their midst new loyal fighters, talented agitators, and courageous leaders. The great work of MacManus and Ruthenberg will facilitate the speedy replacement of the breach caused by their death, in the leading staff of the Comintern as well as in the American and the world revolutionary movement. The world revolution will unflinchingly develop in the same path upon which marched in complete understanding with the Comintern our perished comrades, and will end with the undoubted victory of Communism in the entire world, a victory in which they unflinchingly believed.

---

receive 20 pamphlets for every member to sell or distribute.

Nuclei in the New York District will get their pamphlets from the District Office—108 East 14th St.

Nuclei outside of the New York District write to Daily Worker Publishing Co., 33 East First Street, New York City, or to the National Office, Workers Party, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Let's Fight On! Join The Workers Party!

In the loss of Comrade Ruthenberg the Workers (Communist) Party has lost its foremost leader and the American working class its staunchest fighter. The loss can only be overcome by many militant workers joining the Party that he helped to build.

Fill out the application below and mail it. Become a member of the Workers (Communist) Party and carry forward the work of Comrade Ruthenberg.

I want to become a member of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Name .....

Address .....

Occupation .....

Union Affiliation .....

Mail this application to the Workers Party, 108 East 14th Street, New York City; or if in other city to Workers Party, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Distribute the Ruthenberg pamphlet, "The Workers (Communist) Party, What it Stands For and Why Workers Should Join." This Ruthenberg pamphlet will be the basic pamphlet thruout the Ruthenberg Drive.

Every Party Nucleus must collect funds from every member and will

Organizations in May Day Fete in L. Angeles

LOS ANGELES, April 24.—A joint committee representing the Sacco-Vanzetti Conference, the Centralia Defense Committee, the I. W. W., the International Labor Defense, the Workers Party, and the Young Workers League, announces a May Day picnic will be held in Plummers Park.

Malcolm Bruce will be the main speaker, and Robert Whitaker will be the chairman. Tom Connors, I. W. W. member, recently released from San Quentin penitentiary, will also be one of the speakers.

The Workers Party and Young Workers League are jointly issuing a May Day leaflet explaining the significance of this international holiday.

Workers' Soccer Team Is Winner Over One Of Best in Detroit

DETROIT, Mich., April 24.—The Workers Athletic Club's soccer-team showed a great exhibition of team work last Sunday by defeating the unbeatable Fay Muller R. C's. by a score of 2-0.

The victory is all the more remarkable because of the fact that the Fay Muller F. C. is a professional soccer team, that has gone thru the whole season without a defeat, while the Workers Athletic Club's soccer team is an amateur team, and is affiliated with the Labor Sports Union.

Defensive Ability.

The "Workers" showed great defensive ability by blocking many hard shots at their goal by the Fay Mullers, and their field work was the finest exhibition of team work ever seen. They had no outstanding stars, and won thru their ability to work as one. This quality the Fay Mullers lacked due to the fact that some of their players chose to play for the crowd.

The two points scored, are credited to G. Proudfast because of his accurate shooting.

The line-up for the Workers A. C. was: D. Watt, John Avers, V. Maldour, A. Vickelety, W. Killpin, C. Cunningham, R. Black, W. Hyde, G. Proudfast, R. Memet, C. Farland.

Boston Workers Will Hold May Day Meeting

BOSTON, April 24.—Representatives of over 17 organizations meeting on the initiative of the Upholsterers Union have unanimously decided to demonstrate on May Day for the release of Sacco and Vanzetti and in demand for "Hands off China, Nicaragua, and Mexico."

The demonstration will be held at Scenic Auditorium, Berkeley Street and Warren Avenue, Sunday, May 1st at 2 o'clock sharp. The committee planned originally to engage Boston Common for this purpose, but the permit was not secured.

The workers of Boston are invited to attend the Joint May Day Celebration demonstration against war and for the release of Sacco and Vanzetti.

Rank and File Worker Writes His Opinions Of The Union Fight

Many letters are received daily by the Joint Defense and Relief Committee of Sacco and Vanzetti. The following letter is typical of many of them.

Dear Comrades: I am herewith enclosing a check for One Dollar. Only one dollar for the defense and relief of our comrades and their families, Cloakmakers and Furriers.

I am very sorry that at present I can't afford more, as I am ashamed to contribute only one dollar, although I donated one dollar to the Honor Roll of the Bazaar Journal, and so many more may have to give and will give its only a miserable amount for the cause for which our comrades are struggling and suffering.

By Solidarity.

I believe its the duty of every class conscious worker to help to free our militant comrades from the clutches of American Justice. United we must stand to retard the advance of the bureaucrats of the A. F. of L. and their corrupt-like lieutenants in crushing the movement of the progressives. United we must stand to show the Sigmans, Wolls, Schachtmans and Greens and their like, that in solidarity is our power, and repent them steadily and unceasingly that the day of justice is coming when the American proletariat will be able to distinguish between his friends and enemies, and will clean his mind from pestilence, gansterism and fascism. Yours for solidarity and freedom unconditionally for our international proletariat.—Jack Bespalow.

Fung Sing Quong Tours With Biedenkapp

Fung Sing Quong and F. G. Biedenkopp will tour together under the auspices of the International Workers Aid, speaking on "Hands Off Revolutionary China" and "Hands Off Soviet Russia," at the following halls:

Tuesday, April 26th—Perkins Auditorium, Corner West Exchange and Bowery St., Akron, Ohio.

Wednesday, April 27th—Canton Music Hall, 810 Tuscarawas St., Canton, Ohio.

Thursday, April 28th—Turner Hall, 3019 Maraine Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

Friday, April 29th—Workers Club Room, 368 East Federal St., Youngstown, Ohio.

Sunday, May 8th—2:30 P. M. Labor Institute Hall, 802 Locust St., Philadelphia, Pa.

F. G. Biedenkapp, the Executive Secretary of the International Workers' Aid has recently returned from a European tour which included Russia, and will speak on the situations in that country. He will tell of the imperialist conspiracies to destroy Russia.

Mr. Fung Sing Quong is a staunch supporter of Sun Yet Sen and an outstanding member of the Kuomintang. He is very eager to acquaint the American people with the backgrounds facts of the Chinese Revolution.

Armour Suspension Favored by Senate

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 24.—The Illinois Senate today adopted a resolution recommending to the Chicago Board of Trade that all officers connected with the Armour grain company be suspended.

DRAMA

Social Reformer's Viewpoint

"Rutherford and Son" Has Ruskin Slant on Industry

Reviewed by HARBOR ALLEN.

"Rutherford and Son" was written ten years ago, but it seems much older. It seems to date back to the days of Ruskin, when sensitive Englishmen were beginning to discover what a monster was industrialism. They shuddered at its ruthlessness; they railed at its ugliness; they berated its crimes; they wept because it made slaves of its victims and tyrants of its masters. But they didn't know what to do with it. All you could do, they thought, was bemoan the lost beauty of the English town and the English countryside, like Ruskin, or run away from it.

Githa Sowerby, the author of "Rutherford and Son," produced by the Lenox Hill Players at the Grove St. Theatre, has her people run away from it. Yet there is no running away from Industrialism. It gets its people, in a fine scene at the end of the play, the young mother sells her infant son to "Rutherford's."

People in the Village.

What makes this "industrial drama" so nasty is its forgetting even to mention the plight of labor. Workmen in the smelting plant of "Rutherford and Son" are talked of vaguely as "those people down in the village." Theirs is even held to be an enviable lot compared to the fate of the people in the master's house on the hill. Only one workman, Martin, the tool of his boss, the trusted subordinate who bends before Rutherford as before his God, is sketched. Only one workwoman appears: drunk, the mother of a thief, a gossip, a repulsive figure.

As for old Rutherford himself, you can't help liking him for all his harshness. He is the one man in the play, a titan. The rest are weaklings, damning their fate, yielding before Rutherford's tyranny, afraid to face him, puppets made of jelly who shiver when he shouts. Put a few class-conscious workers in "Rutherford and Son" and the spell would be gone. The tyrant would then be only a limpan Mussolini with a second lieutenant's voice, a starched shirt, and a sawdust bosom.

Social Reform.

No, "Rutherford and Son" was never written by any one with real feeling for the worker. Here is the social reformer's point of view, the philanthropic liberal. Industrialism is dreadful, yes. It robs people of what belongs to them; it makes men hard, unscrupulous; it causes separate lovers. Old Rutherford sacrifices everything for his plant: he steals one son's invention, he drives another son away, he makes a drudge of his daughter, he fires his most trusted worker, he buys the life of his grandson that the plant may live. You must feel pity for the people in the big house on the hill, smothered and twisted by a power-mad monster. But what are you going to do about it? Nothing. Run away if you can.

The answer? Well, you can't expect anything from him. He's either a weakling or a sot.

Githa Sowerby was several decades behind the times when she wrote "Rutherford and Son." And we've come a long way since.

VIOLET KEMBLE COOPER

In the Frederick Lonsdale comedy "On Approval," at the Bronx Opera House this week.

Broadway Briefs

Two new openings are listed for this evening. "The Circus Princess," which opens at the Winter Garden and "Hit the Deck" at the Belasco Theatre.

A new group called "Our Players," are planning a cooperative theatre, to follow on the lines of such an organization in Berlin with a large membership, and have rented the Grove Street Theatre the week of May 9th, where they will present a bill of one-act plays. The present bill consists of, "Marching Men," by James Henry O'Brien; "Divertimes," by Alice Gerstenberg, and "Flamplight," by Mrs. Robert Breen.

"The Stork Is Dead" a new musical play will open at the Selwyn theatre May 2, presented by Paul Trebitsch and Charles H. Abramson. Edward A. Poulton adopted the book from a foreign libretto, and Vincent Youmans, furnished the lyrics and music. Gertrude Vanderbilt, Victor Morley and Stanley Ridges are the chief players.

The Spanish Art Theatre of Martinez Sierra will begin a three week's season of plays in Spanish at the Forrest Theatre on May 2.

AMUSEMENTS

Theatre Guild Acting Company in
THE SECOND MAN
GUILD THEA. W. 52 St. Evs. 8:45
Mats. Thurs. and Sat. 2:15
Next Week: Pygmalion

RIGHT YOU ARE
IF YOU THINK YOU ARE
GARRICK 65 W. 35 St. Evs. 8:30
Mats. Thurs. and Sat. 2:30
Next Week—Mr. Pim Passes By

THE SILVER CORD
John Golden 58-59 W. 58 St. Evs. 8:40
Mats. Thu. & Sat. 2:40
Next Week—Ned McCobb's Daughter

WALLACK'S West 42nd Street.
Evs. 8:40
Mats. Tues., Wed., Thurs. and Sat.
What Anne Brought Home
A New Comedy Drama

EARL CARROLL Vanities
Earl Carroll Thea., 7th Ave. & 50th St.
Mats. Thurs. & Sat. 2:30

MARTIN BECK THEATRE, 45 St. & 8 Ave. Evs. 8:30
Mats. Wed. and Sat.
JED HARRIS Presents a Drama
'SPREAD EAGLE'

Chinese Speaker at Pittsburgh May Day Celebration Meeting

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 24.—A big mass meeting is being arranged in the Pittsburgh district for May 1st, at the Labor Lyceum, 55 Miller St., Sunday, May 1st, 2 P. M. There will be a Chinese speaker at the meeting who will speak on important events in the nationalist movement which is now sweeping China. Besides this, there will be other speakers such as Alexander Bittelman and W. J. White, member of the C.E.C. of the Workers Party, also speakers in foreign languages and Young Workers League and Pioneer speakers. The admission is free.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN
TWICE DAILY, 2 P.M & 8 P.M.
RINGLING BROS. and BARNUM & BAILEY CIRCUS
SACRED WHITE ELEPHANT
TICKETS at Garden, Box Office & 26th St. Box Office 8 A.M. to 10 P.M. and at Agencies.

Civic Repertory Co. 14 St. & 6 Av. Tel. Watkins 7740.
EVA LE GALLIENNE
Tonight: THE CRADLE SONG
Tomorrow Eve.: JOSEPH AND HIS BRETHREN

Bronx Opera House 149th St. near 3rd Ave. Pop. Prices. Mat. Wed. & Sat.
"ON APPROVAL"
with James Rennie & Chester Morris.

TIMES SQ. 42 St. W. of B'way. Evs. 8:40
Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2:30
CRIME
with James Rennie & Chester Morris.

The LADDER
with Florence Eldridge
WALLACK'S, 50th St. East of B'way. Mats. Wed. and Sat.

East Pittsburgh to Hold May Day Meet

EAST PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 24.—A May Day Celebration will be held by the workers of this city on Saturday, April 30, 7:30 P. M. at the Workers Home, Electric and North Ave.

Alex Bittelman, member of the Central Executive Committee of the Workers Party, will be the main speaker. Anna Sidak will speak for the Pioneers and there will also be a Young Workers League speaker.

Don't Hold Certificates. Send 'Em In!

Fifty thousand One Dollar Certificates on the 400,000 Fund Roll Call Drive for needle trades defense have been mailed out to workers. Don't hold these certificates. Put them in the return envelope with a one dollar bill and mail to the defense committee office. In a few days you will receive the same certificate sealed, accompanied by an official Certificate Receipt.

Read The Daily Worker Every Day.

Employers' Ass'n Call for New War Against Unionism

CHICAGO, (FP)—April 24.—Absolutely stonyhearted and impervious to friendly advances by American trade union leadership, the openshop National Founders Ass'n. is distributing to its members from the general office in Chicago a circular letter (No. 431) charging that the union offers of cooperation are traps for unwary employers.

Keep Labor Asleep.

"Unionism is merely sleeping and ready to awaken at the opportune moment," declares president Wm. H. Barr in the letter. "The way to keep it asleep is to reduce its power by making the open shop universal in these United States.

"In these days of comparative peace between industry and labor there is likely to be a feeling that futuro trouble is impossible. Any such feeling is dangerous because the unions are merely playing possum. Nothing has happened to change the spots of unionism. The purpose of unionism is just the same as it was 10 years ago."

Recognizing that unions are the natural support of the oppressed and exploited worker, Barr suggests that unions might be made unnecessary if the boss would show that he has a heart. "It should not be left for a worker to go to his union for help or to go to an outsider who may have unionistic tendencies," he explains. "He should be able to regard his employer as his friend."

Interest in Politics.

In order to overlook no bets Barr further proposes that every employee take a profound interest in politics. With complete acumen he lays down the principle.

"It is not a question of republican or democrat. It has to do with the selection of men for public office with a sympathetic attitude toward the difficulties of industry. No man engaged in industry can assert that he has not a vital interest in the next presidential campaign. Industry needs government aid and not political antagonism. Just at this time politics has much to do with business at least in a general way."

No mention is made of particular candidacies.

FARMERS

STARVED COTTON FARMERS BEGIN NEW YEAR WITH NO PROSPECT OF BETTER CONDITIONS

By NORMAN SILBER.

The starved cotton farmers in the South are entering into another year of thankless toil to produce an ever increasing surplus of cotton which can be taken from them and used as a weapon to continue their bondage. Government advice to the farmer has been to "reduce cotton acreage" but the advice was not followed by the "boys" this summer. Simply telling farmers to plant less cotton cannot solve the problem. What should replace it?

With the advent of the boll weevil a good many cotton producing sections hail to abandon the idea of raising the staple altogether. The entire coastal plain section is now engaged in raising truck. The fertile soil and moderate climate and rainfall are very helpful factors to aid in raising the vegetables but marketing them is quite another kind of a problem.

Marketing Big Problem.

Vegetables must be marketed just as soon as they become ripe enough for market and they cannot be held over. When a certain vegetable first appears for the season, it brings top notch prices, and the farmers who market their crops a week or two ahead of the rest can realize a small fortune in a single season. But a week later, there is an epidemic of the same vegetable and all the rest of the farmers lose money on it.

There are some highly improved truck farms with expensive irrigation systems and arrangements for protecting early crops from late spring frosts. These farms are valued at $1,000 an acre and are owned by wealthy planters who exploit the native population in every conceivable manner. They are in position to plant a crop and gather it from three to four weeks ahead of the smaller farmers whose farms are not so expensively improved and the rich planter can therefore receive the best prices for his vegetables while the smaller farmers invariably lose money on every crop they plant.

Big Farmer Control Shipments.

The cooperative marketing association can also manipulate shipments to the advantage of the rich planter. For instance, suppose that in a certain locality there are two cars of lettuce ready for shipment and that the local representative of the co-operative marketing association places them. He can ship the rich man's lettuce to Boston and the poor man's lettuce to Baltimore. Boston with its Yankee element and the consequent demand of lettuce for salads is a very good market while Baltimore with its large foreign element uses comparatively little lettuce. In this way the poor man's lettuce can be kept out of the desirable markets. Truck is not a dependable salvation for the cotton farmer as can readily be seen from the wretched poverty which prevails in the truck raising sections.

Raising of live stock cannot solve the immediate problem as cotton acreage reduction either, and tobacco raising and curing requires a complicated technique which cotton farmers generally lack. Besides, the tobacco farmers are not much better off than are those who raise cotton. A farmer who finds himself equipped to do nothing but raise cotton, who must have money or credit upon which to live, and who can borrow that money only by placing a lien on a crop of cotton which he promises to raise, will continue to raise cotton. At the end of the year he finds that he cannot pay his debts and has nothing left upon which to live, so he borrows again wherever he can, places a mortgage on a crop of cotton again which he agrees to raise.

Bigger Debts.

What are the results? Unpaid debts mounting higher and higher every year. Failures of merchants and banks all over the South. Unceasing dissatisfaction and despair on every hand, and in some sections deterioration of entire communities.

The farmer does not realize that every bale of cotton raised is sold thirty times on the New York stock exchange. Neither does he realize that in grading cotton alone he is being cheated out of forty percent of the market price. Cotton is always off grade when the farmer sells it but the mills make first grade cloth from it.

May Day Meeting In Boston To Be Used For Sacco-Vanzetti

(Special To The DAILY WORKER.)

BOSTON, April 24.—Freedom for Sacco and Vanzetti will be the chief slogan at this year's May Day meeting which may be held on the Commons. It was also decided by the arrangement committee to bring forward the question of the withdrawal of American troops from China, Nicaragua and Mexico as an important point at the demonstration.

The committee in charge was appointed at a meeting where representatives of the Workers (Communist) Party, the socialist party, trade unions and labor fraternal organizations were present.

The next meeting of the United May Day conference will be held Wednesday, April 27 at the Upholsterers union headquarters, 92 Leverett St. All organizations desiring to participate in the demonstration should communicate with Carl Appel of the Upholsters union.

* * *

A large delegation, representing trade unions and fraternal organizations, has adopted plans looking toward a national conference to help save the lives of Sacco and Vanzetti, at the Labor Temple, 243 East 84th St., New York.

Called by the Sacco-Vanzetti Emergency Committee, the delegates passed a resolution calling upon complete unity in the work of helping to free the two framed-up workers now facing death in the electric chair.

Enthusiastic support was given to the decision to join with other groups in New York City for the purpose of calling a local general strike in protest against the threatened execution of the two men. In order to have united and simultaneous action with respect to the stoppage of work, a committee was appointed to work in harmony with other groups in the city who have initiated plans for the strike.

More Demonstrations Urged.

Additional protest demonstrations in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti, similar to the one held in Union Square last Saturday, at which 20,000 workers protested the decision of the Massachusetts courts, were urged by the delegates.

The immediate selection of a committee representing organized labor in this city to call upon Gov. Fuller of Massachusetts was decided upon as one of the first steps in the campaign to free the two framed-up workers.

CO-OPERATIVES

RELATIONS BETWEEN CO-OPERATIVES OF SOVIET UNION AND OTHER COUNTRIES STEADILY IMPROVE

The nature and extent of the relations between the Centrosoyus (the central organization of Consumers Cooperatives in the Soviet Union) and foreign cooperative organizations may be seen from the following.

BRITAIN.—The connections with the British co-operatives were established in 1922, and with the exception of 1925-26 the business relations were continually increasing.

Here are the turn-over figures of the business done between the Centrosoyus and the British co-operatives.

1922-23	£28,602
1923-24	115,319
1924-25	416,851
1925-26	121,925
First 5 months of 1926-27	603,604

The drop in the turn-over in 1925-26 may be explained by the following two causes: On the one hand the Centrosoyus stopped exporting butter, which the British co-operatives bought in 1925 to the value of £187,455, and on the other hand to the sharp drop in the U. S. S. R. imports of commodities of consumption in connection with the decision of the Soviet government to secure a favorable trade balance.

Great British Credit.

The extent of credit granted by the British Wholesale Co-operative Society is on an average 80% of the transactions, on a trun, as a rule, of six months.

The transactions of the Centrosoyus with the British co-operatives in 1925-26 comprised the purchase of the following commodities of consumption (in round figures):

Textiles	to the value of	£10,000
Rice	"	"	"	40,000
Herrings	"	"	"	13,000
Tea	"	"	"	13,000
Yarn	"	"	"	10,000
Miscellaneous	"	"	"	5,925

The turnover of 1926-27 is again reaching former dimensions, and there is even a tendency of surpassing them. Thus, during the five months of 1926-27 the Centrosoyus has already purchased from the British co-operatives the following:

Tea	to the value of	£401,680
Herrings	"	"	"	189,690
Yarn	"	"	"	8,871
Yarn	"	"	"	8,871
Miscellaneous	"	"	"	3,350

One of the shortcomings in the relations between the Centrosoyus and the British co-operatives may be considered the complete absence of the sale of Soviet exported goods through the British co-operatives. All exported goods are sold on the British market, but not through the co-operatives.

* * *

GERMANY.—In spite of the unfavorable conditions, the Soviet co-operatives made attempts to establish business relations with the German co-operatives, and as a result, the Centrosoyus sold, through the German co-operatives, two carloads of eggs to the value of $1,127.

Apart from the Hamburg Wholesale Society, the Centrosoyus established relations with the Workers' and Employes Bank, through which the Centrosoyus financed its purchases and exports of fur to the value of 1,050 German marks.

* * *

FRANCE.—The Centrosoyus purchased from the French Wholesale Co-operative Society 12 tons of salts of lemon to the value of £1,480 and 200 tons of white resin to the value of £6,342. All goods were bought on credit for six months. A party of combs was purchased from the Workers' Co-operative on terms of three to four months credit, without any guarantees.

* * *

BELGIUM.—The Centrosoyus purchased from the "Textile Belge" which is controlled by the Belgian Workers' Co-operative Bank, textiles to the value of £36,701.

* * *

OTHER CO-OPERATIVES. In 1925-26 the Centrosoyus established business relations with the Swedish, Austrian, Czecho-Slovakian, and Esthonian co-operatives. It is true that these relations have been in some cases too significant to be worth speaking of (the Esthonian co-operatives, for instance), but nevertheless we must hail them as the first steps towards the further development of business between the Soviet and the foreign co-operatives.

* * *

SWEDEN.—The Centrosoyuz purchased the following goods through the Swedish Central Co-operative Alliance, the "Verbund": Mincing Machines to the value of £2,906; Primuses to the value of £3,420.

All orders were accepted by the "Verbund" on the basis of six months credit.

* * *

AUSTRIA.—In 1925-26 the Centrosoyuz purchased from the Austrian Wholesale Co-operative Society, on the basis of 100% credit, a party of primuses to the value of £4,540 and primus burners to the value of £7,526.

* * *

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA. — The Centrosoyuz bought textiles through the Czech Wholesale Co-operative Society to the value of £10,524.

* * *

MONGOLIA.—The Centrosoyus has established business relations with the Mongolian co-operatives not for this first time this year, and it should be observed that there business relations are increasing from year to year. The relations with the Mongolian co-operatives may be divided into three parts:

1st. The supply to the Mongolian co-operatives of goods coming from the Chinese markets (primarily from Harbin)—the turnover in this sphere amounted to £9,248 during the year. Goods were purchased by the Centrosoyus on order of the Ulianbator Co-operative Society on the Harbin market and delivered to Ulan Bator Khoton.

* * *

1st. The purchase of goods on the Mongolian market—in this respect the Centrosoyus realized on the American market (in New York) a party of 58,631 skins of various kinds of Mongolian fur, purchased from the Mongolian Central People's Co-operative, to the aggregate value of £22,319.

1st. The financing of the "Montsenoop". The Centrosoyuz obtained during the year for this purpose, foreign credits for the Montsenoop for the purchase of furs, in money, to the amount of £10,694.

Dividing the total turnover according to the nature of purchases, sales and commission transactions, we will arrive at the following figures:

The Centrosoyus purchased from the foreign co-operatives goods to the value of £201,309.

The Centrosoyus sold to the foreign co-operatives goods to the value of £1,929.

Commission operations of the Centrosoyuz for the foreign cooperatives, £28,267.

Jewish Labor Party of Poland Says It Favors Amnesty for Workers

WARSAW, April 24.—The Central Committee of the Jewish Labor Party "Bund" has addressed itself to the Interparty Amnesty Committee with the proposal for joint action in order to bring about an amnesty for the political prisoners in Poland. There can hardly be a better proof of the raging white terror in Poland than this proposal of the Jewish Bund, which did not want to do anything with the revolutionary movement, but feels compelled now to move its right of existence. It was natural that the Interparty Committee answered the proposal of the Bund by stating that the Committee had always been in favor of joint action of the working class for amnesty in Poland.

WHITHER RUSSIA—
Toward Capitalism or Socialism
Leon Trotsky

An extraordinarily timely discussion of the tendencies in Russia's internal and international policy as affecting its economic development. Trotsky, in his well-known brilliant and incisive style, analyzes a question that has been the outstanding problem before the Soviet government.

Cloth bound—$1.50

MY FLIGHT FROM SIBERIA—
By Leon Trotsky

A new edition of the famous story.

Attractively board-bound—$ .25

EDUCATION IN SOVIET RUSSIA Scott Nearing

A first-hand account of aims and methods of education in the Soviet republic.

Cloth bound—$1.50
Paper— .50

DAILY WORKER PUB. CO.
33 First Street New York

Striking Plumbers Helpers Decide to Continue Struggle

At a packed meeting of some fifteen hundred members of the American Association of Plumbers' Helpers held at the Church of All Nations, which was addressed by J. F. Walsh, the organizer, and C. E. Miller, the president of the organization, it was decided to continue the strike in Brooklyn.

It was announced that the independent bosses are offering to the helpers $6.00 per day, this is a considerable gain as the average wage of the plumbers' helpers was $4.00 per day.

"The fact that the independent employers, in other words, helpers are willing to pay them $6.00 per days shows that we have won a first victory," said Miller. "But the only way the employers can show that they are willing to pay a decent wage is by signing an agreement with us. A signed agreement with the union is the only thing that will guarantee improved conditions."

Will Fight For Lockout.

In regard to the possible lockout, Miller said, "It is unfortunate that the employers should resort to this desperate method, nevertheless, they will not find us unprepared."

James F. Walsh, the organizer, said, "We have helped the Brooklyn plumbers in their just fight for improved conditions. We are going to help the other journeymen in their attack of the employers. We will not permit any helpers in any locked out shop to do the work of the locked out journeymen. We will strike in sympathy with locked out plumbers. We are making preparations to unionize the helpers who are still outside of our ranks. We are calling a special mass meeting for Tuesday evening, April 26, at the Church of All Nations."

* * *

Pensions Conference May 28.

PHILADELPHIA, April 24 (FP).—A national conference for consideration of immediate steps to win old age pensions in the several states has been called for May 28 in Philadelphia by the American Assn. for Old Age Security. Bishop Etheldert Talbot, of Bethlehem, is president of the association, and Abraham Epstein of Harrisburg is executive secretary.

One of the chief matters for discussion at this conference will be the financing of the fight for adoption of a constitutional amendment by the Pennsylvania legislature—defeated in the lower house in the last session by the Mellon-Grundy combine—permitting the pensioning of aged and destitute industrial workers in this state.

May Day Celebration For Grand Rapids

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—April 24. International May Day will be celebrated here Sunday evening, May 1, at the Workmen's Circle Temple, 345 Mt. Vernon, N. W., An attractive program is being arranged.

Farm Labor Movement Gains in Minneapolis; Plan Northwest Confab

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 24.—With the municipal election campaign under way, the Farmer-Labor movement daily gives new evidences of increasing vigor, promising well for the 1928 Presidential campaign. The Minneapolis ward units hold regular, well-attended meetings, and frequent conferences of the Public Affairs Committee takes place, where various activities are planned.

A state convention has been set for two days before Labor Day in September, and there are possibilities that a Northwest Conference of the Farmer-Labor Association will be held simultaneously, when it is expected that a record delegation will attend to perfect plans for the 1927-1928 seasons.

Active encouraging is the interest being shown by the trade union movement and by workers' economic organisations of all kinds, as well as by the various farmers' cooperative clubs, etc. Numerous applications for affiliation with the Farmer-Labor Association are reported still pouring in from Workers Clubs, Hall Associations, Workmen Circles and farmers' cooperatives. Many trade unions invite speakers on the Farmer-Labor movement to their meetings and good discussions are held. And on the other hand, the offirial Farmer-Labor movement is interesting itself in all affaire which concern the workers and farmers of the state and nationally.

A recent meeting of the Hennepin County Committee passed a resolution protesting the unjust conviction of Sacco and Vanzetti, which was forwarded to the Governor of Massachusetts, and many ward locals have sent regular delegates to the Conference Against Intervention in Mexico, Nicaragua and China, formed here recently to protest against the imperialist maneuvers of the government in foreign countries, especial interest being manifest in the Chinese struggle.

At this writing, word comes of a HANDS OFF CHINA meeting which is being held under the joint auspices of the Twelfth Ward Farmer-Labor Club and the Conference Against Intervention in Mexico, Nicaragua and China this Tuesday, April 19th.

Jobs Scarce, Wages Low as Depression Hits Middle West

ST. PAUL, April 24 (FP).—Sending up signals of serious distress, the Minnesota labor movement is publicly urging all workers to keep away from the cities of the state and to pay no heed to an apparent conspiracy by the capitalist newspapers and the federal employment service to increase the suffering there due to unemployment.

"Severe unemployment conditions exist in Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth, the three principal cities of the state," says Secretary George W. Lawson, Minnesota State Federation of Labor. "The stories of prosperity in the daily newspapers and the erroneous reports of employment conditions in these cities broadcasted by the U. S. department of labor's employment bureau are making matters worse. Instead of prosperity we have the worst period of depression that has been known."

Lawson wants his warnings to be heard not only by city workers elsewhere, but also by the farmers and their sons, who have been crowding in from the country since the Coolidge era deflated agriculture.

"We realize the scope of the agricultural depression and that thousands are compelled to leave the farms and seek employment in the cities. But it is difficult to understand how the conditions of the people in the farming districts can be improved by coming to the cities under present conditions."

Wages of skilled workers in Minnesota cities are as low as those of unskilled workers in Chicago and elsewhere, Lawson observes, adding that thousands of union workers have been forced to leave St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth in search of jobs.

"The newspapers grossly distort the real conditions," he concludes. "They print stories telling of the construction two and three times over of buildings that have been built. Unemployment and destitution are the facts, while the stories of industrial prosperity existing in the cities are hazy dreams."

10 Per Cent For Twice As Much.

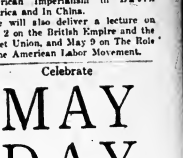
NEW YORK.—(FP).—"How to Increase Wages," is the title of the cover page editorial of the American Wool and Cotton Reporter, employers' paper. How to do it? By doubling up on the work, with the multiple loom system, says the Reporter. Twenty-four looms per weaver instead of twelve, and they pay the fellow 10 per cent more.

Swift Butchers in Ore. Strike Against "Bonus" System; Join the Union

PORTLAND, Ore., April 24.—The workers at Swift and Co. Kenton plant have gone on strike, more than 600 strong and joined Butchers' Union, Local 456, which is now conducting the strike.

Dissatisfaction started a week ago with the introduction of a "bonus" system that was used to sperd up the workers.

Less than fifty workers are left in the plant, all the girls also walking out. Only the office workers are left. The strike meetings are being held at Odd Fellows' hall.



Scott Nearing Speaks In Boston.

BOSTON, April 24.—Scott Nearing will "speak Monday April 25, at Lorimer Hall, Tremont Temple on, American Imperialism in Latin America and In China.

He will also deliver a lecture on May 2 on the British Empire and the Soviet Union, and May 9 on The Role of the American Labor Movement.

Celebrate

MAY DAY

With a bundle of the

SPECIAL

of the

DAILY WORKER

on May Day a Special Issue of the Daily Worker will be issued.

ORDER A BUNDLE

There will be special articles in the world labor; special articles and photographic.

ORDER A BUNDLE

A whole section will be devoted to greetings to the world of labor from individual workers and from working class organizations.

ORDER A BUNDLE

This issue should be brought into the hands of thousands of workers. Order a bundle for yourself to give away and be sure to order a bundle.

FOR YOUR MAY DAY MEETING.

Special Bundle rate:

$2.50 A HUNDRED

—RUSH—

THE DAILY WORKER
33 First St., New York

Enclosed $ ... for ... copies of the MAY DAY Special Issue.

Name .....

Street .....

City ..... State .....

Violin and Viola Lessons

Given by expert teacher.

For reasonable rates, write to

JOHN WEINROTH

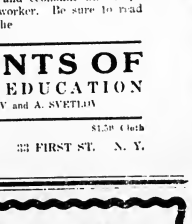
8138 LARCHWOOD AVENUE,

Phone Tenante 7222, Philadelphia, Pa.

The BOOK

Containing the political and economic knowledge so necessary for every worker. Be sure to read —and to re-read often the

ELEMENTS OF POLITICAL EDUCATION



By A. BREDNIKOV and A. SVETLOV

$1.00 Paper $1.50 Cloth

THE DAILY WORKER 33 FIRST ST. N. Y.

strike a blow for labor subscribe to THE DAILY WORKER

The National Labor Daily

Name .....

Address .....

City ..... State .....

Subscription rates: one year—$6.00 six months—$3.00 three months—$1.50
Outside New York one year—$8.00 six months—$4.00 three months—$2.00

Enclose cash, check or money order with subscription. Mail to The Daily Worker, 33 First Street, New York City. A copy of Red cartoons of 1927 free with each annual subscription

The Policies of John L. Lewis Have Set the Coal Miners Back Many Years

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

AT Sea, Aboard United States Liner, President Roosevelt, Wednesday, April 6. (By Mail from Plymouth, England)—Coming on board today, I took along copies of the recognized New York morning capitalist dailies. Among them were the Times, the Herald-Tribune, The World, and one of the tabloids, The Evening Graphic.

I have scanned them all carefully, thru all of their pages, but I have failed to discover one word about the subject in which I am most interested at the moment, and which should interest the whole American working class, the epochal struggle between the coal miners and the mine owners in the soft coal fields, perhaps one of the most crucial engagements in the whole history of the American class struggle.

* * *

Less than a week has passed since the old agreement between workers and bosses in the bituminous fields expired on March 31, with no new wage contract to take its place, owing to the failure of the Miami Conference to come to an understanding. But already the capitalist press finds no news in this battle for bread that directly concerns 800,000 workers, organized and unorganized in the coal industry, and indirectly the whole working class. I, the miners' union can be smashed, or even crippled in this fight, then the whole American working class, organized and unorganized, is affected.

I have before me one of the last issues before sailing of our DAILY WORKER, Tuesday April 5th, and it tells of a prospective conference of the Coal Operators (Owners) Association of Illinois, which employs some 72,000 men, to be held at St. Louis with "no hopes or settling the strike." Similar distrect gatherings of mine owners are being held elsewhere, at this writing, with equally futile promises of results. When John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, announced that district and local settlements would be permitted following the breakdown of the Joint conference in the Central Competitive Field (Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Western Pennsylvania), he confessed to the weakness that the miners' union has developed under his reactionary regime. Lewis pushed back the miners' union, in the fight for power in the industry, practically 20 years, to 1898, when he broke the front of the mine workers army and announced that separate agreements would be permitted. It was in 1898 that the miners' union first became strong enough to force the mine owners into the Interstate Joint Conference and develop the struggle on something resembling a national scale. With the beginning of the century, unity and discipline were being established by tortuous struggle among the mine workers, through the industry. In these early years of the second quarter of the century, President Lewis and the red-baiting regime of which he is the head, has brought chaos into the ranks of the mine workers, creating an outlook darker than at any time since the panic of 1893 nearly destroyed the beginnings of the union just taking root, and giving promise of growth.

The struggle for nation-wide action on the part of mine workers constitutes the history of the miners' union. No wonder that Arthur E. Suffern begins his book entitled "The Coal Miners' Struggle for Industrial Status" with the declaration:

"The ability of organized workmen in the basic industries to tie up the whole economic system is a comparatively recent phenomenon. THERE IS SOMETHING OMINOUS IN THE FACT THAT MEN IN SUCH NUMBERS CAN MAINTAIN UNANIMITY OF ACTION."

* * *

The writer still had in mind the brilliant struggles of the coal miners since the war, when unity was developed on a broader front than ever before, only to be broken by the now historic declaration of President Lewis that, "I cannot fight the government." The present difficult situation that confronts the coal miners is but the logical development of the reign of treason of John L. Lewis, that this year sends the mine workers in squads and depleted ranks against the well-organized regiments of millions of the mine owners in perhaps the most affluent year that American capitalism has ever enjoyed. At least the profit showing, for the first three months of the year indicate that the record totals of wealth stolen from labor last year are being outstripped by the passing months of 1925.

The sun smiles only on that faction of the National Coal Association of mine owners that expects "the union shall be permanently beaten out of or some day be uprooted from, at least, their section of the industry."

* * *

The object of this series of articles will be to review the history of the efforts of the coal miners to build their organization, a study of the factors that have contributed to the strengthening or the weakening of the organization, and the inferences that can be drawn in their application to the present struggle.

Even the most ill-informed coal miner must realize that the union is on the wrong track, that it is headed "hell bent" toward destruction under the Lewis policies, which are the policies of the mine owners and not of the mine workers.

Take, for instance, the fact that only a few non-union miners in West Virginia are out in support of the present struggle, whereas, in 1919 enough non-union miners responded to the call to struggle for better conditions, higher wages and a shorter workday to cut off 72 per cent of the national bituminous production.

Years that are rich, like 1926, for the capitalists, usually give some favorable opportunities for organization work among the unorganized toiling masses. But the Lewis administration was an inactive during 1926 in the mining industry, as the Green regime in the American Federation of Labor was idle generally thruout all industry in seizing this favorable opportunity to build the power of labor against the sea sons of depression and inevitable unemployment.

* * *

Instead of a militant and growing army of mine workers, challenging the mine owners, we find the "Magna Carta of Wall Street" gloating over the fact that today the open shop mines are producing the bulk of the coal. It says that, "Alabama, for example, went up from 19,930,184 tons in 1924 to 22,356,000 tons in 1925; Kentucky from 56,127,810 to 47,986,000, and West Virginia from 101,662,807 to 147,200,000 tons, while corresponding increases were shown in other non-union territory and balancing decreases in the union strongholds." When the militants in the union point out these facts they are denounced as "reds" and "Bolsheviks" and charged with being agents of "Moscow." That is the only remedy offered by Lewis, which is no remedy, but instead the poison of the mine owners.

The Next Article.—Organizing the coal local unions of coal miners in the anthracite field in 1849.

LOCOMOTIVE 'BLOWN TO PIECES'

"Blown to pieces" literally expresses the fate of a powerful freight locomotive on the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad near Salem, Ill. Three trainmen were instantly killed.

Who is Behind the Prosecution of the Militant Needle Trades Workers?

Who Are Matthew Woll's Fellow Conspirators?

They Are Leaders of the National Civic Federation!

Woll is Acting President of the Labor Hating Civic Federation.

T. Coleman duPont

T. Coleman duPont is a scion of the well-known "powder and dynamite" family, which owns all of New Jersey, except the marshes and mosquitoes, and a member of the Civic Federation executive board. The workers employed in the highly hazardous and unhealthy occupation of making explosives are prevented from organizing and are miserably underpaid.

Known Corporation Connections.

DuPont & Dunham, Inc., V. Pres. and Director.
Empire Safe Deposit Co., Director.
Empire Trust Co., Chairman of the Board of Directors.
Equitable Office Building Corporation, Chairman of the Board of Dir.
General Refractories Co., Director.
Greeley Square Hotel Co., Vice President and Director.
Industrial Finance Corporation, Director.
Morris Plan of New York, The Director.
National Surety Co., Director.
Thompson-Starrett Co., Director.
Waldorf Astoria, Inc., Director.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

Enjoys Reading The Daily Worker

Editor, The Daily Worker:—The Daily Worker is for laboring people, and I would like to see it on sale at the newsstands here in Burlington. I have missed my paper since my return home two weeks ago and would like to be able to buy it here.

Have saved all the D.W. that I bought last winter in another city, and on showing them to friends and neighbors here, it is a paper that should receive the support of every laborer in the country.

* * *

Conditions in Los Angeles

Editor, The Daily Worker:—Have just made a tour of the employment offices and I would judge that there is at least 10 million unemployed, maybe not that many, but there certainly are a lot and very few jobs.

I am a carpenter and just came off a railroad job where I was layed off for not joining a company union for which they deducted $7.00 from your pay check. The foreman on the job is the organizer.

There were several jobs on the slave market this morning and in examination to the above mentioned unemployed I will name over some of them. Carpenter $2.00 and $4.00, that's per day, not hour; ranch hand $20.00 per month; married track driver $4.00 a day, must be husky. Gardner $50 per month; nellen, 70 cents, $60 a month; dishwashers $5 to $15 per week and a few more to any letter, and they want all the way from $2 to $5 for such jobs.

I also saw a job at the free employment office that was responsible for a lot of discussion. The job was, 50 men wanted for Power construction in

HANDS OFF CHINA! WITHDRAW TROOPS AND BATTLESHIPS!

THE DAILY WORKER FIGHTS: FOR THE ORGANIZATION OF THE UNORGANIZED FOR THE 40-HOUR WEEK FOR A LABOR PARTY

THE DAILY WORKER

NATIONAL EDITION

Entered as second-class matter at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Vol. IV. No. 88. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In New York, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside New York, by mail, $6.00 per year. NEW YORK, TUESDAY, APRIL 26, 1927 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 33 First Street, New York, N. Y. Price 3 Cents

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

THE United States government has decided not to join Great Britain and the other powers in sending a joint note to Eugene Chen, threatening reprisals for the Nanking incident, tho it is Chen who should be protesting and not the powers, since for every foreigner killed during the affair it is estimated that one hundred noncombatant Chinese lives were lost. But the mighty will always be righteous if not right.

* * *

THE refusal of Washington to take common action with Great Britain is a severe blow to Downing Street's diplomacy. Of course Coolidge may change his mind, but it was apparent from the beginning that there was a serious division among the American ruling classes over the question of Chinese policy. Some held that this country should make common cause with England and crush the revolution, while others were of the opinion that the United States would be ill advised to pull more of England's chestnuts out of the fire that could be extracted without burning the fingers that expect to handle the dollars that a reborn China can exchange for American goods. Blood may be thicker than water but gold is a consistent metal.

* * *

COINCIDENT with the reported decision of Washington's refusal to jump on England's war wagon comes the news that a strong agitation has been opened in extreme tory circles in London for a resumption of the Anglo-Japanese alliance which was ditched at the Washington conference in consideration of concessions of a naval character made by the United States to England. Now the Britons are of the opinion that the wily Yankees are as clever at diplomacy as they are at trade and that in return for their generosity in showing Japan the cold shoulder what they got from the United States cannot be translated into cash, credit or good will.

* * *

THE fact is, that despite English-speaking Union orations and professions of undying friendship the outstanding rivals for world commercial supremacy are Great Britain and the United States. Brothers and sisters quarrel over legacies. The instinct of self-preservation makes short work of kinship and tradition and capitalist nations must be always on the alert lest some other "civilized" collection of legalized bandits organized under the glorified name of government, attempt to take away their loot. This is the civilization that the revolutionists are slandered for organizing to get rid of.

* * *

CHIANG-KAI-SHEK has not yet succeeded in forming a government at Nanking. This renegade is evidently discredited among the masses of the people. He is under the instructions of the imperialists and would throw his pretensions of hostility to imperialism overboard immediately if he did not feel that the day he openly made peace with the robber powers would be the day of his complete repudiation by those who followed him while he was leading the revolutionary armies against the northern militarists.

* * *

IT is rather amusing for those who have read the history of the Civil War between North and South in the United States to note the superior air adopted towards the Chinese struggle for independence and national unity by the scribblers of the capitalist press. Those hirelings who get their thinking done for them by their masters, give the impression that the Chinese are different to all other peoples, that they will never be able to unite, that they fight only with money and propaganda and that the main trouble with China is the Chinese population. Slaughter the Chinese and the rest will be easy.

* * *

THE manufacturing elements of our northern states and the planters of the south battled for four years thru the bloodiest war that was then known to modern history and the latter was control of the nation by one ruling class group or the other. Freeing the black slaves was the last cause in the world that a northern capitalist would spend a dollar for. The north won. History and the industrial revolution were on its side. The blacks were freed incidentally, from chattel slavery, and regardless of the fact that they jumped from one form of slavery to another, their condition has improved. But while this war was going on the European nations that happened to be at peace at the time expressed decided opinions that the Yankees were incurably warmad and that peace would never reign between the natives of the then dis-united states.

(Continued on Page Three)

Juror Under Fire

Mrs. Cora Hoffman, one of the jurors in the Ford-Sapiro $1,000,000 libel suit at Detroit, Mich., has denied statements made by Ford's detectives that she talked too freely about the trial. Ford's attorneys sought a mistrial on the basis of the detectives' statements.

INDIANA MINERS UNION OFFICERS MEET OPERATORS

Joint State Conference In Near Future

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., April 25.—An agreement has been reached for a joint state conference of Indiana miners and operators, Harvey Cartwright, President of District No. 11 of the United Mine Workers of America, announced here today.

The date and place of the meeting will be set later today.

This will be the first joint state conference in the central competitive field since the Miami conference.

Strip Miners Will Pay.

The Illinois strip mines have agreed to pay the union scale and operate under a tentative agreement similar to the Jacksonville agreement, which was calculated for underground work.

One of the complaints of the progressive miners in Illinois has always been that the low wage for strip mining allowed far greater production of coal per dollar paid on the pay roll, than was compatible with the necessity of providing for all of the workers in the industry.

No New Agreements Yet.

Aside from the proposed meeting in Indiana, and the secret meetings by which the Illinois strip mine agreement was reached, there is no evidence of any further negotiations at present.

The lock-out continues in force thruout the unionized field, and all along the borders of the field, thru Ohio and Pennsylvania, attempts are made by coal operators to operate non-union.

Picketing Continues.

The Pittsburgh region is the scene of picketing under difficulties by the union miners, as the sheriff in each county forbids pickets to go in groups larger than three, but allows the scab miners to flock to work in as large numbers as there are in this region of this sort of "worker." The pickets are at a manifest disadvantage in their attempt to argue the strike-breakers into quitting their jobs.

The strike in West Virginia continues, tho it is difficult to secure exact figures as to the number of men who are out. U. S. government figures show about one third decrease in coal production in this territory.

* * *

Soft Coal Output 8,000,000 Tons a Week.

CHICAGO, (FP) April 25.—Non-union bituminous mines and the union mines in outlying districts produced a combined tonnage of over 8,000,000 tons a week in the 2 weeks since the beginning of the lockout April 1, the Natl. Coal Assn. reports. The normal soft coal output averages 10,000,000 tons a week but in the feverish production rush preceding the lockout it ranged to over 15,000,000 tons a week.

WORKERS PARTY OFFICE RAIDED BY BOMB SQUAD; SEARCH WORKERS

American Capitalism's Decision to Invade China Seen as One Reason

Workers Party headquarters at 108 East 14th St. were raided yesterday by the bomb squad. Their action is considered here an indication of the growing tension in labor and international affairs. The regular preparation for May Day, with its regular campaign against 'workers' organizations by the police on that day, is seen as part of the reason for the raid, and the evident intention of the Coolidge administration to invade and make war upon China, is part of the reason for raiding the party in America that has resolutely opposed such a war.

Does Police Commissioner Joseph A. Warren, the new chief of the city cops, approve the raid made upon the district headquarters of the Workers Party yesterday?

This was the formal question placed before the commissioner late yesterday in a letter by Joseph R. Brodsky, local attorney.

"The raid by 11 members of the bomb squad was simply outrageous," Brodsky asserted in an interview with The DAILY WORKER.

"Those policemen were violating the very law they are supposed to be upholding," he added. "Without legal warrant for entry and search, they unlawfully entered the Workers Party premises at 108 E. 14th St. and searched occupants and files.

"Would members of the bomb squad raid the headquarters of the Republican or Democratic parties without search warrants—or even with them?

"Or is the bomb squad, and the forces behind that squad which dictate its activities, interested only in persecuting a party of the working masses?"

The raid, a mere farce, for none of the people at the Workers Party headquarters who were "frisked" carried any weapons larger than penknives, in arousing opinion about Warren's attitude toward the advanced section of the labor movement here. Will he follow a purposely "anti-red" policy of using the police force against the workers on the slightest provocation? Or did the bomb squad act without his orders, carrying out the usual pre-May Day "preventive" ?

Chicago Offices Not Raided.

The Chicago offices of the Workers Party had not been raided, inquiries by The DAILY WORKER disclosed. No literature was taken from the New York office. In fact the bomb squadders left when an official began telephoning an attorney.

Special precautionary measures were ordered yesterday by Police Commissioner Warren in anticipation of "possible radical demonstrations on May 1."

Cops For J. P. Morgan.

All public buildings will be guarded and plain clothesmen will be increased in the Wall Street district throughout the week. Special guards also will be given the homes of well known financiers like J. P. Morgan and John D. Rockefeller.

This is the usual "red scare" pulled by the police department of every big city in the country, despite the fact that there have been no political bombings in America since William J. Burns ceased his activities in the Department of Justice.

One well informed business man here, who had formerly been in the Department's service, is authority for the statement that 99 per cent. of the bombings in America were instigated by Burns' agents in order to fatten also will be given the homes of well the coffers of the private detective agencies and make the Department of Justice appropriations larger.

Two Chinese Speakers At May Day Meeting in Cleveland This May 1

CLEVELAND, April 25. — Two Chinese speakers will address the May Day Demonstration arranged by the Workers (Communist) Party, Y. W. L. and Pioneers League. The meeting will be held at the Moose Auditorium, 1000 Walnut Street, on Sunday, May 1, at 2 p. m. Those speakers are J. Y. Jeong, of the Kuomintang, and Miss L. H. Hsieh, of the International Institute.

The other speakers will be James P. Cannon, Libby Sachs of the Young Workers (Communist) League; Vito Koolick of the Pioneers League. I. Amter will act as chairman.

The program will consist of a one-act play, "The Workers Will Decide," given by the Young Workers Dramatic Club, with the cooperation of groups of the dramatic and singing societies, and under the direction of Sadie Amter. The South Slavic and Lithuanian Singing Societies, the Freheit Singing Society, and Children's Choruses will furnish the music. The Finnish Athletic Club will do some athletic stunts.

British Section Anti - Imperialist League Launched

LONDON, April 25.—At a meeting lately held at the House of Commons it was decided to form the British section of the League against Imperialism.

Mr. A. Fenner Brockway was elected Chairman, Mr. George Lansbury M. P., Treasurer, and Mr. R. Bridgeman Provisional Secretary.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

"The British section of the League against Imperialism reaffirms the Resolution adopted at the recent Congress at Brussels in favor of the recognition of the independence and sovereignty of China: demands the withdrawal of all British and Indian forces from China and, if held to be necessary, the evacuation of British nationals from points considered dangerous. Urges the British Labor Movement to consider means of placing an embargo upon the manufacture of war material and its transport to China and urgently calls the attention of the public to the grave danger of war on an extended scale if troops and armaments continue to be poured into China. It calls for immediate negotiations with the Chinese Nationalist Government, believing that a settlement just both to Britain and China can be obtained."

NEWS IN BRIEF

Investigate Mexico Health.

MEXICO CITY, April 25.—Dr. John Terrel, chief of the Pan-American Health Department of the Rockefeller Foundation, arrived here today to investigate health and sanitary conditions.

Navy Blimp Flies.

PENSACOLA, Fla., April 25.—The Los Angeles navy dirigible will leave Pensacola at 8.30 o'clock this afternoon for her home station at Lakehurst, N. J., passing over Mobile and Washington enroute, it was announced today.

The huge dirigible arrived here yesterday afternoon after an uneventful 1,200-mile flight from Lakehurst in 20 hours.

Railroads Squabble.

WASHINGTON, April 25. — The supreme court today declined to review the appeal of the Continental Securities Corporation in an unsuccessful suit to force the New York Central Railroad to surrender control over the Michigan Central.

The appealing corporation, a minority stockholder in the Michigan Central, charged that the New York Central used its majority stock power artificially to depress the earning power of the Michigan Central.

Ashes of Ruthenberg in Red Hall of Comintern; Big Demonstration Today

MOSCOW, April 25.—Representatives of the government of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics and delegations from the Communist International, and local and all-union delegations from the Communist Party of the Soviet Union met J. Louis Engdahl at the station as he arrived in Moscow with the ashes of Comrade Charles E. Ruthenberg. The urn was escorted to the Red Hall of the Communist International where it will remain under guard until Tuesday afternoon when burial ceremonies will take place with a large demonstration in the Red Square.

Mexican Ambassador to Washington Is Back

Don Manuel C. Tellez.

When Ambassador Tellez took a hasty trip recently to Mexico City, all Washington rumor factories predicted he was recalled at the behest of the United States for anti-clericalism and propaganda in favor of the American oil companies paying their Mexican taxes. However, he came back smiling, and since then there have been plenty of developments to justify him. The "stolen" letters episode and the clerical massacre of passengers on the Guadalajara train have turned public opinion in favor of Mexico.

Wall Street's Man, Who Lost the Documents

James Rockwell Sheffield.

James Rockwell Sheffield is the American ambassador at Mexico City. He is the fellow letters, which may have been "stolen" from his office, point to as the agent relied upon by Coolidge and Kellogg to support a reactionary uprising against the present Mexican government. As part of this plot, apparently, the United States now permits arms to be smuggled into Mexico, and priest-led bandit gangs using American rifles have used the opportunity to burn, kill and loot.

MACHADO, PUPPET OF SUGAR TRUST, SILENT ON CUBA

WASHINGTON, April 25 (FP).—Along the two-mile line of parade by which Gerardo Machado, president of Cuba, was escorted from the Washington central station to the Cuban embassy, by way of the temporary White House on Dupont Circle, only eight Cuban flags were displayed. Five of these were shown by embassies and legations.

Police, in raincoats and rain helmets, guarded the doors of the embassy building when the press correspondents, invited to meet Machado, arrived. Military and naval aides, showing yards of gold braid, clanked up the steps with trailing swords. After a wait, the press men were invited up to meet the grand dignitary.

Quiz Machado.

The entrance hall of the Cuban embassy is all shining white marble, with a broad marble staircase leading to the upper landing, and deeply carpeted in crimson. Paintings and statuary add to the process of preparing visitors to bow low and think meekly while on the premises. So there was a dumb silence, at first, when the newspaper men had shaken hands with the Cuban ambassador and with Machado. They lined up before him, with the military and naval aides and other staff personages in file behind their backs. The ambassador blandly distributed a prepared state-

(Continued on Page Two)

POWERS PREPARE HANKOW ATTACK; BRITISH WARSHIPS SHELL CHINESE

Workers Take Swatow as Chiang Outlaws Strikes; Green Blesses Cal's Policy

HIGHLIGHTS OF TODAY'S NEWS

1.—British rush warships, Americans land troops as powers plan attack on Hankow.

2.—British bombard Chinese batteries near Chinkiang. Chinese losses unknown.

3.—Workers' and peasants' unions repulse Chiang's attacks in Swatow and gain control of the city.

4.—Chiang Kai Shek outlaws strikes.

5.—Warships of northern war lords fly Japanese flags. Nationalist Government sends protest to Japanese Legation.

6.—Kellogg denies split among ministers at Peking, admits that the United States is acting jointly with Great Britain and the other imperialist powers.

7.—William Green, president of the Federation of Labor, supports administration's imperialist policy in China.

* * *

HANKOW, April 25.—With two more British warships added to the imperialist fleet at Hankow and with the landing of American marines here Thursday an attack on the Nationalist Government looms closer than ever.

That the British are planning to forcibly reannex their old Hankow concession appeared likely yesterday afternoon when the two British cruisers, the Vindictive and the Carlyle, the largest war vessels that ever navigated the Yangtse, steamed into Hankow harbor with flags flying and bands playing.

Enter, Standard Oil.

The American marines were landed for the ostensible purpose of defending Standard Oil property in the city.

Despite the fact that there are only 114 Britons, 68 Americans, 114 Frenchmen and 46 Italians in the city, more than forty warships are massed in Hankow harbor with their guns trained on the city.

British Bombard Chinese.

British warships, the Mantis, Keppel and Wolsey, bombarded Chinese batteries on the south bank of the Yangtse, near Chinkiang yesterday. Their bombardment is said to have been "effective."

Workers and peasants thruout the Yangtse Valley are organizing groups for the purpose of resisting Chiang Kai Shek's raids. Dispatches from Changsha state that a number of Chiang's troops were killed in their attacks on the peasant unions.

Workers Take Swatow.

Workers' and peasants' unions are reported to have gained control of the city.

Chiang Outlaws Strike.

In an effort to smash the unions, General Chow, subordinate of Chiang Kai Shek, has issued a proclamation outlawing the strike. Chiang is reported to have accepted money from native bankers and industrialists in return for which he is raiding unions and executing labor leaders.

Observers here of the situation believe that Chiang Kai Shek is rapidly drifting towards an open alliance with the northern war lords and is making a bid for the support of the imperialist powers. Marshal Sun Chuan-fang is reported to be seriously considering Chiang's offer to make "Northern Defence Commissioner."

Committees Control Army.

The Nationalist Government has issued a mandate announcing that military affairs on all fronts will be directed by military committees. The object of the mandate is to prevent defections like Chiang Kai Shek's.

Eugene Chen, foreign minister in the Hankow Government, continues his attempt to induce American firms to continue in business at Hankow.

* * *

War Lords Fly Jap Flag.

SHANGHAI, April 25.—The United States gunboat Rizal, four Japanese and two British destroyers are anchored off Swatow.

The Nationalist government has sent a protest to the Japanese Legation claiming that armed northern ships flew the Japanese flag while on a recent visit to Woosung.

* * *

Green Supports Coolidge.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, defends the administration's policy of sending troops and warships to China in a statement made public last night.

"The United States has disavowed any intention of territorial encroachment or the enjoyment of any material advantage in China," the statement says. "It has officially declared its only purpose is to protect American lives and property in China."

Powers Disagree.

There is no split among the ministers at Peking, who are holding conversations as to what steps to take next in regard to the Nanking incident, Secretary of State Kellogg declared today.

He denied reports that American Minister MacMurray had withdrawn from the conferences.

The powers are still in disagreement as to what course to follow in replying to the Chinese notes over the Nanking affair, Kellogg added. Two or three are inclined toward the American view, he said, but he refused to state the cause of disagreement.

U. S. Drift Towards War.

The United States is rapidly drifting toward open war with China, declared T. Z. Koo, representative of fifty industrial and commereial organizations, at a meeting of the Young People's Conference at the Waldorf Sunday afternoon.

Making a plea for the support of the Chinese liberation movement, Mr. Koo said:

"My country is going through the throes of tremendous change. The masses, both in city and country, are living in conditions of unparalleled poverty and squalor, fortunate, in thousands of cases, if they can find the food and shelter to sustain life.

"What they seek is not to kill foreigners and loot their possessions. They seek to live on a higher economic plane. They want shorter hours, higher wages and some protection against sickness and accident.

"The charge that Communism is in back of the present upheaval does not represent the true situation. The driving force in back of the tremendous movement in China today is the desire of the masses to place earning capacity above the bare minimum that will sustain life.

"In addition, we want to establish China on a plane of equality with the nations."

FULLER DEBATES MADEIROS' DEATH; GLOOM IN BOSTON

Labor Protests Still Flooding Governor

(Special to The DAILY WORKER)

BOSTON, April 25.—While telegrams and letters from tens of thousands of workers poured into Governor Fuller's office today, demanding the entire review of the Sacco-Vanzetti frame-up, the governor was considering granting another reprieve for Celestino Madeiros.

Madeiros has confessed that he was with the bandits who held up and killed the South Braintree paymasters seven years ago. His confession points to the Morelli gang as the criminals in the case for which Sacco and Vanzetti have been condemned to death. Madeiros however has refused definitely to name the Morellis although his description leaves no shadow of doubt that they were the murderers.

Fuller has twice granted the Portuguese reprieves from the execution of the death penalty for another holdup murder. Unless he acts immediately, however, Madeiros will go to the electric chair Thursday, taking with him the real story of the crime for which the two Italian workers are to be legally murdered.

A pall of despair is settling over friends of Sacco and Vanzetti. Fuller's delay in granting another reprieve to Madeiros adds to the impression that he may not appoint a commission to review the entire case and liberate the men.

Labor however remained adamant

(Continued on Page Three)

Globerman Rallies Workers Behind Him For a Labor Party

LOS ANGELES, Calif., April 25.—The Painters' District Council has elected two delegates to the TRADE UNION POLITICAL CONFERENCE to be held here April 25th, and has adopted a resolution calling upon this conference to work for the organization of a Labor Party.

The prospects for the conference are promising, in view of the fact that the Joint Executive Board of the Central Labor Council, Metal Trades Council, Building Trades Council, and Allied Printing Trades Council have officially endorsed the candidacy for Board of Education of Sam Globerman, whose campaign committee has issued the call for the Conference. Many labor officials have banded together to fight both the conference and Globerman's candidacy, and are doing everything they can to defeat the prospects of both.

Bureaucrat Apposes.

It is know that the secretary of the Central Labor Council, has approached one by one the various district councils that have endorsed Globerman, with a view to having them withdraw their endorsement. So far he has not succeeded, but it is believed another attempt to do this will be made within the next 2 weeks, just before the primary elections May 3rd.

The fact that the Workers' Communist Party immediately came out in support of his candidacy will be used by the labor officials in an attempt to create prejudice against a Communist candidate.

Socialists' Intrigue.

The role of the Socialists in the election campaign is interesting; they have several candidates for Board of Education, and one for City Council, and these have formed an election alliance with a group of reactionary candidates for the purpose of defeating another clique of politicians endorsed by the "Citizens Committee." The Socialist program ignores the unemployment situation; the open-shop; injunctions and anti-labor laws; the 8-hour day and 5-day week; child labor; the Labor Party; they want "cancellation of telephone franchises," "bonds without interest," but not a word about the most important issues before the labor movement of Los Angeles, all of which are clearly outlined in the program issued by the Workers' (Communist) Party.

Milwaukee Council Sees Legal Murder

MILWAUKEE (FP).—If Massachusetts executes Sacco and Vanzetti it will be "considered by the people of the United States and other civilized countries as a prejudicial and fanatical legal murder of two innocent men," declares the Milwaukee Federated Trades Council in a letter to Gov. Fuller.

New Orleans Fights To Avoid Flood From Rising Mississippi

NEW ORLEANS, April 25.—Urged on by rising water and the prospect of more rain, a heavy-eyed army labored over a hundred mile front today for the salvation of New Orleans.

At Lutcher, Convent and Lolling, just above New Orleans, thousands were at work strengthening the revetments of the levees and capping the great dykes with sand and sacks.

Armed guards patrolled the section while the workmen labored ready to shoot any stranger who might be suspected of designs to dynamite the levees.

The break at Jesuits Plantation, 11 miles south of New Orleans, is impossible of repair and engineers have decided to let the water have its way for the flood water to Lake Pontchartrain and the gulf.

The confidence of New Orleans was shaken today by the prospect of a mounting flood in the Ouachita and Red Rivers, which will surely add the Mississippi on its course to the gulf. A rise of nearly four feet was reported from Camden, Ark., on the Ouachita.

Flood Sweeps On.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 25.—Sweeping over the entire Mississippi delta, flood venters have inundated Glen Allen and Lake Washington, small hamlets near Greenville, it was reported here.

A fleet of aeroplanes and motorboats which last night moved 500 refugees from Wayside, a nearby town, were searching Glen Allen and Lake Washington for hundreds of persons reported to be marooned on levees.

Fleets of boats were in operation throughout Mississippi today rescuing marooned. Hollindale and Arcola, Ark., were flooded by breaks. Arkansas City was reported surrounded by water.

United Women Council Arranges Mass Meeting For Workers' Defense

The most determined and consistent defense work for the foreign and class-conscious comes from the United Council of Workingclass Housewives.

Undaunted by their many other burdens and duties, the Bronx General Councils, jointly with the Bronx Cloakmakers and Furriers Council, have arranged a mass meeting to be held in Hunts Point Palace, 163rd Street and Sth. Blvd., on Wednesday evening April 27th at 8 P. M.

The speakers will be Louis Hyman, Juliet Stewart Poyntz, Kate Gitlow, Rose Wortis, Fanny Wyschitzky and others. Admission is free.

The meeting is being held under the auspices of the Six Bronx Councils of the United Council of Workingclass Housewives.

BUY THE DAILY WORKER AT THE NEWSSTANDS

JUST ABOUT READY TO MOVE

The folk in this house at Little Rock, Ark., where the Arkansas river joined the procession of rivers in flood, seem about ready to move. Grocery deliveries were made by skiff.

New York's Water Front

News and Views of the Biggest World Port

Sailor Describes Conditions Under Which He Works

I just recently came off the "Ipswich," the Dollar Line, and the "Cecil" and expected that that hell hole had just about given me a bitter enough taste in the mouth to set me wondering whether or not I should quit the sea forever and hunt some other kind of work for a while. One thing at this trick, however, convinced me that the sea was the only trade that I had learned to pick up.

Looks for Job.

So I set out on Friday the 15th, to look for some kind of an A.B.'s job to tide me over the proverbial and customary shore-leave of the seaman. After wandering around for some time, and going into different shipping agencies I got down to the old reliable Shipping Board's office than which more good seamen pass to disappointment than would be wise for publication. I hung around the office for the better part of the morning. Towards the afternoon they rang out for A.B.'s for the "S. S. George Washington" and they got about eighty on a hundred men to go below.

When we got down to the dock, the bottomside guy that he is no responsible for the influx of men, and that he wasn't going to take any care of us on till "signing on time," and to come around on the following Monday. We were pretty hungry lot of men, any way, just looked at [illegible] shipping is pretty punk, and most of that gang hadn't seen any kind of steady work for a hell of a long time.

Just the same he gave us the usual come back needle stories, and since the average sailor is still for this capitalistic scheme of tying the seaman down to the particular interest of the company, the lunch thing around and all attempted and I hung around with them, those being nothing else to do in the way of finding work, and I half hoped that this time there might be something doing anyway.

Some Recruits.

I came back day by day with the same batch of men with the additions of a few recruits, and we hung around encouraged by the bottomside to come around again just the same.

Monday morning we came around and the ship got ready to pull out. The commissioners were then signing up on the articles, when the bottomside sang out that he had all of his men and that all deck jobs were full. That just about knocked out the lunch and there was some pretty filth earning flying around loose and lowers. Queer how the men can curse after the evil is done. If they would think of organizing and sticking together in a body when it comes to getting out any kind of a protest they would get a good deal further.

International Merchant Marine.

The rest of the morning I spent around the I.M.M., Atlantic transport, and the Oceanic Service, looking for an A.B.'s job but there was nothing doing in these outfits so that I was forced to go down to the Standard Oil [illegible] Jo. I say "forced," because [illegible] which type of [illegible] Standard Oil of New Jersey have is a pretty dirty outfit[illegible] when it comes to [illegible] and etc.

Is Questioned.

I got into the office and the shipping master gave me a pretty tough grilling, asks whether I had ever worked for the Standard Oil Company and the like. After I had convinced him that there was no likelihood of my getting to work on any of the Standard Oil Tankers, he says all right [illegible] a good job for me [illegible] on the Charles Pratt tanker [illegible] Pedro; he gave me a line of bunk about it being a good warm easy trip and so on. Well I fell for the line, hook, sinker and all.

The ship is located down at the Erie Basin at Robins Dry Dock.

Supreme Court Forbids Investigation of Huge National Bread Trust

WASHINGTON, April 25. — The supreme court today dealt what is believed to be a death-blow to the Federal Trade Commission's proposed "bread trust" investigation by refusing to review an adverse decision of lower courts.

The investigation was undertaken upon senatorial authority, after Senator La Follette of Wisconsin proposed the action in a resolution.

After the commission called upon baking companies for the production of records, the Millers' National Federation went into District of Columbia courts and obtained an injunction.

The high court's denial of the writ upheld the lower court rulings that subpoenas can only be issued and enforced by the commission when it is investigating complaints of unfair methods of competition.

In seeking the review, commission attorneys said that the investigation of the "power trust" ordered by the senate depended upon the court's construction of the commission's authority in this case.

Pratt Ship Sails

It got there and found some pretty strange things about the boat that were supposed to go out to San Pedro on a easy trip.

To begin with, its forestle was completely ripped apart. The mate told me to put my dunnage and clothing in the carpenter's shed which was in a pretty lousy condition, so I flatly refused. I did some investigating on my own hook, and I found out that the fo'castle had been ripped out because it was positively lousy and too filthy and rusty for even the average seaman.

Also the Pratt had been in dry dock for some time and that from all signs she was going to stay here for quite some time to come yet. The bottomside wanted me to start right in working with an air hammer, which is something like a riveting hammer, and works on the same principle, but the difference being that it is used for chipping rust. In this case the men on the job, mostly green hands and kids from the farm who were making their first voyage to sea, were working away at the tops of the oil tanks—working between decks and amidships.

This is pretty hard work, so I asked the bottswain what they were being paid, and he told me that they were getting two dollars a day and eats.

Bum Food.

I stayed long enough to try the eats and they were pretty bad. After speaking to some of the hands I found out that an average of fifty to a hundred men were sent down daily and most of them quit after they worked for some time. Then I got wise to myself and knew quite definitely that all that this was, was a standby for port Job. The S. S. Pratt wasn't going to leave for Pedro so soon after all from all signs.

All that the Standard Oil Co., wanted was men whom they could exploit for two dollars a day, and bum eats, and in this way replace more skilled and higher payed worker's with kids and green hands, or seaman who were pretty nearly down and out.

Left It Flat.

Well then after this sank in, I just packed up and left the damned hulk, and the fellows who were more militant and self respecting, also came along. I got back to Pearl street and I couldn't keep my temper back, so I gave the shipping master particular hell and told him what kind of a dirty deal he was pulling over the men. He got pretty scared when I said this right out loud and he begged me to keep quite saying! "Sh, Sh, the others around might hear you" and "that I was raising a scandal," etc. Well, I told him that that was just what I wanted to do, to tell the other men that they were being tricked into dirty exploitation.

This is why I want this letter to be published so that the men on the job who read this letter in The DAILY WORKER will start to wake up and realize the conditions under which they are working and begin to organize.

"Big Four" Gives Cushy Jobs to Ex-Investigators

PREVIOUS EVENTS OF INSURANCE EXPOSE

The following is the fourteenth of a series of thirty articles exposing the fraud of weekly payment (industrial) life insurance. Previous articles have pointed out that there are 40 million weekly payment insurers in the United States and Canada. Mr. Harrison has made specific charges of fraud, misrepresentation, subornation and misuse of public money. Banks, railroads and public utility companies are involved in the swindle. Names prominent in financial and government circles have appeared from time to time. Among those mentioned have been Charles M. Schwab, Haley Fiske, Albert H. Wiggin, Supt. of Insurance James A. Beha and many others.

(Copyrighted by The DAILY WORKER, 1927.)

(By CHARLES YALE HARRISON)

Article XIV.

Thus far, the figures we have been using in this exposure of the "Big Four" have been taken from reports issued by the companies involved, or from the 1926 issue of the New York state department of insurance report. The reader has been spared the agony of going through miles of tabulated statistics.

In this article, however, quotations will be adduced from the published works of Haley Fiske, insurance literateur and propagandist. The book under discussion is called, "An epoch in Life Insurance."

Likes The Company.

The book in itself is absolutely unimportant as a contribution to the science of insurance. It is merely a lodge-podge laudatory gon served up as information on insurance matters —particularly Metropolitan insurance matters.

I quote and reply:

"Industrial (weekly-payment) insurance is costly owing to the high death rate among the laboring classes and the necessary system of weekly collection of premiums; and no ordinary company had offered such policies to them because of this high mortality . . ."

Let us first deal with the lie that the death rate is higher among weekly-payment policyholders.

On page 801 of the Metropolitan annual report as submitted to the Supt. of Insurance we find that in 1925 death claims in the "ordinary" department totalled $39,243,973.82. The "ordinary" insurance in force was $6,737,607,551 exclusive of group insurance.

The "industrial" (weekly payment) death claims were $30,342,600.27 with an aggregate of $5,013,452,116 of weekly-payment insurance in force. From these figures it will be seen that the ratio of claim payments are practically the same in both departments.

Middle Classes Taught.

The reason for this is that the sale of weekly-payment life insurance is not confined exclusively to what Mr. Fiske is pleased to call "the laboring classes." The sales pressure upon agents has been so severe that they have penetrated into all classes. Small shopkeepers, white-collar slaves, small tradesmen and small business men all carry this form of petty larceny insurance either on their own lives or upon the lives of their children and families.

"The necessary system of weekly collections" of which Mr. Fiske speaks costs 12% of the annual premium.

An ordinary whole life insurance policy in the Metropolitan at age 10 costs $25 per thousand.

A weekly-payment policy for the same amount of protection costs $45.80; nearly 100% more costly than ordinary insurance. We still have 88% to account for. Nothing short of a legislative investigation will satisfactorily show what Haley Fiske and his associated high financiers do with the surplus overcharge.

Popular Impression.

On page XV of this same work of art, Mr. Fiske delivers himself of this, "There may be an impression abroad that the Armstrong laws impaired and liberalized industrial insurance." This is perfectly true.

The Armstrong insurance investigating committee in 1906 investigated the evils of the insurance business generally. An internal row in the Equitable Life Insurance company between two contending factions precipitated the investigation. When thieves fall out honest men come into their own.

The story of the Armstrong investigation is state secrets. But certainly, this much is not generally known: The day before the "Big Four" were to come up for investigation, it was moved that the committee adjourn to draft its report. And as Mr. Fiske says: "The laws scarcely touched industrial insurance."

But industrial insurance touched the lawyers—the lawyers who participated in the investigation and served on the committee.

For example: After the investigation Charles Evans Hughes who acted as counsel for the committee was made general counsel for the Equitable Life, his erstwhile enemy.

Senator William J. Tully, also of the committee, was made solicitor of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company at a salary of $20,000 per year. Then there is Assemblyman Robert Lynn Cox who was made general manager and counsel to the association of life insurance presidents also at a salary of $20,000. Twenty thousand dollars seemed to be the fixed rate. The "boys" must have had a union. Since that time Mr. Cox has been promoted to second vice-presidency in the Metropolitan Life at a salary of $38,000 annually.

Mr. Cox comes of a long line of American liberals in religion—but take your correspondent's word for it, he's a hard-boiled conservative in business. Render unto Cesaur the things that Cesaur's. . . .

Some of Us Know.

And so on down the line. The boys were all taken care of. Mr. Fiske knows this. Every editor in New York City knows it. Mr. Swope of the New York World knows it. It is time that the general public knows it. See they do!

All this happened over twenty years ago. Since that time the industrial insurance business has been having agonizy time of it. Wall Street manipulators of the stripe of Charles M. Schwab have saddled the 40 million weekly payment policyholders who are fleeced of hundreds of millions of dollars every year.

"Public appreciation of the company and its magnificent work is growing," says Mr. Fiske.

I am inclined to the view that Mr. Fiske has the wrong ear to the ground. Public indignation is growing.

Working Women Form Club.

CHICAGO, (FP) April 25.—Unemployment, high prices, high rents and other economic ills will be studied by the newly formed South Side Progressive Women's club, an organization of working women in Chicago. It meets Sunday afternoons at 3201 S. Wabash Avenue.

Machado, Sugar Trust Man, Keeps Mouth Shut

(Continued from Page One)

ment, and hinted that that was about all.

Then, following an awkward pause, your correspondent asked the ambassador, who served as interpreter, whether Machado would discuss the situation of trade unions in Cuba—[illegible] a great deal has been published in this country recently as to their condition."

Sugar Trust Puppet Cautious.

This was not what they had bargained for. Ambassador Fermen beat travel, spoke quickly in Spanish to Machado, who frowned and replied in an annoyed tone. Fermen interpreted: "The president says that he is a Liberal, and his administration has been very friendly to labor, and he himself has lost his sympathy to the trade unions in many strikes including many railroad strikes that lasted as long as 40 days. In all cases the strikers have won what they sought. But the trouble has been that Communist disturbers, out from abroad, have come to Cuba to create difficulties, and the government has been obliged to remove them. They will then quit again."

Another correspondent spoke: "Then the president thinks there is no Communist danger in Cuba and the Caribbean?"

"No," came the translated reply, "he repeats that some Communists have been sent there from abroad, but he would not permit them." Ferrara was suddenly stopped by Machado, who firmly corrected him.

"The president desires me to say," hastily went on the ambassador, "that the workers, the trade union members in Cuba, will not permit these Communists to enter their organizations or to create trouble."

Then, turning to your correspondent, Ferrara said pointedly: "You say much has been published here about trade union troubles in Cuba, for you know that it was all written by one man. It is just a one-man agitation."

Murdered Workers.

So that was all that Machado had to say concerning his police agents' torture and kidnapping of hundreds of trade union leaders in the past two years. Trays of drinks were brought in, for all who wanted to drink with him. As glasses were raised, someone whispered, ironically, "Cuba Libre!"

Machado was a rebel soldier with Maximo Gomez and Calixto Garcia, when he has come to the presidency on that reputation and on his claim of being a liberal. Just now he is crushing the last remnants of the trade unions with one hand while driving through his complaisant, venal congress, with the other hand a four-year extension of his present term of office.

The "one man" agitator [illegible] has been publishing these facts in the American press to the English language secretary of the Pan-American Federation of Labor, Chester M. Wright, who went to Cuba and talked with the friends and widows of the murdered men.

8,000 Attend "Trial" Of "Forward"; Early Figures Too Small

An official count made by the Ticket Committee in charge of the "trial" of the Jewish Daily Forward held in three large halls on Sunday shows that The DAILY WORKER estimate of 5,000 as stated in yesterday's issue was too conservative.

The Committee reports that over 8,000 attended the meetings held in Central Opera House, New Star Casino, and Manhattan Lyceum.

Of this number 7,300 paid admission fees. More than 700 strikers were admitted free.

CHINA IN REVOLT

a new pamphlet

Including the discussion by outstanding figures in the Communist International on the great revolt in China by

STALIN
BUCHARIN
MANUILSKY
TAN PING SHAN

15¢

On China Read Also
THE AWAKENING OF CHINA
by Jas. H. Dolsen.

A complete history of the awakening of over four hundred million people. With photographs, maps and original documents.

NOW 50 CENTS

The DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING COMPANY
33 First Street
NEW YORK

COMPANY UNIONS
By
Robt. W. DUNN
WITH CONCLUSIONS BY
WM. Z. Foster

The first booklet of its kind issued. A most valuable study of the growth of company unions as a new menace to American organized Labor by a keen student of the problem.

—25 CENTS

On Class Collaboration
READ

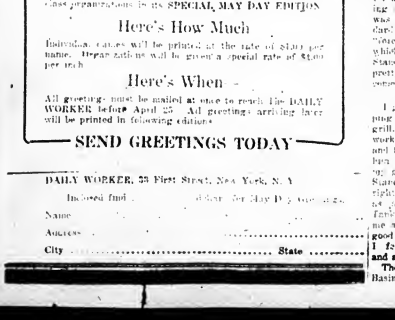
CLASS COLLABORATION—
How It Works
By Bertram D. Wolfe

A new booklet recently issued covering all phases of this important problem to workers.

—10 CENTS

CLASS STRUGGLE VS. CLASS COLLABORATION
By Earl R. Browder

A brief but invaluable study of the R. & G. Plan, Labor Banking, Workers' Education and other practices of the enemies of labor to keep the workers from struggle.



—10 CENTS

Read also the two
NEW PAMPHLETS

THE THREAT TO THE LABOR MOVEMENT
By Wm. F. Dunne
—15 CENTS

THE WATSON-PARKER LAW
By Wm. Z. Foster
—15 CENTS

Your Last Chance to

Here's How

To greet the workers of the world The DAILY WORKER will print the names of individual workers and all working class organizations in its SPECIAL MAY DAY EDITION

Here's How Much

Individuals, names will be printed at the rate of 50c per name. Organizations will be given a special rate of $1.00 per inch

Here's When

All greetings must be mailed at once to reach The DAILY WORKER before April 25. All greetings arriving later will be printed in following editions

SEND GREETINGS TODAY

DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, New York, N. Y.

Inclosed find ..... dollars for May Day greetings.

Name .....

Address .....

City ..... State .....

Boston Students Rap Chinese Intervention At Education Meeting

BOSTON, April 25.—Resolutions scoring the bombardment of Nanking by British and American warships and demanding the immediate release of Sacco and Vanzetti featured the fifth annual convention of the workers education bureau of America, which opened at the Boston Public Library, Friday April 22nd.

Both resolutions were introduced by representatives of the Boston Trade Union College, and were referred to the resolutions committee.

Wants Workers Economics.

Preceding the proposal of the resolution, Professor A. D. Sheffield led a discussion of workers' educational problems. "Workers economics", declared Scott Nearing, who attended the conference, "should teach workers how to shape a new social order. There is a distinction between workers' economics and capitalist economics", he continued, "and workers education should include workers economics." (Matthew Woll's report on behalf of the executive committee preceded the discussion)

A storm of applause greeted James H. Maurer's statement that the problems of the Chinese labor movement were the problems of the American labor movement. Professor Dana also stressed the international character of labor in his plea for the endorsement of the council for the protection of the foreign born. Professor Dana attacked the Aswell bill as un-American and anti-labor.

Opposes Carnegie Subsidy.

A resolution opposing the acceptance by the workers education bureau of a subsidy from the Carnegie fund or any other source that is opposed to the interest of the working class was introduced by students of the Boston trade union college. The Carnegie fund is the chief support of the bureau.

Prof. Pleads for Peace With Mexico; Says U.S. Stops Reform Program

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—The "Mexican problem" is "that of the vested interests of foreigners versus the reform program of a backward people," declared Professor J. Fred Rippy of Duke University, well-known authority on Mexico, yesterday at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

Declaring that any attempt to coerce Mexico would be both useless and costly, Professor Rippy made a plea for arbitration of the differences between the United States and Mexico as "more in accord with our national ideals" and a procedure "which may prove just as profitable in the end".

Withdrawal of recognition and the lifting of the arms embargo would probably be more destructive to "our interests" than the oil and land laws, Professor Rippy said.

APRIL 23

(1850)

The Birthday of our Leader

L

Choose this appropriate time to read what he has to say on the simplest, most necessary things in the revolutionary movement. This work teaches fundamental problems. It includes all his speeches and writings

E

I

N

ON ORGANIZATION

$1.50

In a cloth-bound library edition.

The DAILY WORKER PUB. CO.
33 First Street, New York, N. Y.

CHAMBERLAIN AS THE DOVE OF PEACE IN CHINA

"The Government Pursues an Absolutely Neutral Course."

What's What in Washington

Norris Calls Third Term for Coolidge Step to Monarchism

By LAURENCE TODD
(Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Speaking out frankly while other anti-administration leaders have whispered and hinted and nudged one another forward, Senator Norris of Nebraska has declared that the Coolidge third term movement is "a long step toward a monarchical form of government." He has opened the way for Borah, Hiram Johnson, Moses, and any others who have plotted to raise the third term issue in a direct challenge to Coolidge, to go at it. Norris has asked a question, but it is not addressed to the man in the White House. It is addressed to the American people.

"Strikes Fundamental Principle."

In a lengthy statement published in the Baltimore Sun, replying to a canvass of republican national committeemen by the Washington Star, Norris ignores the interest and ambition of any candidate and points to the significance of this attempt to keep one man in power for a long and indefinite period of years.

"This strikes at the very fundamental principle of our form of government", he says. "The president has a power that extends into every community in the land. It is sufficiently powerful, under ordinary circumstances, to control a national convention. When we remember that under our system a nomination is necessary for an election, we begin to realize what a powerful partisan political influence a president has, to obtain his own renomination.

"Admitted To Be Corrupt."

"Already, in the Southern states, the republican machine, which is virtually admitted to be corrupt, is preparing to send Coolidge delegates to the next republican convention. They are doing this as a payment for the federal offices which they now hold and control. The same influence can be extended to every town and hamlet in the United States." When this influence is combined and used for the perpetuation in office of the head of our government, it is a danger to free institutions and strikes at the very root of democracy. Political machines held together by federal patronage constitute the greatest danger to the perpetuity of a free government.

King Coolidge.

"Such a danger leads directly toward a monarchy and takes away from the people themselves the right to select their own chief magistrate. The power of the federal machine at present is almost unlimited. Any other candidate (than Coolidge) has to begin with a solid opposition from the Southern states, controlled, manipulated and handled entirely through federal patronage. Added to this is the activity in every state, every city, every county, of federal appointees who will work day and night for the securing of Coolidge delegates.

Big Trusts For Him.

"When you add to this influence the help of big corporations and monopolistic combinations that always unite with the faction in power, you have an influence that is, for practical purposes, insurmountable. And no particle of this influence anywhere comes from people who are unselfish."

Norris' protest was made in order to awaken the country—if that be possible—to the danger in the present drift toward renomination of Coolidge next year by acclamation in the republican convention. Washington politicians are talking of this as a probability. The anti-administration elements has not dared to laugh at Coolidge—to hold him up to ridicule as perhaps the smallest, most reactionary, and most ignorant of all the long list of standpatters who have sought the presidential office.

Declare Martial Law In Lithuania; White Terror Fears Revolt

LONDON, April 25.—Declaration of a state of siege in Lithuania, as the result of "Communist agitation," is reported by the Exchange Telegraph correspondent in Copenhagen, who states that Soviet messages indicate that the Lithuanian Government fears disturbances.

Dry School Loses Profs By Presidential Edict

A recent ukase by President Coolidge has resulted in the loss of a large proportion of the "faculty" of the Government Service Institute, a two-room institution that opened at 457 45th St., a couple of weeks ago.

Intended to prepare candidates for any of the 2,500 federal prohibition agents' jobs with the aid and guidance of high governmental officials, the school has received what might turn out to be a death blow by the presidential order forbidding U. S. employes from having their names associated with such "colleges."

CURRENT EVENTS

(Continued from Page One)

CHINA will be unified into one mighty nation, despite all the efforts of the capitalist powers, whether they war on the revolution by cannons or by the more subtle but hardly less dangerous methods of secret diplomacy and corruption. As Chiang-Kai-Shek has been bought off by money and a promise of a seat among the world's mighty so will his purchasers try to bribe other prominent leaders in the Nationalist cause to desert their followers and bow the knee to Baal. This has been done in all subject countries and by all imperialist powers. "Divide and Conquer" is an old motto but it is still going strong.

* * *

AND when our capitalist scribblers tell you that the Soviet Government is responsible for the revolt of the workers and peasants of China against the foreign imperialists and their native agents I would suggest that you read about the working conditions in British, Japanese and Chinese mills, where women, with their children in baskets under the work benches, toil for twelve weary hours for the equivalent of 40 cents a day. This is the kind of benevolence that the Chinese people are struggling against. The Communist International is giving them every possible assistance in organizing themselves so that they can raise their standard of living and better their working conditions. The Soviet Union has extended a friendly hand to the struggling Chinese republic while the imperialist buzzards are shooting dozes of christianity and capitalist civilization into the minds and bodies of the oppressed masses.

Buy The Daily Worker Special May Day Issue

2,000 N. Y. Italians Protest Propaganda By Fascist Embassy

Charging the Italian ambassador in the United States with carrying on open pro-Fascist propaganda, 2,000 Italians packed Cooper Union Sunday to protest against the spread of the Fascist terror to this country. Professor Gaetano Salvemini, formerly of the University of Florence, Dr. Charles Fama and Carlo Tresca were among the speakers.

A resolution protesting against the Fascist ambassador's activities was sent to Secretary of State Kellogg. The resolution follows:

"Whereas, the Italian Ambassador to the United States of America, about two weeks ago, at a banquet of the Italian Chamber of Commerce of New York City, voiced an appeal to the Italian people in America, stating among other things:

"'I appeal to the American citizens of Italian extraction to aid me in fighting the Italian renegades in this country who are actively opposing Fascism, to take the necessary steps to eradicate this menace for the sake of Italy, its government and its noble traditions.'

"And whereas such propaganda and such sentiments invariably tend to incite class warfare and resultant violence.

"We, therefore, unanimously resolve that the Secretary of State take cognizance of this dangerous movement and take such precautions as are commensurate with the honor and reputation of this, our beloved country of adoption."

Says Europe On Decline.

Economically, politically and culturally western Europe is on the decline, according to Louis Fischer, foreign correspondent for the Nation, who spoke at the Temple Emanuel Forum, Fifth avenue and Forty-third street Sunday afternoon.

The future lies with younger and stronger peoples, he said.

Dewey Assails Super Patriots as Meeting Raps School Ousting

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—John Dewey, professor of philosophy at Columbia University, assailed superpatriots for attempting to stamp out free speech in American schools and colleges at a meeting called to protest against the dismissal of two professors at the West Chester State Normal School for alleged radicalism.

"I have read and heard much literature from the headquarters of our super-patriots, "said Professor Dewey, "they are greatly concerned about persons who are boring from within and weakening our institutions. It seems to me, however, that if there is anybody who is likely to leave our institutions nothing but a hollow shell, it is the persons who are afraid to permit freedom of speech—not those labelled Bolshevistic and seditious."

The two ousted teachers, Dr. Kerlin and Kinneman, and Morris Ernst, New York lawyer, were among the other speakers. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Civil Liberties Union.

Carlinville Council Protesting Fare

CARLINVILLE, Ill. (FP).—Appealing for a pardon for Sacco and Vanzetti, the Carlinville Trades & Labor Assembly has wired Gov. Fuller of Massachusetts that "these men are victims of a cruel and vicious frameup."

Radical Workers Unifying Norway Labor Movement

OSLO, Norway, April (By Mail).—The trade union movement began to develop in Norway more than 40 years ago, in the early 80's. Simultaneously with trade-union organizations political groupings closely bound up with the trade unions began to form themselves among the workers. In 1887 the Norwegian Labor Party was formed from all these organisations, circles and groups—a party in its structure strongly reminiscent of the British Labor Party.

Up till 1920 the Norwegian Labor Party remained the only one. Not long before the war Martin Tranmael, a very talented journalist and political orator (formerly a house-painter), became very prominent in the Party.

The growth of the Left spirit within the Norwegian Labor Party after the war, the October Revolution in Russia and the revolutions in Germany, Austria and Hungary, were taken advantage of by Martin Tranmael and his adherents to seize all the administrative posts in the Norwegian Labor Party in 1918. In 1920 the Party joined the Communist International. This led to the leaving of the party by the Right social-democrats, who set up their own party group.

Had Short Stay

The Norwegian Party, however, remained only for a short time in the ranks of the Comintern. The revolutionary wave that had swept over Western Europe subsided, giving place to the organized counter attack of capital and the strongholds of the working-class. Tranmael and many of his adherents, who were never in reality professed communists, but chocolate-soldier revolutionaries, began to show definite leanings to the right. In the end of 1923 the Norwegian Labor Party broke off relations with the Comintern, and only a small part of it, consisting of workers sincerely devoted to the furtherance of communism, formed a Norwegian Labor Party as a section of the Communist International.

Thus by the end of 1923 there were as many as three parties in Norway, instead of the former single Norwegian Labor Party, struggling to get a hold over the working-class. These were—the Communists, the Tranmaelites, and the Right, social-democrats.

For United Program

Considering disruption within the working class as injurious to its true interests, the Norwegian Communist Party in the end of 1925 came forward with a suggestion for the setting up of such a political centre for the working class which might facilitate its every day struggle. The Communists brought forward a project for the creation in Norway of a labor party on the Russian model, on the basis of the autonomous affiliation of all its sections.

This suggestion of the Norwegian Communists led to set up a political Federation on the model of the British Labor Party was met by Tranmael and his adherents with their usual demagogy. They demanded that all political parties should be fused unconditionally, the Social Democrats to leave the Second International and the Communists, the Communist International.

Obviously the Communists could not agree to such a counter suggestion.

That was just what the Tranmaelites wanted. They then appealed solemnly to the Right social-democrats with a proposal to form one party. The latter, with the blessing of Friedrich Adler, Secretary of the Second International, graciously agreed to this proposal. The Tranmaelites, social-democrats and reformist leaders of the Norwegian trade unions set up a committee of 12 persons for the convocation of a congress in the end of 1926 to bring about the fusion of the Tranmaelites and the social-democrats.

The congress was fixed for the 30th January, 1927, and only delegates accepting in advance the draft-programme of the future labor party were allowed to attend it. Such an extraordinary interpretation of unity evoked indignation in working-class circles. Many local trade union and political organizations resolved not to submit to this outrageous demand, but to elect delegates for the coming congress without reference to any programme whatever.

Reformers Opposed Units.

When the congress met in Oslo there turned out to be about 900 delegates elected on the principle of submission in advance to the program, and about 400 freely elected.

The freely elected delegates addressed the Fourth Unification Congress with a demand to be allowed to attend the latter. To this the organisers of the congress replied with a categorical refusal. The revolutionary delegates then opened their own congress.

Thus on the 30th and 31st of January two labor congresses were held in different parts of Oslo: one attended by 900 Tranmaelites, social democrats, and trade union members of reformist tendencies, and another attended by 400 delegates of Communist organizations and revolutionary inter-union groupings.

Rights Join Reformists.

The first congress pronounced with the utmost solemnity the fusion of the Norwegian Labor Party (Tranmaelites) with the infinitesimal organisation of the right social democrats, under the gracious patronage of the reformist leaders of the Norwegian trade unions. The other congress published a protest against the non-admission of the revolutionary delegates to the Tranmaelite-social-democratic congress and worked out a program of action for the struggle for the every-day needs of the Norwegian working class. Besides this, this congress of revolutionary organisations set up a party, which, on the basis of the resolute class struggle, united in its ranks all the Communist and revolutionary elements in the working class. This party was called "the Party of working class cohesion." Elias Volan, a Communist and prominent trade-union worker, and chairman of the Norwegian Builders' Union, was elected chairman of the party at the congress.

Thus, instead of the three parties which existed up to the present in Norway, there are now two. The Tranmaelites, who turned down all the Communist attempts to create a real fighting unity among the Norwegian proletariat for the struggle with the bourgeoisie, must be held responsible for the continuation of disruption. Moreover, a threat of disruption in the Norwegian trade union movement is also created by the open adherence of the leaders of the Norwegian trade union leaders to the new reformist party.

The Communists, true advocates of trade-union unity, have made the realisation of unity both on a national and on an international scale, the corner-stone of their work. At the congress, where the foundations for the creation of a new revolutionary party in Norway was laid ("the Party of Working Class Cohesion"), it was decided to set up also a Norwegian-Finnish-Soviet-Committee of trade union unity. This committee will set itself the task of carrying out the struggle for international unity of the trade union movement, and for the closer unity between the workers in the Scandinavian countries and the workers of the U. S. S. R.—HALSEN.

Boston Workers to Condemn Frame-up In May Day Meeting in its determination that Sacco and Vanzetti must not be murdered, even if Governor Fuller refuses to go through the legal hokus-pocus needed to "review" the case.

(Continued from Page One)

* * *

BOSTON, April 25.—Representatives of over 17 organizations meeting on the initiative of the Upholsterers' Union have unanimously decided to demonstrate on May Day for the release of Sacco and Vanzetti and in demand for "Hands Off China, Nicaragua and Mexico." The demonstration will be held at Scenic Auditorium, Berkeley Street and Warren Avenue, Sunday, May 1 at 2 o'clock. The committee planned originally to engage Boston Common for this purpose, but the permit was not secured.

Among the organizations participating in the conference there are the Upholsterers' Union Local 37, Bakers' Union Local 45, Carpenters' Union Local 157, Capmakers' Union Local 7, The Socialist Party of New England District, The Workers Party of America, District No. 1, The Young Workers League, The Left Paole Zion, and several of the Workmen's Circle Branches, and other fraternal organizations, including the Ukranian Education Society and the Lithuanian Organization.

* * *

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 25.—The Evangelical Brotherhood Federation, the largest protestant men's organization in Buffalo, representing the combined men's club of the Evangelical Synod churches, at its regular quarterly meeting held at Christ Evangelical Church, Sunday afternoon April 24th, unanimously adopted a resolution demanding a stay of execution in the Sacco-Vanzetti case and urging Governor Fuller of Massachusetts to pardon both men.

Read The Daily Worker Every Day.

They Shall NOT Pass

The test of our Party and the test of our movement is its ability to resist and overcome attack. The present attempt of the various patriotic societies, acting as the agents of the organized employers, to suppress The DAILY WORKER, must be met effectively, if we are worth the name of revolutionists. The workers, the country over, will watch this attempt with interest and concern. If we are to earn their confidence and respect for future struggles, we must meet this test, courageously and with the determination that The DAILY WORKER will be maintained in spite of them.

Speeches and declarations of loyalty will not suffice in this situation. It is necessary that every comrade, who realizes the importance of our valuable organ, and who realizes the lengths to which our enemies will go in order to crush our paper, and the resources at their command, awake at once to their duties and responsibilities. It is necessary that comrades mobilize every dollar they can reach, to build up the defense fund for The DAILY WORKER. Let us show our enemies that we are on the alert. Let us show them that there are thousands of proletarian sentinels on guard thruout the country who will give their dollars and if necessary their lives to save The DAILY WORKER.

The dollars you send in, are the test of your loyalty and devotion to The DAILY WORKER. Act quickly. Act energetically.

DAILY WORKER
33 First Street,
New York, N. Y.

Inclosed is my contribution of

..... dollars ..... cents to the Ruthenberg Sustaining Fund for a stronger and better DAILY WORKER and for the defense of our paper. I will pay the same amount regularly every .....

Name .....

Address .....

City .....

State .....

Attach check or money order.

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
Daily, Except Sunday
26 First Street, New York, N. Y. Phone, Orchard 1680

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail (in New York only):	By mail (outside of New York):
$8.00 per year $4.50 six months $2.50 three months	$6.00 per year $3.50 six months $2.00 three months

Address all mail and make out checks to THE DAILY WORKER, 26 First Street, New York, N. Y.

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE ..... Editors
BERT MILLER ..... business Manager

Entered as second-class mail at the post-office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Advertising rates on application.

No Support of the Coolidge-Kellogg War Program!

The landing of a force of marines in Hankow last Thursday is another step towards war on the Chinese liberation movement.

It is significant that just as at Nanking, where Standard Oil company property figured largely in the news of the wanton bombardment, so in the news from Hankow we discover that Standard Oil property and Standard Oil employes furnish an excuse for the landing of marines.

We are being driven into war in behalf of the biggest robber corporation in the world.

The leadership of the American Federation of Labor follows the policy of the state department—that is, it gives the Chinese masses fair words of friendship, but in the same breath announces that Washington has no evil intentions but is merely "protecting American lives and property." That the property is Standard Oil property and the lives that are falsely claimed to be endangered are the lives of individuals who have been plundering the Chinese masses for years, does not strike President William Green as something that calls for protest.

Green is quoted as follows:

"The United States has disavowed any intention of territorial encroachment or the enjoyment of any material advantage in China. It has officially declared its only purpose is to protect American lives and property in China."

"The laboring people of the United States would be opposed to our Government doing anything more in China than to extend the protection to American lives and property which the Government of the United States is under obligation to give to its citizens when in danger."

Green takes for granted the truth of the hypocritical statements relative to Chinese policy emanating from the White House and the state department. It means nothing to Green that American warships have already taken part in mass slaughter of Chinese men, women and children, that American gunboats are in every Chinese river and sea port, that additional forces are being rushed to China and that troops have been landed in Hankow.

Nor does the head of the American labor movement have a word to say in support of the Chinese trade unions, whose leaders and members are executed wholesale by the militarists operating under the protection of the guns of the imperialist fleets.

The policy of the A. F. of L. officialdom is the policy of the American state department.

The official spokesmen of American labor support American imperialism. They will allow war to be prepared and when it comes they will outdo the imperialists themselves in beating the tom-toms and suppressing all protest. If war on the masses of the Chinese workers and peasants is to be prevented American workers must understand that the Greens, Wolls, Lewises, etc. are in the camp of the imperialist enemy.

Each day brings news of the increase of imperialist forces in China and new depredations and outrages committed by them. Only a formal declaration of war is needed to finish out the picture of armed aggression against the Chinese liberation movement.

Once again, the Communist Party of America warns the American working class that it stands face to face with war. No other conclusion can be drawn from the continual repudiation by deeds of arms the lying statements of the heads of the government relative to peaceful intentions toward the Chinese masses.

The American masses must make their protests heard in Washington. They must go over the heads of the leaders who support the war program of the government.

Emphatic resolutions demanding the immediate withdrawal of all armed forces from China should be passed by every union, co-operative and workers' fraternal society and forwarded to Washington.

Down with the war plans of Wall Street government. Let Standard Oil do its own fighting.

Hands Off China!

Vandervelde Accuses Baldwin Government

Emil Vandervelde, hero of the socialist international, and foreign minister to his majesty, the king of Belgium, in a recent session of the council of the league of nations, accused the English government of supporting and inciting the terrorist governments in the Balkans. As usual, the league did nothing.

Of more than passing interest, however, is the complaint of the notorious jingo war minister who aided in the great betrayal of the international socialist movement at the outbreak of the world war in 1914 and who to this day is the leading politician in the capitalist government of Belgium and one of the stalwarts in the imperialist conspiracy known as the league of nations. While there are no words in any language sufficiently strong enough to condemn the acts of capitalistic England, the United States and other countries subsidizing the white terror in the Balkans, the last place in the world effectively to protest against highwaymen is in their own headquarters, especially when one is also one of the chief criminals. Particularly ridiculous is the complaint of that socialist renegade to the league of nations for the simple reason he himself sat on the league council when it sanctioned the British steal of Mosul oil from Turkey, when it whitewashed the French government for its frightfulness in Syria and the imperialist conquest of Morocco by France and Spain and today sanctions the international banditry in China, one of the allies in the world war for democracy and self-determination of nations and who for its pains was blackjacked at the Versailles "peace conference" with the connivance of what same Vandervelde.

The way to fight imperialist rapacity is not within the league of nations, but against the league and the imperialist power outside the league, the United States of America.

But Vandervelde, MacDonald, Frederick Adler and the rest of the social traitors at the head of the second international are servants of imperialism and cannot be expected to fight for the working class and against the ravaging of small and colonial nations any more than their satellites in the United States, Hillquit, Berger, Abe Cahan, James Oneal and the other yellow socialists can be expected to fight for the rank and file of trade unionists against the bosses, the Wall Civic Federation combination, the police and the courts. Agents of the capitalist class they are and will remain as long as there is a capitalist class for them to serve.

A Reply to Robert Julius Kenton

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

IN our issue of Friday, April 22, Robert Julius Kenton expressed disagreement with my editorial comment made by me on the defection of Chiang-Kai-Shek from the Kuomintang Party and his desertion from the Nationalist Revolutionary movement. I declared that Chiang-Kai-Shek dealt a serious blow to the revolution. Comrade Kenton is of the opinion that I was unduly pessimistic, that in fact Chiang's treachery was a good stroke for Chinese emancipation movement, since it is now clear that Chiang had always intended to stage this coup "since he is in the middle class and a product of his class." With all due respect to Comrade Kanton, this is the bunk.

The Kuomintang Party is composed of all elements of the population that could be united for a struggle against foreign imperialism and for the unification of China. In this alliance there were many clashing interests and the strategy of the imperialists from the start was to split the Kuomintang Party before the spirit of revolt came so deep into the masses that it would be impossible to stop its onward march.

The counter-revolutionary elements are composed of the militarist cliques and the contractors and big traders. Those elements have the support of the foreign imperialists, but the latter have also aimed at splitting Kuomintang by catering to the right wing represented by the industrial bourgeoisie still comparatively weak in China to oust the left wing and the Communists.

In view of the gigantic task confronting all honest revolutionary elements in China it is quite obvious that a forced split with these shaky "allies" would only ploy into the hands of the foreign imperialists. The movement was gathering force and the propaganda of revolution was being carried on the wings of victory to the most remote corners in China. The foreign imperialists were shaking in their shoes. Great Britain in particular saw the handwriting on the wall. She had more interests at stake in China than any other country had and she left no stone unturned to line up all the other powers for joint action against the revolution before it developed invincible power. She succeeded partially but not decisively. Then came Chiang-Kai-Shek's desertion and treachery, a severe blow to the Nationalist movement, but not a fatal one.

Comrade Kenton is of the opinion that it would be worse had Chiang waited until after the capture of Peking, when he would have the whole militarist mercenaries incorporated into the Nationalist armies, when the southern troops would be outnumbered and swamped and Chiang's power increased.

This is too simple a hypothesis. Granting that Chang-Tso-Lin instead of fighting, took to poetry or opiumeating as a permanent recreation, the question might be well asked how would the exchange of Chiang-Kai-Shek for Chang-Tso-Lin strengthen the cause of the northern militarists and their imperialist allies? It should be understood that the Chinese people were not following Chiang's personality but the cause for which he stood, and if he refrained from consummating his act of treachery until he had planted the Nationalist standard in Peking, he would find it much more difficult to betray the cause than now, since the masses would have been better organized, edurated and steeled in the fires of revolution and the foreign imperialists would be less able to assist him than they are now.

COMRADE KENTON'S attitude is not a unique or isolated one. A section of the Communist Party and the Russian Party opposition of China were infected with the diseased idea that since there were in the Kuomintang elements that the proletariat must eventually fight, it is better to fight them now than later on. But time works on the side of the hegemony of the proletariat, something the Chinese workers haven't secured yet over the Chinese revolution. And it must not be forgotten that the Chinese Communists and the revolutionary left wing are steadily increasing their power and their hold on the Chinese masses while the right wing, being fundamentally pro-imperialist, is losing out. Naturally as early as 1924 is the advantage of the latter, with unity, as long as no fundamental principle of policy or aim is compromised thereby works to the advantage of the revolutionary elements.

A SMALL section of the Chinese Communist Party favored withdrawing from the Kuomintang declaring that it was a moral corpse and should be destroyed. This attitude was condemned by the executive committee of the Communist International. The C. I. pointed out that the Kouomintang is the political organ through which the Nationalist revolution is being pushed forward and that the Communists must stay inside it, strengthen it and struggle to increase their influence within its ranks. In this world people are obliged to associate with all kinds of undesirables but since it is inconvenient to get rid of them, people must make the best of the situation. Likewise, in the revolutionary movement it is not feasible to turn a mental X-ray on all those who happen to unite for a time as allies in a common struggle in order to divine what they may do or turn out to be ten years from now.

Those who think that the Nationalist revolution in China is similar to the October revolution in Russia are away ahead of the developments. That stage will come; when, it is not safe to predict. But it can only come when the proletariat has the hegemony of the revolution.

The Communist International, organ of the C. I., in its issue of December 30, 1926, says:

"The Chinese proletariat has already become a factor in the Chinese revolution. We must harbor no illusions about this fact, however; we must realize that the proletariat has not yet the hegemony in the revolution."

THIS implies the necessity for the continuation of the alliance with even the Nationalist revolutionary elements who would be quite satisfied with a petty-bourgeois republic, but which they cannot have because the foreign imperialists will not let them have it, at least not yet. Many of those who stayed with the Hankow government, the legal government, and have denounced Chiang for his treachery may possibly follow in Chiang's footsteps later on, but it would be the policy of insanity to invite them to take a walk for themselves now, since they are liable to desert a few years from now. This would suit the imperialists who are keenly disappointed because Chiang was unable to bring any appreciable number of his former governmental colleagues with him. But to minimize the severity of the blow inflicted on the revolution by his desertion would be like whistling to keep up one's courage passing a graveyard. The possession of Shanghai is a tremendous strategic and financial advantage to this traitor. Besides providing him with one million dollars a month in import taxes it is the base of operations of foreign imperialism. Its reconquest by the revolutionary government will cost time and thousands of lives. But the job will be done.

THE character of the Chinese revolution is thus described in the Communist International, official organ of the C. I., in its issue of December 20, 1926:

"The Chinese revolution is a national revolution in every sense of the word. In the first place its aim is to unite the country in the fight against the semi-feudal and semi-capitalist predntory militarist cliques dominating several provinces of the country with the aid of mercenary armies. Secondly, its aim is to emancipate the Chinese nation from the state of a semi-colony and from the oppression of the imperialist powers."

The same organ goes on to say that this task is far from being completed, hence calling for the organization of a government along Soviet lines and breaking with the heterogeneous Kuomintang Party is considered premature. According to dispatches from Moscow that have appeared in the press yesterday the leaders of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union decided, against some opposition, that the Communists must continue the fight side by side with those who are fighting for a reform in China, but would fight against the right wing elements that are flirting with the militarists.

UNITY of all the revolutionary forces in China for the struggle against foreign imperialism and the unification of that mighty country is the need of the hour. The correct policy for the Kuomintang Party to follow is one of alliance between the petty bourgeoisie, the proletariat and the peasantry. Since the "petty-bourgeoisie" is another name for "middle-classes" and since the Communist International is in favor of keeping the middle classes in the revolutionary alliance, Comrade Kenton's explanation of Chiang-Kai-Shek's defection falls to the ground with a thud. In attempting to explain the general's desertion it would be wise not to ignore the general's personal ambitions. To claim that a man's social origin is an infallable and all-sufficient explanation of his conduct is to fly in the face of thousands of facts to the contrary.

Ruthenberg Film in Chicago May First; Also Olgin Speaks

CHICAGO, April 25.—The film taken at the Chicago Ruthenberg Memorial meeting showing the huge hall filled with workers to the last inch, portraying the various speakers and citing certain parts of their messages is now ready and will be presented for the first time at the Chicago May Day meeting, which will be held at the Ashland Auditorium, on Sunday evening May First.

To those who participated in the Ruthenberg Memorial meeting, the presentation of this film should be an added attraction, and a valuable addition to the celebration of the International Labor holiday.

Anti-Imperialist.

The most important feature of this meeting, however, will become its definite character of an anti-imperialist demonstration. With the powers preparing for war in China, the workers will gather to voice their protest against war and their solidarity with the Chinese revolution.

A message from the Chinese workers will be presented by C. T. Chi, a member of the Kuomintang Party, who has just returned from Europe, where he participated in the Brussels congress of oppressed people against world imperialism.

Started In America.

Although a symbol of international working class solidarity and determination to struggle, May Day has particular significance in America, in it grew out of the great strikes for the eight hour day in 1886.

The militancy of the workers of that period will never be forgotten, and while the official trade union leadership today is endeavoring to turn the attention of the workers in the opposite direction, there are nevertheless from time to time, signs of a revival of the militancy of the great strikes of the eight hour day.

This will naturally form one important part of the May Day demonstration and because the subject to be dealt with by such nationally known speakers as Wm. Z. Foster, M. J. Olgin, Max Shachtman, and others.

Olgin To Speak.

M. J. Olgin, has become a recent addition to the program for the Chicago May Day meeting and will pay a visit to Chicago for the despicable role played by the Jewish Daily Forward as a leader of the united attacks upon trade union workers by the combined manufacturers and trade union bureaucrats. The Jewish Daily Forward is celebrating its 20th anniversary of treason to the workers.

There are many additional valuable features of the program, which will make it very much worth while to workers to attend this year's Chicago May Day demonstration, on Sunday evening May First at the Ashland Auditorium. Admission will be 50 cents.

Districts Hold Picnic.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 25.—The annual picnic of District 5 of the Workers Party will be held on July 3rd at the P. Gajda Farm Chewick, Pa. It is the same farm where the picnic was held last year and which attracted nearly 3000 people.

CHICAGO, April 25.—A May Day vecherinka, concert and dance will be given by the Russian branch of the International Labor Defence Saturday, April 30, at the Workers' House, 1902 W. Division St., beginning at 8 P. M. Admission 40 cents.

Let's Fight On! Join The Workers Party!

In the loss of Comrade Ruthenberg the Workers (Communist) Party has lost its foremost leader and the American working class its staunchest fighter. This loss can only be overcome by many militant workers joining the Party that he built.

Fill out the application below and mail it. Become a member of the Workers (Communist) Party and carry forward the work of Comrade Ruthenberg.

I want to become a member of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Name .....

Address .....

Occupation .....

Union Affiliation .....

Mail this application to the Workers Party, 108 East 14th Street, New York City; or if in other city to Workers Party, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Particular attention to the despicable pamphlet "The Workers (Communist) Party, What it Stands For and Why Workers Should Join." This Ruthenberg joining the Party that he built.

Nuclei outside of the New York District write to Daily Worker Publishing Co., 33 East First Street, New York City, or to the National Office, Workers Party, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Workers of Sellwell Hat Shop N. Y. C.	6.00
E. E. Ramey; Pocatello, Idaho	2.00
H. Leff; N. Y. C.	5.00
M. Krasig; So. Bethlehem, Pa.	1.00
H. Brink; N. Y. C.	1.00
S. Halpern; N. Y. C.	3.00
M. J. Reuben; N. Y. C.	10.00
D. Rendedevasge; Gilberston, Pa.	1.00
G. Guilford; Akron, Ohio	14.00
M. Horowitz; N. Y. C.	1.00
A. Coles; N. Y. C.	1.00
P. Krauss; Oakland, Cal.	1.00
M. L. Vanter; Los Angeles, Cal.	5.00
A. Kornbalth; San Fran., Cal.	10.00
C. Bayles; San Jose, Cal.	12.00
J. Meisel; N. Y. C.	4.00
H. Leff; N. Y. C.	4.00
A. Moffman; Newark, N. J.	2.00
B. Robins; N. Y. C.	5.00
H. Fisher; Monroe, Mich	1.00
M. Weinstock; N. Y. C.	1.00
C. Willhaus; San Fran., Cal.	5.00
The Siegel Family; Ontario, Ca.	1.00
M. Chiplan; Bo kalo, Ill.	5.00
B. Litwasky; N. Y. C.	1.00
H. Schmies; Detroit, Mich.	2.00
E. E. Ramey; Pocatello, Idaho	1.00
L. P. Katterfield; N. Y. C.	1.00
A. Modiano; N. Y. C.	5.00
Finnish Dist. W. P., Portland	50.00
I. Sisbrass; Big Sand, Mont.	1.00
W. Sverasky; Sioux City	2.61
L. Mobile; San Francisco, Cal.	12.00
S. Victor; Detroit, Mich	6.00
J. Stresson; Central Cliff, L. I.	1.00
M. Gonzalez; N. Y. C.	1.00
L. E. Katterfield; N. Y. C.	32.25

These Comrades Responded to the Call for Ruthenberg Sustaining and Defense Fund

DRAMA

Moral Bankruptcy

"Gods of Vengeance" Is Slap at Jewish Religious Bourgeoisie

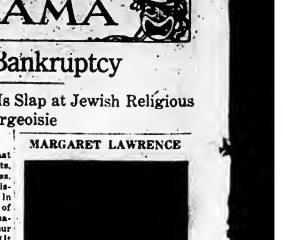
Reviewed by A. B. Magil.

It is perhaps unfortunate that plays, like ordinary material objects, sometimes outlive their usefulness. This is an ancient chapter in the history of the drama, literature and, in fact, of many of the agitations of the human mind. Present-day dramatic critics like to refer to Sir Arthur Wing Pinero as a case in point. (It still is fashionable to consider the moth-eaten liberal, Galsworthy, revolutionary.) "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," which the respectable English bourgeoisie of the nineties found so shocking, now seems stale and hysterical, a pretty bad imitation of Ibsen.

Several years ago "The God of Vengeance," a play by Sholom Ash, a distinguished Yiddish writer, was given in English translation on Broadway. But the smuthounds of the law, pulpit and press raised such a howl that the play was dragged off the boards after one of those epic struggles in the courts which causes the sensitive conscience of the New York World to burst with righteous front-page indignation.

Epitaph to the Dead.

Now "The God of Vngeance" has been revived in the original Yiddish at the Yiddish Art Theatre, under the direction of Ossip Dymow, and it has fallen to my lot to write a sort of epitaph or prayer for the dead for this terrible immoral work.



"The God of Vengeance" still has some fire smouldering in its lines, but it is a wizened, gasping fire. The story is of a tawdry simplicity and is in the best traditions of the Jewish Daily Forward, to which Ash has been an honored contributor for many years.

A respected member of the Jewish community happens to make his living by running a whorehouse. This pious, bearded Jew, Yankel Shapshowitch by name, having united himself in holy matrimony with an alumni of his jolly finishing school, begets a daughter, who when the play opens is a simpering girl of marriageable age. Brought up in the most abject innocence, with a mind of such deplorable immaculateness as to be almost imbecile, she becomes rather pathologically attached to one of her father's star performers and is led by this woman upon the path to seduction. When the father learns what has happened, he goes half mad and even the assurances of Reb Elieh, the garrulous matchmaker, that his slightly soiled daughter is as marketable as ever cannot console him.

Moral Bankruptcy.

The story is cheap, sentimental and, on the whole, rather absurd. Yet the author's honesty and serious purpose cannot, I feel, be doubted. "The God of Vengeance" was intended as an indictment of the smug Jewish bourgeoisie, the economic and religious tradesmen. But the indictment is prosy and pedantic, without eloquence or real perception. And Ash fails to make full use of the possibilities of even his cheap plot. The holy Scroll of the law which Yankel Shapshowitch gives to his daughter as worthy of her great purity, is little more than a piece of sentimental stage furniture, when it might have become the grotesque and ironic symbol of the moral bankruptcy of the entire Jewish religious bourgeoisie.

Yankel Shapshowitch and his struggle for respectability constitutes a tragic figure. But I feel that most of the tragic quality is due to the magnificent acting of Ben Zvi Baratoff, one of the truly great actors on the contemporary Yiddish stage.

MARGARET LAWRENCE

Star of "Mixed Doubles" a new comedy of Frank Stayton, opeping at the Bijou Theatre tonight.

Broadway Briefs

"Mixed Doubles," the new Frank Stayton's comedy starring Margaret Lawrence will have its initial showing tonight at the Bijou Theatre.

Among the early productions planned by David Belasco for next season will be Franc Molnar's "The Red Mill." Edwin Ludwig is writing the incidental music.

AMUSEMENTS

Theatre Guild Acting Company in
THE SECOND MAN
GUILD THEA. W. 52 St. Eve. $ 15
Mats. Thurs. and Sat. $ 25
Next Week—Pygmalion

RIGHT YOU ARE
IF YOU THINK YOU ARE
GARRICK 65 W. 35 St. Eves. $ 30
Mats. Thurs. and Sat.
Next Week—Mr. Pim Passes By

THE SILVER CORD
Jobn Golden Th. 44, E. of B'way Mats Thu. & Sat. 2.30
Next Week—Ned McCobb's Daughter

WALLACK'S West 42nd Street.
Mats Tues., Wed., Thurs. and Sat.
What Anne Brought Home
A New Comedy Drama

EARL CARROLL Vanities
Earl Carroll Thea., 7th Ave. & 50th St.
Mats. Wed. & Sat.

MARTIN BECK THEATRE, 45 St. & 8 Ave. Eves. $ 30
Mats. Wed. and Sat.
JED HARRIS Presents a Drama
'SPREAD EAGLE'

BE SURE TO GET THE SPECIAL ISSUE, MAY FIRST

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN
TWICE DAILY, 2 P.M & 8 P.M.
RINGLING BROS and BARNUM & BAILEY CIRCUS
Incl. Among 10,000 Marvels PAWAH
SACRED WHITE ELEPHANT
TICKETS at GARDEN BOX OFFICE
8th Ave and 49th St., and Gimbel Bros.

Neighborhood Playhouse
466 Grand St. Orchestra $2.50
Evgs. 8:30 Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2:30
Bill of Lyric Drama

Civic Repertory Cor 6 Av. & 14 St.
Tel. Watkins 7345.
EVA LE GALLIENNE
Tonight MATINEE TO-DAY
Tomorrow Mat. RADIO SCHOOL
Tomorrow Eve. EXHIBITIONS

Bronx Opera House 149th St. & 3rd Ave
Pop Prices Mat. Today & Sat.
"ON APPROVAL"
The Comedy Success

TIMES SQ. CRIME
Thea., W. 42 St.
Evgs. $ 30 Mats. Wed. & Sat. $ 2.50
with James Rennie & Chester Morris

The LADDER
Now in its 2nd MONTH
WALCOTT, 50th St., East of B'way. Mats. Wed. and SAT.

Organized Labor—Trade Union Activities

News and Comment
Labor Education
Labor and Government
Trade Union Politics

Policies and Programs
The Trade Union Press
Strikes—Injunctions
Labor and Imperialism

Building Trades Have Won in Brooklyn and New Jersey Battles

(By Federated Press.)

Building trades strikers are hardening their lines as they press on for higher wage demands. The strike of 3,000 plumbers and plumbers' helpers in Brooklyn, has so far resulted in victory for 400, the others continuing their struggle, and now the Building Trades Employers' Association of New York threatens to lock out journeymen and helpers in Manhattan, unless the Brooklyn strikes are called off.

The solidarity that unites the helpers and journeymen is the significant feature of the Brooklyn strike. Till recently the helpers were unorganized. But now they are out a hundred per cent with the craftsmen. They demand union recognition, the 5-day week, and the $9 day. Journeymen ask an increase of $4 over the $12 scale, and the 5-day week.

Painters Win Despite Injunction.

Painters in Brooklyn are not cowed by Supreme Court Justice Cropsey's injunction. Most of the employers have settled at the $14 scale demanded, but 28 of the 70 lessees who swore out the writ are still standing pat. The union's official position is that the strike order has been recalled, as Cropsey required, but that individual workers have the right to continue strike until their wage requests are met.

The union is encouraged by the victory of Passaic, Paterson and Rutherford, N. J. painters who struck for a $12 scale. And they point out that $14 in Brooklyn is no more than $12 in New Jersey, because of the difference in the cost of living.

BUY THE DAILY WORKER AT THE NEWSSTANDS

COMMERCIAL CHEMISTRY CREATES GOLD FOR INVESTORS; BUT NEEDS MONOPOLY AND LABOR

(By LELAND OLDS, Federated Press)

The rich profits opened up for the investing class by the development of applied chemistry is revealed in the 1926 report of the Allied Chemical & Dye Corp. This big combine, which grabbed German business and patents as a result of the war, reports a net income of $24,072,820. Common stockholders get a return of $9.58 a share.

The statement, however, conceals the real return on the actual investment by owners of common stock. The books show the value of this stock at $5 a share, so the stockholders in Allied Chemical & Dye got about 196 per cent of their investment.

In the 5 years 1921 to 1926 this company has taken profits totaling over $105,000,000. For the common stockholders this means a return of $40,00 on each $5 share or more than 800 per cent in 6 years.

Texas Sulphur's Monopoly.

Texas Gulf Sulphur shows how control of a limited natural resource enables New York millionaires to levy hidden tribute on consumers. The 1926 profits of this concern amounted to $9,538,843 or more than half the value of the goods it sold to industry. The gross income of the company was only $18,152,050.

The report shows the profits as a return of $2.60 a share on the common stock. But this is no par stock of which 4 shares were issued to the owners for each $10 share held prior to 1926. Thus the owners got a return of $14.76 on each $10 invested a profit of more than 147%.

In the 7 full years of operation, 1920 to 1926, Texas Gulf Sulphur has made a total profit of $13,735,691, sufficient to $53.14 on each $10 invested. This 7-year return of 531% was possible because the owners always sell Freeport Sulphur a monopoly of the market. Texas Gulf has such rich and easily worked deposits that it stands practically alone in the field.

Powder's Profitable.

Hercules Powder Co., formed as an offshoot of the Dupont powder trust when the U. S. supreme court ordered its dissolution, classes with the very profitable chemical concerns. Its 1926 profit of $3,133,949 meant a return of $18.18 on each share of common stock. In view of the 1907 stock dividend declared in 1926, this represents a real return of 36.4% on the investment.

In the last 5 years Hercules Powder has taken profits totaling $13,363,751, giving common stockholders a 5-year return of 126.5% on their investment. All the stock of this concern was distributed to the owners of Dupont stock when the court ordered the dissolution of the trust. Hercules Powder makes, among other things, the black blasting powder and dynamite which the U. S. bureau of mines brands as an unnecessary menace to the lives of coal miners.

Dupont Gets Rich.

The giant Dupont trust itself reported a 1926 profit of $41,969,574, equivalent to $10.86 on each share of common stock. But as a result of stock dividends Dupont stockholders now hold 4½ shares for every share originally purchased so that their 1926 return was really about 63% on their investment in the industry.

Bill Posters Locked Out in Union-Smashing Campaign in Milwaukee

(By Worker Correspondent)

MILWAUKEE, April 25.—Bill posters and billers, Local No. 72, reported to the Federated Trades Council here that "posters" working at the Cream City Bill Posting Company had been locked out by the company and that the company had advertised for and had placed scabs upon the job.

Union pickets are busy and the lockout is being treated by the company as a strike. The company is out to smash the union—and it practically controls the city.

Force Doll Makers To Sign Contracts Not to Join the Union

By CLARINA MICHELSON.

"Sign on the dotted line, or you're fired."

The 5,000 doll makers in New York City are being given "contracts" by their bosses, and told to get out, if they don't sign up. The bosses know their stuff. They call one or two workers at a time into the office, hand them the pledges, and tell them if they don't want their jobs they know they can lose them by refusing, the workers agree:

1. Never to join a union.
2. Never to go out on strike.
3. To give the boss 30 days notice, before quitting the job. (The boss to give the worker a 5 day notice).
4. To let the boss take 10 per cent off his weekly pay, to be returned later as a "bonus."

Four hundred doll makers in the last few weeks have refused to sign. Nine shops are now locked out. The bosses are organized. The workers are not.

Doll making industry is new. Before the war Germany provided the dolls and toys for American children. But now there are probably 30,000 doll makers unorganized in New York City. Of these about 5,000 are doll makers, half of them women who earn at the most $16 and $17 a week. They start at 7½2 and $13. They make the dresses and hats for the dolls, put on the hair, and pack them in boxes. The men average $35 a week, in a few getting as high as $60. They make the composition, paint the dolls, cut the bodies and dresses, and set the eyes. The work is almost entirely piece work.

Most of the shops employ from 50 or 60 up to 200 workers. The large majority are in the downtown district. Louis Amberg, with a factory at 153 Spring Street, is president of the Manufacturers' Association.

Former Socialist Heads Speakers On Americanization

George R. Lunn, a few years ago one of the bright and shining lights of the socialist party, former preacher, later a Tammanyite lieutenant-governor of New York and after his defeat for that office appointed by Al Smith as public service commissioner, is one of the list of patriotic speakers who will address "Americanization" meetings the coming week. The week is devoted by the political lackeys of Wall Street to an endeavor to arouse patriotic frenzy among the youth of the state in order that Morgan may have willing dupes to furnish cannon fodder for his various imperialist ventures, especially in China at the present time.

Among others who will engage in this drive with the former socialist are Brig. General George A. Wingate, Major General James McRae, Col. William A. Dawkins and Capt. Walter L. Joyce. From beginning to end the campaign will be a glorification of imperialist wars and the usual patriotic perversion of history.

Churches Invite A. F. L. To Take Over Churches In Los Angeles Sunday

By WM. SCHNEIDERMAN.

LOS ANGELES, April 25.—In connection with the approaching A. F. of L. convention to be held in this city next October, the churches of this city have invited the officials of the American Federation of Labor to take over the churches on the Sunday before the convention opens.

The terms upon which they make this generous offer are quite interesting. Most of the churches are linked up with the radio broadcasting station of the Los Angeles Times, notorious anti-labor paper, and the churches urge our labor leaders to be gentle and kind in their speeches if they do not wish the privilege of broadcasting their talks taken away from them.

Gentle As Lambs.

Wm. Green's representatives have assured the churches that they will be gentle as lambs, that they will preach only brotherly love and will not hurt the sensibilities of the kind loaves of Los Angeles and vicinity.

But this pound of flesh is not sufficient for the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, who entered a furious protest against allowing labor leaders to preach even "brotherly love." The church federations is a quandary, as they did not like to incur the displeasure of their meal-ticket, even to stage such a publicity stunt as they had in mind, so they invited speakers from the M. & M. and the Central Labor Council to debate before them the question "whether labor should be allowed to discuss unionism in the churches."

The answer of officials of the Central Labor Council is quite interesting, and no doubt satisfactory to even the most rabid labor-hater in the City of Angels. It is that "we do not intend to violate the hospitality of the churches by preaching unionism from the pulpit." What they will preach, then, will undoubtedly satisfy even the Chamber of Commerce. "Hallelujah and the lamb shall lie down together."

Public Relief for Half Orphans in Washington

WASHINGTON, April 25 (FP).—In its first six months of application, the new law providing "mothers' pensions" in the District of Columbia has given regular financial support to 250 children in 99 families. Two-thirds of these families are white. More than two-thirds of the total population of the district is white, but the colored are as a rule far lower in the economic scale than are the white wage workers. This fact is reflected in the fact that twice as many colored persons as whites are on the books of the various charities and public-aid agencies of the district.

Death of the bread-winner is the chief cause of application by mothers for this public allowance for home-keeping of their children. The payment is made for the child, to the mother as agent of the public in caring for the child's maintenance. In each case the investigator for the Board of Public Welfare, a government body, recommends to the board a detailed budget for the family, based on its individual needs. Such allowance are reviewed at intervals of six months or less.

Geo. C. Wilson, secretary of the board, favors the further enactment of sick and accident insurance laws for the district, by congress, in order that the causes for child dependency may be further reduced. Many bread-winners are sick for long periods before they die, and their savings of many years as wage workers are consumed by the expense of their final illness.

Express Workers Sign With Company After a Year of Negotiations

WASHINGTON, April 25 (FP).—J. J. Forrester, president and R. L. Walters, general chairman, of the American Federation of Express Workers, announce the signing by their committee with the officials of the American Railway Express Co., of a settlement of the disputes as to working conditions which has been in negotiation between them for more than a year. The working agreement between the company and its organized employes affects 65,000 men.

The American Federation of Express Workers split off from the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, Express and Station Employes some years ago. The Brotherhood has also admitted its difference with the company.

Colorado Labor Meets June 6.

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., (FP)—April 25.—The 28 annual convention, Colorado State Federation of Labor, opens at Grand Junction June 6.

I. L. D. Protests Any Sabotage of Work for Sacco and Vanzetti

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—As a result of the Socialist and right wing labor union sabotage of the Sacco Vanzetti conference in this city, the local branch of the International Labor Defense, thru its secretary, sends the following letter to Sam Rudow, Manager of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers:

I. L. D. Letter.

Dear Brother Rudow:

Having read in the newspapers various conflicting reports regarding the outcome of the Sacco, Vanzetti Conference held at the Labor Institute on Wednesday, April 20th, I hereby take the opportunity of expressing our view on the matter.

You will remember that the credential committee took exception to the delegations from a number of branches of the International Labor Defense. We wish to state that the delegates from the various branches went to the conference with the earnest desire and hope to be able to contribute in the campaign to help save the lives of our brothers, Sacco and Vanzetti.

Followed Conference Call.

I, as Secretary of the International Labor Defense, wrote to my branches asking them to send delegates basing myself on that section in the call to the conference which says: "Please be sure to attend. If your organization is not in session, call on your special officers—two delegates are requested from every local or branch."

We therefore believe that the branches of the International Labor Defense should have been seated. However, the great necessity to develop a national protest movement against the attempts to execute Sacco and Vanzetti must place in the background any consideration of the seating or unseating of any delegates from any organization.

I. L. D. Active.

The activity of our National Organization on behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti must be known to you. We have helped to conduct their defense, and we have during the last two years carried on intensive propaganda work for their release.

We therefore state categorically, that the whole labor movement of Philadelphia must stand united as one man in the defense of Sacco and Vanzetti. We, as part of the conference, will continue in our efforts to save Sacco and Vanzetti as tirelessly as ever.

A number of organizations were not seated at the last conference, such as branches of the Independent Workmen's Circle, Workers Club, Young Workers League, etc., etc. We believe that a wrong impression will be left in the minds of the members that these delegates represented that their efforts in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti are not wanted. This would be unfortunate. We therefore propose that the International Labor Defense attract these organizations around itself and have them work in coordination with the decisions and policies of the general conference. We believe that in this manner all organizations willing to help will be drawn into this movement.

As far as we are concerned, we shall work with the conference, be guided by its decisions and do all in our power to intensify the movement to save the lives of Sacco and Vanzetti.

Lock Out Printers In Chicago; Change Name; Now Open Shop

CHICAGO, April 25.—The printing trade unions here have sent out a notice calling the attention of union men to the fact that the Regan Printing House, 823 Plymouth Court, has changed its name to the White Printing House, locked out its union workers and decided to run as an open shop. The union effected are Typographical Union No. 9, Pressmen's Union 3, Franklin Union 4, Bookbinders' Union 8 and Binders' Union 30.

Sidelights on Passaic Campaign

By SYLVAN A. POLLACK

Terrified at the support that the labor candidates are receiving in the present election campaign in Passaic, N. J., the henchmen of the capitalist candidates are desperately attempting to disorganize the meetings given in favor Weisbord and the other working class representatives speak.

They attend meetings in a bloc to heckle Weisbord in the hope of provocating a fight. That is the manner in which the attempt to beat the workers is being carried out.

Not Successful.

But all the moves to provoke fights are futile. The workers have passed the stage where they can be fooled as they were fit the past. After more than a year of strike, battling on the picket line against the combined forces of the bosses and the same men who are now opposing Weisbord for city commissioner, they have learned a great deal.

The workers now realize that their interests as workers make it necessary for them to carry out a collective struggle against their enemies.

Workers Aroused.

The entire working class of Passaic is aroused, excited as it has not been since the strike. The capitalist candidates are also excited, for to them Weisbord is an unknown quantity who will interfere with their well calculated plans of how the vote is to go.

For example — Abram Preiskel, commissioner of public safety, one of the five commissioners, is a candidate for reelection. Running with him are George Hoffman, a deputy sheriff and a Thomas P. Case.

Now this little group feels uncomfortable with three labor candidates in the field. There are only five to be elected, and in addition to the six just mentioned there are many others running—such as the "liberal" Judge Calsell, who runs an open shop.

Try To Disorganize.

So they carry on their move of disorganization, women being used to start the noise at campaign meetings. They hope that if the laborites attempt to stop women, that would be an excuse for the gangsters to break up the meetings and attack the working class candidates.

The plot will fail. The workers have learned too much to stand for any such trifling with the attempt to advance the labor movement. Any move to terrorize or suppress the labor campaign will be vigorously met by the legions of labor. They say, "We have fought on the picket line. Now we will fight some more to gain the fruits of our struggle. During the strike Preiskel and the rest had us arrested and beaten on the picket line. Now we will support our own working class candidates."

Women In Fight.

One of the most significant features of the campaign is the interest it has stirred among the women. Especially among the working women. The enthusiastic labor campaign meetings have women as half of their audiences. Not mere spectators but the most interested and active people among those present.

Anyone who feels that the American working class is hopeless should turn their eyes towards Passaic. Before January 24, 1926, the thousands of workers who now are campaigning and working for the election of Weisbord, Bambach and Smeltzkaus (not as individuals but as labor representatives) had no conception with few exceptions of the class struggle.

On Picket Line.

True they had low wages, long hours and unsanitary conditions but they could not understand their relations to the world about them. The strike came. Picket lines. Tear gas bombs. Water hose. Beatings. Arrests. Martial law. And all this time they attended their daily strike meeting where Weisbord and other speakers, many of them Communists, analyzed the happenings of the day and explained their relationship to the class government that was responsible for it.

Have Learned.

Today they know more. They understand that their interests as workers means Independent working class action and that is what they are practicing today with Communists as their standard bearers.

The Passaic strike was an important step in the advancement of the American labor movement. The election campaign now taking place there shows that the policy followed was a correct one. It was a step forward for the workers of that city; another more towards a clearer understanding of the goal of the working class—a workers' and farmers' government.

American Home Grows More and More of an Apartment, Says Gov't.

WASHINGTON, (FP).—Americans are becoming not merely a nation of town dwellers but of cliff-dwellers, since the new construction of living quarters is mostly in apartments, says the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. It presents building permit summaries for 291 cities having an estimated population, July 1, 1926, of 42,700,000 to prove the case.

In 1921 these cities had new construction which included 130,473 one-family dwellings, 28,858 two-family dwellings, and 54,814 dwellings for three or more families, including stores. In 1926 there were constructed 188,074 one-family houses, 61,294 two-family dwellings and 200,742 dwellings occupied by three or more families each. A table is presented showing the change, year to year.

"These figures," says the bureau, "would tend to show that we are becoming a race of cliff-dwellers. The year 1926 was the first year that apartment houses have provided more family accommodations than have one-family dwellings."

Celebrate
MAY DAY

With a bundle of the
SPECIAL
of th.
DAILY WORKER

on May Day a Special Issue of The DAILY WORKER will be issued.

ORDER A BUNDLE

There will be special articles on the world labor; special cartoons and photographs.

ORDER A BUNDLE

A whole section will be devoted to greetings to the world of labor from individual workers and from working class organizations.

ORDER A BUNDLE

This issue should be brought into the hands of thousands of workers. Order a bundle for yourself to give away and be sure to order a bundle

FOR YOUR MAY DAY MEETING

Special Bundle rates
$2.50 A HUNDRED

RUSH

THE DAILY WORKER
33 First St., New York

Enclosed I ... for ... copies of the MAY DAY SPECIAL

Name ...
Street ...
City ...
State ...

BE SURE TO GET THE SPECIAL ISSUE, MAY FIRST

Violin and Viola Lessons
Given by expert teacher.
For reasonable rates write to
JOHN WEINROTH
8155 LARCHWOOD AVENUE.
Phone Granite 7852, Philadelphia, Pa.

CHICAGO

MAY DAY DEMONSTRATION

SUNDAY, MAY FIRST, 1927, at 8 P. M.
ASHLAND AUDITORIUM
Ashland Boulevard and Van Buren Street.

SPEAKERS:
WM. Z. FOSTER
MAX SHACHTMAN—Recently returned from Moscow.
C. T. CHI—Member of the Kuomintang.
MELECH EPSTEIN—Editor of the Freiheit.
ARNE SWABECK—Chairman.

Film of Ruthenberg Funeral Will Be Shown.
MUSICAL PROGRAM ADMISSION 50c.
Freiheit Singing Society and Symbolic Hammer Drill by Finnish Gymnastic Society.

strike a blow for labor subscribe to
THE DAILY WORKER
The National Labor Daily

Name ...
Address ...
City ... State ...
Subscription rates: one year—six mo.—three mo.
In New York ... $6.00 ... $3.50 ... $2.00
Outside ... 8.00 ... 4.50 ... 2.50
Enclose cash, check or money order with subscription and mail to the DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, New York City. A copy of Red Cartoons of 1927 free with each annual subscription.

History of Coal Miners' Union Proves Necessity of Action on National Scale

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

AT SEA, Aboard United States Liner President Roosevelt, Thursday, April 7. (By Mail from Plymouth, England.)—There is a daily morning newspaper published on this ship, in common with all the steamers of the United States Lines. It is called the "Chicago Tribune Ocean Times." It has many pages of features and advertisements, 15 pages in the first issue distributed on this trip. These are all made up on shore. Only the 16th page is printed aboard ship and this is devoted to news calculated to be of the greatest interest to the passengers. It is clearly to be seen that the editor who decides what news is to appear in these Ocean Dailies, has a definite yardstick to guide him. Scandals, big court trials like the Sapiro case in Detroit, famous divorce cases, even baseball and other sport news is reduced to paragraphs. Each day, however, there is featured the news story that strikes hardest at the dominant social order, the news that affects all humanity alike. Thus today this gets the double-column spread with this headline: "Soviet Threatens' to Quit Peking as Reprisal for Raid on Consulate; Guns of Foreign Powers Trained on City of Hankow; Situation Becomes More Tense; Premier Wellington Koo Resigns."

But nowhere, as in the New York capitalist dailies of yesterday, is there to be found even a paragraph about the crucial struggle being waged between the mine owners and mine workers around the American coal pits. An Indiana mine owner is aboard this ship, bound for a holiday in Europe, typical of the unconcern with which American capitalism views the present effort of the coal miners to lift their standard of living, under the leadership of the reaction that rules in the union. Capitalists and capitalist press alike, realize to the full, that the mine workers have been hamstrung by the policies of the regime in the United Mine Workers' Union of President John L. Lewis, and that they are not in a position at this time to wage an effective struggle. The British coal miners' strike, for months, was news, the world aronnd. The American coal miners' struggle will engage similar attention when it develops similar unity of purpose and militancy in action. To accomplish this end is the task of the left wing.

It is nearly four-score years since the first local union of American coal miners was organized by John Bates in the anthracite field in Pennsylvania in 1849. That is the earliest effort at organization known in the American coal industry. This was more than half a century after Robert Fulton astonished the world with his steamboat, that fired with wood, in 1793, and nearly 50 years after Evans invented his high-pressure steam engine. But it was also 20 years before the first great recorded coal mine disaster, that took place Sept. 6, 1869, at Plymouth, Pa., claiming the lives of 179 miners, the greatest loss of life until the Scofield, Utah, mine disaster on May 1, 1900, that took a toll of 200 lives.

This pioneer effort at organization in 1849 did not bear much fruit. From this date and on thru the decades leading up to the Civil War little is known, according to the historians of the miners' union, of the efforts of the miners to organize local unions in either the anthracite or the bituminous fields. Evans "History of the United Mine Workers of America" records that toward the close of 1860 a call was sent out by union leaders in Illinois appealing to the miners to unite and to form an organization national in scope. It was pointed out then, as now, that only thru organized effort could the miners obtain their rights and ameliorate their unbearable conditions.

Thus the American Miners' Association came into existence as the result of a convention held January 28, 1861. This was the first national union of mine workers in America. It might be looked upon as an ambitious undertaking. Weekly Miner, the propaganda and news publication of the union, was established and the organization launched upon a campaign to form locals in both the anthracite and bituminous fields. The years of depression following the Civil War proved too much for this first effort, however, and by 1868 it had lost its hold and "gradually dwindled away."

Overproduction is not a new evil in the industry. It is estimated that the yearly demand for soft coal today totals 550 million tons, while the mines in operation with their present labor force could produce approximately 900 million tons.

From the beginning, therefore, there has been considerable under-employment in the industry. The bituminous mines averaged only 215 days per year in the 20-year period between 1902-1921. The shorter workday, has, therefore, been one of the big demands of the miners' union since its inception, more important even than the demand for an increasing wage rate and improved conditions.

With extreme competition prevailing in the industry, the mine owner has fought just as hard for decreasing wage rates, the long workday and conditions of labor that have been the cause of developing and growing unrest among the mine workers. Brief mention of the abuses suffered by the coal miners show that these have not changed to any very great extent since the beginning. They now: short-weighing of coal and excessive dockage, resulting in the demand for check weighmen employed by themselves; the payment of wage rates based on the amount of coal which would pass over screens of a certain mesh and area was subject of abuse, and it was pointed out that this abuse could only be remedied by requiring payment according to the weight of the coal as it came from the mine; the non-payment for "deadwork," the company store with its high prices, monthly payment of wages and the company houses with their high rents.

These conditions forced the coal miners to make demands upon their employers, not as individuals, but thru their organized power. Even Arthur E. Suffern in his book, "The Coal Miners' Struggle for Industrial Status," the result of an investigation made under the auspices of the Carnegie Corporation of New York admits that:

"The history of the development of miners' unions is replete with evidence of the ineffectiveness of local and district organizations as compared to national organization."

Yet President John L. Lewis is trying to fly in the face of all the experiences of the mine workers, during the 80 years since the first miners' union local was organized, putting into force a policy permitting district and local agreements in the present struggle. These policies of the Lewis administration in the miners' union cannot help but have the effect of deep cutting daggers driven into the back of the United Mine Workers of America. The history of the long struggle of the miners' union has proved this to be true. When the coal miners learn this lesson to the full they will effectively repudiate such traitor policies.

Next Article.—The next milestone. The organization of the Miners' National Association of the United States of America in 1873.

Nine Furriers Must Be Freed

"Remember, it is no concern of yours whom your verdict pleases.—It is no concern of yours what happens to the defendants after you have rendered your verdict."

So the judge admonished the jury as these twelve citizens of Nassau county left the court room to decide the fate of eleven fur workers, brought to trial because of their devotion to the interests of the furriers' union.

Armed Sheriffs.

Following the jury out of the court room went the 11 prisoners guarded by sheriffs, conspicuously armed. Then came the spectators—fur workers, cloakmakers, dressmakers, other workers who had sat all day watching their comrades and offering silent sympathy and comrage. Wives, sweethearts, sisters who had sat day after day listening to defense and denunciation of their loved ones.

It was 5:15, and for hours the crowd wandered up and down the corridors of the court house; out for something to eat; back to the vigil at the foot of the stairs leading to the jury room.

Many Rumors.

"The longer they're out, the better for the workers." This was the theory used to cheer each other. Rumors spread. "One man is sticking out for complete acquittal." "Every one is acquitted except Malkin and Fronklin." "Only Gold is freed."

More recruits arrived from New York. They could not stand the strain of waiting for a message at the Joint Board, or Local 22, where hundreds sat listening for the ring of the telephone. Everyone asked word about New York in order to forget the dreams of Mineola.

They Come!

"Stand back, stand back all of you. Way back to the end of the hall."

The crowd is breathless. The jury is coming. With white faces and trembling knees the workers file into the court room. The prisoners are led in; the jurors file back; the judge mounts to his rostrum. There is strained silence.

To Hear The Scab.

"I understand you want to hear the testimony of Mary Farkas" (the scab from Barnett's shop), says the judge.

This means there is no verdict yet. The crowd relaxes a little and listens to a monotonous reading of question and answer, question and answer, in the even-toned voice of the court stenographer.

Then the Paid Spy.

Then the testimony of Detective Greeve is read; then the words of Miss May C. Gresser, secretary to the manufacturers of the central trades and labor council.

At 10:45 the jury files back to its room; the prisoners are led out; the crowd goes back to the corridor of the hall, with a dozen detectives and policemen watching every move. More workers arrive from New York. A girl faints asleep on the marble stairs —"one of them damn Bolsheviks," as the cop calls her.

They Wait.

The last street car at 11:35 but no one leaves his post. They can get busses, or taxis, or walk. They would not desert the workers and let them face that verdict alone.

At 1:15 comes another signal, and the crowd surges back to the court room—tired, depressed, trying to appear calm and unmoved.

The prisoners file back, looking hollowed-eyed and exhausted. Th jury come in, with their hats and coats. So it is a verdict.

Many Police.

Half a dozen detectives and sheriffs line up around the prisoners; a dozen policemen surround the spectators; a dozen more wait in the hall. Five attorneys sit on the edges of chairs at the counsel table. Half a dozen reporters sit with pensils poised. The judge walks in. The clerk says:

Threaten The Crowd.

"There will be absolutely no demonstration allowed in this court room."

The judge tells the jury to rise.

"Gentlemen of the jury have you reached a verdict?"

"Yes, sir."

"What is it?"

The foreman reads from a slip of white paper,

"We find the defendants Maikin, Fronklin, Lenhardt, Schneider, Rosenberg, Mileaf, Katz, Weiss and Mencher guilty of assault in the 2nd degree."

"We find the defendanta Gold and Shapiro not guilty."

A Silent Crowd.

There is not a sound. Not a word from the crowd. Not a word when they leave the court room. Scarcely a word os they walk out of the building to the waiting busses. No comment. A stranned silence. A few questions in trembling voices. That is an army accustomed to blows. Even the wives weep only quietly. Their courage is remarkable.

At the headquarters of the Furriers' Joint Board hundreds of workers received the news in the same stunned fashion. They had thot they would burst into rejoicing if Gold were released. They could not feel much joy now that they learned nine of their comrades were still behind prison bars.

Would Not Let Him Go.

When Gold arrived at headquarters about 3 a. m., he was surrounded by an excited throng, all wanting to embrace him at once, all asking questions. Gold was almost grey-faced with weariness and emotion. He was carried downstairs to the meeting hall and sat npon the platform. The room was packed to overflowing, and he, who had been a prisoner two hours before, stood and told them news of the jail and of the other workers left behind.

Then Shapiro.

Shapiro came in and he must be stood up beside Gold and questioned. The crowd came in from Mineola, and they could not let Gold go. Someone tried to rescue him. It was impossible. He was packed around with a solid mass of devoted workers. They wanted to touch him, to watch him and be sure no arm of the law reached out to snatch him away.

They Must Be Free!

But at four o'clock someone demanded the meeting be closed and just as dawn was breaking the crowd surged out to the street, home after the night of waiting. Each one was filled with happiness that Gold and Shapiro had escaped; but each one was sorrowful at the thot of those nine brave fellow-workers who are still in Mineola jail.

They must be freed!

WHERE SIGMAN GETS HIS INSPIRATION

Letters From Our Readers

Communists, Socialists and Hero-Worship.

Editor, The DAILY WORKER:

I am a reader of your paper, a Communist and not a Party member, who has come in constant contact with many in the same category. Our unanimous opinion is that you are doing doing much good to your paper, the Party for which it speaks or the cause for which it stands by your continual glorification of Ruthenberg. It would be all right for sob-sisters, a religious sect, Messiah peddlers and the like—but for grown-up scientifically-minded people, for non-hero worshipping revolutionists, it is absolutely the bunk. It's like the Socialist Party slop about Debs—"Though jailed he speaketh." The Socialist Party has lost its heart and soul and is forced to sustain itself with legends about the purity, etc., of the Messiah Debs.

This sort of thing has not helped the Socialist Party. It will not help our cause. Childish hero-worshipping antica amnse outsiders. They don't attract them to our cause. Are they the stuff of which revolutionary parties are made?

This letter is not meant to detract from the services that Comrade Ruthenberg rendered to the movement. He played his part gallantly and loyally. But is The DAILY WORKER so poverty-stricken ideologically that it must work itself into a religious frenzy over his death?

S. Richarts.

A Letter From A Bystander.

Joint Defense and Relief Committee,

Gentlemen:

Enclosed please find check for one dollar toward your fund. I am not a working man and never belonged to any trade union, but seeing what is going on in the needle trades; how the International and then the A. F. of L. trampled on the rights of the union men, by overthrowing the officers which were legally elected, I contribute to your fund to express my sympathy with you and my protest against the International and the A. F. of L.

Wishing you success in your struggle for right and democracy, I remain,

Very sincerely yours,—A. Zirman.

BE SURE TO GET THE SPECIAL ISSUE, MAY FIRST

SIXTY DAYS IN WORKHOUSE

By JULIUS MAILMAN

(As Told To Alex Jackinson)

(Continued From Monday).

In the morning we were brought into a small room where a civilian dignitary took our fingerprints. There were other prisoners sitting on a long bench waiting their turn. Those who were slated to go to the penitentiary were photographed. To add necessary color a sign bearing their prison number was hung about their necks. This procedure we did not have to go thru.

At eight o'clock each evening we were lined up to be counted. An hour later a bell rang and the lights were extinguished. During the intervening time the inmates took advantage of their short freedom. Some played cords, others grouped about a game of dice. Experienced criminals related with a bragative gusto some "jobs" they pulled. Tired bodies stretched out on the narrow beds. Mice ran constantly across the cemented floor, someone would notice its flight and throw a shoe or whatever was handy at it. From this pandemonium sounded the talk of hardened men, occasionally punctuated by profane curses.

Five A. M. the bell rang again and a keeper passed by, striking all those who have not yet risen with a club. After washing, we were lined up in fours, again counted and led to the mess hall for breakfast. The first meal was finished at six. Till eight o'clock we were allowed another round of freedom. Then the bell rings once more after which a keeper divides us into gangs and assigns us to work. Before that happens he yells, "Blankets in the barber shop." That was a signal for us to fold our blankets and carry them to the specified place. Two chairs, an old table, a few prisoners and a long bench was all it boasted. We laid down our blankets and joined the other prisoners.

Three days later the warden informed us that we would be transferred to Rickers Island. We hurried to our dormitory and prepared to move. As we were leaving a new gang of prisoners arrived from the Tombs. In this crowd we recognized several fellow workers and exchanged hurried greetings.

The six of us together with several others stepped aboard a large barge. We were immediately taken to a cell on the lower deck. From a window we were able to see a strip of shore rapidly disappearing in the distance. Our view was terminated by a large box being placed behind the barred panel of glass either on purpose or accidentally by men loading boxes of food stuffs.

Rickers Island is a shagged piece of land surrounded by water. Here and there uneven patches of grass grew amidst dirt and ashes. In the center of the island were green wooden barracks. We entered one where an attendant held an impromptu speech. We arrived on Saturday which was a "day of rest." After lounging about the premises we stepped into the library. There we found mostly religious books which held no interest for us. The following day we attended the weekly church services, stepping in merely out of curiosity, and were surprised to find that most of the others were there for the same purpose. Later in the afternoon we watched the Sunday baseball game played between the white and Negro teams.

The next day we were domiciled in dormitory No. 1. It was slightly more livable here; cleaner, warmer and the food tastier. Otherwise life was pretty much the same. After our first breakfast we were assigned to work on the garbage dumps. We walked about ten minutes along a dusty road to our destination. The keeper in charge of the gang led us up and down hills of dirt. On our way we passed a maze of railroad tracks upon which stood chains of "dinkey" cars.

Along the river front floated a flotilla of garbage filled barges arriving from New York. Huge derricks bit into the putrescent rubbish and emptied back into flat cars. Volcanoes of odorons smoke curled up, which leadened the air with a suffocating grime. Added to our discomforture were the innumerable rats, which scurried about under our very feet.

This routine lasted sixty days. It was always the varied. Once a member of our gronp felt ill, and was sent to the doctor, who extracted two black pills marked CC from a large bottle. They brought him no relief. Some time later we learned that the same pills were given everyone, irrespective of their ailments.

Another time we made the acquaintance of two gangsters, former members of "Frenchy's" notorious gang, now employed by Sigman to terrorize left wing adherents. They related in detail how they were hired for $15 a day by Sigman's henchmen to beat up the pickets in front of dress shops called on strike by the Joint Board. Police arrested them, after which they were double crossed by "Frenchy" and convicted of assault.

BOOKS

A POWERFUL IRISH NOVELIST

Mr. Gilhooley,—by Liam O'Flaherty. Harcourt, Brace & Co., New York, 1927.

The history of the Irish literary renaissance is perhaps as tragic as the history of Ireland itself. It is the tragedy of a dream that has survived pitifully the light of day, of a body that keeps watch ovar its own ghost.

The literary awakening in Ireland began in the early nineties as a direct expression of the incipient Irish nationalist movement. It was also meant to be a protest against the intellectual expropriation of Irish men of letters by the always beneficent mother country. A creative fever seemed to seize the young Irish writers of that day, and under the leadership of Dr. Douglas Hyde, William Butler Yeats and "A. E." (George Russell), they rallied to the holy cause of ceasing to be Englishmen and expressing themselves and Ireland as Irishmen.

Much has happened since that time, much that has been cruel to its enthusiasms, its ideals. And looking back, the Irish literary scene seems crowded with unreal figures, gestures, legends, absurdities. Yeats, lost in a nostalgic mysticism, seeking solace for an unrequited love among the folk-gods and folk-myths of early Ireland; "A. E.", another mystic, riding through the Irish countryside on his bicycle, with wild eyes and long, dark beard flying; George Moore and his malicious enmities; Lady Gregory and the Abbey Theatre; John Millington Synge, one of the great masters of the modern drama; the eerie law Work, James Stephens; the militarist, Lord Dunsany; gods, goddesses, sacred fires, mystic roses.

And as the years went by, slowly the Irish literary movement became a tragic thing. Tragic because it was rooted in an inflated dream whose dreamers were forced to remain isolated. And suddenly the World War and the desperate realities of the struggle for Irish freedom thrust a great cruel light on the Celtic Renaissance and revealed it as old and weary and full of twilight. Pious Irishmen striving laboriously to write in ancient Gaelic, Yeats and "A. E." wandering among their decrepit gods, the camphor-ball symbolism of Dunsany, the garrulities of George Moore—what had these to do with the Irish masses? What had these to do with the rising of the exploited workers and peasants under Jim Connolly in 1916, the bitterness of the civil wars, the martyrdom of Terence MacSwiney, the betrayals of De Valera and other fake radicals, and the establishment of the Irish "Free" State on the necks of the peasants and workers with the great Yeats himself as a respectable senator?

And so the Celtic Renaissance died of pernicious anemia and its leaders went into spiritual exile to nurse their hurts, their memories.

But out of the ashes, the sentimentalism and perfumed wistfulness of the Celtic Renaissance, a new literature is slowly thrusting its hard, uncouth head, a literature that has been suckled by the civil war and in whose veins there flows a black, bitter blood. Footloose of putrescent dreams, the dust of dead idols, there emerges with silence and unshakable strength the novelist of a new Ireland, Liam O'Flaherty.

Liam O'Flaherty is twenty-nine years old. He has grown up with the masses of his country, has struggled and suffered with them, toiled and starved. He has been a member of the I. W. W. and the English Communist Porty and has wandered through Canada and the United States, where he was associated with his "big" brother, T. J. O'Flaherty, and contributed to "The Voice of Labor," Chicago, an organ of the Workers (Communist) Party.

"Mr. Gilhooley" is O'Flaherty's sixth novel. (It may be of interest to note that three others have recently been translated into Russian.) It is a remarkable study of the psychological disintegration of a middle-aged voluptuary who, in the full possession of his physical powers, finds that the life-urge has died in him. Into this picture is thrust a strange, weird girl whom he picks up from the streets and who precipitates the half passionately, half treacherously with his strength and his overwhelming tiredness.

The story is told simply, almost imperceptibly, with a progressive intensity that inevitably creates the book's crises and its tragedy. And the tragedy of "Mr. Gilhooley" is of an almost Elizabethan starkness, ending with the violent deaths of the two chief protagonists.

Liam O'Flaherty has little of what is known as style. He marks, in fact, a definite break with the highly stylized writing of the modern Irish classics. The effectiveness of "Mr. Gilhooley" lies in its sheer creative impact, its tremendous grasp of life. Those expecting any self-conscious "proletarianism" will be disappointed. Liam O'Flaherty is faithful to his artistic vision. But by being faithful to that vision, he presents, like so many of the genuine artists of our day, a relentlessly articulate picture of decadence in capitalist society. And such work, whatever its intent, becomes, by implication, prophecy—the handwriting on the wall.

—A. B. MAGIL.

THE SURRENDER OF RAILROAD OFFICIAL UNIONISM

The Watson-Parker Law, by William Z. Foster. Trade Union Educational League, 15 cents.

Here is a booklet which every railroad unionist should read if he wants to know why the Watson-Parker law is the most complete surrender in the history of the labor movement. The claimed as a victory by union officials, this law actually "registers a long step backward for railroad trade unionism. It legalizes and stimulates company unionism; it virtually fastens compulsory arbitration upon the necks of the railroad workers; it outlaws strikes; it introduces the poisonous idea of the industrial court into the railroad industry; it intensifies the tendency toward class collaboration. . . ." Foster follows up these generalizations by a forceful array of facts and a keen analysis of the past history, of the past and present policies and problems of the railroad unions, and of the implications of the Watson-Parker law.

He traces very vividly the militant policy of the railroad workers in the period 1914-1920 when their membership grew to 1,800,000, and when their aggressive policy found expression in the Plumb Plan for the nationalization of the railroads, the organization of the C. P. P. A., and the systems of federations which culminated in a joint national demand on conditions and wages, and the establishment of a general national agreement covering all railroad workers.

The retreat of the railroad unions, begun in the face of the companies' attacks in 1920, resulted in a complete abandonment of the militant policy for a policy of class collaboration of which the Watson-Parker law is the inevitable result. "This infamous piece of legislation," says Foster, "is a logical and inevitable cop-stone to the whole structure of class collaboration which precedes it. It follows naturally as a result of the same policy which produced the failure of the four brotherhoods to support the striking shopmen, the dissolution of the railroad federations, the rejection of amalgamation and the refusal to organize the unorganized, the killing of the Plumb Plan and the retreat back to the two capitalist parties, the inauguration of the B. & O. Plan and trade union capitalism."

The author makes a very clear analysis of the Watson-Parker law telling why it is a surrender, and how it inevitably will operate against the railroad workers in major issues. "It establishes in the railroad industry some of the worst features of the struggle between the workers and the employers. . . . From the beginning it is stacked against the workers. By the very working out of the law, the Board of Arbitration will be controlled by the employers. . . . The conservative railroad union leaders are emitting a great cry of victory because the W. P. L. has eliminated the hated Railroad Labor Board. . . . But the railroad unions have only jumped out of the frying pan into the fire. The compulsory arbitration, outlawing of strikes, court interferences, and company unionism of the Watson-Parker law will soon prove more disastrous to the workers than even the Railroad Labor Board."

In conclusion, Foster points to the only road out of this maze of class collaboration. "Prompt and vigorous action must be taken to remedy the situation. The workers must build their unions into powerful organizations and equip them with an honest fighting leadership." They must fight the Watson-Parker law, sweep away the B. & O. Plan, smash the company unions, fight for amalgamation, combat trade union capitalism, organize the unorganized, and work for nationalization and a labor party.

—SEE MAY.

Read The Daily Worker